The schooner Polly, now a coaster, is the oldest ship in the world that makes regular trips afloat. It was built for William Spear in 1805, and seems as sound as ever.

IF ATTACKED with cholera or summer complaints of any kind, send at once for a bottle of Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial, and use it according to directions. It acts with wonderful rapidity in subduing that dreadful disease that weakens the strongest man and that destroys the young and delicate. Those who have used this cholera remedy say it acts promptly, and never fails to effect a thorough cure. In three years the gold circulation of the Bank of Japan has increased $5,000,000, the silver circulation $4,000,000, while the note circulation has only increased by $8,500,000.

Advertiser Correspondence

A Reply to Professor Alexander.
To the Editor of The Advertiser:"Ye shall know the truth,
And the truth shall make you free."

Nothing seems to hit as straight as the truth, and my writing must have been pretty well aimed to draw forth such a drastic and rapid-fire reply from Professor William Hardy Alexander, of the Western University, London. He has thrown down the gage about California, and all I want is what I feel sure you will grant, fair and reasonable space in the columns of your paper to reply to his extreme and unwarranted attack upon me; and I can prove that I know and think more of the charming State of California than Mr. Alexander does, or ever did.

It will be readily understood that the position of court reporter, which I filled there, gave me privileges not possessed by him, unless like the recent appointee to the Toronto jail, he was chaplain, or something in the San Quintin Penitentiary, where the moral (?) mayor of San Francisco is now "doing time" to the tune of a five-years' sentence.

I do not know why Mr. Alexander should jump at the conclusion that I was merely a "traveler" there, and I certainly consider that he owes me an apology for many of his remarks.

Now in the first place he arrogates to himself the defense of the great State of California, and incidentally brings in libelous references to the Japanese.

He shirks the main points of my writing, and the elevating and humane objects I had in view, and neither does it become the professor to moralize upon, or "curse," what he strenuously terms "the tremendous development of modern locomotion." He utterly fails to agree with, or even appreciate my claim that justice and British fair play are preferable to lynching, lawless interference, and mob rule, and he not only libels Great Britain's most faithful ally, and one of the foremost nations in the world, but is willing to see the poor Japanese abused, and even murdered, the proud boast of whose patriotic people, about their noble ruler, the Mikado is, that . . .

"For a thousand years successive,
Reins that same immortal line,"

and who, through their glorious victory over Russia, are almost justified in the trenchant remark so often heard lately in the street of Tokio—"Great Britain, but Greater Japan."

I want justice for these brave people, and if no one else defends them, I will, and that was my object in my writings.

Mr. A. evidently knows little or nothing about the high character, loving kindness, and lofty ideas and beliefs so jealously guarded by the brave Nipponese—from "Nippon," the ancient name of Japan. I can send him the Japanese National Anthem, and a finer, or more inspiring production never yet appeared in any language. Why, the Japanese are kind even to the lower order of animals, and here is a little story to illustrate this: An "observant traveler" in Japan asked a high official in Tokio, how it was that there were no associations for the prevention of cruelty to animals, such as are found in Great Britain and the United States, and even in Canada. The quiet reply was, "Simply because we have no cruelty to animals in Japan."

Mr. Alexander still prefers to believe that there is a "lake of fire and brimstone," and he presumes to say that he has some "inside" knowledge, whether scientific or superstitious, he does not venture to say. He uses considerable "latitude of thought" in cunningly avoiding that part of it. He must have visited the "Creation" sideshow at the Western Fair. He gingerly touches up the "small communities where Pharisaism flourishes, and is multiplied," and that is really the only part of his letter I can fully agree with.

When I refer to the State of California, it is entirely different to referring to the majority of the people who reside there. As a country, California is one of the Anest the sun shines on, and I know and love its 700 miles of coast line along the grand Pacific Ocean, its rugged mountain ranges, its big tree groves, vineyards and orange orchards, and greater than all, its sublime valley, the peerless Yosemite.

Without any attempt at self-laudation, please allow me to inform "my learned friend," Mr. Alexander, that he has "locked horns" with no superficial traveler or writer, and he will need to "play up, play up, and play the game," before he can say that he has covered the five continents, and traveled in every country in the world (except one, Russia, and "lived" in them all, and "lived" well, too. Even far away Australia has many redeeming points, notwithstanding its great handicap by being selected as an early convict settlement. It is known as "The Land of the Fern," and I often find myself repeating some lines of a favorite Australian poem:

"Dear land of the fern, dear land of the fern,
In spirit to thee I shall often return,
In slumber I'll rest on thy sweet sunny breast.
Though I wake far away from thee—
Land of the Fern."

Still I repeat the charge of immorality against Australia and California, for the countries where young girls serve intoxicating liquors over the bar, and where daily divorce courts, and weekly murder trials are held, are not good places for women morally inclined.

clined to go to. You may blame it on the climate if you will, and some do; others say it is at the door of the convict and bush-ranger class in this one case, and the Spanish, Mexican, and Creole element in the other; but I do not believe that it can be in either case be saddled on the Japanese, for the conditions complained of existed long before a native of the Island Kingdom ever set foot in either Australia or California. Climatic and moral conditions in both these countries are very much alike, and if there is any advantage to either, I unhesitatingly award it to the former.

Why does Mr. A. use the far-fetched and improper term, "beautiful commonwealth," in referring to California? The term might be allowed to pass if it were used in describing Australia, but California still remains merely a State of the Union, and there is no lack of evidence to show that for graft and every species of immorality, it can lead the world. Even Paris is a quaker town in many ways compared to it. The lately-deposed and disgraced mayor of San Francisco, after a most spectacular and sensational trial, was found guilty of the worst frauds and grafts ever yet exposed in any court of law or justice, and he is now undergoing a long sentence therefor. His crime was made none the less by the fact that his own high-priced chauffeur was allowed to drive him into jail in his own flashy-red automobile.

It was not Mr. Alexander's "Underground and Barbary Coast" routes that figured in the mayor's grafts—(by the way, Mr. A. must have been over the trail himself)—but the more aristocratic parts of the city—and the notorious wine shops, beer gardens, dance halls, low theaters, and houses of assignation, etc., which the evidence showed, surprised even Mr. A.'s lurid conception of the dire woes of Sodom and Gomorrah in the depth of their iniquity.

The only doors to each flat or rooms of which houses were through elevators; no stairways, and only those who were furnished with the secret, or "grand and remaining password," could enter the elevators. I think I need not be more explicit, for verily, "he who runs, may read."

Ontario appears to be too "conservative" and slow for the pedagogue who speaks his "latitude of thought."

I contend, however, in all fairness and truth that he has no "latitude," either in thought, or word, to libel the Japanese in the way he does.

I know many businessmen who have dealings with them and their invariable verdict is that they have found them always reliable, and strictly honest in all their dealings.

There are both Japanese lawyers and doctors in California, and they occupy high positions in these two leading professions, having clients and patients among the highest class.

Without waiting for the professor's patronizing advice, I have for the present, "at least," resumed my travels, and date this letter from Detroit, where, by the way, there were five divorce cases in one day last week, and I am now on my way to Chicago—for

"The wander-lust is in my blood,"

and with Mark Twain, feel like saying:

"Celestial dove, divine assistance bring,
And extend to me the kind protection of thy wing."

Should the professor desire any further information on Australia, California or Japan, letters will be forwarded from my former address. Faithfully yours,

H. R. HOLMES.

CAUGHT TRAIN FROM TREE

Fugitive, Pressed by Police, Drops From Limb to Car Roof.

Indianapolis, Sept. 24.—Orville Frock made a remarkable escape from officers yesterday. He was chased into Tipton County and was so hard pressed that he climbed a tree at the side of the Lake Erie Railroad tracks. The officers tried to induce him to come down, but he refused. The officers got an axe and were starting to cut down the tree when a freight train came along. Frock dropped from the tree and landed squarely on his feet on top of a box car. He was stunned but managed to hold to the running board and saved himself from falling off.

The train was running twenty miles an hour.

Advices to Tipton officers to arrest him met with no response and it is supposed he left the train before it reached there.

LONDON, WEDNESDAY, SEPT. 25.

SIR WILFRID LAURIE AND THE ASIATIC PROBLEM.Sir Wilfrid Laurie's reply to the Trades and Labor Congress' demand
for the denunciation of the Anglo-Japanese treaty was the only one a Premier of the Dominion could make.
He knew that every word of his message would be weighed in Tokyo and London. He had to be mindful of imperial interests and policy, and of the honor of his own country, which was pledged to the treaty by Parliament.Canada for some years stood outside the Anglo-Japanese convention, depriving herself of certain trade advantages, but when she finally subscribed to it, there was no dissenting voice
in the House of Commons, so that the present attempt of some Conservative newspapers to raise a party issue is absurdly belated. No one at the time seemed to think that the clause permitting the free entrance of Japanese into British territory contained the germs of trouble, as the Tokyo Government at the time was under engagement to restrict the emigration of Japanese to Canada to one emigrant
for each province of Japan, and had faithfully observed its pledge. The recent influx of Japanese coolies from Hawaii, caused by the depression of the sugar industry there, could not be foreseen. But for this movement there would have been no material for an anti-Japanese agitation in the coast
provinces. Sir Wilfrid Laurie points out that the disturbances in Vancouver
were not directed against the Japanese particularly, but against Asiatic immigration in general. The feeling is as strong against the Hindus as against the Japanese; in fact Hindu
immigration is the most serious phase of the problem, because the Hindus
are British subjects and are coming in even greater numbers than the Japs.
Plainly it is a matter that cannot be dealt with precipitately by the Canadian Government, having regard for imperial exigencies.Sir Wilfrid Laurie has promised inquiry and consideration. Negotiations are known to be in progress between Tokyo and Ottawa, and the Canadian case might have been prejudiced by an indiscreet utterance by the Canadian Premier. The treaty in question covers a broad field, touching the interests of Great Britain and Japan at many points. An attempt to rescind the objectionable clause would probably wreck the whole treaty, and imperil
the Anglo-Japanese alliance, which bolsters British prestige and security in the East. The Canadian Government will exhaust the resources of diplomacy to secure from Japan a guarantee that Japanese emigration to Canada from any quarter will be brought within the former limits,
which caused no grievance in British Columbia. The Canadian Parliament
assented to the treaty on the understanding that the Japanese immigration problem had been settled, and while there has been no breach of good faith by Japan, seeing that immigration from the Hawaiian Islands
was not contemplated at the time, the purport of the Canadian-Japanese agreement is being defeated, and Canada may with justice call upon the Mikado's Government to exercise control over the movements of its subjects in the Sandwich Islands. There is every likelihood that a reasonable spirit prevails at Tokyo and that the difficulty will be adjusted satisfactorily
to all parties. In the meantime Canadians should exercise patience and self-restraint. Public opinion is almost unanimously with the labor organizations in opposition to unrestricted immigration from Japan, India or any Asiatic country. A way must and will be found to oppose effective barriers to a deluge of Asiatics, but the situation calls for diplomatic treatment.

INCREASE IN INSANITY.

