Building upon the Sand.

'Tis well to woo, 'tis well to wed,
For so the world has done
Since myrtles grew, and roses blew,
And morning brought the sun.

But have a care, ye young and fair,
Be sure you pledge with truth;
Be certain that your love will wear,
Beyond the days of youth.

For if you give not heart for heart,
As well as hand for hand,
You'll find you've played the unwise part,
And built upon the sand.

'Tis well to save, 'tis well to have.
A goodly store of gold,
And hold enough of shining stuff,
For charity is cold.

But place not all your hopes and trust
In what the deep mine brings;
We cannot live on yellow dust,
Unmixed with purer things.

And he who builds up wealth alone,
Will often have to stand
Beside his coffer chest and own
'Tis built upon the sand.

'Tis good to speak in kindly guise,
And soothe what'er we can;
For speech should bind the human mind,
And love link man to man.

But stay not at the gentle words,
Let deeds with language dwell;
The one who pities starving birds,
Should scatter crumbs as well.

The mercy that is warm and true,
Must lend a helping hand,
For those who talk, yet fail to do,
But build upon the sand.

Lord Dundreary on "Poor Richard's Proverbs."

A FELLAH once told me that another fellow wrote a book before he was born—I mean before the first fellow was born (of course the fellow who wrote it must have been born, else, how could he have written it?)—that is a long time ago—to prove that a whole lot of pwoverbs and things that fellahs are in the habit of quoting were all nonsense. I should vevy much like to get that book. I—I think if I could get it at one of those spherical—no, globular—no, that's not the word—circle—circulars—yes, that's it—circulating libwawies (I knew it was something that went round)—I think if I could just borrow that book from a circulating libwawy—I—yes, upon my word now—I'd try and read it. A doothid good sort of book that, I'm sure. I—I always did hate pwoverbs. In the first place—they're so howwibly confusing—I—I always mix 'em up together—somehow, when I try to weekmember them. And besides, if evvery fellah was to wogulate his life by a lot of pwoverbs, what—what a beathly sort of uncomfortable life he would lead!

I remoleckt—I mean remember—when I was quite a little fellah—in pinafores—and liked wasbewrey jam, and a lot of howwid things for tea—there was a sort of collection of illustwated pwoverbs hanging up in our nursery at home. They belonged to our old nurse—Sarah—I think—and she had 'em fwamed and glazed. "Poor—Richard's," I think she called 'em—and she used to say—poor dear—that if evvery fellah attended to evverything Poor Richard wote, that he'd get vevy wick, and l-live and die—happy ever after. However—it—it's vevy clear to me that—he couldn't have attended to them—himself, else, how did the fellah come to be called Poor Richard? I—I hate a fellah that pweaches what he doesn't pwactise. Of courth, if what he said was twue, and he'd stuck to it—he—he'd have been called Rich Richard. Stop a minute—how's that? Rich Richard? Why that would have been too rich. Pwaps that's the reason he pweferrid being Poor. How vevy wick! But, as I was saying, these picture pwovverbs were all hanging up in our nursery, and a more uncomfortable set of makthims—you never wead. For instance, there was

"Early to bed and early to rise
Makes a fellah healthy, and wealthy, and wise."
I don't b'lieve a word of that—I'll tell you why. To begin with "healthy." When Bwother Sam and I were children we were all packed off to bed about eight or nine o'clock—just when a fellah ought to be dining—and had to get up at six or seven—quite the middle of the night you know—and pway did that keep us healthy? On the contwavy, we were always getting meathles, or whoopingcough, vaccination, or some howwid complaint or other. As for mental improvement, it's not the slightest use in that way, for I tried it at Oxford. When all the men of my time were sitting up weading for modewations, with wet towels round their heads, and dinking green tea—I—I went to bed—I did—and what was the consequence? I don't mind telling you now—but—I was plucked. And then about "wealthy." Look at my bwother Sam. He used to be shooting vevy early—I'm sure when he was home—and you know he's not over flush just now. That weminds me—he—he borrowed a couple of ponies of me just before he left England—and stwange to say—he's forgotten all about it since. But I never could make Sam out. He's such a—doothid inconthequential fellah—Sam is.

TO RELIEVE MUSCULAR PAIN IN HORSES.—The Datura Stramonium, or Thorn-apple plant, is a very excellent remedy, as an external application, for the treatment of muscular pain, ligamentary lameness, sprain of the fetlock, &c. It is a remedy of great efficacy in chronic pains and inflammatory tumours. Four ounces of the plant, to one pint of boiling water, are the proportions. When cool the parts are to be bathed often; when practicable a flannel is to be saturated with the fluid, bound on the affected parts; the whole to be covered with oiled silk.—Stock Journal.

