In point of the numbers of letters received the rural brethren seem to be having "all the best of it" in the verbal battle over whether country life is preferable to city life in the winter time. Answers to the letters appearing Saturday, in which two ages for the urbanite, continue to arrive, and among them are two from Fanshawe, one of them from the correspondent who first took exception to the description to life on the farm on a zero morning. Whatever the conclusion readers may come to those on the farm seem satisfied with their existence and those in the city seem equally content. THE BRIGHT SIDE.

To the Editor of The Advertiser. After reading the articles in Saturday's Advertiser, by two citizens, in regard to "Winter Life on the Farm." and thinking that people who know no more of the above subject than they appear to know might be sharing the same hallucinations thought, perhaps, I might throw some light on the bright side of country life in the winter.

As W. H. S. writes in Friday evening's paper, life is not nearly so bad that article in Jan, 15th's issue would lead anybody to believe.

Pumps are seldom ever frozen most farmers work in stables nearly as warm as any factory, or, perhaps, warmer; forty head, all told, (horses, cattle and swine), is the average number to attend to on every farm, if more than forty he usually has an assistant to help; coal is the universal fuel used in the country at the present time, and houses are as warm when arising as when retiring, and if one can have all the feed necessary for the morning down he is not very apt to leave it undone the night be-

Good Thing.' First of all, how does "One Who Knows a Good Thing" know whether he has a good thing or not. I ask him if he ever spent a winter on the farm. I have had a little experience in both city and country, so I therefore can judge for myself. But this world has different tastes, as you will all agree that if it was not so it would be a bad thing for everybody. How long would a city get along without the farm produce? Our forefathers got along without the city, therefore, that goes to show that the farm is of more importance than the city. But I will give you credit, Mr. Citizen, of having a very handy plot of ground of secondary importance. As for education, I will admit you have the buildings and a lot of people to fill them. But in accordance to the population, I contend that more A Pair of Good Horses.

We don't have to take the back seat in entertainments, either. For instance, "Mr. One Who Knows a Good Thing," you would be perfectly delighted to have even an "Old Dobbin' to hitch up and go for a sleigh ride unless you are a bit timid, as lots of your breed are. Give me a dashing a jolly bunch of hayseeds and I will

A STAUNCH FARMER.

Fanshawe, Jan. 22, 1912. W. H. S. HAS A REPLY.

To the Editor of The Advertiser. As you have invited letters on the subject of "Life on the Farm," would like to give my views. thought that the theme was "Life or the Farm in Winter," but I think from the flow of "Mr. Citizen's" argument any person would think that the theme was "Advantages of City Life Over Country Life." Besides education and entertainmets do not tend to make up life on a farm, and, therefore, should not be discussed, but if Mr. Citizen can discuss them shall do the same.

Life is in no way onely, as you have lots of little things to do, and the farmer never thinks how lonely it is. I think that if I said that the writers of fast Saturday's two letters never spent winter on a farm I would be right. If they were to try it for one winter they would not have half so many doctor bills to pay, for arm work is much healthier than working in some dusty old factory. or small pent-up office full of foul air 'Mr. Citizen" gave one good point, and that is if the high professionals were only recruited from the ranks of the city boys there would soon be a lack of doctors, lawyers, etc. For where there is impure, smokey air, there are unhealthy boys, and unhealthy boys have very few brains or intellect. Because a boy goes into the city to learn is not a sign he prefers city life to that of the country. I went to the collegiate in London myself and there was nobody ever so glad to get out of the smoky air as I was.

A Sleigh Full of Joy Ones. As for entertainment there is nothing more enjoyable than to get a sleigh-load of young men and women such as the farms produce and drive five or ten miles to a party or con-

"Mr. Citizen" seems to think that there are no churches in the country, but I am proud to say that the ministers who reach the word God from their country pulpits can deliver just as good sermons as those of the city. Sitting beside the fire and reading some blood-curdling novel or book does not increase man's knowledge very much. As for "The Man Who Knows a Good Thing," I might tell him that you do not feel the cold on the farm, and besides we are as tough as bears, cently. he said, but we do not hibernate, You never worry about getting frozen, and Lucan Methodist Sunday School inhe says the people in London have tend holding an oyster supper in the

Now in conclusion, Mr. Editor, 1 hope you find space for this, and thanking you in a vance, I remain, as before, longing for home sweet home on the farm.