The latest English asylum statistics
are somewhat alarming, and alienists
are trying to account for the great increase in insanity shown. At the present time one person in ever 283 in England and Wales is reported as insane; ten years ago the proportion was one in 314. For over 50 years there has been a tendency to increase, which has been much stronger than the increase in population; for while the increase in insanity is 237 per cent,
that of the population has been only 77 per cent. The total number of insane at the present time is 123,982; in 1859 the total was 36,762. Senile dementia leads among the various types
of insanity, it alone last year accounting for 38 per cent of the new cases reported.Some experts ascribe this increase to modern medical science keeping alive the bodies of men and womenafter their minds have given way, and their lives being indefinitely prolonged
by the care given them in modern asylums and sanatoriums. That is to say, under former conditions there would have been fewer insane, and those who became insane would have died much more quickly. Other alienists claim that the increase is more apparent than real. In the first place, they say, a wider definition of insanity
is given than formerly, people who
at one time would have been regarded as "not all there," "a little off," or
"eccentric," being now recorded as insane. Then there is to be taken into consideration the improvement in asylums, asylum methods, and the more humane treatment of the unfortunate, and the additional fact that many cases which in years gone by would have been privately cared for
by relatives and friends, are, under improved conditions, placed in asylums. The increase in the asylum population, it is thought, may also be partly accounted for by the increased care now taken in the selection as between paupers and the insane, and the longer life of the insane and the greater care taken in keeping public records may also have something to do with it.It is clear, judging from recent experience in United States law courts,
that even the ablest experts have much to learn regarding mental disease, and until the results of closer research are made known it will be impossible to say whether the conditions of modern life are the cause of increasing insanity, whether the insane are better preserved and more completely enrolled on the records, and
how far the two factors are operative.
The problem is a most important one.The proposal to annex Ungava to the Province of Quebec is of course another attack on Manitoba.The city of Toronto is advised to filter its water. This is no reflection upon lake water, as Toronto pours its sewage into the bay, and the lake must be polluted for miles around. There is nothing in the situation there on which to found an argument in favor of river filtration in London."It is the simple and domineering
fact," says the Conservative Halifax Herald, "that as late as the Dominion
elections of 1904 Conservative hee-
lers were armed with corrupting funds."
Dr. Pugsley has offered to prove the same charge, if he is given a chance.
If the party has turned over a new leaf it must be very new.The principals of the provincial institutions at Belleville and Brantford
have been vindicated by one of Mr.
Whitney's commissioners. It is not likely that the commissioners will receive another job from the Whitney Government. Mr. Judd will be more than ever in favor at headquarters. He always does what he is expected to do.Mr. R. Walter Curry, the aggressive
ex-crown attorney of Toronto, is a Liberal candidate in one of the Yorks
and has been making a capital speech
in which he pleaded for the application of the golden rule in politics. By the way, after Mr. Curry resigned, the crown attorneyship nothing was heard of the anti-combine prosecutions which he set on foot. The attorney-general's department owes the public an explanation.

HER FAVORITE.

(Chicago Tribune.)
He was just lighting his cigar before going forth into the darkness of the night.
"Do you like war matches?" he asked.
"No," she replied. "I prefer the old-fashioned parlor match."
And a week later he had squandered
half his savings on an engagement ring.

BEWARE OF SMOOTH GUYS.

(Cumber Herald.)
There is the kind of man who has the habit of slapping everybody on the back
and putting his arm around one's shoulder
that it is well not to let come near you.
The man who calls everybody his friend is either a knave or a fool. There are men who will put one arm around you
and stick a knife in your back at the same time. Be friendly with all men, but keep at a distance the man who wants to gobble over you and for talk you into thinking he is a fine fellow. He will work
some scheme on you before he is through.

THREE VOICES.

(Harold Desbie, in London Chronicle.)
The gentle, reflective and sentimental traveler from the Old World, as he journeys across the intolerable distances of Canada, becomes gradually conscious of three separate voices. There is the voice of the people, the voice of the politicians and the voice of the land itself. This triple of tongues makes a new and thoughtful music in his soul. It sets the tide of his soliloquies, and governs the labyrinthine wanderings of his dreams. It is a music which permeates and saturates the soul, and one to whose rhythm all his future reflections will march to the camp
fires of death.

WHAT TO EAT.

(Baltimore Sun.)
At a recent convention of famous physicians in London, the topic was argued upon
rich and poor the advisability of a simple diet. It is useless, it was held, to know how to make 24 kinds of soup or how to dress a chicken 530 ways. A plain,
sensible way of preparing food is best,
and plain food is best. The poor, it was urged, too often get improper food at extravagant prices, paying 15 cents for what can be had in better form for 10 cents.
They do not make wise selections, taking
inexpensive instead of nutritious articles.
Sir James Orlinton-Brown, an authority
on hygiene, deplored the disease of oatmeal
in England, asserting that a small plate
of porridge was equal in protein value to two thick slices of a four-pound loaf. The use of fancy cakes, candies, hot-buns, etc.,
was condemned, and as for hot sauces—
they are a danger to be avoided. On theother hand, "white and hard" bread was praised.
Other foods lauded by the learned
speakers were haddock, cheap dripping,
treacle and herring, the last being described as splendidly nutritious. Colonial meat was approved, but white bread received few good words. Eggs, from an economic viewpoint were declared to be extravagant, costing far more than they were worth.

TO CANADA.

(From one of a party of British journalists, after a tour through the Dominion,
July 25 to Aug. 30, 1937.)Widespread rise your rich domains.
Holding captive stranger eyes—
Garden kingdoms, golden plains,
Flow'ring under urban canopies,
Virgin forests, fruitful kine,
Clustered homesteads, homesteads lone,
Lustre towns of scattered time,
Where men call their souls their own.
Verdant desps, majestic heights,
Plank your rails in vistas dim;
Tumbling falls in endless flights,
Roar and crash and endless hymn.Scenic splendours of our earth,
Lost in cloud-filled distances,
Shed their glory o'er your girls,
Royal in their radiance.
Earth's abundance fills your laps,
Earth's strong contours line your face,
In your veins Earth's life-blood flows.
Fits you for the nation's robe—
Fits you to defend by the tale
Told by prairie, forest, glen,
Canyon, rugged mount—the trail
Trodden by your hardy men.Yes! Unmeasured gifts of God
Mark you chosen of his call;
But the men who turn your soil
Are the greatest gift of all.
Wanderers, they seek your shores
Open-armed you took them in;
Raw and ruthless life they bore,
Smiles off Mother Earth to wind.
Largess from her boundless hoards
Freely poured she in their hands—
Poor no more are they, but lords
Of themselves, lords of their lands.This the thought we carry home,
This the burden of our song.
For flung under heaven's dome,
You a builder are of men.
From their eyes a new world's dawn
Gleams on each newcomer's heart;
Saw, hope and brain are drawn Steadfastly to their part.
Thus our tribute to your land,
For your distant brethren, runs—
Crowning all your glories stand
Foremost your adopted sons.

THE MARRIED MAN.

(Chicago News.)
"Even in the wilderness the married
man ceases to care about his personal appearance." So says A. W. Canning, the Australian explorer, who has spent twelve months examining the unknown country
stretching from the western Australian goldfields to the Kimberley district in the far north. When among the blacks he could always tell the bachelor by the careful style in which the hair was gathered up, chignon fashion and tied behind with strings made of rat fur. The married aboriginal was no less distinguished by the shaggy, unkempt locks straggling all over his shoulders.

TURNING TO RELIGION.

(Montreal Herald.)
Rev. Osborne Troop reports that the English people are turning to religion. The phenomenon is probably not confined to the English people. Rev. Mr. Inkster, the agent of the Presbyterian College, tells us that the demand for religious services in the west is beyond all expectation; and the most casual observer can hardly fail
to notice a slight but perceptible increase
of interest in ordinary religious work
among our own painfully fast eastern population. But this is not one only side of the case. Religion is also turning to the people. The progress of practical common sense among the clergy in the last few years is nearly as remarkable as the excellent effect it has had on their congregations.

DOPE FIENDS CURED.

(New York Post.)
There is pleasant reading in a chatty
article on the British Museum, of how the English people use the reading room
to read novels. This is in the September Cornhill Magazine. Of the two obnoxious classes who frequent public libraries, readers who sleep and readers
who read fiction, the latter were dealt with by the museum authorities in the following manner:
It is still, it seems, to some extent a popular idea that people frequent the reading room to read novels. This is a libel. Once upon a time, it is true, the room was the rendezvous of a crowd of
A comfortable room, a luxurious chair,
a sufficient assurance of silence—nothing
was wanting to his happiness; and he was tolerated too long. Of course, probably every reader read a novel now and again
in the room; and such an occasional relaxation from hard study may have done
no particular harm to anyone. But when it came to a small but assiduous body of
some score persons who sat reading fiction
from noon to noon, from noon to dewy
eve, monopolizing as many seats, which might have served for five times as many genuine students who would want the use of the room for an hour or two in the course of the day, the matter became serious but efficient action was prompted.
Creditable score was made by each of the offenders; though, of course, the numbers of novels devoured per man varied. The best man, or worst, was easily with thirty novels a week, or five per diem. A humorous. Careful statistics showed that a very
The use of works of fiction less than five years old was forbidden; and the novel-
reader fled in disgust.

THE LUSITANIA.

(Pittsburg Dispatch.)
The failure of that floating palace of the Canard Line, the Lusitania, to distance all records on her maiden voyage has excited anew the argument between champions of the turbine and of the reciprocating engine respectively. The public can properly take part in the dispute so far as to say that the single voyage of the Lusitania
is not a fair test in any sense of the word
of the powers of this wonderful creation.
The Lusitania fell short only about three groups of the record of the Deutschland,
but the latter had been churning the waves of old ocean for practically a whole year before a combination of waves, winds and weather enabled her to grasp the laurel. The Lusitania is nearly twice the size of the Deutschland. Her crew is more than a half larger. The officers of this vessel had only about forty-eight hours in which to try her out before undertaking
the maiden trip. Much of the machinery was new to them. The weather was not homogeneous. The weather was decidedly unfavorable. Fog beset much of the voyage, and all who have gone down to the sea even once in a fog, which enwraps
all things, know that such conditions
mean slow time.
The wonder is that in such circumstances
the new craft could make the amazing record she did. The antagonists of the turbine may wisely wait till the Lusitania gets well warmed to her work, and for conditions which somewhat nearly approach those which enabled the Deutsch-
land to make her fast time.YOU SHOULD KNOW
OF THIS RECIPESaid to Relieve Rheumatism, and Anyone Can Mix It at Home.Cut this out and put in some safe
place, for it is valuable and worth more than anything else in the world
if you should have an attack of rheumatism or bladder trouble or any derangement of the kidneys whatever.The prescription is simple, and can be made up by anyone at home. The ingredients can be had at any good prescription pharmacy and all that is necessary is to shake them well in a bottle.Here it is: Fluid extract dandelion,
one-half ounce; compound Kargon,
one ounce; compound syrup of sarsaparilla, three ounces.
Take a teaspoonful after each meal
and at bedtime. A few doses is said to relieve almost any case of bladder trouble, frequent urination, pain, and scalding, weakness and backache, pain
above the kidneys, etc. It is now claimed to be the method of curing chronic rheumatism, because of its direct and positive action upon the eliminating tissues of the kidneys. It cleanses these sponge-like organs and gives them life and power to sift and strain the poisonous waste matter and uric acid from the blood relieving the worst forms of rheumatism and kidney and bladder troubles. The extract dandelion acts upon the stomach,
liver and is used also extensively for relieving constipation and indigestion. Compound sarsaparilla cleans and enriches the blood.As you or anyone of your family, especially the old folks, may be attacked at any time it would be wise to cut this out and save it.
A well-known local druggist is authority that this prescription is safe
to use at any time.

