SITUATION IN REAL ESTATE IN THIS CITY

Financial Post of Canada Gives Attention to Conditions in St. John

PRICES CONSIDERED LOW

The Big Expenditures at Courtenay Bay and West St. John and the Consequent Expansion—Something of the Values of Local Property

The prices of all kinds of real estate in St. John, compared with towns of the same or smaller population and far less prospect of becoming great cities, are low.

While prices have appreciated considerably during the last six months, they are still far below the real value when the magnitude of the works in progress and the future prospects of the city are considered.

This is the unbiased opinion of the Financial Post of Canada, as expressed in an editorial review of the real estate investment situation throughout Canada.

Coming from an impartial critic, and such a well informed one, his testimony should bear considerable weight with those who are seeking profitable investments.

That the opinion is fairly general is shown by the experience a local real estate man had this week with a stranger from the latter came into the real estate man's office and inquired regarding the properties he had on hand.

He was given a trip around the city and shown some of their holdings, and when he returned to the office he announced that any one of them would suit him at the prices offered, and added that all the prices seemed ridiculously low in view of the size of the city and its prospects.

He finally closed for one property and promised to come back for more, and the article appearing in the Financial Post, referring to the situation in St. John, is as follows:

In discussing the present prices and future prospects of real estate in the city of St. John it is necessary to remember that the federal government is spending nearly $12,000,000 to create a new harbor for St. John, that nearly $1,000,000 is being expended by the government for additional wharves at West St. John, and that the Canadian Pacific Railway has just let the contract for a new grain elevator with a capacity of a million bushels, and that large new industries are being erected and others are projected, and that within five years St. John will be the Atlantic terminus of three trans-continental railways.

It is also highly probable that a steel ship-building plant will be established at West St. John. These facts have a very important bearing upon the real estate situation, and it is safe to say that the city will become one of the greatest seaports and manufacturing centres of Canada.

The principal financial centre of the city is in Prince William street and Market Square. Vacant property in Prince William street ranges from $100 to $300 per foot front. A British syndicate recently purchased a corner lot on Prince William street, and the business centre, on which they propose to erect a ten-story office building, at $100 per foot front.

The value of real estate in this district is regulated by the rental value of the buildings, and some recently erected shows a fair return. The chief retail district in St. John is in King, part of Charlotte and Union streets. There has been considerable speculation in this district of late. It contains no vacant lots.

With regard to residential districts there is actually no such district at present in St. John. The city is unique in this respect. The population of 60,000 is much congested. The city proper rests upon a peninsula thrust down between the eastern and western harbors, and this must eventually be all given over to business, and there must therefore come, in the near future, an exodus to high-class residential sections in the outskirts. No city in Canada has more beautiful sites for such districts than St. John, east, north and west. The extension of the street railway this summer will, no doubt, be a factor in the movement, but it is safe to say that the best residential districts will be entirely to the north and west of the city, and property in these localities is offered at a range from $200 to $1,500 per acre according to location.

With regard to workmen's homes provision must be made for them outside the city limits. Land suitable for such a purpose within a mile and a half of the centre of the city and adjacent to the great harbor works is worth $700 to $1,500 an acre.

The prices of all kinds of real estate in St. John, compared with towns of the same or smaller population and far less prospect of becoming great cities, are low. While prices have appreciated considerably within the last six months, they are still far below the real value when the magnitude of the works in progress and the future prospects of the city are considered.

Using the half-mile circle to illustrate the situation, it may be noted that the city proper, although there is a population of 60,000, comes within the mile circle. It must also be borne in mind that the city is so situated on the coast that from one-third to one-half of the circle is water. This means that the land within a five-mile circle there would be as valuable as within a 1 1/2 or 2-mile circle where the whole circle was composed of land and would be subdivided.

Property in the mile to a mile and a half circle at present being subdivided, ranges in value from $1,000 an acre to $1,000 per lot 25x100 ft., the price depending on its position with regard to St. John, real estate values are low. As an illustration of what has been said it may be noted that last week a Toronto syndicate purchased a farm of ninety acres within the mile and a half circle, paying, therefore, a price which averages a little more than two and four mile circles ranges $1,000 per acre.

ANOTHER REVOLUTION THREATENS TURKEY?

Rumor That Dardanelles Campaigning Was Inspired to Stave it Off

London, July 20.—The mystery surrounding the reported attack upon the Dardanelles by Italian torpedo boats and their repulse with the loss of two vessels and the damage of six others, coupled with the proclamation of the Sultan of Turkey exhorting the troops to remain loyal, suggests the possibility that another revolution is brewing in Constantinople.

The Italian government denies knowledge of an attack by its torpedo boats upon the Dardanelles. While independent dispatches confirm the fact that a cannon shot of some description took place, all the reports concerning an Italian attack and of the damage inflicted upon the Italian torpedo boats, come from official Turkish sources and are not confirmed by press dispatches.

The suggestion is made that the bombardment was engineered by the Turkish government as a means of influencing the Turks, by reminding them that the enemy was at the doors of the capital, thus counteracting a military revolution and assisting in the solution of the political crisis.

GUARD CHILDREN OF MINISTERS FROM THE SUFFRAGETTES

Life and Property of Cabinet Men In Danger

400,000 STARVING

Fearful Results of The Dockers' Strike—Lloyd George Wins Victory Over Bank of England—More Strenuous Time in Naval Affairs—England and Japan

(Times Special Saturday Cable)

London, July 20.—The latest suffragette tactics. Within a week, we have had four serious attempts on the life and property of cabinet ministers. Thursday's Dublin outrages are undoubtedly part of a carefully worked out plan, executed if not originated, by officials of the Women's Social and Political Union. Scores of window breakers have recently been released from prison furlough as their heavy sentences and some of these openly avow that it is time the movement had martyrs. Detectives now watch day and night the cabinet ministers and their families. Ministers' children have been guarded from kidnappers. Already several ministers are showing signs of the strain.

Suffragette officials today talk of more and more violent action and are raising funds to defend their arrested members. Every one here is asking what action the government will take to end the intolerable situation. The ministers today are in the opinion of all who know the dockers in greater physical danger than even during the height of the Fenian campaign.

The situation at the docks since the final failure of the peace negotiations is pitiable. The dockers' leaders, in an appeal published yesterday, stated that 400,000 men, women and children are starving. The employers, led by Lord Devonport, are still absolutely unyielding. Their proposals mean in effect the entire destruction of the effective trade unions at the port of London. Each day makes it more clear that the men are hopelessly bare.

LLOYD GEORGE WINS VICTORY

Lloyd-George has had a hard fought verbal duel with the governor of the Bank of England over the effects of the Liberal policy on national finance, and has brilliantly scored. His insurance act, which was universally regarded even a week ago as dangerously unpopular, has come into operation. With amazing care there has been much less friction than even the best friends of the act dared hope. The passive resistance campaign is dead. Mistresses are paying even if some grumble.

Still more surprising, the act is already having a beneficial effect upon the Liberal electioneering prospects. One great difficulty which remains is the opposition of the doctors. A meeting of the British Medical Association in Liverpool yesterday was expected to settle the doctors' policy, and judging from the votes the branch of the association in Liverpool would decide to refuse to work under the act. Lloyd George is now unwilling to make further concessions to the doctors, hence the impasse.

The government and police are seriously concerned over it. One proof of the non-partisan attitude of the English people towards Hon. Mr. Borden is that the National Liberal Club, the principal party establishment, has invited Mr. Borden and his colleagues to a complimentary dinner on August 1.

The weather continues the main topic of interest here. Five days of fierce heat have been followed by a drop of thirty degrees. In the afternoon the heat deadened public interest in everything save outstanding topics.

NAVY WEEK IN MOTHERLAND

This has been essentially a navy week. It has long been an open secret that Hon. Mr. Churchill acted in close sympathy with Sir John Fisher since his appointment as first lord of the admiralty. Now Sir John's return to active work as head of the naval committee of enquiry is universally regarded as exceedingly significant.

FANS WILL SEE ALL THE NEW ONES

White, O'Brien and Rice in Line up Against Frederickton This Afternoon

This afternoon's game between the Fredrickton team and the Marathons on the Marston grounds should draw a big crowd. The Caps, arrived in the city at noon today for laurels lost from the Greeks, but on the other hand the home team boys are in the pink of condition and ready to give the visitors a hard fight. The new pitcher, Steve White, lately of the Boston Nationals, will be on the mound for "us," while Frank Harrington, an old St. John favorite, will do the heavy lifting for the visitors. The game will start at three o'clock sharp. A large crowd is expected, and the local fans ought to turn out in good numbers to cheer the boys along.

The Marathons' line-up will be: White, pitcher; McGovern, catcher; Dutton, first base; Phinney, second; Rice, shortstop; O'Brien, third base; Riley, right field; Winter, centre field; Fraser, left field. This looks like a very strong aggregation. If White measures up to advance reports, there will be a great battery; there will be interest in the work of the two new infield men and the outfield is strong with Riley, Winter and Fraser. The fans like to see Riley pull down the hard ones in right and he is generally a safe man as has with men on base, a time when a hit means a run.

The Fredrickton line-up will be: Catcher, Murray; pitcher, Harrington; first base, Hoy; second base, Wilder; third base, B. Conley; shortstop, Keane; left field, L. Conley; centre field, Duggan; right field, Gately.

If the Marathons win and Woodstock loses to Hamilton, the Greeks will again be back in third position.

Whitney, a new pitcher, who is said to have a fine reputation is expected to arrive in Woodstock today after playing in the New Hampshire league.

Merchants' line-up will be: White, pitcher; McGovern, catcher; Dutton, first base; Phinney, second; Rice, shortstop; O'Brien, third base; Riley, right field; Winter, centre field; Fraser, left field. The book lays bare many astounding facts concerning the practices of Eastern Yoga, and explains a wonderful system for the development of Personal Magnetism, Hypnotic and Telepathic Powers, and the curing of diseases and habits without drugs. The subject of practical character reading is also extensively dealt with, and the author describes a simple method of accurately reading the secret thoughts and desires of others through thousands of miles away.

"Rich and poor alike benefit by the teachings of this new system," says Prof. Knowles, "and the person who wishes to achieve greater success has but to apply the simple rules laid down." That many wealthy and prominent people owe their success to the power of Personal Influence there is not the slightest doubt, but the great mass of people have remained in utter ignorance of these phenomena. The National Institute of Sciences has therefore undertaken the somewhat arduous task of distributing broadleaflets, without regard for class or creed, the information heretofore possessed by the few. In addition to supplying the books free, each person who writes at once will also receive a character delination of from 400 to 500 words as prepared by Prof. Knowles.

If you wish a copy of Prof. Knowles' book and a Character Delination, simply send the following verse in your own handwriting:

"I want power of mind, Force and strength in my book, Please read my character, And send me your book."

Also send your full name and address (state whether Mr., Mrs. or Miss), write plainly, and address your letter to: National Institute of Sciences, Dept. 898, No. 288, Westminster, B. E. If you wish you may enclose six cents (stamp of your own country) to pay postage, etc.

SOCIETY GIRL'S WEDDING COSTLY

The cost of financing a society girl's wedding is revealed in papers published by Robert B. Roosevelt, Jr., father of Mrs. Olga Roosevelt Bayne, of Washington, who was married on November 15 last. Among the items are: Wedding supper, $500; trousseau, $1,500; dinner dancing, $200; honeymoon, $800; music, $100; tips given by bride, $15; bride's gift to clergyman, $100; bridesmaids' lockets (five) $75. This makes a total of $2,440.

In addition, the living expenses of the bride for the month of the marriage were $305 and her father paid $300 for her horse. Mrs. Bayne reached the age of twenty-one on April 5 last. Because she is no longer an infant to the eyes of the law her father wishes to turn over to her management the estate she inherited from her mother, Grace Roosevelt. Mrs. Roosevelt died in 1884, leaving most of her estate to her daughter. She was a cousin of ex-President Theodore Roosevelt.

