and the porter began to make a deafening clamor with a huge bell.

For a minute there was the usual confusion; the porter yelled, and bawled about the luggage as though he received a generous commission for all that was broken. The engine screamed, and doors crashed to with the noise as of pistol shots, the guard roared, "Right! Away!" and amid a few frantic adieus, the train rolled out of the station, leaving two or three people on the platform, gazing helplessly after it. In five minutes Blair-wood station was in blizzard repose, and the porter asleep on a truck in the sunshine.

Though Elsie was rather puzzled by Mr. Lawson's words and manner, she felt a thrill of delight when the express was dashing madly away from the people she hated and feared.

"No matter how bad and wicked my cousin is," she reflected, "I am sure that he cannot be a match for the Earl of Somerton. It may be that he is weak and misguided, and when we meet, he may help me to shield poor papa's name. Colin only despises him for his folly. He even defended him a little, and he has been Colin's friend."

There were only two stoppages between Blairwood and London, and when the train was nearing its destination, she began to conjure up all sorts of terrible possibilities.

If the earl had become suspicious

he may have telephoned to Mr. Grant to intercept her. Her very ignorance of the real power of guardians added to her fears.

At Waterloo station, however, she was agreeably surprised to find that Mr. Parker was waiting for her, a stout, homely-looking gentleman of sixty or thereabouts. His good-natured face was beaming with smiles of welcome, and almost before Elsie was aware of it he was embracing her warmly.

"We received your letter, Miss Elsie," he said, "and I declare it gave me and Mrs. Parker one of the pleasantest turns we've had for an age!

"Why, there, now, you look all in a flurry! I knew Sir John's extraordinary conduct would bother you. He always was an eccentric fellow after that nasty knock he got on the head in India!"

"I am so happy to see you, Mr. Parker," Elsie replied, truthfully, "but I hardly expected that you would come to meet me yourself after your recent illness. How is Mrs. Parker?"

"First-class, my dear; only you see we are getting old, and don't find the pleasure in knocking about the world that we did ten years since. As for my illness, well, you know what the gout is—at least, you don't know what it is, and I hope that you never will, my dear. It's a sort of neuralgia multiplied by fifty, when you never know wife were considered too rough and unmerciful for Sir John's daughter.

Out and out radicals, eh?"

He pinched her cheek, and Elsie blushed.

"But I know where to come when I am in trouble—when I want true friends," she said. "Never mind Lady

Helena's unkind remarks. My father was always warmly attached to you and Mrs. Parker, though he gave Lady Helena a free hand wherever I was concerned."

"He didn't know that she was once a milliner's apprentice," chuckled the old man. "How artful these women are, to be sure! I knew her when I was captain of the 'Valiant,' thirty years since. Used to have a good many pretty girls in my eye at different ports, and she was one of 'em. I lost sight of her for twenty-eight years, and she turns up a widow with a title, and sets my old friend Sterne against my ungodly ways! Now, if I'd have split on that milliner business, I wonder what her chances would have been?"

By this time the big trunks had been crowded into the brougham, and the vehicle was in rapid motion, but notwithstanding the noise and bustle in the streets, Captain Parker kept up his conversation in stentorian tones.

In the long ago he had been a kind of elder brother to Sir John. He had been picked up, from nobody knew where, by Sir John's father, educated and made a man of. He went to sea, and at twenty-five he was first officer on board an armed cruiser; at thirty he was captain of a man-of-war. Then he fell in love with a wealthy East

India planter's daughter, married, and by his young wife's desire, went to sea no more, only as a private gentleman.

He and Sir John did not meet for many years. The baronet was a politished gentleman. Parker was a bluff, good-natured, coarse-featured fellow, whose greatest delight was to enlighten Sir John's daughter. Both he and his wife were devotedly attached to her. Then Lady Helena interfered.

The Parkers were not fit persons for an impressionable girl to associate with so much—a girl who was expected to cut a great figure in society.

The baronet said nothing. It is doubtful if he rightly understood Lady Helena, but she had her own way. She managed the household, and the Par-kers had not been invited to Blair-wood for nearly two years. Their letters to Sir John concerning Elsie had been handed to Lady Helena, and went no further. It did not take the captain long to get at the bottom of the mischief, and he felt in no amib-able mood toward her ladyship.

The carriage rolled rapidly along until it pulled up before a large, old-fashioned brick house, within a stone's throw of Euston square.

The coachman stepped down, and vigorously pulled a large brass knob in the wall. There was immediately the loud clanging of a bell, and a pair of huge wooden gates swung back, revealing a gravelled drive, bordered with clusters of mignonette, dahlias, and box-edges.

MRS. DAVIS NERVOUS WRECK

Tells Women How She Was Restored to Perfect Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Winnipeg, Man.—"I cannot speak too highly of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I was a nervous wreck and I just had to force myself to do my work. Even the sound of my own children playing made me feel as if I must scream if they did not get away from me. I could not even speak right to my husband. The doctor said he could do nothing for me. My husband's mother advised me to take the Vegetable Compound and I started it at once. I was able to do my work once more and it was a pleasure, not a burden. Now I have a fine bouncing baby and am able to nurse her and enjoy doing my work. I cannot help recommending such a medicine to any one seeing me before I took it, and seeing me now, can see what it does for me. I am only too pleased for you to use my testimonial."—Mrs. EMILY DAVIS, 721 McGee Street, Winnipeg, Man.

Largest Hole in the World

The most interesting diamond mine in the world is not at Kimberley, but near Pretoria—the Premier mine, "the largest hole in the world."

The great open Kimberley mine can still be seen, but the actual working there, as elsewhere in that district, has how to take place underground, as the diamond-bearing "blue" clay nearer the surface has been exhausted.

The Premier is still an open mine. It is an enormous gaping hole in the middle of the veld, half a mile long and a quarter of a mile broad, with its floor 400 feet lower than the surrounding country. St. Paul's Cathedral, London, could be dropped into it and one or two hundred yards from the edge would look where it had gone.

Standing on the brink of its precipitous sides and looking at the hundreds of workers far below, I felt as if I were watching a scene from Dante's "Inferno"—this particular hell, I imagine, being reserved by extremist Labor leaders for shareholders, writes the Hon. E. G. Knollys.

Down below, as looking into a busy mine, they black figures were shovelling the blasted "blue ground" and pushing about small trucks, containing the earth ready for crushing, on the network of rails which lead to the tunnel up which the trucks are dragged to the surface workings. A swinging cage takes one down to the floor of the mine. There one has a more realistic view of the work than the impressive but somewhat unreal one from the top. I experienced the thrill of finding myself walking on the slaty-blue earth which actually contains the diamonds. But then I realized that in every hundred of these truck-loads, each weighing a ton, only about twenty carats of diamonds would be found.

When I was there not much work was being done, on account of the slump in the diamond trade. In prosperous times there are shifts working throughout the twenty-four hours, some of the most powerful searchlights being placed at night round the top edge of the mine.

The most impressive moment is at blasting time, which takes place every afternoon to loosen the ground for carting away on the following day. A red danger flag is hoisted in a prominent place. All the workers come out of the mine except those required for lighting the fuses, already placed in position. At a given signal black figures rush along the bottom side of the precipice, setting light to the fuses. Having done this, they scurry to shelter in the "bomb proofs" in the centre of the mine. The interval while the time-fuses burn seems an age (in reality it is only one and a half minutes. One feels that the slower lighters will not gain shelter in time. Then one explosion, another, and then a continuous roar. Rock and earth fly into the air, sometimes almost up to the surface, reminding one of a rather ragged artillery barrage.

The famous Cullinan diamond, named after the chairman of the company, was found in the Premier mine, and, in spite of its great size, over 5,000 carats, it was only part of a still larger stone. The other piece, broken off, has never been found.

The mine has had a remarkable history. When diamonds were first found on this isolated farm in 1902, the property was hawked round for sale at $475,000. Now the cash assets exceed three-quarters of a million; more than $115,000,000 worth of diamonds have been extracted from the mine, and its life still appears unlimited. The capital remains at $400,000, for all development has been paid for out of profits. Stores on hand are taken into the balance at 50 cents, and diamonds on hand at 25 cents. A remarkable record!

Sixty Ocean Liners Coming Here

BIG BUSINESS IN SIGHT FOR THIS PORT DURING THE COMING SEASON.

(Halifax Morning Chronicle.)

For the first time for many years the Cunard Company are advertising in Great Britain for Canadian freight for Halifax, the home of the founder of the line. This very significant announcement, in many respects, one of the most important advertisements relative to the port of Halifax which has appeared for many years, is the direct outcome of the removal of the one per cent. per-one hundred pounds differential, which for years militated against the development of the port business of this city, and the increase of the Canadian British preference of ten per cent. on goods of British origin imported into Canada through Canadian ports.

T. E. Barstow, of the Robert Rorford Company, agents for the Cunard Line in Halifax, said, to the Morning Chronicle reporter Saturday: "With the differential removed and the increase in the British preference effective, I think you will find a great deal more cargo passing through Halifax this year than ever before."

Big Business in Sight.

Already the port is feeling the impetus of having the restrictions which have penalized it for years removed, and facilities for handling cargoes provided, as instanced in the large cargoes of tea which have recently arrived from Ceylon. As a result of all this, prominent men in the shipping business of the city say that prospects for the approaching year's business are away above par. Even in the short time it has been in force the results have fully justified Hon. W. S. Fielding, Minister of Finance, in his belief that such an amendment to the British Preference, of which he himself was the author, would prove productive of much good to Canadian ports. The recent progress in the development of Halifax indicates that the Government is realising the importance of a great national port,

An Agreement is Reached by the Council of Ambassadors.

Liberals Denounce Government's Policy Abroad and Labour's Programme--Stresemann's Executive Determined to Stand by the Ex-Crown Prince--The Governor of Oklahoma is Removed from Office.

BREAK AVERTED.

PARIS, Nov. 19. Adjournalment of the Inter-Allied Council of Ambassadors came after two hours' discussion. The Ambassadors came out of the meeting looking much relieved. They were reluctant but admitted that a break had been averted. The agreement reached, it was stated, would be submitted this afternoon to the French and Belgian Cabinets, which previously had called meetings to be held very shortly after mid-day. It was announced that the Council would meet again at six this evening to discuss the question of the Crown Prince's return.

PROTECTION FOR MILITARY MISSION DEMANDED.

PARIS, Nov. 19. The sense of the note proposed by the Council of Ambassadors to be sent to Germany was said this afternoon to be a demand that Germany provide protection for the Inter-Allied Military Control Mission wherever the Reich has control.

THE LIBERAL MANIFESTO.

LONDON, Nov. 19. Last in the field of the great party announcements the Liberal manifesto signed on behalf of the whole party by Herbert H. Asquith and David Lloyd George and issued to-night, is an exceedingly long document. It is more effective as an attack upon the Government policy abroad than affording any novel constructive policy for meeting the problem of unemployment. Its chief interest lies in that it shows there can be no real accommodation between Liberalism and Labourism, for it frankly declares its conviction that the remedies Labor proposes for unemployment, namely Socialism and Capital Levy, would prove disastrous, and that what is needed is not destruction of enterprises, but its encouragement. The manifesto declares there is only one explanation of the Government's sudden decision, namely, that in a single year the Government's conduct of foreign policy has signally and disastrously failed. Asserting that the Government's own despatches to the Allies make admissions that the collapse of Germany, arising as a result of French policy, is a cause of the depression in which the British trade is plunging, the manifesto continues, "in recent European history for a century has it ever been doubtful where Great Britain stood, yet for a whole year neither our Allies nor the neutral powers, nor our late enemies, have known whether in this crucial issue Great Britain has a voice or a conscience of her own. The British policy was the one chief rallying power in Europe after the Napoleonic wars. For the past year its blindness, indolence and impotence has been such that it has ceased to exercise any guiding influence upon European affairs." The Liberal policy, it is announced, stands for earnest endeavor to co-operate with the United States for re-opening of full relations with Russia and for the fullest support of the League of Nations. Among the numerous other suggestions the manifesto puts forth the following: "The excessive consumption of alcoholic drink is one of the main causes of unemployment, disease and poverty and the right of citizens of any locality to decide for themselves on drink facilities in their own area could no longer be withheld."

