

HUN ATTEMPTS TO FOMENT AN IRISH REBELLION ARE BARED
Uprising in 1917 Frustrated by Entry of U.S. Into War

A Statement From Official Press Bureau Reviews the Situation From Outset of War; Establishment of German Sub Bases in Ireland Was Planned

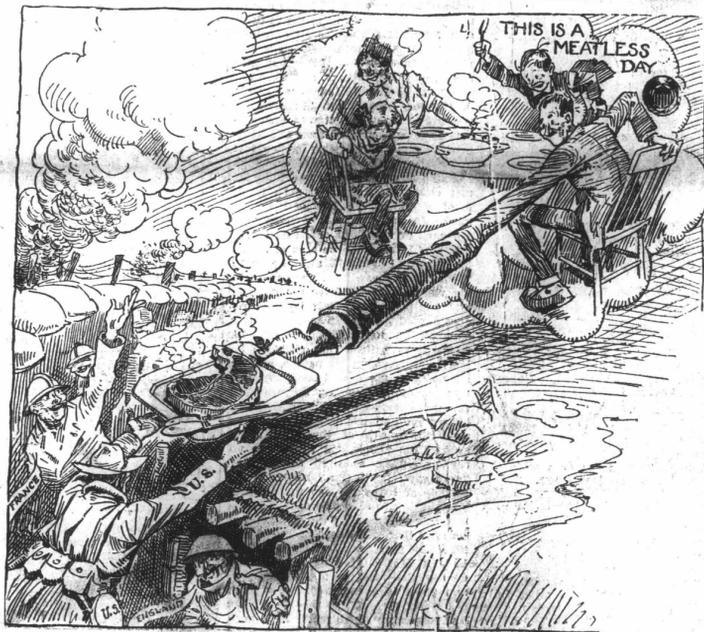

By Courier Leased Wire.

LONDON, May 25.—(Via Reuter's Limited).—Germany's untiring efforts to foment revolution in Ireland, with the aid of the Sinn Fein, are laid bare in a statement from the official press bureau, reviewing this phase of the Irish political situation since the beginning of the war.

After the abortive rebellion of Easter week, 1916, plans were made for a revolt in 1917, but this miscarried because of America's entry into the war, and Germany's inability to send troops to Ireland. An uprising in Ireland was planned for this year, after the German offensive in the west had been successful, and when Great Britain presumably would be stripped of troops.

Concerning the recent arrests in Ireland, the statement says that facts and documents, for obvious reasons cannot be disclosed at this time, nor can the means of communication between Germany and Ireland.

One phase of every plan called for the establishment of submarine bases in Ireland. In the present circumstances, it is added, no other course was open to the government "if useless bloodshed was to be avoided and its duties to the Allies fulfilled, but to intern the authors and abettors of this criminal intrigue."

INDUSTRIAL LEAGUE PARADE AND FIELD DAY, RECORD BUSTER

Celebration of 24th Was the Most Successful City Has Known in Many Years—Street Parade Drew Large Crowds, and Attendance at Park Broke Records

It was surely a glorious 24th. It is years since Brantford witnessed such a Victoria Day celebration. The day was full of events but the afternoon was given almost entirely to the Brantford Industrial Recreation League.

Thousands crowded the streets to witness one of the best parades ever seen here, and thousands more assembled at agricultural park.

Patriotic Colors Parade. One who watched the parade could not but help notice the patriotism displayed in the floats.

At Agricultural Park. Course, racing enthusiasts would say the cycle races were the event of the afternoon. Others not caring for the speedy events would claim the inter-factory competition and other events more interesting.

Forecast. Moderate to fresh east to south and southwest winds, occasional showers or thunderstorms to-day and on Sunday with fair intervals.

NURSE GIVES HER LIFE.

As recorded in The Courier Thursday, Nursing Sister Katharine Maedonald was killed on May 19, Sunday last. Word to this effect has been received by her mother, Mrs. M. M. Macdonald, 165 Market street.

Born and educated here, Miss Macdonald was a graduate nurse of Early in the war became attached to the military barracks hospital staff there.

When it is noted that the proceeds from the meet will go to benefit the Brant Sanitarium it will be understood that thanks are due to Messrs. Mosley and Dr. F. Thompson of the Y. M. C. A., A. F. Wicks and a hard-working committee from representative factories.

WINNIPEG'S BIG STRIKE ENDS WHEN AGREEMENT IS REACHED

City Council and Striking Employees Adjust Differences and Work is Resumed Only After Three Strenuous Meetings Have Been Held--Concessions on Both Sides.

By Courier Leased Wire.

WINNIPEG, May 25.—Following three special meetings of the city council yesterday, the trouble between the city and the civic departments—firemen, waterworks, electricians and teamsters—seems to have been practically settled.

1—Striking Employees to be reinstated under wage schedule already agreed upon by city council's special committee and representatives of civic employees.

2—Negotiations on all future disputes and provision for conciliation and arbitration by board of enquiry.

3—No strikes pending the report from such board of enquiry.

4—Union acknowledgement that a strike by firemen is undesirable, and a statement in the agreement that it should be resorted to "only in case of extreme provocation."

5—Officers of the fire brigade not to be eligible for membership in unions.

While the trouble between the city council and its employees was practically settled, the sympathetic strikers situation is not yet cleaned up. The agreement reached with the council, of course, refers to civic employees, so the big problem of the strike now is to get all the sympathetic strikers back in their old jobs and under exactly the conditions existing before they went out in sympathy with the striking civic employees.

In an effort to accomplish this, a mass meeting of Labor Representatives and Employers is to be held at ten o'clock this morning, when the demand that all striking employees be reinstated without prejudice will be put forward by the Labor Committee.

COUNTY COUNCIL VOTED FOR TOLL ROAD PURCHASE

Rural Members Did Not See Eye to Eye on Question of City's Contribution, But Purchase Was Authorized; Police Court May be Removed to Court House

The purchase of the Paris and Cockshutt toll roads, as ratified by the City Council on Monday night last, was endorsed by the County Council at a special meeting on Thursday night, although a surprising lack of unanimity was evidenced.

Some members opposed the purchase of the roads at the present time and price; others felt that the city should contribute a larger percentage of the price, and still others that the city should also bear in the maintenance of the roads.

The question whether the roads were to be maintained as county highways or placed in the suburban area, also gave rise to discussion. The Council promised to consider a proposal laid before them by Mayor MacBride and a deputation from the city, to have the police court removed to the county building, the present station being declared unfit for human habitation.

The purchase of the roads is not yet an accomplished fact, members of the committee in charge of the question point out, for the various townships concerned must yet be approached before final negotiations can be entered upon, and there is an admitted possibility that Paris may balk at paying more than $150,000, whereas it is asked for in excess of $170,000.

Warden Pitts briefly explained the purpose of the meeting, after which the clerk read a letter from the Brantford-Paris Road Company, offering the road at a price of $80,000, and one from the Brantford and Oakland road, setting out a sum of $35,000.00 for that highway, payable in debentures.

The Clerk also read the resolution passed by the City Council on Monday last, agreeing to pay 25 per cent of the purchase price named above. This resolution contained a clause that the city shall be called upon to pay no portion of the cost of the upkeep of the roads, and that the latter shall be maintained as county roads.

