You Can't Leave the Beard Behind So Don't Forget the Gillette

The hearty open-air vacation life seems to make the beard grow as it never grows at home. To the man without a GILLETTE it becomes a downright nuisance.

Cleanliness, comfort and self-respect demand the morning shave. But boats, trains, summer resorts and camps provide scant shaving facilities.

That never worries the man with a GILLETTE Safety Razor in his grip or his pocket. In hunching cabin or swaying Pullman—on the back porch or beside a convenient stump—wherever the morning finds him—he can enjoy his regular three-minute GILLETTE shave in solid comfort, with a lordly independence of place or circumstance.

Pack your grip with discrimination. Travel light. Leave out the "unnecessaries" of life. But whatever you do, don't discount your holiday by starting out without "The Razor of To-day."

Standard Sets $5.00. Pocket Editions $5.00 to $6.00. Combination Sets from $6.50 up. At your Druggist's, Jeweler's or Hardware Dealer's.

The Gillette Safety Razor Co. of Canada, Limited Office and Factory - 63 St. Alexander Street, Montreal.

Offices also in New York, Chicago, London, Eng. and Shanghai, China. Factories in Montreal, Boston, Leicester, Berlin and Paris.

"The Man Who Disappeared."

CHAPTER XIV.

A STRANGE DESIGN.

"He was dejected, embittered, wearied; sick of his way of livelihood, sick of the atmosphere he moved in, sick of his reflections, sick of himself. Life had got to be stale, flat, and unprofitable. His self-loathing, which steadily grew, would have become a maddening torture if he hadn't found refuge in a stony apathy. Sometimes he relieved this by an outburst of bitter or satirical self-exposure, when the mood found anybody at hand for his confidence. But for the most part he lived in a lethargic indifference, mechanically going through the form of earning his living.

"You may wonder why he took the trouble even to go through that form. It may have been partly because he lacked the instinct—or perhaps the initiative—for active suicide, and was too proud to starve at the expense or embarrassment of other people. But there was another cause, which of itself sufficed to keep him going. I may have said—or given the impression—that he utterly despair of at the time when you, Larcher, were working with him. "He imagined a man such as would be produced by the happiest conditions; one of those fortunate fellows who seem destined for easy, pleasant paths all their lives. A habitually lucky man, in short, with all the cheerfulness and reticence that such a man ought to possess. Davenport believed that as such a man he would at least not be handicapped by the name or suspicion of ill-luck.

"I needn't enumerate the details with which he rounded out this new personality he meant to adopt. And I'll not take time now to recite the history he invented to endow this new self with. You may be sure he made it as happy a history as such a man would wish to look back on. One circumstance was necessary to observe in its construction. In throwing over his old self, he must throw over all his acquaintances, and the surroundings with which it had been closely intimate—not cities and public resorts of course, which both selves might be familiar with, but rooms he had lived in and places too much associated with the old identity of Murray Davenport. Now the new man would naturally have made many acquaintances in the course of his life. He would know people in places where he had lived. Would he get kept up but briefly, which he had agreeable recollections of, but would never visit again. All this was to avoid the necessity of a too definite localizing of the man's past; and the difficulty about old friends never being re-encountered. Henceforth, on the man's beginning to have a real existence in the body of Davenport, more lasting associations and friendships would be formed, and these could be cherished as if they had merely supplanted former ones, until in time a good number could be accumulated for the memory to dwell on.

"But quite as necessary as providing a history and associations for the new self, it was to banish those of the old self. If the new man should find himself greeted as Murray Davenport by somebody who knew the latter, a rude shock would be administered to the self-delusion so carefully cultivated. And this might happen at any time. It would be easy enough to avoid the old Murray Davenport's acquaintances. But even this was a small matter to the equant certainty of his being recognized at the old Murray Davenport by himself. Every time he looked into a mirror, or passed a plate-glass window, there would be the old face and form to mock his attempt at mental transformation with the reminder of his physical identity.

