London, Eng., 30th June, 1900.

To the Editor of The Telegraph, St. John:

Dear sir—"As you very kindly offered to publish anything relative to my work which I might send, I wish below to give the high moral tone of the communities; a short precis of the work since arriving in England. It would be difficult to realise from the other side of the water just how hard it is to bring into prominence in Great Britain a province that is as unknown as is New Brunswick. The most unknown as is New Brunswick. The most logical method of proceeding would be to give some conception of why the province is unknown. I, of course, have reasons that I have evolved through personal knowledge of some of the conditions, which are rather long, and would take up a good deal of space in giving. One of the chief reasons that New Brunswick is not known as it descripes in Great Britain lies. known as it deserves in Great Britain lies in the fact that it has been smothered practically by the tremendous advertisements given to the middle and extreme west, and, for that matter, to the province of Ontario. The Canadian Pacific Railway's advertisement of the west has done much, of course, to bring that whole section into prominence, while in the case of all east-ern Canada very little has been said in-deed. In fact

The Development of the Country has been somewhat peculiar. When wooden shipbuilding was at its height, we all know the very important position held by the maritime provinces of Canada in that industry, and we know the large number of ships that were owned in these provinces. With the replacement of wood-en ships by iron and steel steamers came an era of heavier capitalization, with which the moderate capital of the mar which the moderate capital of the mari-time provinces could not and did not at-tempt to cope. The enormous capital of Great Britain, of course, then came more strongly to the fore than ever, and

The Era of Prosperityin the shipping trade of New Brunswick and the other maritime provinces ceased more suddenly than it had risen. So much had depended on this shipping trade, all the other walks of life being more or that the could be the substitute of the substitute less thoroughly involved, that the collapse was felt much more than the collapse of any single industry should be felt in a part of the world as resourceful as east-of the west, it was another blow for the "Then came certain political conditions. which still further accentuated the low ebb of business, and the whole, as we know, was accompanied by an apathy and lack of enterprise that has not died out

"Among the moderate number of students of Canadian affairs one meets in England, independent of people directly connected with the colonies, these developments seem to be thoroughly realized, and I am glad to say that these few people at least have felt that it is through

No Fault of the Country Itself that more rapid advances have not been "The next phase of the development has been that which has gone on in the last few years, the slowly improving indus-trial conditions which, however, have moved ahead more or less steadily, and the most valuable type of development which should have come long before, the Encouragement of Scientific Agriculture. There was nothing to lead one, from any practical results that had been obtained to the inference that the position of the maritime provinces with relation to Eng-land would ever be a source of their ultimate wealth, but there is no reason why this should not have much to do with the development of a trade which the position itself should make much more easy of accomplishment than in any other part of Canada. However, the result of the vertisement of the west has been that land, it seems to bring up to the average Englishman only prairie lands and gold fields. Every type of misconception that Have a Wrong Idea of Our Land.

could well exist about any country has existed with regard to eastern Canada as a whole. One class of people would, per-haps, believe it nothing but a howling wilderness, others would think that its comparatively ancient settlement did not leave the chances for new men that were to be found further west. Still others, that the country consisted of small settle-ments, isolated, having but few advantages of modern civilization, on poor soil, and in a climate somewhat resembling that of Newfoundland or Labrador.

"There is one sentence that I have made a text in connection with bringing New Brunswick to the fore as far as lay in my power. It is this: 'The largest and most resourceful of the wonderfully fertile maritime provinces, which lie very much nearer Great Britain than any other important food producing area of the empire. It has been striking to notice the absolute novel-ty of the idea that this part of Canada actually presents the many favorable con-ditions that it does. Studying them in comparison with those of other portions of the empire, there are many things that come prominently up

In Favor of the Maritime Provinces. The climate is one of these. Everything considered, but few portions of the empire, or the world, have climates that the high moral tone of the communities the freedom from foreign blood; in fact, the thousand and one things that give the provinces their many advantages of today.

"I published a small pamphlet, which you have already seen, embodying an outline of the conditions as found in the province, and stating the advantages. It was illustrated with half a dozen tones of typical scenes in New Brunswick, and

Most Favorable Reception Everywhere. From it much inquiry has resulted. An edition of 25,000 of these pamphlets was issued and they have been used in a variety of ways. They have been distributed at lectures, sent to all the different libraries, co-operative societies, and mechanics institutes throughout the united kingdom and have been mailed to every inquirer for Canadian information at the Canadian office since January 1st. Then great numbers have been sent out on application. Mr. Hickman's Pictures.

