A Party of the Scots Grays Were Surprised.

Six of Their Number Killed and Thirteen Wounded.

Death of British Soldiers From Disease and Wounds Since the Campaign Began Number 19,430-No More Peace Negotiations.

BRITISH LOSS IN BOER WAR. London, Jan. 6 .- The total reduction of Great Britain's military forces in South Africa from the beginning of the war to December, including deaths from disease, men reported missing, etc., amounts to 24,299 men. Of this number 19,430 were actually killed or died. A total of 64,330 men were invalided home, the majority of whom recovered and rejoined their commands.

The war office publishes an additional list of 45 men wounded at Zeefontein, making the total 94. SCOTS GRAYS SURPRISED.

Pretoria, Jan. 5 .- The Boers amoushed a parts of the Scots Grays ast Saturday near Bronkhorst spruit, about 40 miles east of Pretoria on the railroad. The British casualties were six men killed and thirteen wounded.

NO PEACE PARLEYS. It is not likely that there will be any change in the attitude of the government in dealing with the Boers. The friends of Joseph Chamberlain are confident that he will not change his policy in South Africa, but that he will set his face sternly against a revival of peace negotiations.

They credit him with the determination to continue the military campaign until every Boer in arms is a prisoner, and they assert that he will not follow Lord Rosebery's advice and allow himself to be drawn into negotiations with Mr. Kruger.

This is not because he has a hardened heart, but because he considers that everything within reason was done by Lord Kitchener to facilitate the conclusion of an armistice with General Botha, and that any reopening of negotiations with Mr. Kruger is utterly impracticable, and will expose the British cause to ridicule. The government is not likely to be influenced in any degree by Lord Rosebery's plain speaking. It takes its South African cues from Mr. Chamberlain, and will not attempt to make peace when there is no peace.

A LAST HOPE. According to a dispatch from Johannesburg, Gen. Botha has sent a note to all Boer comandos requesting them to keep on fighting, for the British Parliament is to be asked for another war vote, which will induce the British nation to demand that the war in South Africa be stopped.

INQUIRY DEMANDED. Public feeling here has been openly stirred by the alleged libels on British soldiers in South Africa, circulated on the continent. Lord Roberts etter, contradicting the stories of the violation of Boer women and the employment of Boer female refugees for mmoral purposes, has intensified this feeling, especially as regards the anti-British tendencies of the German press.

INVESTIGATION NECESSARY. The Pall Mall Gazette declares that positive duty is incumbent on the German Government to order its military attaches in South Africa to announce what they know regarding the alleged atrocities. In all quarters the keenest disposition is evidenced to have authoritative denials issued and have all accusations investigated.

RRITATION AGAINST GERMANY In the meanwhile the irritation against Germany is being vigorously fanned by several of the London dailies, Dr. Conan Doyle's pamphlet on the subject of the South African charges will shortly be published. deals with every specific charge he has been able to investigate, and it will be sold without profit, both here and in the five European countries for which it has been translated. A New York firm has been given the American rights on condition that it sends free a copy to every United States senator, congressman and government

FALSE TEETH FOR SOLDIERS. In connection with the war it is interesting to note that the war office is considering the advisability of supplying false teeth to the forces. Sixty per cent of the applicants for enlistment in Gen. Baden-Powell's police have been rejected on the ground of bad teeth, and hundreds of applicants for service with the yeomanry were disqualified for the same cause. The dental hospitals of London have notified the war office that they are prepared to make good the deficiencies entirely equip applicants who are otherwise eligible at £1 per head. THE TROOPER MANHATTAN. Halifax, N. S., Jan. 5.-The troopship Manhattan, which is to take the first section of the Canadian Mounted Rifles to South Africa, reached Halifax at noon today from Cape Town, via St. Vincent, C. V., after a passage point. The Manhattan is well fitted for the business in which she is engaged. At the present time she has 600 men, and is fitted for 520 horses. The steamer brought eight invalided

16th inst. CANADIAN SCOUTS WANTED. Ottawa, Jan. 6 .- Lord Kitchener telegraphed to the governor-general direct from Johannesburg, under date of Dec. 27, as follows: "When next contingent comes, can you arrange to send some trained trackers?" The decision. therefore, to constitute a body of scouts from one squadron of mounted rifles, under the command of Lieut. Casey Callaghan, of Toronto, has an ticipated the wishes of the commander of the forces. A cablegram from the war office states that pay and conditions of ser-vice for the field hospital company ready to sail from here on the 15th or will be the same as for the respective ranks of the Mounted Rifles. NURSES. It was intimated in the cable that the offer of five nurses for general service had been gratefully accepted, but as a report has been made to the militia department that there is no room on the troopships to take nurses to South Afria, it is doubtful if any will go. DEMAND FOR HORSES.

Toronto, Jan. 6.—"A stupid piece of nonsense," said Col. Dent, in speaking of the purchase of horses for the Canadian Mounted Rifles by buyers not under his direction. "Two parties buying in one field for the same pur-chaser," he added. This created competition which had increased the difficulty of getting horses here. Col. Dent thought much better results would have been attained if all Canadian horses for use in South Africa were purchased under one agency. He did not seem favorably impressed with the horses purchased for the Mounted Rifles, "for," said he, "in many cases they bought what we rejected." He complains of scarcity of horses offering just now, though the demand through him is practically unlimited. "I could take 5,000 a month," he said. The colonel will remain in Ontario until May, when he will again visit Western Canada to make purchases.

SMALLPOX TAKES A HOLD IN TORONTO

Two Cases Removed to the Hospital on Sunday-Another Case at Acton.

Toronto, Ont., Jan. 6 .- Smallpox has got a firm hold in the city. Two cases were removed to the smallpox hospital yesterday, and Dr. Sheard thinks that both contracted the disease from Mrs. Vance, who was in the city for a day of Sir Ernest Cassel. on her way home to Acton from Mantoba on a visit.

Mrs. Vance seems to have spread the disease wherever she went, for the Provincial Board of Health this morning reports another case at Acton and one in Nassagawaya. Mrs. Vance's progress through the province has been rather a serious matter.

The other chief center of contagion is the lumber region, where four new cases are reported this morning.

THE BRITISH PARLIAMENT

LIC LIBRARY

Will Begin an Interesting Session January 16.

The Matter of Liberal Leadership a Subject of Concern.

Inquiry Into the Dismissal of Gen. Buller a Live Question—American Girls' Commercialism Scored.