Even if he could avoid being confronted many times a day by the reflected face of Murray Davenport, he must yet be continually brought back to his inseparability from that person by the familiar effect of the face on the glances of other people,—for you know that different faces evoke different looks from observers, and the look that one man is accustomed to meet in the eyes of people who notice him is not precisely the same as that

WHAT I WENT THROUGH

Before taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Natick, Mass.—"I cannot express what I went through during the change of life before I tried Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I was in such a nervous condition I could not keep still. My limbs were cold, I had creepy sensations, and I could not sleep at night. I was finally told by two physicians that I had a tumor. I read one day of the wonderful cures made by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and decided to try it, and it has made me a well woman. My neighbors and friends declare it had worked a miracle for me. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is worth its weight in gold for women during this period of life. If it will help others you may publish my letter."—MRS. NATHAN B. GREATOR, 31 N. Main Street, Natick, Mass.

another man is accustomed to meet there. To come to the point, Murray Davenport saw that to make his change of identity a really successful, to avoid a thousand interruptions to his self-delusion, to make himself another man in the world's eyes and his own, and all the more so in his own through finding himself in the world's, he must transform himself physically—in face and figure—beyond the recognition even of himself. How was it to be done?

"Do you think he was mad in setting himself at once to solve the problem as if its solution were a matter of course? Wait and see.

"In the old fairy tales, such transformations were easily accomplished by the touch of a wand or the incantation of a wizard. In a newer sort of fairy tale, we have seen them produced by marvelous drugs. In reality there have been supposed changes of identity, or rather cases of dual identity, the subject alternating from one to another as he shifts from one set of memories to another. These shifts are not voluntary, nor is such a subject of this sort by caprice of nature, and as, even if he had been, he couldn't have chosen his new identity to suit himself, or ensured its permanency, he had to resort to the deliberate exercise of imagination and willful self-deception. I have described. Now even in those cases of dual personality, though there is doubtless some change of facial expression, there is not an actual physical transformation such as Davenport's purpose required. As he had to use deliberate means to work the mental change, so he must do to accomplish the physical one. He must resort to that which in real life takes the place of fairy wands, the magic of witches, and the drugs of romance—he must employ Science and the physical means it afforded.

"Earlier in life he had studied medicine and surgery. Though he had never arrived at the practice of these, he had retained a scientific interest in them, and had kept fairly well informed of new experiments. His general reading, too, had been wide, and he had rambled upon many curious odds and ends of information. He thus knew something of methods employed by criminals to alter their facial appearance so as to avoid recognition; not merely those obvious and unreliable devices as raising or removing beards, changing the arrangement and color of hair, or fattening or thinning the face by dietary means,—devices that won't fool a close acquaintance for half a minute—not merely these, but the practice of tampering with the facial muscles by means of the knife, so as to alter the very hang of the face itself. There is in particular a certain muscle, the cutting of which, and allowing the skin to heal over the wound, makes a very great alteration of outward effect. The result of this operation, however, is not an improvement in looks, and as Davenport's object was to fabricate a pleasant, attractive countenance, he could not resort to it without modifications, and, besides that, he meant to achieve a far more thorough transformation than it would produce. But the knowledge of this operation was something to start with. It was partly to combat such devices of criminals, that Bertillon invented his celebrated system of identification by measurements. A slight study of that system gave Davenport valuable hints as to what he already knew, that the skin of the face—the entire skin of three layers, that is, not merely the outside covering—may be compared to a curtain, and the underlying muscles to the cords by which it is drawn aside. The constant drawing of these cords, you know, produces in time the facial wrinkles, always perpendicular to the muscles causing them. If you sever a number of these cords, you alter the entire drape of the curtain. It was for Davenport to learn what severance would produce, not the disagreeable effect of the operation known to criminals, but a result altogether pleasing. He was to discover and perform a whole complexion set of operations instead of the single operation of the criminal; and each operation must be of a delicacy that would ensure the desired general effect of all. And this would be but a small part of his task.

"He was aware of what was being done for the improvement of badly-formed noses, crooked mouths, and such defects, by what its practitioners call 'plastic surgery,' or 'facial' or 'feature surgery.' From the 'beauty shops,' then, as the newspapers call them, he got an idea of changing his nose by cutting and folding back the skin, surgically eliminating the bump, and rearranging the skin over the altered bridge so as to produce perfect straightness when healed. From the same source came the hint of cutting permanent dimples in his cheeks—a detail that fell in admirably with his design of an agreeable countenance. The dimples would be, in fact, but skillfully made scars, cut so as to last. What are commonly known as scars, if artistically wrought, could be made to serve the purpose, too, of slight furrows in parts of the face where such furrows would aid his plan—at the ends of his lips, for instance, where a quizzical upturning of the corners of the mouth could be limited by means of them; and at other places where lines of mirth form in good humor faces. Fortunately, his own face was free from wrinkles, perhaps because of the indifference his melancholy had taken refuge in. It was, indeed, a good face to build on.

