HUSBAND NEARLY GONE

Police Come Across Sad Case of Desolation in Brooklyn Attic—Mother Buried Where Starved Baby Was Laid Two Months Ago

New York, Feb. 9.—In a little attic room with the windows broken and with the rafters running to the floor on either side, at 45 Bushwick avenue, Brooklyn, the police of the Stagg street station yesterday found the body of Mrs. Mary Sidel.

On the floor, with no covering over him, lay the woman's husband, Peter Sidel, pinched from hunger and blue from cold.

When Dr. Ramsey came from St. Catherine's hospital one look at the dead woman was sufficient. "She has starved and frozen to death," he said.

His wife tried to do the washing, but her strength was not equal to it any more.

Plays and Players

QUATRY NEWS OF THE GREEN ROOM

The Time, the Place and the Girl was given a very hearty welcome to St. John in the Opera House last night. It was well presented, is very bright in dialogue, music and action, and pleased highly. There were recalls time and again, promises to fill the house on the remaining three nights of the week.

John Downin, leading lady with Hart's two years ago, is doing good work with the Keith Company in Portland, Me. They are presenting some fine dramas.

Henry B. Harris, the producer of "The Scarecrow" in which Edmund Bross is starring, is hard put to find an understudy for his star in this play. There are thousands of actors out of employment, walking the streets of New York, but none of them seem to care to chance the hazard of playing the part of the Devil, since it requires a man of nerve and athletic agility.

Getroff Dion Magill, formerly remembered here, has closed her engagement with the Sheridan Stock Company in Brockton, and her place has been taken by Marie Horton.

Three members of the company known as Phil Ott's Comedians, who appeared in the Opera House a couple of months ago, meet with an unfortunate mishap. On the days ago in Poughkeepsie, N. Y., as a result of which two of them, Anna Maria, aged 22, of Providence, R. I., and a girl named Edith, aged 20, of Boston, may die. Edith sustained a fracture of the skull, fully injured. Two chauffeurs also suffered serious injuries. The accident occurred in collision of a street car and an automobile in which the five were driving. The company at the time were playing an engagement in the city. The pieces of the chorus girls were almost immediately recalled.

Robert Homans, remembered here as leading man with the Baker Stock Company, and who was with the New York Theatre Company, has joined the forces at the Castle Square Theatre, Boston. He made his appearance there last week as Laertes in Hamlet.

After every seat for three performances was sold the Mayor of Richmond, Va., has prohibited Miss Frances Starr's production of "The East Way" on grounds of indecency.

Joe Greedy, husband of Frankie Carpenter, and well remembered here, is playing again this season with his own company in vanderbilt. He was in Detroit last week. Miss Greedy is in New York at present looking for new material for a show.

Lawrence Brooks and his company, in standard repertoire, have been booked for the St. John Opera House at the opening of next season. The Myrtle Harter, Kirt Brown and other companies well known here, will be seen in a few weeks at the local house.

Contracts have been entered into for Miss Nora Hayes as the leading lady in a new comedy with music, entitled Little Miss Fixit, by William J. Hurlbut. The opening date is set for February 25. The present intention is to give the play a preliminary season of a few weeks and then take it direct to New York.

George Marlow, whose work attracted attention in the Spring Music Theatre, has been engaged to star in Little Miss Fixit.

"Way Down East," the play that will not grow old, is having a fine run at the Majestic Theatre, New York. Just before sailing upon his pleasure cruise to the West India the other day, A. V. Dingwall, of McVicker's Theatre, Chicago, remarked that this piece had just closed an $11,000 week at McVicker's after having played there three times without number.

Augustine Thomas has completed a new play, and arrangements have been made for it to be presented with John Weston as the star. Mr. Thomas' first title for it was "The Jew." This was changed to "As Men Think," but even the latter title is not final. A new title will be selected within the next few days. The production will be made by the Messrs. Shubert, and the play will be seen in one of their New York theatres in the early spring.

The Mattie Girl in her column in the Mirror this week, has the following concerning professional people known as "20th Ellis," whose reputation of an Hungarian drama will follow Suzanne at the Lyceum, is cranking for the child on stage. "I myself was a stage child, and I've come to no bad end," said Miss Ellis. Her brother Edward Ellis, looked up from a book.

"But you forget me," he observed. "I, too, was a child actor, and I am playing crooks, demerols and degenerates."