London, Jan. 6 .- When King Edward opens parliament January 16, one of the most interesting sessions of recent vears will be begun. Before its conclusion the whole status of the Liberal party is likely to be altered and Lord

Rosebery's future determined. BULLER INQUIRY LIKELY. Among important features of the session will be a thorough investigation of Gen. Buller's dismissal from command of the first army corps. Education and finance are two matters which will excite more than usual interest. The chancellor of the exchequer, Sir Michael Hicks-Beach, will doubtless get all the additional war supplies he requires, though special measures will be necessary to raise them, and this will give Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman's section of the opposition a full opportunity for criticising the government's policy in South Africa. Some persons believe the war will be sufficiently near its end to enable the government to put before the nation, during the session, detailed plans for the settlement of South Africa. THE AMERICAN GIRL'S COMMER

CIALISM. About a week ago Mrs. Alec Tweedie wrote an article for the Daily Mail on the selfishness of modern Englishmen, quoting an American girl as saying that English bachelors never returned women's hospitality, and were otherwise remiss. By indorsing and emphasizing this view Mrs. Tweedie started a stream of correspondence, and elicited several amusing replies from English young men. These retort that no English girl would ever expect men to take her to tea, the theater, for a drive in the park, or give her candy or flowers, and that the American girl, by her willingness to accept such and he cannot be anywhere except at

Mrs. Tweedie also represented the at him, but the Scotch and English American girl as saying she would not waste hospitality over those who would not return it. This commercial- man who can unite the party and reism has been greeted with jeers from various club men, who have taken up the cudgels for their sex.

WANT POLISH PRIESTS RE-STRAINED.

The Prussian Government will ask he Vatican authorities to restrain the Polish priests from engaging in anti-German agitations, and will request Cardinal Rampolla, the papal secretary of state, to pursue the same policy in Prussian Poland that is followed in Russian Poland. There is some doubt here as to whether Cardinal Rampolla, whose anti-German sentiments are supposed to influence his policy, will do anything of the sort. Anti-Prussian demonstrations in the Galician Diet have caused the German ambassador at Vienna, Prince Von Eulenburg, to protest to Count Goluchowski, the Australian imperial minister of foreign affairs, who told the ambassador that Austria Hungary was unable to repress the demonstrators or prevent similar outbreaks in the future, because the Galician provincial diet is an autonomous, constitutional body. A CHINESE PROTEST. The foreign office at Pekin has received a petition signed by a multitude of Chinese merchants in the United States requiring the government to oppose the re-enactment of the Chinese exclusion law. The petitioners assert that the best people in the United States are opposed to the law, and that only the coteries surrounding President Roosevelt favor it; that all Chinese entering the country are regarded and treated as criminals; that both sexes are stripped and examined for disease, and that the feelings of the respectable Chinese are outraged by the ordeal, and it is further alleged that many delicate persons have died as the result of this treatment. King Edward acted as sponsor on Saturday for the daughter of Wilfred Ashley, whose wife is the daughter SUPPLIES FOR THE DIAMOND MINES.

The De Beers consolidated diamond mines (limited), of Kimberley, South Africa, have just awarded contracts to American concerns for structural material and complete electrical equipment for a large plant, which will be utilized for general power purposes. The value of the combined contracts is about $200,000.

MORMON MISSIONARIES IN GER-MANY.

The German Mormon conference has assembled at Berlin, under the leadership of Hugh J. Cannon, son of the late George Q. Cannon, the well-known Mormon apostle. One hundred and twenty-five Mormon missionaries are now working in Germany, and have secured 2,000 followers. The present conference is attended by more than 100 of the German missionaries. the Effects of Lord Rosebery's Speech.

A Scottish Radical's Optimistic View-

"We Have Found Our Leader."

London, Jan. 6 .- A remarkably stimulative effect has been produced by Lord Rosebery's spech. The newspapers are still discussing it, although it was made three weeks ago. It has transformed the political situation, it has supplied an alternative prime minister, if it has not created an alternative government. A strong Scotch radical has greeted me upon my return from America with this declaration. "We have found our leader and shall not let him stray away again. Lord Rosebery is the only possible head of a Liberal cabinet. No alternative government can be formed without him. attentions, comes in for considerable criticism.

and he cannot be discovered may revile the top. Mr. Labouchere may revile him, and Mr. Massingham may specific store it to the stronghold of power. Always ambitious, and never more so than when he was reproached for abandoning the Liberal party, he has been fired with a noble enthusiasm for rallying and uniting the factions and leading them to victory.' EVEN PRO-BOERS LOOK TO HIM. Nothing less than a miracle has been wrought when a consistent Radical and implacable antagonist of the titled classes talks in this way. The most remarkable anomaly is the fusion of pronounced pro-Boers and stalwart imperialists who are alike invigorated and inspired by the authorized text of the speech. Whatever else happens, the government will be exposed hereafter to the most destructive criticism for lack of efficiency and practical ability, and the ministers will not be believed when they assert that an al-alternative government cannot be formed from the wrangling of the opposition faction. EMIGRATION LAST YEAR. London, Jan. 6.-Official statistics show that 302.848 emigrants left the United Kingdom for places out of Europe during 1901, an increase of 4,287, as compared with the figures for the previous year. For European Subaltern Affronted by Royalty, Many False Stories About Prince Henry and His Alleged Marital Troubles.

Prince Henry, of the Netherlands, character of royal personages as the is not a sympathetic personage, writes "Ex-Attache," in the Chicago Tribune. That is to say, he does not possess any fascination of manner, nor the talent of making friends at once with those around him. The sterling qualities which he possesses are concealed beneath a somewhat forbidding surface. Knowing himself to be an object of suspicion and of absolute ill-will among the Dutch, he makes no effort to court popularity, but remains, as if in the presence of a fce, on the defensive, while the sturdy democracy of the people of the land of his adoption is a source of constant and ill-concealed irritation to a prince who like himself, forms part of a dynasty which has always ignored the existence of popular rights, and the chief of which, like the Czar, enjoys the distinction of being one of the only two absolute monarchs of Christian Europe, ruling by right divine, and as autocrats, without any constitutional restrictions or parliamentary form of government. Added to these prejudices of birth, which come to him quite naturally as scion of the Grand Ducal house of Mecklenburg-Schwerin, he is imbued with all the notions peculiar to all untraveled Prussian cavalry subalterns, and which comprise, among other things, an extraordinary regard for discipline, and a scarcely veiled disdain for inferiors in general and civilians in particular. Still, at the same is at the present moment the object of so much ill-natured and venomous gossip, much of which is palpably false on the face of it, that it is only fair to say a few words in his behalf, especially as his position as Prince Consort of the Netherlands has been from the outset one of extreme difficulty, calling for the exercise of a diplomacy and of a tact which are foreign to his nature. In the first place, the stories imputing to him enormous debts and which indicate that these have been the principal cause of dissention between Queen Wilhelmina and himself, are altogether without foundation. The reigning house of Mecklenburg-Schwerin is one of the richest in Europe. The Prince has never been known as a gambler, nor has he ever manifested much interest in the turf. Indeed, there were never any stories current prior to his marriage charging him with extrava-Neither has he given any evidence since he became Prince Consort of the Netherlands of being in the least degree pressed, for money. In fact, it was only in July last that he purchased in Mecklenburg-Schwerin the great reaved father remained for several sporting estate of Dobbien for $500,000, obliged to avail himself for the purpose, of any of the Dutch moneys coming to him under his marriage settlement. That is to say, he purchased the estate in question with the fortune which belonged to him in his own right, and by inheritance, prior to his union to the Queen of Holland. This, it seems to me, is sufficient to demonstrate the falsity of the stories, acwith pecuniary liabilities at the time of his wedding, and that describe him as having been quarreling ever since with his wife in consequence of her alleged refusal to settle with his creditors. THE ETIQUETTE OF COURTS. Having thus disposed of the alleged cause of the more or less imaginary differences between the royal couple of the Netherlands, I would next draw attention to the extreme improbability of the reports according to which Major von Tets has succumbed to injuries inflicted during the course of a duel which he is said to have fought in behalf of the Queen with her husband, the Prince. Anyone possessed of Queen Victoria, has been an object of even an inkling of the etiquette of kindly feeling and of appreciation which prevails at the courts of continental Europe would know at once that such a thing as a duel between a prince of the blood and a subaltern officer of the minor nobility would be not merely unlikely in the extreme Equality of rank is one of the first requirements for a meeting on the socalled field of honor, and according to the ideas which prevail in the old His impeachment was suggested, and world, that is to say, in monarchical countries, there can be no equality between a prince of the reigning house and a mere noble. The latter, in turn, is debarred from fighting a duel with a tradesman, and it is this that renders officers on the continent so quick to answer on the spot with a sword thrust any blow or insult received from a stranger, since they never know if he is of sufficient quality to afford them satisfaction on the field of honor, while if the indignity remains