STRESEMANN ON THE CROWN PRINCE'S RETURN.

BERLIN, Nov. 19. Chancellor Stresemann, in the course of a lengthy defence of his policy to his party executive last evening said, with reference to the Crown Prince's return, "we are threatened with further penalties on account of the Crown Prince. I hold it, however, better to suffer new French brutalities than to bear the reproach that the last German who fought in the world war should remain exiled abroad from his family." Cheers greeted the Chancellor's statement. "All this burden must be borne by us," he continued. "We shall probably be faced by a demand for the surrender of the Crown Prince and of course we shall reject it, nevertheless these impending additional political difficulties will remain a grave weight on us and any increase of them through the creation of a dictatorship and an anti-constitutional government would be unbearable."

GOVERNOR WALTON REMOVED.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Nov. 19. J. C. Walton was removed from office by the State Senate Court of Impeachment this afternoon. The verdict was unanimous. The conviction was on article thirteen charging abuse of pardon and parole authority. Conviction on one count was necessary for removal. The vote was forty-one to nothing.

KING AND QUEEN OF SPAIN IN ROME.

ROME, Nov. 19. King Alfonso and Queen Victoria of Spain arrived at Rome to-day to pay a visit to the Royal Court of Italy, and were received by the King and Queen amid scenes of extraordinary splendor. They were given an audience by Pope Pius at 1.30 this afternoon.

FOUND NO TRACE OF BARGE.

NORTH SYDNEY, Nov. 19. The sea going tug Ocean Eagle returned to port yesterday after a search of several days for the barge Pelican, which broke away from S.S. Curlew on the night of Nov. 9, off St. Pierre. It is believed the cargo shifted, allowing the ship to sink.

4-MASTED SCHOONER ASHORE ON SABLE.

HALIFAX, Nov. 19. The Superintendent of Sable Island reported this afternoon to C. H. Harvey, local agent of the Marine and Fisheries Department that a four-masted vessel was ashore on the Northwest Bar. Her mainmast was missing and her foremast was top-mast rigged. The name of the ship is unknown. It is believed it is possible to float her with the aid of a tow. A lifeboat would be sent out when sea conditions are favourable.

Sergeants' Mess Reunion

The good cheer and camaraderie dear for which the Sergeants' Mess of the Royal Newfoundland Regiment was always famous, was reborn at the West End Restaurant last night, when the Sergeants reassembled for the purpose of reforming their Mess. The chair was taken by Padre Nangle who outlined the purpose of the meeting. The rules of the Association were gone into in detail and adopted, after which the election of officers was proceeded with and resulted as follows: President—Neil Patrick. Vice-Pres.—H. Mitchell. Hon. Secy.—A. J. Ivany. The executive consists of J. S. Kelsey, R.N., P. A. Brian, J. A. Taylor, Wilbur Chancy and W. J. Eaton. The auditors are P. R. O'Reilly and Allan Edwards.

The dates on which reunions will be held by the Mess are April 14th, anniversary of Monchy and November 23rd, anniversary of Caribou Hill. It was decided that the annual meeting will take the form of a smoker to be held every year on September 18th, the anniversary of the landing at Gallipoli.

After the chairman had handed over the conduct of the meeting to the newly elected officers, Sergt. Macdonald, for J. McKay, familiarly known as "Elastic Jim," was unanimously elected Honorary President and Padre Nangle was made an Honorary member of the Mess.

The upper part of the West End Restaurant was filled to capacity and there was great enthusiasm displayed at the meeting. It is hoped to have double the number at the next reunion. Judging by last night's function and the energy and efficiency of the newly elected executive the success of the Sergeants' Mess is assured. Any ex-service men who are eligible to become a member of the Mess is being anxiously searched for by the Hon. Secretary-Treasurer and any communications addressed to P. O. Box 981 will be well looked after.

Mr. C. E. Hunt Addresses Old Colony Club

Last Saturday afternoon, a most enjoyable address was given by Mr. C. E. Hunt, M.H.A. to the members of the Old Colony Club. Mrs. Alan Fraser, president, and an unusually large gathering was present. Mr. Hunt chose as his theme the necessity of cultivating an optimism ranging from the private and personal affairs of life, to the wider conditions and events of universal interest. Stress was laid upon the value of a determined hopefulness as having a definite influence towards improved industrial and financial conditions and the further value of optimism which tends to increase the prestige and development of one's native land. Mr. Hunt's address was marked by a sincerity and hopefulness that could not but foster confidence in the future. The timely encouragement of optimism in these troubled times, and

Dainty Performers Beautiful Dancing Act

DOLLY MOORE AND JIMMIE CLAYTON GET BIG RECEPTION. Acclaimed by all as the greatest dancing team seen in St. John's in many years this distinction goes to Dolly Moore and Jimmie Clayton, who last night nearly brought down the house by the huge applause tendered them. The Nickel management certainly scored one when it booked this magnetic attraction. Last night's act contained plenty of classic, graceful and novelty items. Both performers are good looking and their act makes an audience sit up in amazement. It is not the ordinary dancing that these people perform, but it is something we have never seen before and that's what St. John's amusement lovers want—something unusual—something entirely different from what we are accustomed to seeing. This is a 100 per cent. attraction.

Very Pleasant and Fragrant

"I find that Three Flowers Face Powder is very pleasant to use on my face, and the odor is so fragrant that it is a delight to experience its use." Thus spoke a lady in a prominent drug store a few days ago. From all over the world come equally pleasing reports of Three Flowers Face Powder, which is now recognized as the powder de-luxe. This dainty, pure and soothing face powder can be obtained at any drug or department store in St. John's.

Prevent Grippe—build resistance with SCOTT'S EMULSION

The music also is something worthy of comment and Professor McCarthy at the piano and Jack Cronan at the bells and effects lose no time in putting over their role. See this and you'll agree you're seeing something worth while. The most thrilling and most exciting picture for sometime is "One Week of Love," featuring the big stars, Elaine Hammerstein and Conway Tearle. Action, beauty of photography and excellent acting raise this picture to the heights. It is worthy of taking its place in the Motion Picture Hall of Fame without further ado. The film, we say is very, very much above the average. The same programme will be repeated to-night.

OTTAWA IDEAS OF CLEANING UP HOCKEY.

OTTAWA, Nov. 14.—On the eve of the departure of the world's champion for the west where they will engage in a series of exhibition matches the Ottawa Hockey Association announced last night that it had given effect to three important changes in the playing rules of the National Hockey League.

The most important of the Ottawa Club's proposed amendments is one to amend Section II, making it read as follows:—

"A match foul shall consist of deliberately injuring or disabling an opponent. For this offense a player shall be fined not less than fifty dollars and ruled off for the balance of the match.

"Any player incurring one match foul shall automatically become suspended, and shall not be permitted to play in any games until his case has been dealt with by the president, who shall have full power to impose such punishment as he deems desirable.

"When a player has been ruled off for a minor, major or match foul, he shall not be replaced by a substitute.

When a player incurs a match foul his team shall play without his services and without the services of a substitute for the offending player for the balance of the said game."

Last year the fine for a match foul was fifteen dollars, and a player was not suspended until he had committed two such fouls. If the Ottawa Amendment carries, any player who commits a match foul is automatically suspended, and the League leaves this case in the hands of President Calder.

The Ottawa Club will also have to have accidental puck kicking legalized in any arena, except close to the goal nets. They will likewise move to have the Pacific Coast Hockey League substitute rule adopted by the National League.

They would allow for the substitution of fresh players at any time so long as the player to be replaced is within an area, adjacent to the club benches.

STRAINGER LEWIS TO WED RUSSIAN PRINCESS SOON.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Nov. 15.—Stranger Lewis, world's heavyweight wrestling champion, and Princess Marie Troski, of Petrograd, Russia, are to be married shortly after Christmas, the wrestler admitted here today.

Lewis has gone to San Jose, Cal., where it is believed he will settle his affairs with his former wife, Dr. Ada Scott Morton, from whom he was divorced recently.

The Russian Princess and Lewis met at Wiesbaden while the wrestler was in Europe a few months ago.

CROWDS ARE PICKLE, FIRPO MUST KNOW.

BUENOS AIRES, Nov. 14.—"Hall to Firpo: death to the promoters," cried the crowds in La Paz, Bolivia, yesterday after they had called for the life of the South American heavyweight champion yesterday, according to despatches received here today.

Ire of the population was aroused by the alleged discourtesy of Firpo toward the city's celebration gathered to greet him on his arrival here.

Firpo refused to attend a boxing contest, and the crowds thronged the streets giving him the loud razzberry.

The promoters of the contest sued Firpo for damages, and he appeared this morning at the courthouse and gave bail.

Crowds, still angry, gathered outside the courthouse, but their sentiment changed when Firpo, in an address, said that the promoters were infamous in suggesting that he had been discourteous, and that he had shown his love for the Bolivians by choosing a route through Bolivia instead of through Chile.

The crowd then dispersed shouting: "Hall Firpo, death to the promoters."

SOCCER FATALITY.

LONDON, Nov. 11.—An accident on the football field last week has ended fatally. Butler, an inside left for Port Vale, while playing a League match against Clapton Orient at Homerton, on Nov. 3, scored one of the most brilliant goals ever witnessed on that ground, but shortly before the end of the match unfortunately had his arm fractured. He was removed to Hackney Infirmary, where he was detained. Septic poisoning set in shortly afterwards and lockjaw took place. His death occurred in the morning.

ASTON VILLA SOCCER PLAYER SHOT BY LANDLORD.

BIRMINGHAM, Eng., Nov. 14.—Thomas Ball, centre halfback for Aston Villa, one of the leading clubs of the English Football League, was shot dead Sunday night at Perry Barr, a suburb of Birmingham, following an altercation with his landlord, George Stagg, an ex-member of the Birmingham police force.

Ball, who was twenty-four years of age, came from the colliery district, in Durham, which produced such well known Villa players as Wirtton, Young and Thompson. He made his first appearance in the Aston Villa team two seasons ago, and became a reliable and popular successor to Barson.

GRANITES TO PLAY IN GAME DECEMBER 10.

TORONTO, Nov. 8.—Canada's Olympic hockey team which begin practice today in preparation for the Olympic hockey games, had the following out: Jack Cameron, Alex Romeril, Jack Aggett, Don Jeffrey, Beatty Ramsay, Hughey Fox, Ernie Collett, Harry Watson and Bert McCaffrey.

Jeffrey, Ramsay and Romeril are not likely to go across the sea. Business reasons are responsible. These players, however, will practice with the Canadian champions and may finally decide to go.

It is understood that Frank Rankin will be the coach, and that Dr. Jerry Lesfamme, the man responsible more than any other for the success of the Granite hockey team will be offered a chance to try for a place on the team.

The Canadian team will open the season by playing against Kitchener in a Sportsman's patriotic game on December 15.