Mr. McCann inquired whether the townships involved must bear the

MEXICO AND CUBA BREAK

MEXICO CITY, Friday, May 24. — Bulletin. — Mexico has severed diplomatic relations with Cuba. This was learned officially late today after a report that Mexico charge d'affaires at Havana, and the Cuban minister here had been recalled from their respective posts had been confirmed at the foreign office.

The Cuban minister to Mexico, Dr. Ezsequiel Garcia Enzat, has not arrived in Mexico City, having been appointed only recently. During the interval, Dr. Luis Santa Maria y Calvo has been acting as charge.

It was reported recently that he would leave for Cuba on a vacation, and would return with the new minister.

BOWLING SEASON OPENED

Weather Man Gave Local Enthusiasts a Fine Start For the Season

The enthusiasm for the good old game of bowls has not slackened as was evidenced by some fifty members who participated yesterday in the opening of the Pastime Bowling Green. The green was in excellent condition, in fact the best it has ever been since its inception, and a good season's sport is assured.

The Dufferin Club opening was a decided success considering the many counter attractions. The tennis courts were in excellent condition for fast play, and were thoroughly appreciated by the numerous players in forenoon and afternoon games.

The bowling green was opened at 2 p.m. by a short address from President O. Morris, after which rinks were chosen by the president and vice-president. The former team won out by 11 shots.

With the Heathers. The annual opening of the Heathers Bowling club was held yesterday morning under ideal weather conditions. The usual game between the president and vice-president was played, the latter being victorious with a score of 77 against 49.

PARIS GIRL DEAD FROM POISONING

Mrs. Irene Cochrane, One of Several Who Thus Lost Their Lives

From Our Own Correspondent. Paris, May 24th.—News has been received in town of a most tragic event that recently occurred in Yelm, Washington, in which a former Paris young lady and two or three others lost their lives. It seems that Mrs. Irene Cochrane (nee Irene Cowherd), a niece of Mr. Edgar E. Hicks of Paris was moving from Seattle to Yelm with her husband and two little sons. A friend there, named Mrs. Cranens had prepared a dinner for them and other eatables she had some Swiss chard canned by herself the previous fall. Shortly after partaking of same all who had eaten were taken very sick and in spite of the best medical aid Mrs. Cochrane, Mrs. Cranens, who prepared the meal, as also her 16 year old son, died, while Mr. Cranens' case was considered hopeless, when the news was sent to Paris. The little 3 year old son of Mrs. Cochrane was in a dangerous condition, his tongue and limbs being seemingly paralyzed. The medical men think that the deaths occurred from potato poisoning. The late Mrs. Cochrane was born and educated here, was in her 27th year and leaves a husband and two little sons, 4 and 3 years old.

WHEN THE STOMACH IS WRONG LIFE SEEMS TO BE A BURDEN

Indigestion Comes With a Debilitated and Run-down Condition of the System and Can Be Cured Through Enriching the Blood

There are many symptoms of indigestion, such as acute pain after eating, belching of wind, nausea and vomiting, bloating and pains in the region of the heart, a dread of food for the misery it causes. Dieting and the use of pre-digested foods may give ease, but can't cure—they only further weaken the stomach. The work of digestion depends upon the blood and the nerves, and the only way to cure indigestion is through a course of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which renew the blood, strengthen the nerves and enable the stomach to do its work with ease and comfort. Neglected indigestion means prolonged misery, and a more difficult cure. If you have any of the symptoms of this trouble try the tonic treatment with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills at once, and you will be gratified with the results.

APETITE FAILED. Mr. Daniel Dexter, Liverpool, N.S. says: "For years I was a great sufferer from indigestion. I was troubled with gas on the stomach which caused disagreeable sensations. I was also frequently troubled with nausea and vomiting, which were very distressing. As a result of my trouble my appetite almost completely failed, and what I did eat caused me constant pain. I was continually doctoring, but did not get any benefit, and had about made up my mind that I would suffer for life. One day a friend asked me why I did not try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and while I had not much hope of a cure I decided to do so. I had only taken a few boxes, however, when I found they were helping me. Very gladly then I continued the use of the pills, and in less than three months I was as well as ever I had been, able to eat a hearty meal, and to feel that life was again worth living. I had also been troubled from time to time with attacks of rheumatism, and the use of the pills cured this as well as the indigestion. It is now over a year since I took the pills, and in that time I have had no return of the trouble."

If you are suffering from any form of stomach trouble, or any of the many ailments due to weak, watery blood, do not waste time and money experimenting with other remedies, but begin Dr. Williams' Pink Pills at once. These Pills have proved a cure in thousands of cases, and should do so in yours. SIDELIGHTS AT OTTAWA

H. F. Gadsby's Weekly Letter From the Capital; The Aftermath of the Farmers' Pilgrimage to Ottawa

Ottawa, May 23. The farmers' pilgrimage to Ottawa leaves a ripple or two behind. For instance, there is the reflection that this is the first Government in fifty years that has had the courage to handle the farmer like an ordinary human being, subject to the same burdens and obligations as the people who live in cities. Because agriculture is a basic industry of this country and also because the politicians wanted the agricultural vote, the farmer has escaped lightly for many years.

Rightly or wrongly there has grown up in the city the impression that the farmer is as much responsible for the high cost of living as the middleman, that he has done very well indeed out of the war, that he ought to "come across" more generously. True, he pays taxes via the tariff, to the Dominion Treasury, but so does everybody else. His township taxes are light, but his contributions to the Patriotic and Red Cross funds do not make a deep hole in his pocket, and altogether he gets off with a very small share of the white man's burden as compared with the city man who is burdened with the city man's own kind and another, besides paying heavy realty taxes, and two income taxes, one to the municipality, and one to the Government at Ottawa.

The farmer complains that he has not a taxable income, but the farmer's arithmetic fails to take account of many things that run away with incomes in the city—food, for instance, which is regarded by him as the bounty of nature to his own family but as dollars and cents to the consumer in the city. It is on the cards that some day the vexed question of the farmer's assessable income will be settled by the simple device of taxing him on his capital investment and the surplus he has stocked away in the bank. Of course this sounds like heresy because the farmer has been so long accustomed to see everything coming in and nothing going out that he is liable to make a boller when confronted by real taxes. So far as taxing the farmer is concerned we are like grand opera in Scotland "Just in our infancy."

Another grievance of the farmer is the duty on agricultural implements. The argument is that the tools of his trade are taxed but for that matter so are the tools of everybody's trade. This pencil that I write with and the paper that I write on—the tools of my trade—are taxed but as long as I can sell my product I do not complain because a lead pencil costs me five cents, when it might cost me three. It's the market that makes people happy and the farmer has more markets and better ones right now than he ever had before.

Many of the farmers who spent two days in Ottawa at a time when they would have been more profitably employed on their farms went home wiser and more cheerful men when they had listened to Sir Robert Borden's words. The Premier, no more than any other statesman in this country, desires to take men away from their peaceful occupations and send them to the battlefields of Europe, where it happens, the great struggle is in progress which is to make not only Europe but the whole world safe for democracy. What sweetness, one may ask, would there be in the toll of men habituated to free institutions, if they had to goose-step to the tune the Hun plays? There is no breach of faith—no broken promise. As the crisis tightens from day to day we realize that our one inviolable pledge is to win the war by whatever means we can. Our allegiance is to the democracy that we have painfully won in a thousand years, and if we would not lose it we must not stand on the letter of promises made when the conditions were different. Production was the word a few months ago—man-power is the need to-day. The only true consistency is with the present.

