A Child of Sorrow.

CHAPTER I.

The father of the family reappeared. He had hastily washed his hands and face, and exchanged his city tailcoat for a loose alpaca jacket. He approached the now duly laid table, rubbing his hands and smiling with the air of a man who has earned his tea by the sweat of his brain. And the present writer begs to observe that the sweat of your brain is produced with more pain than the sweat of your brow. But let that pass.

"Well, girls," he said, as he sank into his chair, "I've some good news for you. Egyptians are up two points; you know I was bullying Egyptians? Mysore are down; I was bearing Mysore; consequently I have had a good day. It is not—his square face clouded for a moment—"a usual thing with me. As a rule, I am more familiar with bad days; but this is an exception. Carrie, my dear, we will have sausages as well as bacon for breakfast to-morrow, and I will take you to the theatre in the evening. Ricky, my boy, it will give us much pleasure if you'll accompany us. I make it a rule to mark a stroke of luck with some little-thing like that which I propose."

"Delighted, I am sure, sir," said Ricky, his mouth full of toast.

"Yes, Ricky," said Mr. Carrington, sipping his tea and beaming on them with a mild, brown eye which had something of the cuteness of Carrie's and something of the dreaminess and poetry of Maida's. "If I had started years ago with the experience which I have gained in the great city of London—no city is greater, believe

Drinking Tea Upset Nerves

Mr. Burroughs Compares Canadian Customs With Those in Old Land, and Tells How Nerves Were Set Right.

Orillia, Ont., May 31st.—"How to be well and strong" is the question many are asking at this time of year, and in this letter you will find the answer.

It tells something of the blood-forming, nerve-invigorating influence of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, the great restorative which is causing so much talk here just now.

Nature's way of curing disease is by building up the vitality of the body, and this is exactly what Dr. Chase's Nerve Food does. The blood is made rich and red, and it nourishes the exhausted nerves back to health and vigor.

The experience of Mr. Burroughs as described in this letter is similar to that of hundreds of others in this community who have recently put this well-known food cure to the test.

Mr. George Burroughs, 23 Peter street, Orillia, Ont., writes: "A few years ago, after coming out to this country from England, the change of customs seemed to have some effect on me. In the old country the habit of drinking strong tea was prevalent, and after arriving here I suffered very much from nervousness. If I put my arm down on the table it would shake very noticeably, and while performing my work I would easily tire, and want to sit down and rest. A friend recommended Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, so I secured some and took a treatment. It built me up and made me strong and healthy. I have not had a trace of the nervousness since. I have used Dr. Chase's Ointment also, and find that it heals the skin very quickly. In fact I find all of Dr. Chase's medicines good."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box a full treatment of 6 boxes for $2.50, at all dealers, or Edmondson, Bates & Co. Limited, Toronto. Do not be talked into accepting a substitute. Imitations only disappoint.

me, Master Ricky, not New York, nor Berlin, nor Vienna, nor Paris—I should, by this time, have been—"

He paused, and in the pause Carrie murmured:

"In the House of Commons or Wandsworth jail."

"Amongst the world's millionaires. But experience is a great thing. Ricky, my boy, I adjure you, with all the solemnity of which I am capable, to acquire experience. Another piece of toast, my dear. Pick up knowledge, study examples—may I trouble you, my dear Carrie, for another cup of tea?—follow the market lists. Take as your motto, 'Cut losses close with profits'—another piece of sugar, please, my dear Maida. Where are you going?"

Maida had risen.

"I have an engagement to-night, father," she said, as she bent over him and laid her clear, ivory cheek against his head.

"Ah, yes, yes," he said, in an abstracted tone.

It had pleased him to ignore Maida's occupation. In a vague way he was aware that Maida not only earned her own living but contributed to the general fund by appearing at entertainments of the fashionable world; but he eschewed particulars and was content to remain in ignorance of the details. If Carrie had elected to keep an apple stall or sweep a crossing during his absent hours, he would have successfully maintained the like ignorance.

He nodded two or three times and stroked her hand in a permissive, patronizing kind of way, and she glided from the room and went upstairs, followed by Carrie.

"You are sure you are quite word-perfect, and have got the music all right?" said Carrie, as she watched Maida put on the satin skirt and blouse, the latter of which Carrie had contrived to finish, and was now eyeing with a critical and satisfied air.

"Quite," said Maida.

She stood before the glass and was looking at herself with a dreamy, abstracted air, and her lips, after her reply, moved as if she were repeating some lines in an absent, preoccupied fashion.

"Yes; I think I am word-perfect, and that I have got the music. If they would only listen!"

She pinned her veil over her simple, but tasteful hat, and the two sisters went down the stairs to the hall door, which was always open for the convenience of the many lodgers, and Carrie called a hansom. She caught her sister's hand, as Maida got in, and her strong, girlish fingers closed on it tightly.

"I wish you good luck, dearest!" she said, with a catch in her voice; but Maida scarcely heard her, and the smile she yielded in response was vague and dreamy.

The hansom drove off.

CHAPTER II.

Half an hour before Maida started, Heroncourt went up the steps of the Glassbury House, in Grosvenor Square. A footman, who had received his instructions, led his lordship to a small drawing-room which served the countess for a kind of boudoir; it was a room to which only her most intimate friends were admitted. The countess was well known by her photographs; and strange to say, they do not flatter her; though past middle life, her hair still retains the lustre, her cheek the bloom, and her eyes the winning brightness of her girlhood. She was very fond of Lord Heroncourt, had been fond of him when she was a big girl and he was a boy at Eton—known even then as "mad Vaser"—and if she had been younger than he, it was quite probable that her liking for him would have ended with the usual church and parson; but as she was older and marriage was not practicable, she turned her love to the milder melody of a friendly affection; and it sang in her heart all the time.

Her soft brown eyes beamed on him as he entered, and she gave him her hand which he held longer than hands are usually held before he released it.

"Well, Byrne?" she said. "It was good of you to come. I know you are very busy, that you must be driven and harassed, and much worried; but you know how anxious I am to hear how things are going."

"I have an engagement to-night, father," she said, as she bent over him and laid her clear, ivory cheek against his head.

The Flavour Lasts!

He shrugged his shoulders—they were broad and straight, the shoulders of a practised athlete, with a constitution like a rock against which the waves of dissipation beat in vain—and sank into the low and comfortable chair which she had placed for him near her own.

"They don't appear to be going at all," he said, rather gravely, but with a slight smile. "They seem to be in about as bad a way as they well could be. I'm more than ever convinced that poor Harold died a bit of ill luck for me as well as for himself. He didn't seem to mind the horrible state of things, and just went on his way without worrying himself. I believe he would have sat down to the table with the balliffs and asked a pun to hunt with him; quite happy, so long as he had his own dinner and got his own run."

Lady Glassbury looked at him thoughtfully, as if she were a little puzzled and surprised.

"I should have thought you would have cared just as little, Byrne," she said, musingly.