Tragedy in Sport

The assaulting of referees and judges in sport seems to assume an epidemic form in cycles. There has been a lot of it this season all over America, with one or two instances in England and on the Continent. There has been considerable of it in Canadian soccer, and a good deal in United States baseball, but the worst was of Callen and Gerhardt, the two race track judges at Akron, Ohio, last week. Both were well-known in Canada, and had done considerable judging from coast to coast, as well as in the United States, where Gerhardt lived.

Callen was a resident of Toronto. It was all caused by their refusal to reinstate a trainer; and it is really remarkable that not more assaults of a more or less serious nature and result take place, considering the passions that are aroused amongst naturally passionate men in that class of sport, and the ease with which they can obtain firearms, notwithstanding the laws enacted every year against their promiscuous sale.

Fred Gerhardt died of his wounds, but Callen, the Canadian, according to latest reports, was progressing favorably.

Though there have been many race track and gambling affairs of recent years, it is quite a while since anyone was killed as the result.

The last affair of this sort took place at the Fiajuana track, when a jockey with an imaginary grievance shot and killed the racing secretary Wing there.

The incident has called to mind the sensation caused some years ago when a woman ran out on one of the English tracks and tried to stop the King's entry in the race about half way down the course.

That was another case of an imaginary grievance, it was found out, and the woman was half killed as the result of her attempt.

Old times tell of another use of a pistol at another sort of race in Canada: a foot-race.

The late Harry Phillips, of Montreal, a noted sportsman, who was at one time manager of John L. Sullivan, is mentioned as one of the principal actors. The affray occurred nearly two scores of years ago, when Canada could boast of a particularly fleet professional foot-runner.

Phillips was said to have made a match for him, and he and his friends had backed the runner heavily.

At the last moment the latter either pretended to be ill, or word had come to Phillips' ear that his runner was going to double-cross him.

Then Phillips is said to have called the man aside and to have shoved into his ribs the muzzle of a revolver which he held hidden in his outside coat pocket.

"Run," he is reported to have whispered in the athlete's ear: "Run as you have never run before; for I'll be right here to blow a hole through you if you don't."

Needless to say that race was run on the square, and the Canadian won. He has been lost sight of for some time, and it is reported that he is dead.

THEY MUST BE RETURNED IMMEDIATELY AFTER USE. This is especially important in the case of carbolic acid, a deadly poison, and other things used as disinfectants in the sick room. The poison cupboard is an essential part of a doctor's surgery. It should be a never-failing feature of the sick room.

All bottles containing poison should have a distinctive shape, so that if they are taken up by mistake the hand at once recognizes them. When poisonous remedies are not sent out in the green or blue octagon, or distinctively-shaped bottles, a big safety-pin should be pushed through the cork. The safety pin acts as a danger signal on uncorking the bottle, even in the dark.

The Care of Poisons

When newspapers relate the devilish doings of some criminal poisoner the nation follows the redoubtable and horror-stricken. But whilst a year's death from criminally administered poison can be counted on one hand, other deaths from poison, excluding suicidal cases, run into hundreds.

To prevent these tragic fatalities all poisonous lotions, liniments, and ointments must be kept not merely separated from, but as far apart as possible from, the medicines the patient has to swallow. They should not be put among or near the medicines the patient has to take, but be relegated to a high shelf or cupboard, from which it will be necessary to fetch them when wanted, and to which they must be returned immediately after use. This is especially important in the case of carbolic acid, a deadly poison, and other things used as disinfectants in the sick room. The poison cupboard is an essential part of a doctor's surgery. It should be a never-failing feature of the sick room.

All bottles containing poison should have a distinctive shape, so that if they are taken up by mistake the hand at once recognizes them. When poisonous remedies are not sent out in the green or blue octagon, or distinctively-shaped bottles, a big safety-pin should be pushed through the cork. The safety pin acts as a danger signal on uncorking the bottle, even in the dark.

A dose of medicine should never be given without reading the directions on the label in a good light, however sure we may be that we have taken up the right bottle. In their eagerness to get the medicine into the patient at the proper time nurses have read the label after the fatal dose has gone down the patient's throat.

Carbolic acid should never be put into a wine bottle. Once I had to deal with the case of a manservant who, having to go into the cellar, picked up one of the tempting bottles about, and greedily gulped down, not a toothsome draught of wine or whiskey but a fatal dose of carbolic acid. The fault was not his but that of the person who left a deadly poison where it could be mistaken for wine or spirits.

Let no one think that he or she could never be so stupid as to give a dose of poison instead of medicine. Doctors, as well as trained nurses, have done it. And the consequences are irrevocable. Years of self-reproach and remorse will not wipe out the deed.

The Aims of France AND THE MEANS OF ACHIEVEMENT.

Henri Martin Burzun, formerly editor of L'Homme Libre in Paris, describes in a recent article the success with which France has built up a Colonial Empire during the last hundred years.

In referring to the extent to which this Empire adds to her military prestige he says, "France considers it necessary to rely upon her African dominion as upon herself for the maintenance of peace as well as for the emergencies of war."

Under present circumstances, it is true, the troops that can be obtained from such a source are an important factor, and would materially add to the effectiveness of a French army in the field.

The increasing decline in the birth rate of France referred to by the writer presents her greatest national problem and will, unless means can be devised to cope with it, prove her undoing in the end.

France to-day has reached the highest pinnacle of achievement in the whole of her history. Her Colonial Empire, which was established in North America during the 16th and 17th centuries dwindled and disappeared in the 18th, owing to a great extent to the corruption and dissipation of the French Court of that day.

that continent than any other power.

In the British Empire, with the winning of the war the chief concern of everyone was to forget it, and to hope that the peace would be lasting.

With France it has been different, partly because she still has as a neighbour one who was beaten but by no means rendered incapable of further aggressiveness, and partly perhaps, because she saw a great opportunity to fulfil her destiny and become paramount in Europe.

In depending to any extent upon the 65,000,000 people inhabiting her possessions, France is relying upon an uncertain factor. Her Colonial Empire differs in many respects from ours, in which the greater Dominions are for the most part peopled by races of the same kindred, language, religions and sentiment.

With the French Empire it is different. Allegiance in a great measure is maintained by force, their development is directed and controlled from Paris, and they are peopled by alien races with whom the sovereign state has little in common.

Under present circumstances, it is true, the troops that can be obtained from such a source are an important factor, and would materially add to the effectiveness of a French army in the field.

The increasing decline in the birth rate of France referred to by the writer presents her greatest national problem and will, unless means can be devised to cope with it, prove her undoing in the end.

S.U.F. Celebration at Heart's Content

The Golden Jubilee of the Society of United Fishermen was celebrated from Thursday to Sunday at Heart's Content.

The Grand Lodge Officers and delegates from District and Ordinary Lodges arrived by train on Thursday afternoon and were met at the station by members of No. 1 Lodge with L.O.A. and S.U.F. Bands and escorted to the Lodge, from which they accompanied their hosts to their respective homes.

At the entrance to the Hall was a fine arch, in the centre of which was a large triangle with Maltese Cross (emblems of the order) outlined by red, white and blue electric bulbs, the whole having a very handsome appearance.

The celebration commenced at 8 o'clock by a visit of the Grand Lodge to No. 1. After reception of the Rt. Worthy Grand Master and his officers in the usual way, a beautiful illuminated Address (the work of Bro. W. Palmer) from No. 1 Lodge was read by the worshipful Master, Bro. Wm. R. Moore, whose late father, Bro. George Moore, was the first installed Master of the Society of United Fishermen.

Following the reception of the Address, congratulatory letters and telegrams were received from Rt. Worshipful J. R. Bennett, D.G.M., A.F. & A.M. (English Constitution), Worshipful Bro. H. E. Cowan, D.G.M., Deputy, D.G. Lodge A.F. & A.M., S.C.I.; Heart's Content Lodge 1275 A.F. & A.M.; Royal Black Preceptory; Aughtin Lodge, L.O.A.; Independent Order of Foresters, and from Canada, also from brethren resident in Canada and the United States.

The regular session of the Grand Lodge was opened at 11 p.m. in proper form, after which several Brethren who were qualified were admitted, obligated and duly instructed in the special working of the Grand Lodge. The session continued till a late hour and then adjourned till 9.30 a.m. Friday and continued in session till 5 p.m. with an interval of an hour.

At 8 o'clock the Companions of the Grand Lodge, members of No. 1 with several invited guests, including the Masters of the various local Societies and three Brethren, whose combined ages averaged 94, attended a magnificent banquet given by the Grand Lodge and prepared by the ladies and Brethren of No. 1 Lodge, to whom much praise must be given. After partaking of the excellent food provided the following programme was gone through interspersed by songs from the S.U.F. song sheet. Brother E. French presided at the piano in his usual excellent style.

The following is the programme: TOASTS.

- "The King"—Prop. The Chairman, R. W. G.M. J. S. Curnew; Resp. "National Anthem."
- "The Empire"—Prop. Geo. Howe, Dept. G.M.; Resp. "Rule Britannia."
- "The Land We Live In"—Prop. G.M. No. 1 District (or his Deputy); Resp. "Newfoundland—A Gem of the Ocean."
- "The Supreme Grand Lodge"—Prop. G.M. No. 2 District (or his Deputy); Resp. J. S. Curnew, R.W.G.M.
- "Sister Societies"—Prop. Rev. W. J. R. Hughton, G. Chaplain; Resp. Representative Guests.
- "The District Grand Lodge"—Prop. G. Langmead, P.D.G.M.; Resp. District G.M. No. 3 District (or his Deputy).
- "No. 1 Lodge"—Prop. James Rendell, G.C.O.; Resp. Wm. Moore, W.M. No. 1.
- "The Fisheries"—Prop. Capt. W. Legge, P.D.G.M.; Resp. Capt. Jos. Reid, G.S.O.
- "Ordinary Lodges"—Prop. A. Withycombe, G. Secretary; Resp. Visiting Worthy Masters.
- "Our Guests"—Prop. J. G. Hodder, P.G. Chaplain; Resp. Rev. Canon Smart.

"GOD BLESS OUR NATIVE LAND" "GOD SAVE THE KING."

Following the banquet was a dance which was largely attended and proved most enjoyable. It was kept up till an hour too late or rather too early to mention.

Grand Lodge Session commenced again at 9.30 a.m. Saturday, and continued with short intervals, till early Sunday morning. At the conclusion of regular business the election of officers was conducted by Bro. A. R. Anderson, P.D.G.M., and resulted as follows: Companion Walter Rendell, P.M., Grand Look Out. Companion John Curnew, P.G.M., Rt. Worthy Grand Master. Companion Arthur Tulk, Grand Chaplain. Companion Murgford, P.G.P., Grand Chief Officer. Companion Wm. Legge, P.D.G.M., Grand 2nd Officer. Companion Footo, P.M., Grand Quarter Master. Companion George House, P.M., Grand Secretary. Companion J. G. Hodder, P.D.G.M., Grand Treasurer. Companion A. R. Anderson, P.D.G.M., Deputy Grand Master. These officers were installed by Com. George Langmead, P.M. and Rev. Com. Tulk, after which the Grand Lodge was closed with the determination in the heart of every Companion to work harder and more faithfully than ever before to uphold and forward the Principles of the Order. For the first time in its history the Grand Lodge had the pleasure and honor of receiving and admitting Brethren from Lodges outside of this Dominion, namely, Bro. Dean and Ryan from Maple Leaf Lodge, Sydney, Nova Scotia.