Mix it yourself.

SAW COSSACKS'
MURDEROUS WORKOdessa Refugee Tells Her Sad Story—Witnessed Killing
of Her Loved Ones.New York, Sept. 25.—Bearing yet
the scars of wounds dealt by Cossack
bayonets and with the terror of the massacre still in her eyes, Judia Kram-mer-Chaymowitz, a beautiful Jewess, has arrived here from Odessa and is now at the home of her mother, at
No. 249 Osborn street, Brooklyn.
Mrs. Chaymowitz saw her husband and two children murdered in their home during the massacre of Jews at Odessa seven months ago. She says that Jews are still being killed in numbers daily there and that the whole
province is upon the verge of revolution."The day of the great massacre was the most terrible I have ever seen even in Russia," said the refugee last night. "All day long my husband and I crouched in our home in Sredney Goasse, for early in the morning, a policeman had dropped a bomb in the Jewish section to inflame the Cossacks,
and we knew that the soldiers would accept any pretext for a massacre.
Finally they came, in hordes. My husband was shot while standing in front to protect me. Our seven-months-old Rachel was torn from my arms and pierced with an officer's sword. I fought for little Byrl, and they stabbed
me here in the neck and forehead before they snatched him away, too, and
cut off his head with a knife.
"They would have killed me, too, but I ran to the cellar, hiding there until the massacre was ended. Then they found me unconscious and carried me
to a hospital, where I lay until three weeks ago. Then from my window I saw five Jews killed in the streets, and that night I crept from the hospital
and, with the aid of friends, stole over the Russian frontier."

CANNERIES ON HALF TIME

Toronto, Sept. 25.—"The canning
industry, with the possible exception of tomatoes," said Mr. David Marshall, M.P. of Aylmer, to a reporter,
"will not be able to put out one-half their usual pack." All over the province
it is the same story of scarcity of fruits and short runs at the can-neries."The acreage of fruits and tomatoes
in Ontario is not at fault, as the usual amount of land was planted. But the crop has been light as a rule. Small fruits have not been a half crop in any section. Pears on the whole are less than half a crop, although between Toronto and Trenton the pear
and plum crop has been a very fair
one, I understand. Peaches are holding up to the big prices owing to the scarcity in the Niagara district.
Honeykeepers as well as the canneries
will be short on this fruit."It is expected that the tomato crop will yet be all right if the frost keeps off for a fortnight and we get good

A TRAINED NURSE

After Years of Experience, Advises Women in Regard to Their Health.

Mrs. Martha Pohlman of 55 Chester Avenue, New York, N. Y., is a graduate nurse from the Blockley Training School at Philadelphia, and for six years Chief Office Nurse at the Philadelphia Hospital, writes the letter printed below. She has the advantage of personal experience, besides her professional education and what she has to say may be absolutely relied upon.

Many other women are afflicted as she was. They can regain health in the same way. It is prudent to heed such advice from such a source.

Mrs. Pohlman writes: "I am firmly persuaded, after eight years of experience, with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, that it is the safest and best medicine for any suffering woman to use."

"Immediately after my marriage I found that my health began to fail me. I became weak and pale, with severe bearing-down pains, fearful backaches and frequent dizzy spells. The doctor prescribed for me and I did not improve. I would blot after eating and frequently become nauseated."

"I had pains down through my limbs so I could hardly walk. It was as bad as a case of female trouble as I have ever known. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, however, cured me within four months. Since that time I have had occasion to recommend it to a number of patients suffering from all forms of female difficulties, and I find that while it is considered unprofessional to recommend a patent medicine, I can honestly recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, for I have found that it cures female life, where all other medicine fails. It is a grand medicine for sick women."

"Money cannot buy such testimony as this—merit alone can produce such results, and the ablest specialists now agree that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the most universally successful remedy for all female diseases known to medicine."

When women are troubled with irregular, suppressed or painful periods, weakness, displacement or ulceration of the female organs, that bearing-down feeling, inflammation, backache, bloating (or flatulence), general debility, indigestion and nervous prostration, or are beset with such symptoms as dizziness, faintness, lassitude, excitability, irritability, nervousness, sleeplessness, melancholy, "all-gone" and "want-to-be-left-alone" feelings, blues and hopelessness, they should remember there is one tried and true remedy. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once removes such troubles.

No other female medicine in the world has received such widespread and unqualified endorsement.

The needless suffering of women from diseases peculiar to their sex is terrible to see. The money which they pay to doctors who do not help them is an enormous waste. The pain is cured and the money is saved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

It is well for women who are ill to write Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., The present Mrs. Pinkham is the daughter-in-law of Lydia E. Pinkham, her assistant for many years before her decease, and for twenty-five years since her advice has been freely given to sick women. In her great experience, which covers many years, she has probably had to deal with dozens of cases just like yours. Her advice is strictly confidential.

The White Cat

[BY GELETT BURGESS, AUTHOR OF "VIVETTE." Copyright by Bobbs-Merrill Company.]

"Yes!" Leah again repeated my whispered word.

"Are you listening?"

"Yes."

"Are you listening?" Why was he repeating the question?

"Are you listening?"

"Yes."

At this, I suspected a formula he might be using for some hypnotic suggestion. I whispered to Leah to say, "Yes, yes," faintly.

"Meet me at the station, sure. You will come alone. Good by!"

I hung up the receiver, pretty sure that he had not detected the deception. I went downstairs again, and as by 11 o'clock Edna had not returned to the house, I had no doubt that she had gone to the station of her own volition to meet the doctor. This was fortunate, as seeing her evidently in obedience to his suggestion, he might be less likely to question her about telephoning and thereby discover our ruse. I was, however, nervous at the prospect of meeting them. Leah could scarcely be kept if the trick were discovered; I should have hard work brazening it out myself.

At about noon I started down the north lane to meet them, and discover the state of affairs in time to let Leah know. Half way to the station, however, I happened to recall what Uncle Jerdon had told me about seeing the two, the day we had broken down in the automobile. I decided to hide and see what I could discover—in a word, to spy upon them. I was by this time in no mood to be nice about my choice of weapons, and I took the first one that came to hand.

I had not waited long before I heard voices approaching, and I concealed myself behind a clump of bushes to watch. I was too far away to hear distinctly, and in fact, they did very little talking—an occasional exclamation from her, and the doctor's nasal replies. My eyes told me more than my ears—enough to prove that, however Edna regarded me, the doctor also came in for considerable more of affectionate demonstration than I had suspected, and either he was not so conscientious as I had been, or he was actually in love with her. Their actions were those of acknowledged lovers. Why, then, had she flirted with me? Was her behavior now, perhaps, more pique caused by the jealousy I had aroused in the way I had spoken of Joy?

I went in as luncheon was served. Edna met me a little locally, the doctor for more so. I was decidedly uncomfortable at being now a guest in a house where I was, perhaps, not wanted, but I pretended not to notice anything amiss, and endured my position as well as I could. The doctor ignored my presence completely, addressing all his dull witticisms to Edna, who laughed at them as usual, doing her best, now and then, to drag me into the conversation. She could not keep any one mood for long, however, and before the end of the meal I flattered myself that she would after all prefer being with me alone; but the doctor's pop-eyes held her, and his interminable foolery kept her whole attention concentrated upon him, despite herself. Nothing at all was said about the telephoning.

Directly after luncheon was over the two went upstairs into the study, without even the formality of an apology to me. As Leah was busy about her own work, I strolled out into the kitchen to see King. He was washing the dishes, and greeted me with his customary cryptic grin.

"Say, King," I said, "you got a joss in your room?"

His grin grew wider. "Yep!" he ejaculated, nodding.

"You no Christian, then? You not go to Sunday school?"

"Aw, no good go to Sunday school—I can talk Melican all light. Christian joss no good for Chinaman. You think so?"

"I guess you're right," I said. "But do you worship your joss? You burn punkstick sometimes? You trim him up with paper flowers, maybe?"

He laughed to himself as if it were a great joke, but kept on washing his dishes like a machine. "You like see my joss?" he said, looking back over his shoulder. "Heap good joss—velly old. I bring him from China."

"What d'you pray for, King?"

"Aw, sometimes one thing, sometimes other thing. I pray for good luck, allee same Christian. You play, too?"

"Oh, sometimes," I said. "But go on, tell me, King. When do you pray? You pray today?"

He shook his head. "Aw, no; no play yet. Play all time at night."

"What did you ask for last night, then? Come on, tell me!"

"Aw, no, no!" He shook his head, but still laughing slyly.

"Money, King? I'll bet you prayed for money!"

"Aw, no, no! I tell you. I play for Miss Fielding."

I had stumbled upon a live wire! Instantly I was aroused, and careful to say no tactless word. What I had already got from him was an extraordinary amount for a Chinese of his caste to discover to a white man. So I went wittily to lead him on to tell me more.

"That's good, King; I pray for Miss Fielding, too. I want her to get well. Don't you."

"Yep. She good lady, you bet. Maybe she get well, I dunno."

"What you think the matter with her, King? I'm worried about her."

He emptied his dish water out, and wiped his hands first. Then he stopped suddenly and said:

"Miss Fielding, she got one no-good debbil on inside. You know? Sometime he heap bad, sometime he keep still. Plenty people have debbil in China; all time go pliest, he drive 'em away easy."

"The priest drives the devils away, King? How does he do it?"

"Oh, flighen debbil, that's all. Strike gong, burn fire crackers, make all time heap loud noise and debbil go away flighen."

"I wish Miss Fielding could be cured as easy as that, King!"

For the first time during the conversation his grin disappeared. He came up to me, gestulating.

"You like flighen away debbil? Maybe I help you sometime?"

"Could you do it?" I laughed.

"Sure! Aw! you no think so?" He returned to wipe his dishes philosophically. I smiled at his earnestness and walked away.

I sat down in the library to wait till the doctor came to walk to the station, as Uncle Jerdon was away, and I determined to have another talk with him if I could manage to see him alone. I had decided on a coup d'état.

In a half hour they reappeared. Edna showed traces of heaviness about her eyes, as if she had been asleep. The doctor looked at his watch

DESIGNED BY MARTHA DEAN.

6930—AN ACCEPTABLE NEGLIGEE MODEL.

A negligee that may be developed either as a wrapper or a dressing sack is sure to prove a desirable acquisition to the woman who elects to be her own dressmaker. The pretty wrapper shown in the illustration is of this practical order, the dressing sack development being shown in the small sketch. Tucks arranged to simulate box pleats dispose effectively of the fullness in front and back, while the well-shaped yoke insures perfect fitting at the neck and shoulders. The ribbon belt may be omitted if desired, and the wrapper allowed to flow in straight, unbroken lines from yoke to hem. French challs was used for making as pictured, but crepe, cashmere or flannel are equally suitable materials. For the medium size 3½ yards 36 inches wide, will be needed for the dressing sack, or 6½ yards of the same width for the wrapper.

6930—Six sizes, 32 to 42 inches bust measure.

and found that he had just time to walk to the train. I offered to accompany him, and though he appeared surprised, he assented with a good grace. Edna did not care to go with us. It seemed to me that she not only perceived the antagonism between the doctor and me, but fostered it for her own ends. It was as if we were fighting for her and she had decided to let the best man win. So we left her and started out.