It is reasonable to suppose that many of the visiting farmers went home with a new light on their duty to the State. As a matter of fact, the Government can undertake to say that this or that class of the community will be immune from the flesh and blood sacrifice which this horrible war demands. For example, Quebec thought that no government would ever lay its hands on her. Well, the government did and after one wild spasm of anger, Quebec has settled down to her duty and is going about it willingly, and even cheerfully. Similarly, the farmers have been thinking that the Government has done its best—but cruel circumstances ran away with the Government's intentions and now it is up to the farmer to make his sacrifice at least as willingly as Quebec makes hers. It is a safe guess that not a single soul in this democratic country is inherently in favor of conscription, but needs must when the devil drives. It goes without saying that conscription involves many hardships—only sons taken, sole supports killed in battle, but these hardships are the daily lot of city people who have given their loved ones to the cause and no one believes that the farmer will lag behind other Christians in love of the country that has made him happy and prosperous. He will see his duty and he will do it without grumbling.

The farmers did not, as some contend, meet with a rebuff at Ottawa. What they met with was a plain, honest statement by Premier Borden of our war needs and the drastic measures necessary to keep the old flag flying at the front. Canada cannot afford to yield in patriotism to the United States, which country does not believe that its democracy is threatened by extending selective conscription to farmers' sons. Union Government did not issue its edict lightly. In fact the Government was strongly opposed to interfering with the farmer at all and it was only the explicit revelations of the military authorities that finally swung Cabinet opinion the other way.

A great deal has been said about the Government's refusal to allow the farmers to pursue their grievance on the floor of the House. The House of Samuel Gompers is cited. The Labor King was accorded the privilege of addressing the House but his case is not on all fours with that of the farmers. King Samuel came with a message of good will and inspiration—a pull-all-together speech—he aired no grievances save those against the Hun. What the farmers wanted was to hold a post-mortem on a grievance that had buried some hours before. If all the objections to conscription were given a hearing on the floor of the House, the King's business would be months behind instead of weeks ahead as it is in this short sharp win-the-war session. The idea is to win the war first and thresh out the grievances afterwards.

The farmers can hardly have failed to notice that if Union Government chastened with its left hand it blessed with its right. The near future we are to have Government-owned railways, operated for service, for reasonable dividends to the investors, and not for the swollen fortunes of railway managers. Some day other C.P.R. may be absorbed by the Government. Railways should have a good effect in checking loose business management simply because railways are public property. Ultimately the farmer should reap the benefit of Government ownership of railways in reduced freight rates, and the consumer in the reduced cost of living.

Mr. Arthur Hawkes tells the farmers that our fine Canadian constitution has been undermined. Mr. Hawkes worries a great deal over our constitution—sits up at nights with it, moans in his sleep, and shows other signs of disturbance. But really our constitution is in no great danger. The reformers have taken the wine out of our tonic, and the Food Controller has cut out the beer, but we are having a pretty good dose of iron and iron to make up for it. After the war our constitution will be stronger than ever. What an appetite we will have for constructive legislation! We will be as hungry as a fat man after an attack of typhoid fever.

H. F. GADSBY. The U. S. Senate Military committee has gone on record unanimously in favor of an increase of 3,000,000 men to the American army. The G. T. R. stationmen's trouble is settled, the parties having come to an agreement about wages as well as conditions of work.

Margaret Garrett's Husband

By JANE PHELPS CHAPTER LXIII. Another Western Trip Bob had been west again and he and John Kendall were discussing his trip in the library. As usual I sat in the living room, and through the open door caught snatches of their conversation. John was talking when my interest became aroused by something he said about a woman.

"I shall never forget the first time I saw her," he said, "I met her at a social affair something as you did," he remarked to Bob. "I thought her very beautiful." "She is beautiful," Bob replied slowly, but it is not entirely her physical beauty which attracts me, she seems to radiate a spiritual beauty, a beauty of soul as well as body. Her personality is wonderful. She is the most restful, and at the same time the most entertaining woman I have ever met—"A perfect companion," he added, after a moment.

"Better be careful, Bob. I should label her 'dangerous' after that description." "She would be dangerous and more—here I missed a sentence, but I owe allegiance to Margaret." "Many husbands forget"—again I lost part of John's reply. "I think her very talented, she will do great things—some day," it was Bob who spoke, but because he talked of her as talented, I judged all that had gone before bore only reference to her as an authoress. I had heard Bob disclaim any other interest in her—at least I had so understood the conversation, and he had spoken of his allegiance to me. So I gave my entire attention to some intricate embroidery I was doing, only wishing that John Kendall would go so that I might have Bob to myself.

It may perhaps be hard to understand my viewpoint. Yet I honestly believe there are many women who feel the same proprietary right in their husbands that I did; who want to manage their lives according to the rules they lay down for them regardless of personality or temperament. Occasionally I had felt that perhaps Elsie was right in her estimate of Bob. That he was of a different temperament than I had thought when I married him. He would become so excited when he talked to John Kendall or his other friends. Sometimes he would pace up and down while he gesticulated nervously. His imagination would at times run riot in a way that I with my quieter, colder temperament could not follow. But usually I blamed his excitement upon the people he was with, their influence, instead of upon him.

I see now that I was deliberately trying to crush out all personality all originality my husband possessed. But at the time I thought I was entirely justified in all that I did. As I look back upon those years again my boys were born the only comfort I gleam is that I was honest in the stand I took; honest, if mistaken. It had been a very disappointing winter for me and I had not hesitated to express myself to Bob. Surely I thought a wife has a right to express her displeasure over things in her husband's conduct of which she disapproves. But Bob called it nagging, and while he conceded that I did not nag for the things which caused many women to make complaint, he claimed that to be nagged because he omitted to assure me constantly of his love and because he preferred the society of congenial friends to sitting alone with me, was as bad, or worse.

Bob was at this time as kind as indulgent as ever. But he seemed nervous, and was very irritable. This was always more noticeable after one of his western trips; and consequently I was the more opposed to his business venture with John Kendall.

Latest British Official

London, May 25.—The German artillery was increasingly active last night on the westerly side of the Lys salient in Flanders, in the neighborhood of Strazeele, the war office announced today. The district east of Bethune was again subjected to a gas bombardment. The British captured numerous prisoners and two machine guns in raiding operations. The text of the statement reads: "Last night our troops entered the enemy's trenches in the neighborhood of Hamel, north of Albert, and captured over 40 prisoners and two machine guns. A successful raid was carried out by us north of Lens, resulting in the capture of a few prisoners by our troops.

The hostile artillery was active yesterday evening with gas shells east of Bethune. During the night it has shown increased activity in the Strazeele sector.

CRICKET SEASON OPENED

The Brantford Cricket Club opened up the season yesterday in fine weather, with a match with the Hamilton C.C. The match commenced at 11:15 a.m., Brantford winning the toss, batted first. Brantford was short several of their regular players, only eight being on hand, but got men off the field to play.