Fanshawe, Jan. 22, 1912.

HAS SEEN BOTH SIDES. To the Editor of The Advertiser. I have read The Advertiser's recent article on 'Life on a Farm in which have been elicited. I have been raised on an Ontario farm and the city, especially in the summer. I have no prejudice against life in the so apparent in the letter of "W. H.

The fact is that in this age of professionstorms of snow and wind, with no and one can hardly attend a crossthoughts of appalling vacancy, but roads concert or entertainment in the country without finding professional talent from the city, including the "burnt cork artist" with his stock witticisms, and the high-class vocalist with his "sentimental" songs—the health. country people would not stand for songs of the "Turkey Trot" order. No entertainment in the country? Are there no skating rinks, no hockey, no football no curling, no dancing assemblies? If these pastimes are not in the open country, they are within easy reach in the nearest village.

"Citizen" futher says that in the matter of church entertainment the city offers "choice" while in the country we must "hitch old Dobbin to the shay" and drive through slush and mire "to hear something not haif as good as you might have read in a book at home." There is evidently more sarcasm than point in "Citizen's" observations. The farmer, in many cases, instead of "old Dobbin" could hitch up a spirited high-stepper that could jog along at a threeminute clip and in something more modern than a shay, too. Not like the city man when distressed with ennui he seeks relief in a drive in the country. He must hire an old skin that the farmer would have long of the south ward, is very seriously ill country boys go through your buildiggs to a position of honor and fame. and pay from three to five dollars for ago superannuated to the boneyard, the privilege of coaxing this dilapidated equine to stumble into a trot once in a while.

As To Preaching. "Citizen" is just as far out in regard to preaching. Some of the brightest men in the ministry are in country pulpits. Besides the guns" from the city often change pulpits with the country ministers, and when they deliver the "Royal Georges," of course, they fairly set the heather on fire.

Another correspondent, "One Who Knows a Good Thing," is simply dis-Most men could stand her How would this writer like to homestead in the west without the sweet little wife? THE LANCASTER BILL.

The Lancaster bill reached House of Commons at last, in spite of frantic efforts on the part of the Government, which have been the entertainment of Ottawa political circles for some weeks, to convince the author of the error of his ways. Over the principle of the bill there can be little difference of opinion. It was noteworthy law. The bill merely asked that marriages solemnized by anyone legally authorized to perform them should be religious beliefs of one or both parance the slightest effect upon the civil with respect to marriage has any march of prices upward. bearing upon the civil law is not final. ly decided, being now before the courts in the Hebert case.

The Prime Minister and the leader of the Opposition concurred in the year in foreign commerce. The agopinion that Mr. Lancaster's bill was gregate of exports and imports was outside the purview of the Federal £1,238,000,000, an increase of £26,-Parliament, by reason of sub-section 000,0000 over 1910, which was the best 12 of section 92 of the B. Mr. submitted to the Privy Council, for pounds sterling: authoritative settlement. Sir Wilfrid Laurier saw no reason for this, as the matter in a concrete form-the Hebert case-was before the Montreal courts, and would be carried to the Privy Council for final adjudication, In Sir Wilfrid's view, this would be a quicker and less confusing solution than taking the academic question of jurisdiction to the highest tribunal

Mr. Lancaster demanded the passage of the bill, so that it would be immediately operative and continue to be enforced unless declared ultra vires of Parliament. He found a number of supporters in the Conser vative ranks, but not enough, even with the aid of the Opposition, to defeat the Government's motion to adjourn the debate. Some of Mr. Lancaster's sympathizers voted against him to save the Government.

So far as the Federal Government is concerned, the matter has shelved for an indefinite period. In the Hebert case the Privy Council may decide that church decrees in Quebec have no civil effects. If so, there is no grievance that calls for legal rearess, either at Ottawa or Quebec. if the Privy Council decides that the Quebec marriage law is subject to church law, a grievance will exist. It would seem the better policy in that event to appeal for redress to the Quebec Legislature, and at least give it an opportunity of providing a remedy before questioning its jurisdiction. If a remedy were refused, every constitutional means could then be taken to bring the matter into the federal TOO MUCH GOLD?

