THE BRITISH TARIFF COMMISSION

The proposals of the Chamberlain tariff commission were recently published.

They form the conclusion of an interesting report on the iron and steel trade.

In both cases the outlook for the British manufacturer is said to be discouraging.

At the end of the seventies the United Kingdom produced nearly 6-3-4 million tons of pig iron, or 45 per cent of the total production of the world.

From 1876 to 1880 the quantity of steel annually produced in the United Kingdom was one-third that of the world.

It is now less than one-seventh, the United States has increased its share from one-quarter to two-fifths, and Germany from one-sixth to more than one-fifth.

The increase in the consumption of steel in the quarter century has been in the United Kingdom, from 64 pounds to 253 pounds per head of the population.

in the United States from 27 to 49, and in Germany from 25 to 282.

But, taking only recent years, it is found that in the United Kingdom the increase in steel is almost stationary.

British manufacturers had formerly a virtual monopoly of the home market for iron and steel.

They had no competition in British colonies, British methods of production have now been applied in foreign countries, and in these countries there has been great industrial development.

Large areas, such as the German States, formerly divided by tariffs, have been consolidated, and thus their manufacturers have obtained wider markets, from which British products have been almost excluded.

Having secured their own home markets, the foreign manufacturers have set out to capture the home, foreign and colonial trade of Great Britain.

In this effort they have already obtained some success; but foreign competition has only begun, and is certain to become more and more severe.

It is frequently alleged that, in comparison with the United States and Germany, the United Kingdom suffers under natural disadvantages, which no policy can remove.

The commissioners are of opinion that the United Kingdom is under no disadvantages in respect of the supply of coal or ore.

Some witnesses thought that, by means of return freights, the supply of colonial ores might be increased and cheapened.

Another argument, viz., that British artisans have fallen behind in mechanical and scientific training, is dealt with. It is declared that, in the higher branches of the iron and steel trade, British manufacturers are most efficiently served.

Improved scientific training is recommended, but it is said that this alone would not suffice without a change in the fiscal policy.

It would, perhaps, be well even for those who are convinced of the advantages of protection not to build extravagant hopes upon the adoption of that policy. It would be unwise to expect that, under any policy, the overwhelming supremacy of Great Britain, based, as it was, upon exceptional and temporary circumstances, could be entirely restored.

The industrial development of Germany and the United States cannot be checked; positions cannot be put back into the position of thirty or forty years ago. But that is no reason why all that is practical should not be attempted, and, in this view, the recommendations of the commission deserve careful attention. To secure the home market of the United Kingdom, to increase British trade somewhat in the colonies, and to use a tariff as a leverage for better treatment in foreign markets, are things that might reasonably be attempted.

THE "CLEAR GRITS."

A correspondent asks us "in what year did the late Mr. George Brown raise the Clear Grit standard, and who were the members of the cabinet formed on being elected. Also the names of the members of the coalition party who defeated it," as he says some others are interested in the reply, we give it publicly.

Mr. Brown's name is frequently associated with the Clear Grit movement, but as a matter of fact he was at first its keenest opponent. The Clear Grits were a body of fiery Radicals, who found the pace of the Baldwin government too slow. They advocated a kind of Canadian chartism—the election of all officials, universal suffrage, vote by ballot, biennial parliaments, abolition of pro-

Rare Operation in Surgery Performed in Philadelphia Hospital.

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 7.—"Laminectomy," one of the rarest operations known in surgery, which involves the moving of crushed vertebrae without injuring the spinal cord, was performed upon Forester Boons by the chief surgeon and the chief physician of St. Timothy's Hospital.

Altho the operation was a success, Boons, whose neck was broken by the fall of a bale of cotton upon him, is in a critical condition.

The third and fourth cervical vertebrae were broken into small pieces, and the spinal cord was pressed almost flat.

Boons was etherized, and the third and fourth vertebrae, which are in the middle of the back, were taken out. Then the operation undertaken, the delicate art of molding the flattened spinal cord into shape without injuring it.

THE FATE OF A COLLIE. Editor World: Only a dog, not one of those low-down, yellow, mangy creatures, but a handsome Scotch collie.

The first-mentioned animal gathered in the net, taken to the city yards on King street, and there he was hit in the head with a club, placed in the gas box.