LA MARQUISE DE FONTENOY

Some Comment on Visitor in New York—Mouset in Memory of Sir Philip Sydney

(Copyright, 1912, by the Brentwood Co.)

There has lately arrived in New York an individual who styles himself Prince Paul de Clairmont, of Russia, a sereno highness, a cousin of the Duke of Norfolk, and who, like so many other nondescript adventurers, insists that he is the original "Paul"—the hero of a recent cheap and nasty novel by a Canadian woman, entitled "Three Weeks." The "prince," who occupied an entire page of several American papers on Sunday last, his picture being given along with his alleged coat-of-arms surmounted, not by a princely coronet, but by the five-pronged scepter of many German monarchs, is likewise known, in England at this rate, as Jocelyn Preston Arnott, and when arrested in London last winter on charges of theft he gave at the Bow street police court his occupation as that of an actor. The accusation of theft was preferred by Florence, Lady Abby, a daughter of Lehmann Cohen of London, and who became the third wife of the late Sir William Abby, when he was already completely crippled by paralysis, and who inherited his large fortune. Since Sir William's death, she has frequently received the attention of the public, notably in connection with aviation, and on one time it was rumored that she was about to wed Alice Thaw's ex-husband, the Earl of Yarmouth, who has since become the Marquis of Hertford.

From evidence given in the police court at Bow street, it would seem that the prisoner had scraped acquaintance with Lady Abby during a trip from Paris to London, representing himself as "His Serene Highness the Prince de Clairmont of Russia." He became the guest of Lady Abby at the Savoy Hotel, and she continued to act as his hostess for several days, until she found a jewelled butterfly-brooch, valued at several thousand dollars, was missing. She accused him of having stolen it, and had him arrested.

The police submitted in their report that the prisoner's face was painted and powdered, and added that when they searched his room at the Crown Court Hotel, they found powder-puffs, rouge, pencils for the eyebrows, and visiting cards bearing the name and title of "Prince Paul de Clairmont." He admitted having taken away the brooch, and also having pawned it, surrendering to the police the pawn-ticket, but declared that Lady Abby had given it to him when he asked her for some money, because she had no cash in hand at the time.

As Lady Abby is very rich, this excuse did not appeal to the magistrate, who committed the so-called prince for trial at the general sessions. There the jury acquitted him. The man brought an action for damages for alleged false imprisonment against Florence Abby, which was heard before Sir William Scrutton, in the King's Bench Division of the High Court of London. The evidence of the police court and of the general sessions was produced, and, with the additional evidence on the part of the police, that when they took the "prince" after his arrest, to Lady Abby's apartments at the Savoy for identification, he had exclaimed, "For God's sake be lenient with me!"

In summing up, Justice Sir William Scrutton laid stress on the character of the "prince's" title. The jury rendered a verdict in his favor, with damages to the amount of one farthing, or half a cent, and a declaration that he was guilty of a contempt of the court, but, however, to pay the costs.

Then, it is the youth who has been launched in a six-column illustrated article by some of the biggest American newspapers, upon the coming people of the United States, as a cousin of England's premier duke, and as "Prince Paul de Clairmont of Russia." Needless to add, there is no such title in Russia, or in any other country.

Sir Alan Johnston, British minister at the Hague, and married to the sister of Clifford Puckler, formerly chief justice of the United States, has issued an appeal for subscriptions in aid of a fund for the erection, on the battlefield of Zutphen, of a monument to the memory of Sir Philip Sidney, who there received his death wound on September 22, 1586, while fighting for the independence of the Netherlands.

When Sidney died, the Dutch government wished to honor him with splendid obsequies, and offered to spend "a ton of gold" on the memorial. The offer was not accepted by Sidney's English relatives, who wished that he should sleep his last sleep on English soil. But that the Dutch have not forgotten him, is shown by the fact that this present scheme for erecting a monument was initiated by them and the preparations entrusted to an Anglo-Dutch committee.

Here is an opportunity for the many descendants of the Hollanders who emigrated in colonial times from the District of Zutphen, and bore its name as a patronymic. If all those who, the heirs of mingled English and Dutch tradition, bear the ancient name of Sutphen (as it is now spelled), were to send their contributions to H. van Alphen, treasurer of the Sidney memorial fund, the project would prove an even greater success than is at present anticipated, and Sir Philip Sidney, the most courtly and fascinating figure of the Elizabethan era, whom the queen described as "one of the jewels of her crown," would not lack a fitting monument on the scene of his noble death.

Offensive Optimism

By RUTH CAMERO

Is there any virtue, I wonder which, when carried to excess, does not become a vice, at least a defect? It seems to me that the old Greek motto "nothing in excess" has even more of wisdom in it than appears on the surface. I am thinking today especially of optimism. Optimism is certainly a most beautiful quality. I preach it, teach it, and try to live by my own preaching and teaching. Indeed, Charles Reade's "Courage comrade, the devil is dead" is one of my favorite mottoes. And yet I have seen even optimism gone to seed and bringing forth thorns instead of fruit.

There are some people who are what I call offensive optimists. In an office where I used to work there was a most exaggerated example of this type. Mrs. E. was an optimist from the word go. Day after day she used to come into the office in the morning in a perfect fervor of enthusiasm and delight over her own affairs, and address me something like this:

"I am so happy this morning. My rich uncle has just sent me the loveliest bracelet from abroad," and then would follow a lengthy description of the beauties of this wonderful bracelet, its probable value, her uncle's wealth, some of his former girls, etc., etc.

Or it was, "Oh, girls, Jim (her husband) is going to buy me the handsomest gown, one we saw in the window. He says I haven't had anything fit to wear for an age"—she who dressed infinitely better than any of us.

Or "My dear, isn't it perfectly lovely, I am so happy. Aren't you glad for me?"—wasn't that making a good deal when you knew that she already received twelfth much as most of us, and knew that we knew it!

I have known pessimists who wore on my nerves, but none any more grating than this offensive optimism. Surely you have known someone of her type, someone who, no matter what your mood, was always loudly calling on you to rejoice with him over his good fortune. Now there is a great deal said about obstructing one's life and getting on the other people, is there not such a thing as obstructing one's enthusiasm and good fortune?

When the Bible says, "rejoice with them that do rejoice," it adds the complete text, "and weep with them that weep." It does not advise a selfish and tactless optimism that persists in rejoicing, and in asking others to rejoice with you, no matter what their state of mind or their private troubles may be. Maybe I'm very selfish, but there are times when, although I'm glad for him, I don't feel just like hearing all about my neighbor's wonderful good fortune. And perhaps I understand human nature, but I certainly have a lurking suspicion that there are a good many other folks who sometimes feel the same way.

Daily Hints For the Cook

BANANA AND LETTUCE SALAD.

Wash a head of lettuce, line the dish with green leaves, shred the rest of the lettuce, mix with one large or two small pared sliced bananas and a chopped hard-boiled egg. Dissolve one tablespoon of sugar and one-eighth teaspoon of salt in sufficient vinegar. Have all very cold. Mix and serve.

PLAIN BUNS.

When making bread reserve enough to make one large loaf. Add to it one-quarter cup of butter softened, a saltspoon of salt three well beaten eggs and three rounding tablespoons of sugar. Work all well together, then knead five minutes. Put the dough in a bowl, cover and let rise very light. Turn out on the board and shape into small buns. Set these together in a buttered pan, brush with milk and let rise again which will take but a short time. Press a raisin into the top of each, brush again with milk, dust with sugar and bake.

Brodie's Handy Ammonia

is splendid for dish washing. Softens the water, cuts the grease, makes the dishes clean and bright. Equally good for all kinds of cleaning. Be sure you get the big bottle of genuine Brodie's—it's cloudy.

TWENTY DOLLARS SPENT TO GET IN ONE CENT TAX

An Absurd Case Which Has Come to Light in England Under the Land Tax

London, July 20—Some ridiculous situations have arisen over the administration of the land tax in England, the details of which have been reported in the press.

A man named Smith, who has a small landed property in Tenterden, Kent, consisting of tiny cottages and gardens which, in the multitudinous forms that landowners have to fill up for the taxation of their property, are classed as "undeveloped land."

Part of this property is a small garden, one acre in extent, which he lets for $3 a year.

Owing to a change of tenant, Smithson has just had to fill up fresh forms about this little scrap of ground.

Smithson himself is a busy man, and a lawyer had to be consulted for the proper answering of some of the questions, involving several visits to his office, and, of course, fees.

At the end of a fortnight's answers to these weighty enquiries concerning the "undeveloped" ground, several in number—returned to Smithson, who forwarded them to the proper quarters.

Something else came with the forms, too, a bill, in which the unhappy Smithson was charged about $15.

Not content with this, the government proceeded to write him several letters about his property, and before the whole thing was finished, they had spent about $5 in collecting the tax. And as a result of all this work and expediting the government, after a lengthy interval, decided that the tax to be paid by Smithson annually on this was exactly one cent.

REAL ESTATE MAN IS CHARGED WITH SHOOTING WOMAN

New York, July 20—George R. Harkness, a wealthy real estate man of Sea Cliff, Long Island, was arrested today, charged with having shot and killed Mrs. Florence Hopp, his wife, in the hotel room at midnight.

It is said that Mrs. Hopp, who was twenty years of age, had been in Harkness' company for several days. Harkness declared that he had been in the hotel room with her, and that he had shot her.

Police officers were called to the hotel room at midnight, and found Mrs. Hopp lying on the floor, apparently dead.

Harkness was arrested at the scene of the crime, and taken to the police station.

The case was adjourned until Monday morning at ten o'clock, when the evidence of Police Officer Silas Perry and Kane will be taken.

The prisoners were remanded to jail. The house is at the corner of Germain and Duke streets, Chief Clerk said in court that he would very likely proceed against the owner as there had been complaints about the house for some time by residents of Germain and Duke streets.

John Coholan, given in charge by his father, Michael Coholan, a well-known brewer, was arrested today on a charge of disorderly conduct in his home at Brunswick street last night and also of destroying his property, pleaded guilty and was remanded to jail.

Irving R. Nelson, given in charge by Captain Andrew Nelson on charge of disorderly conduct in his home at Brunswick street last night and also of destroying his property, pleaded guilty and was remanded to jail.

One prisoner charged with drunkenness was remanded.

THE LABELLING OF THE GRAND MANAN

Calais, July 20—Capt. John Ingersoll, of the steamer Grand Manan, which was labelled at Eastport on Tuesday, July 16, went to Boston by train Wednesday evening, presumably for the purpose of making some arrangement for the release of his steamer pending a settlement by trial of the action against the Grand Manan Steamboat Co., owners of the craft.

He was accompanied by Hon. George J. Clark, a well known New Brunswick lawyer, and speaker of the house of representatives. St. Stephen people, who are interested in the matter, are indignant over the action of the Bay State Dredging Co. in labelling the Grand Manan without giving notice to the owners, as agreed.

They claim that Capt. Ingersoll of the Grand Manan told the representative of the dredging company that he would have taken his steamer at Eastport any time they said in order that action might be taken and the dredging company's representatives promised the captain that they would give him due notice so that he could arrange for placing a board in order that the service on the route might not be interrupted. The Grand Manan has a mail contract with the Canadian government which requires it to make regular calls at Eastport and its owners had no intention of attempting to evade any action that might be taken by the dredging company. They feel that the latter's equity of breach of faith. The owners of the Grand Manan profess to have no fear of the outcome of the investigation into the sinking of the dredger by the steamer on June 26, as they have sufficient evidence to clear them of responsibility for the tragic occurrence.

Germain Street Disorderly House Case — Policeman Says One Man Jumped Out Window

New York, July 20—Americans in London at party.

President of Sears-Robuck expects earnings of about $80,000,000 this year.

The costwise dock strike is practically ended.

Splendid crop prospects, immense iron and steel trade, large buying in general trade are some of the factors that the trade journals point to in their issues of today.