The Evening Call

By RUTH CAMERON

Do you ever listen to your own voice? If you don't, please let me suggest it as a valuable little experiment to make occasionally. What would you think of a girl—or a man either—for that matter—who never listens to her own voice? One has heard of a man who never listens to his own voice, but how many people never in all the time of their lives hold up the mirror of self-inspection to their voices? The girl who spends an hour or two daily before her mirror, examining her face with lotions and creams and powders and sedulously squinting at it from this angle and that, probably doesn't think of giving ten minutes a year to inspecting and attempting to improve that other great tool of her personality, the voice. Gladstone once said, "Thirty-nine men out of every hundred never improve their voices because the training of the voice is entirely neglected and considered of no importance."

Fortune Telling

Does not take into consideration the one essential of happiness—womanly health. The woman who neglects her health is neglecting the foundation of all good fortune. For with love loses its lustre and gold is but dross. Womanly health when lost or impaired may be regained by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. This Prescription has, for over 40 years, been curing delicate, weak, pain-wracked women, by the hundreds of thousands, and this too in the privacy of their homes, without their having to submit to incalculable questions and offensiveness to their friends.

The Curse of Rubber.

Recently the International Rubber Exhibition was opened at the Agricultural Hall, Sir Henry Blake, who presided at the ceremony in a welcoming Lord Selborne, boasted that through the output of rubber now realized £25,000,000, only the fringe of the industry had as yet been touched. We can well believe that the acclaim and the boasting were justified. As a result of the growth of many industries and inventions has many benefits, but it is not so with the rubber industry. There is a curse of rubber. Fifty years ago it was hardly known, except as a kind of gum for

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON

Do you ever listen to your own voice? If you don't, please let me suggest it as a valuable little experiment to make occasionally. What would we think of a girl—or a man either—for that matter—who never listens to her own voice? Our lamented O'Henry has a witty little story about two men, one of whom was, to use his own expression, "a gargoyle with a silver tongue," and the other—to quote again, "a ringer for Hermes, but with a voice that sounded like a leak dripping in a tin dishpan at the head of the bed when you want to go to sleep." These two men went after the same woman. The "gargoyle with the silver voice" got her.

Like many of O'Henry's tales, this one has a kernel of suggestion as well as a husel of laughter. Of course we can't all have silver tongues, but we can all have pleasant and well modulated voices. And the first step to this end is to listen to them. I don't mean to sit down and talk so as to hear our own voices. We wouldn't really get any idea of them that way. The way to hear one's voice as it naturally is, is to suddenly listen to it in the midst of a conversation and compare it with other people's. Do we speak too loud? Do we talk always in one or two monotonous keys and thus lose the music of voice change? Do we talk too rapidly? Do we pitch our voices from our heads or throats instead of from the diaphragm, as we really should? These are some questions for us to ask ourselves in front of the mirror of voice inspection. And I trust, to answer by an effort at improvement.

Fortune Telling

Does not take into consideration the one essential to woman's happiness—womanly health. The woman who neglects her health is neglecting the very foundation of all good fortune. For without health love loses its lustre and gold is but dross. Womanly health when lost or impaired may generally be regained by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

This Prescription has, for over 40 years, been curing delicate, weak, pain-wracked women, by the hundreds of thousands and this too in the privacy of their homes without their having to submit to indelicate questionings and offensive repugnant examinations.

Sick women are invited to consult Dr. Pierce by letter free. All correspondence held as sacredly confidential. Address World's Dispensary Medical Association, R. V. Pierce, M. D., President, Buffalo, N. Y. Dr. Pierce's Great Family Doctor Book, The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser, newly revised up-to-date edition—1000 pages, answers in Plain English hosts of delicate questions which every woman, single or married, ought to know about. Sent free, in plain wrapper to any address on receipt of 31 one-cent stamps to cover mailing only, or in cloth binding for 50 stamps.

The Curse of Rubber. Recently the International Rubber Exhibition was opened at the Agricultural Hall. Sir Henry Blake, who presided at the ceremony, in welcoming Lord Selborne, boasted that, through the output of rubber now realised £85,000,000, only the fringes of the industry had as yet been touched. We can well believe that the acclaim and the boasting were justified. Astonishing as the growth of many industries and inventions has been, we doubt if anything in this generation has surpassed rubber.