He raised his brows slightly and was silent for a moment, as if her remark had set him thinking.

"So should I," he said, at last. "The day before Harold died I should have said that nothing in the world would have troubled me; but I seem to have altered somehow. I suppose it's coming into the title; that sounds ridiculous; but I can't think of any other reason. Of course I've been a fool; I know that now, and I've a kind of suspicion that I knew it all the time. What's the name of that play in which the man resents being called a silly ass? He says, 'I may be an ass, but I'm not a silly ass.' I fancy that's the way with me. I've an idea that all the time I was playing the giddy goat and chucking the money away that I was an ass; but most of the fellows I knew were doing the same thing. And somehow it came easy. Of course I never expected to come into the title. Harold looked as if he would live to be a hundred; and he might have married any day—by the way, he would probably have married one of the maids. I wish he had. When I heard that brute of a horse had chucked him off and killed him, I half made up my mind to go abroad, I mean to Canada, Australia, wherever it is fellows go, and break stones or drive sheep. Perhaps I'd better have done so."

She shook her head.

"But I couldn't. The fact is, I've got a kind of foolish, sneaking kind of pride in the old name and the old place—though there's only the name left; I can scarcely call the place my own. 'Pon my word, there doesn't seem to be any income at all; and if it wasn't for the few hundred a year coming in from the London property, I should either have to go abroad, or turn an organ, which seems the fashionable kind of thing to do. I'm sorry to bore you with all this, Ethelreda."

"You know it doesn't bore me," she said. "For what else did I send for you? Have you seen that lawyer—what is his name?"

"Spinner," replied Heroncourt. "Yes. He seems a decent kind of fellow, and I fancy he has some kind of idea, some vague plan for improving matters; but it's only vague at present, and he says nothing definite. He has lent me some money—foolishly enough, I think, and I told him so."

"I daresay he knows what he is doing," said the countess. "Men of that sort are very clever, and sometimes hit upon a way of helping one. I am sorry for you, Byrne; but you know that."

She put out her hand and touched his; she often did it when Lord Glassbury was present, and her husband, who understood her as well as loved her, did not mind in the least.

"It wouldn't matter if you didn't care," she went on, thoughtfully. "If you really want to get the old place back and to keep up the title properly, I'm afraid there's only one way, Byrne." She paused, and her brows grew straight and together. "You will have to marry money."

"Yes, that's the regular line of business," he said, moodily, and his brows also drew together. "As a matter of choice, I'd rather turn an organ or go sheep-driving. But that would not help me, would it? I wish you hadn't said that, Ethelreda."

"I'd got to say it," she said, with a sigh.

"And I suppose you've got a girl already in your eye?" he said, with a laugh that was bitter rather than mirthful.

NOTICE!

We have been instructed by Michael E. Martin, Esquire, of this City, that large quantities of pitprops and other timber belonging to him and piled for shipment at various places in the electoral district of Twillingate have been unlawfully taken away and converted to their own use by various fishermen and schooner owners resident in and about the localities referred to.

Notice is hereby given to all persons concerned, without prejudice to Mr. Martin's right of action in respect of such pitprops and timber as have already been taken, that any trespass, destruction, removal or injury hereafter done by any person or persons to or of any such pitprops or other timber, the property of our client, will be prosecuted with the full rigour of the law and without further notice.

Our Volunteers.

The following recruits signed the roll at headquarters yesterday:
For the Army,
Pierce Budgett, Pilley's Island.
Harold Warr, Pilley's Island.

For the Forestry,
Walter John Lidstone, St. John's.
William Walters, Bay Bulls Road, Goulet's.

A number of volunteers for the Forestry Companies were given home leave yesterday and left by to-day's express on a brief visit to their friends in the outports. Capt. Ronnie and Lieut. Winter, of the Musketry Committee, accompanied by 2nd Lieut. Smith, visited the rifle range yesterday and tested the new Lewis machine gun, which was found to be in excellent condition. Several rounds were fired at the rate of 750 shots a minute. Lieut. Smith has been attached to the headquarters staff and will start immediately in training a gun crew. It is expected that the recruiting station at Carbonear will shortly be closed.

Judgment in Trap Berth Case.

The following judgment has been handed down by Mr. F. J. Morris, K.C., J.P., in the case of Lewis vs. Garland concerning the setting of traps at Empty Basket.

In the matter of E.H. Lewis versus Benjamin Garland for a breach of Section 48 of the Rules and Regulations respecting the fisheries of the Colony made under and by virtue of the provisions of the Act, 61 Vic. Cap. 3.

In this matter, from the evidence of Fishery Warden William Holwell, who inspected Lewis's trap, I find that the twine that Lewis had set at Empty Basket was not a trap as required under Section 48; and the trap set by Garland had all the legal requirements. I, therefore, dismiss the complaint and order Lewis' twine to be taken out of the water, and award the berth to Garland, the defendant.

Dated at St. John's this 31st day of May, 1917.

F. J. MORRIS,
Justice of the Peace.

Hear From.

By the last English mail a letter was received from Rev. Geo. Hewitt, Chaplain in the Royal Navy, telling of many interesting incidents in connection with his office in the senior service. While at a port in Scotland, as many of the ship's company as could be spared proceeded on shore armed to the teeth with picks and shovels and other farming implements, made an informal attack on a piece of vacant land and in very quick time transformed it into a garden into which they planted potatoes. The digging and sowing party were under command of Chaplain Hewitt whose ability to perform such work cannot be denied. The sailor parson has been constantly on the sea, and the supposed land appointment he was to receive, as stated by a contemporary, is in arrears.

AT THE HOUSE.

ELOQUENT ADDRESSES IN BOTH CHAMBERS.

With a large attendance of citizens and in the presence of many distinguished visitors, His Excellency the Governor opened the fifth session of the Legislature yesterday afternoon. After inspecting the naval and military forces, the Governor proceeded to the Legislative Council Chamber and took his seat on the Throne. The Gentleman Usher of the Black Rod summoned the Speaker and Members of the House of Assembly to the Bar of the House. The Governor then read his Speech from the Throne, which was published in our columns yesterday. A copy having been delivered to the Speaker, the members of the Lower House withdrew to the Assembly Chamber. His Excellency and suite then left the House at 12.30. After a short interval the Council went into session, the President, Hon. P. T. McGrath, being in the chair. The Speech from the Throne having been re-read by the Clerk, Hon. John Anderson moved that an address in reply be sent to His Excellency. In an eloquent speech, Mr. Anderson dealt mainly with the war, and showed how incomparable it was to all wars of the past in magnitude. He touched only briefly on local affairs, but showed how generally satisfactory these are and how the future could be regarded with hope and courage.