On the afternoon of Sunday, the most important part of the celebration took place, viz., a solemn thanksgiving service to Almighty God for His Blessing and bountiful goodness for the past fifty years. Before entering St. Mary's Church the Brethren proceeded to the adjacent cemetery where a Triangle decorated with evergreen leaves was placed on the grave of the late Honorary Past Chief Officer Companion James H. Moore, by the Rt. Worthy Grand Master, the Brethren meanwhile forming a living Triangle. At the entrance to the Church, the procession was met by Rev. Dr. Fahey and the Church Warden, Mr. Geo. Young and Mr. Fred Anderson. The Grand Lodge Officers were then conducted to the Altar Hall when the following Address of Welcome and Good-Will was read by the Rector, Rev. Canon Smart:

ADDRESS BY REV. CANON SMART, To the Right Worthy Grand Master, Grand Officers and Members of the Supreme Grand Lodge of The Society of United Fishermen.

Dear Sirs and Brothers:—Heart's Content as a community, and through your Sister Societies, has given you a whole-hearted welcome to our town on the auspicious occasion of your Order's Golden Jubilee. The culminating point of your Festival and Grand Lodge session has now been reached. You have come to celebrate the religious part of your Jubilee in this consecrated house of God by unitedly offering your prayers and praises to "God our Help in Ages Past," to renew your vows and rededicate your Order and yourself to greater efforts in maintaining and propagating your lofty ideals of Love—Purity—Fidelity in dependence upon Him who is "Our Hope in years to Come."

The Rector, Warden and Select Vestry of St. Mary's Church extend to you, on behalf of our congregation, sincere greetings. We gladly welcome you to the birthplace of your Order. What the stable in Bethlehem is to every faithful member of Christ—the sacred spot around which centres the devout love and passionate loyalty of the heart—so ought St. Mary's Church, Heart's Content, to be to every loyal and faithful member of the S.U.F. Your Order had its beginning in the religious home of the people of Heart's Content. The then Rector, the Reverend George Gardiner, influenced and inspired by him, in their endeavours to stimulate into action the principles and teachings of Jesus, the Master of all Fishermen, founded the Guild or Club which in 1873 became Lodge Heart's Content No. 1 S.U.F., the Rector becoming your first Grand Master. In 1923 you, their lineal descendants in the Order, have come on a pilgrimage to the birthplace of the Order to celebrate with due rejoicing your Golden Jubilee, and to the Church of St. Mary the Virgin to acknowledge your dependence upon Him who has led and helped you hitherto, and still will help. The Altar before which you now stand, and before which some of you knelt this morning in Worship and Communion, speaks of the abiding presence of Christ the Master. You need His presence every passing hour and year of your individual and corporate existence. With Jesus the Great Grand Master present at the helm, guiding your Order, you will be safe, united to Him in faith by "Baptism and Prayer," you will carry on your work of Brotherhood and Benevolence in spite of stress and storm. This House of God speaks eloquently of "the spirits of just men made perfect" who in the days of their flesh gave themselves to the foundation and growth of your Order. They have finished their course, but by their examples inspire you to carry on until the work of the voyage o'er you come with them to "the haven where we would all be."

In the realized presence of the Great Grand Master we bid you welcome today. In the realization of His Personal Presence we bid you go forth to "carry on" your enterprise, handing on to others when your "watch" is done the Sacred Torch of Service for the Brotherhood which others, in their turn, handed on to you.

Signed on behalf of the Warden, Select Vestry and Congregation of St. Mary's Church, FRANK SMART, Rector. GEO. J. YOUNG, F. ANDERSON, Wardens St. Mary's Church. Heart's Content, November 18th, 1923.

A special service was gone through and a sermon preached by the Rev. Dr. Fahey of Queen's College. (We hope to publish the latter to-morrow.)

At the conclusion of the service the Grand Lodge officers again proceeded to the Altar Hall, where on behalf of the brethren present and throughout the Dominion and elsewhere, a solemn renewal of obligations was made in reply to questions put to them by Rev. Canon Smart. A Te Deum was sung, followed by the concluding Prayers and Benediction. Thus concluded a most inspiring and solemn service and the brethren left the sacred building "feeling strengthened," more hopeful and more determined that with the help of the Divine Grand Master, they would strive to carry out in their daily life the principles they professed to admire and had solemnly pledged themselves to perform.

Magistrate's Court.

A 28 year old fisherman named Parry, belonging to Woody Island, Placentia Bay, was arrested and brought to the city by Detective Lee and charged with the larceny of $112.25 from the store of Robert Williams at Woody Island, P.B., on the 12th of November. The accused was arraigned but was not asked to plead, as the Crown was not yet ready to proceed. In the meantime the accused was removed to the Penitentiary for eight days. The prisoner's pockets were searched after his arrest when the sum of $112.25 is said to have been found.

A laborer of Dunford Street, charged with being drunk, was granted his release. A 47 year old farmer of Mt. Pearl, before being drunk, was released upon payment of cash hire. A laborer who gave his address as Bannerman Street was charged with being drunk and fighting on the public street. He was let go with a caution.

A 21 year old laborer, taken in for sleeping, was discharged.

Exchange Shows Upward Tendency

To-day's Sterling exchange shows an upward tendency, the rate quoted being 4.38 for 60 days, and 4.39 1/2 sight. During last week exchange dropped 20 points which would mean a difference of about 40 cents per quintal on the amount received for fish cargoes.

Manoa Sailing

The Manoa will probably sail at daylight to-morrow for Montreal. Three first and 17 second cabin passengers are going by the ship. Amongst the latter is Mrs. F. Morzan of Broad Cove who is going to join her husband and taking her seven children with her.

In matters of food the best should be used. Crisco is a pure food product and stands highest as a cooking fat. Children and delicate people can digest CRISCO with ease and comfort for this pure vegetable fat is remarkable for its easy digestibility.

Obituary.

MR. FREDERICK MARTIN, Engineer.

(H. F. Shortis.)

It is with profound regret we chronicle the death of Mr. Frederick Martin, which occurred at ten o'clock this morning, after a short illness, born with Christian resignation to the Divine Will. Up to a few years ago Mr. Martin was in the most robust health, and his friends thought that he would be spared to them for many years, notwithstanding that he had reached the age of 78 years. He was probably the doyen of marine engineers in this country, and had a truly adventurous and remarkable career.

Mr. Martin was born in Hr. Grace 78 years ago, and was descended from an old and respected family of that town—his father, Mr. Jonathan Martin, being an independent and successful planter who prosecuted our great industry on Cape Ballard Banks and Cape St. Mary's for many years in the early part and middle of the past century. After leaving the Church of England School, presided over by Mr. Gardiner, he served his apprenticeship in the large and well equipped machine shop, of which the late George Makinson, Esq., was proprietor. In 1867 the steamship Mastiff, owned by the great firm of Messrs. Ridley & Sons, came to Hr. Grace to prosecute the seal-fishery under the command of that renowned seal killer—Capt. James Marjby, of Catalina, who, it is worthy of note, never missed the seals, either in sailing vessels or steamers, and Fredk. Martin was appointed second engineer. For forty-five years, without a break, Mr. Martin was engaged in this great industry, both as second and chief in the engine room. During his long and successful career he was in the following steamships at the seal-fishery, as well as on foreign voyages: Mastiff, Commodore, Vanguard, Greenland, Iceland, Hope, Panther, Ellen Gibson, and few indeed were the years that the ships were not successful. He also made trips to Greenland, being a member of one of Peary's expeditions, the Hope being employed by an American Company. About thirteen years ago, he was appointed chief engineer in the Government cruiser Fionsa, employed in the Revenue Protection Service, and he held that position until the Fionsa was taken off when he was retired with a pension, as a well deserved tribute to his long and faithful services.

Personally, Fred Martin was a very interesting man with whom to associate. He presented that not very common combination of characteristics—an amiable personality with sturdy independence of thought and strong convictions on important matters which he was not afraid to express. He had a wide circle of friends who will always remember him as he was in his most active days, keen, alert, an interesting and well-informed conversationalist, warm-hearted, friendly and always ready and willing to do a good turn.

He was a loyal and practical member of the Church of England, but never has it been known that he interfered, in the remotest degree, with the belief of any man, and thus it was that Frederick Martin, through his life-making hosts of friends, but never an enemy that I have heard of, and I have known him from my childhood. The deceased was twice married, his first wife, nee Miss Sheppard, daughter of the late Capt. Nathaniel Sheppard, died some years ago—his widow, (Nee Miss Martin), two sons, Ronald and Ernest, and a daughter, Ernest, second engineer of the steamship Silvia, plying between New York, Halifax and St. John's, and one daughter, Mrs. James Ash, are left to mourn their sad loss. Mrs. James Cron, Harbor Grace, and Mrs. H. F. Fitzgerald (Nee Miss Martin), two sons, Ronald and Ernest, are also left to mourn their sad loss. His brother Matthew, who possessed great mechanical genius, and put out of hand several useful inventions, notably, the machine for grinding seal fat, pre-deceased him about five years ago. May he rest in peace.

Lighthouse Catches Birds

As the candle attracts the moth, so the lighthouse on St. Simons Island, attracts thousands of birds.

It has become necessary for the Government to erect a large steel net around the glass in the top of the tower to save the windows from further injury and to protect the light and its powerful lens from possible destruction.

The light is of 2,200 candle power and is in a tower 104 feet high. It is visible on a clear night for a distance of sixteen miles, and according to C. O. Svenson, keeper of the lighthouse, offers as much fascination to the fowls of the air as the white lights of Broadway offers to the thousands of Americans who annually visit New York.

"During the migrating season thousands of birds fly into the net," Keeper Svenson said, "and on a dark and stormy night the net is worked overtime. These birds believe that the light offers them a haven from the wind, but instead it lures many of them to their death."

"The lighthouse does not observe any of the game laws," but gets all the birds that come toward it. Quite

TO DRIVE AWAY THE BLUES.

Not long ago I received a pathetic letter from one of my letter friends, a widow with two grown daughters. She was unhappy and discontented and I was very sorry for her but at a loss to know how to help her, and so I was very glad to hear from her again to-day in this cheery vein.

"I think I have got down to the root of the trouble. Both of my girls have been at home. Both saw to it that I was eased of any part of the housework, leaving me with idle hands, a condition quite foreign to me. I was miserable because I was idle. Now affairs of their own demand their attention and I have to bustle around and do a big share of the housework as well as attend to the cooking."

Useful Once More.

"With activity came content; with content came happiness; my fit of depression vanished and mother is herself again."

In that last paragraph lies a splendid bit of counsel for two classes of woman—the woman with time hanging heavy on her hands, and the woman who has gotten into a rut and whose days are drab and uninteresting because of the continued round of uninspiring duties.

Life teems with activity and interest for the younger folks, busy with school and with getting a start in life and with the making of new homes and the raising of babies.

But for the woman nearing 40 for whom time begins to lag, who is tired of the "same old work," and surfeited with the "same old amusements," I offer this bit of advice.

Get A Hobby.

Get a hobby and ride it hard. A popular magazine announces a prize contest this month. The prize is to be awarded to the best letter on the subject: "Why I value my hobby," and the editor makes the following comment concerning it:—"Health authorities tell us again and again that any pleasurable side occupation, diverting us for a time from the every-day channels of effort, will preserve our bodies and stimulate our minds."

It need not be an expensive hobby. An Authority On Flowers.

I have a friend who has informed herself about wild flowers so that she can identify over a hundred varieties growing in the fields and woods about her summer home, and she enjoys the distinction of being considered an authority on the subject by her neighbors. "Whatever is this lovely little yellow blossom? I've never seen it before. Let's ask Mrs. B. She'll be sure to know."

Another friend has made a study of sacred art and can tell all sorts of interesting things that she has discovered for herself about the work of both the old masters and the modern artists in this field.

Still another friend who lives in a beautiful old city has read up on doorways, especially the old Colonial entrances, and has made for herself an ever present source of interest whenever she walks or rides about the country.