The enormous increase in the world's gold production of late years is causing uneasiness. In 1893 the production amounted to a value of $157,494,-800, then the largest ever recorded for a single year. The director of the United States mint announces that the total for 1911 will be approximately $466,000,000, about three times as much as eighteen years ago.

The most interesting thing to occur SIR WILFRID SILENCES MINISTER OF CUSTOMS

> Hon. Mr. Graham Absolutely Inaccurate.

Mr. Devlin entertained the House by reading from the Conservative press a pneumonia. Drifted out through the poor man's ministed was reported as stating that the Georgian Bay ship canal would be commenced immediately. "May I ask the Premier," continued the member for Wright, whether the minister's declaration was authoried by the Government."

Mr. Reid beat Mr. Borden to his feet. "I never mentioned the Georgian Bay Canal at the convention," he retorted. "That, then, is the extent to which con fidence may be placed in the ministerial press," observed Sir Wilfrid, amid Liberal laughter.

The Liberal chief then read the House another report of the minister's Renfrew speech, in which he was reported as stat-Halifax in 1904, when he had sought a SMALLPOX CASE seat in Carleton, Hon. George P. Graham used his influence as a member of the Laurier Government to keep him out as long as possible, notwithstanding representations made to the Government by the then Opposition.

"May I just say with regard to that statement," observed Sir Wilfrid, "that Mr. Graham was neither a member of the House nor of the Government at that time, and that nothing was done by the Covernment of the day to delay, but everything rather to facilitate the return of the honorable gentleman who now sits opposite. Neither were any representations made to the then Government. On Jan. 19, the opening day of the session, the resignation of Mr. Kidd was made out On Jan. 20 the Speaker issued his writ, and on Jan. 21, the day following, the election writ was issued, while on Feb. 4 the leader of the then Opposition was returned unopposed. It will consequently be seen that the statements of the minister of customs as reported are absolutely inaccurate from beginning to end." There was another laugh at Mr. Reid's expense, but this time he remained silent in his seat. FRANCE NOT WORRIED

BY THE SEIZURES Italy Was Wrong in Arresting French Vessels, But Has Been Forgiven.

Deputies today, M. Poincare, the pre-mier, recounted the history of the seizures of the two French steamships, Carthage and Manouba, by Italy. This action on Italy's part has created a stiff dispute between Rome and Paris. The premier declared that Italy had informed him that she had proof that M. Duval, the French aviator on board the steamship Carthage was under contract with Turkey. Italy seized the vessel because a couple of aeroplanes on board were consigned, it is alleged, to Turkey.

Continuing, M. Poincare declared that he refused Italy's request to undertake the task of watching the aeroplane owned by M. Duval while it was in Tunis, but M. Duval's father had spontaneously pledged his son not to sell the machine to either belligerent. The premier stated that he communicated this to Italy by "courtesy," and Italy replied that the guarantee was not satisfactory.

M. Poincare added that Italy made an

The colonial shoe, with the deep tongue and huge buckle, is a model for both dancing and out-of-door shoes. For the ballroom this form comes in Pekin silk, the attractive narow stripe contrasting with silk and has a band of the plain silk at the top of the shoe. The tongue and the bow are of plain silk, which matches the frock of the wearer. For out-of-door wear this model is the vici kid and with a buckle of either steel or gunmetal.

For bedroom wear satin mules with French heels are the thing. These come in all tones and should match the kimono in color. A ruching of chiffon cuddles warmly against the foot and a big rosette of chiffon decks the top. Indeed, choux of chiffon trim many dancing shoes, too.

PRYING HUSBANDS

[By Cynthia Grey.]

It is the belief of most young girls that husbands in general are delightful creatures to have about the house. They pay all bills without a murmur, grace the head of the table, only set their foot in the rooms that are set apart for them, never question where the money goes, and never presume to oppose her will. Such is the picture girls draw in their minds of mere man wedded.