The batting was nothing to be desired and only practice will remedy this. G. Whitwell, the old standby, did himself and his team proud, not only making ten runs, but he was the first to bat and saw all the remainder of the team dispatched before he retired out. The Hamilton team were superior in batting and undoubtedly deserved credit for their runs. Corporal Stitt made 30 runs, although he had as many flies as the proverbial cat. Had the Brantford players been up to pitch he would certainly have retired earlier than he did. The bowling was fair, but needs much improvement. Brantford scored 28 runs in the first innings and Hamilton 83. Brantford added 80 in the second and the visitors were obliged to leave to catch their car, before completing their innings. A return engagement may be played shortly.

Rumor Denied

Havana, May 25.—The report that Mexico has severed diplomatic relations with Cuba could not be confirmed here early today. In official circles last night it was stated that there was absolutely no foundation for such a report. The Mexican charge d'affaires left Havana yesterday for Mexico City, but visited President Menocal before leaving.

Several days ago there were rumors that relations between Mexico and Cuba were strained. These rumors presumably were based upon the Fabela incident. A message of felicitation from President Carranza to President Menocal on the occasion of the sixteenth anniversary of Cuba's independence on May 20 apparently served to discredit the rumors.

On April 20 baggage belonging to Ysidro Fabela, Mexican minister to Argentina, was stolen from an employe of the Mexican legation in Havana while he was taking it to a vessel on which Fabela was to sail for South America. Two days afterwards the baggage was returned.

THE ROYAL AND ANCIENT
The golf season throughout the Dominion, sets into the full swing May 24th, and reports from all parts of Canada are to the effect that the game was everywhere on a record start. There is not a course a golfer of military age who is in anyway physically fit. It is to swing a club, but the places of the three thousand odd players who are in khaki have been more than repaid by the other four years have taken up with the game. It is a conservative estimate to-day in the Dominion, that there are over a million golfers and every year sees several thousand converts to the sport. There's a reason. In the words of the "Medical Journal," it is the ideal recreation for old and young alike, the ideal exercise for overworked and overwrought business men and women.

The absence of municipal golf links in the two largest cities in Canada is one of the anomalies of the modern age, and is frequently most adversely commented upon not only by the residents of these cities, but by visitors from more progressive centres, who cannot understand why the civic authorities are so short-sighted as not to provide the "frank and tile" of their taxpayers with the opportunity to enjoy the most health-giving game of all games. Montreal and Toronto are both bigger than Buffalo which has too, at present a population of nearly 200,000, yet the Bison City for years has had a 9-hole public course and a year or so ago, so great was the attendance of players that it was found necessary to extend the links to 18 holes. Toledo with only a population of 250,000, has two public golf courses, and to-day there is hardly a city of any importance in the United States that does not provide its citizens with facilities for playing golf.

To the everlasting credit of the West, it has set the East an enviable example in this respect. Edmonton, Calgary, Saskatoon, Winnipeg and Lethbridge, with a progressive spirit that is most commendable, have successful public golf courses. Can it be that Montreal, Toronto, Ottawa, London and other rich and popular centres in the East are too easily swayed in their municipal sipping and cheese-paring to provide proper play-grounds for the "workman", whether in factory or warehouse, at the bench or at the desk, who is not in a position to belong to an expensive Country Club, but who is none the less entitled to his facilities too, of enjoying and participating in the great gospel of the Open Air, Sun, Shine and Recreation? The effect, East should "huck up" and "play the game" in the same public spirit, in a manner as the wide-awake West should by any chance know the whereabouts of the former well-known professional, Willie Dunn, by communicating with the Sporting Editor of this paper. His relatives in England, are anxious to see findings of him. It was reported that Dunn had some overseas with a machine gun Battalion, but as he is past the military age, this is hardly probable. He was a visitor at several links last season, in Ontario, but since then has "drapped out" of "Willie". In his younger days, he was one of the most noted players of his time, and knew a lot too, about laying out a golf course. He was a friend to everyone but his "oneself", and did much in the "early days" to put the "love of golf" into the hearts of hundreds of pupils in Canada and the United States.

Every golfer knows the irritating "putter" who potters about the links and looks at his ball and the holes from this angle and that, and fesses and fumes about, keeping everyone on tenter hooks and delaying the game generally. Cut the practice out starting with the beginning of the season. Sergeant Francis Oulmet is one of the world's par putters. His philosophy on putting green is this: "Your first judgment is generally the best. Hit the ball then, and you either hole it or don't. But why bother either way."

Mr. "Chick" Evans, the United States open and amateur champion, has gathered together all the leading amateurs and pros, in the States, not forgetting the leading women exponents of the game, and has mapped out a most ambitious programme of Red Cross exhibition games this season, to be conducted from one end of the country to the other. The first of the series, recently was staged at French Lick Springs, and the record sum of $15,000 was raised as a result of the game. Our good cousins and Allies to the South of us, always did like to "hick" creation, and judging from this French Lick game they are certainly bound to do it this year, so far as exhibition golf matches are concerned. Lambton, Toronto, last season, hoisted the patriotic giving flag pretty high when in one day its members and friends contributed over $3,500. In Great Britain, exhibition golf matches have often realized $4,000 to $5,000, but if Mr. Evans and his confederates continue to keep up the slashing pace they set at French Lick Springs, '18's will witness the observation of the statisticians, raised literally hundreds of thousands of dollars on the U. S. golf links for patriotic purposes.

And how was this $15,000 odd secured at French Lick, to help "hick" the Germans? Largely by the sale of the balls and clubs used by the players, which were bought by enthusiasts for $500 and more apiece and then auctioned off again and again. Mr. Evans also sold six lessons for $300, whilst the pros too, contributed liberally at a big round figure per hour.

By the way, in an article on the Red Cross programme on the links this season, the U.S. champion hands out a big bouquet to Canada. He refers to the fact that two years ago, on the invitation of the Misses Cutton of Guelph, Ont., he went to the Royal City and with the Canadian Amateur champion, Mr. George S. Lyon, played there in the first Red Cross golf match ever run off on this continent. The following day they played in Toronto. It was from these matches that he got the inspiration, when the U. S. jumped into the war, to inaugurate patriotic matches in his own country. So from the little seed sown in Guelph two seasons ago, a big golf-giving harvest in the States will be reaped this year.

Hungarians Hate Huns.
An English business man who arrived at Berne a few days ago from Hungary informs me that he received nothing but good treatment during his enforced residence in that country. He was allowed at least as much food as anyone else and complete personal liberty, and was even permitted to keep his sporting gun. His feeling, which at the beginning was very bitter against England owing to the belief that she caused the war, is now entirely diverted to Germany. Hungarians complain that when the Germans entered Hungary to attack Roumania they stole every furniture, horses, and carriages, and removed the booty by train. As for supplies, almost anything may be secret print shop, the discovery of which it announced the week before, had been producing counterfeit bread stamps and bread books for Berlin as well as for Bielefeld. The counterfeiters had their den in one of the suburbs of Bielefeld, and they did business, according to the Anzeiger, on a considerable scale. "The great number of bread cards which have now been discovered have brought the bread supply of Berlin to the point of danger. Many bakeries are already swamped with counterfeit stamps, especially those in the northern part of the city. One counterfeiter printed bread cards for six weeks at a time, and for the third week of this year alone he printed 46,000 cards. These cards were sold at 3 and 4 marks apiece."