In the same way a colonel or a general can on the ground of inequality of official rank decline to accept a challenge from a mere lieutenant or captain, and in 1869 the General the Marquis de Gallifet, at that time colonel of a regiment of Chasseurs de d'Afrique at Algiers, was temporarily placed on the retired list for having, in defiance of all etiquette and precedent, fought a duel with one of the lieutenants of his corps, the Americanborn Prince Achille Murat, who committed suicide a few years ago in Rus-

specialists in the medical profession. now consider cancer to be caused by germs or parasites in the blood, which operate in certain tissues of the body most favorable for their development. Thus the breast, lip, nose, stomach, bowels and liver are favorable seats for this disease. It is not reasonable to expect a permanent cure for cancer can be obtained by the use of external remedies alone, such as oils, pastes and plasters. They never touch the real origin of the trouble. Our new constitutional remedy for cancer is a most rational and scientific treatment. It destroys the cancer germs in the blood without in-juring the system. It buids up and duel with him or to blow cut his own brains, much in the same manner as Japanese noblemen were went in times gone by to commit hari-kari when subjected to an indignity, the stain of jected to an indignity, the stain of

How to Make a ROUGH SKIN SMOOTH

There are some whose skin is naturally very tender, so much so, that a slight change in temperature, either heat or cold, will cause it to become rough and scale. This is very annoying, whether it makes the skin sore or not. A trouble of this kind is due to the skin being too dry, the underlying glands not giving it food enough. It must, therefore, be fed artificially. This may be done by using OLA CREAM, a scientific skin food. OLA CREAM is not a thin, watery fluid, but is of a creamy consistency. Prepared from a valuable formula, consisting of healthful ingredients, which feed the skin, building up the tissues, supplying to the glands that which they lack to prevent roughness. Anyone who is troubled with roughness of the skin or chapped hands will find OLA CREAM a sure preventative. We are receiving many testi monials for OLA CREAM. We have made a study of the care of the skin, and will be glad to give any information to anyone writing us.

DEER HUNTING IN ONTARIO HIGHLANDS

The U. S. Government Can How Accept His | About 7,506 Killed During the Past Season of Fifteen Bays.

> Toronto, Jan. 6. - The Grand Trunk Railway System announce that the deer hunting season in Ontario resulted most satisfactorily to hunters that went into this district during the open season of 1901. Though the complete information with regard to the number of licenses issued this year has not yet come to hand, it is estimated that over 5,000 licenses were issued, and hunting parties and others estimate the deer killed be about one-and-a-haif deer to each hur er. This would make a total of 7,500 seer killed, and it is somewhat marve his how the stock of deer keeps pace with the number killed, but it seems that each year they are becoming more numerous, and there is an increase instead of a diminution. This is accounted for by the shortness of the open season (which runs from Nov. 1 to 15) and by the strict prosecution by the Ontario Govern-

The wanton slaughter which, no doubt would, have prevailed had hunters been allowed to kill at their pleasure has thus been prevented to a great extent, and one of the best her-itages of the public saved. This year the Canadian Express Company alone carried 2,372 deer, which is an in-crease over the season of 1900 of 878 deer, the total weight of these ship-ments amounting to 236,637 pounds. All of these shipments were made from points located on the Grand Trunk Railway, the largest number of carcasses being taken out of the Magnetawan River region, the Muskoka Lakes division north of Huntsville. HISTORIC INSTANCES. There have been remarkably few instances where a prince of the blood has consented to respond to a cartel from a mere nobleman-that is to say, from a social inferior. Death of Rev. Dr. James Robertson—A Great Man and Hero Missionary.

In the unexpected death of the Rev. James Robertson, D.D., Secretary of Home Missions and Superintendent of Missions in the West, in connection with the Presbyterian Church of Canada, the Dominion is called on to deplore the loss of one of Canada's most heroic and greatest men. Dr. Robertson's towering figure has been very familiar in the General Assembly, the Synods and Presbyteries of his denomination. His presence in any gathering seemed to make the occasion vital with physical, mental and spiritual force. He was a very Knox in fearlessness and directness; a very Paul in missionary devotion. In laying to a greater extent than any other man the religious foundations of the Canadian Northwest, even to the farthest North and farthest West, it can truly be said that he did as much as the Canadian Pacific Railway has done in the way of material development. Thanks to Dr. Robertson, under Providence, many a new center of population that would otherwise have been a center of every demoralizing influence, has been furnished and fortified with the civilizing influences of the church and the school

Dr. Robertson was born in the West Highlands of Scotland, at Appin, in 1839. His parents came to Canada when he was quite young, and he was educated at Toronto University and at Princeton. In 1869 he was ordained to the ministry of the Presbyterian Church. After pastorates at Norwich, Windham, East Oxford and Winnipeg, he gravitated, by the path of peculiar fitness, to the position of Superintendent of Missions of the Northwest. relationship. That has been his great and distinguishing life-work; and it was recognition of that work which made him moderator of the General assembly in 1895, an honor never more deservedly bestowed.