"When I arrived in England about the niddle of February, there was a great deal of work to be done in getting the lantern slides made from the numerous photographs taken in New Brunswick during the latter part of last summer. In coloring these slides the best artists were employed, and the work took between six taken and the work took between six weeks and two months. I rejected every-thing that had the slightest defect in coloring or otherwise, the rejections in all amounting to perhaps £20 worth. The esult was that the province has really got a very creditable set of slides indeed fact, it has been stated many time that they are the finest slides representa tive of life in a colony ever brought to Great Britain.

"As was announced in an interview it The Telegraph, the original intention was to give throughout the United Kingdom using the lantern slides as illustrations. As the work involved in the preparation of the slides and material took much longer than was anticpated at first, the season wa well advanced before any lectures were given, so far advanced, in fact, that decided it would be wise, in the part of this season left during which lecture could be given economically, to confine myself to one portion of England. Mr Duff-Miller suggested that the west of England, with Bristol as a centre, would probably be as Productive of Good Results as anywhere, so I decided to give number of lectures in that part of the country throughout April and May. The citizens of Br.stol themselves were moskind in every way. Sir Herbert Ashman he lord mayor, consented to take the chair at the introductory lecture, and the members of the chamber of comme vere always courteous, and did everything in their power to make the lectures a cess. The introductory lecture was given before members of the chamber of com given a chance to speak at the annu-meeting of the chamber, and arrangemen were made for a popular lecture later of Visited a Number of Towns and villages, typical farming centre Bristol, and gave a number of lecture which, with one or two exceptions, were plendidly attended. The illustration were apparently much appreciated, and everywhere I found the same surprise in the fact that the eastern provinces Canada offered any advantages to the Englishman who might wish to make hi home in the colonies. I forgot to mention that the first lecture in England was given London lecture was given during th stitute at New Cross. In every case who giving a lecture I found the civic author ies most kind. In every town I visited without exception the mayor took chair at the lecture. Among the last lectures given were two very satisfactory ones in Bristol and Taunton. By this time the correspondence, which had been steadthe year, and one day as many as thirty six letters were posted. with a view to sooner or later going t New Brunswick, and from this one should be led to infer that if the scheme is pur ued with vigor during the coming sea son, the correspondence should very me erially increase, and the good results be thoroughly felt by the early part of next summer. As soon as it can be brought home to people that a country, lying as son with Manitoba, for instance, and resembling England so much, offers the many attractions that it does, I feel quite certain that we should see a decided change in the stream of emigration, and a decided awakening of intelligent interest be not less valuable.

People Reached in Other Ways. "Besides the lectures, I thought it wis to use a number of other methods of ge ing at people through channels that would not be directly accessible through compare with that of eastern Canada. Then there are many other points that I have brought as prominently forward as possible. Among these are the free school system, holding, as it does a prominent position in the world's educational systems; the transportation facilities, New Brunswick having a greater number of miles of railway per head of population than any country in the world, besides the internal waterway transportation; the ceived a scheme of sending to the dif-ferent enquiries at the Canadian office opies of the pamphlets, and nothing ha peen productive of more good result. Some time after this was done, the codence increased still more.

Effect of War Was Felt. "These, then, have been the chief fea tures of the campaign as conducted ar, and the results would have been much eore practical had it not been for th remendous interest taken in the wa and the large number of people out of the one would expect to wish to emigrate.

Some Cases in Point. "A number of secondary schemes have volved. I have had a considerable num ber of applications from people who ha ive their sons a fair amount of capit with which to start. The boys themselves are not fond of indoor life, and wish to go to some colony. They would like to farm, but know nothing of farming, to go to some colony. They would like to farm, but know nothing of farming, and wish to find some method of getting a good deal of practical instruction in the country itself before starting out independently. to the surveyor general is that anyone requiring farm help should file an applica-tion with him at St. John, stating the class of help required, how long the posi-tion could be held by the proper type of man, what wage would be given, and anything elese of interest to a young man seking a position. The reason I have done this is because I have received a great number of letters from young men who are really well educated, and in the great ajority of cases and steady (perhaps all, as far as I know) and perfectly willing to work their way along. If these young men could feel sure of getting posi-tions on farms they would not hesitate in leaving, but if they feel that they are to land with little or no money in a strange country, without a certain prospect of any work, they necessarily heatate. When travelling through New Brunswick in the latter part of last surfmer, from the farmers in different parts of the country I always heard the same story, leading to the inference that nothing was required more than farm help. The principal of the men who have writ-Farmers Interested.