I began as soon as we were round the turn of the lane.

"Dr. Coplin," I said, "I wish you'd let me know exactly what Miss Fielding's condition is, and what hopes you have for her recovery."

"Did she ask you to interrogate me?" he asked blandly.

"In a way, she did. But I do so, nevertheless, quite on my own responsibility, as a friend who is very much interested in her case."

"Then I must decline to answer. You are aware, I suppose, that Miss Fielding has had her own reasons for not wishing the matter to be discussed?"

"I'm perfectly aware of that, but I think that, as I now know all the essential facts, it can't possibly matter to her. On the other hand, I can help, perhaps."

"I didn't know you were a specialist in nervous diseases—or even a psychologist," he answered in a sneering tone.

"I am neither, but I have common sense enough to perceive that her trouble is approaching a crisis. That, in fact, is my sole justification for staying on here."

"Oh, if that's all, you can go any time. I'm quite able to cope with the situation, I assure you."

"Dr. Coplin, I insist upon having a statement of what you are doing in this matter. I speak as the representative of Miss Fielding—the real Miss Fielding."

He turned to me now with his thin lips drawn back, showing his even line of false teeth, in a cruel, selfish smile. "Insist?" he repeated.

"You have hardly that right, whatever Miss Fielding has said."

"I certainly do have that right!" I maintained.

He stopped in his tracks and confronted me. "Why?" he demanded.

The time had come for me to play my bluff.

"Because I am engaged to Miss Fielding!" I announced curtly.

He scowled fiercely. "You are!" he retorted. "Very well, then, I have as good a right to refuse to answer you."

It was my turn to say, "Why? What do you mean?"

"Because I am engaged to her myself. So there you are!" With that he walked off, leaving me standing, staring at him. I was literally bluffed to a standstill. I watched him striding down the lane in silence. I was in a labyrinth of thought. Then I turned slowly back toward the house and prepared for war. I should have to get it out of Edna, or give up and confess myself defeated.

As I walked up the lane I heard a rustling in the bushes, and peering through them, I saw Nokomis bounding along. Her ears laid back, her brush trailing. She leaped down the bank a little way ahead of me and stood for a moment, pointing in the direction of the house. I called her, but she only turned her fine head for a moment, and then trotted on up the lane. I followed after her leisurely, preparing for my cross-examination of Edna.

Just before I came to the turn, I heard a quick sharp yelp, and a woman's shrill cry. Then a shot rang out, echoing against the hillside. I ran round the bend at full speed.

There was Edna with a pistol smoking in her hand. In the path, in front of her, Nokomis lay dead. Leah, running up the house, had stopped behind Edna, and stood horror-stricken, afraid to move. It was like the scene of a play.

I strode up. "What's happened?" I demanded.

Edna dropped the pistol to her side and looked down at the collie angrily. "Nokomis tried to bite me," she said. "But she'll never try it again! I always thought she was dangerous."

"Give me that revolver!" I said sternly.

She met my look, shrinking a little, and handed over the weapon. I put it into my pocket. Leah retreated fearfully to the house.

First, I took Nokomis' body and carried it to a bed of ferns beside the path, patted her head and left her there till she could be buried. Then I took Edna's arm gently, and led her away. She told me, a little frightened now at the impressiveness of my manner, that she had met Nokomis suddenly, and attempting to drive her away, the collie had snapped viciously at her. Edna had the revolver which she had taken from Leah earlier in the day, still in her jacket pocket, and at the attack had drawn it and fired immediately.

I had no reproaches for her—what was there to say? Even in speaking, she had recovered from her mood, and she became as blithe and inconsequent as if nothing had happened—the only effect apparent upon her was a whimsical pettishness at my implied rebuke. She began to attempt to cajole me childishly, patting my hand, looking saucily up into my face and pretending a sort of arch depreciation of her temper. It was evident that she was not at all sorry for what she had done; in fact, she seemed to be secretly altogether pleased at her prowess, though she covered it with considerable guile.

All the rest of the afternoon she was in an excited frame of mind. She treated me with all her former comradeship, but I could see that she was acting. It gave me a new insight into the rapidity of her development effected by the doctor's infatuation. She was no longer a child; she was becoming complex, although still dominated by rapidly changing moods. A new phase had indubitably commenced; it was the sign, I feared, of a growing supremacy.

That evening she wheeled me with every art of the coquette. Her familiarity seemed to give the lie to the doctor's statement about their engagement, but it might well be true that she was playing him as audaciously as she was playing me. I did not, of course, ask her about it. It did not matter.

GOOD ADVICE TO INVESTORS

Put some of your money into the new gold fields of Larder Lake, Northern Ontario.

It is going to make more money for investors than any gold district ever before known in the history of gold mining. Don't wait or put it off another day. DO IT NOW. Every dollar you invest at the present time will return to you a hundredfold, buy and hold, follow our advice, buy shares of the HIGHLAND MARY GOLD MINES, LIMITED, of Larder Lake, at the present price, 10s per share. If you buy now at this price you can never be called upon to pay anything more, as the shares are fully paid and are forever non-assessable. The shares of Highland Mary will never sell for less than the present price, but every share you buy now will, we believe, eventually be worth a hundred times more.

Our previous advertisements have stated that the Highland Mary Gold Mines were situated at Larder Lake, the new gold fields of Northern Ontario, and consist of thirty well-located, forty-acre gold claims, 1,200 acres in all, located on the north-east arm of the Lake, in the same locality as the Dr. Reddick properties—The Proprietaries Gold Fields Company, the Lucky Boys and the Blue Bell Companies—and that there were no indebtedness or encumbrances; that many great gold-bearing veins were found on the property; that engineers and miners estimated that there were many thousands of tons of ore that would produce millions of dollars in gold available, and only waiting for the installation of the stamp mills that are to be installed.

We have also stated that when we advise investments in Highland Mary, and make the statements regarding that Company and the Larder Lake district, that we know what we are doing. We have been all Summer with our engineers and assayers in the Larder Lake Gold Fields, making thorough examinations; we have spent thousands of dollars in the last three months in this manner for the purpose of satisfying ourselves, beyond any doubt or question, that the Larder Lake district is what is claimed for it; and, further, we have spent this money and satisfied ourselves in order that we might not mislead our clients, who rely upon us and make investments through our advice.

We have done everything in the way of ascertaining facts that could be done or that could be desired of us by our clients. Our business is to select good, profitable investments that we can recommend without reservation. Thousands of letters from satisfied clients testify that our efforts are successful. That has been the principle and policy of the house of Law and Company for the past seventeen years. "Be sure you are right, then go ahead," has been our motto, and the results from the investments made by thousands of clients is a standing recommendation as to whether having followed this policy and motto has proven profitable to the investors.

We have heretofore made this statement, and we now make it again: Any investor who has invested money through Law and Company, since their house was established in 1890, through any misrepresentations or misstatements, can by making such fact known to us, receive the return of the amount invested, together with interest thereon. We have never been called upon to return a single dollar, and have never had such a claim made, and we do not believe there will be regarding any representation or statement made by us up to the present time. We know that we have always adhered to the truth and proclaimed the facts as we have found them.

Wire or Telephone orders at our expense. Prospectus, with full information, containing application blanks, mailed to any address.

Highland Mary Gold Mines, Limited, is capitalized at $3,000,000. Shares of the par value of $1.00 each, with 1,000,000 shares in the treasury for development purposes.

We probably do as large a business as any financial brokerage house in Canada. It is growing rapidly. Our responsibility and integrity in the business world is beyond reproach. Investors who have done business with us in the past have learned to rely absolutely upon our advice regarding investments in mining shares.

We were the first to offer shares in companies owning properties of established values in the Larder Lake district. At the very outset we placed our engineers and assayers in the field. We obtained exhaustive and reliable reports. We then came out boldly over our signatures and told the world what was there. Our advertisements told the world of the golden north, and predicted the great stampede which followed. World-famed mining engineers and mining experts of Europe and America have since visited the Larder Lake camp, and have not only confirmed the reports sent out by our own trustworthy engineers, but have endorsed all that we have claimed for Larder Lake, as to its present and future.

Take our advice and act quickly. Place all the money you can in shares of the Highland Mary. It is the best stock at the present time to buy. Do you ever consider that one hundred, five hundred, or one thousand dollars placed in a bank, at three to four per cent. interest per annum, must stay there something like twenty years to double itself, and even then would you have had any pleasure, enjoyment or luxury from it, or through its benefits? Certainly not, but perhaps someone else would. It might be invested over and over again by someone who would make many thousands of dollars through investing it in profitable undertakings. You certainly understand that no concern could afford to pay you interest unless they have the legitimate privilege of using it in order to make a profit over and above what would have to be paid to you for the use of it. If you have not thought of this, you should understand it now, and you should understand further that you could take your own money and make investments with it, in this the greatest of countries for profitable investments, and make as much money with it as anyone else could, and receive the pleasures, enjoyments and luxuries from the great profits therefrom, instead of the other fellow.

Put some money in the Highland Mary. You won't lose, you will make big money, and you won't be long doing it. One eminent engineer from London, who ought to know what he is talking about, says that Larder Lake mining shares will advance to a higher level than did the shares of gold companies in the Rand of South Africa, where some of them advanced to over $500.00 per share.

It has been estimated by engineers and mining experts who have visited Larder Lake, and have made conservative calculations that there is already ore that can be counted upon as available in the Larder Lake District, containing more value than the total capitalization of all the Larder Lake companies.

We say again, buy HIGHLAND MARY, and buy it quick, before the big advance that is sure to come.

had of God, and the remedies for the ills of this great big evil world. And he has the courage of his convictions, too. Both as a churchman and as a citizen, and as a Christian, he is a man who is not ashamed. You feel almost as if he can say with St. Paul, I am not ashamed, for I know whom I have believed in.

Fifth. Another thing about him is his very quick and his very keen sense of humor. Not only has he what Mr. Dooley called "A hair-trigger smile" (a very valuable thing for a minister or a politician if it is only genuine), but no one can talk to him for a minute or hear him without seeing that those blue eyes of his and those lips of his are just waiting to break out into a smile or a ripple of laughter. How heartily he laughs! How genuinely he enjoys a good story! How quick he is to see the humor of a thing, and to see the ridiculous side of a funny situation! We pity the minister of religion who has not a saving sense of humor.

Sixth. And then this, of course, is the most notorious of his characteristics. He strikes one as being a most brotherly, kind, tender-hearted, and lovable man. It was very touching after the service in the cathedral in London to see the number of poor women, who had known him and heard him in the old days in London, England, waiting just to see his face and have a touch of his hand. It was touching to see how the tears of deepest emotion broke from their eyes and coursed down their cheeks who saw the man who was their friend once again. It is said that one poor woman went to the bishop's house, and took with her a shilling that she gave him for the East London fund for the poor, and left with him a pair of ungainly-looking wooden stockings that she had knitted with her own hands, which the Bishop of London took, and is going to carry with him back to his palace in London.

Seventh. But above all, he struck one as being a man of God. As Dr. Ross, the Presbyterian pastor of St. Andrew's Church, said: "He is not only a man, but a saint." Yes, in the true sense of the New Testament, he is a saint, a man who has given up his heart and his life to the service of Jesus Christ. He loves men because he loves God, and if he can be written down as one who loves his fellowmen, it is because the love of God is shed abroad in his heart by the Holy Ghost given unto him. Could any man but a true Christian talk as he did to those businessmen at the Canadian Club luncheon, or would a body of businessmen take such talk, as he gave them, if it had not been that every man present knew that he was what he professed to be.