In his great work in the Northwest, beginning twenty years ago, Dr. Robertson was wisely allowed an absolute free hand. He was a kind of missionary-bishop. The labors and hardships enthusiastically endured by Dr. Robertson in the then wilderness of the Northwest, when they are published in permanent form, as doubtless they will be published, will prove a record of stirring and self-sacrificing endeavor, not surpassed by those annals which record the labors of Livingstone and Paton. Facing the unkindly elements on prairie or mountain side; confronting not unseldom the unkindlier influences of wicked and hostile men inmining camps; holding baptismal and preaching services in lonely ranchesnever did Dr. Robertson allow himself to disregard the call for help; never did he flinch before the greatest obstacles. Like Browning's hero, temporary defeat in his work only nerved him to greater effort. Whether or not a reader of Browning, in his indomitable courage and sublime faith no other man in Canada in recent times has exemplified the noble lines of the poet. He truly was one of those

"Never turned their backs; But marched breast-forward, Never doubted, though right were worsted, wrong would triumph; Held that we fall to rise-are bamed to fight better-sleep to wake.'

Dr. Robertson, apart from his notable characteristics as one of the great promoters and pioneers of Christianity in what was at one time known as "The Great Lone Land," had the prophetic instinct of the true statesman. In his numerous sermons and addresses in older Canada, he constantly enforced the importance of the missionary in relation to the future of the Dominion. He was one of the first to see the illimitable possibilities of the almost incalculable areas and resources of the Great West. With prophetic ear he seemed to "Hear the tread of ploneers, Of nations yet to be; The first low wash of waves,

Where yet shall roll a human sea. He saw in the Northwest the wheat granary, not only for the British Empire, but for the world. He saw the vast possibilities of the Northwestern fields and mines and ranches. He saw the cities and towns and villages the question?

of the future, But while Dr. Robertson never tired of showing the material greatness of the Canada that is to be, he constantly insisted that the only safe foundation for national greatness was the righteousness which exalteth a nation.

We have spoken of Dr. Robertson's contagious enthusiasm and his temperamental strenuousness; his Scottish-Canadian indomitability; his lionhearted courage; his statesmanlike vision of the coming importance and greatness of the Dominion because of the incalculable potentialities of the Northwest. But Dr. Robertson not all strenuousness; not merely the incarnation of purposeful energy. He was lion-hearted; but also a man of the kindliest heart and tenderest sympathies. In his moments of relaxation, with congenial friends, he had many a humorous as well as pathetic incident to relate. If he could sternly face a blaspheming rowdy in a western mining camp, he could equally give a word of kindly encouragement to some young man from Ontario in danger of going wrong, or to some lonely woman on the distant prairie, hungry for the religious privileges left behind in older

When the history of the development of the Dominion, in its relation to the development of the Empire, comes to be written, the name of Dr. Robertson will shine out as that of a true man, a true Canadian, a true Empire-build-

This explanation is a trifle too sweeping. Everyone who knows anything about the matter is forced to the conclusion that in the eyes of many rich women in the United States-and men, too, it may be admitted-neither cleverness nor wealth count for anything when the question of a matrimonial alliance comes up. The one thing desired above all others -title. The idea seems to be that the Britisher shall supply the rank and the Yankee the money wherewith to maintain it. All other considerations are subsidiary. The duke, the earl, or even the everyday knight may be as poor as a church mouse. He may have dissipated the fortune that came to him by heredity. He may have scarcely enough sense to get in out of a thunderstorm. If it can be shown that he is in a position to deliver the tiara to cap the head of a millionaire's daughter in New York, Chicago, or St. Louis, he can have the goods and no questions as to brains, habits or personal prospects will be asked. This fact has been exemplified again and again, and nowhere more markedly than when a bogus lord or duke crops up at Saratoga or some other society meeting-place, and swindles dozens of willing dupes. There are exceptions here as well as in other matters, for there have been international marriages-happy ones, too, founded on mutual love and respectin which there has been an amalgamation of British cleverness with United States beauty and vice versa. But the exception only proves the rule, which is that the average United States heiress is ever ready to be "gold bricked" when she comes to seek a husband among the British titled moths, and if not a few of the maidens who thus accept a title in lieu of affectionate re-

Under the provisions of the new Fac tory Act, which came into force in Great Britain on the 1st inst., the hours of workers in textile factories will be shortened by one on Saturdays. The employes are gratified at the prospect of leaving work at 12 instead of 1 o'clock on Saturday, but the feeling is qualified by a prospect that there may be a corresponding reduction in wages. Where the workpeople have the Saturday half-holiday, as in the old country, there is no excuse for their absenting themselves from public worship on Sunday mornings.

Hon. David Mills Explains the Situation.

Says British Authors Have Not Treated Canada Fairly.

Action May Be Taken-Wholesale Booksellers, Papermakers and Master Printers Interview the Minister of Justice.

Toronto, Jan. 4.-Hon. David Mills, who was a guest at the Walker House, yesterday received a deputation, representing the wholesale booksellers and stationers' section of the board of trade, the papermakers' and the master printers' and bookbinders' associations. To these gentlemen, Mr. Mills gave a concise statement of his recent interview with Hon. Joseph Chamberlain on the copyright question, and suggested measures, upon which he has not yet consulted his colleagues in the government, and by which he thinks the present unsatisfactory state of affairs may be remedied.

The deputation, in turn, expressed appreciation of the minister of justice's efforts on behalf of the Canadian publishing trades, and presented him with copies of the resolutions passed at Monday's meeting of the booksellers' and stationers' section of the board of trade. They also passed a hearty resolution of thanks to Mr. Mills. Mr. Atwell Fleming introduced the members of the deputation to the min-

HON. DAVID MILLS. During the course of his remarks, Mr. Mills said that the result of the discussion of the subject with the colonia secretary and the crown officers and specialists who were present, was not altogether satisfactory. English authors had, in many cases, not only obtained copyright in England, but also United States, and so far as copyright was concerned Canada had practically been treated as though she were a part of the United States. He had found that under the arrangements existing between the United States and British governments, the Americans had stipulated that where British copywere obtained in the United States, the type should be set up and the books should be printed and published in that country. He had also been told that the British publishers received from those of the United States stereotypes and plates of books to be published in England, in order to avoid the expense of setting type twice. The authors in England had simply considered their own interests in the matter. The British Government, in meeting the wishes of the authors, had sacrificed not only the interests of the industrial classes connected with the work of publication in their own land, but those of the colonies as well. Canwith the United States just as though consisted of half a dozen states in the Union. That was not a satisfactory of affairs, and he thought that Canadians would continue to protest against it. (Applause.)