Hon. John Harvey seconded the motion in a quiet but impressive speech, which was mainly a plea for greater unity internally. He referred to the problems of living that confront the country, and showed how even in that respect Newfoundland is fortunately placed. He regretted the failure of the two parties to come to an agreement and unite in the face of the common need, and made a convincing appeal to the country's representatives not to dissipate their energies at such a time in internal dissensions. The President then nominated a committee to draft an address in reply to the Governor's speech. Hon. Mr. Anderson gave notice that he would ask leave to-day to introduce a Daylight Saving Bill. The Council adjourned at 5.15 p.m. until 4.30 p.m. this afternoon.

AT THE HOUSE.

After the Speech from the Throne had been read by the Speaker, the Prime Minister moved the following resolution of condolence to the relatives of the two late members of the Legislature, Mr. John Dwyer, M.H.A. for St. John's East, and Mr. M. J. Kennedy, M.H.A. for St. John's West: RESOLVED—That the House desires to place on record an expression of its heartfelt sorrow at the decease of John Dwyer, Esq., and Mr. M. J. Kennedy, Esq., for some time members of this branch of the Legislature. Their sterling qualities rendered them a valuable acquisition to the Legislature. Whilst mourning their loss, members of this House desire to convey to their relatives deep sympathy in their bereavement.

The Leader of the Opposition seconded the Resolution, paying a tribute to the memory of both deceased members. The Resolution was carried unanimously and ordered to be recorded in the Hansard.

The motion for the Address in Reply was proposed by Mr. R. J. Devereaux, who gave a lengthy and excellent patriotic address, lasting for upwards of an hour. Mr. W. J. Higgins seconded the motion in a fluent and able speech, dealing mainly with circumstances arising out of the war. He paid an eloquent and touching tribute to our brave Newfoundland sailors and soldiers who have fought and die so nobly in upholding the traditions of their race and maintaining the high principles and ideals of the British Empire. In the course of his utterances the learned member for St. John's East made a timely reference to the high cost of living, the increase in the salaries of civil servants and the augmentation of the grant for Education.

Dr. Lloyd, Leader of the Opposition, followed. He expressed the hope that the best in our power would be put forward to win out in this titanic struggle. He agreed that the Speech from the Throne was a war document but disagreed with the contention that the delay in the opening of Parliament had been justified because of the absence of the Prime Minister, whom he took occasion to welcome back to the Colony. Continuing, he said the House could have met while the Premier was in London, but there were other reasons why it did not.

Other than the absence of the Prime Minister, he scored the Government for not having appointed a Judge of the District Court as promised, and formed the long vacancy of that important office a grave public scandal. Whilst the Opposition were willing to assist the Government in war measures, he was tired of listening to the frequent patriotic appeals of the Government who were carrying on all kinds of tricks for party expediency and suggested that it was time they started to play the game fairly. He also referred to the election kite the Government were flying in the promise to raise the salaries of all civil servants.

Hr. Grace Notes.

The schr. Margaret R. J. Keefe, master, left this morning for Trinity to fit out at Messrs. Ryan Bros. for the Labrador.

Quite a large number of vessels are now in port for the purpose of being docked for repairs, cleaning up, etc., before commencing the summer's work.

Messrs. R. D. McRae & Sons discharged another load of coal from a schooner during the week. Other cargoes are on the way and with the help of Mr. McRae's judgment and forethought there is little danger of Harbour Grace suffering much from coal shortage.

A memorial service for Private James Cron will be held in St. Andrew's Church, on Sunday next, at 6.30. King Edward Brigade, of which Pte. Cron was a member, will attend the service in uniform.

A little girl named Burke, daughter of Captain Burke, was run over by a man belonging to the South Side, when driving home on his cart a few days ago. Dr. Cron was called to attend to the little one's injuries, which were glad to hear are not serious.

Fresh codfish, salmon and herring were on sale in the local market this morning. Codfish for the first time for the season.

Our Labrador men are now making the final preparations for their departure to the coast. We take this opportunity of wishing them one and all a pleasant and prosperous season on the coast.

Master David Duff arrived from Sackville, N.B., on Tuesday last to spend his vacation with his parents here. Master Duff is attending college there.

Great Country Store To-Night.

There is a wonderful Country Store to-night. Mrs. Rossley bought a great assortment of lovely things at the White Elephant Sale, and those goods are all first class from our best people. They will be handed out to-night at the Store. The big musical comedy and pictures will all make up the finest night's amusement in this city. On Saturday night bring your market basket. It's grocery night. Nothing but foodstuffs; several sacks of flour. On Monday the world-war pictures The Somme Victory, under the distinguished patronage and presence of His Excellency the Governor and Lady Davidson, who saw this wonderful picture in private and wish to see it again. That's some recommendation for a picture. Be in time to-night and Saturday for the big Country Store and grocery store. Your money's worth; rather.

More Prisoners Heard From.

The Casualty List which we publish to-day, and which contains "casualties" of a very welcome kind, speaks for itself. Second Lieutenant Wm. Grace, whom we know to be a prisoner from the narrative of Sergeant Walsh, reports six men besides himself fellow-prisoners at Mulheim; two other men write from Duisburg; and three more from Julish. All are survivors of the action at Monchy of April 14th. The news will revive hopes of others of our men, and now that it reaches us directly from the prisoners we may look for similar word from others.

We have pleasure in publishing, through the kindness of Mr. P. Grace, the following letter, which he has received from Sergt. John Dee, wounded in that engagement, and which tells the extraordinary story of Sergeant Walsh. It will be seen that the Sergeant mentions two men, O'Reilly and Hopper, who we believe have not yet been included in the lists, or at least mentioned as being prisoners.

Wandsworth, May 16th.

Dear Pat—

No doubt you have received a cable from the Pay and Record Office stating that Will has unofficially been reported slightly wounded and a prisoner in Germany. As I was the means of bringing this information to the Pay and Record Office, Lieut. Hugh Anderson asked me to write you and give you all the information possible.

Well, I've got the information from Sergt. Pat Walsh (who was in B Co. with Will) and as his is a most remarkable experience I'll give it to you as I got it from him.

In the attack at Monchy-le-Preux near Arras on April 14th in which our battalion took part, the remnant of B Co. which reached their objective were surrounded by the Germans, among them being Sergt. Walsh, your brother and Lieut. Andrew Clouston. Walsh was wounded by a machine gun bullet through the shin bone. Will was also slightly wounded in the leg but not enough to interfere with his walking. Lieut. Clouston was wounded in the right arm and stomach but not seriously, and he was also able to walk.

The little group had put up a stiff fight, but were finally overpowered by superior numbers. Your brother and Clouston were not ten yards away from Walsh when they were both overpowered, their arms and equipment seized and taken from them. The last he saw of both was about ten minutes afterward when they were led away to the rear under escort.