Negro in Belgian Colors.
A coal-black negro, a citizen of the Belgian Congo, dressed completely in red, propelling a push cart painted yellow, may be seen on the boulevards of Brussels, says Libre Belgique, the Belgian newspaper which the Germans have been unable to suppress. The negro is selling shoe polish. Belgians who still possess shoes take great pleasure in buying from the negro. He is doing a rushing business and will probably continue to do so until it filters through the German's thick cranium that the quality of the shoe polish is not the reason for the negro's popularity with purchasers but because as he perambulates down the boulevards his black visage, red costume and yellow cart represent a living Belgian flag. Then it will be the "Kommandantur" and the cool shade of St. Giles' prison for the black, red and yellow man.

"MADAME JEALOUSY"

In speaking of her newest Paramount photoplay, "Madame Jealousy," which is to appear at the Brant Theatre on Thursday, Friday and Saturday Pauline Frederick recently said: "It is perhaps a little incongruous for one who is portraying the very spirit of jealousy to dissertate upon its evil effects, yet I feel that there may be some one who will misunderstand my attitude on the subject and I wish to make it perfectly clear that I regard jealousy as the most devastating, obnoxious form of evil to which the human being is subject. Throughout the entire picture Director Robert Vignola and I as well as the clever players who appeared with me, have endeavored to drive home this lesson. The breaking up of the charming love affair of the two average, happy young people, Valor and Charm and the subsequent misery—all caused by jealousy and its servants, Treachery, Mischief and Rumor, tells a tale of its own. The production is artistic in the extreme and is the first allegorical production in which I have ever appeared. The scenes in "The House of the Heavy Hours" (the home of Jealousy) and again in "The Garden of Delight" are especially charming and I feel sure that "Madame Jealousy" will please my many friends all over the country."

"THE WIDOW'S MIGHT."

The popular feminine impersonator, Julian Eltinge, is to be seen in his latest Paramount picture, "The Widow's Might" at the Brant Theatre on Mon., Tues., Wed. This is a fascinating story written especially for Mr. Eltinge by Marjau Fairfax and directed by William C. McMillen. Mr. Eltinge is again given the opportunity to display his famous wardrobe of feminine finery and his talents as a female impersonator.

The story is that of a young New Yorker who decides to dabble in ranching and narrowly misses being robbed by a notorious crook. How he succeeds in rolling the designs of this gentleman through the disguise of a woman, how the girl gets him into lots of trouble, how she loves him, but how he at length wins out and saves both his girl and the ranch, makes a story of fun and adventure throughout.

THE SOUL OF SATAN.

Gladys Brockwell will be seen at the Rex the first of next week in "The Soul of Satan."

Miriam Lee (Gladys Brockwell) has been raised in the slums without the care of a mother. Since earliest life, she herself has mothered her brother and sister and even her father, who had felt severely the loss of his youthful wife.

Into Miriam's life comes Joe Valdez. Years gone by he had lived in a western mining camp and had left that place only at the point of a gun. When Joe had admitted eloping with Jim Carter's wife, the town had discovered his true self and forced him to leave. In the years which followed, Jim Carter's one aim in life was to find Joe and bring him to justice.

Joe is the cause of Miriam's telling her first lie. She meets him in his room one night and stays there so long that she finds it necessary next morning to lie to her father.

Miriam Falls in Evil Ways.

From then on her course goes downward. Her father learns the truth and in a blind fury casts her from the house. Miriam meanwhile has learned that Joe is being hunted by the authorities but this knowledge has no effect on her.

She follows him to New York. She thinks that he marries her, but the ceremony is one of that sort which heartless men so often practice on unsuspecting girls. As time passes and Miriam's dance-hall education is developed, she becomes known as Myrtle Beaumont, Queen of the Night.

Valdez has prospered as the manager of a high class gambling club. Through Miriam he has often been able to lure rich men into his scheme and take their wealth from them.

When Lucky Carson comes to New York, Valdez plans to ensnare him. He sends Miriam on her usual errand. This time the man is too much for her. He realizes her trick, but with a sportsman's enthusiasm, plays the game.

Carson causes Vengeance.

In the incidents which follow, Carson recognizes Joe Valdez as the man who years before had eloped with Calvert's wife. He telegraphs to his friend in the West. Then Valdez comes face to face with the man who has been seeking vengeance for so many long years.

Miriam at last realizes the truth about Valdez. She has prided herself on having been a faithful wife and now she learns that she has never been a wife at all.

In the silence of the night as Joe Valdez comes face to face with Calvert, Carson tells his tale of love to the wistful Miriam. With his arm around her, he takes her back to the father who had long ago learned to forgive and forget.

DEAD SHOT BAKER

William Duncan and Carol Holloway will be seen at the Rex Theatre the last three days of next week in "Deadshot Baker," a powerful drama of the West. These two popular stars will be remembered by all, as they appeared in two of the Rex's most popular serials, "The Fighting Trail" and "Vengeance and the Woman."

A HOPE THAT THE CARILLON OF EUROPE MAY BE INTRODUCED INTO CANADA

There is one thing we do not know about say flock—of flying machines very much about on this side of the Atlantic—and it is our loss that we do not—namely the Carillon. Those who have had the good fortune to hear the great Carillons of Europe called upon to contribute to the new hope that one day these bells may be introduced in every Canadian city.

In the course of a recent lecture in England on "Carillons," Mr. W. W. Starmer, who is well posted on the subject made these observations among others: "People are apt to confuse carillon playing and change-ringing, but there is a wide difference between them. In many towers, especially those of low proportions, when change-ringing is being practiced—that is when the bells are being rung in full swing—the volume of sound from the tower is most deafening, particularly in the immediate vicinity of the tower.

"With the carillon, the bells are hung stationary and the movement of the clappers is limited and what I might term the exceedingly robust tone of change-ringing is not possible. A full, rich sound, however, can be produced, and with an artist at the clavier the tone can be reduced to the most delicate pianissimo. But the auditor must not take up his position too far from the tower if he wishes to hear the music at its best.

"I know of one place in Britain where there is a carillon of 37 bells. At its inauguration some people went two or three miles out of the town to hear the bells with the result they were grievously disappointed. Five hundred yards from the tower would have been a much more satisfactory distance. I well remember the first time I heard the magnificent carillon at Malines, played by the greatest carillonneur, Josef Denys. It sounded to me like a gigantic harpsichord, although he was playing on bells ranging from eight tons to a weight which must be reckoned in pounds."