CANADIANS SHOULD CONTROL THEIR OWN AFFAIRS. The colonial secretary had suggested that if Canada prepared a measure and trial. The act had not been repealed. submitted it for approval it might be found that, after all, there was great difference between the British Canadian interests. To this Mr. Mills had answered that Canadians wished only the control of their own affairs; as strong a voice in regard to copyright and publication as they now possessed in propriety interests in any other kind of industry. and that they could not admit the right of a British author to make arrangements for publications for their own market and deal with them as if they had no right or voice in the mat-

(Hear, hear.) He had pointed out that while the publishers of the United States claimed in the market of Canada all the rights that the Dominion would be ready to concede to publishers or authors in Britain, they were not willing to concede to Canadians similar rights in the United States markets. Canadian publishers, he had urged, felt that some reciprocal or corresponding arrangement in their interests must be

This view he had also placed before the late Lord Herschel, and he believed it to be sound doctrine. (Applause.) Mr. Chamberlain had doubted whether he could carry through the House of Parliament, despite the strength of the government, a measure embodying the views expressed by Mr. "To this," said Mr. Mills, smilingly, "I replied that the authors, who had made these arrangements at our expense and in which our political rights were not conserved, had too much power and influence with the Government." (Laughter and applause.)

CANADA'S RIGHT TO LEGISLATE. Mr. Chamberlain had proposed the preparation by Canada of a case, so that the Dominion's claims as to her rights in the question might be tested, adding that if judgment was given in Canada's favor that would settle the question definitely.

"I stated," said the inister of justice, "my very strong objections to going before the judicial committee of the privy council with a stated case based upon certain abstract proposi-tions. The preferable way, I conwould be to allow. tended. legislate upon those lines which we think are in the interests of the authors, publishers and people of this country, and then if the authors in England think that we do not possess the power of such legislation let them go before the judicial committee and test the validity of the law." (Hear, go hear, and applause). The British North America Act, he said, authorized Canada to legislate on the subject of copyright, though section 129 of that act contained pro-visions which seemed to indicate that there was no intention to make Canada's powers on that point broader than they were before. There was no need for him to enter upon a discussion as to whether that section should be strictly interpreted, or should be given a generous interpretation as part of Canada's constitutional rights. There was one thing, however, which he considered went a long way in favor of Canada's right to legislate. When Riel was tried and convicted for rebellion an appeal was taken to the privy council on the ground that the but the decision was given upholding the right of Canada to leg-those courts. WHAT MIGHT BE DONE. After expanding somewhat on this argument Mr. Mills said: "There are several things which have occurred to me, I have not discussed them with my colleagues, and cannot say what view they are prepared to take, so that I am speaking solely for myself. We might, for instance, pass an act leaving the imperial government the responsibility of disallowance; or might treat the law as it now stands, as an existing factor, and provide that in all cases where the British author had taken a copyright in the United States, and had also disposed to an American publicher the copyright of his works in Canada, that a high duty should be imposed on all such works imported from the United States. That would practically be saying to them, 'If you want our market you have got to deal fairly with us." (Applause.) Of course, some readers might object to that, but we have got to make sacrifices in the interests of each other with a view to maintaining our own political authority. It seems that if we were to provide, wherever we thought we were being discriminated against or unjustly dealt with, that works so copyrighted with a view of being imported into Canada should be subjected to a high duty, we could compel the British author to deal with Canadians instead of Americans for the Canadian market." (Loud applause.) STRONG RESOLUTIONS. Mr. Gundy then presented to Mr. Mills the resolutions previously referred to. These, after reciting present condition of affairs, and failure of previous attempts to rectify them, conclude by urging the govern-ment "to pass such legislation as will give effect to the draft bill (Hall Caine's) already referred to, making it obligatory that a book shall be printed and bound in this country in order to secure Canadian copyright, and con-

A NEWSPAPER MAN'S VIEW.

Mr. John Ross Robertson was sure that all present would agree with him that they were fortunate in having a minister so thoroughly Canadian as Mr. Mills' address had shown him to It was a satisfaction to him to find the booksellers, publishers and stationers at last agreeing with the Copyright Association, which had been ignored by some bodies, as to the wisdom of the draft agreement known as the Hall Caine agreement. The crux of the whole situation was that the English author and publisher had the Canadian bookseller and publisher by the throat, and were prepared to keep their Canadians exercised hold until the their right to legislate in their own interests. Every influence was against the Canadian publisher and bookseller, not only in England and America, but also on the part of some men in Canada. He (Mr. Robertson) was intensely interested in the question. In the past he had been interested in the publication of books, and hoped to be again. Mr. Robertson also expressed the hope that the government might be able to take steps to provide convenient methods to enable newspaper publishers in Canada to copyright special cables. articles or letters obtained by them at anything the members of the deputation could do to support him in the legislation they required. He replied "I am not aware of anything at the present time. The information you have given and the expression of your desires is as effective a measure of support as can be given at the present time. When our measure is prepared, and I hope that will be soon, no doubt you may be able to make suggestions with regard to its provisions The conference ended after a hearty vote of thanks to Mr. Mills.

The crowd was soon reassured, however, upon the appearance of abundance of buying orders in the pit. Liverpool cables were advanced: Antwerp was unchanged, and Paris well up. MINING OUTPUT OF BRITISH COLUMBIA

Is Estimated to Reach as High as $30,000,-000 in Value

Toronto, Jan. 6 .- Smith Curtis, M.P.P., Rossland, B.C., former minister of mines in British Columbia, who is in the city, states that while the province had suffered from the depression in mining shares and from the strike in Rossland, and would amount to about $20,000,000 for the past year. The bottom of the de-pression had been reached. The great need of the country is a refinery for copper and lead, for with proper treatment and railway rates a saving oi one to two cents per pound on copper could be made, and a considerable saving on lead. The refinery would

KERSEY BROTHERS

Two Committed for Trial in Connection With the Edy's Mills Robbery. Sarnia, Jan. 6.—The Kersey case, which had been in progress here for the past two or three days before Police Magistrate Gorman, resulted on Friday in the committal of the prisoners, Isaac and Walter Kersey, for trial. Over twenty witnesses were examined. The evidence was of a purely circumstantial nature, and consisted of suspicious circumstances connected with the biowing open of the safe, and the improbable and inconsistent stories told by the Kerseys of the manner in which the robbery was effected.

The stolen package contained $1,150, sent by registered mail from the Molsons Bank, Alvinston, addressed to Mr.
John McTaggart, a hog buyer at Edy's

THE MANIA OF TALKING

The Girl Who Chatters Incessantly Thinks Little.

Views of One Woman in Regard to the Unintelligent "Talk Habit" of Her Sex.

"Somehow I can't rest," said a pretty girl as she sat across the aisle from me on the way home from Colorado," Journal.

"I have been camping out in the mountains with a big family party," she continued. "We have wandering about in the cool, high peaks, with snow ever in sight. I have lived out of doors all the time; the change from city life has been great, yet I am not rested—not one bit!"
She heaved a pathetic sigh, but seeing I was about to speak she caught her sigh half way and rattled on. That girl had talked every moment of the time since we left Denver, so fas as I knew-of course. I can't speak for the time when I was asleep, but she was talking when I closed my eyes at night, and when I opened them in the morning and all of my waking hours I heard the steady stream of her eloquence going-going-but never

She talked to her father, to her aunt, to her two little cousins, to the wo-man in the section back of her, to the men in the section in front of her, to the train and Pudman car conductors, to the porter and to me.