ten have been farmers. Still others are young men of rather good position with-out having had farming experience, and others yet are men who are simply labor-ing men who may have had little farming experience, or who may not. They are all a very good type of citizen, and if they should be of no end of service. So in this connection one must feel the value of having some means of giving them a knowledge of positions which are open. Not infrequently applications for informa-tion come in from whole families which have but little means, but which are willing to work their way up. If these ap plications increase, as they should during the coming year, I shall feel that they will demand the most hearty co-operation in the province itself. Up to the present there have not been probably more than a hundred people who have directly stated their intention of sooner or later going to New Brunswick, but under the Practical Results are Showing.

However, the government this year has determined to put in an exhibit that will be of value and I hope that the heartiest co-operation will be given by private firms, and, for that matter, by private individuals. I have already had placed a number of photographic enlargements of agricultural land, farming scenes, and sporting scenes, which I think compare most favorably with those of any other province or portion of the empire. The big game exhibit should attract much attention, as the space for its display is well situated. Let me impress one fact and that is, I have seen the exhibits of every province in

We Can Equal Any of Them. that of New Brunswick should not be equal, in every respect to any of them, and with a little co-operation this can all be done without very much expense.

"With regard to the type of exhibits that are needed, the whole thing may be epitomised in saying that good specimens of every product, natural and artificial should be sent, everything from granite to can blueberries, from spruce pulp to drie codfish. It is only in this way that the exhibit becomes representative, and very often things that in New Brunswick seem lmost useless, are ultimately most service able. For instance, take eel grass, the well-known sea-weed that is thrown up in such quantities along the Gulf of St. Lawrence shore, the greatest amount of this now comes from Holland, and brings about 42s. per ton, f. o. b., at Amsterdam. No sooner did a Montreal firm send an exhibit re-addressed to Mr. Watson, than tive to it. It is being used extensively as packing. There should be a first class exhibit of all the minerals in the province, with each specimen a description of the quantity available, occurrence and distriution being given.

"Time, and probably your space, does not permit of my writing at further length at present, but I hope to give you same fur-ther and more practical particulars later. Thanking you for your valuable space, I

The vicar of southern No-Nan announce of the cabinet meeting General Haywood, that he was attacked in his residence at the was attacked in his residence. Amur, the boundary territory between Eastern Siberia and Machuria, has been the scene of local disturbances for a long time lowing to the conduct of the Cossacks toward the 25,000 Chinese employed in the construction of the Russo-Machuria an railroad. Several serious collisions have occurred between the Cossacks and the Chinese troops. Several weeks ago two Russian officers and sixteen men were killed. The Chinese tried to stop the Russians steamer Michael carrying ammunition and the steamer Selenga, with the Russian frontier commission on board, from passing up the Amur at Aigun.

They fired on the steamer, wounding an officer and a few men, but the steamer reached Blagoveschensk. The local Chinese commander at Aigun seems to have sent the Bursians a voit of philimatum, to to dispute the progress of the Russians. The official Russian advices leave the inference that Blagoveschensk is still in Russian hands, the Russian losses during the bombardment being only three killed and five wounded. The Amur military district was mobilized a fortnight ago on a war footing. It is believed that the Russian forces there are fifty thousand men and a hundred has now ordered the troops on the fron-tier to form a cordon. The Russian papers demand severe retribution for Chinese audacity in Manchuria, but they hold that Russia must preserve in her resolution to avoid war.

The Chinese minister in St. Petersburg disavowed the events in Manchuria on behalf of his government and has promised to make serious representations to Pekin regarding the consequences that will follow if the hostilities there do not cease. There is little further news from China this morning.