Brudestretts says: "The keynote this week is the favorable crop prospects, buyers are appearing in the larger markets in greater numbers."

Don't say: "Progress is in the right direction, manufacturing plants are busy. Higher wages and great activity mark the progress of events."

In copper circles there is talk of important developments and W. E. Corey's return a month ahead of time is regarded as significant. Exports of copper are heavy.

Traders are taking these good business crop reports with a proviso that they cannot accept them at face value.

It is said that while Mr. Reid is abroad his stocks will be taken care of and the action of them indicates that they may be getting busy.

The copper advance in steel products and the fact that they are ordered to be made in large quantities are attracting attention to the steel stocks.

Union Pacific has acted better and the big stock is being bought.

The copper stocks can be bought on all setbacks. Short interest in the active stocks will be large. Some of the old pools are getting busy.

Bank statement today will show further gain in reserves.

Fredericton, N. B., July 20—It is reported here that construction work on the Rothesay end of the St. John Valley Railway will be begun in the course of a few weeks.

Dr. W. C. Crockett of this city has been appointed medical superintendent for construction camps on the Gibson and Minto railways.

THE STAY AT HOME

Let us hope for good and show where close heels or mountain towers, I'm glad I've got a bonnet and a hat.

To rest in after working hours. My wife and I Contended, sigh, For nothing that the haunts of pleasure By sea or lake Could add or make Our joy in life of greater measure.

Good food to eat (Despite the heat, I love my meals, and so does Kitty), And a drink. That's what!

What clothes to wear! We're getting into the city. Although to stick Where walls of brick Enclose us in all directions Is hard, we've got a drink. That's what!

We're sponging on my wife's connections! —T. A. Daly in Catholic Standard.

AN AGRICULTURAL MINISTER

Another noted Scottish minister has passed away in the person of the Very Rev. Dr. John Gillespie, better known as "Mossie," from the name of his parish.

Doctor Gillespie attained the moderatorship of the Church of Scotland's general assembly and other honors, but he was best known as a high authority on agriculture. He was honorary treasurer of the Highland and Agricultural Society and chairman of the governors of the West of Scotland Agricultural College. At all the important cattle shows Doctor Gillespie was a prominent figure, and his advice and opinion regarding cattle breeding and crops were much sought after. It is said that an old farmer went to hear him preach one day, and remarked afterwards: "I saw he kent 'a'bout beasts by the very way he handled 'em."

WILL PLAY AT ROTHESAY. Halifax Recorder—The 29th inst. is the closing date for receiving entries for the Nova Scotia Tennis tournament to be held at Sydney, Aug. 5. The winners of the different provincial tournaments will play at Rothesay, N. B., on or about August 23.

A LITTLE COOLER.

The thermometer took a decided drop last night and the wind made one think of the dreary fall. The highest temperature last night was 61 and the lowest 52. The temperature at 9 o'clock this morning was 60. The weather promises to become a trifle warmer now, however.

PICNIC TODAY.

The annual picnic of the Mission church—St. John Baptist Sunday school is being held today at Westfield. With the fine weather it should prove a distinct attraction for the picnicers who went out. This afternoon the usual programme of picnic field sports will be conducted and there will be an interesting baseball match.

PICNIC.

The Coburg street and Douglas avenue Christian Sunday schools will hold their picnic at Harding's Point on the St. John river, on Tuesday, July 23. Steamer "Hampton" will leave Indian town at nine a. m. and one thirty p. m. tickets—adults 40 cents; children, 25c; refreshments on the grounds.

Our stock of trimmed hats is rapidly disappearing, but there are still a number of attractive designs in stock, and while they last we will offer them for $1 and $2 each. We are now showing some special values in white felts and velvet patterns of fashions suitable for autumn wear. Washburn, Nagle, Limited, No. 29 Cambridge street, next door to Evening Times office.

WANT BRICKS.

The shortage of bricks is holding up some of the city work which the commissioners had hoped to undertake. This is the reason for the lack of tenders for the sewerage renewals in Main street and for the same reason the commissioners are unable to go ahead with the construction of the new sewer in Union street which will have to be completed before the permanent pavement can be laid.

JUST LOVELY — BEAUTIFUL WINDOW DISPLAY.

Wise Farming Counsel. New Brunswick is to have several illustration farms, in accordance with the plan of the Commission of Conservation, which is to select in a farming locality one farm to be an object lesson and source of knowledge and inspiration to all the farmers in that neighborhood.

Prof. James W. Robertson gave some interesting information on this subject, and it is printed in his report of his evidence before the select standing committee on agriculture and colonization last winter. He said that to increase the productivity of the farms in Canada the farmers should "get together on the level of a united effort in each locality, organize themselves for action in the locality, select the best managed farm or farms in the neighborhood, as illustration farms, whereon they might investigate the means for progress and get betterment."

Through these farms, he pointed out, new co-operations would be established with other neighborhoods and with government agencies like experimental farms, official instructors and educational institutions such as agricultural colleges. He cited the case of Denmark, as follows:

"When I first visited Denmark 25 years ago I learned that the leaders of the movement for the improvement of agriculture there recognized the value of the teaching power of the most successful farmers in the kingdom. The Royal Agricultural Society by means of grants enabled hundreds of young farmers to learn the systems and methods of farming from many of the best farms in the country. These young men lived and worked and learned on these selected farms. The period might be three months or six months or a year; and sometimes a young farmer would work on two, three or even four such farms before he returned to his own home. I, myself, visited a farm where 70 student farmers were working. They were not going to college to be trained in theories; they were on the farm to learn how that farmer farmed to make money. Afterwards came the co-operative organizations for creameries and bacon-curing establishments. Those co-operative societies are for managing some part of the agricultural business of the locality, and not for doing the farm work."

Prof. Robertson dealt quite fully with this matter, and in addition to what has been done in Denmark cited another striking instance from Ireland. In summing up, he said:

"The farmers who are learning are learning much from their successful neighbors. That is how they learn. If we could bring about such contacts that more of them would learn, and all of them will learn more, we will have made a fine advance toward the solution of many of the difficulties. Let the farmers of the locality be invited to come together for some definite purpose in which they are directly interested in the locality. Let them agree on one farm which they will use jointly, not one jointly or manage jointly, but use jointly, for the purpose of getting useful information for themselves, for the improvement of their farm management and practice. Let them agree on some one of the best farmers and help him by discussion and counsel, and even by all kinds of criticism of his methods, to adopt the best system and methods for himself and his locality. By this means each of the farmers who watch and co-operate would be able to apply to his own farm what he had observed and learned. This does not cost money; it costs time and labor and the exercise of neighborhood goodwill."

Prof. Robertson remarked that "a farmer in Denmark who discovers anything from his farm whereby he obtains better crops, cleaner land and more milk, passes the knowledge on and the whole neighborhood is ready to receive it." We need more of this method and this spirit in New Brunswick.

BORDEN IN ENGLAND. The Canadian Courier makes some caustic remarks about Mr. Borden's unfortunate use of the word "adjunct" in his speech in London. It says:

"Mr. Borden says Canada is not an 'adjunct' of the British Empire. It was a 'clever' remark. It might have been made by a phrase-maker on the Toronto Evening Telegram or certain 'smart-aleck' weeklies in Winnipeg or Vancouver. It should never have been made by a man who is something of a diplomat and statesman. Let me explain. Lord Salisbury, in 1897, denounced the Anglo-German treaty of commerce because Emperor William would not admit that Canada was part of the British Empire. Lord Salisbury's action forced the German government, at a later date, to recognize that Canada is part of the British Empire and must be treated on the same basis as the United Kingdom. Does Mr. Borden want to go back to the old theory which Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Lord Salisbury fought so hard to kill? Does he desire to see international diplomacy revert to the idea that courtesies extended to Great Britain by the big nations of the world do not necessarily extend to Canada, Australia, New Zealand and South Africa?"

The Courier further points out that the British government is at the present time endeavoring to prove to the United States that Canada is not an "adjunct" but an integral part of the empire, and that therefore Canadian ships must have the same rights as British ships in the Panama canal. The Courier further expresses the hope that Mr. Borden will be advised to build a Canadian navy. To do otherwise would be to reverse the policy adopted at the last imperial conference and approved by the British admiralty. The Toronto Globe also discussed Mr. Borden's use of the word "adjunct," and takes occasion to make a comparison which is none too flattering to the Conservatives. The Globe says:

"Canada does not propose to be an adjunct even of the British Empire," Mr. Borden is reported to have said on Wednesday evening last, at the Royal Colonial Institute banquet in London, England. For many years, under a Conservative regime, Canada was an adjunct of British, taking British capital in large sums, requiring British soldiers to defend her and the British navy to guard her coasts. Then came the Liberal party to power and Canada was no longer an 'adjunct,' but a partner of Britain, and was preparing to be still more and more a 'worthy child of a worthy parent' when, unfortunately, the Conservatives came in to power once more. In a very few weeks after the Borden Cabinet came into office Canada fell back to the 'adjunct' position again, a fact which Mr. Borden has frankly recognized, so, instead of boldly taking up the Liberal position, which would end this adjunct business, he announces that Canada cannot remain 'an adjunct,' but, so far, he has discovered no plan to end this 'adjunct' position."

WEST INDIA TRADE. Referring to the new trade treaty with the West Indies, the Maritime Merchant expresses confidence that it "gives a considerable advantage to Canada in lines which she has in abundance," and it sees "prospective benefits to future sales." It believes that one shilling a barrel on flour practically ensures Canadian millers the entire flour business of the islands concerned, which would probably amount to half a million barrels per annum. The Merchant looks for larger trade in canned fruits and vegetables, and butter and cheese. It doubts whether Canada can compete with British manufacturers in boots and shoes, and we already have the lumber trade, so there is nothing to be gained there. It is assumed, however, that if the treaty is ratified the cities of Halifax and St. John, should be in a better position than ever before to go after new business. The Merchant assumes that there will be a weekly steamship service, and that there will be some arrangement that will be alike satisfactory to Halifax and St. John; but it remarks that Halifax exporters see no reason why there should be a summer service to Montreal, which would add to the expense without compensating advantages. St. John exporters will take the same view.

The St. John exhibition this year promises to be one of more than usual interest in many departments.

The lively interest shown by outsiders in St. John real estate is one of the most significant evidences that the advantages of the city are at last being recognized.

The Standard objects to any references in St. John to Mr. Borden's naval policy, although it is one of the chief topics of discussion in the British press. By the way—what is Mr. Borden's naval policy?

It is said that crop conditions in the West Indies were never better at this time of year. If those conditions continue till the harvest, it means further great prosperity for Canada; but it also means a determined demand for a wider free market.

The suffragette movement has developed into a mania of an extraordinary character, and has become a menace to the very lives of prominent public men in England. It seems to be necessary to forget the courtesy and consideration due to woman, in dealing with these persons who disgrace and practically disown their womanhood.

Priest Speaks on Suffrage. Rev. Father McMahon, pastor of the Catholic church of Our Lady of Lourdes, New York, lately preached a powerful sermon in his church in favor of woman suffrage and equal pay. In the course of his remarks Father McMahon said:—"The church has always stood for the betterment of women. As early as the fourteenth century women voted on equal terms with men, and there is nothing unwomanly or immodest in it now. Any one reading opposition to the franchise for women in the doctrines of the church is not well informed in regard to them."

Girl's Complexion Now Easily Acquired. "A skin of blended snow cream and rose" is the way an Ohio correspondent describes her newly acquired complexion. She is one who has adopted mercerized wash in place of cosmetics, massage, steaming and other methods. Many who have tried this marvelous wax report that its effects are quite different from those of any other treatment. It produces a complexion of exquisite girlish radiance, rather than one bearing evidence of having been artificially "made over." One that is indeed "Nature's own," the result of gradually absorbing dead particles of surface skin, permitting the younger, healthier skin beneath to show itself and giving its pores a chance to breathe. Mercerized wax, procurable at any drug store in original one ounce package, is put on at night like cold cream and washed off in the morning. I have also had many favorable letters from those who have tried the wrinkle-removing face bath which I recommended recently. If any have mislaid the formula, here it is: 1 oz. powdered azoxine, dissolved in one-half pint witch hazel, Julia Griff in The Chitwoman.