The last light that we in London, Canada, had of the Bishop of London, England, was as characteristic as amusing. As the train was moving out of the station on its journey to Aylmer a woman rushed up with a lot of parcels, a birdcage, and a little white puppy dog. Not perceiving who it was standing on the steps above her, she said in those peremptory tones that only a woman can use: "Here, here, take this, take this," as she held up the birdcage and the puppy. And the last vision that we in London had of the Right Honorable and the Right Reverend Arthur Foley Winnington Ingram, the latest, if not the greatest, of the lord bishops of London, the man who ranks with noblemen and has a seat by right in the House of Lords, and sits on the Privy Council of the King, was that of a kindly, smiling face with a twinkle of humor in the eye, as he hauled up the back steps of the railway carriage the little white puppy dog of a flustered woman.

Second. Not only so, but he strikes one also as being a very manly man. So far from being a weak, spectacled, white necktie cleric, almost feminine in tastes and weak in frame, he is a wiry, tough, strong, and impetuous man. No one ever dared more heroically than he to enter the abodes of disease and death when a person in Old London, and today enjoys more completely than he a game of cricket or football or other manly sport. No one is more thoroughly in sympathy with the great big, strong, athletic young man—a manly man in every sense of the word is he. As far distant from the weak, impractical, soft, ethereal, theological kind of a person as one can possibly imagine.

Third. In the next place the bishop struck one as being a very common-sense man. I think one of the most salient impressions left upon that representative body of the businessmen of London who punctuated his every sentence at the Canadian Club with such tremendous applause, was that this bishop in gaiters was a man after all, with a big bump of common-sense. And many a hard Scotch and shrewd Irish or English businessman felt that he just applied to religion those principles of common-sense that are needed in this great rushing, busy world. What a splendid agent for a political campaign he would make after all. What a touch of canny sense there was in that story he told about the atheists having the chair and the table for three-quarters of an hour, and giving him ten minutes for a reply, and then, when he got a chair and a table of his own to stand on, and then he had the three-quarters of an hour to reply. Fourth. He strikes one moreover of being a man of convictions. Yes. Of strong, deep, and intelligent convictions. He gives no uncertain sound with regard to his belief in the things

ABE HUMMEL SAID TO BE DYING Breakdown of Noted Criminal Lawyer Complete—His Protege's Story.

New York, Sept. 25.—The condition of "Abe" Hummel, once famous criminal lawyer, now occupant of a cot in the hospital ward of Blackwell's Island Penitentiary, was described by Miss Josephine Brown, of No. 204 West Ninety-fourth street, who has been a constant visitor to him since his incarceration.

"It is truly pathetic," said she, "to see a man of his ability lying there, helpless among a motley array of paupers, criminals and foreign people. He is wasted and worn, and it is my firm belief that he will not live many months longer."

"To think that Mr. Hummel, who was so virile and such a ceaseless worker, should be lying there under the gray prison blankets as helpless as a child, with none but strange people around him, makes my heart go out in sympathy toward him."

"When he first entered the hospital ward he was fighting against ill-health with the same sturdy determination that characterized his many bitter fights in the legal arena. Gradually the depressive atmosphere of his environment settled down upon him, and he felt its severity. Naturally of a frail constitution, the shock was more than he could withstand."

"I think it is a settled opinion among the doctors in the hospital that Mr. Hummel will not live out his term. He is growing weaker day by day, and seems to be unable to rally. He does not shrink from receiving visitors who, like myself, are his firm friends. He knows that we believe in his innocence, and are only awaiting the day until we can well-

CAPTURED OKAPI ALIVE IN AFRICA

The Shrinking, Timid Animal Could Not Thrive in the Presence of Man.

London, Sept. 24.—Lieut. Boyd Alexander told the Royal Geographical Society recently how he captured an okapi in Africa a year ago. The okapi is a variety of antelope, and is among the shyest of creatures—so shy that few African natives have ever seen it. A specimen was discovered by Sir Harry Johnston some years ago.

The okapi captured by Lieut. Alexander could not be taken to Europe. He was so timid and shrinking that it could not thrive in the presence of man, and then the difficulties of travel forbade its transportation. Its skin is now being mounted for the Natural History Museum of London.

Lieut. Alexander said that at Angu, on the Welle-Makua, he first heard of the okapi in that region. The party spent three weeks in the effort to obtain a specimen.

They found that its haunts are small streams running through swampy ground, where grows a plant some six feet high, whose young shoots, bunching at the top, are as essential part of the animal's food. Here it roams about, singly or in pairs, and the natives said that sometimes three are found together.

The natives added that they had very seldom seen the animal, and that statement was readily believed, for Capt. Goeling, though he had certain evidence on three occasions that he was near the animal, did not catch a glimpse of it, for it was perfectly concealed among the leaves. But three weeks of study revealed its habits well.

In the night the okapi wanders along in the mud and water in search of its food. Capt. Goeling found it feeding as late as 1 o'clock in the morning, but after this hour the animal retired to the seclusion of the forest, where it remains until daylight. Its spoor is found with that of the buffalo and water buck, and sometimes its companions are elephants, the buck and the yellow-backed duiker.

Owing to its restless nature and keen hearing, the thick foliage of the plant on which it feeds, and the perfect seclusion of its forest retreats, the natives say they are never able to kill the okapi with their weapons; it is almost impossible to track it, and the few specimens they have killed were trapped in pits.

Jose Lopez, a Portuguese collector in the employ of Lieut. Alexander, followed a solitary animal for three successive mornings in the neighborhood of a stream. He observed that on leaving the water the okapi always took the same course between two large trees about one hundred yards from the stream.

With the help of the natives he dug a pit four and a half feet deep between the trees and carefully concealed it with branches and leaves. Early the next morning he again approached the stream and heard the noise of the okapi as it rushed away. An instant later there was a crash and the little animal was struggling in the pit. The native assistants, lying in wait, at once secured it.

The natives say they know no other animal so mysterious as the okapi. In their opinion it is always on the move, and never lies down to sleep.

Lopez's observations seem to bear out this assertion. On every occasion when he heard it feeding it simply passed to take a leaf here and there, and then moved on again.

Dr. Ray Lankester is now examining all the skins and skulls of the okapi that have thus far been brought to Europe—about twenty. Nearly every specimen differs greatly from every other specimen. It is one of the most variable animals that have come under Dr. Lankester's observation.

At Big Athletic Light MeetTom Longboat Defeats Grant
Easily—Brock, of London, Defeats Haddleton.

Barring the weather, and the fact that through some slip or another in the arrangements half the fair crowd of men and boys present gained free access, the inaugural meet of the Irish-Canadian Athletic Association at Queen's Park last night was a success.

The ticket takers evidently took a little nap previous to going out to the park, for when they eventually arrived, some time after 8 o'clock, the grounds were half filled with people. One lone policeman then attempted to drive everybody out to have their tickets taken. Needless to say that he quit his job before it was half completed, and as a consequence the finances were not high enough to cause any undue flurry in local money markets.

Nothing better, however, could have been asked for in the athletic line than the card offered for the evening's fun. A great many of Canada's most famous athletes were on hand, as well as Haddleton, the Boston runner.

The track was in poor shape from the rain, and lights had been placed only in the stretch. However, an automobile equipped with searchlights was placed into service and the two gentlemen who handled the machine, which followed the runners on their journey around the track, had the pleasure of seeing what was doing on the back stretch, so what matters it if the spectators could only see the athletes when they struck the home stretch?

The match race between Dick Grant, the veteran St. Marys runner, and the famous Longboat was somewhat of a frost.

On the first lap the pair were even up. Then Grant began jockeying on the turn and the redskin became filled, with the result that he made good even to the veteran and rapidly increased his lead until at the finish he was over a quarter of a mile ahead. Lou Marsh, the clever Toronto sprinter, paced the runners in the couple of hundred yards of the race.

Kerr, of Hamilton, took all the sprint in easy fashion with Marsh, of Toronto, second best.

The Toronto contingent was handed a huge surprise package in the mile and half-mile in the person of Mel Brock, the local Y. M. C. A. boy, who finished second in both these events. In the latter race the London boy challenged Haddleton, of Boston, right to the finish line, where the latter won out by a foot. Hilton Green and Seller, of Toronto, also started, the former finishing third and the latter last.

The crowd naturally favored the local man and he was cheered to the echo for his grand effort. In the mile he furnished another surprise by trimming Haddleton for second place, in a whirlwind sprint in the stretch. There wasn't a foot separating the runners at the tape. The weight-throwing was also fairly contested, and honors were divided between Conn Walsh and Bowie, of Toronto.

Murnane Doesn't Fancy Athletics
In American League Race

Boston, Sept. 23.—Tim Murnane says: Two weeks remain of the American League season, with four clubs still in the race. What one of the western clubs will now show staying powers in the East, where the teams have improved until soft snaps are a thing of the past?

The Athletics are far from an ideal ball team, not to be confused with the three western clubs, which have made the race this season depending on the very best pitching staff in the business. The Athletics play their best games on the home ground, while long drives count double on the very small grounds.

I saw the Quakers play eight games last week and came to the conclusion that inside ball was not their long suit. In fact, I failed to note a clever move by the Athletics' players. The old style game from start to finish—bang away and take chances. Little bunting and less sacrifice work with the hit and run, their favorite play when at bat. Eight players out of the nine each day could hit; five of the men were long drivers, and in addition they have two of the best left hand pitchers in the business, Plank and Vaddell, and two clever right handers, Bender and Dygert. These men are on edge and Boston had the satisfaction of sending all but Eddie Plank to the stable.

Double-headers had the slab men guessing, but clever Connie Mack was always using his head to good advantage. I don't know what the Athletics would do without this delightful character. Never ruffled under the most trying circumstances, with a good word for all. The Athletics are fast for large men, but need warm weather for their best work, therefore making the Quakers a poor choice for the leading honors in the world series.

KICKERS' COLUMN

The Toronto News has a few spicy things to offer in the Rugby muddle. Here are a few samples:

Harvey Fulford.
Morely Walters.
Hal. Walters.
Arthur Moore.
Alf. Smith.
Ernie Russell.
Hamilton.

These are a few of the men whom the C. A. A. U. will be asked to reinstate if they sign that made-to-order declaration, in which the easterners decline to recognize the C. A. A. U., and which was drawn up by the representatives of the eastern clubs, and thrown at the C. A. A. U.

The latter had drawn up an affidavit which the easterners refused to sign because it committed them to an observance of C. A. A. U. rules, or, in other words, they would be violating Federation principles if they lived up to the C. A. A. U. constitution.

In short the easterners are dictating their own terms, but they will not be reinstated without a big fight. Frank Nelson and Mr. Grierson, of Ottawa, will offer stout opposition to any back-down on the part of the C. A. A. U., but the Argo influence on the registration committee appears to be strong enough to bring about the reinstatement of at least some of the men mentioned.