Li Hung Chang has already left Canton. This causes the utmost anxiety for the safety of the Europeans as there are only Washington, July 17-A decidedly more hopeful feeling with regard to the Chinese situation was apparent in all administra-tion circles this evening. The tide of sentiment, which had been markedly pes-simistic, turned with the announcement of the victory of the allies at Tien Tsin and the capture of the forts and native city and gathered further strength from Minister Wu's cablegram declaring that the foreign ministers at Pokin were safe situation was apparent in all administrathe foreign ministers at Pekin were safe July 9. Aside from these despatches the July 9. Aside from these despatches and arrival of the president and the special cabinet meeting called to consider the situation were the features of the day. They met at 2.30 o'clock this afternoon. less than an hour after the president reached the White House. Over 100 newspaper men thronged the corridors while the cabinet was sitting behind closed doors. The scene resembled the hottest days of the Spanish war.

There were present Secretary Hay,
Secretary Root, Secretary Long, Secretary
Gage and Postmaster General Smith.

No Extra Session.

At the conclusion of the session which lasted two and a half hours. Secretary Root gave out the following formal statement of the action of the cabinet:

"The president has determined that the facts now known to us do not require or justify calling an extra session of congress. Should future developments indicate that he is unable to do what is required with the means now at his command and the action of congress is necessary to furnish either men or money or authority, he will not hesitate to call it together."

While only this meagre formal state ment was given out it was ascertained that the whole Chinese situation was thoroughly discussed by the cabinet. The decision that an extra session of congress was not demanded by existing conditions was the outcome of the showing which both Secretary Root and Secretary Long were able to make as to the force that can be thrown into China, without the au-thorization of additional troops by con-gress and also the decidedly more hopeful feeling entertained by the president and the members of his cabinet as to the safety of Minister Conger and the other safety of Minister Conger and the other foreigners in Pekin, due to the cable of Minister Wu, reporting the safety of the minister July 9, two days after their reported massacre. While this cable is not regarded as conclusive, it is accepted in good faith for the present. But the administration, it can be definitely stated, has set in motion some machinery by which it is confidently predicted absolutely authentic news as to the fate of our ly authentic news as to the fate of our minister and the other foreigners at Pekin will be ascertained. Through what channel the administration expects to re-ceive this all-important news is not known M. The different statement of the situation in Pekin is daily, if not hourly, expected can be stated with the utmost positiveness. The advices received from Pekin probably will be the determining factor in blazing the future course of this statement of the situation. factor in blazing the inture course of this governing. On Monday an address was made by Rev. J. L. Gordon, introducing "The duty of the church on temperance reform." In the afternoon brief papers were presented by Revs. Ross and Williams on "Qualifications for soul-winning."

A stirring evangelistic service, led by Rev. J. L. Gordon, concluded the meeting.

The appointment of Earl Li as viceroy of Chi Li is considered by Minister Wu as one of the most important developments in the entire situation. Chi Li is the great province in which Pekin is located, and is the very heart of the Boxer movement, so that the great viceroy now assumes supreme power at the point of greatest danger. Minister Wu is satisfied that if Li Hung Chang had been at Pekin there would have been no such outbreak as occurred, as the viceroy is a stern military man, who believes in nipping such movements in the bud. The state department officials are anxious to accept Minister. ment officials are anxious to accept Minister Wu's message as accurate, but there are some clouds of doubt about it. The ese government can communicate in this way with its representatives abroad, why can it not permit the foreign ministers reported to be under its protection also to communicate with their governments. In answer to our question as to what purpose would be served by a representation of facts in this fashion, it is pointed out that one result desired by the Chinese would be the preservation of Tien Tsin and another would be the abatement of

Replaces an Enemy of Foreigners.

Li Hung Chang will replace as viceroy of the great province of Chi Li, a man who has been notoriously anti-foreign in his sentiments and actions. The summons to Li is regarded as a hopeful sign. It could have been inspired by two motives, first, the great viceroy may have been called to Pekin by the imperial government in order that it might avail itself of his wisdom and experience with for-eigners to extricate it from the present position. The second motive, and one called upon to establish communications with the foreign commanders and diplomatic representatives with the deliberate purpose of sowing dissension among them and paralyzing all efforts at joint action. The officials here are perfectly satisfied that any such move as this would come tertained at one stage, each and every one of the great powers represented in the field in China is loyally living up to its pledge to attain the object set out in Secretary Hay's identical note to the powers. It is deemed, probable however, that he has been persuaded to take the appointment in view of the well under-stood fact that he is the most influential of Chinamen among foreign nations.