PATRIOTIC ORGAN BUILDERS

There are not many organs being built in war time. That is not to be surprised at. People are rightly giving of their charity to war funds, and, besides, organ-building firms are, of course, suffering from shortage of skilled labor owing to the calls of the military. Moreover, the price of wood is high, and even if these commodities could be obtained in sufficiency, render the purchase of organs somewhat prohibitive just now. What are the organ builders doing? Had they no other string to their bow, it is quite certain that many of them would have to close down. There is, we believe, a certain amount of colonial work in hand, but the perils of navigation render such orders decidedly precarious of fulfillment. Happy organ builders have a very useful second string, and one which they are using in the best possible way. They are nearly all of them engaged in munitions, particularly in the construction of aeroplane parts. More than that, they have received special commendation from the Ministry of Munitions. Of all the trades which have turned their hands to munition making, it is officially announced that those connected with organ building are the best of the lot in aeroplane work. That is high praise, and is a matter for congratulation on the part of the musical profession to the music trade. Let it be a boomerang when peace comes. Let those who require organs go to those who have abroad that the music available for the cello is very limited in quantity and where there is, is only the most extremely classical character.

It is very true that when a great many of the violin sonatas were written, cello playing was in its infancy, no general use of it being made other than to furnish a harmonious bass for the higher voices which carried the melody. Now the cello has become a recognized solo instrument and many imperishable masterpieces have been written for it such as those by Dvorak, Saint-Saens, Lalo, d'Albert, Schumann and others. The old favorites too played with feeling go to the right spot. The writer recalls have heard "Drink To Me Only With Thine Eyes" and "Silver Threads Among the Gold" as cello solos and they just seemed to be to the tired mind what a soothing lotion is to the burned finger.

We must consider too that instruments of a higher and more acute tone thrill audiences to-day more than those of a deeper tone, just as sopranos and tenors cut more of a dash than contraltos and basses. The violin is more popular than the cello, the cornet than the trombone (Continued on page eleven.)

INSISTING ON THE CHILD'S PRACTICING.

A real problem to parents who are desirous of giving their children a musical education is—does it pay to keep on with the lessons if the child shows he has lost interest or raises a daily objection to his having to practice? The answer is—persistence wins. Most boys and girls are of the other side of going to public school but few are allowed to leave whenever they take the notion, in fact the law compels attendance up to a certain age because it is recognized that a public school education is a necessity.

The same recognition of the necessity of a musical education will assist in the correcting of the difficulty. Foreign countries where music is taught every child seriously sets us an example in this. Naturally a child only looks to the present but the parent can look back and say "If my father had only made me keep on with my music how much better off it would be to-day." This should help in looking ahead and insisting on the child's keeping on studying music even at the risk of having to exercise discipline. There are many instances where a boy or girl made little apparent progress for a few years. The father and mother were repeatedly faced with the question—after all is it worth while to continue what seems a waste of time and money? However, they withstood the temptation to quit and eventually the child took a turn for the better just like a fever patient does. From that on pleasing advancement was made, much to the delight of the parents and ultimately to the delight of the boy or girl who at one time thought piano practice was the most distasteful thing on earth.

THE CELLO SHOULD BE TAKEN INTO OUR HOMES AND NOT TREATED AS A STEP-CHILD.

That the public's slowness of the cello and cello recitals is keeping that great instrument from attaining its rightful place in a charge made against Canadians. Without entering into a controversy it may be at once agreed that the cello is not meeting with the general use its merits merit, although its music is much more admired than it used to be. There is a mistaken idea

The Ford Saves the Hay and Oats the Horses Eat

IT HAS been estimated that five acres of land are required to maintain one horse for a year, and that the same five acres would produce nearly enough food for two people. If 50,000 Canadian farmers each replaced one horse with a Ford, 250,000 acres would be added to the Nation's source of food supply and enough extra food made available to feed 100,000 people.

Just think what a great service this means to the country at the present time and the benefit to the farmers from the sale of food produced on this acreage.

A Ford car also saves the farmer a week or more of valuable time each year, which can be used for further productive work. The Ford travels three times as fast as a horse and rig—costs less to run and keep, and is far easier to take care of. With labor so scarce and high priced, time means money, so do not delay in getting your Ford.

SEIGNEUR ORDRE DE GUERRE.

THE King of the Belgians has awarded the post-humous honours of Chevalier de l'Ordre de Leopold and the Croix de Guerre to the late Lieut. G. de Pret-Roose, de Olesberg, who, previous to the war, was employed in the European Manager's Office of the C. P. R. This gallant young officer had served with the Belgian Army since the outbreak of war and took part in the battles of Ypres and Louvain. He was killed, gallantly encouraging his men in the defence of a section of the first line trenches in front of Dixmude.

TFORD TLAND PARIS

County Takek Two would pay a rental for the use of the county building, and by centralizing the affairs of justice in this manner, benefit would accrue to both city and county.
Ald. Hill held forth hope for an agreement to this end.
Ald. Baird insisted that the juvenile court remain separate from the police court, and that the latter be carefully isolated from all other courts and departments in the building.
Ald. Clement expressed hope for a realization that city and county had everything in common, and for an agreement on the matters now under discussion.
Ald. Harp likewise voiced his desire for careful consideration of the plan, which he believed would be of financial benefit to both city and county.

Mayor MacBride pointed out that the fact that different magistrates conducted the children's court and the police court, would ensure the separation of these two departments. He congratulated the county on the orderly and sanitary condition of the county buildings, and held forth hope for a better understanding in future years, between city and council.
In regard to the toll roads question, His Worship favored a conference, which would remove any technicalities arising.
"Why is the city willing to spend $11,000 to buy the roads, and then let it go to waste by not helping to maintain the roads?" inquired Councillor McCann.
"They apparently think they don't need it," replied the Warden.
Councillor Greenwood regretted that each municipality appeared to be trying to get ahead of the other. He believed the abolition of the toll roads a matter of even more importance to the city than to the county, and could not understand why the city objected to contributing towards the upkeep of the roads.

Repairs Necessary
Councillor Douglas inquired as to the length of the Cockshutt road. He was informed that it was eight miles, and expressed the opinion that $35,000 was a high price, considering the condition of the road.
The Clerk read the report of Provincial Engineer Hogarth on the Cockshutt road, showing that the highway was badly in need of repairs. Mr. Watts stated that the engineer had furnished him with statistics to show that it would cost $500 per year to maintain a floor on the bridges on the road.
Councillor Stewart inquired whether the city was to pay 2 1/2 per cent on $43,000 or on $33,000. He was informed in reply, that it was on the former, the full sum. He considered that an agreement could be reached as to whether the roads should be maintained as county or suburban highways.