Once in a great while a girl finds just that sort of a man, but more often she doesn't. It would take the stoutest of hearts to withstand the shock when women discover that they have wedded just the opposite of their fondly cherished ideals. Instead of being satisfied with the smoking den, she has fixed up for him, believing this to be the height of a man's ambition—a place where he can invite his men friends to smoke the walls black if they want to-he turns up his nose, declaring that the smallest room in the house is considered good enough for him, eh?

And as for the household expenses, he wanted to know the why and wherefore of everything purchased, making loud and emphatic discourses upon frugality and waste. Not a package came into the house that she did not find the string loose and a corner torn off if he happened to be home and she had not heard the ring of the doorbell in time to race to the door for it. If a schoolgir1 friend called she heard creaking steps out in the hall. Later on he was able to recount every word that passed between them.

She dreaded to go out of an evening, leaving him at home while she visited a sick friend. When she returned she was sure to find the cover of her bandbox awry, the contents of the bureau drawers topsy-turvy. Even the few shirts which she had made as a donation and corduroy are the thing. Fourteen buttons are the height of all button boots this winter. Few lace ones are for the poor had been overhauled, evidently, and thrust back in the box, which she found among his belongings. But after all she knows his heart's all right. He is so loving, kind and true that like a good wife she must overlook his little faults and do her best, by having patience with him to help him overcome them. She argues that after all what is of interest to the wife is of absorbing interest to the husband.

WONDERFUL PROGRESS MADE BY CHINESE

Have Advanced More in Five Years Than Japan in Ten, Says Dr. W. Taylor.

That nearly all the apprehension that the Chinese will not be able to successfully direct the destinies of the new republic has arisen through the apathy of England and Japan towards the republican form of government, is the opinion of Rev. Dr. W. E. Taylor, M. A., of Shanghai, who preached twice in this city Sunday, and is now touring Canada and Great Britain with a view to inducing the authorties to extend an invitation to the Chinese Government to send picked Chinese students to the Canadian and British universities.

Dr. Taylor is a graduate of Toronto University, and was the first to obtain a Ph. D. degree from his alma mater. Japan, on the one hand, in the opinion of Dr. Taylor, fears that if the Chinese republic is successful, the example will be bad for the more radical and revolutionary spirits of Japan, who may be influenced towards overturning the imperial government and setting a republic in the sunrise England's Situation.

England, on the other hand, fears the success of the Chinese republic because the example will be bad for the Indian students. If China can set up and successfully manage a republic. Why not India, whose people are on the whole much better educated and better trained than the Chi-

LONDON INTERMEDIATES LOSE IN LAST MINUTE OF PARIS GAME

Were Leading All Through the Contest Until the Last Few Seconds, When Paris Tied the Score and Won Out in the Overtime.

[BY JINX.]
Paris, Jan. 22.—One tiny little minute was all that stood between the London intermediates and victory in tonight's game with the Paris team, but in that last 60 seconds of play the laurel wreath was snatched from them by a lucky shot from the side, and Paris scored the goal that tied the game, while the rink rafters trembled with the mighty sound that issued from 1,500 Paris throats. In the last minute of the ten minutes' overtime. Paris scored again, and the crowd went home proclaiming the wearers of the black and green district winners of O. H. A. group No. 9, by the close score of 10 to 9. It was the luckiest win that the Paris players will likely ever be credited with. There was no doubt that London played the better game, and appeared to be the better team, but the uncertainty of hockey played an important part in the result, and although the Paris fans suffered from divers forms of heart disease during the process of overtaking London's big lead, gained in the first half, they are thanking their lucky stars that Paris won out.

It was undoubtedly the greatest hockey match ever witnessed in Paris, and will live long in the memory of those who saw it, and those who played in it. The players travelled at top speed all the way through, London seemingly standing the pace better than Paris. But the London team made one mistake. After obtaining a lead of four goals at half-time, running in nine goals to five scored by Paris, by playing brilliantly on the aggressive, they changed their tactics in the second half and played on the defensive. That is why they lost, that, and the refereeing of Allan Kinder. of this district of the Ontarlo Hockey

A HARD GAME TO LOSE.