At the end of the meeting all of the prominent Chinamen signed the letter and it was forwarded to Washington.

THE SESSION.

Parliament was prorogued Wednesday, after a session that has lasted one hundred and sixty-eight days, the longest since confederation, with one exception. the session of 1885, when parliament sat for one hundred and seventy-two days. As parliament met on the 1st February it was thought that its business might be concluded by the middle of May, but the obstructive tactics of the opposition set all calculations at defiance and prolonged the session to an unreasonable length. There seems to be no good reason why all the business of parliament should not be done in three months. One great evil of prevent business men from entering parliament. ### BACTERIA IN YOUR BOOTS.

Scientists have discovered that the cause of musty, sour, foul smelling feet is bacteria, or germs, in the shoes, which breed rapidly on account of the favorable conextending and over 12,000 men are now involved. There are 170 vessels in the Maas River awaiting discharge.

It requires more than simple washing to rid you of the odor. You need the antiscutic action of Foot Elm. This valuable discovery destroys the bacteria, and makes the feet sweet and wholesome, without harming them in the least. It also preserves the leather. Besides this, it cools, soothes, and rests hot, aching, tired feet. Price 25c. a box at all druggists, or by mail, Stott & Jury, Bowmanville, Ont.

Further, we see Dorcas the benefactress. History has told the story of the crown; epic poet has sung of the sword; the pastoral poet, with his verses full of the redolence of clover tops and a rustle with a silk of the corn, has sung the praises of the plow. I tell you the praises of the needle. From the fig leaf rope prepared in the garden of Eden to the last stitch taken on the garment for the poor the needle has wrought wonders of kindness, generosity and benefaction. It adorned the girdle of the high priest, it fashioned the curtains in the ancient tabernacle, it cushioned the chariots of King Solo-mon, it provided the robes of Queen low places, by the fire of the pion-eer's back-log and under the flash of the chandelier, everywhere, it has clothed nakedness, it has preached the gospel, it has overcome hosts of penury and want with the warcry of "Stitch, stitch, stitch!" The operatives have found a livelihood by it, and through it the mansions of the and through it the mansions of the employer are constructed.

Amid the greatest triumphs in all ages and lands, I set down the conquests of the needle. I admit its crimes; I admit its cruelties. It has had more martyrs than the fire; it has punctured the eye; it has pierced the side; it has struck weakness into the lungs; it has sent madness into the brain; it has filled the potter's field it has pitched whole armies of the suffering into crime and wretchfield it has pitched whole armies of the suffering into crime and wretch-edness and woe. But now that I am talking of Dorcas and her ministries the suffering into crime and wretchedness and woe. But now that I am talking of Dorcas and her ministries to the poor, I shall speak mly of the charities of the needle. This woman was a representative of all those who make garments for the destitute, who knit socks for the bare-footed, who prepare bandages for the lacerated, who fix up boxes of clothing for missionaries, who go into the asylums of the suffering and destitute, bearing that gospel which is sight for the blind and hearing for the deaf, and which makes the lame man leap like a hart and brings the dead to life. Sydney, C.B., July 18.—(Special)—Lieut.

Sydney ward around about the building and in the room where she sits are the pale faces of the poor. She listens to their plaint, she pities their tens to their plaint, she pities their make garments for the destination of the destination which makes the 1-me man leap like a hart and brings the dead to life, immortal health bounding in their pulses. What a contrast between the practical benevolence of this woman and a great deal of the charity of this day! This woman did not spead her time idly planning how the poor of the city of Joppa was to be relieved; she took her needle and relieved; she took her needle and relieved them. She was not like those persons who sympathize with imaginary sorrows, and go out in the street and laugh at the boy who has upset his basket of cold victuals, or like that charity which makes a rousing league, more mbered that Lieut. Munroe, sixty-ninth, and Sergt. McVitie, fiftieth, in all-comers aggregate, s," has been dangerously Lieut. A. A. Smith came third and won dangerously and control of the day, caused many women to dangerously and the lost ech on the benevolent platform After awhile all these womanly the step, crying, "Hush your miserable howling!" Sufferers of the world want not so much theory as practice; not so much tears as dollars; not so not so much tears as dollars; not so much kind wishes as loaves of bread; not so much smiles as shoes; not so much "God bless yous!" as jackets and frocks. I will put one earnest Christian man, hard working, against five thousand mere theorists on the church architecture who never in their life helped to build a church. There are men who can give you the his-tory of Buddhism and Mohammedanism who never sent a farthing for evangelization. There are women who talk beautifully about the suffering of the world, who never had the courage, like Dorcas, to take the needle and assault it.