BAD TIMES. The new manager of "Shakespeare's England," "C. C. Coburn," has some stories always comes to mind in the holiday season when the pinnares are on the beach.

One day he came upon a pierrot troupe that made no charge for admission to the show, but sent round a large shell from hand to hand much as the collection is sometimes taken up in church.

As Mr. Coburn passed a friend called out to the leader of the troupe: "Hullo, Bill! How are you doing?" "Doing!" repeated the leader mournfully, gazing into the almost empty collecting shell that had just been handed back to him. "Doing? Why, we're lucky to get our shell back!"

GERMANY AND SWEDEN IN ALLIANCE?

Reasons Given in Advocacy
Of a Union Of Interests

POSSIBLE WAR GAME

Alarm Over Decreasing Birth Rate
in Prussia — Women Poorly
Paid in Factories of Fatherland
— Rebuff For Some Unions

(Times' Special Correspondence)
Berlin, July 19.—Prussia is given in the current number of the "Grenzboten," a review of politics, literature and art, edited by Herr George Clinton, to an unsigned article in which an alliance between Germany and Sweden is advocated. The writer refers to the fact that the most sanguine efforts of the Russian emperors have always been directed towards the open sea, and he states that nothing now remains for Russia but an advance towards the northwest, "for which she is apparently preparing."
He remarks that in January, 1912, Sven Hedin published a pamphlet entitled "A Note of Warning," and that in April last Professor Pontus Palmbeck, of Lund University, published another entitled "The Swedish and the Northern Foreign Policy." In both, he says, the attempt was made to prove that the practically completed Rastattion of Finland would be disadvantageous if the object were not to obtain a Russian base for operations against Sweden. In both pamphlets it was also contended, he adds, that Russia is at present making military preparations which Sweden must regard as a serious menace.

The situation, according to the writer of the article, is clear enough. "What is there, he asks, to prevent Russia from falling on Sweden and Norway in the event of a war between England and Germany?" Furthermore, he says, such an assault could not be repelled even if Sweden, Norway and Denmark joined forces to combat it, and the circumstances must be borne in mind that in view of the intimate relationship existing between Norway and Denmark and England, Sweden's pride would prevent her from leaving on the latter power.

The traditional friendship with France could also not be of much service, owing to the distance separating the two countries, and thus, in his opinion, no other alliance seems possible than that with Germany. Neither Sweden's military equipment nor a declaration of neutrality would, he contends, avail much if the worst happened. On the other hand, the "Grenzboten" asserts, Sweden, as a member of the Triple Alliance, would be secure against the danger of being effaced from the map, for it may be assumed that the allies are in a position to defeat their enemies, or at least to compel peace as far as Russia is concerned.

The advantages that Germany would gain in time of war from the inclusion of Sweden in the Triple Alliance are, according to the "Grenzboten," firstly, her eastern frontier would be relieved, for should a German-Swedish-Russian war break out there would certainly be an unparalleled rising in Finland; secondly, the German Baltic fleet would be relieved, at least to a certain extent, and the North Sea fleet consequently strengthened, if Sweden compelled Denmark, under pressure of the superior military force, to comply with the Baltic declaration of 1905, that is, to close the Sound and the Belt against non-Baltic fleets.

That the latter measure could be effected, even in the face of a superior adversary, with the help of mines, of Swedish and Danish torpedo-boats, and of other German battleships is, proved, is stated by the example of the Dardanelles. The third advantage, the review continues, would be that Germany would be freed from the anxiety of being confronted one day with a Russian Poland, that is, with a Baltic coast. He has most particularly in mind the necessity of reconquering in future also in the Northern Atlantic with the fleet, blue and great powers, in the event of one as heretofore.

The writer suggests that the alliance he might well be taken as a model, for it leaves to each ally the greatest possible freedom and enables each to depend on the fidelity of the other. He admits that the Swedish nature is such that Sweden could not possibly be incorporated into Germany, but he contends that the Swedes must be saved from a fate that would be more bitter and more deplorable than that of the brave but unproductive Boers.

In conclusion, he says:—"The policy of the future will be 'Weltpolitik,' world will make war on each other loudly and quietly, there will be bloody wars and peaceable content, and the world will be a more peaceful and more united world than it is at present. The German Empire will, however, not fulfil its world-historical vocation until it becomes the foremost kernel and the main force of all that is Germanic. The first step would be taken if it does not disregard the hand now held out to it by the furthest outpost in the northeast."

Decreasing Birth Rate
The world may well be taken by surprise by the announcement, just an official investigation has been started to ascertain the cause of the decreasing birthrate in Prussia, the population of which is two-thirds of the whole of Germany. Physicians, clergymen, teachers, lawyers, marriage-registrars, and all other classes like to be rigidly interrogated with a view to finding out why the baby crop has suddenly fallen off. Inquiry will be specially directed to learning whether the decrease is more manifest among the middle, better-to-do classes, or the proletariat.

Germany have been accustomed so long to lord it over England, France and other nations with regard to birth statistics that the Prussian official investigation comes as a rude shock. The excess of births over deaths in Prussia hitherto has amounted, roundly, to 600,000 a year. The rest of the empire supplies an average excess of 300,000.

In order to discover the conditions of labor for women employes in German tobacco factories, Fraulin Keindel, an enthusiastic social reformer, entered several factories as a worker. She found that in many factories, although the women's wages were scheduled at $2.50 and $4.25 a week, in reality they obtained but half that sum owing to a rigid system of fines for small offences, practically unenforceable by even the best and quickest of workers. Also some factories further imposed upon their women staff by compelling them to purchase their midday meal on the factory premises, deducting the sum from their wages, irrespective of whether they had had the meals or not.

The production of Dr. Richard Strauss' latest creation, "Ariadne at Naxos," at Stuttgart in October will be the occasion of an elaborate "Strauss Festival," during which all his works are to be produced, with himself in the conductor's chair. Professor Reinhardt and the Deutsche Theatre ensemble are to be responsible for the purely dramatic features of the festival, and imported operatic stars will deal with the music.

A Blow to Unions
Terrorism by trade unions has received a severe rebuff from the German courts. The Social-Democrats of Reichenthal gave notice to the master bakers that they were not to employ non-union men, and in consequence one employer was reluctantly obliged to dismiss an elderly baker who

CURES AT STE ANNE

Several Reported in Pilgrimage
From Maritime Provinces

Attached to the Halifax express which arrived in the city twenty minutes late last evening, were two special cars having on board many who took in the annual pilgrimage to St. Anne de Beaupre, Quebec. The Point de Chose express, which arrived at 6.30, also brought to the city a large crowd of the pilgrims.

Those returning described the pilgrimage as being one of the most successful ever held. Several thousands from different points throughout the maritime provinces were in attendance and they all had the pleasure of seeing at least four miraculous cures effected. One was the case of a little boy who went to St. Anne walking with crutches but who was able to return to his home in Nova Scotia perfectly cured. He is said to have left his crutches behind him.

Among those returning to the city last evening were His Lordship Bishop Casey, Rev. E. J. Holland, C. S. R., St. Peter's, North End; Brother Benedict, of St. Peter's, and three members of the Sisters of Charity. The pilgrimage was under the direction of Rev. Father Savary, pastor of St. Bernard's church, Moncton.

Moncton, N. B., July 19.—Pilgrims from the maritime provinces to the annual shrine of St. Anne returned today, four special trains arriving this afternoon and evening. There were about 1,500 people on pilgrimage which was free from accidents. The weather was delightful and all returned delighted with the trip. Bishop Casey and some thirty priests accompanied the pilgrimage which was arranged by Father Savage of Moncton. Three authenticated cures at the shrine are reported as follows: Mary Catherine Poppley, of Fermoyn, Antigonish, a couple left her crutches at St. Anne and returned cured. Alex. McDonald, of Inverness (N. S.) was partially blind and his sight is reported to have been completely restored. An Indian from Matapedia was cured of diler on his breast.

NEW SUB-DIVISION NEAR SAND POINT ROAD; REQUEST FOR WATER AND SEWERAGE

Another large sub-division is to be opened up at once if the plans of the owners of the property are carried out. It is expected to lay out about 70 acres near the Sandy Point road into large building lots and an application has been made to the mayor and commissioners for sewers and water mains to apply this section. It is understood that the plans are to make this an exclusive residential district and the main streets are to be 100 feet wide, while the roads will be paved and put in first class condition.

The mayor and commissioners were in private session practically all yesterday afternoon and the application for water and sewers in this new section was considered. It is understood that the owners wish the city to provide all these improvements on condition that an annual contribution be made by the residents towards the paying of interest on the necessary bond issue. The opinion was expressed by some of the commissioners that the property owners in these new sections should provide their own public works as the improvements whether made by the city or the residents would simply make the land more valuable and the increase in prices would only put more money in the pockets of the sub-dividers. There is no doubt that the

FRED. MCKENNA IS KILLED IN MONTREAL; SAID TO BELONG HERE

Shot by Chicago Man Who Is Believed to Be Mentally Unbalanced

Montreal, July 19—John Sheppard, a plasterer of Chicago, in a sudden fit of insanity, shot and killed Fred McKenna, a bar tender at the Turkish Bath Hotel, and seriously wounded Dr. R. S. Devlin, son of the proprietor. The shooting took place in a small room off the bar room. Sheppard at the time was accompanied by his wife and three children.

After the shooting the man called home and went to the hotel clerk, telling him what he had done. He then calmly waited the arrival of the police and since arrested he has shown little concern as to his own fate but repeatedly asks for news from the Royal Victoria Hospital.

Sheppard is a Scotsman by birth but has passed several years in Chicago. Some time ago, according to his wife, he sustained a fall from a scaffold resulting in concussion of the brain. He received $1,800 damages and decided to return to Scotland. Since his accident, according to his wife, he has been subject to fits of insanity. Sheppard with his wife and three children only arrived here yesterday and had been staying at the St. Lawrence Hall. They went for a walk and passing through the Turkish Bath Hotel entered to get some drinks. Devlin came to the door and Sheppard fired again wounding him in the right shoulder. Dennis Kane, the second bar tender, then rushed to the door and shot McKenna in the leg and the hip.

A special issue of The Telegraph late last night from Montreal, had reported that McKenna belonged to St. John and that his home was at one time in the North street. It was thought that he was formerly a press room boy in the John Macdonald office. None of the police officers had heard of McKenna. He went to Montreal eight years ago.

GREAT GROWTH WEALTH OF MOTHERLAND

Six Times as Much as a Century Ago—Interesting Figures of Income

(London Answers)

Within the last twenty years over a hundred and twenty millionaires have died in the United Kingdom. Between them they have left over £230,000,000 or an average of nearly two million sterling each. These are huge sums, but the income of even the most indulged millionaires is a trifle compared with the income of the nation as a whole. Among us, official figures show, we inhabitants of the United Kingdom are making some two thousand million sterling a year.

Our national capital works out at the useful sum of eleven and a half thousand millions. The eleven thousand millions represents private property; the two thousand millions is the estimated value of public property, such as government and municipal buildings, warships, public parks, etc., down to the post-office public inkpots.

How does Britain's wealth compare with that of the Britain of a century ago? The answer is simple. The Britain of 1912 is worth just six times as much as the Britain of 1812. The official estimate of that year made the nation's wealth rather less than two thousand millions.

Like a prudent nation we are adding to our riches every year, the national wealth increases annually by two per cent.