Did anyone own the dog? No, now the question I would like to know is, what happened to the dog? No, now the question I would like to know is, what happened to the dog?

While suffering from the terrible grief the approaching misfortune, Lord Roberts answered the call to retrieve the reputation of the British army.

It was the consequence of the Boer attack on the Majuba Hill disaster, General Roberts received his first call to the Cape.

George, a young man of noble birth, with the command of the troops in South Africa, Peace, however, was concluded before he had time to see the Cape of Good Hope, and on his arrival there he was immediately recalled to England.

SEN. AIKINS PASSES AWAY

An end to the unhappy sectionalism which existed between Upper and Lower Canada before the union, yet as it was important that the administration should receive upon the approaching elections the support of all men really desiring the success of the new system, it was agreed as far as Ontario was concerned that as in the last parliament of the Province of Ontario there had been more Reformers than Conservatives, and as in the proposed cabinet Ontario would have only five representatives, three of these should be Liberal antecedents and two Conservatives.

Mr. Aikins was a member of the cabinet, and expressed his opinion that the change in the relative strength of parties rendered it necessary for three Conservatives and two Reformers to be in the cabinet.

PICTURE NOT TATTOOED

DATE IN THE FIRE CRACK Lightning Sensitized Skin and Crucifix Above Bed Photographed There.

New York, Aug. 7.—The Herald says: That the picture of the crucifixion, which so mysteriously appeared on the back of Abbot Parker after he had been struck by lightning in Morrisville, N. J., Friday, never was tattooed there as was held beyond a reasonable doubt yesterday afternoon by an expert tattooer who was employed to make an examination.

He declares that there is not the slightest sign of tattooing about the picture, which more than ever wraps the case in mystery.

The man in lying, are satisfied that one of the most remarkable miracles of modern times has been wrought before their eyes.

That in some mysterious manner a large crucifix which hangs directly above the head of the bed upon which Parker was laid is connected with the picture upon the man's back will probably be generally accepted as a partial explanation of the phenomenon, but, in fact, it rather serves to deepen the mystery.

That the picture of the crucifixion on Parker's back is similar to the sculptured presentment of the crucifixion which was a brush of fire.

The man's skin when the picture appears is not broken, it would be if a smooth iron had been applied, but is smooth and even with the surrounding skin.

Here and there a bit of skin where the picture appears has begun to peel off, but the picture itself is as distinct and clear as the details of a photograph, and exact as when the Gray Nuns who were bathing the injured man's back in the hospital were started by the image of Christ upon the cross appearing before their eyes.

How long the picture will remain in its present form no one who has been connected with the man's case has been able to predict, but so far it has given no evidence of a tendency to disappear or even to fade.

Scientists who may try to explain the phenomenon from the fact of the strike will find that the picture upon the man's back might be a mysterious, but it is not a photograph. It almost as difficult to solve the mystery as if the crucifix did not enter into the case.

Parker was struck by lightning as he stood beneath a large maple tree, under whose branches he had sought shelter. His clothes were partly torn from his body and when he had been up it appears that his back had been burned severely.

But at that time there was no picture of the crucifixion to be seen, nor anything resembling it. Persons who saw the man immediately after the strike agreed that his back was burned even—that is, the pink shade of the burn was a general one, and that the picture of the crucifixion was not there.

Within a short time the man was removed to All Saints' Hospital, where his burns were dressed, and he was during the operation of bathing his back with alcohol and water that the picture of the crucifixion began to appear, faint at first, but soon clear and distinct in detail.

At least thirty minutes passed from the moment when Parker was struck by lightning before the picture of the crucifixion was visible, and it did not appear at all until after he had been lying on a bed in the hospital with the crucifix visible directly above his head.

Lafayette, Ind., Aug. 6.—Two cars in American Automobile Club's run from New York to St. Louis were wrecked here to-day. A machine driven by R. A. Kent, accompanied by Roy W. St. Laurent, both of Chicago, became uncontrollable and ran into a 15-foot ditch at the side of the road, four miles west of Lafayette.

The machine turned completely over, throwing Kent out and burying St. Laurent under the wreckage. Kent had his left wrist broken and he was badly injured. St. Laurent's legs and back were injured, but not seriously. They were running 30 miles an hour.