That girl talked incessantly. Her face was pale, her eyes were heavy, her hands twitched from nervousness; there was no moment of repose for her. She was not unintelligent. Some things she said were worth hearing. But she is talking herself to death. Why do so many girls get into the habit of never resting, never ceasing

It is never agreeable to others, the constant buzz of the tongue; it tires out and drives away more friends than it ever can summon. Half the talk one hears is just the cackling of victims of the tongue habit.

When I left the train the talking girl came close after me and still went on the sound of her tired voice. New victims she had found-Ciicago relations and friends. Heaven help

"If I had the Masonic Temple for a rostrum and all the girls of the west for a congregation," I thought,
"the first thing I would say to them would be: 'Don't get into the talking habit, or if you are in, get out!' Much of the talk among girls is as meaningless as the chatter and scream not as harmless. Anyone who talks all the time ruins his or her nervous balance. That's the worst effect of Talkitis, to coin a new name for a common disease. Next, the talker does harm by the gossip and small scandal into which the ever running tongue is certain to fall. The hurt here is two-fold, for evil speaking cuts both ways and of parrots. The worst of it is, it is wounds most cruelly the one who wields the blade. The most effectual way to combat the evil of chatter is to study and practice daily for at least one hour the exercise of perfect silence. Shut yourself up alone every day and make it a rule that for some appreciable space of time no word shall pass your lips. If you must be occupied every minute, read or sew, but do not write, for writing is only another form of talk. Then, after a time, try and see if you can endure yourself for a quarter of an hour without any kind of work, with no one still and think. You will be surprised to learn what a place in your life has been taken up by the talking mania, which seems to possess nine girls out of ten and ninety-nine women out of one hun-

"But," you say, "I do not talk too much! "This is the strange thing about Talkitis. No one thinks herself one of its victims. Call your family together and let them cast a secret ballot. they diagnose your case as one of the sufferers from the talk habit, take their word for it and begin the cure by the systematic practice of silence and self-control. No, you can't cure anyone else! There's but one chance for each of us. The whole story is told by what we do for ourselves when it comes to curing our faults and fobiles. Here I am again in imagination up on top of the Temple. Girls, for pity's sake, stop talking, and think a little.

The Jewish Atkins.

The London England correspondent of the Liverpool Post writes: One of the most remarkable services ever held in this country took place at the Central Synagogue this afternoon, when about 300 Jewish troops, consisting of Lifeguardsmen, Dragoon Guards, Scots Guards, Yeomanry, and Volunteers, met together in response to a call for a "grand synagogue parade." Among the visitors were the Lord Mayor and Lady Mayoress, the sheriffs and the Duke of Bedford. The chief Rabbi, with the scroll of the law in his hand, read a solemn prayer for the King and Queen, and subsequently an address was delivered by the Rev. F. L. Cohen, who stated that fully two thousand Jews, including eighty officers, had fought for England in the South African war. A list of the Jews fallen was afterwards read, the congregation meanwhile standing in their places. Before separating the soldiers sang the National Anthem.

Two weeks ago yes-terday he preached in the churches at Glencoe and Appin, and returned home to spend the holiday season with his family. Three weeks ago he caught cold while traveling, and did not succeed in shaking it off, and a week before, while going to Parkdale, he sustained a heavy fall, from the shock of which he never fully recovered. The family came to Toronto in the early fifties, and Dr. Robertson matriculated into Toronto University in 1863, taking honors in the philosophy class. In 1866 he joined the University Company of the Queen's Own Rifles, and went to the front at the time of the Fenian raid. From 1866 to 1868 he was a student at the Princeton Theological Seminary, and from 1868 to 1869 at the Union Theological Seminary, New appointed the first pastor of the First Presbyterian Church in the city of Winnipeg, where he remained until intendent of the Northwest and British Columbia missions, which position he held until the day of his death. He was also field secretary of the home and augmentation committees of the church. From 1875 to 1881 he was lecturer on philosophy and theology in Arthur, and nominated Mr. James sembly of the Presbyterian Church in Conmee, M.P.P., for the Legislative Canada, and in 1896 was appointed delegate to the Pan-Presbyterian conference held in Glasgow, Scotland. The degree of D. D. was conferred upon him by Montreal Presbyterian College in 1888. His widow was formerly Miss Mary Anne Cowing, of Blandford, Oxford county.

SOME APPRECIATIONS. The news of his death, which became known to a number of Presbyterian pastors and leaders yesterday, caused profound regret. Several references were made from various pulpits, and the speakers dwelt upon the loss sustained, not only by the church, but by the whole country, for he was intense-

His mind is as clear, his memory as tenacious, his heart as warm as 25 years ago, but the unceasing travel, the exposure, the anxiety. the incessant work, have combined to set their mark upon that magnificent constitution. But they have set their mark, too, thank God, upon our young west. A noble impress it is, that many years will not obliterate—an impress that can be made only by one who loves his country with strong, pure, patriotic love, and willingly sacrifices his life year by year on the altar of her highest good. The results of much of Dr. Robertson's labors we can see but the greater part will never be known-not here. CRIMES CONFESSED IN CULPRITS' SLEEP

Great Terror That Haunts the Guilty-More Potent Than Dread of Police.

Criminologists say that the greatest terror that afflicts that fraction of humanity suffering from an uneasy conscience is not the dread of the police, by any means, nor awe of any other acknowledged enemy of law-de-

What criminals dread is sleep. Sleep is, it appears, the friend of the righteous only. To men with the knowledge of dark deeds stored within them sleep is the most treacherous of foes. The countless poems that have been written in praise of it very naturally appear as so much cold blooded mockery to such as are in hourly dread of betraying themselves under its influence.

An untold number of crimes have been confessed by their perpetrators during sleep. Is it any wonder that those conscious of irregularities of conduct prefer to remain awake? It was not long ago that a well-known New York detective happened to be traveling in a sleeping-car. The detective, who chanced to be occup-ing a certain lower berth, heard the sleeper above him burst forth into a regarding long-winded confession several daring jewel robberies wherein he had taken part. Much impressed the officer kept an eye on him. Further inquiries proved that the confession had been an exact record of what had taken place. Many years ago a common lodginghouse was the scene of a sleeping criminal's confession. The room was oc-cupied by himself and one other—a young sailor. While the sailor was ly-ing awake he suddenly heard a curious and ghastly laugh issue from his room companion's lips. The laugh was foilowed by a long and rambling description of a murder he had committed, horrible in its details. The sailor crept downstairs and informed the landlord of what had occurred. The latter at once summoned a policeman, who recognized the sleeper as the man wanted for the crime in question. At the trial which followed he was found guilty and sentenced to death. As for the sailor, he came in for a considerable reward.