How much does the kingdom possess in hand cash? Very little in comparison. If an Englishman as rich as Rockefeller decided to turn all his wealth into golden sovereigns and half-sovereigns, nobody else in the kingdom would have one. There is only a hundred and thirteen millions in sovereigns and half-sovereigns in circulation, only twenty-four millions in silver, and only three in copper—a total in all of a hundred and fifty millions, which is a trifle in comparison with the nation's capital and annual income.

The explanation is that paper—in the form of checks, drafts and bonds—plays a very great part in our national finance. Its importance is shown by the fact that though Britain possesses only a hundred million's worth of gold, some thirteen thousand million's worth of paper go annually through the London Clearing House.

As for the wealth possessed by Britons individually, there are, according to the official estimate, nearly three hundred people who are receiving over £40,000 a year; some eight hundred people are the lucky possessors of incomes of between twenty and forty thousand; nearly three thousand people have incomes of from ten to twenty thousand, while those who get from five to ten thousand a year number about seven thousand.

In all, between eleven and twelve thousand people are in enjoyment of incomes of over £5,000 a year.

To deal with less fortunate people, there are some 1,200,000 income-tax payers—1,200,000 people, that is, in receipt of incomes or salaries of over £100 a year. For every person in receipt of an income of over £5,000 a year there are twenty-nine who make between £700 and £5,000, and eighty whose incomes lie between £100 and £700.

The great majority of people, of course, have to earn their own living. The lucky few who live on their private means amount to some 550,000. In a word, those who do not need to work for a livelihood could easily be put into the city of Leeds.

A curious fact shows the difference between the Britain of today and the Britain of 1812. In 1812 the era of manufactures had scarcely begun; the rich class was practically confined to the great landowners.

TO MEMORY OF YOUNG HERO

MR. KESSEN'S RETIREMENT.

Fredrick Gleason, the retirement of R. B. Kessen from the position of general manager of the Bank of New Brunswick is much regretted by the directors and also by the stockholders of the institution. Six years ago Mr. Kessen took up his duties of general manager, coming to St. John from Montreal where he had been manager of the Bank of Ottawa, and succeeded W. E. Stacey.

Mr. Kessen has become known as one of the best business men in Canada, having in addition to his fine high qualifications a most intimate knowledge of the Canadian banking laws. No bank in Canada has made more progress or earned a greater measure of public confidence than the Bank of New Brunswick during the period of Mr. Kessen's management.

Ritz-Carleton Hotel Company of Montreal LIMITED

1st Mortgage Bonds

The hotel is situated on Sherbrooke street, opposite the Mount Royal Club, one of the choicest sites for a hotel in Montreal. The building will contain a ball-room, restaurant, grill-room and palm garden and 240 bedrooms, and sitting-rooms, each bedroom being provided with a bath. Recognizing the imperative demand for increased and better accommodation to meet the needs of a growing city, and more especially in Montreal where the hotel accommodations are not what one would expect in the Premier City of Canada, one cannot but see that it will be a paying proposition from the start.

The initial value of building, land and equipment, $1,920,000. The total bond issue $1,000,000.

An estimate has been made by the Ritz and Carlton Hotel organization as follows:
Gross operating profit $250,000

SONS OF TEMPERANCE

Splendid gains in New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and Ontario were reported at the 68th annual meeting of the National Division of the Sons of Temperance held in Portland, Me., July 16 to 18. These gains were large enough to offset serious losses in other sections.

Among those present from New Brunswick were Rev. George A. Lawson of Moncton, Most Worthy Patriarch, and E. S. Hennigar of St. John, most worthy sentinel. The next annual meeting will be held in Orillia, Ont., during the last week of July.

LABOR INSPECTION

Governor Pease, of Massachusetts has just signed a bill providing for a state bureau of labor and industry inspection. The bill was the result of the joint effort of various educational and labor organizations. In reply to a personal letter of appreciation from Mrs. Susan W. Fitzgerald, secretary of the Massachusetts Woman Suffrage Association, the governor writes:

"I believe that such measures—planned in the interest of the laboring people—are always sure of able support from the woman's suffrage movement. While I recognize clearly that your letter is a personal one, I believe it is also indicative of the attitude of your association."

SUNBURY COUNTY SUICIDE

Fredrickton, N. B., July 19—Thomas Stenwick, a well-to-do farmer of French Lake, Sunbury county, committed suicide at about 1 o'clock this afternoon by shooting himself at his home. He had been ill and dependent for some time, and it is supposed his desperate deed resulted from this cause.

None of his family was with him at the time he took his life, and his body was found some time afterwards lying on the ground in front of the door. He evidently had taken his rifle and gone out doors. The bullet passed through his head. A widow, four sons and three daughters survive, four of the children being grown up. Coroner Treadwell expanded a jury this afternoon and the inquest is to be held this evening.

Mrs. of the sad occurrence comes as a severe shock to those who are acquainted with deceased.

PERSONAL AND SOCIAL NEWS OF THE WEEK IN ST. JOHN

Lawn tennis is the popular amusement at present, both in the city and in the suburbs. To be sure it does not take much in the way of entertainment to get together the majority of the summer cottagers at the pleasure resorts, but the tennis games are of real interest and are in themselves sufficient reason for the gathering of a large number of spectators. At Robbsey on the Saturdays when tea is served in the cosy little club house, there is usually a delightful remnant of friends separated since the close of the winter season in town, who take this opportunity of socializing. As several of the players are members of both town and country clubs, the interest among their friends is equally divided. Last Saturday a game of mixed doubles was played on the Robbsey courts, in competition for the Turnbull cup, which resulted in Mrs. Harold C. Schofield, of St. John, and Mr. Campbell Mackay, of Robbsey, becoming the victors. The tea was in charge of Mrs. David Robertson and Mrs. Beverly Armstrong. A number of players and their friends were present and as the afternoon was bright and warm the occasion was most pleasant. Captain and Mrs. Geoghegan were among the visitors from the city. At the St. John Tennis Courts on Wednesday, the tea hostesses were, Miss Jack Miss Doris Sayre and Miss Marjorie Baraby. A few of those present on the grounds were Mrs. Best, Mrs. McKinnis, Mrs. West Frederick, Mrs. F. B. Bennett, Montreal; Mrs. Burrill, Hamilton (Ont.); Miss Jessie Foster, Miss Jeanette Bridges, Miss Gwen Macdonald, Miss Clara Schofield, Miss Lilla Raymond, Miss Del McAtney, Miss Kili Schofield, Miss Grammer, St. Andrews; Mr. Cothran, Mr. Hugh Mackay, Mr. Wentworth Harding, Montreal; Mr. Dan Skinner, Mr. K. Barnes, Mr. Maurice Fisher. In returning to the city where there is little or nothing going on of social entertainment, the pleasure resorts had a week of great activity. Especially was this the case at Robbsey, where two important dancing parties were given this week besides several luncheons and dinners, all more or less formal, according to the occasion for which they were given. Mrs. Dorothy Purdy's dance, which took place at the boat house on Tuesday evening and which was chaperoned by Mr. Stephen Hall was an enjoyable event. Decorating the walls of the large room with flowers, hanging took place, were quantities of hunting and green spruce bough which made a particularly effective and beautiful decoration. The dainty summer frocks of the ladies, good music was provided and a delicious supper was served during the evening. Among the guests were Mrs. Harold C. Schofield, Mrs. Royden Thomson, Mr. and Mrs. Percy Thomson, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Harrison, Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Fowler, Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Jones, Mr. Mackay, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Fairweather, Mr. and Mrs. William Allison, Mr. and Mrs. Blanche, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Gilbert, Mr. and Mrs. F. P. Mackay, Mr. J. Belys, Mr. Cecil West, Mr. Herbert West, Mr. Wallace Turnbull, Mr. Ray Mackay. On Thursday evening Mrs. Joseph Allison was hostess at a delightful dance for her guest Miss Barbara, of Kentucky. The function was held at Mr. Joseph Allison's beautiful country place, Kingshires, Robbsey, and for the occasion the grounds were lighted and decorated with colored lanterns, along the driveways and on the veranda, surrounding the house. Indiscreet quantities of peonies of all shades and delicate Canterbury bells ornamented the spacious rooms, outdoor seats, and under the trees, in the walks, were placed seats for the weary dancers. Harcourt's orchestra provided the musical programme and at midnight supper was served. Mr. Allison, when receiving her guests was handsomely greeted and pale blue chiffon over a bodice of same shade and carried a small of American roses. Mrs. Barbara was charming in a white flowered chiffon with border and trimmed with marabout feathers. Among those present were Captain and Mrs. Geoghegan, Mr. and Mrs. Beverly Armstrong, Mr. Walter Allison, Mr. and Mrs. Simon Jones, Mrs. Royden Thomson, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Schofield, Miss Katie Hazen, Miss Ethel McAvity, Miss Alice L. Fairweather, Miss Nora Robinson, Miss Cora Green, Miss Elizabeth Donville, Miss Alice Davidson, Miss Winnie Raymond, Miss Frances Hazen, Miss Dorothy Purdy, Miss Rita McKean, Miss Katherine Bell, Miss Nan Brock, Mr. F. Sayre, Mrs. Leonard Tilley, Mrs. Walter Foster, Mrs. Simon Jones, Mrs. F. C. Jones, Mrs. James Jack, Mrs. Percy Thomson, Mrs. Andrew Jack, Mrs. Simon, Mrs. Sherwood Skinner, Miss Elizabeth Furlong, Miss Mabel Thomson. Mrs. Walter Harrison was hostess formally at luncheon this week at the Grove, Robbsey, for Mrs. Guy Robinson, of Toronto, and Miss Harbour, of Kentucky. Afterwards Mrs. Harrison entertained a number of friends at a sewing party. Those who were guests at luncheon were Mrs. Guy Robinson, Miss Harbour and Miss Annie Scammell. The afternoon guests were Mrs. Leonard Tilley, Mrs. John M. Robinson, Mrs. Simon Jones, Mrs. F. C. Jones, Mrs. Franz Fairweather, Mrs. Walter Gilbert, Mrs. Beverly Armstrong, Mrs. Scott, Miss Rita McKean, Miss Ethel McAvity, Miss Alice L. Fairweather, Miss Winnie Raymond, Miss Katie Hazen, Miss Dorothy Purdy, Miss Gila Armstrong, Miss Jean Daniel, Miss Vera MacLaughlin. Mrs. L. R. Harrison and Mr. Arthur Thorne entertained at dinner at Camp Minnie on Thursday evening in honor of Mrs. E. R. Burpee, of Bangor (Me.). The party were conveyed in automobiles to their place of entertainment, leaving town at 7 o'clock. Upon their arrival the guests were

Many Thousands of Girls Cared For

WEEKLY LONDON LETTER

Princess of Teck to Open New Home For Girls—Suffragists Source of Annoyance to Ministers' Wives—Prepare For Court at Balmoral

(Times Special Correspondence) London, July 19.—London destined to take pride of place among the cities of the world for its cordialness and its thoroughfare during the hours devoted to the amusement of its numerous citizens and guests.

Mr. Taylor, surveying the work of the institution for the last forty years, gave a special statement which he has prepared for the information of Her Royal Highness Princess Alexandra of Teck, who is promised to open a new home for girls in New Southgate, recalls the fact that the first home was founded in 1870.

"In that first building," he says, "we could not receive more than sixteen inmates, but today we are supporting six separate homes, in addition to a refuge which is kept open all night, and 199 inmates can now be received and cared for with a due regard to age and character.

Up to the end of last year we had assisted in various ways 42,992 young women. This number, however, does not include the 38,200 who have been fed, clothed, housed, and instructed both religiously and industrially, and restored in life, or otherwise suitably provided for. In addition to this large number, there have been 1,200 who have been treated for various reasons, thus making an aggregate of 81,200, or the result of fifty-five years' work.

It will be seen from this striking record of philanthropic effort, that Mr. Taylor's work in a good position to speak with authority on the question of the condition of the streets of London.