Shortly after this Walsh was seized by two Germans who carried him away to the rear, but finding that he was utterly unable to walk, dropped him near their second line. In the confusion that reigned, he managed to roll into a shell hole among some dead Germans and remained there ten days. Several times during that period he was overhauled by bodies of Germans, but they, upon seeing that he had a broken leg and thinking him almost dead, left him there until on April 24th the remainder of the 29th Division made an attack and captured the German front line. That night he managed to crawl (goodness only knows how) into the lines of the English Fusiliers, who quickly had him on a stretcher and on the way to the Advanced Dressing Station. He was not long in being carried to the Base Hospital, but was in such a condition that they were unable to send him across the Channel. He arrived here last night, and hearing he had come over I went to see him. He told me about Will and Clouston, and being too weak to write asked me to let you know. I immediately got in touch with the Pay and Record Office and got them to wire. Walsh also reports that he saw Jimmie Dempster (son of Mr. Dempster, at Knowling's) and two boys, O'Reilly of D Co., and Hopper, of B Co., taken prisoners, neither of them wounded seriously. I would be glad if you would show this letter to Mr. Dempster and Mr. Clouston. I am sorry that I have been unable to identify either O'Reilly or Hopper.

You can quite realise how delighted I am to be able to communicate this information to you. Kindly remember me to those at home and to the boys of the B. I. S.

Sincerely,
JOHN L. DEE.

A Tale of Tailoring

Our newest arrival is a smart selection of Men's American Tailored Suits in Serge and Mixed Tweeds. These Suits are quite apart from last season's styles, there is a distinct difference in the cut and the materials are of the newest weaves.

The man who aims to be always well yet serviceably dressed should not fail to see the range of Suits for smartness and service we are now showing, at prices ranging from $12.00 to $25.00.

PLAGIARISED AND OTHERWISE.

OUR "HELP WANTED" COLUMN.

There are many vacancies in the ranks of each of the Clubs. As we are anxious to help the worried managers, and as a stimulus to recruiting for players, we give below a list of those who are not with us this year, and whose places will have to be filled—

WANDERERS.

Hunt (O.A.S.)—Outfielder.
Trappell (O.A.S.)—Outfielder.
King—Pitcher.
Hocken—Infielder.

CBBS.

Orr (O.A.S.)—Pitcher.
O'Driscoll (O.A.S.)—Outfielder.
Edens (O.A.S.)—Outfielder.
Tessier (O.A.S.)—Outfielder.
Winter (O.A.S.)—Infielder.

B. I. S.

McHenry (O.A.S.)—Catcher.
Callahan (O.A.S.)—Infielder.
Pitcher (O.A.S.)—Outfielder.
Simpson—Infielder.

RED LIONS.

Ellis (O.A.S.)—Outfielder.
Collins (O.A.S.)—Outfielder.
(O.A.S. means On Active Service.)

Unless the rookies show up well it is quite evident that the "Landstrum" of each Club will have to be pressed into service.

There is a number of players who, for obvious reasons, had not intended to play this year, but realising the urgent and humane need for funds for Hospital work have decided to don their togs once more in aid of the worthiest of all the patriotic funds. If the players do their bit the rest can be safely left with the fans.

YOU AND I.

Our Brothers overseas they fight and die
And suffer more than tongue can ever tell.
While You and I as in-the-days gone by
Work at the peaceful tasks we know so well.

Our Brothers see the war planes flying high
They see the shrapnel breaking o'er their heads
While You and I gaze at a placid sky
From which the light of joyous Spring is shed.

Our Brothers face the high explosive shell,
That awful thing that rents the earth in twain.
With dauntless hearts they pass thru flaming hell
While You and I in happy lands remain.

Oh! You and I, the ones who cannot die
The ones unfit to serve, or growing old,
Are We unhandful of the part we owe?
Are We too mean and grudging of our gold?

The call has come again direct and plain
For Us to do the part that We can do
It is to help assuage the raging pain
Of Our wounded boys staunch and true.

It was not You and I that made the name
Of Justice so much honoured in the world,
We had no part in shining deeds of fame
It was not We that kept the flag unfurled.

But, let You and me, when this War is o'er
Meet face to face our conscience without shame,
And say, "I could not fight on foreign shore
But in any humble way I played the game."

Mastering the Subs.

The official list of British ships sunk has become a regular weekly feature of the first importance. The steady improvement is being maintained, and the total for the past week is 18, as against 27 for the week before. The reduction is wholly in the smaller ships, for by a strange coincidence 18 large ships have been destroyed in each of the past three weeks. The falling off in the smaller ships may mean that the submarines are preserving their costly torpedoes for the larger prey, or it may be in some way the result of the improved methods the British are using. The following table, for the past fourteen weeks, will be of interest to our readers. It will be seen that the sinkings of the last four weeks totalled 115; those of the previous four weeks 153; a considerable gain for the British.

White Elephant Sale.

Yesterday afternoon the White Elephant Sale was continued and largely attended. The St. Bernard dog and sled donated by Mr. Stan Cullen was purchased by a lady for her son, whose birthday falls on June 8th. During the day Messieurs Tessier and McLean did a good business serving teas, and their efforts succeeded in adding quite a handsome amount to the general proceeds. Despite the unfavorable weather a large number of visitors attended the sale this morning which will be continued this afternoon. There are yet some useful articles to be offered for sale and intending purchasers should get a move on.

The Clyde left Horwood early yesterday morning.

The Dundee left Seldom Come By at 10.15 a.m. yesterday.

The Elsie left Humbermouth at 7.45 p.m. yesterday.

The Glencoe is at Placentia.

The Home left Springdale at 3.30 p.m. yesterday.

The Wren arrived at Clarenville at 1 p.m. yesterday.

A NORTHERN VISITOR.

The largest iceberg to enter Conception Bay within the past fifteen years is now sailing around its waters, and is a source of great annoyance to the fishermen who have salmon and herring nets set along the South East Coast. The northern visitor boasts a steeply towering close on one hundred feet above the surface of the water, and while beautiful to look at is dreaded by the toilers of the deep, who watch its movements and fear its presence.

Fading Into Harmony.

By RUTH CAMERON.

RUTH CAMERON

There is nothing more marvelous in all the slowly evolving pattern of our lives than the way some one who is a bit of the pattern becomes faded into harmony with the rest. When one looks at the work years afterwards, I am thinking especially of disappointments and mistakes.

While I was housecleaning the other day I came upon an old copy of my college magazine in which was printed the class poem of which I was the author. As I looked at it I remembered with a rush what was at the time one of the bitterest disappointments of my youth. I was a very poor writer, the editor had not been able to make out my scrawl, and when the college magazine came out the poem over which I had toiled so lovingly was garbled in several places. There had been one phrase in it which the college professor whose praise was my highest guerdon had said was really good. And that phrase was changed!

And Now I Could Smile.
I had been fairly frantic when I first got that magazine. The little changes made me, say such absurd things! And of course I could go around explaining to everybody.

As I sat on a trunk in the attic turning the pages I could remember all my impotent indignation and humiliation. And yet, instead of sighing I was smiling. For all the sting, all the humiliation, had gone. It didn't seem anything to regret, just something to smile at in the tender way one smiles at all memories.