Hamilton, who is seeking reinstatement to play Rugby with Montreal, was outside home man for the Montreal N. L. U. team this season. Wonder if Charlie Querrie and some of the Tecumsehs would be whitewashed if they asked the C. A. A. U.? Ernie Russell played hockey with the Wanderers, Stanley cup winners, all last winter, and he also will take the affidavit drawn up at the dictation of the eastern clubs.

There will be a meeting of the executive of the O. R. F. U. at the King Edward Hotel tonight. Kingston is talking of entering a team in the intermediate series of the O. R. F. U. The Limestone played junior last year.

Peterboro will enter a junior as well as a senior team in the O. R. F. U. if there are any other teams in the district.

Wingham Horse Takes Third in Grand Circuit Races Yesterday

Columbus, Sept. 24.—No horse won as he pleased at today's grand circuit races, when twenty heats were trotted and paced, Alleen Wilson's mile, in 2:04 1/2, being the fastest of the lot.

This mare raked in the King stake for 2:06 paces after Dan Patch had captured the first two heats. The Patch mare hung on gamely in the third and fourth miles. The fifth heat was the easiest one of the race. Jenny W. was the favorite. Flying Jim took the fourth heat of the 2:13 pace that was started Monday handily, and then paced second to Pacemaker in the fifth heat. Judges declared all bets for that heat off and reserved further decision until later in the week.

Chine Bells, after getting the first heat of the 2:13 trot, acted badly in the next two miles, but came to in the fourth. Then she went on and won, nipping first from Gold Burr, and then Daffodil right at the end of the fourth and fifth heats. Gold Burr and Quintelle were the heavily-played candidates.

Alleen Wilson took the 2:06 race for pacers, with Dan Patch second, and Darkey Hal, a Wingham horse, third. It was necessary to split both the 2:18 pacing and 2:19 trotting fields. Leone, not figured as a contender by the bettors, won the first division of the pace cleverly, after Dr. Munson and Jerry Dillard, each took a heat.

Point Burglar, first choice in the second division, has two heats to his credit. Fannie P., and Idora had it out in the one mile, the first division trotters' event, the former winning by half a length.

Racing stars Wednesday at 10 a.m. Some time during the afternoon Dan Patch will endeavor to reduce his record, 1:55. On Thursday Major Delmar will start against the track record, 2:02.

London Horses Are Winners
On Eastern Racing Circuits

The Messrs. Morkin, of this city, have great reason to feel proud of the work of their two fast runners, Renaissance and La Thorpe, who have been racing over the eastern circuits with success for some time.

The two horses have jointly started in eight events, and of that number they have taken three firsts and five seconds.

Last Thursday, at Ottawa, Renaissance broke the track record for five-eighths of a mile by going the distance in 1:03.

"Tip" Welch, the local jockey is riding the Morkin horses, and is one of the most popular riders on the Canadian turf today.

Shrubb and Longboat
Cannot Run at Closed MeetPet Scheme of Garrison Men
Knocked on the Head—No Chance at All.

For some time the rumor has been persistently circulated by members of the Toronto Garrison Amateur Athletic Association that they would bring Alfred Shrubb, the English "pro", and Tom Longboat, of the I. C. A. C., together at a closed indoor meet, and run a mile and other "pro" ball players in closed events. Their argument is that if all the contestants are members of the militia, then they can bring them together without endangering the amateur status of any of the competitors.

"At a closed meet we can run everybody who is a bona fide member of the militia," the military men say. "Longboat is a member of the Army Medical Corps, and Shrubb is an English militia-man whose transfer will be arranged."

The Star interviewed President Stark of the Canadian Amateur Athletic Union, Mr. N. H. Crow, secretary, and Mr. James Morkin, of the registration committee, upon this matter.

"You can have a very decided and emphatic opinion upon that subject from me," remarked President Stark. "Nothing of the sort is permitted by the C. A. A. U. rules, and nothing of the sort will be countenanced for an instant. Amateurs and pros. cannot compete together for a prize of any sort or compete at a meeting, closed or otherwise, where a gate is taken."

"Absurd," remarked Mr. Herrick, "It cannot be done under any circumstances. If the Indian runs Shrubb any distance, anywhere, for anything, or any place where an admission is charged, his goose is cooked. There is no use trying to get that pair together unless Longboat turns professional or Shrubb and he meet and jump into their suits and take an impromptu run for honor's sake alone, and that won't come off, for Shrubb is after the coin, and—well, Tommy isn't so enthusiastic that he would risk his reputation with out training hard for such a race for honors, and Tommy, according to my idea, don't like work for work's sake. He likes to hear the plaudits of a crowd of enthusiasts. No, it won't do."

"I've searched the books high and low for any regulation which would justify the military men in their opinion, and I haven't yet been able to discover it," said Mr. Crow. "It don't exist. I am at a loss to know how the idea got abroad, but it certainly is a rise among military men. Pros. and amateurs can't race at any meet, unless the amateurs forfeit their amateur standing."

Lattimore a Much Drafted Man

Toledo, Ohio, Sept. 24.—"Bill" Lattimore, Toledo's star southpaw pitcher, is the most drafted man in baseball.

Every manager in the American and National Leagues put in a bid for the left-hander at the grand annual draft of the national commission, when the minor leagues are skinned of their best material by the big organizations.

Cleveland was lucky, and next season "Texas Bill" will perform for the Naps. Major league scouts looked over Manager Armour's yearlings this summer and several purchases were made.

OPENING GAME OF BOSTON SERIES
GOES TO JENNINGS' TIGERSDetroit Again Tie for First Place With Athletics—
Siever in Fine Form.

Boston, Mass., Sept. 24.—The Tigers, in one of the prettiest batting bees of the season, climbed back on even terms with the Athletics again this afternoon. Cy Young was given one of the worst trouncings that the old gentleman has received this year. The veteran, usually so effective against the pennant-chasers, was pounded all over the lot, while eight Tigers crossed the plate. Eddie Siever was in the box for Jennings' crew and pitched a pretty game during the early stages. With a safe lead piling up, the southpaw took things easy toward the close.

It was a case of clean, hard hitting, with few other features to the contest. The Beaneaters at times were ragged in their work, but they fought hard. The Tigers, aside from their fine hitting, showed the effects of their long lay off and were not at their best on the bases. In a fielding way, however, they were strong and steady.

O'Leary Stars at Short.

Charlie O'Leary pulled off several star plays around short, and with Captain Coughlin still out of it as a result of his badly-damaged thumb, Schaefer did some more neat work around the third sack. The game opened as though it were to be a pitchers' battle. Young had steam and curves, and while Eddie Siever was not at his best on the speed stuff, he had a splendid curve ball that puzzled the Beaneaters.

The Tigers started in the fourth round with two out. Tyrus Cobb, as usual, was the trouble maker. Davy Jones led off with a single. But Schaefer struck out and Dave had been nipped trying to pilfer the second sack.

"Here's the combination that never loses," howled Jennings, as Sammy Crawford trotted to the plate and Cobb began swinging his stick. Sam patiently waited for a good one, and as none came he was willing to first. Cobb nailed the one of his choice, and the drive went clean to right field just over Unglaub's head, a splendid hit. Crawford dashed home and the fleet Dixie diamond shot all the way to third and headed that sack. It was a good bluff. Hobe Ferris had just taken the relayed throw and turned quickly. He threw, but threw wide to third in his hurry.

There was no one to cover the sack and no one to back up the throw, so Cobb did his 10-second clip on to the plate. Rossman grounded to Wagner and the inning was over. But it was the lead that won the game. Siever retired the heavy hitters of the Boston club in order in their half of the fourth, and then the Tigers continued their tapping, right merrily.

Jerry Downs was the first time Jerry hit one of those big affairs in the right field that everyone goes after and nobody gets. Ferris tried hard, but the ball shot away from his glove as he was running his hardest, and Jerry made a two-base alarm. Freddie Payne followed with a walk to left and Jerry made the third. O'Leary followed with still another, and Downs crossed the plate.

Siever popped to Wagner, but Jones hit safely to left and Payne came home. Schaefer hit sharply to Ferris, who tossed to Wagner, getting Jones at second. Wagner tried to make a fast double play, and as Schaefer was using all his leg power in getting down to first, he hurried the play too much. The ball hit wide of Unglaub and before it could be recovered O'Leary also crossed the rubber.

Siever was still strong and steady in the fifth, and with the Beaneaters safely on their way to the field again the Tigers resumed their fun with the man they so seldom get a chance to take liberties with. Cobb bunted to third and got there safely. Then he proceeded to steal second, and made third on Shaw's bad throw to catch him. Rossman, up to second, brought in still another tally. Downs sacrificed, but Payne fouled to the catcher.

In their half of the sixth Jim McGuire's boys got their first hit. With two out, Denny Sullivan secured a base on balls and scored on singles by Parent and Barrett. Siever checked what might have been a rally by snatching Congalton's grounder. In the seventh the Tigers might have scored another but for some wild base running. O'Leary hit cleanly to left, Siever flied to Parent, and Jones grounded in the same man's direction, sending O'Leary to second. Schaefer walked, the fourth ball being a wild pitch. The game was coming home, when Schaefer sprinted for second, instead of just drawing the throw.

Tecumsehs Are Off For the Coast

Toronto, Sept. 24.—The Tecumsehs left Toronto last night in a special car on their trip to the Pacific Coast, and a couple of hours before their departure were tendered a farewell dinner by Mr. Phil Quinn, treasurer of the club, and Manager Charlie Querrie, on the pretty lawn of his residence, 36 Elm street.

The decorations were the red and white of the Tecumseh Club and the tables were waited on by the wives and sweethearts of the players.

Lawson Whitehead, who married an Orillia girl last week, was presented with a handsome mantel clock. Mr. Forsythe was given a gold-headed umbrella, and Tommy, and Forsythe presented the team with enough tobacco and cigars to keep them smoking all the way across the continent.

The team went and will return by way of Chicago. A week from today they play their first game on the coast, their opponents being the Pasadenians of Vancouver, and on the same day Vancouver first team and the New Westminster outfit which beat the All-Canadians will meet. The two losers will come together on Thursday, and the two winners on Saturday. The Indians are hopeful of winning the premier honors of the tournament. They are particularly anxious to run the Pasadenians, who are the pride of the coast, and considered by the fans out there that way to be superior to anything in the east. A game may also be played at Minneapolis or St. Paul on the return trip, while a date has already been made for an engagement in Chicago.

DIAMOND GLINTS

Hooley for Cy Young! Here's a star salman who's not too cheery to give credit to the man behind the bat. As a rule, the twirler thinks he's the whole thing, and the average tomfool manager encourages him in that belief, while the way fandom goes crazy over him is enough to turn any player's head. But the good old sport with the big mitt counts a whole lot in the battery, and it's up to the intelligent pitcher to give him full recognition. Therefore, it is truly refreshing to hear so great a curvologist as "Old Cy" come to the front with praise for the backstop.

"Oh, yes, it's all well enough," Cy says, "to talk about 'Old Cy,' big Addie Joss and the Rubes, and Christy Mathewson, and Eddie Plank, and the rest of us so-called pitchers who are occasionally credited with winning a ball game, but what would any of us be without a brainy, hustling, watchful catcher back there behind the bat? I am not finding fault with the catchers we had in Boston last year. They worked hard all the time and did the best they could, but they lacked experience, as all other young catchers do. I pitched about my usual game, but old Louie Criger wasn't back there to help me over the hard places."