The improvement in the streets of London, in his opinion, is a very gratifying result of the work of the women, who have been so devoted to this highly important branch of philanthropy.

The new and commodious home at New Southgate, which is to be opened by Princess Alexandra, will be set apart for preventive work. Like all the society's other homes, the property is fresh and has been paid for about $7,000, a still required to meet the expenses of adapting the house and erecting a workshop and laundry for the industrial training of the inmates.

The "benefits of the home," Mr. Taylor declared, "will be applied irrespective of creed, class, or country, and it is expected that the majority of those admitted—judging by the experience of many years at the other homes—will be orphans and country girls."

Ministers' Wives Persecuted A well-informed newspaper man says that a very disagreeable feature of the suffrage agitation is to be seen in the fact that the wives of ministers are being persecuted by anonymous letters and other means.

Lord Charles Beresford is continuing his energetic campaign in favor of a stronger navy. He is saying that the urgent need of the moment is a provision for a rapid increase in the supply of men. Owing to successive building programmes, the number of ships flying the white ensign has outgrown the manning capacity of the existing admiralty system.

Court at Balmoral It is said that great preparations are being made at Balmoral for the reception of the court in August. The place has lately been almost entirely refurbished and redecorated, and now presents a very different appearance from what it did a few years ago. It is understood that before the king and queen return south, they will give a dance, and there will be a series of house parties while Their Majesties are at their Highland residence. The Princess royal, it is believed, will place at the disposal of the king this year the whole of the extensive shooting owned by the late Duke of Fife.

Perhaps the latest use to be made of a taxicab was witnessed in Fleet street yesterday. One of these handy vehicles was called and began to work with great composure and dexterity on what proved to be a masterly crayon sketch of Judge Hilly with St. Paul's Cathedral in the distance.

There will doubtless be no eight months' notice of the bill of the proposal in a girl gamekeeper, who is now watching over the southern coast preserve with a fully-loaded gun. Her duties are somewhat arduous, but her father, who is also a gamekeeper, and although she is a woman, she is not at all unskilful in the use of a gun.

THE LOW-BACKED CAR (By Samuel Lovell) When first I saw sweet Peggy, 'Twas on a market day, A low-backed car she drove, and sat Upon a truss of hay; But when that hay was blooming grass, And docked with flowers of spring, No flower was there that could compare With the blooming girl I sing.

As she sat in the low-backed car, Then battle more dangerous far— For the doctor's art Cannot cure the heart; That is hit from that low-backed car. Sweet Peggy round her car, His strings of ducks and geese, But the crowd of hearts she slaughters By far outnumber these; While she among her poultry sits, Just like a turtle dove, 'Tis worth the cage, I do engage, Of the blooming girl of love!

While she sits in her low-backed car, The lovers come near and far, And envy the chicken That Peggy is picking. As she sits in her low-backed car, Oh, I'd rather own that car, sir, With Peggy by my side; Than a coach and four, and gold gallop, And a lady for my bride; For on a cushion made with taste, While Peggy would sit beside me, With my heart would beat high, At her glance and her sigh— Though it best in a low-backed car!

SUCH A THING AS TOO MUCH SHAKESPEARE

Tree Discovers This In His Theatrical Business In London

THE ENGLISH STAGE

Here's a Play Writer Who Places Himself on High Pedestal—Graham Moffat's First Play After "Bunty" Ready by September

(Times Special Correspondence) London, July 9.—Tonight Sir Herbert Tree will bring the season at His Majesty's to a close. From the financial standpoint I am afraid the results shown by the last involvement are not too rosy. The truth is that Tree has given us just a little too much Shakespeare.

The obvious question is where does Tree come in? The answer is that for a time he closes the doors of His Majesty's upon himself. His first idea was to go on the road with one or two of his most popular pieces, but apparently that idea has not worked out favorably.

As an alternative he consulted Frederick Harrison with the view of having a season in the Haymarket in Jacinto Benavente's comedy "The Bias of the World."

IT STRIKES A BLOW AT IRELAND

British Ports Closed Against Her Cattle Because of Disease

MUCH INDIGNATION

Contended That Outbreak Has Not Been Traced to Ireland and Her Business Should Not Have Been Made So to Suffer

(Times Special Correspondence) Dublin, July 9.—Ireland is face to face with a disaster such as she has not experienced since the great famine. Her greatest industry, that of cattle raising, is threatened with ruin because of an outbreak of foot-and-mouth disease, or rather because of a panic it has caused in England, which has led to the closing of all the English ports against Irish live stock.

Last week a couple of cases of the dreaded disease were discovered among the beasts in the Liverpool market, which is a great distributing center for cattle from Ireland. The infected animals were quickly destroyed and inspectors from the English board of agriculture were set to work to trace all the other beasts that had passed through the market.

Particular Hardship Just Now The situation is made much more serious than it might have been by the date of the embargo. Irish farmers at this season sell their fat cattle to provide the rent which is due in the autumn. The money which they realize in July and August from cattle sales is their chief source of income for the year and with the English market closed this source of revenue is entirely cut off. The big graziers and the small men who fatten half a dozen cattle are equally hard hit and there is not even a chance for the small men to sell at a reduced price to the graziers who might be expected to hold the stock until the embargo is raised for the fatter at the season have their land stocked to the limit of its feeding capacity, and there is little or no artificial feeding done in Ireland. Holding and buying food mean that profits for both large and small farmers will be swallowed up.

Seek Modification An effort is being made by the Irish members of parliament to secure a modification of the embargo, by which cattle slaughtered in Ireland and passed by government veterinary inspectors may be admitted to England, but they will have to face the opposition of the English agricultural interests. Home fed beef in England already has risen four cents a pound and will go much higher if the ban on Irish cattle is continued, and the British farmers are reaping a harvest. If Irish dead meat is admitted there will be a slump in the market and beef will go much below normal prices because every Irish farmer will be anxious to get rid of his cattle before there is any danger of reference to the embargo.

So far the origin of the outbreak has not been traced. It is suggested that the disease may have been carried in imported hay or that the germs may have been brought back in their clothing by drovers from the continent or from England. The disease is terribly infectious and may be carried by an infected animal walking across a pasture or even along the road. The case on a farm generally means that the whole herd is doomed.

So far veterinary science has been unable to deal with it, but it is reported that a German professor has isolated the bacillus and prepared a serum which is admitted to be inoculated with it immunes the animal.

A Shocking Murder A shocking case of trade unionist tyranny has just occurred at Le Mans. A party of navies were at work near the station when three railway employees who were treating themselves to a holiday came up and one of them asked the means of the gang to produce his syndicate card. When the poor man replied that he kept his cards for his family and not for syndicates the miscrants struck and kicked him so brutally that he fell dead on the spot. The murderer, who bolted, was arrested an hour later.

small lodging at Fry, where a man who had gone mad stabbed his wife nearly to death, thinking that he was murdering a dwarf who had entered her body. He is a workman in a brick yard, and for the last month he had given signs of mental derangement. The neighbors often heard him shout and talk loudly as if he saw someone in his room when he was alone. His wife heard him complain of a dwarf which he imagined he saw, but she paid no attention to it, thinking it was only a passing illusion. She was asleep when her husband was suddenly seized with a new attack. He took a sword-stick and stabbed the mattress. His wife jumped out of the bed, and then he turned his weapon on her.

"There he is!" he shouted, stabbing her in the chest. "The dwarf has entered your body, but I will kill him anyway!" He stabbed her seven or eight times, and she fell to the floor bleeding profusely. Some neighbors rushed into the room and found the madman still stabbing away at the mattress. He was seized and handed over to the police.

When asked by the magistrate why he stabbed his wife, he broke out into a violent fit of laughter, and explained that he had not killed his wife, but the dwarf. "My dear wife," he said, "in all right I have done her no harm. We shall now be happy, since I have killed the dwarf." He was taken to an asylum, and his unfortunate wife was conveyed to a hospital, where her condition was found to be alarming.

Brest as Terminus M. Claude Casimir-Perier, son of the late president of the republic, is at the head of an undertaking which, if carried out, should be of extreme importance to French shipping and to the world's shipping. The wonder is that the scheme has never yet been taken up seriously. It is one for making Brest the main European harbor for trans-Atlantic traffic.

The natural advantages of Brest's position are obvious. The port is the nearest European point to the whole of America, northern and southern. Its natural roadstead is a magnificent one, and could be made ten times as magnificent if French shipping summons the energy to work Brest properly, the results may be far-reaching for Brest to Paris is a certain, in fact, that the interests of the North American traffic for the continent of Europe, and practically all the traffic from Central and South America could be diverted via Brest, if Brest were made a terminus.

For the time being Brest is entirely asleep, except for the naval arsenal, and the railway station. Brest to Paris is just under 387 miles, and the one so-called express of the day takes eleven hours to cover it. With a decent train service, trans-Atlantic passengers landed at Brest, which is a good deal nearer North America than Plymouth, could get to Paris in seven hours. M. Claude Casimir-Perier's committee is never successful in doing anything, may revolutionize trans-Atlantic traffic.

Feminists are taking a hand in the futurist movement. A poetess, Mme. Valentine de Saint Point, read to an audience of futurists and their friends a lecture on "Women and Futurism." At first nothing was seen but the lady's magnificent hat, which was unanimously applauded, but gradually, as from beneath the hat a charming voice expressed ideas and sentiments of unexpected audacity, signs of indignation were visible in certain quarters of the room.

The lecturer seemed to gather strength from opposition. She claimed for woman a new and high, if not the foremost place in the futurist movement. Woman, she asserted, had untapped stores of violence and brutality in her nature—the female of the species was, in fact, deadlier than the male. Futurism must use the innate ferocity of woman for its own high ends.

The lecture ended. It was the turn of the opposition. Objector after objector leaped on the platform, and soon it was a pandemonium, to which only the pen or the pencil of a futurist could do justice. When the meeting broke up disputants exchanged blows with sticks and fists on the staircase. In fact, it was a foretaste of the futurist millennium.

Virgil's crow foretold the rain by croaking. The hens of a French agriculturist change color with the changes of the barometer. This gentleman, knowing that a canary breeder obtain a delicate rose pink tinge in the plumage of their birds by mixing cayenne pepper with their food, suspected some white hens to the same exhilarating diet. The result more than met his expectations. The hens, pink with a steady barometer, flushed a violent scarlet whenever there was a squall in the air. In short, they became weather cocks.

NICHOLAS OF MONTENEGRO AS VERSIFIER

Literary News of The Old World; Help For Libraries Wanted

ATTACK ON BAD BOOKS

German Plan to Exchange Them for Good Ones to Improve Public Taste — Certain Detective Stories Held as Lowest Literary Infamy

(Times Special Correspondence.)
Berlin, July 19.—Czar Nicholas of Montenegro, who usually writes only about war and slaughter, has become sentimental in the old age and has written a long poem called "The Power of Love." It was translated at his request by the German minister at Cetinje, and appears in the Berlin "Vossische Zeitung."

The poem begins by referring to Czar Nicholas' grey hairs; and goes on to refer to his last successes in the fields of love, with many references to misty, rainy days, tears, trembles, whimpers, despair and consolation. Czar Nicholas, however, cannot altogether avoid his favorite subject, war; even in the arms of Venus he is thinking of Mars.

Amidst the flash of the sword,
And the thunder of the cannon,
My eye, full of rapture follows
Your look, goddess of love.

Another verse says:
"In palaces, poorest cabins,
Love seeks rest in her world-pilgrimage;
She brings life, pleasure and need;
The greatest delight and the love-death."

Yet another verse says "Love is indispensable." Nicholas sought to know, he is said to be preparing a full edition of his works in the Serbian tongue.

Herman Sudermann has been talking about his literary plans at present he is in Italy, paying visits to Rome, Milan and Ravenna. His first plan is the libretto of an opera for a young Italian composer, Elio Camassi. The libretto will be based upon Sudermann's play "Johannistern" to Ravenna. Sudermann went in connection with his second plan. This is to write a drama entitled "Der letzte Dichter"—"The Last Poet." The last poet is to be Claudius Claudianus, a fourth century Latin bard. A five act play under the Emperor Honorius dealing with something that never happened but might have happened is Sudermann's description.

