The Fisheries Dispute.

The passage by the United States Congress of the "Retaliation Bill," has been made the occasion, particularly by the New England fishermen, of a not inconsiderable amount of Yankee bluster. In the city of Gloucester the wildest excitement prevailed; and to stamp the matter with the character of advanced Americanism Sir John Macdonald, the Premier of Canada, was burned in effigy. If the citizens of the United States look upon manifestations of this kind as indications of enlightenment and fair-mindedness we feel sure the people of this country are quite satisfied.

It is possible that the workings of this bill may, in a short time, prove of great disadvantage to the United States than to Canada. Its principal provisions are, if we understand it aright, that it gives the President power to exclude Canadian fish from the United States markets and subjects our fishing vessels to the same restrictions, when visiting American ports, as are imposed upon them when coming into our harbors.

The whole question in dispute between the two countries seems to hinge upon the interpretation of the treaty of 1818. The most important clause of that treaty, bearing on the fishery question, seems quite clear and reads as follows:

"Provided, however, that the American fishermen shall be permitted to enter such bays or harbors (Canadian) for the purpose of shelter, repairing damages therein, of purchasing wood and obtaining water, and for no other purpose whatsoever."

This treaty was enforced down to the year 1854 when it was, for the time being, superseded by the general commercial treaties mutually agreed upon. Subsequently, on the abrogation of the Reciprocity Treaty of 1856, the fisheries were again provided in accordance with the provisions of the treaty of 1818 until the negotiation of the Washington treaty in 1870. This is the treaty, the abrogation of whose fishery clauses, in 1885, by the United States Government has thrown both nations back on the treaty of 1818, the enforcement of which now causes this ripple of excitement among our American neighbors.

The conduct of both countries relative to the carrying out of these different treaty relations is in marked contrast. The Canadian Government, while the fishery clauses of the Washington treaty remained in force fulfilled their part of the contract to the letter. These clauses terminated through the instrumentality of the authorities at Washington in the middle of the fishing season of 1885. At the request of the United States Government, and on the promise that steps would immediately be taken to arrange a new treaty the American fishermen were allowed without any return, to continue fishing for the remainder of the season. Notwithstanding all this they have since that date steadily refused to make any advances towards a new treaty. Consequently the Dominion Government, if we are to maintain our fisheries, had no alternative but to enforce the provisions of the treaty of 1818. This was done in 1886, in the most gentle manner compatible with firmness, yet Secretary Manning calls it "brutal." Mr. Manning has, doubtless, had his credulity imposed upon by some disreputable fisherman from the coasts of Newfoundland, or he would not make use of language which should never find a place in a document coming from a man occupying a position such as his, and having the slightest knowledge of diplomacy.

It is worthy of note that, while this fishery dispute has created a great amount of excitement and even eagerness along the border, it has scarcely caused a ripple in Canada, so conscious are the people of their rights.

No stronger proof of the unfair conduct of the United States towards us in this matter could be given than the following extracts from the speech of Hon. David A. Wells, a distinguished American, before the Boston Merchants' Club:

Newfoundland's Difficulty.

Just as present the legislators and people of Newfoundland do not feel in the kindest mood towards the Imperial Government, in consequence of the latter's refusal to sanction the bill passed during the last session of the Legislature of that colony. France has large interests in the Island, her fishermen having a very considerable amount of capital invested in the fisheries carried on along its coasts. In order, however, to prosecute these fisheries successfully they were obliged to depend on Newfoundland for their bait supply. Now, the success of the inshore cod-fishing of the Island depends on the preservation of this same bait. The people of Newfoundland, were aware of this and they knew, moreover, that they could not, with any degree of success, compete with the French fishing industry in the European markets, the latter being protected by a bounty of two dollars per quintal. Seeing the disadvantages of their position they had recourse to the only source of protection open to them. The Legislature passed a bill prohibiting the sale and export of bait. Before becoming law this bill had, of course, to receive the sanction of the Home Government. This consent, however, the Imperial authorities have thought fit to withhold, consequently Newfoundland feels much disappointed that her scheme for protecting her fishing industries has not been successful.

On the assembling of the Legislature last month, the bill Bill was immediately re-nacted, and the Hon. Mr. Thorburn, Leader of the Opposition, and Sir Ambrose Shea, Leader of the Government, were appointed delegates to proceed at once to England and use their influence with the authorities in the Colonial Office to have the bill sanctioned by the Government of Great Britain. In the meantime, the people of the Island colony are anxiously awaiting the result of their delegates' mission.