COLUMBUS PITCHER
BADLY INJURED

Toronto, Sept. 24.—Pitcher Upp, the star of the Columbus team, was hit over the heart by a batted ball at Diamond Park today and seriously injured.

The ball struck with terrific force and Upp dropped to the ground writhing in agony. He shortly after became unconscious and it was five minutes before he was revived. On his recovery he was removed to his hotel.

Upp was the mainstay of the Columbus team in the series, with Toronto, which opens tomorrow for the Class A championship.

Upp will not be able to take part in any of the series on the local diamond and it is doubtful if he will be able to pitch at Columbus.

He was hit by a pitched ball in the same place about a week ago.

SHRUBB A JOKER

Toronto, Sept. 24.—Alfred Shrubb, at the inaugural banquet of the new British Athletic Association last night issued a challenge to Tom Longboat to meet him in a 10-mile relay race.

Bully boy! Shrubb, Tommy Longboat is, and will remain, an amateur, and Sherring is out of the game. Why don't you challenge Mercury, Deerfoot, and the Soldier, who first ran the Grecian Marathon course?

Gibbons--Osler Nuptials

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Toronto, Sept. 25.—A very fashionable wedding took place here at St. Simon's Church this afternoon at 3 o'clock, when Miss Mary Elizabeth Lamond Osler, youngest daughter of Mr. Edmund B. Osler, M.P., was married to Mr. George Sutton Gibbons, son of Mr. Geo. C. Gibbons, K.C., of London, Ont.

Rev. Provost Macklin, Rev. Prof. Clark and Rev. E. C. Carley, performed the interesting ceremony.

The church was most tastefully decorated with palms and flowers for the occasion.

Messrs. George Cassels, J. Counsell, H. Harris, S. Fellows and William Hardy, jun., were ushering the guests.

Mr. Harrison, organist and choir-master of the church, played Soderstrom's Swedish Wedding March, Waulke's Jubilant March, Besovet's Chant du Matin and a selection from Lohengrin.

The bridal music from Lohengrin was played as the bride and her attendants entered the church.

Mr. Allen Magee was best man. During the service, soft music was played, the surplined choir singing an Anglican chant, Deus Misereatur, and the hymn, "O Perfect Love."

Master Clarence Quarrington, the boy soprano, sang a solo, "O Welcome be the Call."

The bride with her maid of honor, Miss Julia Carley, and the bridesmaids, Miss Kathleen Harley, of Kingston;

Miss Helen Davidson, Miss Marjorie Gibbons, of London; Miss Marion Gwynne, of Dundalk, and Miss Dinnan Meredith, of a charming family.

Maid of honor and bridesmaids were dressed in gowns of pale blue chiffon cloth into which were woven bands of blue satin. The dresses were made in princess empire effect, belted a little above the waist and fastened with knotted rosettes of blue ribbon. On the shoulders knotted rosettes looped back the blue bodices from chemisettes, and ruffled elbow sleeves of net and flit lace. Tunic skirts of satin-banded cloth were draped high over underskirts whose deep flouncings of ribbon-trimmed blue chiffon rested all around an inch or two on the ground. Large round hats of white taffeta, bound with a deep band of pale blue satin and trimmed with fringed triple frills of three shades of blue taffeta were worn with these and bouquets of yellow roses were carried.

The bride's gown was in princess empire effect of soft ivory liberty satin, three wide panels of baby Irish lace and flit lace forming in front graceful unbroken lines from the tiny yoke of tucked white tulle to the hem of the beautiful gown. The long empire train was entirely of this exquisite lace and the short loose upper sleeve a continuation of the lace and arm panel of lace. A veil with wreath of orange blossoms was worn with this beautiful costume and a bouquet of mauve orchids and maidenhair fern completed it.

Later in the day Mr. and Mrs. Gibbons left for their honeymoon trip, the bride wearing a suit of gray cheviot.

MRS. McDERMID ABOUT TO RETIRE

From the Presidency of the Women's Christian Temperance Union.

The Woman's Christian Temperance Union held its last meeting in Somerset Hall on Tuesday, 24th. After opening exercises, etc., the fair work and its results were discussed.

Word was received from Mrs. Ashplant, the very energetic and popular superintendent of that work, that while, owing to the rain and other drawbacks, such as the very high price of provisions, they had not realized so great a profit as in some former years, they had as a result of their labor a nice little sum to their credit.

As Mrs. Ashplant was not present the ladies spoke freely concerning her excellent management, agreeing that if she were there, owing to her modesty, they could not so readily voice their admiration.

The Rev. E. B. Lancelley, of Dundas Center Methodist Church, addressed the members present, taking as the subject of his discourse, "Mothers, as exemplified in the mother of Zebedee's children." This poor woman has for ages ordinarily been so roundly abused it was a great pleasure to hear her for once tenderly appreciated, as the mother of two sons, who even among his disciples, were honored by extra favor shown them by the Master.

The treasurer's report was presented, and some other business attended to, and then the ladies heard with regret the announcement from the president, Mrs. McDermid, of her forced retirement from office at the end of the year, on account of her failing health.

The meeting closed as usual with prayer.

The water commissioners will meet this afternoon at 5 o'clock. Nothing of very great importance will be discussed.

Mr. Gillean Resigns. Mr. Harold Gillean has resigned his position with the Sovereign Bank of Canada, and has returned to his home in this city.

Horse Recovered. Detective Nickle this morning recovered a horse and rig in a local hotel stable which was stolen from George Jacques, of Woodstock, on Friday. The property was returned to the owner today.

Late Mary Calhoun. The funeral of the late Mary Calhoun which took place from her late residence, lot 6, con. 3 of Delaware, to Delaware Cemetery was largely attended. Six nephews of deceased acted as pallbearers.

The Last Call. On account of the cold weather it has been decided not to hold a band concert in Victoria Park tonight. It is also announced that the remaining concerts will in all likelihood be held in the armories.

School Opened. St. George's school was opened yesterday, and there are now twelve rooms in operation. A large number of pupils are in attendance. The other four rooms are rapidly approaching completion.

A New Parsonage. Plans are being prepared by Messrs. McBride & Farncombe for the erection of a handsome new parsonage in connection with the mission on Richmond street north. The building will be a story-and-a-half, and will be nicely fitted up.

Mr. Archer's Condition. Mr. H. B. Archer, president of the local Trades and Labor Council, is but slowly recovering from the effects of the bad fall he sustained when he broke his leg. It was found that the fracture had not been properly set, and it was broken again and reset the other day.

Will Invite Kipling. Mr. Rudyard Kipling who is on his way to Canada has been invited by wireless to address Canadian Clubs at both Ottawa and Toronto. He is at present in the ocean. An effort will be made to get him to visit the Canadian Club in London when he visits Canada, and the committee are in correspondence with Toronto on the subject.

Rifle Meeting. The annual meeting of the Seventh Regiment Rifle Association will be held this evening at the armories. The annual report will be read. The association has had a most successful year, and have distributed about $600 in prizes. They set a good example in the treasury, about $20 more than last year. The election of officers will also be held. All the members are asked to be present.

Government Contracts. The following Ontario Government contracts have been awarded: Registry office at Sault Ste. Marie, J. R. Scullard; the Soo registry office at Port Arthur, W. E. White & Co. of that town; hot water heating at Gore Bay Jail, Fred Smith, Gore Bay; farm house at Woodstock Hospital for Epileptics, M. G. Morrison and D. Quinn, Thamesford; a site at the same hospital, Nagle & Mills, Ingersoll; barn at the London Asylum, Hyatt Bros., London.

Soudan Missions. Superintendent Galloway of Toronto, who has charge of the Interior Soudan mission work in the city, and will conduct a series of meetings in behalf of the mission.

On Sunday next Mr. Galloway will speak on Sunday morning at the Christian Workers' Church, on Sunday at Talbot Street Baptist Church, and on Tuesday evening at a meeting to be held at Mrs. T. B. Escott's.

Mail Man's Troubles. The mail collector on the Dundas street route has a grudge against the Dundas street pavement, as it has put three horses of his out of commission lately. He has to go 3 1/2 miles on this route every time he collects, he says, make 32 stops, and do it all in 40 minutes. The horses can

Will Invite Kipling. Mr. Rudyard Kipling who is on his way to Canada has been invited by wireless to address Canadian Clubs at both Ottawa and Toronto. He is at present in the ocean. An effort will be made to get him to visit the Canadian Club in London when he visits Canada, and the committee are in correspondence with Toronto on the subject.

Rifle Meeting. The annual meeting of the Seventh Regiment Rifle Association will be held this evening at the armories. The annual report will be read. The association has had a most successful year, and have distributed about $600 in prizes. They set a good example in the treasury, about $20 more than last year. The election of officers will also be held. All the members are asked to be present.

Government Contracts. The following Ontario Government contracts have been awarded: Registry office at Sault Ste. Marie, J. R. Scullard; the Soo registry office at Port Arthur, W. E. White & Co. of that town; hot water heating at Gore Bay Jail, Fred Smith, Gore Bay; farm house at Woodstock Hospital for Epileptics, M. G. Morrison and D. Quinn, Thamesford; a site at the same hospital, Nagle & Mills, Ingersoll; barn at the London Asylum, Hyatt Bros., London.

Soudan Missions. Superintendent Galloway of Toronto, who has charge of the Interior Soudan mission work in the city, and will conduct a series of meetings in behalf of the mission.

On Sunday next Mr. Galloway will speak on Sunday morning at the Christian Workers' Church, on Sunday at Talbot Street Baptist Church, and on Tuesday evening at a meeting to be held at Mrs. T. B. Escott's.

Mail Man's Troubles. The mail collector on the Dundas street route has a grudge against the Dundas street pavement, as it has put three horses of his out of commission lately. He has to go 3 1/2 miles on this route every time he collects, he says, make 32 stops, and do it all in 40 minutes. The horses can

Friction Between Dr. Merchant And Principal of the Model School

secret meetings of the board of education are again being held, two meetings of this nature being held lately. There has been considerable friction for some time between Dr. Merchant, principal of the Normal School, and Principal Wallis, of the Simcoe street school, where the normalists are trained.

Some time ago Dr. Merchant explained to the chairman of the board that the discipline of the school was bad, and in many ways the work was very unsatisfactory. The matter was brought to the attention of the board, and it was discussed at a secret meeting held in Chairman Fitzgerald's office. Here the difficulty was threshed out in the presence of the two principals, and a very considerable effort was put forth to settle the trouble.

Principal Wallis was not anxious for a change, as he considered it would hurt his reputation considerably.

Dr. Merchant was anxious to improve conditions, as the present arrangements were not at all satisfactory to himself or the students of the Normal.

It was said that he intended appealing to the department of education in case the matter was not arranged. The second meeting was held the other day, at which Inspector Edwards was present. The matter was further discussed, and the board decided to retain the services of Principal Wallis for the time being at least.

Refused To Talk. Dr. Merchant, Principal Wallis and Inspector Edwards were all seen by The Advertiser reporter this morning, but all declined to discuss the question. "I do not understand the report I saw in the paper," said Principal Wallis, "but I do not care to talk about it at all."

"I have nothing to say," declared Dr. Merchant. He was further pressed to make a statement, but declined to say anything.

"I refuse to discuss it," said Inspector Edwards.