To the London players it was the hardest game that they have ever had the misfortune to lose, especially after leading all the way until the very last minute. They were battling against great odds, and just when they thought they had conquered, the game was lost. In that moment when the triumph of victory was plunged into the despair of defeat, they lost heart. and when they went in to play the overtime they were a beaten bunch.

The result would have been different had Mr. Allan Kinder given real imitation of a referee. As it was the way he officiated would be mildly ments in the gore of this hamlet and termed if labelled the "quintessence of punkness." As a home-team referee flaunted the crimson in the faces of the he was there with the goods, but as a square, upright and justice-giving defeated forces.

Official, with the interests of the game at heart, he was sadly lacking, and London men v the London players suffered as a result. Allan Kinder is a good referee. his past performances forcing the admittance, but he certainly had an offnight, the threats of the Paris crowd, no doubt, having something to do with it. Three London players were deliberately struck by Paris players, and each sustained injuries that were dressed by a doctor after the game. yet not a Paris player was benched for any of the offences. It was evidently the intention of the Paris team to win at all costs, and when they found it necessary to fall back on dirty tactics, they slashed right and left. while Mr. Kinder looked calmly

And the only penalties handed out to the Paris players were for minor offences, about three Paris men being sent off the ice during the whole game.

Starting with a speed that almost dazzled the Paris players spectators alike, the London team out-skated, out-played and out-checked their opponents at all times, and before the second half the Paris rooters were urging their team on to rough tactics. London scored nine goals in their opponents at all times, and statics. London scored nine goals in the first half, their combination work and the individual rushes of Mc-Avoy, Leeky and Wagner contributing to the score. When the London forward line started, there was nothing to it but a goal, and the same can be said of Wagner when he got away to a rush. When the half score by keeping religiously away to according to the spirits of the Paris rooters were about fifty degrees below zero from his position. Several times Lankin, McGeoch and other of his playmates and sinking still lower.

Then the second half opened, and London's brilliant, aggressive work managed to get through to within she was absent. In its stead, a hard-fighting, back-checking bunch of players ing distance of the Woodstock net. Then the second half opened, and London's brilliant, aggressive work tried to defend the London goal, while Paris was taking the initiative. PARIS BEGINS TO CLIMB.

It was not long before Paris scored, and then came ...nother. don then tried some combination, but they seemed to have outskated their stride, as the puck was generally chased into a corner before the shot was made. With the core nine to eight and only one minute to play, it did look as though London would win out, but Old Father Time was not

Shortly after, W. Peebles, the Paris point player, strained a tendon in his leg, and he was forced to retire. Beattle Martin, who was holding point position for the London team, and incidentally playing his first O. H. A. game, went off to even up, and the rest of the game was played with six men a side. This new state of affairs seemed to help the London players, as it gave them more runs for individual and combination work. Munro notched the second for London and McAvoy came back a short time later with another.

LONDON PLAYING GREAT GAME. . At this stage, the London team was skating up and down the ice with the puck in a manner that even the Paris fans had to admire. a Paris player got the puck, which was seldom, it was promptly taken away from him and heaved in the direction of the Paris goal. Lecky worked in a few individual rushes and a couple of more goals counted. Paris, meanwhile, managed to land a couple of lucky ones past Watts, the first going in on a puck-off in front of the goal, and the second one falling into the nets when Wagner checked Graham, the puck going into the air and landing in the goal. Collins landed another for London, and a minute later repeated. Wagner then took a hand in the scoring, and after a brilliant individual rush, during which every man on the Paris team undertook to check him, he counted London's eighth. The last goal came on a nice combination play. McAvoy heaving the rubber into the twine Lecky was hurt at this stage, while Fraser, the Paris goalkeeper, was sent off for tripping McAvoy, two of London's goals being scored while he was off. Paris scored twice before the half ended, and when the bell rang London was leading by the score of 9 to 5.