Mr. Ellis is supporting in the new comedy "Get-Rick-Quick Wallingford."

Miss Louise Gunning, star of the "Balkan Princess" which will inaugurate the New York engagement at the Herald Sq. Theatre this evening has had a most remarkable career.

"As a little girl I was never allowed to go to the theatre, because my father was a Baptist minister and had very strict ideas as to the fitness of things," says Miss Gunning.

"I next became a member of the choir in my father's church and this gave me considerable confidence, increasing my desirability."

How to Have the Best Cough Syrup and Save $2 by Making it at Home

Comp medicines, as a rule, contain a large quantity of plain syrup. If you take two cups of granulated sugar, add one cup of warm water, and stir about 2 minutes, you have as good syrup as money could buy.

If you will then put 212 ounces of Pinex (fifty cents worth) in a 16 oz. bottle, and fill it up with the Sugar Syrup, you will have as much cough syrup as you could buy ready-made for $2.00. It keeps perfectly.

You will find it the best cough syrup you ever used—been in use for 21 years. It is just what you need. It has a good tonic effect and is pleasant. Take a teaspoonful every 2 or 3 hours.

It is a splendid remedy, too, for hoarseness, asthma, chest pains, etc. Pinex is the most valuable concentrated compound of Norway white pine extract, rich in vitamins and all the healing elements. No other preparation will work in this formula.

This recipe for making cough remedy with Pinex and Sugar Syrup is now used and prized in thousands of homes in the United States and Canada. The plan has often been imitated but never successful.

A guarantee of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this recipe. Your druggist has Pinex or will get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., Chicago, Ill.

termination to succeed a singer and my ambition for wider prospects. The result of this was that I landed on the vanderbilt stage. Some of the members of the church congregation must have been greatly shocked and prophesied all sorts of horrible things.

The night, Charles Hoyt heard me sing. Afterwards, he came to my dressing-room and offered me a small part in one of his famous plays. This role proved to be the opening wedge and it was not long before I became the prima donna of "The Mad Dutch Company." After that came engagements with De Wolf Hopper in "Mr. Pickwick," with Frank Benson in "The Office Boy," with Louis Harrison as joint star in "Veronique," and an engagement with Miss Schumann-Hein in "Lottier."

Three years ago I had the leading feminine role in "Tom Jones" and then the Shuberts made me "Marcelle" as my first vehicle. I sang in that piece for two seasons, and in "Lau Piccini" in my second—the best I could possibly have had.

A picture of Homer Miles or Mullaney, here with the Dalley Stock, appears in the New York Review this week. He is now playing in vanderbilt with his own company.

Seven important attractions bearing the name of Wm. A. Brady, are being presented in Greater New York this week. The Astor has "The Boon," by Edward Sheldon, which is the sensation of the hour; "The Nigger," another Edward Sheldon play, is at the West End; "Baby Mine" will continue at the Nazimov's; "Thirty-ninth Street Theatre," "Over Night" remains at the Haymarket, and "Way Down East" adds another week to its popular and successful run at the Majestic. To-night Mr. Brady and the Messrs. Shubert will make known "The Balkan Princess" at the Herald Square, in Brooklyn, at the Majestic, Mr. Mantel, who is a student of Shakespeare and other classic plays.

Harry Hermosen, the funny fellow with the Borgstroms on the program, is playing with her husband, Dr. Stier, at the "The Kissing Girl" in the western states. They were in Kansas last week. Mrs. Mue, Sembrich, who recently completed a concert tour in this country, has departed for her home in Switzerland.

It is interesting to read the biography of Robert Ellsness, who is starting in "Where the Trail Divides," and note the different sorts of characterizations he has played.

He has been seen as a newspaper man in "The Editor"; he played a minister of the gospel in "The Good Old Times"; a man-about-town in "A Night's Frolic"; and then a rip-roaring rascal in "Under the Red Kibitz," an English comedy. He did a clever piece of work as the little minister in the play of that name, and who can forget the Captain in "The Ecclesiastical Government," a roistering, boisterous, devil-may-care Everybody's Garden."

His performance in "The Ecclesiastical Government," as King Charles, in which the blood was coursing tumultuously, "let that strange man justify his words concerning the matter of religion, and remain here a month if that will help."