Meantime a neighbor called Schmidt, who had been devoted to the young wife be-1881, being chosen in that year super- fore her marriage, reappeared on the scene, and paid her assiduous atention. So successfully did he press his suit that within a year of his rival's disappearance the woman consented marry him, and they were united at the parish church. Now comes the sequel. On the second night following the wedding the newly-made bride lay Manitoba College. In 1835 he was elected moderator of the General Asthere came a gurgling cry from the sleeping form beside her, and a moment later the man leaped from his bed, and in a loud voice proclaimed that he had killed the missing husband and had buried the body in a neighboring wood. This statement the sleeper reiterated several times, naming the exact spot where the corpse lay interred. The wife drank in the confession, and next morning carried the remarkable story to the police station The place named by the sleeper was searched, and, sure enough, the body of the vanished man discovered there. Somewhat similar in several details was the case of an Austrian peasant who murdered his friend in order that he might woo the latter's sweethearta girl of unusual beauty. All attempts to trace the missing man had failed, and doubtless the affair would have remained a mystery to the end of time had not the criminal signed his own death warrant by confessing the crime while dozing by the fire in a friend's cottage. Bit by bit he described the incidents of the terrible affair, stating that he had destroyed his victim's body by fire. The man was then arrested and his cottage searched. Some garments and a watch belonging to the deceased being found there, his guilt was considered half proved, and when placed in the dock he made a full confession, repeating, in fact, what he had said during his slumber. The scoundrel was sentenced to death -

ENDED IN FIGHT.

Boston, Jan. 6.—In a fist fight, which became general for a few minutes the six-day bicycle race at Park Square Carden ended Saturday night, with McFarland and Maya the winners. The six teading teams were on even terms in distance traveled for the week, the winning places being taken in the last sprint. The battle for first money started on the last mile. Until the fifth lapthe order was: McFarland, Freeman, Gougoltz, Leander, McLean and Gins. Then Leander, in a burst of speed, went ahead of the field. He was going very fast, and McLean was after him. While rounding the bank into the back stretch Gougoltz and McLean came together and went down, the others running away The two men exchanged meaning looks. You are not French?" went down, the others running away from them. Gougoltz was the first on his machine, and away he went. Leander still held the leading position until the opening of the last lap, when McFarland jumped and won first, with Leander second, Freeman third, King fourth, Gougoltz fifth, McLean sixth. Chevaller and Fischer captured seventh prize and "I am English."

"'Que diable allait-elle faire dans cette galere?" Well, there is no help for it. Turn the mules round, if their knees are not as stiff as mine. There, citoyenne, we'll make you as comfortable as we can. Who knows? Perhaps we are all going to visit la mere guillotine together. Well, death is but death after all; and whether it comes by the knife. Gougoltz fifth, McLean sixth. Chevaner and Fischer captured seventh prize, and Krebs and Keegan eighth. Muller and Jaak, who remained in the race until the finish, got ninth position, but were outside the prize money. The distance covered by the leaders was 1,193 miles and 5 laps. Trouble began almost an instant after the men were over the tape. McFarland, who had only won first place by inches jumped off his wheel all; and whether it comes by the knife, or the cold, what matter? Courage, citoyenne! Who knows what may hapfirst place by inches, jumped off his wheel and dashed at Leander. Other riders and trainers made a grab for the men, "Hush!" said the other, who, though he had proposed the scheme, was less brutal in manner. "Not I." replied Jules, dragging round and got Leander out of the way. Free-man next went after Leander and struck him full in the face. Thereupon riders. the mules with a will, and with no spar-ing of blows. "We must learn to be good Montagnards—curse them! One trainers and spectators took a hand, and trainers and spectators took a hand, and for a few minutes the affair looked like an incipient riot. Police officers jumped into the mass of men and straightened out matters. The excitment was intense. The fight had been brewing all day. It grew out of Leander's sprinting in the afternoon, which threatened to break a supposed combination, as it proved hard for the three men in it to keen the place must try to live, after all. And if we have to die with the citoyenne, we will give them in their teeth the good old A sudden light came into the pale face A sudden light came into the pale face of the marquise. Tears for the first time flooded her eyes, and, after one glance at the torrent which now lay behind her, she looked up to heaven. "I am justly punished," she murmured to herself, in English. Then, once more in French, she said, in a strong, full voice, that seemed to tell of conquest over self, "And if I have to die, with you or without you, my last words shall be Vive le Roi!"
But it was a last effort, and she fell back exhausted. The two men shrugged their shoulders at one another, and the cart once more went on in silence. supposed combination, as it proved hard for the three men in it to keep the place in the bunch, which would have given them the advantage at night. Then, to add to the friction, Leander started the final sprint, and it was sooner than McFarland had figured on. It led to the spill, and made the race anybody's. Referee Kelsey, who is the new member on the board of control, said after the race that it was probable that the N. C. A. would investigate the affair, which he called most disgraceful. Afterwards A. would investigate the affair, which he called most disgraceful. Afterwards Freeman went to Mr. Kelsey to protest Leander. While trying to break the three mile record, Will Stinson's front tire collapsed and he was thrown to the ground. He received many bruises and was unconscious for some time, but no bones were broken.

JEFF IN NEW YORK. New York, Jan. 4.—Jim Jeffries arrived in the city Saturday night from Chicago. "If Fitz-simmons has the slightest desire to fight simmons has the slightest desire to fight me," said Jeffries, "he can get a match in doubtle-quick time. I understand he has been talking about being offered inducements by me to make a match. I don't know what he means or what he wants. The only inducement I will offer him is this: I will fight him for the entire purse—winner to take all, as they say—and if that is not enough, will make a side bet of from $5,000 to $50,000 that I beat him."

HOWLETT

Howlett, Jan. 3 .- On Jan. 1 there was a grand reunion at the residence of A. Bell, con. 3, when their five daugh ters, their husbands, together with their children, to the number of 24, gathered at the old parental home. The only invited guests were Mr. Bell's two nephews, W. F. Bell, wife and daughter, and the writer, who came out from Erin's Isle in the same vessel with Mr. and Mrs. Bell. Fiftyfour years ago the elderly couple set sail from Ireland in the New packet sailing ship, and after five weeks, of what was then considered a fast trip, they landed in America, and soon after came to Delaware and hewed out a home in the woods. Since both lived to the grand old age of 82. After the family had all assembled and spent some time in pleasant and entertaining conversation, the family and guests sat down to a most sumptudinner, prepared by the daughter of the aged couple. Ample justice was done to the delicacies, after which instrumental music was furnished by Miss M. Bell. The afternoon was spent in games and music. After wishing Mr. and Mrs. Bell many happy returns of the day the guests, at a late hour, dispersed to their homes, all feeling they had spent a most enjoyable time. The table was also most beautifully decorated with roses, carnations and smilax, and was laden with the fruits of the season; and prettiest of all was the five-story cake, which was most beautifully arranged and made, the whole forming a most pleasing sight. The dinner was served in the most effective man-ner by Miss Lena McFarlane, Petrolia, and Miss Minnie Campbell, who were assisted by Mr. Neil Campbell and Mr. Dan McFarlane. The ladies were gowned in white and wore pink carnations. After the dinner was served all returned to the spacious parlors where they enjoyed themselves in games, music, singing and dancing. The music was furnished by Mr. Peter McEwen and Mr. John D. The merriment was kept up till the small hours of the morning, and after playing "Home, Sweet Home," all joined in wishing Mr. and Mrs. Campbell many a happy anniversary. TELL THE TRUTH