This little incident should serve as a lesson to the secessionists of Nova Scotia and their sympathizers. Were Newfoundland a Province of the Dominion she would not now be placed in such a critical position. Her interests would become the interests of the Dominion, and a similar measure sent home by the Government of Canada would be sure to receive the Royal assent without any of this vacillation.

A Deserving Institution.

In another column of this paper will be found a report of the Charlotte Harbor Ladies Collecting Committee. The amount contributed, it will be noticed, is somewhat larger than on any previous year, which goes to show that the community, as time goes on, appreciates more and more the great services which this institution is rendering afflicted humanity in our midst. Yet the amount here subscribed is only a small fraction of what it costs annually to conduct the Hospital. The remainder is made up from the money received from such patients as can afford to pay, from the proceeds of work performed by the good Sisters, such as the making of church ornaments, altar decorations, and such like, and the contributions of private individuals.

What benefit has the community received in return for all this? During the year just past over one hundred and twenty-five patients were treated and nursed in the Hospital, while nearly three hundred other patients were treated, receiving medical attendance and medicine free of charge. The Doctors have, most generously, given their time and professional services gratuitously.

The Sisters in charge, besides being ladies of refinement, are thoroughly trained nurses, and have devoted, without hope of earthly reward, their lives to the ameliorating of the sufferings of their fellow-creatures. There is no kind of disease, however loathsome, with which they are not familiar and whose victims they are not accustomed to nurse and render as comfortable as possible.

The Hospital door is open at all hours to suffering humanity. To obtain admission there is no question of creed, color or nationality—the only condition being that the hand of affliction has lain more or less heavily upon the applicant. To those who have to spare of this world's goods no more deserving object of their generosity could be recommended.

Georgism.

The age in which we live has brought forth a host of new and untried theories, although the same in principle, are known by different names in different places. In some countries they are known under the general name of Socialism. This is particularly the case in Germany, Russia, and some other European countries. While in France their general appellation is Communism. Until a recent date, although, no doubt, a great many of these false theories obtained, they were known by no particular name on this side of the Atlantic. Lately, however, they seem to have been moulded into a hypothesis called Georgism. This name is derived from a certain demagogue called Henry George, who has, for the past few years, been endeavoring to attract public notice by advocating, through the press, very peculiar notions relative to the ownership of land. In November last he put himself forward as a candidate for the Mayorship, was present at General Wolfe's death, in Quebec, in the year 1759, and forms one of the group of officers gathered around the dying soldier's bed in the West India Hotel. His father-in-law, Dr. Brian Betham could remember, as a boy of 13, the troops of Prince Charles Edward quartering themselves in his father's house, Peterborough, in 1746.

Political Notes.

Nominations for the bye-elections in Summerside and Fort Augustus took place yesterday; about 100 voters, Hon. Mr. LeFurphy, we understand, is to be opposed by Mr. John McKenzie, the Hon. Mr. LeFurphy, while the Provincial Secretary has for an opponent Mr. Donald Allen McDonald, the objector.

It is believed in Ministerial circles that the Government will proceed to the House of Commons on the 22nd inst. Several measures will be brought down, but none are likely to cause any serious trouble.

The Quebec Government is making a pretty clear sweep of the provincial officials, in order to find places for the hungry friends of the Government. Hon. Mr. LeFurphy, we understand, is to be opposed by Mr. John McKenzie, the Hon. Mr. LeFurphy, while the Provincial Secretary has for an opponent Mr. Donald Allen McDonald, the objector.

The doctrine of ownership in land is affirmed by all laws, ancient and modern. Throughout the Patriarchal form of Government we find it to have been in vogue; thus, Abraham bought a plot of land for the burial of Sara, his wife. We have it also, on the very best authority, that Ananias and Sapphira sold their land. If they did not own it they could not sell it. We might go on and show that, through the feudal system and the various other systems that have existed down to our time, the right of exclusive ownership in land has been affirmed. We do not here contend that the owners of the land have always acted with strict justice in the disposition thereof; yet this fact does not vitiate the principle of ownership.

There is, at present, going on in Great Britain, a great agitation which has for one of its objects the acquiring of ownership, by each individual, of whatever portion of land he cultivates. Should Mr. George's theories become the order of the day, the fond hopes and bright prospects of these people would be forever dashed to the ground. For, should they to-day obtain that which they have for centuries been seeking, to-morrow some one else may come and take possession of what they called their labor. It is not, then, difficult to understand why theories of this kind, which aim at the foundation of every right held sacred by society should be popular only in socialistic assemblies where disrespect for all lawful authority is the chief feature and inspiration.

Card of Thanks.