Wherein Two Women Take the Field. Some clothes, some tea, a bath, a change of timing—where is the woman who will not give up the Phoenix under such conditions, especially if he is around in mind and limb? An hour after her arrival at Rochester Gardens, Rosalind was herself again, a somewhat pale and thin Rosalind, to be sure, but each moment grew more and more with Osborne, but with clear thinking came a species of confusion that threatened to overwhelm her anew.

Of course, her ordered thoughts dwell more and more with Osborne, but with clear thinking came a species of confusion that threatened to overwhelm her anew.

During the weary hours in Poland street, she was not doing or faint with anxiety, she had not recalled Furzeaux's queer way of conducting an inquiry. She knew little or nothing of police methods, yet she was sure that British detectives did not baffle witnesses with denunciations of the suspected person. In newspaper reports, too, she had read of clever lawyers who defended those charged with the commission of a crime; then, was Osborne undetended, what had become of the solicitor who appeared in his behalf at the inquest? Unfortunately, she had no friend of ripe experience who she could appeal to in London, but she determined, before that day closed, to seek those two, the solicitor and Furzeaux, who she was actually carrying out his best.

Mrs. Marsh, far more feeble and unstrung than her daughter, was greatly alarmed when Rosalind announced her intention. "My dear one," she sobbed, "I shall lose you again. How can you dream of running the risk of meeting those terrible beings who have already wreaked their vengeance on you?"

"But, mother, darling, you shall come with me—there are lives at stake—"

"Of what avail are those two women against creatures like these marshes?"

"We shall go to Scotland Yard and obtain police protection," said Rosalind, as she sat down to write a note to Mr. Osborne. "If you care for him as you say you do, I want you to understand two things: first, that your purpose is vain, since he has given his word to marry me within a week, and secondly, that your interference with his affairs on your part may prove disastrous to him. You cannot pretend that you have not heard of Had you taken my advice the other day, Rupert would not now be under arrest."

Mrs. Marsh was sallow with indignation, but Rosalind, though tingling in every fiber, controlled herself sufficiently to utter a dignified protest.

"You had something else in your mind than Mr. Osborne's safety in coming here today; I do not believe one word you have said," she cried.

FAMOUS GEMS OF PROSE

WHEN ATHENS WAS DRUNK WITH GLORY

By William Everett

From an address before the Phi Beta Kappa of Harvard college, June 28, 1909.

HERNEXES had been driven back to Persia, his vast released scores of Greek islands and cities in the loveliest of lands and seas and inhabited by the brightest and wisest of men. There is nothing in art or literature or science or government that did not take its rise from them. Their tyrant gone, they looked round for a protector. They saw that Athens was mighty on the sea and they heeded that she was just and generous to the vanquished and cleft. And they put themselves, their ships and treasure, in the power of Athens to use them as she would for the common defence. And the league was scarcely formed, the Persian was but just crushed, when the islands began to find that protection meant subjection.

They could not bear to think that they had only changed masters, even if Aristotle himself assigned their tribute; and so revolted. The rebellion was put down; Athens went on expanding; she made her subject islands give money instead of ships, she transferred the treasury to her own citadel, she spent the money of her allies in those marvellous adornments that have made her the crown of beauty for the world forever. Wider and wider did the empire of the Athenian democracy extend. Five armies fought her battles in a single year in five lands, Persia and Egypt as well as Sparta feeling the valor of her soldiers, and the heart of Athens got drunk with glory, and the brain of Athens got crazed with power, and the roar of her boasting rose up to heaven, joined with the will of her deceived and trampled subjects. And one by one they turned and fell from her and joined their arms to her rival, who promised them independence; and every fond and mad endeavor to retain her empire only sucked her deeper into the vortex of ruin, till at length she was brought to her knees before her rival and her victorious fleet and her impregnable walls were destroyed with the cry that now began the freedom of Greece.

"For Heaven's sake," began Osborne. "For Rosalind's sake, too," said Furzeaux gravely. "No, I can answer no question. She has been allowed to go. She does not know what to believe, whom to trust, whereas you have my solemn word from the housekeeper that she is safe."

"Dear with me, mother dear! I cannot say that I can only feel. A woman's intuition may sometimes be trusted when logic points irresolutely to the exact opposite of her beliefs. And this is a matter that calls for a woman's wit. See how inextricably our affairs are tangled in the net which has caught Osborne in its meshes. A woman was killed, a woman found the poor thing's body, a woman gave the worst evidence against Osborne, a woman has sacrificed all womanliness to snatch him from me. Ah, where is Pauline De Sank? She, too, is mixed up in it. Has she discovered the loss of the daggers? Has she?"