There is, of course, always club work and different forms of social service; and while these are good mediums for that diversion that the health authorities recommend, there is always the danger of the hobby becoming the rider in this field and of the mind being over stimulated and the body overworked.

"Moderation in all things" applies here as elsewhere, and the man or woman who finds himself faded or discontented may well find useful relaxation, happiness and health in the pursuit of a hobby.

Texan Spends Four Years to Run Down Gang of Swindlers

Fort Worth, (A.P.)—Texas, most famous man hunter, J. Frank Norfleet, is back on his Hale county ranch satisfied with his years of criminal trailing. He set forth four years ago with the world as his field to get four men. Not one did he miss. They are either dead or in custody.

They had "lifted" $45,000 from him, so he claimed, and they were going to be punished. One by one they succumbed to his relentless pursuit. The fourth has just been arrested in Salt Lake City, and that explains why Norfleet has retired to his ranch, contented and happy at last.

It was while Fort Worth and Dallas—in fact all of west Texas—were in the grip of the oil boom that a clever squad of stock swindlers appeared in these parts and proceeded to lay traps for the unwary. One of the first to happen along was J. Frank Norfleet, Hale county ranchman and deputy sheriff. He formed a hotel lobby acquaintance with one of the swindlers. He was dazzled by stories of great gains made in stock speculation, and he speculated in a stock which yielded him several thousand dollars. He was persuaded to risk a little more and then a little more. Each time his wealth grew. So did his confidence in his new found friends. Eventually, he was persuaded to put up $45,000. Then everything blew up in the "stock" market and Norfleet's money and his "friends" disappeared.

The ranchman began his man hunt in 1919—or just as soon as he became convinced that he had been swindled. The net result was: Joe Purrey, leader of the squad, died in prison at Huntsville, Texas, after having been convicted by a Tarrant county court. Norfleet himself arrested Purrey two years after the commission of the crime and after chasing him 4,000 miles.

E. J. Ward killed himself in a Washington, D.C. jail, after having been convicted of the Norfleet swindle.

die and while he was awaiting trial in Washington on a similar charge, Charlie Gerber is serving a term in the Texas state prison for swindling Norfleet.

W. B. Spencer is now under arrest in Salt Lake City, and wanted in Fort Worth for the Norfleet swindle.

Norfleet followed Purrey through the United States, Canada, Mexico and into Europe. Finally, he overtook him at Jacksonville, Florida, and overcame him only after a struggle and a fight.

The pursuit of Spencer continued four years. In one phase of it, Norfleet spearheaded another gang of swindlers in Denver, a number of whom were sent to prison after sensational trials.

Norfleet was assisted in the long chase by his son. When they would lose the trail, they would return to the ranch for rest and recuperation. Then, striking another clew, they would start out into the world again. Norfleet cannot estimate the amount of money he has spent in the pursuit but feels that he has been well repaid with results.

To Run a Newspaper

(Contributed)

To run a newspaper all a fellow has to do is to be able to write poems, discuss the tariff and money questions, umpire a baseball game, report a wedding, saw wood, describe a fire so that the readers will shed their wraps, make $1 do the work of $10, shine at a dance, measure calves, abuse meals, attack tree: silver, wear diamonds, invest advertisements, sneer at mobbery, overlook scandal, approve babies, delight potato raisers, minister to the afflicted, heal the disgruntled, fight to a finish, set type, mold public opinion, sweep out the office, speak at prayer meetings, and stand in with everybody and everything.

WEEPING ALONE.

I ask my friends to join me weeping for broken dreams and lost Lenore, but they refuse—they're busy keeping the wolves and bobcats from their doors. "We have no time for tears," they mutter. "We have to pay the bills now due, the wall-eyed grocer for his butter, the Volstead wintner for his brew. The winter blasts will soon be sweeping from Dr. Cook's world famous Pole, and we can't join you in your weeping until we've bought nine tons of coal." And so in silence and in sorrow I weep, the tears run down my chest, and people say, "Perhaps to-morrow we'll join you in your briny-foam. To-day we chase the minted shilling, the useful groat, the the good, long green, that we in season may be filling our tanks with sparkling gasoline. To-day we all are busy planning to boost the town and make it grow, and for the present we are canning all symptoms of outrageous woe. To-day the skies are bright and shiny, there are a hundred things to do, so we can't pause to shed the briny—we leave the weeping craft to you." My active friends are round me, salting, and every now and then they cheer, and I must do my weary weeping without an understudy near.

Market News

(Trade Review)
 Codfish—Foreign and local market conditions remain unchanged during the week. Daily some codfish came in from the North and West, but nothing like the volume which came here in October, and labour along the waterfront is not as much in evidence. Prices in the European markets seem to be "ragging," which is only natural at this time of the year when supplies are getting plentiful on the other side. Most exporters do not look for any great congestion of the market, and the hope is expressed that such an unfortunate condition of affairs will be entirely obviated this year. All are now afraid that there will be a shortage of shore fish this year, and this eventually will make for better prices for the class of fish. Owing to the fine mild weather which has prevailed for some time past, a good deal of fish is still being caught in different places north and west, but cannot be cured until the spring and will be marketed next season. Keen observers do not hesitate to say that trade has been a good deal better this season than last year, and many consider this an augury of better times to come and the beginning of a return to our former state of prosperity even though the recovery be gradual. The consumption of our fish in the Oporto market continues good. The report received by the Board of Trade this week gives the stocks of Nfld. fish as 16,175 qtls. with 4,817 qtls. consumption and 11,358 qtls. Norwegian held there. Eight or ten vessels have been entered to load at different places for Europe, Brazil, and the West Indies as well as a couple of steamers, and the clearance for the week were:—Mayenne Henneberger, Port Union for Kingston, Jan. with 1,584 qtls. codfish and 250 brls. herring; "W. W. McIntosh," Sandy Point, 125 brls. herring, 69 brls. green fish, 30 qtls. dry fish, and 4 casks cod oil for Halifax, and the "Emil E. Lege," Burgeo, 2,771 qtls. Burgeo & LaPelle Export Co. for Pernambuco. By S.S. Rosalia there was shipped, via New York 600 qtls. fish to Italy, 3,178 qtls. to B.W.I., 24 qtls. to Canada, and 1,667 qtls. to the United States, as well as 16 1/2 tons cod oil and 857 seal skins, while S.S. Harmony for England took 53 tons seal oil and 15 tons cod oil.

Common Cod Oil—Local market has gone very quiet during the past week. There are only a very small lot of arrivals, and the principal dealers have all disposed of their holdings. The stocks are in very small compass. Enquiries are still coming in from England, and there is no doubt whatever that all the Oil put up in Newfoundland this season will be wanted at full market prices.

Cod Liver Oil—It is reported that the Government have put forward a very strong request to Premier Warren, who is now in London, to get the British Government to give a preference in favour of this Oil in their scheme for preferential tariffs to help trade within the Empire. Cod Liver Oil is an article which is wanted in every one of the Dominions as well as the British market, and if the Old Country would grant a preference, the other dominions are sure to follow. Report says that Premier Warren has good expectations that this will be carried out, but every subject in England has been overshadowed for the present by the elections to take place early next month. With a preference of this kind there would be splendid possibilities to work up the Cod Liver Oil industry to advantage in this country.

Flour—The conditions of this market show no material change. There is necessarily much activity in flour, owing to the demands of the fishermen who have "put off" their catches in St. John's, and a good deal is being shipped by various consignors to different parts of the country. Heavy shipments are coming along and will continue to do so, as after another week or ten days navigation on the St. Lawrence will be closed. Though a firm market is looked for, the balance of the year there is every possibility of a decline in prices by mid-winter, as despite adverse conditions and resultant damage before the crops were gleaned, the yield of wheat this year was large, and what there is an assessment. In the heavy European demand prices must necessarily drop a few points. Prices wholesale are the same as last week, $7.50 to $8.50 per barrel. The imports of flour for the week were 2,750 brls. by the Sable I. and considerable consignments by the Silvia from New York and Halifax.

Peck—Europe is still buying heavily of this goods and all qualities are of the up grade, especially Fat Back, for which there is a constantly growing demand. Dealers tell us that figures for Peck all the coming winter will be pretty steep, and it will be somewhat difficult to secure the stocks which the Newfoundland market requires. It is understood that hops are not obtainable in the numbers desired at the great packing centers in the United States and that this in a great measure is the cause of the ascent of prices for this article.

Beef—Beef tends to hold the same tendency as Peck, and the price of the various grades is steadily in the ascendant. There is a large and increasing demand in Europe, and the people of the United States are consuming more of this commodity than ever before. Dealers are not surprised at the steady advance in figures and do not think there will be an alteration in this aspect for a long while to come. The demand in the great American packing houses still continues, and the local market seems to be very active so that any decline in quotations cannot be looked for until the American and European situation becomes easier. Prices according to quality required vary from $21.50 to $25.00 per barrel wholesale. The imports for the week were 205 brls. by the Sable I. from Halifax and some also by the Silvia from Halifax and New York.

Sugar—It looks now as if sugar will take on a downward trend and lower prices will be a feature of the market as the Fall season merges into winter. The Cuban crop though not a record as to quantity has been very large, and this coupled with the fact that the amount of raw sugar remaining over was small, is justification for the belief that the price of this class of goods will reach the minimum early, possibly sooner than most dealers expect. Anyhow many in the trade look for cheaper sugar during the winter months. The price at present in the local market is $2.50 per hundred pounds wholesale, while the market is steady and the demand fairly good.

Lobsters and Salmon—There is little or nothing of lobsters now left in stock here, nor is there any to come in from the outports. The market is pretty clear of this product and about the last goods available for shipment went forward to New York by Rosalia Saturday week. Business people here believe there is an excellent opportunity offering now to make up a splendid trade in Canned Salmon in the English market, owing to the placing of this class of goods on the free list. Once the British public sample our goods they cannot but acknowledge its superiority and buy largely of it. Enterprising people should hasten themselves to place our goods on the Home market quickly.

Hay and Oats—There is a fair quantity of these goods now coming into the local market, and it is likely that the first shipment to be received from P.E.I. will arrive by the Monos now in port. The market is quiet for both lines of goods and no extra demand may be looked for another few weeks. Ships due to arrive in that time should carry large consignments of these goods which will be ample stocks for winter consumption. No shipments were received during the week and the price quoted for hay during last week, viz: $27.00 the ton, still holds.

Miscellaneous—Among the miscellaneous imports were 4,600 tons coal by the steamer Carmen Erlholme, 170 casks kerosene oil, oatmeal, butter, cheese, feeds, etc.

Teeth Beauty

Adds a premier charm
 It comes by combating film

You, who love beauty should learn this way to prettier teeth, if you don't know it now. That is one great beauty item. Millions now use this method. You see the results today wherever you look. Now see them on your own teeth. Make this delightful test.

Film mars beauty
 Your teeth are coated with a viscous film. You can feel it now. Under old-way brushing, much of it clings and stays. Soon it becomes discolored, then forms dingy coats. Teeth thus lose their beauty and luster.

Film also holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay. Gums breed by millions in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

Under old methods, those film-coated troubles became almost universal.

Then dental science found two ways to fight film. One disintegrates the enamel.

Protect the Enamel
 Pepsodent disintegrates the film, then removes it with an agent far softer than enamel. Never use a film comb that which contains harsh grit.

Strange Takes of the Sea

THE DIAMOND CROSS OF LIMA.

(By CAPT. LESLIE COBB, R.N.R.)