It is Harder to Forgive One's Own Mistakes.
That was a disappointment. Mistakes are not quite so easy to forgive because there is a mixture of self-blame in them and nothing is more exasperating than one's own stupidity. The hands we lose because we didn't have the cards never rankle like the hands we lose because we played them foolishly.

But even mistakes begin to fade into harmony with the pattern if you give them a decade or two. "I was foolish but I learned a good lesson," we say then, or "After all, perhaps it was for the best."

The Things I Regret Most Are Sins of the Tongue.

If a fairy godmother should grant me the privilege of wiping out half a dozen things in my past life I do not think they would be the big disappointments or mistakes. I think they would be sins of the tongue—things that I have told that I had no right to tell, a few wicked taunts that I made in the heat of anger.

Regrets may fade away with the years but remorse never does.

Remember—all the king's horses and all the king's men can't bring back a single spoken or written word back to you.

Had a ship's anchor fall on my knee and leg, and knee swelled up and for six days I could not move it or get help. I then started to use MINARD'S LINIMENT and two bottles cured me.

Hypnotised by the Huns

A PROTEST.

(By Thorpe Lee, in the Daily Mail.)
He was talking so distinctly in the hotel lounge after dinner that I was compelled to listen.

I did not want to listen. I wanted to read. But this young man's voice was so penetrating, the kind of voice which comes from rural vicarages, or from the smaller, more remote type of English country house where "girl" must be pronounced "gayull" and all the vowels are sounded in the mouth, not brought up, full and resonant, from the chest.

He was talking about the war. His theme was the excellence of the German organisation and leadership. Not an uncommon theme among us. We are, as a nation, more inclined to admire the merits of others than to acknowledge our own. That is not a bad attitude of mind in general, but it can be carried too far. I think some of us are inclined to carry it too far just now—to allow ourselves to be hypnotised by the undoubted, but not superhuman, ability of the Huns.

"Eh am 'ot a pro-German," this young man was saying, "but Eh can't see the use of denying that they have proved themselves quite extraordinarily competent. Their system is perfectly wonderful. Their leaders are extremely able. Mackensen is a great man. Falkenhayn too. Eh do not see how we can refuse to admit their greatness."

I was tempted to butt into the discussion. My tongue tingled to ask him what he knew of Mackensen and Falkenhayn. I found it hard to sit still and be forced to listen to his one-sided and ill-founded argument. However, it is not my habit to join in discussions uninvited. I came up to my room to write this article instead.

What is there "wonderful" about the German military organisation? Not, certainly, the perfection of its mechanism. Given forty years of constant, hard-working preparation, with material to work upon so sheeplike as the German race, and only very stupid organisers could have failed to produce a smoothly running machine. Not, certainly, the performance by the machine of the task for which it was created. Everyone knows it was created in order to ensure quick victory.

THE REAL HUN WONDER.

The "wonderful" thing about the German military system is its collapse. It has made its boastful inventors look foolish. They took forty years to perfect it. In less than three years the British nation, although it was rather slow in starting, has put into the field an Army which is not only as good but better, and which has already begun knocking it out.

No one who has seen anything of the war denies that the German soldier fights well. But fighting well has nothing to do with the system in force before the war—unless you contend that the Germans only fight well because of their system, as to which few would agree. Almost all troops are plucky and enduring. Courage is the result of temperament, not of preparation.

Take the matters which preparation could affect. The German trenches are well made. True, but so are the British trenches. The German transport is precise and punctual. So is the British transport. The German artillery is good. The British artillery is better.

Here is another thought. The Germans concentrated their energy upon making an Army. Their Army has not done what was expected of it. We British concentrated upon making a Navy. Our Navy has done what was expected of it. It has kept the German Navy and German merchant vessels off the seas. If there is anything "wonderful" here I think it can fairly be chalked up to us.

And then these "great" men, Mackensen and Falkenhayn, what have they done? Mackensen drove back the Russians. Why? Because they had no ammunition. He invaded Rumania. True, but considering that the Rumanians were unprepared for war, he took a long time over it, and Falkenhayn failed lamentably to carry out his part of the scheme. They are clever, skilful soldiers, no doubt. So they ought to be, when you think of the training they have had. But not more clever and skilful than Haig, than Gough, than Maude. Great? No. That is what I would have said to the young man in the lounge. I feel all the better for saying it now.

The Gas Range!

The Gas Range means comfort for the housewife; shorter kitchen hours for her, and a cleaner kitchen. It is a great mistake to think that cooking with gas is expensive.

Whenever a woman becomes used to gas for cooking, thoughts of a coal or wood stove fill her with gloom. A Gas range is so much easier to operate, so efficient for all kinds of cooking, and so much cleaner, that the idea of going back to the old style methods is decidedly unpleasant. Yet in winter many housewives think they must use a coal or wood stove, because there is no other way of heating the kitchen. THERE IS ANOTHER WAY AND IT IS FAR BETTER THAN THE OLD. THE CLOW GAS STEAM RADIATOR WAY. may 23.17

CHEER UP.

Though days of strife be drawing near, though war may last for many a year, it is not well to yield to fear; cheer up! Don't let your optimism fade; you give the foe untimely aid when you make parade; cheer up! I have three uncles bearing arms; nine cousins went to war's alarms; and yet my smile retains its charms; cheer up! They say we'll soon be short of meat, we'll be deprived of corn and wheat, but, while we have enough to eat, cheer up! They say we'll hear upon our backs the burden of a frightful tax; just now no man that burden packs; cheer up! They're saying this, and saying that, designed to knock our spirits flat, and "they" are talking through a hat—cheer up! Don't cross a bridge until you're there; don't look ahead to borrow care; don't starve until your cupboard's bare; cheer up. Don't try to chill the hopeful chap; you'll never help him win a scrap by having tears upon your map; cheer up. Just now we need no talk of gloom, no prophecies of dole and doom; be cheerful as the flowers in bloom—cheer up!

Fashions and Fad.

Neutral colors like tan and gray are preferred for tailored suits. Flesh-color and white continue to be most liked among waist colors. A pretty idea is to line a knotted blue serge belt with white pique. Cotton and linen frocks are as much favoured as silk for summer. There are so many styles in collars that all shapes are fashionable. Hair may be worn either low or high, but it must be flat to the head. The newest corsage bouquets are very brilliant or in dull, faded tones. In spite of the favour shown to silks, they will never replace woollens. Bright pink, turquoise and gold are prominent among evening gowns.

BALEFORD

Hon. Arthur Balfour, Secretary for Foreign Affairs, was elected to the United States Club, which was given to him when he arrived in St. John's on a busy afternoon at an address at a night club held by the Windsor Hotel, which was attended by an audience of the Club. This was a conversation of the Royal Victoria Club, the presence of a large number of people, the presence of the Club was confirmed by two of his distinguished Rear Admiral Sir D. Bridges, and upon Sir Rice, British Consul, United States, and at the Club in the war, during the period of his Empire in war and the period of his utterances in it.