A steamer occupied by three persons became unmanageable near the same place, ran into a ditch and turned a complete somersault. The occupants saved themselves by jumping.

How I Cure Weak, Puffy Men. Give me a man broken down by dissipation, hard work, or worry, from any cause, and I will make him as vigorous in every respect as any man of his age, and I will not promise to make a Hercules of a man who has never been strong, but a man who has been strong and has lost his strength I can make as good as he ever was.

I can give back to any man what he has lost by abuse of the laws of nature. I can give him back his brain and body, and make him as strong as a young man, and I will not promise to make a Hercules of a man who has never been strong, but a man who has been strong and has lost his strength I can make as good as he ever was.

AT CHEMONG PARK.

Peterboro, Aug. 6.—The regatta at Chemong Park this afternoon was in every way a most successful event and was attended by over 500 people. Excursions were run from all the neighboring points, over 100 coming down from Stony Lake, besides a contingent from Stratford, Kemptville, and other points. The regatta was a race closely contested, the entry list being a large one. The regatta was blowing across the lake, making the water somewhat rough for some of the boats. The 57th Regiment band of Peterboro was in attendance. This was the first regatta ever held at Chemong Park, and it will be an annual event hereafter. The results are as follows:

St. Catharines, Aug. 6.—(Special.)—Between six and seven thousand people, including a contingent of about 1,000 from the Canadian Henley course this afternoon, there was a bigger day than the second day last year.

Thousands occupied the east bank of the canal, and the races took on a holiday character. The boats were comparatively close to the starting point at the clubhouse, and many spectators were able to get a good view of the various boats, which were about the stretch of water near the clubhouse.

NEW 100-YARD SWIMMING RECORD

Canadian Finest Divers, But New Yorkers Outclass Local Swimmers.

The tenth annual tournament of the Toronto Swimming Club was held at the island course on Saturday afternoon and was highly successful, both in point of attendance and in the excellence of the contests. The arrangements were admirable, the course being boomed off and the events carried along without delay. The holiday of the Toronto Rowing Club was filled with ladies and every vantage point was crowded with interested spectators. The presence of a number of competitors from the United States and England added to the excitement, and the contest succeeded in capturing the chief events.

The 100 yards record was beaten by Danforth swimmer, J. J. Kelly, who was clipping one-fifth of the mark made by Hubert of the same club at the same time last year. Kelly went after the quarter mile record, but failed, which was accounted for by the fact that he was a little out of current running wet. The Canadian record for the distance is 6:15, but Mr. Kelly made it in 6 minutes flat in New York last week.

Diving Closely Contested.

The fancy diving was a very attractive contest. H. Demers and G. S. Norris, old-time opponents, gave the judges some trouble in deciding the winner. In great rivalry, Norris was required to give an extra exhibition, and the judges unanimously gave the award to Norris. In high fancy diving the award was reversed, Norris not being up to his usual form.

Another exciting event was the game water polo between the Reds and the Blues. The latter team led off well and scored the first three goals, but the Reds, by a point, succeeded in putting their four goals, while they added only one, leaving the result a tie. The last game was won by the Reds just as time was called and both teams were well exhausted.

GREAT IMMEDIATE RACES ON EXHIBITION PARK TRACK

About Five Thousand People Watched the Event of the Season in Motoring.

The thousands who went to Exhibition Park to see Champion Barney Oldfield break a record of speed, had no cause for disappointment. At three miles, for a half-mile track, he is stated to have made a new world's record in 3 minutes 57.23 seconds. The time was 3:57.23 seconds.

The bare record of the fact gives this reader no conception of what this means, but those who know the appearance of the half-mile track at Exhibition Park, and who saw the race, can look at the second hand as it moves round the dial, and consider that Oldfield went round the track at a rate which beat the watch-hand by over twenty seconds every time round the dial. Some people have seen the car in motion, and they are well satisfied with the rate of twenty miles an hour—twenty-two has been sworn to. Oldfield went twice as fast. Almost 100 feet per second is the rate at which he covered the ground. The track is not an ideal one, being ratty at the corners, and it is a little more banked than it should be. The race was a very exciting one, and the spectators were well satisfied with the result.

Neck and Neck Racing.

The third race developed great excitement, as a neck-and-neck contest between Kemp's and Short's entries. The public enjoyed seeing the third race, and they were well satisfied with the result.