Rosalind rose to her feet like one inspired. "I can only feel. A woman's intuition may sometimes be trusted when logic points irresolutely to the exact opposite of her beliefs. And this is a matter that calls for a woman's wit. See how inextricably our affairs are tangled in the net which has caught Osborne in its meshes. A woman was killed, a woman found the poor thing's body, a woman gave the worst evidence against Osborne, a woman has sacrificed all womanliness to snatch him from me. Ah, where is Pauline De Sank? She, too, is mixed up in it. Has she discovered the loss of the daggers? Has she?"

"Please send Pauline here," came the answer.

"I don't know, ma'am—I think she has run away."

Two voices repeated those sinister words. To Rosalind they brought a dim memory of something said by James, to Mrs. Marsh dismay. The three were gazing blankly at each other when the clang of a distant bell was heard.

"That's the front door," exclaimed the maid, perhaps Pauline has come back; she hurried away, and returned, breathless, with the news that she had seen Miss Rosalind.

"What lady?"

"She would give you a particular, she says she wants to see you, ma'am."

"Send her here," said Mrs. Marsh. "If you wish, I shall get someone to wait in the hall until we learn our mysterious visitor's business."

Most certainly, the well-dressed and elegant woman whom the servant ushered into the room was not of a type calculated to cause a pang of distrust in any household. Her dress was of the latest fashion, and she was distinguished by her beauty, and not least, by her bearing.

"I have a few words in private to say to you, Miss Marsh."

"You can have nothing to say to me, but that my mother may hear," said Rosalind curtly.

"The visitor smiled, and looked gravely at Mrs. Marsh.

"Ah, I am pleased to have this opportunity of meeting you," she said. "You may have heard of me, I am 'Hylda Prout.'"

"Then, seeing the older woman's perplexity, she added: "Since you do not seem to know me by name, let me explain that Mr. Rupert Osborne, of whom you must have heard a good deal, is my promised husband."

Mrs. Marsh might be ill and worried, but she was a well-bred lady to the marrow, and she realized instantly that the stranger's politeness covered a studied insult to her daughter.

"Has Mr. Osborne sent you as his ambassador?" she asked.

"No, he could not; he is in prison. But your daughter and I have met under conditions that compel me to ask her now not to interfere in the efforts I shall make to secure his release."

"I am not here from choice," sneered Hylda, "I have come to plead for Mr. Osborne. If you care for him as you say you do, I want you to understand two things: first, that your purpose is vain, since he has given his word to marry me within a week, and secondly, that your interference with his affairs on your part may prove disastrous to him. You cannot pretend that you have not heard of Had you taken my advice the other day, Rupert would not now be under arrest."

A SPARKLING PRODUCTION AT OPERA HOUSE

The Time, The Place and the Girl Wins Favor of Large Audience at Opening Performance

Musical comedy managers need never fear from St. John down-hearted over production if there is merit to the production they give. This promise to hold good in the case of "The Time, the Place and the Girl" which opened a few nights ago Saturday matinee engagement in the Opera House last night before a large audience.

It is exceptionally bright in dialogue, the music is taking, there is rollicking fun from the rise of the curtain, while the dancing of principals and the young women and men of the chorus has not been excelled here in spirit and grace. There are several good solos, the choruses are well sung and some of the dances and drills and other "business" added to enhance the taking effect are exceptionally good.

Miss Celia Navis, a Molly Kelly, shared the honors with him, and she, too, won every one's good favor by her grace and brightness. She sang "In Lonesome" very daintily and with Mr. Cameron and very clever work in travesties on the acting of Bernhardt and Salvini. This earned them several recalls.

As Margaret Simpson, Miss Jessie Webster played cleverly, sang sweetly and danced gracefully, and filled an important place in the cast. Her duet with Mr. Cameron was well sung. Miss Rose Deane, who was the soloist in "The Warning Horn," one of the hits of the production. The supporting chorus, as Tom Cunningham, one of the principal characters, Donald Mackenzie gave a performance above the average in productions of this kind. P. Merriman, as Pedro, played well. Herbert Morrison, as Laurie Farnham, won hearty applause in his solo, "Blow the Smoke Away."

A notable feature of the performance was the precision with which everything was done. The response of singers and dancers to the conductor's baton was to the minute. It was in all a very enjoyable production, and promises to draw large audiences for the rest of the week.