THE HORSE'S FROG SHOULD RECEIVE PRESSURE.—Goodwin says, "It is an uncontrovertible fact that unless the frog receives a certain degree of pressure, it will degenerate and become incapable of affording sufficient protection to the sensitive frog, which it covers; that the heels will gradually contract; that the bars alone are not sufficient to prevent the same, though they certainly oppose it with considerable force; but it does not follow from this that it is necessary for the pressure to be constant, nor is it believed that a shoe which allows the frog to bear on the ground, when the horse stands upon a plain hard surface, can be always applied even to sound feet, without inconvenience. There is no doubt that a horse in a state of nature has his frog almost always in contact with the ground, and then of course he feels no inconvenience from it; but when burdens are placed upon his back, and he is driven about on hard roads, he is certainly in very different circumstances, and if the frog in such cases was constantly exposed to this severe pressure it would no doubt occasion lameness." Still a certain amount of pressure is absolutely necessary, for unless that be the case, descent of sole and disease of the laminae is apt to occur.—American Stock Journal.

CURING MEATS.—An exchange says, a French chemist has lately asserted that scurvy will never arise from the use of salt provisions, unless saltpetre be used in curing; the salt alone answers all the purposes, provided the animal heat be entirely parted with before salting. He claims that the insertion of pork in pickle alone is not sufficient, but that it should be rubbed thoroughly with dry salt after it has entirely parted with its animal heat, and that then the fluid running from the meat should be poured off before packing the pork in the barrel. This should be done sufficiently close to admit no unnecessary quantity of air, and some dry salt should occupy the space between the pieces, and then pickle, and not water, should be added. Great care must be taken to fill the barrel entirely full, so that no portion of the meat can at any point project above the surface of the fluid; for, if this occurs, a change of flavor ensues such as is known with rusty pork. The pickle, of course, must be a saturated solution of salt and water, that is, so strong that it is incapable of dissolving more salt. It must be remembered that cold water is capable of dissolving more salt than hot water.

A STRANGE WAR.—On the deck of the Harriet Lane after her Capture, Dr. Holland of Texas, (C. S.), recognized first among the dead, Com. Wainwright, his old friend whom he had not seen for years, but whom he had entertained in London, when the frigate Merrimac visited Southampton. Major Lee of the Confederates, when he stepped on the slippery deck, recognized first among the dead his own son.

MELANCHOLY SUICIDE.—Mrs. Wortman, wife of Martin Wortman of Boundary Creek, near Salisbury, committed suicide by hanging herself in an outhouse near her residence, on the 21st inst. We have taken pains to obtain a correct version of this melancholy affair, and we are indebted to a friend in the neighborhood for the following particulars:—The family of the deceased were all from home on the day of the occurrence, except a sister. A nephew coming in from a distance enquired for Mrs. Wortman. The sister informed him that she was lying down resting herself, as had been her custom for some time, but on going to wake her up she was not found in the usual place. A search was at once commenced, and it was supposed that she had passed out of the front door. On searching the outhouses, she was found in one of them, suspended by a small cord attached to a beam. Life was extinct when she was discovered. Mrs. Wortman had been for some time in a melancholy state of mind. An inquest was held, and a verdict of temporary insanity returned.—Westmorland Times.

LAMENTABLE SUPERSTITION.—Mrs. Mary Neil, an Irish woman of New York discovered that her house was frequented by fairies, presumed of course that her child was not her own, but had been changed in the cradle. To test the matter she seated the child, who was three years old, on a red hot shovel, expecting that if it was a fairy it would fly away. But the poor sufferer, being only a common mortal, was burned so badly that it died in a week.

ACCIDENT TO MISS MONCK.—We regret to learn that Miss Monck, daughter of his Excellency the Governor General, met with an accident on Tuesday evening, by falling on the ice of the skating rink, thereby fracturing her arm.—Quebec Mercury.

SAINT JOHN, N. B.

TUESDAY EVENING, MARCH 31.

THE HON. MR. TODD, AND THE CROWN LANDS OF NEW BRUNSWICK.