The Rubber Boom. "Fifty years ago it was hardly known, except as a kind of gum for erasing pencil marks; now it is turned to incalculable uses, from feeding bottles to motor tyres. Without it, modern locomotion and modern life could hardly be imagined. It is the basis of innumerable companies; it creates the biggest booms on the stock markets; it enters like the high finance of nations, and directs the policy of Imperial development. Certainly, if utility and commercial success are grounds for pride, the Agricultural Hall has reason to be proud of its present exhibition, and we are not surprised that on its advertisements we find the motto written, "There is nothing like rubber."

The writer then goes on to mention the horrors which accompany the getting of rubber by one of the rubber planters.

DR. BOWEN'S herb tablets cure Constipation companion. He has a report in which we read of foggings that strip the flesh off men and women, who either die under the torture or are left to rot in their wounds swarmed with maggots, and are then shot to end the stench. We read of children tied to trees as marks for rifles, or dashed against walls for sport. We read of living victims suspended over lighted fires, or wrapped in clothes saturated with kerosene and then kindled. We read of mutilations of every limb, of murdered corpses hung to pet dogs to eat, of violations so atrocious that the crimes of ordinary lust seem venial in comparison.

"About one-tenth of Great Britain's income is derived from foreign investments, and of that amount a large fraction comes from rubber and other tropical produce. Who knows what concentration of human misery that sum represents? Who knows, and who cares? Certainly, finance cares little. We sometimes think of slavery as a thing of the past. We pride ourselves on our country's emancipation a century ago, or we think the atrocious system died on the plains of Gettysburg. It is not true. The problem of slavery is still before us. Of all the great problems in the world, there is none more urgent.

A Rubber Hell. "Speaking at a Welsh chapel in London, Mr. Lloyd George said that 'if the Christian Church were destroyed, the country would be turned into a burnt-up wilderness.' Well, we have seen a vast heathen land converted into what has rightly been called a Devil's Paradise under a nominally Christian Government, Christian directors, and Christian agents. And we ask, what feeling but execration have those tormented Indians for the name of Christianity, or with what thought but terror, does the idea of the white man's civilisation inspire them in their anguish?"—Public Opinion, July 7th.

Fads and Fashions.

The waist line still goes higher. Never wear so many white shoes. Lace bags are growing bigger and bigger. Still the vogue of heavy laces continues. Sailor collars are now appearing in serge. Separable wraps are made of dark blue taffeta. Wash silk shirtwaists have a wonderful popularity. Jeweled ornaments for the hair are much in evidence. The wide frill to the left has a wildfire popularity. As a trimming for dull shades, white is much seen. Silk and linen is the dominant thought in summer planning. While legal straw hats are trimmed with felts of Valenciennes. Animal and bird handles for the summer parasol are in first favor. Cotton voiles and marquisettes lead well to the front in favor. Lining among trimmings are showing effects in quilts and voiles. White dowers are perhaps the most important in the new millinery ideas. More and more imperative sounds the call for the return of the Empire gown.

Woolen embroidery and woolen lace are used to a great extent on lingerie frocks. The new marquisette waists are lovely. Many of them are embroidered in colors. Striped and dotted rainproof foul-ards are attractive for frocks for sporting. Once again millinery fashion allows m'lady's neck and shoulder line to be visible. Lingerie frocks are nearly all worn over colored slips of soft liberty satin or china silk. Finances, fads and many kinds of trimming now appear on the erstwhile severely plain skirt. Lingerie waists made of amity are seen in the newest models in some of the exclusive shops. Now fads are not only wilder, but that what was a bit larger.

City Council Meeting.

Present at last evening's regular weekly meeting: Mayor Ellis, Councilors, Martin, Channing, Coaker, Myrick and Ryan.

Engineer Ryan was ordered to attend to a grating in front of their office in T. A. Hall that gets choked in every rain storm.

The Council will inform Messrs. Ash & Co. that they must burn their office waste and sweepings and that the Council's sanitary men will not remove it.

The Road Inspector was ordered to attend to the complaint of J. R. Crane re the South Side Road, where water overflows at the Junction of Black Head Road. A drain there will be deepened. A receptacle for ashes will also be placed there.