Councillor Greenwood pointed out that tolls of only 15 cents had been charged on the Cockshutt road, and that no tolls had been collected on Sunday. This would explain why the road had not paid its present owners. It was not being taken over by the county with any view toward financial gain, but if the road were not taken over he believed the owners would be obliged to raise their tolls.
Councillor Crichton expressed surprise that a snag had arisen at this stage in the proceedings, as he had believed the purchase of the roads was practically completed. He felt that an understanding could be reached.
Councillor Smith, while favoring the abolition of toll roads, considered that the obstacles which had arisen were serious ones, and must be viewed as such.
Resolution for Purchase
"There has been nothing brought up to-night which need alter our attitude," declared Councillor Seace. He pointed out that every member of both the city and the county councils present had agreed that abolition of the toll roads was desirable, and that the present was an opportune time. Under these circumstances, small misunderstandings should not interfere with the favorable consideration of the matter. It had never been intended to ask the city to share in the up-keep of the roads, merely to contribute to the purchase price, and when the city has agreed to this, there should be no interference with the purchase, when the proper agreements were signed between city and county, and the county and the townships concerned.
He made clear the fact that the city was asked to contribute no more to the suburban roads system than it would benefit from the system.
Touching upon the proposed transfer of the police court, Mr. Seace emphasized the unsatisfactory conditions of the present building, and believed that an agreement could be reached.
Warden Pitts, while expressing dissatisfaction with the resolution passed by the city council, emphasized the necessity of concluding the purchase at once, as the option on the Paris road could not be held much longer.
"How soon must the roads be taken into the county system after their purchase?" inquired Councillor Scott. Mr. Watts replied that the county would be responsible for the roads as soon as the Government paid its share of the purchase price.
Mr. Greenwood moved:
"That this council agrees to the purchase of the Brantford and Paris toll road, and the Brantford and Oakland toll road at the respective prices of $38,000 and $35,000, on the agreement that the Ontario Government contribute 40 per cent of the purchase, the City of Brantford 25 1/2 per cent, free of all restrictions as to future expenditure, the township of Paris 1-2 per cent, and the township of Tuscarora 4 1-2 per cent, and that the solicitor be instructed to prepare the necessary by-laws and report back to the council."
Warden Pitts pointed out the fact that Paris had limited its share of the purchase price to $1,500, whereas 4 1/2 per cent would be in excess of $4,000.
Purchase Opposed
Councillor Eddy, seconded by Councillor Smith, moved in amendment:
"That in view of the facts presented in the report of the Provincial Engineer, the resolution introduced by the city council and other facts made known to us, namely, the exorbitant price named by the Brantford and Oakland Road Company, and the unsatisfactory conditions attached thereto, together with the vast expense of properly repairing the said road at the present time, we the council of the County of Brant do not at the present time and under the conditions mentioned, enter into the proposal to buy the toll roads now maintained in this county."
After discussion, the resolution was defeated, and the original resolution carried.
Moved by Councillor Crichton, seconded by Councillor Stewart:
"That the request of the Mayor and Aldermen of the City of Brantford, that this council find accommodation for the police court and officers thereof, at the county court house and jail, be referred to the committee of the council on public buildings, to investigate and report to this council. Carried."

RUSSIA GOES BACKWARD.

All the Work of Peter the Great Has Been Undone
The past few months has seen the completion of the mutilation of Russia and the return of the Russian Government to Moscow, the old and the new capital of the country. One brief year of Bolshevism has sufficed to undo all the work of Peter the Great and his successors. To-day what is left of Russia compares unfavorably with the Muscovite Kingdom, which Peter found when he came to the throne more than two centuries ago.

Under Peter, Russia gained two great things. He left her securely seated upon the Baltic and upon the Sea of Azov, an arm of the Black Sea. By the Treaty of Nystad, in 1721, he acquired Esthonia, Livonia, Lithuania, and the Courland, with Riga, Reval, and Libau. By his settlement of the Baltic, he gave Russia power to the Black Sea and gained the eastern half of Ukraine. His successors in the next century rounded off his work and at the Congress of Vienna, Russian power was confirmed along the Vistula, in most of Poland, in Finland, in all of Ukraine, and in Bessarabia.

Now exacted the steps by which Russia became a great nation have been reversed in the recent German-designed peace. Russia loses Finland, Esthonia, Livonia, the Courland, and Lithuania, and with this loss she is deprived of that window upon the western world created by Peter, who constructed Petrograd in the marshes of the Neva, that Russia might become occidental. Commercially and culturally Russia is thrown back upon the condition of an inland state, the condition of the seventeenth century.

The recognition of an independent Ukraine has divided the Russian Slavs into two considerable factions, and this was done in the hope that these factions might never rejoin, but become separated by ever-increasing jealousies, fomented by the Germans. And this division separates the main mass of Russians, the Great Russians of the north, from the Little Russians and culturally Russia is thrown back upon the condition of an inland state, the condition of the seventeenth century.

The Harmonious Home.
Home may be a sacred refuge, or it may be a mere place to call for breakfast and dinner, and a shelter for the sleeping hours. It may be a destitute of attractions—a tolerated spot, instead of a coveted haven. If this be the case, remarks a writer on home life, the fault is with those who by their own conduct make it uninviting. Whenever parents find that their offspring are beginning to prefer any other place before home, let them ask themselves these questions, and they may discover the secret of their children's unfortunate preferences. Does the father strive to make the home bright and happy, or is he silent, moody and unsociable? Are his children furnished with a proper supply of books, papers, magazines and such other means of amusement and improvement as their natures require? Does the mother make friends and confidantes of her daughters, or does she merely dole out to them food and clothing? Do the parents, in short, sympathize in the joys and griefs, the hopes and fears, of their children, or do they ignore all that is most essential to the happiness and genial culture of childhood?—E. Suffolk Gazette.

War Drives Magpies Away.
Will any of the magpies now congregating in the Home Counties, driven from France, be surprised, by the gunfire—venture as far as London? A little over half a century ago they were still fairly numerous in the metropolis and a bird-lover could write of having seen over a score in one day in Kensington Gardens, but it must be many years since a wild magpie was last seen in town. Probably the last nesters even in the suburbs were the pair which a local bird-stuffer shot at Hampton in 1888.—London Chronicle.

Dropped Within Reach.
"Do you like your eggs dropped?" "You bet. I was delighted when they came down twenty cents." "A loss of several thousand dollars." "Fire in the Thames Valley Cheese and Butter Factory at Kew, last night." "The building to the ground with a loss of several thousand dollars."

Mad Democracy.

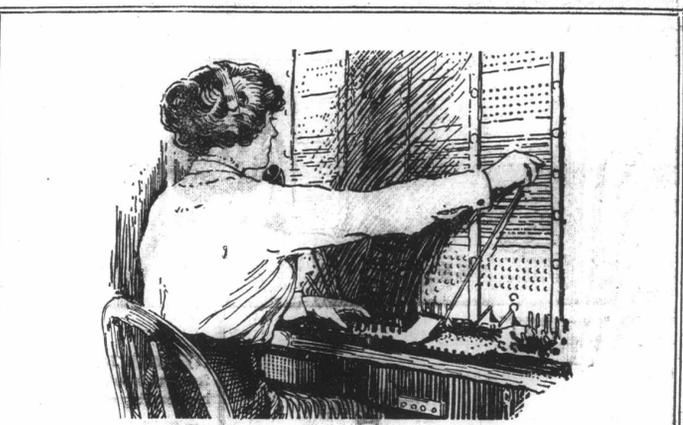

When the Russian revolution had finally gotten rid of the Czar, the management of affairs, even the affairs of the army hospitals, were taken over by soldiers' committees, says Florence Harp. The author was for a time a nurse in a field hospital, just back of the Russian lines. How a soldiers' committee made a truly democratic distribution of the hospital milk supply she tells in the following passage from her book:

"Attached to the hospital was a herd of fourteen cows. They gave enough milk to supply all the patients and the staff. The soldiers began to cast longing eyes at the pails of cream that were left over after the hospital had been fed. For desert we would have bowls of sour milk. This is rather good. It doesn't sound very appetizing, but when sprinkled with sugar and eaten with bread and butter, it is not bad. We also had blinzhki, savoring, delicious little pancakes filled with cottage cheese or 'crowdy,' and eaten with thick cream and sugar. It is a delicious dessert and one of which I became very fond.