RECRUITING BRITISH IN U.S.A.

OTTAWA, To-day.

Arrangements have been made between the Government of Britain and the U. S. whereby all recruiting in the States either for the British or Canadian forces shall be carried on through a British Recruiting Mission headed by a Brigadier General and by which no recruiting for British or Canadian forces through other channels will be allowed. According to arrangements which have been made, all persons in the United States who are not naturally born or naturalized citizens, and who wish to enlist in the British Army or Canadian Expeditionary Force, may apply at the nearest United States recruiting office. If they are found physically fit, they will be given transportation, in case it is in the British Army, to New York, where they will be taken in charge by a British recruiting officer there. If enlisting for the Canadian Expeditionary Force they will be supplied with transportation to the nearest of the following points: Vancouver, Winnipeg, Toronto, Montreal, St. John, Halifax. In regard to Americans in Canada desiring to enlist in the U. S. Army it is probable that similar reciprocal arrangements will be made.

BALFOUR IN MONTREAL.

MONTREAL, To-day.

Hon. Arthur Jas. Balfour, British Secretary for Foreign Affairs, and head of the War Mission, whose labors in the United States have been concluded, was given a hearty reception when he arrived at Montreal at 12.30 o'clock to-day from Ottawa. He spent a busy afternoon here. He delivered an address at a luncheon of the Canadian Club held in the Rose Room of the Windsor Hotel shortly after his arrival, which was attentively followed by an audience of 800 members of the Club. This afternoon at a special convocation of McGill University at Royal Victoria College, in the presence of a large gathering of prominent people, the degree of Doctor of Laws was conferred on Balfour and two of his distinguished associates, Rear Admiral Sir Dechair, Lt. Gen. Bridges, and upon Sir Cecil Spring Rice, British Ambassador to the United States. Balfour in his address at the Club luncheon dealt with the war, citing the problems facing the Empire in war and after the war in the period of reconstruction. In all his utterances he dealt with the cess of the whole scheme rests with their decision. The sentiment of Parliament seems to be divided. There are many on both sides who don't relish a coalition, but the best men of both parties are supporting the proposal.

QUEBEC'S STRANGE ARGUMENT.

MONTREAL, To-day.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier was in this city for a few hours to-day, supposedly ascertaining from Sir Lomer Gouin, Premier of the Province of Quebec, who met Sir Wilfrid at Bonaventure Station, the feeling of this province on the question of a coalition Dominion Government. It is believed that he was told the Quebec people are against coalition at present. It is stated that opposition to coalition is based to some extent at least on the fact that it was not suggested by the Borden Government at the beginning of the war, and that if the Liberals joined the Conservative Government now they would have to bear the responsibility for all acts of the administration since the war started.

TURKISH DEVILRY.

COPENHAGEN, To-day.

According to information received in Zionist circles from Palestine, the Turks have twice given orders for the evacuation of the Jews from Jerusalem, but that the orders were suspended owing to representations from the German Government, which feared for the safety of the shrines and other holy places, and still more the effect upon the world's public opinion. The order of expulsion, however, is still hanging over the heads of the residents of Jerusalem. The Consulates and public institutions have their belongings packed, and their affairs in order, so as to leave should the Turkish Commander, Djemal Pasha, enforce it as a Geerla (Z) measure. The expulsion of the Jews from Jaffa, according to the same source of information, was due to chicaneries of Turkish officials, who, when the Jews of Galilee sent horses and carts to their co-religionists for their exodus, requisitioned all the horses, and then provided for their transportation by means of second railroad coaches, which caused an immediate outbreak of spotted typhus among the wanderers.

BRITISH LABOR REPRESENTATION.

STOCKHOLM, To-day.

The Dutch and Scandinavian Socialist Committee has been informed that the British Labor Socialist organization will send representatives to the Stockholm conference. C. H. Roberts and Ramsay MacDonald, Labor members of Parliament, are expected.

DEVELOPMENTS IN SPAIN.

MADRID, To-day.

According to newspapers the constitutional guarantees will be suspended again in two or three days. The constitutional guarantees were suspended in Spain at the end of March, following several strikes and serious disorders throughout the country. It was reported in Washington the revolutionary movement was in progress, but this was denied by the Spanish Ambassador. The operations of the censorship have cut off definite information regarding the recent internal situation in Spain.

RUSSIAN GOVERNMENT REMITS SENTENCES.

PETROGRAD, To-day.

The Provisional Government, on the proposal of the Finnish Senate, has proclaimed a complete or partial remission of the sentences pronounced on all Finnish citizens for crimes of offences committed prior to March 20th, 1917. The Government has also decreed repressive measures against the abuse of alcohol. Persons getting drunk or drinking to excess in public places are liable to 18 months' imprisonment. Persons while drunk committing robberies, acts of violence or other offences will be liable to penal servitude for six or eight years.

DESPERATE FIGHTING ON FRENCH FRONT.

PARIS, To-day.

The fighting was particularly desperate in the region of the Teton, the Casque and Mont Gaute, the attack being launched in four successive waves after a heavy bombardment from large calibre guns and suffocating gas. The French took prisoners during the fighting, including two officers.

EARTH SHOCKS FELT.

CLEVELAND, To-day.

The Elsie Bardette Disaster.

BODIES ARRIVE—A SAD HOME-COMING.

There reached the city this morning the bodies of Capt. Leo Coady and Mate William Keough, of the schr. Elsie Bardette, which met disaster recently while on her way from Harbor Breton to North Sydney, as previously told in this paper. Immediately on arrival the corpses were taken to the homes of the bereaved families and prepared for interment. The home-coming of the remains of Mate Keough is indeed pathetic in the extreme. Within the past four months his two children were buried; now his wife is in a very delicate state of health. Mate Keough was 36 years old. The circumstances surrounding the home of Capt. Coady are also very sad, his mother being dangerously ill.

Edward Snow, who lost his life in the Elsie Bardette, formerly lived on Alexander Street. He was a boson on the vessel and his body has not been recovered. His son, Ronald, was drowned on the "Clan McNaughton," having joined the Royal Naval Reserve at the outbreak of the war. He has two other sons, who are at present following the dangerous avocation which brought his life to a close. He is also survived by a widow, a daughter, three sisters and two brothers. To the grief-stricken families the Telegram expresses its deepest sympathy.

Thoughtful Message

FROM CAPT. T. NANGLE, C.F.

While the news conveyed in the following message from Capt. T. Nangle, C. F., has fortunately reached us some time in advance, it is nevertheless a great source of comfort for the relatives of those at the front to know that the welfare of those they love is being looked after by so gallant a gentleman as the Rev. Fr. Nangle. It is also strange to note that although he is in the thickest of the fight we in Newfoundland should receive the glad tidings ten days before Capt. Nangle, but we must bear in mind that means of communication other than the channels in which orders are given and received at the front are limited.