The citizens of the town of Lima, in Peru, were in a state bordering panic. Shops were closed, the public offices crowded with people gesticulating and shouting, private houses were being put in a state of defence, troops were marching through the streets to the sound of the drum. Well might there be general perturbation, for Bolivar, the Liberator, with his hordes, was threatening an attack upon the city.

Lima was at that time amongst the richest of South American cities. Its merchants dealt in gold, silver and gems from the mines in the interior, its churches were ornamented with costly plate, the offerings of the faithful, and amongst the most splendid of these none could compare with the diamond cross of the Cathedral of San Pedro. Many a bold adventurer and pirate of the past had set covetous eyes upon the cross, standing before it, loathe to leave so precious an ornament, desiring to add it to their lists of plunder.

A Bid For Safety.

Though the cross of fabulous wealth had stood intact for many years, this year of 1822 was to see its removal, and the start of its adventures. The citizens of Lima, terrified at the coming of Bolivar, and anxious to put their riches beyond his reach, collected the greater part of their public wealth, including the diamond cross of San Pedro, and loaded them aboard a British ship under the command of Captain Thomson, with the intention of sending the into a place of security until troublesome times should pass. Captain Thomson sailed for England, and though hitherto he had the reputation of being an honest and upright man, the presence of so great riches in the hold of his vessel seemed to have an evil influence upon his character. Cupidity got the better of him and in his mind there formed a treacherous plan—nothing less than the theft of the valuables entrusted in his care.

It seems that his idea was to make for some port in the East Indies, but whatever may have been his intentions in this direction, Fate thwarted them. It was as if ill-luck descended at sea under an assumed name, looking for an opportunity of making use of the knowledge of which he was possessed.

The opportunity seemed now to have arrived. With Keating he made plans for an expedition to Trinidad, and having drawn up a chart showing where he had secreted the diamond cross of San Pedro—the only piece of treasure he had been able to get ashore—he also succeeded in getting Captain Boyne to join the confederacy.

Captain Boyne provided a ship, and the three treasure-seekers set sail, telling no man, not even their crew, for what purpose they were voyaging.

Suspicious

Soon after starting Thomson died, but as he had left a chart his two partners decided to proceed. In due course they arrived at Trinidad, of which island they anchored, the two men going ashore alone.

Now it so happened that in spite of their secretiveness something of the business they were about reached the crew, and when these men saw the chiefs of the exploration going ashore alone in this mysterious fashion they had a very shrewd suspicion that treasure was at the bottom of it. They mutinied, locked Keating and Boyne in their cabins as soon as they returned from a preliminary survey of the island, and then went ashore to look for treasure on their own account. Luckily they had not obtained possession of the chart, and strayed all over the mountainous island, having very little idea of where to commence operations. In the meantime the two prisoners managed to get free and, taking a boat, reached the island and made for the spot indicated on the chart. Digging there, they soon discovered that Thomson had told the truth, and that their dreams were to be realized. From the earth they lifted a rough box, and in it lay, wrapped in layers of cloth, the magnificent diamond cross of the Cathedral of San Pedro.

Having feasted their eyes upon the beautiful sight for some minutes, they quickly covered it again and conveyed it to their boat, intending to take aboard ship and set sail alone, leaving the mutineers marooned upon the island.

Claimed by the Sea.

But the matter of going to and from the island was a matter of little difficulty. Many lives had been lost, many boats upset in making attempt; so it was in this instance the boat was overturned and in the surf Boyne was drowned, and the diamond cross disappeared forever beneath the waves.

Keating managed to regain the boat and pass beyond the barrier of surf, being carried far out to sea. For several days he lived in the open boat, suffering greatly from want of food and water, and was on the point of death when he was picked up by a Spanish ship which took him to La Plata. Thence he returned home to Newfoundland, and it appears, gave up all further attempts at treasure seeking.

In the meantime the mutineers had scoured the whole island without result, and so were forced to weigh anchor, without making a penny piece for all their troubles.

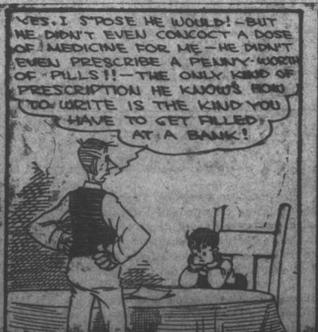

Since that time many attempts have been made to find the diamond cross and the remainder of the treasure of Lima. One expedition did succeed in locating the wreck of Thomson's ship upon an outer reef of the island, and, according to one story, recovered some of the treasure upon the mainland.

This story has been very widely believed, and a number of treasure-seekers within recent days have made attempts to unearth the hoard of riches. It seems probable that the diamond cross will never be seen again, for long since it must have been ground to pieces by the surf that breaks eternally upon the rocks of Trinidad.

Yves—(In the early 40's a family named Keating, of which the man referred to above was a member, lived on Nunany Hill. This family, a branch of the Keating family, is believed to have died out. The story of Keating's search for treasure is known to many of the older generation. —(Editor).

Labor Secretary Lauds Business Leaders

legislation and legislate away nearly every bit of initiative in him. When other countries would knight him, they act as if they would like to indict him; they hammer the stuffing out of him and restrict him with every manner of legislation.

"One of the few Cabinet Ministers who have added to their reputations since taking office," writes B. C. Forbes, in Forbes Magazine (N.Y.), "is Secretary of Labor James S. Davis. He has succeeded in winning the respect of fair-minded business men, just as he had won the respect of fair-minded labor leaders and followers. I asked Mr. Davis, who, since his return from Europe, came to Portland, Oregon, to address the American Federation of Labor convention, to give me his estimate, his analysis of America's business men and America's labor leaders. Here is his carefully, deliberately expressed reply, a reply deserving widespread publication abroad as well as at home:

"I have met the European business man and labor leaders, and I am satisfied that the American business man is the most efficient in the world. He outdistances all others in thought, action and service. He will work twelve, fourteen and sixteen hours a day—never tires or retires when he has a big job to do.

"When he is ready to start business nearly every community wants his factory or railroad. They offer him free taxes and bonuses to get him to locate in their midst. Committees wait on him and make a great fuss over him.

"But what happens after his business is developed? The same community and the same forces begin their manner of legislation. "To run a great business, of course, requires some regulatory laws, but not such measures as would take it out of the master and put it into other hands which know but little about business in general or that particular enterprise. Yet we look to those who know but little about business with more confidence than to him who has the practical experience which established and developed the small business to be perhaps the greatest in the world. We have more faith in the fellow who knows the theoretical side than in the man who has had the practical experience and has built the business. And what, secondly, are these business men collectively? As soon as three or four of them get together to do business on a large scale, they are indicted.

"Let him keep his initiative and I am sure the farmer, laborer and everybody else will be benefited.

"The same holds true for the efficient American labor man who leads his men in a conservative, sensible way to demand for them what is right. When he gets to understand his work thoroughly and the men whom he represents, and cannot be defeated in a fair discussion of the matters at issue, his enemies resort to every character of mud-slinging that can be devised by the brain of man.

"Let's have more faith in one another. Let's stand up as man to man, face each other, and overcome our difficulties, settle our differences—and do it in a human way. Let's follow the Golden Rule and the Ten Commandments a little more closely, and let them regulate us a little more rather than have so much of so-called "modern" regulation."

Things That Have Interested Lord Curzon

(By E. T. RAYMOND.)
There are many men who honor, and perhaps truer that a man may be honored by the things that interest him; many of us will agree to this on condition that we shall be expected to trouble overmuch the subject. We cheerfully accept the accredited heroes, from Plato down to the present, and from Hampden to the present, merely to be spared the pains of painfully investigating them on our worship.
There cannot be so stimulated. Men are incapable of stimulating to small talk—women are more interested—and the man has yet to be found who could write a good book on the subject of the truth of himself. All authorship is self-interest, and the more the mind is the better it is as an indication of the mind and character of the man.
Lord Curzon's "Tales of Travel" is a point. If all other records of distinguished statesmen and great men were lost, it would still be possible to reconstruct the history of the world from the things which dwell in memory, or remain in his notes, to infer the main contours of character. If no undergraduate will honor the "superior" part of the hair, which is "black and sleek" and who "dined at home twice a week," it would be clear from the internal evidence that the traveller, whose recollections include the following was the best of travellers:
"The music of many nightingales sang across the water from the island of Athos; the incredible glory of the morning as he pierces the air of the morning at Darjiling; the crossing of a Himalayan rope-bridge, sagging in the middle, and swaying dizzily from side to side, when only a strand of twisted twigs stretched between your feet and the ravening torrent below; the first sight of the towered walls, the head and shoulders of an Indian tiger emerging without a suspicion of sound in front of the posted sportsmen; the stupendous and terraced grandeur of Angkor Wat; the snowy peak of Tenzin's glistening at sunrise across a hundred miles of ocean; the ethereal and ineffable beauty of the Taj. . . .

Here was one of those favoured mortals for whom embassies serve as hotels, whose passports are fortified by letters powerful as incantations, to whom all doors fly open and all door-keepers make their most profound obeisances.
If the door-keeper should by chance be so obtuse not to recognize the aura of mildoridism, so much the worse for the door-keeper. Lord Curzon mentions casually how he experienced, in Afghanistan, the "happy novelty" of being suspected as a Russian spy. He complained to the Amir. The offenders excused themselves with an ingenuity which won Lord Curzon's admiration. But he adds that the only result was an imperative summons to Kabul. "What happened there I do not know, though from my knowledge of the Amir I should fear the worst."
It is this aristocratic aloofness, the temper of a man so highly and securely placed that he sees a large part of human life as a comedy in which he has only the interest of the amused spectator, that gives one marked favour to Lord Curzon's volume. The humane and Christian part of him is repelled by the cruelty of the great despot Abdur Rahman, "a patriot and a monster, a great man and almost a friend," who, in writing to congratulate him on his marriage, ended with a sentence in which leaped forth "the irresistible humour of the man": "If she should at any time thrash you I am certain you will have done something to deserve it." But there is nevertheless a certain sympathy of the Western for the Eastern strong man.

Abdur Rahman put to death 120,000 of his own people, blinded with quicklime many thousands of rebellious tribesmen; poured water on an official guilty of an offence against a woman until he was converted into an icicle, remarking as he gave the sentence, "He will never be too hot again." Yet he could be "affable, gracious, and considerate to a degree," and "this man of blood loved scents and colours and gardens and singing birds and flowers." One gathers that Lord Curzon rather liked him, and certainly he admired his capacity as a ruler. It is the attitude of one who knows all about the difficulties of rule, and who profoundly feels that capacity covers a multitude of sins in a governing man with a hard task.
I once remarked on the curious mixture of hauteur and humility in Lord Curzon. It is not without some reason that he has acquired his popular reputation; but a man risen from the gutter could not display, in relation to his work, a more self-critical and self-sacrificing conscientiousness. There are glimpses even in these pages of the scrupulous exactness of his methods. Some of them recall the old jest that "George" made unmitigated his folly.
For example, Lord Curzon, visiting St. Helena in 1908, was shown over Longwood by the French consul, who quickly found that his illustrious visitor knew more about the place, and about Napoleon, than himself. Therefore—
He very courteously asked me to take the company round, which I proceeded to do. . . . Thus I acted as guide in a house which I had never previously seen. The consul, with much good humour, offered to vacate his post permanently in my favour. But this was not all. Lord Curzon unearthed, in the Governor's house, the identical billiard table on which Napoleon used to "knock about the balls with a mace or with his own hands" until he tired of the game. Instead of slate this interesting table had a foundation of inch-thick oak dovetailed together like a parquet floor.
At the Residency of Lucknow in 1899 Lord Curzon found a tablet:—
"Here Sir H. Lawrence died 4th July, 1857.
"How can that be?" he asked, and went on to argue that the tablet, which had been accepted unquestionably for fifty years, even by people who had passed through the siege, was utterly mendacious. Sir Joseph Farrer, who had tended Lawrence in his last hours, and was still alive, was asked to mark on a plan the room and spot where the hero's spirit had fled, and, without knowing anything of the dispute, exactly corroborated Lord Curzon. The tablet, of course, has since been put in the right place.