The revelations of Mr. Todd, in the Legislative Council, of the manner in which the Crown domain in this province has been so many years past mismanaged, have excited no little surprise. It seems scarcely credible that, while our astute neighbours of the State of Maine have been carefully guarding their public lands as a rich heritage, and, at the same time, reaping from them an annual harvest of wealth, we should have been squandering our resources, of the same description, with the lavish profusion of a spendthrift, regardless of the morrow. It has long been well known, as a melancholy fact, that the once rich pine timber lands of New Brunswick have been denuded of their valuable growth wherever they could be reached by the woodman's axe; and are now, like the stately moose which inhabited them, to be found only in almost inaccessible districts. Already, too, we hear the cry of alarm, that spruce is becoming more and more scarce,—and hemlock and birch are in the same category. And for what are we thus bartering our wealth? We invite our readers to peruse, if they have not already done so, Mr. Todd's able and convincing speech, and then say, if they can, why it is that a department of government so important, and so expensive as that of the Crown Lands, should have so miserably failed in its duty. Instead of the paltry income hitherto derived from them, it is clear that ten times the amount might easily have been obtained; and that, too, in all probability, with advantage to the province at large. For it has long been admitted that the lumber business is one of demoralising tendencies, enticing our young men from the more sober pursuit of agriculture, and intoxicating their minds with unreal visions of sudden riches. It should certainly have been the duty of government to check, rather than foster such a business, and we trust it is not yet too late to effect a thorough reform. The matter has been brought forward by Mr. Todd at a very opportune moment. When men, to whom we are accustomed to look up as wise in their generation, are raising their voice against railway extension, on the ground of its leading to new taxation, it is encouraging to know that we possess an almost inexhaustible mine of wealth in our Crown Lands, which, with proper, (not to say wise,) management, may be made to yield as much as will amply protect us from any taxation for railway purposes. Our space is too limited to admit of our dwelling longer upon this vitally important question, which is one well worthy of investigation and discussion. We may, however, recur to it hereafter, and, in the mean time, we shall be happy to receive communications on the subject.

WHO IS TO BE MAYOR?

Isaac Woodward, Esq., has announced his intention, in response to the solicitation of some of the Electors, of being a candidate for the Mayoralty at the approaching election. Other gentlemen are coming forward: among them are Wm. O. Smith, and James Olive, Esquires. These have filled the office before, and are familiar with its duties. But that the affairs of the city flourish more under the Mayoralty of either Mr. Smith or Mr. Olive, than under the present incumbent, we are not prepared to say. But we believe that Mr. Smith was considered an efficient Mayor, and he certainly at one time was very popular.

However, a strong desire is felt and expressed by many of our citizens that this responsible situation should be filled by a new person, that there should be a complete change; and, indeed, it is only fair that other citizens besides those who have once or often been elected, who may have equally strong claims on the confidence of the community, and who are men of undoubted ability and integrity, conversant with the affairs of the city in the time past as well as the present time,—it is only fair, we repeat, that these gentlemen should have the opportunity to originate, and carry into effect, well-devised schemes for the moral, social, and material improvement of the city. In the present instance, then, for this reason, and for others we need not now mention, we cannot but consider the claims of Mr. Woodward as prior to those of the candidates above named. Years ago he did his duty faithfully in the Legislature as a representative from this city and county, and, as far as we know, he has been vigilant and active in the public offices he retained for a long period. Probably, few citizens are better versed in the past financial history of St. John, since its incorporation, and few are more alive to its requirements at the present time. Somewhat advanced in life, and being in a position to devote the greatest portion of his time to the duties of the office, we believe that Mr. Woodward would make a prudent and progressive Mayor, and we hope he may be elected.

MULTUM-IN-PARVO.

CHURCH PATRONAGE BILL.—It will be seen that nothing more is to be done with this measure during the present session of the Legislature, in order that the wishes of the clergy and laity of the Church of England throughout the province may be ascertained respecting it. This is assuredly but fair towards them,—though all the trouble and labour the first movers in this matter took a few weeks ago to bring it before the House will have to be gone over again, when, had there been a Diocesan Synod in existence, the question might have been decided at once.

A SUBSCRIPTION list in aid of the distressed operatives in France was opened a few days ago in Quebec, at a large and enthusiastic public meeting, and a large amount was at once subscribed.

SHALL the Common Council be paid? On this head, the Globe said some well-timed and excellent things the other day in mentioning the bill sent to the Legislature, providing that each alderman and councillor in St. John should be paid £25 a year for his services. The Globe sensibly remarks that no gentleman who valued his time and position would accept any office with such a pittance attached to it, and that a certain set, (in no way a credit to the place,) would seek the situation for what it was worth pecuniarily, and that whatever honour befalls at present to it would soon disappear.