The message reads:

"Good hope for Clouston, Grace, 755 Dempster, advise parents; particulars April 14th en route."

T. NANGLE, C.F."

Obituary.

MR. P. McGRATH.

At his residence, Springdale Street, the death occurred this morning of Mr. Patrick McGrath, a well known master cooper and citizen, after a comparatively short illness. He was engaged at his business as usual up to Monday last and in the afternoon of that day was stricken. For the past half century deceased was a prominent figure in the community and carried on the largest co-operation in the city. He is survived by five sons and one daughter. The Telegram extends its sympathy to the bereaved family.

DISEASE OUTSIDE THE CITY.

A case of diphtheria was reported to-day from a residence on the Portugal Cove Road. The patient was removed to Hospital.

GLENCOE'S PASSENGERS.

The Glencoe arrived at Placentia at 3.50 a.m. to-day with the following first class passengers:—D. Burke, Capt. J. Linnahill, J. B. Patten, C. Forsey, C. Lake, F. Lake, G. H. Ewert, H. Lake, J. R. THE WEEK'S LOSSES.

LONDON, May 30.
Eighteen British ships of more than 1,600 tons were sunk during the past week, it was officially announced tonight. The vessel of less than 1,600 tons and two fishing vessels were also sunk. The losses of British shipping from the submarine war as reported this week total 21 compared with 20 lost in the previous week. While the losses of vessels exceeding 1,600 tons each remain the same as the previous report, the number of ships of less than 1,600 tons is reduced from nine to only one. The number of fishing vessels sunk is reduced from three to two. The text of the announcement reads: The weekly summary gives arrivals at 2,719, and sailings 2,768. British merchant ships sunk by mines or submarines over 1,600 tons, 18; under 1,600 tons, one. British merchant vessels unsuccessfully attacked, including one previously reported, 17. British fishing vessels sunk, 2. The report invariably includes all merchant tonnage known to have been sunk by mine or submarine, whether employed by the Government or otherwise.

MUST FULFIL OBLIGATIONS.

PARIS, May 30.
Paul Painlevé, Minister of War, submitted for approval of President Poincaré at a Cabinet meeting to-day, a bill requiring that subjects or citizens of countries allied with France of such age that they would be liable to military service in their native countries, must fulfil their military obligations. The bill, which follows the policy adopted in England, will be introduced in the Chamber of Deputies shortly.

COALITION PROBABLE.

OTTAWA, May 30.
There are strong indications to-day that the perplexed political situation will be settled by arrangement between the leaders for a coalition Ministry, probably including some prominent men not connected with politics. Sir Wilfrid Laurier, who has been in frequent conference on the situation with Sir Robert Borden, and has also been at Rideau Hall, left for Montreal to-day, presumably to consult the Premier again, on the probable attitude of Quebec towards conscription, under a non-partisan

Government, while it is understood a scheme, still very indefinite, of a tentative exchange between the two leaders is believed to give promise of an early solution of the difficulty. Under a coalition administration it is likely the conscription bill would be redrafted in some respects to make it more acceptable to the interests now opposing the measure, in the form forecast by the Premier.

MODIFIED BILL PREDICTED.

QUEBEC, May 30.
It is hinted here that Sir Robert Borden will drop the military conscription bill for overseas service and establish a military conscription for Canada only, and also an industrial and agricultural conscription. A coalition cabinet is also said to have been agreed on. Sir Lomer Gouin is said to have been named by the Liberals as a probable member of the new Cabinet.

QUIET ON BRITISH FRONT.

LONDON, May 30.
There is nothing of special interest to report, says to-night's official of the war office.

I. S. AMBASSADOR RETURNING.

AMSTERDAM, May 30.
A despatch sent yesterday from Constantinople to the Frankfurter Zeitung, says Abram I. Elkus, who was American Ambassador to Turkey until diplomatic relations were severed, and has since been detained in the Turkish capital by illness, was to depart on that day for Switzerland by way of Vienna. Accommodations have been provided in a special car on the Balkan express for the Ambassador. Mrs. Elkus and 25 others from the American Embassy were in the party.

RUN SOCIALISTS' POLICY.

STOCKHOLM, May 30.
The peace programme of the Austrian and German delegates to the Socialist conference to be held here as formulated, provides for no annexations, no indemnities and restrictions of mechanical means which may be employed in maritime and air warfare. Six points of the program are enumerated as follows: First, no annexation; second, no indemnities; third, the South Slavic lands and Crown lands to remain in the dual monarchy, but Socialists should support the efforts of their inhabitants to gain autonomy; fourth, Finland and Russian-Poland to be independent States; the people of Galicia to have autonomy under the sovereignty of Austria. Under this head the assertion is made that an enduring solution of the Polish problem can be expected to be reached in the future by agreements between the two Central Powers and the independent state of Russian Poland. Fifth, restoration of freedom of commerce on land and sea; modification of the protectionist system; the establishment of international administration for all maritime routes and inter-oceanic canals; inter-nation built and administered railways. Sixth, return to the maritime principle established by the Paris peace treaty of 1856, especially regarding the prohibition of the capture or arming of merchantmen; the abolishment of prize courts and reduction of the contraband list taken therefrom, especially all raw materials for clothing or food; modification of the rights of blockade and restriction of mechanical means which may be employed in maritime air warfare; delegates to go on record as opposing the annexation of Belgium and declare themselves as being friendly to Serbia's independence, which state, by joining with Montenegro, can assure itself of an outlet to the sea. They declare the Balkan States should arrange their own internal affairs without outside interference. The future of Alsace-Lorraine was not mentioned. Czech, Polish and Bosnian delegates attended the group conference but did not join the programme. They will formulate their own programme later.

NOTHING TO REPORT.

BERLIN, May 30.
The German war office statement to-night says there is nothing of importance to report.

RUSSIA'S NEEDS.

PETROGRAD, May 30.
Food Minister M. Pieschouhoff today unfolded the serious economic situation to Congress officers and delegates from the front, explaining it had been impossible as yet to establish grain monopoly, owing to the complicated organization required. On the eve of the revolution, he said, there was virtually no wheat available. Supplies had increased since March, but dwindled again in April. The army requirements was eighteen million poods of wheat weekly, but at one time only five million arrived. The shipments now arriving were bigger, but far from normal, and people would probably be obliged to face a still further shortage of other grains, especially oats, which were also scarce. He feared that even after the grain monopoly was organized the situation would not be improved. Because of suspicions of paper money, the peasants demanded raw materials and iron implements in exchange for their products. The Central Committee which has charge of the regulation of the iron supply, continued the Minister, only has three million poods of iron on hand, while the munitions factories require thirty million. Hence Russia is on the eve of a catastrophe, he declared, unless the population, particularly the peasants, are prepared for the greatest self-sacrifice.

WAR REVIEW.