"The committee, at the request of the soldiers, passed a resolution that the staff was only to be allowed half a glass of milk a day. This was just enough for our morning coffee. The remainder of the milk was to go to the soldiers. In order to see that there was no cheating, a soldier accompanied the housekeeping sister every night and every morning when she milked the cows. He would measure off the milk for our kitchen, measure off the hospital supply, and carry the rest away to the soldiers' kitchen. I do not know what they did with this milk, because what was enough for fifteen or twenty people couldn't begin to feed two hundred men. The head sister tried to tell them that they were foolish, that they would only get about a teaspoon each, but it was no use. According to them, they had a right to it, so we couldn't have it."

Finally, I decided to try "Fruit-a-tives". Before I had used half a box, I noticed an improvement; the pain was not so severe, and the swelling started to go down.

I continued taking this fruit medicine, improving all the time, and now I can walk about two miles and do light chores about the place."

Prof. Mulveney ANSWERS Telephone Call

Hello! Is that Prof. Mulveney, Parkdale 4820. Yes, lady. Is Prof. Mulveney there? Yes, Prof. Mulveney is speaking. Have you a worm remedy for children? Yes. Could you tell me, if I brought my little girl down, if she had worms? No, lady, I cannot tell by looking at children if they have worms? You can't. No, madam. Couldn't you tell me if I told you all the symptoms? No, madam. My remedy, called Mothers' Friend, expels worms, is an excellent Tonic and Builder, good for the Nerves, and is an excellent medicine for Regulating the Bowels; it brings away all filth and small intestinal Worms, is perfectly harmless, and can be given to the smallest infant without fear of doing harm. A lady who is living on Shaw street got a bottle of this medicine for her baby, the infant without any ill effect. The little one took a bad spell and was choking, the mother opened its mouth and pulled out a stomach worm that was strangling the child. She rushed over to me and brought the child, also the worm, which measured 8 inches long, with her. She purchased a bottle of Mothers' Friend, and the second dose brought away 17 more. She was horrified at the sight, and brought the worms to me, which I have here in a bottle in my office, and many others from other happy mothers. So if you think it a good investment to try Mothers' Friend, it is $1.00 per bottle, about 6c per postage in the city, and 20c extra for postage outside Toronto. Now, you understand, it is not necessary to waste car fare bringing your children here, as I do not practice medicine, and have only the one remedy for sick children which expels Worms if they are there, and has cured many little ones of St. Vitus' Dance and Convulsions, also Fits. MUSIC IN THE HOME

Continued from Page Eight. bone, the flute than bassoon and so on. Also there are more professional openings for the violinist than the cellist and the average small orchestra of six or eight pieces does not usually contain a cello but generally has two violins. It must be observed though, that the cello is becoming more popular in small orchestral combinations.

It is the delight of loyal cellists to claim for the instrument of their choice, that of all stringed instruments, the cello possesses the greatest compass and is therefore the rival of the human voice. The deep rich mellow tone it possesses and its capabilities of interpretation entitle it to more consideration. It should be taken into our homes as one of us and not treated like a stepchild.

MUSIC A UNIVERSAL ART.

Of all the professions, none calls more positively for an "all round" intellectual mind than the profession of music. The thorough musician has mastered many phases of mental activity. To bring music to its proper place in human esteem and understanding, its votaries must be men and women of uncommon attainments.

It is not only to sing or to play an instrument that fulfills the requirements of a musician's life; nor indeed does the mastery of all phases of the art, historical, theoretical and practical, properly fill the requirements of the musician, whose culture should know no such limitations. Music is the universal art, a universal means of expression, a reflex of all the psychic phenomena of human experience. It is the companion of all classes and is found in all places where mankind works, worships or refreshes himself. It is loved by all, rich or poor, young or old, the thoughtful and the careless, the saintly or the wicked. It is the great voice of the spirit to which all listen, yet few comprehend. Where music is, there are musicians or pretenders, fervent devotees or defamers. No effort is too serious or too severe for its proper revealing; yet, lovely plant servant of us all, as it is, it humbly submits to all calls, however low, it must fall in its submission, and thus it is that this great voice of infinity, is yet far away from human appreciation, debased or exalted, it is by millions looked upon as a mere toy, a passing fragrance or a noise to accompany men's meaner moods.

JOINS HUSBAND IN PRAISING TANLAC

Mrs. Benson Says Results She Derived Have Been Marvelous

A few weeks ago when James Benson, of 685 Runnymede Road, Toronto, a returned veteran, now employed by the Harris Abattoir Company, gave a testimonial, which was printed in this paper, telling how Tanlac had relieved him of a serious stomach trouble, it attracted widespread attention. His wife, Mrs. Emma Benson, now not only corroborates his statement, but in the following story of her own experience, which she related a few days ago, tells of the benefits she has personally derived from the use of Tanlac.

"A friend in need is a friend indeed," said Mrs. Benson, "and that is exactly what I think of this wonderful medicine since it relieved me of my neuralgia and those awful headaches I used to suffer from so much. "I had been in a badly rundown condition for a long time," she continued, "and I had such terrible attacks of neuralgia and my head ached so that I would just take to my bed and lie there in agony for as long as four days at a time. Going through with this awful experience just shattered my nervous system so that I would lay awake at night for hours before I would doze off and then it wouldn't be a sound, restful sleep, but I'd get up in the mornings feeling so wretched that I couldn't get a bit of my housework done till almost noon. Many a time when I would start to get out of bed I'd be so weak and nervous that I'd actually faint dead away. I tell you what I was completely worn out and my life was simply one day of misery after another."

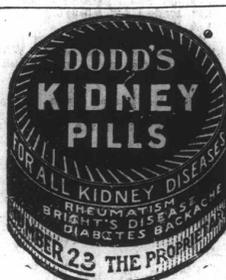

"When I saw how Tanlac had relieved my husband of his stomach trouble I decided to see if it would help me too, and I can truthfully say that the results have been simply marvelous. I have taken only three bottles so far and that terrible neuralgia is completely gone. I haven't had a headache since I started on Tanlac, my nerves are quiet and I sleep like a baby. That tired, worn out feeling has passed away and I am stronger and better in every way than I have been in a long time. My husband and I both think so much of Tanlac that we have made it our family medicine and have already recommended it to many of our friends."

MILITARY SERVICE ACT, 1917 PUBLIC NOTICE is hereby given that, by the effect of the regulations of the Governor General of Canada in Council of the 20th of April, 1918, and the Proclamation of 4th May, 1918, recently published, every male British subject resident in Canada, born on or since the 13th of October, 1897, who has attained or shall attain the age of 19 years and who is unmarried or a widower without children must, (unless he is within one of the classes of persons mentioned in the schedule of Exceptions to the Military Service Act) report as hereinafter directed on or before the 1st day of June, 1918, or within ten days after his 19th birthday, whichever date shall be the latter. The report must be addressed to the Registrar or Deputy Registrar under the Military Service Act of the Registration District in which he resides (see below) and shall be sent by registered post, for which no Canada postage is required.