Then that awful second half began. It was soon apparent that the game would be the fastest ever witnessed in Paris, for both teams started out at a faster clip than that of the first period. With London playing on the defensive, Paris was getting all kinds of opportunities to shoot on the Finally, the puck was placed behind Watts, and the crowd yelled for Paris to come on. The coming on part was rather slow, however, and it began to look as though London would score a couple before the Paris team recovered from the effects of their tally. Fraser was on the job, however, and he made some great stops. "Stinger" Munro was sent off at this stage for slashing back at a Paris player, who had slashed him. With him off, Paris slashing back at a Paris player, who had slashed him. With him oil, Paris his reputation by shooting prettly into E. L. The next goal was a little longer in coming, and there was a dispute when it did come. The London team claimed that it had not gone in, but Goal Umpire Fraser, a brother of the Paris goalkeeper, maintained that it had, counted. and, although a discuss

MUNRO SUFFERS PENALTIES. Munro made another trip to the box, although it was not very apparent just what excuse Kinder had for penalizing him. Paris could not score, however, and the minutes narrowed down until only a few were left. The Paris crowd were shouting themselves hoarse in an effort to wake the team up, and the players themselves were doing their best to even the game. Munro went on again, and had only been back a short time when a Paris player tripped him. In falling, "Stinger" fell against another Paris man, and the two of them went down. Kinder, to please the crowd, who yelled that Munro was dirty and should be put off, sent Tommy to the penalty box again, despite the latter's protests.

There was only two minutes to play, and London was still leading, with the score 9 to 8. With one minute to play, the puck was chased into London territory, and on a shot from the side it landed in the London goal. The final bell rang right after the puck-off. Five minutes' overtime was played each way, and only in the last minute did Paris notch the winning goal.

For London, Lecky McAvov and Wagner were particularly good, while Watts put up a remarkable exhibition in goal, his splendid stopping preventing the Paris team from walking away with an easy vctory. Munro and Collins held down the wing in fine shape.

MUNRO BORN IN PARIS. Paris is Munro's home town, he having been born there, and he is well known in that section. The crowd kept roasting him at every opportunity and whenever he was sent off they seemed to take special delight. Beattle Martin was only in the game a few minutes, but he showed up pretty well. For Paris, the Gill brothers, and Graham were the stars, while Fraser played well in goal. The injury to Peebles seemed to disorganize the Paris team at the start, but they got accustomed to his absence in the latter stages of the game.

However, the innumerable chances thrown to the visitors egabled them to run up a count that could not be overcome, and while it has cost the London outfit the championship of this district, they have possibly gleaned some knowledge of how the game should and should not be played from their contact with

In the second half, however, McKay edeemed himself to an extent, and dem instrated clearly that he was at fault in the first period by working his job ac-cording to the accepted dope, and as-fast enough, and Paris scored while a few seconds yet remained.

Bruised and battered, the London team returned to the ice for the overtime, but the splendid goal-keeping of Fraser, combined with the energetic work of the Paris forward line, was too much, and the game went to the black and green.

When the puck was faced-off, London rushed the play into Paris terbitory, and in less than a minute Jerry Collins scored on a nice shot from the side. Paris came right back, however, and evened up a minute later. The was not inclined to rough it with his opponents his checking and work on the boards assisted greatly.

Listlessness on the part of the home folks was again in evidence, and the presentation of the district honors to the isitors commenced. Those in Use in the Schools of London Are for the Most Part Out of Date. A four-room addition to the Aberdeen school will be recommended by No. 2 committee of the board of education as a result of a tour of inspection made by them Monday afternoon The whole committee, accompanied by Chairman John M. Gunn, of the poard, made an inspection of various chools. The first visited was the Kensington Mission in West London, where temporary arrangements have been made to relieve the crowding in the Empress avenue school. Then Empress avenue. Talbot street, Princess aveque, Aberdeen and Rectory street schools were visited in turn.

In all, the heating systems horoughly examined, and the majority of the members condemned the oldashioned methods, declaring that the ity was losing considerable money each year, owing to the out-of-date plan of heating. The Rectory street plant has been mproved, and is working admirably

Finds It Impossible to Get Out Before That Time.

The Royal Bank of Canada will not be given possession of the city hall on Feb. 1, as was agreed upon som time ago.