W. H. Evans, who requested to be allowed to cut the grass in the Park-ettes at Freshwater Road, Gower St. and Long's Hill, can go to under the direction of the Park Committee. Mr. Evans will have the hay for his own use and will be able to sell it to the Council by and by when they advertise for hay for the sanitary horses. Mr. Evans deserves for his enterprise all the hay that is around.

The Sanitary Inspector will attend to the complaint of Mr. Mugford re the removal of grating near his house on Monroe Street.

The A. N. D. Co. at Grand Falls

want some information about fountains. A sample fountain will be sent them at cost price.

The water and sewerage systems will be extended on Charlton Street at the request of the citizens.

The sanitary employees who are now receiving $1.28 per day asked for $1.11 a week.

Mrs. James asked permission to erect a house on the corner of Carter's Hill and Livingstone Street. The Council says that she must not do so as the place is on the street line.

The dilapidated building there must be removed.

The Board of Trade Secretary informed the Council that complaints had been coming in from ship owners of delays in getting their ships watered. Enquiry will be made.

S. English will be asked to send in suitable plans for house on McFarlane Street.

The place where Mr. Hillier wants to build a house near Leslie Street will not be recognized as a street by the Council.

G. W. B. Ayre may repair No. 36 Casey Street by applying to the Engineer, and J. Fitzgerald may erect a scaffold at Brazil's Square.

C. Lester will be prosecuted for damage to tree and protection box on Promenade. Solicitor reported that he denies the charge.

The sidewalk at Blair's and Dick's will be repaired.

J. Adrain will be ordered to repair the spot in front of his shop, as it was damaged by his own employees, so the Council says.

W. Whelan's offer to supply hay at $18 a ton was rejected.

The Sanitary Supervisor recommended that Francis Cash be pensioned, he being too ill to work. He will be offered $3 a week direct from the City Council, on motion of Councilor Ryan.

M. Galway will confer with the Engineer about the cooerage that he wishes to erect on Hamilton Street.

After the reports had been read and pay roll called, the meeting adjourned.

House Burned Down.

The residence of John Gladney, at the head of Windsor Lake, was destroyed by fire last evening, involving a loss of about $400 to the owner, Sparks from the chimney caught the roof, and in the brisk wind that blew the building was soon enveloped in fire. A number of people ran to the spot from the adjacent houses but could not do anything to check the fire. Mr. Gladney who went into the burning house to recover some money he had stowed away there, narrowly escaped being caught in the flames. He was burned about the face and hands and had to be taken to Hospital in the ambulance. This was one of the houses that the City Council is removing in order to preserve the water of the lake. A new house is being built for the family about a quarter of a mile away, and a good deal of their belongings had been already removed there.

Salvation Army.

Ensign and Mrs. Hargrove, S. A., arrived by the express from Canada to take charge of the Army work at the S. A. Citadel, New Gower Street. The Ensign is a platform orator, Mrs. Hargrove a splendid singer, there little boy plays in the band. The welcome meeting will be conducted by Mrs. Colonel Rees, Staff-Capt. Cave and other officers. A good time is anticipated.

OLINDA OUTSIDE.—The baronet, Olinda, Capt. Courtney, is outside, having passed Cape Race at 6 p.m. yesterday.

The Cost of Canadian Cadets.

Admiral Kingsmill is positive and even vehement in his assurance that "Neither the Noble nor Humber were bought or intended as fighting ships," and on this point we have the least intention in the world of taking issue with him. "There has never been any intention," he continues, "that these particular ships should be used for any purpose other than that of training naval cadets." Again we cannot but compliment the Admiral on the sailor-like frankness and simplicity of his statement. With it as a basis, some very illuminating investigations into the rather hazy purposes and accomplishments of the Department of Marine are made possible.

According to a parliamentary return made during the present session of the House, it costs the people of Canada $1,726 a day for the "up-keep" of the Noble, and $809 for that of the Humber, which figures out at the rate of $925,275 a year for the two warships. Our naval cadets at present number twenty and their course of training, as naval cadets, lasts two years. By a very simple process of arithmetic, we arrive at the inevitable conclusion that it is costing us $46,263 a year to train each cadet. This, we take it, is an international record.

At the end of his second year, by which time we will have spent $920,527.50 on his naval training, our cadet ought to be of great value to Canada and the Empire. Measured by the scale of cost, each Canadian midshipman will be equivalent to half a submarine or a quarter or a new torpedo boat destroyer. On the same basis, he ought to know between thirty and forty times as much as the cadet who graduates at the same time from Osborne, though we hesitate, for obvious reasons, to over-elaborate this fact.