To pass, or not to pass? Such is the question one asks in reflecting on the uncertainty of the Intercolonial Railway Bill before the House. It is known that some of the strongest supporters of the government are determinedly opposed to the Railway—but on the other hand several of the opposition, Messrs. Kerr, Williston and others, are enrolled in its favour. Success to it, say we.

THE National Theatre, in Boston, was destroyed by fire last Tuesday morning. There was but little insurance on the building. Mr. W. B. English was the Lessee. Nearly all the actors and actresses lost the greater portion of their wardrobes.

LAST week a considerable portion of the back part of the city of Fredericton was submerged—the water in some places being from three to four feet in depth.—From the hill in the rear of Fredericton the water rushed down in great abundance, and, there being no proper drains to receive it, of course, got into the houses, causing not only discomfort to the inmates, but damage to the furniture, carpets, and the like.

We are informed that Mozart's great Twelfth Mass will be sung in the Cathedral in this city on Easter Sunday. When do the choir purpose to give a Concert?

A GIGANTIC CAKE!—The Royal wedding cake was five feet and a half high and two and a half feet broad at the base. It was made by the Queen's confectioner at Windsor.

THE Paris Presse says that Madame Emile de Girardin wore $200,000 worth of jewelry at the Countess Walewski's fancy ball.

DEERFOOT, the American Indian, has again won in a race with an English pedestrian at Hackney Wick beating his opponent by ten yards in a distance of ten miles. The race which was for £50 was run in 52 minutes and 44 seconds.

WEDNESDAY, April 1st, was the day fixed for an eight oared race between the amateurs of Oxford and Cambridge Universities. These aquatic contests excite a great deal of interest in England.

THE Prince of Wales has a clear capital of three millions of dollars, and a regular income of five hundred and fifty thousand dollars to begin married life with.

SUMS varying from £250 to £950 were paid in London to owners and occupiers of houses situated on the line of the Royal Procession, merely for the accommodation of curious sight-seers on the day of the Princess Alexandra's reception in England!

LAST Sunday week a very serious fire occurred in Yarmouth, N. S., destroying much valuable property, none of which was insured.

To the Electors of the City and County of St. John.

GENTLEMEN.—On Tuesday, 5th May next, I shall be in Nomination for the office of MAYOR. Should I receive a majority of your votes, my best abilities coupled with my past experience in that office, shall be devoted to the financial, ornamental and progressive interests of the City. Respectfully soliciting your support, I have the honour to be, Gentlemen, Your most obedient servant, W. O. SMITH, mar 31.

TUESDAY, March 31st.

The following particulars are given of the attempt made by Admiral Farragut's fleet to pass Port Hudson—

The Hartford and Albatross passed safely; the Richmond, Mouongahela, Tennessee and Kinoe were damaged and dropped back. The frigate Mississippi was destroyed. The engagement lasted three hours. Gen. Banks' advance from Baton Rouge was a diversion to assist Admiral Farragut and not to reduce Port Hudson.

It is rumored that a Secession plot has been discovered in California. The plan was to seize the Military and Naval Stations, which, in consequence of this discovery, were put on the alert.

THE LEGISLATURE
FREDERICTON, March 30.
AFTERNOON.

Fisher took the floor on the Railway Bill at 2.30. He thought the scheme the best ever offered or that ever would be. The concurrent testimony of people and Legislature for 20 years showed strong desire for Railroads. With this Railroad we would become a nation, and great countries make great men. The construction of the Road he was prepared to show would not diminish our means for public service. Railroads have induced population—population being wealth, and so it will be with us. Referred to numerous instances to prove this assumption. Taking the most gloomy view, only some luxuries will require additional tax. He stopped at 4.40, to resume to-morrow.

Bills relating to Local Government of Portland, and to assessing rates in St. John, agreed to.

Adjourned 5.15.

FREDERICTON, March 31st.

Ryan introduced a bill to place the road from Hampton Ferry to Groombs' Bridge, on the Great Road list.

House went into Committee on Williston's bill to refer the Railway claims to arbitration. Johnson, Watters, and Smith spoke against it; they contended that the sympathy and local prejudices would operate against the Government. Gray, Williston, Gilmour, and Boyd, argued in favor of the bill as an act of justice to the claimants, and to relieve the Government from the annoyance and trouble it was subjected to. By the bill the parties choose one, and the Government one arbitrator, and these two the third; progress reported.

Ryan moved for address of papers relating to claim of R. B. Cutler.

BOOKS RECEIVED.