At a meeting of the Fairville Methodist Missionary Society last night, Mrs. W. E. Earle presiding, addresses were given by Mrs. Nickson, Rev. G. A. Ross, C. W. Johnston, secretary, and Mrs. Gladys Shaw, and solo by Mrs. M. L. Curran. The reports of Mrs. Hanson, secretary, and Mrs. Johnston, treasurer, showed all satisfactory.

Velvet Collar Overcoats in Blacks and Dark Greys at Greater Reductions
The brisk selling of last month left us with broken lines of overcoats, blacks and greys. All told, there are some in every size—big, 40 and 42, are in greater numbers. We have cut the prices still lower to clear up the entire lot. As most of them are 20th Century brand coats, this presents a rare opportunity. We need the room, too, for spring goods.

THE HOCKEY SITUATION
St. John, N. B., Thursday, Feb. 9, 1911
Editor Times, Dear Sir:
I saw a statement made by A. W. Covey in last night's Times stating that I had made a statement that George Brogan was brought to St. John to play baseball for money, which caused his suspension. I would like Mr. Covey to correct that statement and save further trouble. Mr. Brogan came to St. John to play without any offer of money, and received his expenses after the game. If Mr. Covey is running the M.P.A.A. in St. John he should use his eyes and watch the ball players and not bring people into hockey arguments, who are not interested in it. I would like to know if the St. John hockey team played a ball game against an outside team, who had played on St. Peter's team, and if so they should attend to home affairs before outside places.

The Evening Times and Star

ST. JOHN, N. B., FEBRUARY 9, 1911. The St. John Evening Times is printed at 27 and 29 Canterbury street every evening (Sunday excepted) by the St. John Times Printing and Publishing Co., Ltd., a company incorporated under the Joint Stock Companies Act.

THE EVENING TIMES THE DAILY TELEGRAPH

New Brunswick's Independent newspapers. These papers advocate: British connection, Honesty in public life, Measures for the material progress and moral advancement of our great Dominion.

THE CLIQUE AT WORK

The citizens committee which is conducting the campaign in favor of the adoption of the commission plan of government will see the propriety of acting with promptness, and with a determination that the public shall not be hoodwinked by any group of persons who have reasons of their own for desiring a continuance of the present system.

A movement is now on foot among the citizens, supported by the majority of the common council, to introduce such reforms into the present system as will result in a smaller council, more frequent meetings to expedite business, and other improvements as experience may suggest.

The gentlemen for whom the Standard speaks, and in whose behalf it has grossly misrepresented the whole case, had not the slightest intention of introducing any "reforms" until the agitation for the adoption of a new system had assumed formidable proportions.

This reference is not to the whole council, but to the little clique for whom the Standard speaks, and who are determined to resist any action that might endanger their prospects as bosses of the city.

The Standard endeavors to create the impression that this demand for a plebiscite on the question of a reduced council comes from the people, and the Times is charged with a desire to refuse the people an opportunity to express their views.

In the public accounts committee yesterday Mr. Carvell showed that a false report of evidence submitted in the Dalhousie dredging enquiry had been printed in the opposition press.

The decision of the Pejesport Pulp and Paper Company to adopt a policy of reforestation on their property in New Brunswick will direct public attention more generally to this important matter.

Eleven cities in the state of Illinois have lately adopted the commission plan of government. In the state of New York a state-wide campaign for the adoption of the plan in the cities of the state was decided upon a few days ago by a great convention of representatives from twenty-three cities.

MISREPRESENTATION

Ald. Black of Ottawa, who spent a day or two in St. John, gave an interview to the Standard, in which he is thus reported: "He thought from what he could learn while in the city that St. John was well governed, and did not think the necessity for any change was at all comparable to that of Ottawa or Cedar Rapids where, according to the lecturer of Tuesday evening, a

HON. MR. FIELDING'S RECIPROCALITY CABLE TO LORD STRATHCONA

Ottawa, Feb. 8.—Hon. W. S. Fielding made public this afternoon the text of his cable to Lord Strathcona on reciprocity. It reads:

"It is evident that some British journalists and public men have received entirely erroneous impressions concerning the relations with the United States have been the policy of all parties in Canada for generations.

"Many efforts have been made to secure a treaty, but without success. Sir John Macdonald's national policy tariff of 1879 contains a standing offer of reciprocity with the States, covering a large portion of the products included in the present arrangements.