I am glad that there is not a page of the world's history which is not a record of female benevolence. God says to all lands and people, now and hear the widow's mite rat-tle down into the poor box. The Princess of Conti sold all her jewels that she might help the famine stricken. Queen Blanche, the wife of Louis VIII of France, hearing that there were some persons unjustly in-carcerated in the prisons, went out amid the rabble and took a stick and struck the door as a signal that they. might all strike it, and down went the prison door, and out came the prisoners. Queen Maud, the wife of Henry I, went down amid the poor and washed their sores and adminis-tered to them cordials. Mrs. Retson, at Matagorda, appeared on the bat-tlefield while the missiles of death were flying around and cared for the wounded. Is there a man or woman who has ever heard of the civil war in America who has not heard of the women of the sanitary and Christian commissions or the fact that before the smoke had gone up from Gettys-burg and South Mountain the women of the north met the women of the south on the battlefield, forgetting all their animosities while they bound up the wounded and closed the eyes of the slain? Dorcas, the benefac-that good woman, oh, how much sor-row there was in the town of Joppa! I suppose there were women there with larger fortunes, women, perhaps, with handsomer faces, but there was no grief at their departure like this at the death of Dorcas. There was not more turmoil and upturning in the Mediterranean sea, dashing against the wharfs at that seaport, than there were surgings to and fro of grief because Dorcas was dead. There are a great many who go out of life and are unmissed. There may be a very large funeral, there may be we see in this subject Dorcas the disciple, Dorcas the benefactress, disciple, Dorcas the benefactress, the resurrected.

If I had not seen that word disciple in my text, I would have known this woman was a Christian. Such music as that never came from a heart which is not chorded and strung by divine grace. Before I show you the needle work of this woman I want to show you her regenerated heart, the source of a pure life and of all Christian charities. I wish that the wives and mothers and

Oh, who would not rather have such obsequies than all the tears that were ever poured in the lachrymals that have been exhumed from ancient cities? There may be no mass for the dead; there may be no costly sarcophagus; there may be no mass for the dead; there may be no costly sarcophagus; there may be no elaborate mausoleum, but in the damp cellars of the city and through the lonely huts of the mountain glen there will be mourning, mourning, mourning, because Dorcas is dead. From which none ever wake to weep! Then one day there will be a sky rendering and a whir of wheels and the flash of a pageant, armies marching, chains clanking, banners waving, thunders booming, and that Christian woman will rise from the dust, and she will be suddenly sur-rounded—surrounded by the wander-ers of the street whom she reclaimed, surrounded by the wounded soils towhom she had administered. Daughter of God, so strangely surrounded, what means this? It means that reward has come, that the victory is won, that the crown is ready, that the banquet is spread. A colonel who had lost both feet in the battle of Inkermann was pulled in on a wheel chair; others came in limping on their crutches. Then the Queen of England arose before them in the name of her government and in the name of her government and uttered words of commendation to the officers and men and distributed those medals, inscribed with the four great battlefields—Alma, Balaklava, Inkermann and Sebastopol. As the Queen gave these to the wounded men and the wounded officers the bands of music struck up the national air, and the people, with streaming eyes, joined in the song:

God save our gracious Queen! Long live our noble Queen! God save the Queen!

themselves in favor of it. The land is outside the limits. It is a large tract and buildings of suitable size could be erected while there would be good yard room. Another excellent feature is that the property is very near the line of the I. C. R. If all goes well, the idea is to have an abattoir built there by the fall, well fitted up with all the modern appurtenances.

The farmers who are patronizing the cheese factory are highly pleased with the results of the sale of the cheese so far. The milk up to the present has been netting them about 75 a hundred weight, which is far more than they could make out of butter at the present prices. They receive the pay for their milk twice a month, which is quite a cash income.

The recent rain has much improved the hay crop and has also set the cereals and roots bobming, and the outlook for a good harvest is much better than it was a few days ago.