THE EDINBURGH REVIEW.—January, 1863.—[New York, Leonard Scott & Co.]—A considerable quantity of solid historical and biographical reading will be found in this number; and much curious information will be derived from a perusal of the article, entitled "Modern Judaism." Victor Hugo's celebrated book "Les Misérables" is shown up in a very caustic style, stripping off the covering of false, meretricious philosophy, in which the greater portion of the author's ideas are clothed. The paper on the Campaign of 1815 will delight every Briton and every loyal Colonist.

TABLE OF CONTENTS: India, under Lord Dalhousie; Diaries of Frederic Von Gutz; Goldfields and Goldminers; Contributions to the Life of Reubens; The Campaign of 1815; Modern Judaism; Victor Hugo's Les Misérables; Convict System in England and Ireland; Public Affairs.

THE WESTMINSTER REVIEW.—January, 1863.—[New York, Leonard Scott & Co.]—It is somewhat singular that the review of Victor Hugo's Les Misérables in this number is the very opposite to that of the paper in the Edinburgh—this one being highly favourable to the book and complimentary to its author. But we are bound to say that the writer in the Edinburgh rather than the other will meet the approval of English readers in his estimate of this peculiar work.

The paper on Bishop Colenso as might be supposed from the principles of the Westminster, is rather a dangerous one, and ought not to be unguardedly read by any one.

The department of "Contemporary Literature" in this Review distinguishes it from all the others, and is always well worth reading.

TABLE OF CONTENTS: English Convicts—what should be done with them; The Literature of Bohemia; Bishop Colenso on the Pentateuch; Les Misérables; by Victor Hugo; Indian Annexations—British Treatment of Native Princesses; The Microscope and its Revelations; Greece and the Greeks; M. Ratazzi, and his Administration; Contemporary Literature.

Miscellaneous.

BRIGHAM YOUNG'S SUBJECTS.—A Salt Lake letter to the Wisconsin State Journal speaks in anything but flattering terms of the personal appearance of the Saints, male and female. The writer says: "I went to the theatre last night, and had a good opportunity to study the character of the Mormons. There were about 2000 people assembled, and I must say they were the worst looking crowd in every way I ever saw. It was a fair sample of the population, and it confirms my previous opinion that they are 'the scum of the earth.' Brigham Young was there and occupied five long seats with his wives and children. Brigham is a very common looking man, yet has great natural sagacity and good sense, with but little education. Indeed, he must be naturally a smart man to have such power over the people. There is not a handsome woman in the country; they are the worst looking, as a class, I ever saw."

METHODISM IN THE STATES.—The Methodist says that the statistics of that church-membership for the year have been gathered up. They show a total in society of 942,936, which is a decrease from last year of 45,617.—The number of deaths is set down at 19,662. Of the 942,936 in society, 843,401 are members, and 99,535 probationers. The decrease of members is 22,055; of probationers 23,573. The Methodist accounts for this large decrease by the demands and ravages of the war.

STRANGE FATALITY.—Last September three young men enlisted into one company for the 11th New Hampshire Regiment, at Lyme. They left for the seat of war together, picketed, tented, eat and slept together. Some time since they were taken sick with the measles at Newport News, and all breathed their last within a few hours of each other. Last Sabbath the lifeless remains of all three were received at Lyme, casting a gloom and mourning over all the community.—St. Johnsbury (Vt.) Caledonian.

THE GLOBE informs us that on Thursday evening last "Captain Hurd Peters' Battery, N. B. Regiment of Artillery, had a grand gathering at the Portland Temperance Hall. Over 400 persons sat down to tea, including many members of the different Artillery and Rifle Companies in uniform. The tables were profusely spread. On taking his seat Captain Peters made some very happy and appropriate remarks, suitable to the time and place. The pleasure-beaming faces at the table, and the joyousness and hilarity of all present was not the least pleasing feature of the gathering. About ten o'clock the tables were removed and the votaries of the dance tripping right merrily on the light fantastic toe when we left."

SCOUNDRELISM.—Some contemptible scoundrel has sent to the persons having boxes in the Post Office, a most scandalous circular reflecting upon the character of a prominent official in this community. Even if all that is therein stated be true, it does not justify so cowardly an attack. While such things are tolerated in this community, no man's character, however pure and spotless it may be, is safe.—Times.

On Monday afternoon J. W. Ritchie, Esq., the Counsel for the petitioners against the Church of England Synod Bill, and His Lordship Bishop Bunney, in behalf of the bill, addresses the Committee of the Legislative Council in the Chamber devoted to the sittings of that Body. The Council Chamber was crowded, and considerable excitement prevailed.—Halifax Colonist.

A MAN named Jess Harbor, of Champlain County, Ohio, who recently died, was the father of 31 children.