"The unwillingness of the Americans to make any reasonable arrangement led to such disappointment in Canada. Sir John Macdonald's policy was to take the initiative in negotiations.

"Now that the Americans have entirely changed their attitude and have approached Canada with fair offers, our government takes the position that we should meet them fairly, and that in making such an arrangement as is now proposed we are realizing the desires of our people for a half a century, and also that in promoting friendly relations with the neighboring republic, we are doing the best possible service to the empire.

"Canada is seeking markets everywhere for her surplus products, subsidizing steamship lines and sending out commercial agents. Would it not be ridiculous in the pursuit of such a policy to refuse to avail herself of the great nation lying alongside? The expressed fear that it will seriously affect imports from Great Britain is groundless.

"The greater part of the agreement deals with the tariff on raw materials.

"The method employed for forest protection and reforestation, and is enthusiastic about what can be done in New Brunswick. A start will be made soon by his company in this direction in New Brunswick."

The Evening Chit-Chat
By RUTH CAMERON

I WONDER if there ever was a correspondent "With soul so dead He never himself hath said, With doubtful pen and perplexed head— How shall I sign this letter?"

A confiding young person writes me a careful analysis of the relationship between "himself" and her—apparently they are somewhere in that misty but delightful land that lies between "just friends" and an engagement—and tells me of his departure on the first journey that makes letters necessary, and asks me how she shall sign her letters to him.

How will "Sincerely yours" do, young person? Or "Very truly yours?" Or "Very cordially yours?" Or "Very sincerely yours?" Or "Very truly yours?" Or "Very cordially yours?" Or "Very sincerely yours?" Or "Very truly yours?" Or "Very cordially yours?" Or "Very sincerely yours?"

Or why not try a favorite of mine which is most convenient in that it can carry as much or as little as you wish it to, and never tell.

"As ever,"

These are signatures into which he may read enough warmth to keep his love alive in case he is longing to cross the boundary into the land of pledged truth, and for which you need never feel any regret in case you drift back into the "just friends" land.

I think the whole subject of letter signing is a distinctly interesting one, and always notice signatures with a view to the character of their writers. Always notice signatures with a view to the character of their writers. Always notice signatures with a view to the character of their writers.

SCORES THE STANDARD AND CROCKET

By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Bellefleur, Que.—"Without Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I would not be alive. For five months I had painful and irregular periods and inflammation of the uterus. I suffered like a martyr and thought often of death. I consulted two doctors who could do nothing for me. I went to a hospital, and the best doctors said I must submit to an operation, because I had a tumor. I went back home much discouraged. One of my cousins advised me to take your compound, as it had cured her. I did so and soon commenced to feel better, and my appetite came back with the first bottle. Now I feel no pain and am cured. Your remedy is doing wonders for me. Mrs. ESTER CHATFIELD, Valleyfield, Bellefleur, Quebec.

Another Operation Avoided.
Bellefleur, Que.—"I was a sewing machine in a large factory and got all run down. I had to go to work for I could not help my back. The doctor told me to get an operation for my back, but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound cured me. I have gained five pounds since I began to use it. I feel like a new woman. I have no more backache, nervousness and headache. I owe my health to Mrs. Pinkham. She is the working girl's friend for health, and all women who feel they should write to her and take her advice.—MISS THURLEIGH, 337 St. Poughkeepsie, N.Y.

Thirty years of unparalleled success confirm the power of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to cure female diseases.

British Parliament

London, Feb. 8.—The official opposition amendment to the address in reply to the speech from the throne, urging fiscal reform with special reference to the proposed American-Canadian tariff agreement was moved by J. Austen Chamberlain after a crowded house today.

The message from W. S. Fielding, the Canadian finance minister, defending the reciprocity arrangement, was published this morning and took some wind out of the sails of the Unionist's craft. However, should the Nationalists abstain from voting, as is possible, the government's margin of victory probably would be small. The debate is likely to occupy two full days.

At the monthly meeting of the board of management of the Associated Charities yesterday, W. S. Fisher, in the chair, the secretary, Mrs. Hall reported that there was much suffering in the city owing to hunger and privation. Lack of work on the winter port boats was spoken of as the reason for the conditions.

C. W. Chesterton, formerly accountant with the Bank of Montreal here, left for the west last night, having been transferred to Port Arthur. His fellow employees presented to him a valuable case of pipes.