We have already spoken of the frustration of our hopes of the best results from the visit to this country of the heir to the throne, by reason of the caricatures of Canada in the correspondence connected therewith of the great London journals. These we will attribute not to seliberate design, but to initial ignorance and an unwilling-ness as they went along to take the trouble to master the details of their business. They knew nothing to start with, and they learned nothing on their travels. We have another misrepresentation to add to the already long list. Summing up in oracular and grandiose style his impressions of the royal tour, the representative of the London Times does injustice to the Grand Trunk Railway. Comparisons are proverbially odious, and his impertinent comparison of the Canadian Pacific with the Grand Trunk, is essentially so. He puffs the Canadian Pacific in the language of an advocate, and as its partisan belittles the Grand Trunk. Rejoicing in the vounger rival's prosperity, as we all do-but not chiefly because, as he puts it, it adds to the profit of the shareholders—who are largely English-and making mention

"Moreover, this much I know, and I have indicated by telegram, when you effectual. go further than the Canadian Pacific Railway, even in Canadian Pacific Railway carriages, you fare very considerably worse. You are on a line that does not pay, and you see why; it is because it is ill-managed. Now, the line that does not pay its owners is also of very little value to the public and the line that does pay is really useful to the public. That is why, to use a sporting term, I am a backer of the Canadian Pacific Railway." If the real truth were known, we will be bound to say it would be found of the comforts and conveniences of the travel thereon, he cannot refrain from casting this quite uncalled-for that this sportsmanlike gentleman "backed' the one and wrote disparag-ingly of the other for a very different reason. But whatever the motive, he should try to learn to write truthfully. Whatever blame was attributable to Grand Trunk management in the past -management by Englishmen, directed by Englishmen—it exists no longer. It is now conducted in a most excellent manner, and it gives the public good service. If it does not pay it is not because of a lack of care and energy under the present auspices, but because of the sins of past days. It was not fed by the lavish hand that fed the Canadian Pacific, and it was so ex-travagantly, not to say recklessly, constructed, to teh enrichment of men like the Gzowskis, the Macphersons and the Galts, that to earn dividends for its shareholders is as impossible to it as it is to pay its debt to the Canadian Government, Mr. Hays, Mr. Reeve, and their zealous, well-trained and hard-worked staff of officers and men are entitled to fair treatment, even at the hands of a superficial and supercilious correspondent of the London Times .-Stratford, Ont., Beacon, Dec. 6, 1901.

The following lines refer to the late Henry A. Harper-well known in this city, and in fact throughout the country who lost his life at Ottawa in a brave attempt to save the daughter of Hon. A. G. Blair from drowning: We crown the splendors of immortal

And laud the heroes of ensanguined war, Rearing in granite memory of men Who build the future, recreate the past, Or animate the present dull world's With loftier riches of the human mind.

But his was greatness not of common mould,
And yet so human in its simple worth,
That any spirit plodding its slow round
Of social commonplace and daily moil, Might blunder on such greatness, did he In him the kernel sap from which it

Men in rare hours great actions may Heroic, lofty, whereof earth will ring, A world onlooking, and the spirit strung To high achievement, at the cannon's mouth, Or where fierce ranks of maddened men

But this was godlier. In the common round Of life's slow action, stumbling on the brink of sudden opportunity he chose The only noble, godlike, splendid way, And made his exit, as earth's great have By that vast doorway, looking out on

No poet this of winged immortal pen; No hero of an hundred victories; Nor iron moulder of unwieldy states, Grave counsellor of parliaments, gold-

George Walters the Victim of a Runaway Accident.

Maddened Horses Struck a Telegraph Pole Throwing Young Man Over Their Head.

Mr. George Walters and a companion had engaged a team at Trebilcock's livery for the afternoon yesterday and were driving north on Wellington street, when Walters, who was unused to the handling of horses, was seen to strike the team with the whip several times. They became terrified and bolted. They ran a distance of several blocks before colliding with a telegraph pole in front of Jackson's butcher shop. The force with which the tongue of the vehicle struck caused the young man to shoot over the horses' heads and strike the telegraph pole with terrific force. He was carried into Mr. George Jackson's residence and afterwards removed to Victoria Hospital, where an operation was performed. The unfortunate young man died at Victoria Hospital this morning at 3:30 o'clock, from loss of blood. His leg was broken in three

MUSIC AND DRAMA.

"TWO LITTLE WAIFS." Lincoln J. Carter's latest scenic production, 'The Two Little Waifs," will be seen for the first time in this city on Wednesday evening next at the New Grand at popular prices. The story hinges on the striking likeness of two women, who, unknown to each other, are twin sisters. The dual role is taken by one women, and the rapid changes from the loving wife to the unloving adventuress keeps the audience guessing from the rise of the curtain until the finish of the play. "The Two Little Waifs" is supplied with elaborate scenery. Refined and up-to-date scenery. Refined and up-to-date specialties are introduced by members of the cabable company.

Dramatic Criticism. [London Catholic Record.]

What some towns in Canada need, and badly, are dramatic critics. Some gentlemen of the press may have very loose ethical ideas, but for the sake of decency and pure journalism, of which they prate everlastingly, they should strive to get competent individuals to do dramatic copy for them. We do not expect any scholarly appreciations, but simply when shame and sin are portrayed on the stage they should be wise enough to see and to denounce it, without resorting to nonsensical eulogy. Apropos to this we have before us a screed purporting to be a criticism of a play given recently in one of our cities. The "company," we are told, was first class, when everyone knows that nothing but a third-rate aggregation ever comes near the town. There are adjectives galore in praise of a flauntingly immoral play, and then comes the announcement that it was witnessed by our "best citizens." We suppose the "best citizens" were accompanied by their little darlings, and were doubtless edified whenever applauded the gifted actors and actresses. They would not let them out of their sight without a chaperon, but they themselves will bring them into the porch of hell and permit them to see the portrayal of picturesque and bespangled vice. Of course, no harm is done, for the devil suspends operations when some people go to the theater. We suppose Catholics were ate right away and agreed with me in the audience, for some of us are not at all prudish, and besides go "The heavy, oppressive feeling disappeared and I became thoroughly impressed with the new food and began in the cloak room and are guaranteed against a moral chill.