Those who know anything of the extraordinary care and industry of the Foreign Secretary in his official capacity will not be surprised by these stories. They may come as a revelation to those who have never associated a lofty view of things with a most painful integrity in small matters as well as great.
For the rest, the book shows that the Marquess Curzon has not lost that knack of delicate humour and irony which the Honourable George Nathaniel displayed many years ago in "Problems of the Far East." His anecdote of Li Hung Chang may be quoted as an example of the statesman-author in his lighter vein. The old Chinaman found that Lord Curzon was the same age as the German Emperor:—
Li Hung Chang: "The German Emperor, however, has six sons. How many have you?"
Curzon: "I have only recently been married, and I regret that so far I have none."
Li Hung Chang: "Then what have you been doing all this time?"
"To this question I admit that I could not find, nor even now can I suggest, an appropriate answer."—John O'London.

SHELTERED DAUGHTERS

Just Folks.
By EDGAR A GUEST

THE LITTLE HOUSE.
Within a little, simple house there dwelt a kindly man.
And round about his open door three happy children ran;
Each evening at its supper time the kitchen fairly rang;
With the strains of old-time melodies the busy mother sang.
The little house was very like its neighbors in the street,
And yet it seemed to wear a smile, like kind folk you meet.
While others had a care-worn look of sorrow or despair—
The hardened signs of bitterness were plainly written there.
The women at the other doors seemed so sad and so forlorn,
As though their days and weeks were filled with bickering and complaint;
The men were cold and rough of speech and quarrelsome and mean,
And had forgot their tender ways when lovers they had been.
The kindly man came home at night, a smile upon his face,
And down the street to welcome him his little ones would race.
For never had they seen him come at night in rage or hate
And never had he cursed at them, though supper might be late.
Disension never passed the door. These walls had never heard,
In all the years which they had stood, one sharp or cruel word.
And so the mother's face stayed fair and so her heart could sing,
And so that little house appeared to be a lovely thing.
You'll know it as you walk along—the glad and happy place
Where just as bright a look of joy as we're wearing you can see.
For hate and bitterness and strife leave scars that nothing hides,
While mirth adorns the dwelling place where gentleness abides.

The board found no evidence of unusual ideas or extreme errors of radio signals which it would accept as contributing to the disaster, although "radio bearings received by the squadron commander were obviously in error when considered for navigational purposes." Each ship, the report said, had its equipment for determining course and location which could have been used if correct judgment had been displayed.

"Inhuman to Live Alone," Says 76-Year-Old Bride.
Mrs. Jane Rebecca Williams, aged 76, a widow of Coshaw, Hants, having been married six times previously, took her seventh husband recently, when she was married at Portsmouth Registry Office to a widower named Frederick Sydney Whall, of Portsea, 63 years of age, and a carpenter by trade.
The bride's last matrimonial venture was in July, 1922, but the then bridegroom was afterwards sent to prison for bigamy. Mrs. Whall said after the last ceremony that it was inhuman to live alone.

How Mrs. Weller makes her oyster stew

2 small cups water
1 tablespoon butter
1 teaspoon salt

1 qt. oysters.
Bring milk and water almost to boil, add butter, stirring all the time. Add oysters with their liquid and let cook until edges curl.

Mrs. Weller makes her famous Oyster Stew with Libby's Milk

When Sunday night comes around, the family of Mrs. T. A. Weller of Danville, Va., always know that supper time will bring something of delicious interest.
Quite frequently it's oyster stew and then there is rejoicing. For Mrs. Weller's oyster stew is a favorite dish of her family and friends.
In making it, Mrs. Weller always uses Libby's Milk. She says it does not curdle as ordinary milk is so likely to do.
Then too, Libby's adds a richness of flavor and gives a smooth, creamy body very satisfying to appreciative appetites. It is a great enricher.
7 1/2 teaspoons of butter fat in every can
In every 16 oz. can of Libby's Milk there are 7 1/2 teaspoons of butter fat—that substance which gives to cream and butter their great food value and makes them such enrichers.

The reasons Libby's Milk is so rich in butter fat are, first of all, because it comes from herds selected by trained dairymen for the exceptional quality of milk. These herds are pastured in favored localities, where the meadows are thickly carpeted with grass and abundantly watered.
Right here in the heart of these famous dairy sections are our condenseries where we remove half the moisture from this milk, making it double rich.
Nothing is added to it; none of its food values are taken away. But that you may use it, and other women all over the country, we seal it in airtight cans and sterilize it.
So, you see, Libby's Milk is the finest cow's milk in the land, made double rich!

Use this double richness in YOUR cooking
Thousands of women have found what Libby's Milk adds to their cooking in richness and flavor. Try it in one of your favorite dishes; you will be delighted with the new quality of added richness.
Your grocer has Libby's Milk. Order a can, or better still, several, to have on hand, for once you have tried it, you will want to use it in all your milk cookery.

Naval Fatality Officers' Fault
"Culpable Inefficiency" Charged Against Three by Inquiry Board—11 Face Charges—Report Covering Wreck of U.S. Destroyers Termed Unprecedented.
Washington, Nov. 15.—(A.P.) Bad judgment and faulty navigation on the part of three officers caused the loss of 23 lives and of naval material to the value of $13,000,000 in the destroyer accident on Honda Point, California, September 8, the Board of Inquiry declared in its final report to Secretary Denby.
On the recommendations of the board Captain Edward H. Watson, the squadron commander, Lieutenant Commander Donald T. Hunter, commanding the Delphy, flagship and leader of the nine destroyers which grounded, and Lieutenant Lawrence F. Blodgett, navigator of the Delphy, will be charged before a general court-martial with "culpable inefficiency in the performance of duty" and negligence. Eight other officers, including the commanders of as many destroyers which figured in the catastrophe, will face charges of negligence in performance of duty.
The report was declared by veteran naval officers here to be almost unprecedented in its sweeping condemnation of those alleged to be responsible for the disaster.
"In the opinion of the court," it said, "the disaster in its first instance, directly attributable to bad errors of judgment and faulty navigation on the part of three officers at acted to, and serving on the Delphy, viz. The squadron commander, the commanding officer and the navigating officer. Their responsibility is complete and the court sees no extenuating circumstances."

Commanders of the other destroyers must be held responsible in a measure, the board found, for having "too blindly followed the judgment of the squadron commander" and in failing to check the position of their individual ships against that ascertained for the Delphy.
Dividing the fatal cruise of the flotilla into three periods, the board declared the first two "reflect no credit upon the navy," but commended highly the morale shown in the third period which comprised the time after the ships had struck.
"From that instant," the report said, "squadron element displayed a zeal, courage and coolness in face of grave danger, which is a matter of pride to the navy."
The board found no evidence of unusual ideas or extreme errors of radio signals which it would accept as contributing to the disaster, although "radio bearings received by the squadron commander were obviously in error when considered for navigational purposes." Each ship, the report said, had its equipment for determining course and location which could have been used if correct judgment had been displayed.

G.W.V.A. Celebrates Armistice at Grand Falls

The Executive of the Grand Falls branch of the G. W. V. A., of which Capt. George Hicks is President, and Capt. L. R. Cooper the Secretary, are to be congratulated on the results of their efforts in 1923. The whole series, from Poppy Day on Saturday, Nov. 10th to the final Grand Dance on Monday the 12th, is undoubtedly the best as yet put forth.

In spite of the inclement weather on Saturday, all the young ladies who had volunteered were at their posts, and gathered the largest collection yet reported. The total receipts amounted to $395.25, being more than 50 per cent. larger than last year's. The enthusiasm shown by these supporters of the gentler sex is deserving of the greatest praise, and reminds one of the patient and speedy knitters of comforts during war days.

On Sunday Armistice Day, a massed parade was assembled on the monument grounds, and paraded to the various churches. The procession was composed of the C. L. B., the Girl Guides, the C. C. C., and the S. A. Guards; and finally members of the G. W. V. A. At each of the churches appropriate addresses were delivered, and it can safely be said that from the tenor of these as well as from the reception given by the congregations, the glorious record of the Royal Newfoundland Regiment will surely be remembered; truly their glory will never fade. From the churches the different bodies marched to their assembly points before dispersing. It is a matter of gratification that the day was fairly fine, and the parade made a deep impression, and was much enjoyed.

For many weeks the whole town was looking forward to the Armistice Dance. All events beforehand were fixed in relation to that. Consequently on Monday, the 12th, it was felt that a day of days had dawned. The music was the special attraction: Mr. Ernest Fox kindly gave the benefit of his talents gratuitously. After his splendid performance, we think that now, similar events will be dated from this; too much cannot be said of the great assistance he rendered, and it is the opinion of all that it was the very best music that had ever been given the Grand Falls public. He was assisted by Messrs. Edwards at the drums, by Thomas Howell and J. A. O'Flynn at the violins, and by Miss Joy at the piano for several dances. The decorations were arranged by the Committee, and were considerably helped by the ever-willing Mr. James Judge and Mr. O'Flynn. These were plaques of evergreens and dog-berries placed on the walls, and on each side of the proscenium were three crossed Union Jacks with a rifle and a helmet on each group surmounted by the sign G. W. V. A. It was noticed that the never dying spirit of the Regiment, their patriotism, and their valour was all represented.

The dance was under the direction of Lieutenant Harry Baird and the arrangements were most smoothly executed. At the interval refreshments were provided by Mrs. Ireland, to the enjoyment of all.

We would be expressing only the opinion of everyone when we say that it was one of the most expressive and enjoyable events the G. W. V. A. have ever presented and it shows that the same old spirit of 1914 is just as strong as ever; the call will not come to arms that are indifferent or unheeding; but may our celebrations be always for what is past—and may we be blessed with the peace and tranquillity for their observance. The Price of Ignorance

Toronto.—Two youths, 14 and 15 years old, respectively, appeared in police court the other day charged with trespassing and were fined $1 apiece. The bench took exception to the boys' attitude while in court and decided to find out just what they really knew. Previously one had said he was a student in the Technical School and the other in the Junior fourth.

"What are 11 times 11?" asked the bench. "One hundred and twenty-two," replied one of the lads.

"I thought as much," commented the court. "Now we'll see if you're as good at fractions as at multiplication. What's 3-4 of 6?" Both remained silent.

"Perhaps it's just as well. How about geography? Are you as good at that as at the other subjects?" "What's the capital of the United States?" "Brazil," immediately replied one of the boys.

"What's your opinion?" "Argentina, oh no, I mean Hecca," replied the other boy. "When? This is awful! I guess that's enough. I'll make it $2 without costs."

DANCERS' IMPERSONATIONS OF SPANISH TANGO AND HUNGARIAN GYPSY DANCES IN BAREFOOT DELIGHT AUDIENCES.

More, more, more, was the answer given by the large audiences and enthusiastic patrons of the Majestic Theatre last night to Miss Thurston's latest demonstration to the accompaniment of Fritz Bruch, whose musical assets are all that could be desired. Miss Thurston's barefoot interpretation of the Hungarian Gypsy Waltz who possessing considerable talent with a tamborine is seen begging in the streets, and her Spanish Fandango did her credit and substantiated the many things which the foreign press already has told of this talented artist. Fritz Bruch won his way into the hearts of his hearers by his renditions of the Last Rose of Summer and other old time favourites. Each item called for extra numbers. The costumes worn by Miss Thurston were magnificent whilst the stage setting gave a very realistic touch to the presentations of the popular artist.