Chairman Fitzgerald of the board was also seen. He said that the board had held the two meetings, and had discussed the question. The matter had come to the notice of the board, and as he did not think that it was the wisest thing to hold an open session, an informal meeting was held in his office. The difficulty was largely due to a misunderstanding, and he thought that it had been amicably arranged with no difficulty. The matter had been settled. No committees had been appointed to interview the Minister of Education, and his name had not entered into the discussion.

Will Make No Change. A committee, consisting of Chairman Fitzgerald, Trustees Graham, McCormick and Weekes, was appointed to wait on Dr. Merchant and inform him that the board would make no change in the principalship of the Simcoe street school.

So the matter rests. It is not thought, however, that the trouble is over with. Dr. Merchant had intended appealing to the department of education, if the board of education did not act in the matter, it was stated, and may yet do so. It is alleged that Principal Wallis will be quietly moved to some other school as soon as the matter can be arranged.

Principal McRoberts is Dr. Merchant's choice for the position, and as Mr. McRoberts is a prime favorite with the board, and an excellent teacher, his transfer to the Simcoe street school may be arranged, but not until after the model term ends at Christmas. Principal Wallis will be put in charge of the Aberdeen school, if this plan goes through.

Debentures Are a Drug on Market

Debentures seem to be a drug on the market, as several cities have debentures for sale and cannot even obtain a bid. These debentures bear a good rate of interest, but it is impossible to get a market for them. The chief sufferers in this respect at present are the western cities. Winnipeg in particular, although Ottawa has a million dollar issue for sale. London has no debentures for sale at this moment. Berlin and Windsor in Western Ontario are the only cities having debentures for sale.

A partial list of them is as follows: Edmonton $500,000 Regina 500,000 Vancouver 500,000 Winnipeg 3,000,000

Saskatoon 250,000 Prince Albert 200,000 Hamilton 200,000 Ottawa 1,000,000 Halifax 500,000 Quebec 350,000 Westmount 500,000 Moosejaw 100,000 Medicine Hat 50,000 Calgary 100,000 Windsor 75,000 St. Catharines 50,000

This is only a part of the debentures authorized by the various municipalities and it is estimated that the minor municipalities of Ontario have upwards of $1,500,000 of debentures for sale.

DEATH OF JOHN MERCER

Well-Known Painter of London Has Passed Away.

The death occurred yesterday morning in his residence, 10 York street, of Mr. John Mercer, one of the best-known residents of this city. Deceased, who was a painter by trade, had resided here for over 50 years. He was 62 years old, and is survived by four sons and one daughter, Robert of the Dominion Express Company; John, of Michigan; Earl and George, of this city, and Miss Emily, at home. Mr. James Mercer, of Forward avenue, West London, is a brother.

The funeral takes place on Thursday afternoon to Woodland Cemetery.

SAVED BY NURSES

Amasa Wood Hospital at St. Thomas Was on Fire.

[Special to The Advertiser.] St. Thomas, Sept. 25.—A serious fire was narrowly averted at the Amasa Wood Hospital at 4 o'clock this morning, but the nurses formed themselves into a bucket brigade and put out the flames before they had secured much headway. How the blaze started is a mystery.

By the time the city firemen arrived, they having been telephoned for, the blaze was under control. The patients were kept ignorant of what was going on.

A pretty home ceremony took place this morning at the residence of Mrs. H. Carrie, 551 Queen's avenue, when her youngest daughter, Rachel, was united in marriage with Mr. Melvin Marlatt, of St. Louis, Mo. The bride and groom were attended by the bride's cousin, Rev. J. S. Carrie, B.A., of Rothsay. After a dainty luncheon had been partaken of, Mr. and Mrs. Marlatt left for Chicago, en route to Colorado Springs, where the honeymoon will be spent. If going away the bride wore a handsome tailored suit of brown broadcloth, with hat to match, a Dresden silk waist, and ostrich feather boa. Numerous beautiful gifts were received by the bride, including a grand piano, the gift of the groom, Mr. and Mrs. Marlatt are followed by the best wishes of many friends in London. They will be at home in St. Louis after Dec. 1.

New Offices Opened. The closing of an exclusive five-year contract between the Canadian Express Company and the newly-constructed Windsor, Essex and Lake Shore Rapid Railway, has paved the way for the giving of transportation facilities never before enjoyed by the people who live along the line of the new road. The road, which is an electric one with the latest modern equipment for speed and express facilities, runs between Windsor and Leamington, making connections with all trains out of and into Windsor on the G. T. R. The Canadian Express Company has installed new offices at all the prominent places along the line, which include Maldenstone, North Ridge, Essex, Cottam, Kingsville and Ruthven. The new road at present is not running quite as far as Leamington, but it is expected that through service will be maintained after Dec. 1. It is also reported that within a year the road will be pushed through to Blenheim, which will give it connection with the Chatham, Wallaceburg and Lake Erie Road.

Early Winter Weather. Duluth, Minn., Sept. 25.—Snow fell over the Lake Superior region yesterday. There was a considerable snow storm over the Vermilion Iron range. Similar reports come in from towns along the south shore as far as Ishpeming and Marquette.

Highway Robbery. A Man Held Up Near Ridgetown, and Relieved of $30.

[Special to The Advertiser.] St. Thomas, Sept. 25.—A daring holdup occurred at Ridgetown early last night. A Mr. Ingram was met by three men, who went through him and relieved him of over $30 in cash.

Later, in company with the chief constable, Ingram got on the trail of the men, and the two were captured. Both were young men, one giving the name of Cully, of St. Thomas. Chief of Police Armstrong was communicated with here, and at once concluded that Cully is a man named Fred McCully wanted here for a hold-up on the market square some time ago.

Detective Heenan, of the M. C. R., will go to Ridgetown to identify the man, and if he proves to be McCully he will have to answer both charges.

Ontario Railway Surplus. Toronto, Sept. 25.—Ontario's railway, Temiskaming and Northern Ontario, ends the first half-year with a net surplus of $122,528. Of this, $117,633 came from railway management, and $14,895 from royalties on ore. There was a surplus for June of $38,718.

HIDES, SKINS AND TALLOW. TORONTO.

Toronto, Sept. 24.—Hides—The market appears to be weaker still. The large sales which were made during the past week were all at concession prices from present quotations. Canadian tanners are buying next to nothing, and the only market for dealers is with tanners in the United States, who in their turn are unable to place orders in England, owing to the weak leather market. Canadian dealers are not letting the benefit of the usual export rebate. Country hides are weaker.

Tallow is a little weaker. Quotations: No. 1, 28c to 30c; No. 2, 27c to 28c; No. 3, 26c to 27c; No. 4, 25c to 26c; No. 5, 24c to 25c; No. 6, 23c to 24c; No. 7, 22c to 23c; No. 8, 21c to 22c; No. 9, 20c to 21c; No. 10, 19c to 20c; No. 11, 18c to 19c; No. 12, 17c to 18c; No. 13, 16c to 17c; No. 14, 15c to 16c; No. 15, 14c to 15c; No. 16, 13c to 14c; No. 17, 12c to 13c; No. 18, 11c to 12c; No. 19, 10c to 11c; No. 20, 9c to 10c; No. 21, 8c to 9c; No. 22, 7c to 8c; No. 23, 6c to 7c; No. 24, 5c to 6c; No. 25, 4c to 5c; No. 26, 3c to 4c; No. 27, 2c to 3c; No. 28, 1c to 2c; No. 29, 0c to 1c; No. 30, 0c to 1c.

Plucky Farmer.

Thomas Dunn, a prominent East

Zorra farmer, when in Woodstock

Saturday night, had the misfortune to break his leg. He was alighting from his rig at Hastings' wood yard when

his foot slipped, and in falling, his leg got caught in the spokes. The result was a fracture. He drove himself to a doctor's office, had the break

set, and then drove home without assistance.

The Biggest Fish.

The biggest fish of the season, and

undoubtedly one of the largest ever taken out of the Thames, was caught

by a young lad by the name of Mc-

Kinney, of Ingersoll. It was a pike,

which measured 39 inches in length,

and weighed 13 pounds 1 ounce. Had not a companion gone to his assistance

it is doubtful if young McKinney

would have been able to land the monster.

Remembered Mr. Radcliffe.

The teachers and students of the College Institute yesterday afternoon

remembered Mr. S. J. Radcliffe, the retiring principal of the Collegiate,

with a very handsome club bag as an appreciation of his services. Vice-

Principal R. A. Little, on behalf of the staff, and pupils, made the presentation. He expressed the regret felt by all in losing Mr. Radcliffe. Mr.

Radcliffe replied briefly, in which he thanked them for their kindness in

remembering him, and wished them

all great success.

A Londoner's Success.

Mr. George Morehead, formerly of this city, is now managing Broad-

hurst & Currie's dramatic company,

which is presenting the western drama entitled, "Texas," in the principal

American cities. Mr. Morehead recently made a dramatization of Tol-stoy's famous novel "Anna Karenina,"

and at the first presentation of the play in New York city last week his work won the applause of the public and the commendation of the metropolitan critics. It is now being played at the Fifth Avenue Theater, New York, and Mr. Morehead hopes to have his dramatic work presented in his native city at an early date.

Niagara Power.

The Hamilton Spectator says: Hon.

Adam Beck assured Mayor Stewart

that the hydro-electric power commission would have its work completed,

so that Hamilton could submit the contract to the ratepayers by or before Jan. 1 next. Mr. Beck denied the story about the differences of opinion

in the cabinet on the subject, and said

that everything was progressing satisfactorily. He promised to send an engineer to prepare some estimates required by the board of works.

the silver championship cup and 21

prize ribbons. Of the ten prizes awarded the single male bird, the entire half was won by Mr. Martin. This is an exceedingly fine showing.

NEW SHOE FACTORYFOR AYLMER, ONTARIO*St. Louis Man Makes an Offer to Es-*tablish a Plant.

Aylmer, Sept. 25.—The following circular, signed by the mayor, was received yesterday and was greeted by the council chamber being filled to overflowing: "I will esteem it a favor

if you can attend a public meeting

at the town hall tonight at 8 o'clock,

as Mr. Brandon, of St. Louis, Mo.,

is here, and will take up the question

of the forming of a new shoe company to be located in Aylmer. Will you kindly be present and bring any other interested parties, as the meeting is a public one."

The object of the meeting was to get the ratepayers to sanction the proposed new company about the same privileges as those enjoyed by the present Laidlaw-Watson Shoe

Company (formerly of London). Mr.

Brandon, who is at present superintendent of the Brown Shoe Company,

of St. Louis, was present to lay his proposition before the gathering.

His proposition is to form a joint stock company capitalized at $30,000,

$15,000 of which is to be paid up, and

of which he is willing to take 51 per cent, leaving 49 per cent, or $7,350, to be subscribed and paid up by shareholders. This amount is to be raised

among the citizens of Aylmer, the other $15,000 stock to remain as treasury stock, to be sold as the directors

see fit, and as the business requires

more paid-up capital.

Comisements

"The Gay Mr. Dooley," a new farce

comedy of exceptional merit, will be the attraction at the Grand next Saturday, matinee and evening. Few of the so-called farces have met with the

genuine approval that has been accorded this new play, since its initial opening. The droll comedian, Harry

LeRance, is the chief funmaker, and he is supported by a company of comedians, singers and dancers, that are all well-known favorites. Of the many delightful features in Mr. Dooley is the many song numbers and ensembles. A popular price matinee for the ladies and children will be given.