The Superintendant of the Charlotte Harbor takes this method of returning her heartfelt thanks to the lady collectors for their perseverance in collecting funds for the hospital, and also wishes to express her gratitude to all the kind friends who contributed so generously.

The statement of subscriptions and donations received by the lady collectors for the hospital, for the year 1886, is as follows: Collected by Mrs. P. Blake and Mrs. Judge Roddin, $10.00. The Bishop of Charlottetown, $10.00. O.M. Roddin, Jr., $10.00.

Mrs. Catherine Betham who recently died in England in the 97th year of her age, had a vivid recollection of Col. Boardman Bromhead, who was present at General Wolfe's death, in Quebec, in the year 1759, and forms one of the group of officers gathered around the dying soldier's bed in the West India Hotel.

General News.

A fire occurred in a tailor shop in New York City, which caused the loss of three lives and $200,000 of property. Trains on the elevated road were blocked by the flames. The blockade extended all the way down to the south ferry and on the down track up to 17th street.

At the annual meeting of the Benevolent Irish Society held on Thursday evening, 10th inst., the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: Patron—James Roddin, (re-elected). President—Hon. Senator Howland.

Canada Pacific Cable Scheme.

A woman buried to death. A tragedy occurred at Halifax on Saturday last. A woman, Mrs. Henry Parker, jr., was alone in the house with her three children. She moved in front of the stove to lay the baby in the cradle, her dress caught fire and before she could get it extinguished she had become so badly burned that she died six hours after. Finding her clothing on fire, she ran to the front door, and by her screams attracted the attention of the family living on the opposite side of the street. When first she saw the flames she was in a panic, but she suffered intense agony until death gave her relief. Her husband is engaged in fishing on the New Brunswick coast, and knows nothing of the terrible event.

Latest Telegrams.

Port Arthur, March 9.—Complete reports for Algona are now in, and Dawson is elected by a majority of about 300. Ottawa, March 9.—The election in Victoria yesterday resulted in the return of the old government members, Baker and Shakespeare. The Grif candidate loses his deposit.

New York, March 9.—The barque Hesperus, which arrived to-day from Amsterdam, has a monetary hoarding of the crowd in front, and then half a dozen were seen falling over the side of the boat. Then followed a wild rush in the street and a wider and more desperate one above in the air. The veterans of the crowd threw out and Mr. The Grif candidate loses his deposit.

St. John, N. B., March 10.—The failure of the Maritime Bank continues to excite public attention, and, especially in the quarters where the bank has most deposits, little else is talked of. No information of the condition of the bank has yet been received, however, though it is announced that the directors are preparing a report.

San Francisco, March 10.—When the announcement was made that the proposition that Judge Tuck had elected a commission to inquire into the case of the late Governor, it was not only surprised, but was attended. Judge Steadman, after mature consideration, and after consulting with the members of the commission, decided not to regard the proposition, and has gone to Glasgow to proceed with the recovery of the commission taken by Judge Steadman is positive in this matter he is not subject to the Supreme Court. He will have to answer to the Supreme Court for having disregarded the order, but he has no doubt fully fortified himself with authority.

New York, March 10.—The yacht Orestes and Danvers will start on Saturday afternoon, promptly at 1 o'clock, for the purpose of visiting the Cape of Good Hope and the Cape of Storms. The Orestes will be the regatta committee of the New York Yacht Club, sailing as a regatta boat, and will be anchored at the Cape of Storms. The Danvers will be the regatta committee of the New York Yacht Club, sailing as a regatta boat, and will be anchored at the Cape of Storms.

London, March 10.—The Board of Trade has issued a notice that the 1,000 men and 325 horses employed in the removal of the snow from the streets in 1886, this city, were disbursed $9,000 for snow carriage. This season, up to date, $20,000 have been spent, and they expect to be disbursed another $10,000 to $20,000 for the removal of snow.

London, March 10.—Mr. Gladstone has informed his party that he himself will lead the Opposition to the conversion of the Bill in Parliament. The Liberals will continue their efforts against the bill until Easter, maintaining the usual routine of active agitation throughout the country.

Boston, March 10.—A barrel was reported to have exploded yesterday.

THE LEGEND OF CHERIE

CHAPTER I

Dear the southern shore of England,
Near the western end of the coast,
An ancient church with Norman towers,
And a bell tower of the same...

BY THE "DUCHESS"

With some ceremony is gone through
The same of the others, but when he Brings in to Mrs. Talbot, that pretty
Woman who interrupts his mode of introduc-

An anxiety to her one evening,
Sinking into the seat beside her,
Except a devotion to her that is singularly
Sincere, I know of nothing about me
That can be regarded by her as an offense...