Taken any way you please, these are amazing statistics which will well repay study and reflection.—Montreal Star.

"A Mysterious Something Going On."

Dear Sir,—Will you be so kind as to indicate in your valuable paper if there be any entangling alliance between the Newfoundland Government and Canada. The Canadian Reciprocity Bill is now before the House in Washington. Where does Newfoundland fit in? In my opinion there is a mysterious something going on. I know the members are elected by the people and for the people, but I do not know whether or not secret engineering can bring the fly into the spider's parlor. I remember when a boy, in 1869, I followed the crowd marching to Harbor Grace to oppose Confederation with flags and mottoes, "No Confederation," "Liberty Forever." There was quite a history to the little performance; the leaders, of course, protested and it was staved off.

It is interesting to find that the public papers in this country imagine that Newfoundland is included in the Dominion of Canada. I read in today's Post that a professor from Harvard University is now pursuing his explorations along the Exploits River in the great Canadian Island. In response to which I say, so much for their intelligent and systematic knowledge of geography. I don't know where they acquired such a study of this important science, although the propriety of such a description is not treating the Old Colony to an extent commensurate with her relative importance.

If I were capable of writing volumes I could not justly counsel the voters of Newfoundland on freedom. You are 9,500 square miles larger than Ireland; you have Home Rule, so don't let the unscrupulous Canadians take possession of your country. In conclusion, I give a quotation from some writer, "May the love of country be imprinted in every Newfoundlanders' breast."

Respectfully,
JACK CODY.

Weight of Trains.

Lord Allerton has been commenting on the modern demand for convenience and luxury of every kind in travelling, and he asks us to think what this means in the increase of the weight of trains. While a few years ago trains were of about 100 tons weight, we now had trains running at an average speed of fifty to sixty miles an hour—and weighing 340 or 350 tons.—Tit-Bits.

Repeals Fisher's Statement That AUSTRALIA INDIGNANT.

Sort.

London, July 27.—The Standard's Melbourne correspondent says the utmost amazement and indignation is expressed regarding Premier Fisher's alleged statements of Australia's attitude towards Empire defence. All the principal newspapers repudiate the doctrine that Australia's loyalty is of the fair weather order. It is believed the Premier has been misreported. Hon. W. S. Watt, acting Premier of Victoria, declares that such allegations are dangerous rubbish.

Coincidence of Dates.

Attention has often been called to the curious fact of the date Sept. 3 figuring so largely in the history of Oliver Cromwell. That very dominating man was born on Sept. 3, 1599; he won the battle of Dunbar Sept. 3, 1650; that of Worcester Sept. 3, 1651; and he died Sept. 3, 1658.

The number 88 had fatal influence on the Stuarts. Robert II., the first Stuart king, died in 1388; James II. was killed at the siege of Roxburgh castle, 1488; Mary, Queen of Scots, was beheaded in Fotheringhay, 1588 (new style); James VII. (II of England) was dethroned in 1688; Bonny Prince Charlie died in Rome, 1788, and with him died the last hopes of the Jacobites.

To Clean Gas Stoves.

1. Lift off all the bars from the top.
2. Wash the top of the stove under the burners with hot soda water.
3. Clean the burners every now and then with an old brush dipped in paraffin if they are greasy.
4. Do not poke wire into the holes in the burners as this enlarges them and leads to an increased use of gas.
5. Wash bars with hot soda water, and polish them with blacklead, unless the bars are of steel, when they must be cleaned with emery paper.
6. Clean the brass taps and fittings.
7. Scrub and wash the shelves with hot soda water.

PURITY FLOUR

And Its Keeping Qualities

SOME people find it necessary to buy a considerable quantity of flour at one time—sufficient to last for a long period. Naturally they are anxious to procure a flour of the kind best adapted to lengthy storage.

There are two important reasons why PURITY FLOUR possesses these qualities. One is that it is made entirely from Manitoba Hard Wheat. The other lies in the fact that the careful milling necessary to produce "Purity" absolutely excludes all low-grade particles of the wheat berry. It's the high grade Manitoba Hard Wheat Flour that keeps—stands longest storage.

That's "Purity."
 "Purity" flour may cost a little more, but is more than worth the difference. Try it. Watch results both for quality and yield.