"You Can't Fool Your Wife," a Paramount picture featuring Leatrice Joy, Nita Naldi, Lewis Stone and Pauline Garon, was the feature picture last night when it was presented for the first time to an audience and was heartily received.

Lewis Stone, the leading man, is constantly rebuked by his wife for his attentions to other women. When she is unable to stand it any longer she leaves him. By a queer twist of affairs, the couple are brought together at the home of a noted physician where Garth McBride (Mr. Stone) is taken for treatment after having been assaulted by thugs. His wife (Leatrice Joy) accidentally becomes the nurse in attendance. Miss Naldi has an exceptionally strong vamp role, and Pauline Garon is a sophisticated ultra-modern fapper.

In the supporting cast are Paul McAllister, John Daly Murphy, Julia Swayne Gordon, Tom Carrigan and Dan Pennell playing the minor yet important roles. George Melford directed this production that it is of the highest Paramount standard.

Tonight the same big show will be repeated, also at the matinee to-morrow afternoon when the artists will appear at 4 o'clock.

Paris in Third Place Surprised at Small Population Increase

Paris.—(A. P.)—Paris, with a population of 2,906,000 now holds third place among the largest cities in the world, ranking after New York and London, according to official statistics of the French Ministry of Commerce.

Great surprise has been expressed, in view of the congested condition of the French capital and the absolute impossibility of finding apartments, that the population of Paris has only increased a few thousand during the last 10 years. In 1910 the population of Paris numbered 2,888,000.

United States Drops to Sixth Place in World Shipbuilding

Washington.—(A. P.)—The United States has dropped from first to sixth place among the shipbuilding nations of the world in the last four years, the Department of Commerce states. Not only Great Britain and Germany but also Italy, France and the Netherlands are building more tonnage than the United States, according to returns for the quarter ended with September. World construction at the close of that quarter was smaller than at any time since the war and represents a decline of 185,000 gross tons in comparison with the quarter ended with June.

Contracts Disregarded as Marks Rise and Fall

Berlin. (A.P.)—Berlin is filled with stories, some ludicrous and some otherwise, of the trouble that results from doing the business of everyday life in a currency that fluctuates beyond the bounds of reason or imagination.

In a hat store recently a customer selected a hat for 900,000,000 marks; handed over 100,000,000 on account and said he would come back the next day and pay the balance. He did, but in the meantime the mark had so fluctuated that the same hat was priced 400,000,000 marks. The dealer insisted the customer carry out his contract to purchase at 900,000,000, but the customer refused and surrendered his deposit of 100,000,000 marks. An hour later he came back and bought the same hat for 600,000,000 marks, making 200,000,000 by breaking his contract.

This transaction is typical of the change which has come over both German wholesale and retail business. Agreements are not respected in the face of radical changes in exchange, and there is a constant effort to find some stable basis upon which to operate. The new gold currency is to be offered as a remedy, but its value running alongside the depreciated paper currency, may or may not be stable.

A Popular Favourite at the Crescent

DAN DELMAR HEARD IN CLASSY SONG SUCCESSSES.

An old favorite in the person of Dan Delmar re-appeared at the Crescent Theatre last night. Dan delighted his hearers by his rendition of several novelty songs which brought forth rounds of heart applause. The picture programme consisted of a sparkling comedy-drama entitled "The Foolish Age," featuring the dainty and winsome Doris May. In the story Miss May is sprightly and pleasing to look at as the wealthy young heroine who feels she has a mission to uplift the down-trodden, and the director has kept capable support at the right tempo. As a consequence, there is always something doing and the picture is of great entertainment value.

A big night is in store for patrons of the Crescent to-morrow night when Martin Day, the popular local step-dancer will dance Mr. L. Morrissey for the championship of Newfoundland. This is going to be a worth while entertainment, so a packed house is anticipated. See the championship dance at the Crescent and enjoy a rare treat. The usual big H. takes place on Friday night. Watch for further particulars in this paper later in the week.

Flying Fear Impedes Aircraft Industry in U.S. Says Air Officer

Chicago, Nov. 18. (A.P.)—Airplane manufacturing on a large scale has virtually no encouragement in the United States, it was declared by Major F. L. Martin, Air Service officer of the Sixth Army Corps Area, U.S.A., in an address here at the air transportation conference of U.S.A. Service officers with the National Transportation Institute. Because the aircraft business cannot develop and the American public is afraid to fly, he said, the country is in a dangerous position.

"There is practically no manufacturing concern in this country in a position to go into the production of airplanes or air engines in any quantity to-day," said Major Martin. "It takes a year to train a pilot. Mortality will be extremely heavy in the first air flight. Replacements of men and material will be approximately 100 per cent.

"One of the greatest needs is to build up the confidence of the people so they will use the airways. American people will not fly to-day because they feel it is taking their lives in their hands. Travelling by air is commonplace purpose in Europe. If the public could understand that the equipment and pilots pass rigid government tests, confidence might be built up so that people would use the airways and would support a programme for their extension. Then we could have a live and growing aircraft industry and could produce both ships and pilots in any quantity needed."

Embedded in Asphalt

Man Like a Fish in a Block of Ice.

A Canton (Ohio) message says one of the strangest mishaps on record has befallen a workman of that city, named Hassan, who has spent a night embedded in a mass of solid asphalt.

Walking in the darkness along a road in which an asphalt plant was stationed, Hassan fell over a small embankment into a pool of warm asphalt.

Two Hours' Chopping.

When morning came the cries of the unhappy man were heard by a workman, and a rescue party soon began operations. So solid, however, was the asphalt that it took more than two hours' chopping with axes before he could be extricated. Notwithstanding his unpleasant experience, Hassan, who remained conscious throughout, and even directed the cutting away of the asphalt, suffered no serious effects.

Come and take a dip in Grand-ma's Pocket, at the Congregational Sale, Wednesday, 21st. Keep the date in mind.—nov20,11

Secret Hiding Places

Many of the ancient family seats of England have secret chambers and hiding places. Persecutions of various kinds were common. Some were political, some were religious and all equally unpleasant.

Precautionary measures were taken by public men and people who felt that they might be "wanted" and sanctuaries were provided. Some of these places were fair-sized rooms, others little more than cupboards, just large enough for a man to stand upright. Some unfortunates even died in the hiding-places, for skeletons have been found in many of them.

In the old mansion of Stonyhurst, in Lancashire, now a famous college, there are several of these secret chambers. One of these was situated in a wall behind a large bookcase. The entrance to it was through a sliding panel, the opening spring of which was cunningly concealed in the wall.

When this place was discovered some years ago, an old bed and mattress were found in it, also a great number of guineas of the reign of James II. The chamber itself was fairly roomy, and about five feet in height.

Tradition has it that the oldest part of Stonyhurst is riddled with secret passages and chambers. Some years ago, when alterations were being made in the structure, a hollow beam with hidden hinges was found. It had evidently been used in bygone days for hiding sacred vessels and other valuables.

Peak Hole Discovered

Yet another secret chamber in this old mansion is over the main entrance, in the central tower. From this, through a small hole, cunningly hidden in the carving of the coat-of-arms of the Sherburn family (the former lords of the manor) on a large shield of marble over the gateway, a good view could be obtained of the approach to the house. In this chamber a number of loaded horse-pistols were discovered, many of them ornamented with silver. They had evidently been placed there for use in case of emergency. The fact that they were still loaded seems to show that the emergency never did arise. And to confirm this, a full flask of rum was also found.

At Bruham Hall, in Lincolnshire, is another secret chamber. This hiding-place is very cunningly devised. A solid oak beam, forming one of the steps leading down into the bedroom, was so arranged that it could be lifted up, disclosing a trapdoor that led down into the hiding-place below. A fastening in place, thus rendering detection impossible.

How It Looked Out

The room, which was about eight feet by five, and five and a half feet high, was ventilated by means of a chimney. Its unusual shape and the fact that it alone, of all the other chambers, was not blackened by smoke gave the secret away.

On examination, the shaft was discovered to go straight down into the secret chamber. A subterranean passage was discovered some years ago, but the fogginess of the air made it impossible to explore it very far. It is believed to run to Corby, a few miles distant, and to come out into an old house there.

A similar passage was discovered a few years ago at Arundel, running from the castle in the direction of Amberley, but the entrance to it was blocked up when a man lost his life in trying to follow its windings.

At an old house at Deal, a subterranean passage, leading from a secret chamber behind a fireplace to the beach, was discovered some time ago. It was the uncanny noise of the wind blowing up the passage that led to the investigations which resulted in the discovery of the secret chamber and its outlet.

Heavy Payments Made to Victims of Odd Hazards

Hartford, Conn., Nov. 18.—(A.P.) Splinters, small as they are, have a high financial standing with the insurance companies. A splinter, it seems, has a mean way of becoming an accident, especially when it makes the right kind of connection with an insured anatomy. A report on accident claims, just made public by the Aetna Life Insurance Company, shows that during a period of 12 months 151 persons were paid a total of $12,988 by this company as compensation for concatenating with splinters.

A further study of the report, which includes an analysis of more than 10,000 accident claims, discloses that 21 persons were paid $3,380 for getting out of bed the wrong way. Then from the remaining multitude who got up safely and reached the bath room, 39 victims slidded on the soap and were planted so forcefully in the tub that $5,750 was distributed among them as compensation for the early morning burst of speed.

In most cases, the next hazard of the day started when the stairs were reached. A too rapid descent in the case of 389 persons was charged against the company to the extent of $34,596. The inoffensive rug was another ever-present danger. As a result of 605 persons being thrown to the floor by insecure rugs, the sum of $44,867 was distributed from the company's treasury.

Airplanes were responsible for but two claims. One pilot received $30.71 for a slight injury sustained while cranking his motor, and a passenger was paid $47.50 for a bump received when a plane "lurched."

The automobile drivers, however, were not so lucky, for 396 persons collected more than $50,000 for injuries suffered in "turning her over."

Birds, animals and insects, according to the report, became affectionate with 118 insured persons, who were paid $7,947 for "bites." Tight clothing and shoes chafed 123 persons, who were paid a total of $18,745 for their injuries.

Hunters, golfers and automobilists made up most of the 56 victims who collected $2,806 as a result of coming in contact with poison plants and shrubbery. These also were the heaviest sufferers from foreign particles in the eyes; which brought claim checks to 309 persons. Burns caused by matches and cigar lighters were reported by 85 persons, who were paid $795.

Collision insurance was paid during the period to 5 dancers and 20 gymnasts. In each case the injury was received in colliding with another person.

Claims aggregating $17,097 were paid to 215 baseball players, the report shows. Seventy players were injured in collisions with "flying or falling objects," and 75 others in sliding to base. Collisions with "flying or falling objects" on the golf course injured 15 players, while 9 others received monetary compensation for falling into "ditches, trenches or other excavations."

PROPOSED AT TOMB OF UNKNOWN FOILU.

PARIS, Oct. 28.—The tomb of France's unknown soldier beneath the Arc de Triomphe will become a more impressive symbol of sacrifice if the proposal to keep a flame under the arch burning day and night is adopted. The unknown soldier's tomb continues as a national shrine and is visited by thousands Sundays and holidays.

In this connection it has been pointed out that time has effaced many memories connected with the war. It is a rare thing to see a war ribbon in a man's buttonhole, while during the first years after the war every winner of a war cross displayed its ribbon.