Do your baking with flour made exclusively of the HIGH-GRADE constituents of the HARD-WHEAT berry

Have you ever baked with flour made exclusively of the high-grade constituents of the hard wheat berry? If you haven't, now is the time to try PURITY Flour.

Only the cream of the Manitoba hard wheat—the best wheat in the world—is used for PURITY Flour. More than that, only a portion of the flour milled from this wheat goes into the sacks and barrels branded PURITY.

PURITY Flour consists exclusively of the high-grade constituents of the Manitoba hard wheat berry. Every wheat berry has both low-grade and high-grade constituents which are separated during our process of milling. So contact the process that it entirely eliminates all the low-grade portions from the flour which is finally branded PURITY.

The greater strength of PURITY Flour makes it go farther in the baking. With it you can make more loaves to the sack or barrel than you have ever succeeded in doing before. The loaves will be more nutritious, too, because they contain the high-quality gluten, starch, phosphates and other muscle-building and blood-enriching elements of the hard wheat berry.

Nature's gift that consists exclusively of the high-grade constituents of the best hard wheat has greater strength and nutrition, superior color, more delicate flavor.

If you just realize fully what is in your cooking, you will be using PURITY Flour.

Of course, PURITY Flour will cost a few cents more than the lower-grade hard wheat flour or soft wheat flour.

But PURITY is very economical because it makes "More bread and better bread." The cost per loaf is no more than when using weaker flour, and the food value is much greater.

Tell your grocer you are in a hurry to try PURITY Flour. He will supply you promptly.

When you see the batch of beautiful snow-white loaves, with the soft, evenly-textured crumb and dainty golden-brown crust, you'll be proud of your success with PURITY Flour. When you taste and enjoy the superb flavor of such high-class bread you'll be prouder still.

If you don't want to buy a large sack or barrel, you can get a small bag. PURITY is packed in 7, 14, 24, 49 and 98 pound sacks. Also in barrels and half-barrels.

Make certain the PURITY trademark is on the sack or barrel you buy, for that is your guide to the strong, reliable, high-quality flour that makes

"More bread & better bread"

Women's Secrets

There is one man in the United States who has perhaps heard more women's secrets than any other man or woman in the country. These secrets are not secrets of guilt or shame, but the secrets of suffering, and they have been confided to Dr. R. V. Pierce in the hope and expectation of advice and help. That few of these women have been disappointed in their expectations is proved by the fact that nearly eight per cent. of all women treated by Dr. Pierce have been absolutely cured. Such a record would be remarkable in any other cases treated were numbered by hundreds of thousands. The fact that record applies to the treatment of more than 1,000,000 women, in a practice of over 40 years, is a strong evidence of the success of Dr. Pierce's treatment of women's diseases. Every sick woman may consult Dr. R. V. Pierce, absolutely without charge. All replies are mailed, sealed in plain envelopes, without any printing or advertising whatever, upon the receipt of a self-addressed envelope, to World's Dispensary Medical Association, Dr. R. V. A Way Out of the Dilemma

Editor of Times: Sir—I am after learning from what I read in the St. John papers that the Chairman of the Ferry Committee is in a very great puzzle about what you people call the Transportation Problem.

Now Sir I have often heard that offered services don't smell good, but under the circumstances, I feel I wouldn't be a doing my duty, or to the city at large, knowing what I do, if I did not make a few suggestions, which I know if followed, would solve the whole matter for the chairman of your ferry committee.

Bellevue Bay has a ferry, and as she has been a home of contention, and threatens to be the rock on which the Hazen government will founder, there is no doubt but what she can be bought, and put in commission, as a ferry boat on your harbor.

I believe she can be bought for a reasonable price on reasonable terms, and we have doubt but David Jones of Cars, could be gotten for a trifle more money than you are paying your present captain, and as he and the ferry boat are both built out of some wood, there would be no harm to be after giving them a trial.

OLD FRIEND AT WORK.
The ferry steamer Western Extension was placed on the route this morning and the Ludlow taken off for a complete overhaul. It is expected that two or three weeks work will have to be done on the Ludlow before the boat is ready again to take up the service.
In the meantime it will be impossible for the special committee appointed to arrange for repairing the Western Extension, to proceed with their work. The Western Extension has been temporarily repaired and the old smokstack has been made to serve the present needs by having a section cut out of the middle and the stack shortened.