Sudermann denies that reports that he has abandoned altogether the modern drama. He has just finished a play of manners which he calls "Der gute Ruf" "The Good Name." It will be produced either in Berlin or in Vienna, says that "it concerns a married woman who for the sake of her good name sacrifices herself and her children to a rich and egotistical woman. It is a drama in which a heart-conflict among the aristocracy is the main theme. The play is in conflict, but the catastrophe leads to a happy ending. I have had in mind in all my writings."

Against Bad Books
Germany's society against bad literature has a new way to win the public to reading good books and to get rid of the bad ones to give out a new good book for every old bad one sent in. Thousands of books of the category "Schundliteratur," i. e., blood-thirsty or vicious, are delivered up, and nice new editions were given in exchange.

A special appeal is made to children to stop reading "Nick Carter" literature. "Nick Carter" is the German idea of the lowest literary infamy. Many Nick Carters are given up; and some other books. A small boy spotted with a Latin grammar; and said "Give me a good book for this. Father says that you give nice books for nasty books, and this is the nastiest book I know."

The "Vossische Zeitung" appeals to rich Germans to imitate Andrew Carnegie and do something for the empire's libraries, which are in a bad state. So far the biggest donation recorded is from a publisher, Heilmann. The amount is $120,000. The German People's Memorial Institute has given half a million books to small libraries.

Maxim Gorki continues to send out from Capri fulminating attacks upon modern Russian literature. He says that the living Russian writers are modern boogymen and rascals of the pen. Gorki here falls foul of his best friend, Leonid Andreyev. The debasement of Russian literature, he says, is best shown by the fact that a certain writer exalts Judas Iscariot as "a misunderstood brother" and calls Judas' suicide an imperial sin.

The author of the play "Judas Iscariot" in which the betrayer appears as "a misunderstood brother," is none other than Andreyev.

A Franz Wedekind is using the pen and the stage to fight his private quarrels. He is appearing at Reinhardt's Deutsches Theatre in his own piece "The Satire of Satires." In this he lets himself go at the weekly "Simplicissimus," a famous comic journal which represents so fiercely and brutally the discontent of progressive Germans. In this piece appear all the staff of "Simplicissimus" in unmistakable guise. The publisher is represented as a blood-sucker and coward; and the contributors as half-idiot or rascals. There is only one respectable character, a certain Bouterweck, who is intended for Wedekind himself. The first two acts with their satirical humor had success; but the general effect was flat.

Tolstoy's name continues to dominate Russia's literary chronicles. The dispute about the Tolstoy manuscripts in the Moscow Historical Museum goes on. Tolstoy's daughter, Countess Alexandra, applied to Count Stoberatoff, the museum curator, asking him to hand out the papers; but Stoberatoff declared that the question of ownership must first be judicially settled. The minister of cult, Count upheld Stoberatoff's decision. Countess Alexandra thereupon appealed to Czar Nicholas through Baron Budberg, chief of the chancery of petitions. She received the reply that it is no question, it comes to between the Countess Alexandra and her mother, the question must be settled by the ordinary courts. The only agreement to arbitration; but the mother refuses. Such a law suit, says the Reich, is a scandal.

Noticing the advertisement of "Fruit-a-tives," I adopted this treatment; also getting, as everybody knows, since taking "Fruit-a-tives," I have been enjoying the very best health and find it a pleasure to follow my vocation of Dancing and Department Instruction.

Prof. Davis, the celebrated teacher of dancing and deportment in Toronto, is quoted in stating that "Fruit-a-tives" alone cured him of distressing Rheumatism and Kidney Trouble.

Important results for both sides. Haiti, Tunis, Japan, and China have all joined the Berne copyright convention, but Russia has so far kept out. One—forty-two, five years—she had a copyright convention with France; but when it expired she refused to renew it. In 1894, when the convention was renewed, she refused to renew it. As a whole, Russia stands to lose. At present only two or three of her authors are translated into foreign languages and these get no payment. But every year thousands of novels and scientific and technical works are translated into Russian, and are sold cheaply because no royalties have been paid to the author. Russian publishers and translators, as well as the reading public benefit. The copyright convention will put an end to this.

GERMANY'S NEW BRAND OF SOCIALISM

Party is Split on The Rocks of Doctrine And Tactic

NEW POLICY DEMANDED

Opportunism and Bargaining With Other Political Parties Advocated, and Uncompromising Attitude of Uebel and Kautsky Denounced

(Times Special Correspondence.)
Berlin, July 2.—Germany's democracy is brewing a new sort of socialism. The great Social-Democratic party is in a state of ferment, and threatens to split in two if some compromise is not come to. Four or a quarter million Germans were socialists; 110 Socialists sit in the Reichstag; and 8,000 on other representative bodies; and the Old Socialists have so far attained nothing, and now they are being priced into activity by the New Socialists. A terrific conflict is raging as to what are the real social doctrines, and tactics, and the Radicals as they are to reactionaries. The New Socialists call themselves "Revisionists." The Radicals call themselves "Revisionists for the pure Marxian doctrine and for the Erfurt programme, unchanged, from 1891. It embodies the pure Marxian economic doctrine. The Marxian theory has five main points: Capitalism must increase until it absorbs, trust-wise, the small and medium industries; the gulf between classes must widen; and the result of middle wealth must disappear; until only the proletariat and the bourgeoisie are left; the misery of the proletariat must become worse; over-production, distrust, and the general crisis must set in; and as the result and because of its own inadequacy, capitalism will collapse and abandon the control of production to the people and state.

The Radicals adhere rigidly to this Marxian doctrine, and on it base their tactics. The main points are: Class war with the bourgeoisie; no compromise with the bourgeoisie; no alliance with the working classes and to improve industrial conditions, because this legislation retards the social revolution.

Revisionism, the New Socialism, denies both these principles and these tactics. It accepts only the main principle, taking over of means of production by the community. But it denies the Marxian process of capitalist production and its pronouncements resolutely for practical work in collaboration with Liberalism. The old and new views are irreconcilable; and a whole philosophy and a deep misunderstanding between them. To the Radicals Socialism is treason and crime; and to the Revisionists the Radical Socialism is impractical doctrines.

Creator, prophet, and commander of the new socialism is a Reichstag deputy, Eduard Bernstein, one of the ablest writers, thinkers, and talkers in the history of socialism. Bernstein is sixty-two years old. He is a son of an engine driver; began his life as a bank clerk; lived abroad; his socialist socialism laws made life in Germany unlivable; was expelled from Zurich; spent thirteen years in England, and is half an Englishman.

As the result of a bad wound received in the war of 1870, Vollmar turned his attention to economic studies and blossomed forth a Marxist. But he came to the conclusion that the principles and tactics of socialism are wrong; and that the Erfurt programme in some points is untenable. Above all he stood for practical politics; and for co-operation with other parties.

It is Bernstein who has developed this theory into the gospel of revisionism. In this he has made great progress. He is now followed by a whole crowd of brilliant men, the intellects of the social-democratic movement, such men as the economist Calwer, the publicist Goehle, the Reichstag deputy David Heinemann, Suedekum; and the great majority of Socialists in South Germany.

In Germany revisionism is so energetic that the struggle between the old socialism and the new socialism is not widening. The moderately rich are not disappearing; and the workers are not becoming all equally poor proletarians. On the contrary, they are enjoying a hierarchy of wealth among themselves. Many are enormously richer than others. Notwithstanding the misery does not increase and wages do not fall. Wages and comfort increase. Finally, crises and over-production are not commoner than they were twenty-five years ago, and there is no sign of capitalist society collapsing because of its own rottenness.

All these are admissions of the new socialists themselves. The old socialists find it hard to meet them. The quarrel, therefore, rages mainly on the field of tactics. The revisionists want opportunism. Already the South German revisionists work and vote with the Liberals. The Socialists of Bavaria, Wurttemberg, and Baden

At the music counter inquired she:
"Have you 'A Heart That Yearns for Me'?"
And the young, new clerk with blushing cheek
Said: "Not on thirteen dollars a week."
"What a perfect idiot I am," wailed Slammer. And for the purpose of convincing him his wife absent-mindedly remarked:—"No one is perfect, William."

from the plague. The Irish department of agriculture is arranging for exhaustive tests of the new serum and hopes to announce the result of its experiments before long.

Feeling is very bitter in Ireland about the action of the English authorities and it was expressed by William Field, M. P., president of the Irish Cattle Traders Association, who said:—"I think that unless there is very distinct and conclusive evidence, it was a very drastic step for the department to take in closing English ports against Irish cattle, especially at a season of the year when we really have a record export trade."

In Ireland stock have been free from foot-and-mouth disease for three decades and it is difficult to understand how it could get into the country at the present juncture. The point that I expressly desire to have cleared up and ventilated is how they arrived at the conclusion that it was Irish and not English cattle that were affected with the disease.

Good for George.
The Frederic Gleaner says:—Winter well deserved to win. Not only did he pitch effectively after the opening inning but he got better all the time as the game progressed. Not a hit was made by the Frederic team after the fifth inning and only the necessary three batters faced him in each of the last four innings. The Gleaner's leader also gave a fine exhibition of fielding his position, contributed two hits and a sacrifice to his team's batting record and scored one of the runs. Times and again the fans applauded "Winter's good fielding."

Signs With Mack.
Philadelphia, Pa., July 19.—Connie Mack, manager of the Philadelphia League Baseball Club, announces today that he has signed Faley of Dartmouth. Faley is a shortstop.

The Jersey City Club In Bad Strains.
The Jersey City Journal says:—"Another report is to the effect that the Jersey City franchise may be turned back on account of financial difficulties." Around the circuit it is whispered that even now the Jersey Club as a corporation is either in the hands of a commission or in bankruptcy. It is certainly in financial straits.

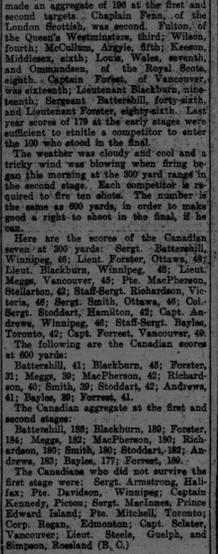

Jersey City is too close to New York and Newark to attract big week day crowds. Fans there prefer to go to New York, where three big league teams are in action than stay at home and be loyal to their own city.

More than that, the ball park is too far from Jersey and too near to the Newark ball grounds. One ball ground might easily supply both towns. It would draw from both but a different kind of schedule would have to be arranged. Better still, one team to represent the two towns might overcome the financial blight.

With Montreal a loser and Jersey City moribund, it might do well to drop both and take in Syracuse and Richmond next year. It would be more compact and less costly.

PLAY CARDS TO WIN RICH YOUNG WIDOW

Lucky One Must Pay Others Large Sum if His Wooing is Successful

Paris, July 20.—Three Frenchmen of noble birth sat at a table in a fashionable club the other night playing a game of cards. The stakes were the chance to win a wealthy and young American widow.

The three Frenchmen had been thinking of her. Each had made up his mind to attempt it. One would threaten to cross the ocean and attempt her conquest. They considered their project to one another, and were astonished, of course, to find that each had been thinking of the same thing. It was hopeless for all three to attempt it. One would threaten to cross the ocean and attempt her conquest.

SUFFRAGETTES ARE GIVEN BAD SCORE

Near to Being Thrown Into Liffey by Angry Crowd — Mr. Asquith's Visit

Dublin, July 19.—Premier Asquith again tonight was the recipient of another ovation at the hands of the Dublinites. Both inside and outside the Theatre Royal, where he made an address, Mr. Asquith, who was accompanied by his wife, was greeted by enormous crowds who repeated the welcome they gave him last night. John Redmond, the leader of the Nationalists, in introducing the premier to his audience, said that such a reception never hitherto had been given to government ministers and would never again be until Mr. Asquith came to Dublin attending the king to open an Irish parliament.