NEW YORK, May 30.
The battle front from Gorizia southward towards the head of the Gulf of Trieste, remains the only theatre where for the moment hard fighting is progressing. Even here, however, the intensity which characterized the operations last week is lacking. On the front in France where Field Marshal Haig's forces are facing the Germans, operations by neither side have risen above minor attacks for several days, consisting mainly of manoeuvres by small raiding parties, and artillery duels of a moderate degree in strength. Wednesday was alike marked without infantry engagements between the French and Germans, although their respective guns took part in spirited artillery duels south of St. Quentin and Champagne. The Russians and Austrians on the eastern front are fighting in more lively fashion than has been the case for months. This is particularly true in East Galicia, where several days ago the Russians began an offensive. As yet the Petrograd war office has made no comment on the situation as it now exists in this region, nor has the Austrian official statement given any idea as to the extent of hostilities or an intimation of the exact zone where the fighting is going on. It is anticipated that the commencement of hostilities between the Russians and Rumanians in Roumania has not yet materialized. Between Jamiano and the head of the Gulf of Trieste the Italians have again cut into the Austrian lines and occupied positions west of the village of Medeazza, thereby bringing their right wing closer toward Dubno and the railway line, leading toward Trieste. The Austrian war office reports the repulse of Italian attacks near Jamiano, while a similar claim is made by Rome for the Italians.

CANADA'S OFFERING.

OTTAWA, May 30.
The total number of officers and men of the Canadian Expeditionary Force, who had sailed for England up to May 1st, was 312,503 according to information furnished on behalf of the Minister of Militia in the Commons to-day. The total who were on duty in Canada up to May 1st was 25,475. There is no record of the number of officers and men sent back from England as unfit for service at the front.

Spirit of Christ in the War.

The Holy Cross Magazine: An English paper tells us of a touching incident that occurred in the war zone not far from Peronne. A village, occupied by the Germans, fell into the hands of a British regiment on the retirement of the former. The Germans had reverently laid some forty or fifty of their dead comrades to rest in a plot of ground, marking the graves with wooden crosses. When the English arrived the spot had be-

At Thomas's W. A. Sale of Work.

A very successful sale of work and entertainment was held at Canon Wood Hall yesterday afternoon and night and was very largely attended. Included in the visitors were Lady Davidson, who was attended by Hon. R. Watson, Rev. C. E. Moulton and a number of prominent members of the parish. Mrs. Fred. Hensell, President of the St. Thomas's Women's Association, and her associates have every reason to feel proud of the success achieved. The sale opened at 3 o'clock and those in charge of the tables were:—Work—Mesdames H. Strling, House, J. Pike, Christian, McGregor and McDonald. Red Cross—Mrs. Nosworthy. Fancy—Mesdames F. Carter and G. Anderson. Candy and Fruit—Mesdames Oke and T. Cook. Jumble—Mesdames J. Williams, Major and C. Udle. At 8 p.m. a very enjoyable concert was held. Those taking part were:—Mrs. Grieve, Mrs. Foster, Miss M. Mitchell, Miss Taylor, Messrs. F. Emerson, F. Devereaux, A. Bailey, H. Foster and Ruggies; Misses G. Edwards, M. Coen, Ellis, Hilda Morris.

Here and There.

GOES NORTH.—The S. S. Prospero sails for the northward to-morrow morning with a full freight.
NAVY MAN'S FUNERAL.—The funeral obsequies with military honours of the American naval man Joy will take place next week on arrival of the mother of the deceased.
NO INFECTIOUS DISEASE.—The health authorities are successful in endeavouring to stamp out infectious disease in the city, as not since Saturday last has a single case of disease been reported.
MACHINE GUN INSTRUCTOR.—Second Lieut. S. Smith is now attached to Headquarters to act as instructor of machine gun.

come overgrown with weeds and briars, and in a short time the little cemetery would have disappeared. But the "Tommy's" set to work, cleared the place of weeds, marked out the graves with bricks from the ruined houses, and when all was done, erected a wooden cross six feet high, with the inscription: "Forgive us our trespasses, as we forgive those who trespass against us." Thus even amidst the horrors of war does the spirit of Christ find a place. May our own attitude towards those with whom we are at war reflect this same spirit!

Fashions and Fads.

Blue chambray with white collar and white smocking is made into a pretty dress for a small girl. Colored crepe de chine blouses may have lace trimmings dyed to match. If there are buttonholes on the tailored blouse they must be bound in colour.

THE SUBURBANITE.

The suburbanite is a human derelict who would rather live in a four-room bungalow sixteen blocks from a street-car line than reside in a palatial downtown flat with the elevated tracks running past the bed-room window. One reason why there are so many suburbanites strung around on twenty-two foot lots near our great cities is because of the obtrusive character of the elevated railroad, which spares neither age nor sex in its assault upon the privacy of the home. Many a flat dweller has stepped out on the fire-escape in his pajamas, on a hot night, in order to corral a small section of unimpeded atmosphere, only to be driven hurriedly into the back hall by the approach of an elevated train lined with eager faces.

When a man makes up his mind to become a suburbanite, he usually aims at a choice plot of ground lying at the extreme edge of the adjoining county, which can be reached by train in about the same time that is required to go from New York to Philadelphia. It is a very simple matter to get down to the heart of the teeming city from one of these suburbs, for all a man has to do is to ride for two hours on a limited express, catch a street car over to the suburban, dive through the tunnel and take a taxi to his office. However, this is all forgotten when the suburbanite is at home, surrounded by onion salad, special sewer assessments and other evidences of country life.

He can sit on the front porch and smoke a corn-cob pipe without being read out of the Fall Mail Club.

One advantage of being a suburbanite is that you are not required to deposit the original price of the house and lot with the landlord every month in order to save the cost of moving. It is a discouraging experience to tackle life in the heart of New York City with a $1,500 income and find that it will not reach half way around the rent. On this account a great many people prefer to live in some secluded spot where they can retain something at the end of the month besides their self-respect and the mournful check stub.

If the suburbanite gets far enough away from civilization he can keep a cow and lure the setting hen from her nest from time to time. He can also sit on the front porch and smoke a corn-cob pipe without being read out of the Fall Mail club. These are compensations which make up for those times when the motorman strike in one solid piece in order to aid some erring brother in another part of the state.

A Wonderful Help in Keeping the Complexion Youthful and Clear.

Perhaps you wonder how so many women manage to have a complexion that is always fresh and clear, and how you can make your complexion better. Here's the secret:—

This is the Vanishing Cream that softens the skin and gives it that soft, velvety radiance that we all desire. Nyal's Face Cream is not oily or greasy, and it is readily absorbed by the skin, vanishing without leaving any tell tale gloss on skin. The skin welcomes this pleasant, soothing, cooling cream. It makes dry, tight skin soft and pliable. It makes rough skin firm and smooth, and gradually gives to coarse rough skin a finer, more delicate texture.