Mr. Asquith's speech was interrupted at times by male and female suffragettes, several of whom were violently ejected from the house of lords to override the decision of the people.

The triumph of Ireland's cause, Mr. Asquith declared, would be the first step in an imperial reorganization of which home rule was the one and only solution. Pressing business in the House of Commons prevented him from making a longer speech.

While the meeting was proceeding extraordinary scenes were witnessed outside the theatre. Suffragettes who attempted to make demonstrations were set upon by the populace who tried to throw them in the river Liffey. The police interfered for their protection. It is believed that the suffragettes urged the increased men to "be Irishmen." The suffragettes were thoroughly frightened by the onslaught of the crowd and were glad to seek refuge in street cars and in the lobby of the general post office.

Dublin, July 19.—Mrs. Mary Lehigh, Gladys Evans, Lizzie Baker, and Mary Coffey, appeared in the police court here today on the charge of throwing a basket at Prime Minister Asquith, of attempting to set fire to the theatre and with having in their possession inflammable for illegal purposes. All the accused were committed for trial. It was testified that a canister which apparently contained powder, had been exploded in the theatre.

Eight English women have been taken into custody by the police in connection with the outrage. The women are charged with compelling in the attempt made to burn down the Dublin Theatre.

London, July 19.—Mrs. Henry Forester, on behalf of the executive of the National Union of Women Suffragettes Society, which consists of more than 200 societies in Great Britain, whose sole object is to obtain the parliamentary franchise for women, today issued a protest against the militant tactics of the Women's Social and Political Union, of which Mrs. Pankhurst is the founder.

Mrs. Forester appeals to the members of the militant body to stop their acts of violence which are bound to be disastrous to the cause. Mrs. Forester points out that success seems only to be a question of the wisdom and steadfastness of the suffragettes and their best friends are convinced that militancy is doing the greatest harm to the cause. Evidently with the recent incidents at Sunning Park when an attempt was made to burn the residence of Lewis Harcourt, secretary of state for the colonies, and at Dublin, in her mind Mrs. Forester adds that when violence is resorted to it leads to crimes undreamed of at the beginning.

MISTAKEN IDENTITY.
One morning, old Mr. Bell was industriously plying his hammer on a wooden contrivance under the kitchen window in the backyard, when a neighbor called to inquire after his wife, who had been ill for some time.

"Poor dear! I spoke that 'er coughing, ain't it?" cried the sympathetic old lad.

"Na, na, ma woman," replied the aged toiler, surveying his handiwork proudly; "it ain't a cough. It's a hen coop."

DECISION IN HORSE CASE

An interesting judgment was given yesterday afternoon in the case of Howard G. Park vs. B. V. Millidge et al. when Mr. Justice White decided that a verdict should be entered up for the plaintiff, as the result of the answers given by the jury to twenty-seven questions which they were asked. This case has been before the courts for a long time.

The action was on one of three promissory notes, totaling $4,000 given by sixteen Kings county farmers in payment to McLaughlin Bros. of Columbus, Ohio, for a famous stallion brought to the province for breeding purposes and which the defendants alleged was misrepresented to them.

At yesterday afternoon's hearing Mr. G. Teed, K. C., for the plaintiff, asked leave to amend the plaintiff's declaration, and file a replication. His honor allowed the filing of the replication and after argument allowed the amendment to recover against the defendants severally, instead of jointly on these terms: The plaintiff will pay all costs up to the present time. If in the ultimate disposition of the case they fail to recover a verdict against the defendants, jointly, but do recover a verdict against the defendants severally, they shall have no costs to the present time, except such as are made payable to them by an order of a judge, on any interlocutory proceedings; and the plaintiff shall get all costs of applications, and hearing order, as well as costs of interrogatories

PLUCKY RESCUE IN GRAND BAY

Three Girls and a Boy Save Life of Man Upset From Canoe in Squall

Through their promptness and presence of mind a group of four children have to their credit the saving of a life on Grand Bay last evening. The victim of the accident, who had a narrow escape from drowning was a young man who was canoeing in the bay about five o'clock, in the evening, when a sudden squall upset his craft and threw him into the water. He started to swim for the shore, but found the distance too great and, when he felt most exhausted, began to cry for help. His call was heard by Marguerite and Annie, who are spending the summer at Grand Bay, and Florence and Arthur Gillen, whose father, J. Alfred Gillen of this city, has a summer home there.

The three girls and the boy, whose ages range from twelve to sixteen years, promptly launched a rowboat and pulled for the drowning man. By the time they reached him, he was too weak to climb in to the boat, and they found it necessary to pull him in by main strength, no small task either. Rescuers and rescued finally reached the shore and when their work was done and the danger was passed the three girls sat down to a hearty and satisfactory cry. The near-victim recovered rapidly and is not much the worse for his experience.

A VISIT FROM MOOSE AND DEER

North End Has Call From Both, Moose Also Stalks Carleton Streets

While they might possibly have received a heartier reception during Old Home Week, had they been more familiar with the date, the visit of two residents of the rural sections, a fairly large deer and a big moose, to the North End this morning was decidedly interesting, although entirely unexpected. Mr. Moose was at first noticed a little before six o'clock by some men going to work. He was resting and "breathing in the first sweet income of the morn," on the lawn of P. McIntyre in Main street. Apparently not appreciating the curious stare of passers-by, although few in number, the big animal stalked down Main street, turned into Second, and proceeded to the water into which he boldly plunged and swam away.

It is thought that this moose is the one which also paid a visit to Carleton this morning and if so, its adventures in the city were exciting to say the least. The "monarch of the forest," after swimming across the harbor, landed well up on the west side and leisurely wandered towards the streets. An unusual sight was witnessed as he came speeding along and caused the denizens of the backwoods to show Marathon ability in a furious race down the street, evidently greatly frightened by the "apparition" on wheels. Reaching Ludlow street the moose turned and was soon lost sight of, although one man is said to have seen the animal receive a fall later on.

The deer apparently did not stay so long as the larger animal, but after being noticed coming from the harbor, Chesley street meandered along the roadway until the scent of the green woods became stronger, and then wandered back to the "tall timbers." There is not so much known of the deer's adventures whence it came, whether it is an enthusiast of people living along Chesley street were given a surprise that would be a welcome one to appreciate a few months hence.

An Interesting Programme Has Been Arranged—A Suggestion

The programme of water sports to be held at Fredericton on Tuesday afternoon, Aug. 6, in connection with the Fredericton old home week celebration is as follows:—Motor boat race, single canoe race, double canoe race, remaining race, 30 years and under, 50 yards; tilting match, Indian canoe race, swimming race, 18 to 20 years, 50 yards; rowing race, swimming race, free for all, 100 yards; upset canoe race, square canoe race, fancy dive, swimming under water, motor canoe race, war canoe race, log rolling contest, grassed pole illuminated boat parade on Tuesday evening. Suitable prizes will be given for each event. Entries will close on Thursday, August 1 at the office of Clements & Helve, Queen street, Fredericton, or with the general secretary, P. O. Box 367, Fredericton.

Possibly some readers contemplate spending their vacation in a trip on the water. W. C. Rowell and several who were unable to get away with the R. K. Y. C. cruise, are planning for a river trip, and on account of the programme at Fredericton, will make this their objective point, spending Tuesday there, and returning directly to St. John. If several could arrange to go together, it would make the trip more interesting.

NEW LIGHTING FOR THE EXHIBITION BUILDINGS AND GROUNDS PLANNED

Big Change For The Better—Horse Exhibits To Be in Nature of a Regular Horse Show

The exhibition buildings will be modernized in the matter of illumination this year. The old-fashioned white arc lamps are to be removed and tungsten lamps of high efficiency installed. This will give the vast interior of the main open area, a brightness difficult to imagine, as most people familiar with exhibition conditions in St. John have it said the more or less show efficiency of the whole equipment.

To effect the change is an electrical job of considerable magnitude, but the execution of the same will be well worth the outlay. It is planned to suspend lamps at every twenty feet throughout the buildings and on the Barrack Square, as well as among the cattle accommodations. The effect of this dazzling illumination will practically transform the general aspect of the show. Distribution of light will be most thorough, particularly on the outside of the buildings, where the free entertainments, Pike, Midway, etc. are to be held. Dark night will, in truth, be turned into midday.

Fortunately, very little money has to be expended on repairs and renovations, other than the substituting of some of the exposed parts of the buildings inside and outside; touching up the new cattle sheds and other buildings. Some of the important exhibitors at the Dominion Exhibition, with commendable foresight, allowed the framework of their displays to remain intact. These will be utilized this year. No doubt additional accommodations and safety precautions will be made at the junction of the two main buildings, where the concerts of the Neapolitan Troubadours are to be given.

On the grounds the changes made in the field street, due to the government's expropriation of the land, will be met with special barriers, and convenient arrangements made for the handling of the crowds during the aeroplane flights, the "Bombardment of Tripoli" spectacle, horse-show parades and other features in the open air.

Like Horse Show

It is planned to make the horse exhibits this year in the nature of a veritable horse show. Breeders and owners who have been spoken to with this suggestion have expressed not only a willingness to assist but an enthusiasm, when the details of the scheme were laid before them. The idea is to have the horses on exhibition paraded on the track at stated times, with all the dash and splendor of a regular smart horse show. The animals will not only be led to halter but will be driven in harness—single, double, tandem, four-in-hand, under the saddle, draft vehicles, and in the various ways in which the horse is used in its work-day life. As these plans develop it is proposed to introduce the distinguishing features of a well-managed competition of this kind. A radical change in the horse parading, which allows one animal to be entered in more than one class, will have a stimulating effect, and it is confidently expected the plan already outlined will be quite feasible.

POSSE STARTS OUT TO CAPTURE INDIAN

Brantford, Ont., Jul 20.—To capture Frank Bennett, the slayer of Emily Antone, a heavily armed posse started for the Indian reservation this morning. The two Brantford officers are not considered equal to the task owing to the fact that Bennett is likely to receive assistance from Indian friends.

As a result of an inquest yesterday he will be charged with the murder, the jury finding that the woman died as a result of injury at his hands.

THE COAL SITUATION

People in St. John may pay dearly for coal next winter. Already prices are well advanced and there are said to be prospects of an additional increase of 25 cents on August 1, with further advances to follow. There is practically no coal to be had at present, and it is difficult to procure any. One local firm this week wired to nine companies in the states asking for a cargo, and another company wired to seven American concerns, but the answer was the same in every case, "We cannot supply you, for the present at least." There are no coasting schooners on the way here with coal and there is none to be had for chartering although freights are particularly good.

Coal dealers in St. John find themselves peculiarly situated for while they are in a position to make a dollar they are unable to grasp the opportunity because of lack of supplies. Some of them have orders on their books for between 1,000 and 2,000 tons to be delivered as soon as possible, the wiser buyers being anxious to make their purchases before prices go too high, but delivery is impossible for there is no coal in the sheds.

The coal strike, which lasted about six weeks in the American mines is now showing its effect and though the time lost has been made up in a way, the demand in the states is so brisk that it is found difficult to secure any for St. John use at present.

American chestnut coal, which last year was cheaper than Scotch is now selling at $5, the same price asked for Scotch at present quoting, while ordinary stove coal is bringing $7.50 and $7.75. Soft coal is about twenty-five cents higher than usual in the wholesale market, although the retail market has not yet been affected.

Coasting schooners are receiving stiff freight rates, but even with the increase it is difficult to get vessels for bringing coal here. Last year about this time freight rates ranged about ninety cents, while they are now up to about $1.05, while $2.25 is the figure for Fredericton. The number of vessels in the coasting trade is decreasing and there do not seem to be any replacing those out of commission.