The city hall, according to agreement of sale, was to have been handed over to the bank on Jan. 1. However, owing to the elections, and other work, it was found impossible to do so, and Feb. 1 was set as the date.

It has been found impossible, how ever, to have quarters ready for the various officials by that time, and as a result it will in all probability be March 1 before the city officials are placed in their new quarters.

"It is out of the question to turn the hall over by the beginning of the month," declared Mayor Graham. will take some time to prepare the upstairs portion for occupation. is no question but that it will be a month longer before the Royal Bank occupy quarters in the city hall.'

Former Governor-General of the Dominion Presented With a High Honor.

[Canadian Press.]

London, Jan. 23.—Earl Grey, former governor-general of Canada, was today presented with the freedom of the city London. The ceremony took place th the usual picturesque historic Earl Grey is the third member of his family to receive the honor of the freedom of the city of London. This forms a precedent in the annels of the ancient city. The first earl, who was a distinguished general, was awarded the freedom after he had conducted a successful West Indian campaign, while the present earl's grandfather received the distinction for his efforts as premier on behalf of the great reform bill, enfranchising the majority of the people of Great Britain and Ireland.

Earl Grey in the course of a speech in which he thanked the corporation of the city of London for the conferment of its freedom on him, said that he refer the city of London for the conferment of its freedom on him, said that he refer the first the city of London for the conferment of its freedom on him, said that he refer the first the hole burned in my foot had been quite healed."

Mr. W. B. Gibson, of Belleville, Earl Grey is the third member of his Much Damage Done In a Clar-

the city of London for the conferment of its freedom on him, said that he recognized that it was the desire of the city of London to do the fullest honor in its power to the spirit of the people of Canada, which some day was destined to be a controlling part of the British Empire.

The following is an unsolicited letter from a prominent citizen of Ot-

R. roadbed between Montreal and Detroit, either by day or night, permitting during daylight travel rest and relaxation and by night refreshing and sound sleep.

"In these days of extravagant claims as to superiority it seems to me only fair, when conditions are found to warrant it, that 'praise be flooded, but the water overflowed the given where praise is due. Hence

A Simple Way to Reduce Wrinkles

(From the Home Maker.) Bear in mind that wrinkles, as wel as bagginess of cheek or chin, are due to the muscular tissue losing its strength and shrinking. The skin is then too large in area to fit such tissue smoothly. It wrinkles or sags. To remedy this condition there's nothing so effective, so quick-acting as a simple wash lotion you can easily | greatly reduced prices. make at home. Get an ounce powdered saxolite at your druggist's, each week. and a haif pint witch hazel, mix the two and bathe your face in the liquid. This treatment at once tightens the skin and solidifies the underlying tissue-which, of course, smoothes out the lines and draws in the sagging skin.

HOW TO DESTROY THE DANDRUFF GERM

It also stimulates circulation, bringing natural color to faded cheeks.

That the dandruff germ is responsible horse, the animal freed itself, only to be caught again after a short run. Mr. Kilpatrick escaped unhurt, but has suffered the loss of his cutter and set of harness.

That the dangth is responsible for nearly all the diseases to which the for worst cases of catarrh and consumption, we appreciate the importance of any agent that will destroy its power. We are, therefore, particularly pleased to give herewith the prescription which an eminent scientist states he has found, after repeated tests, to completely de stroy the dandruff germ in from one to stroy the dandruli germ in hold of the three applications. It will also almost immediately stop falling hair, and it has in numerous cases produced a new hair-growth after years of baldness. This prescription can be made up at home, or any druggist will put it up for you: Six ounces Bay Rum, two ounces Lavona de Composee, one-half drachm Menthol Crystals. Mix thoroughly, and after standing half an hour it is ready for use. Apply night and morning, rubbing into the scalp with the finger-tips. If you wish it perfumed, add half a teaspoonful of To-Kalon Perfume, which unites perfectly with the other ingredients. While this preparation is not a dye, it is unequaled for restoring gray hair to its original color. It will also alm three applications.

CAUTION: Do not apply where hair not desired, and be sure to avoid tonics containing poisonous wood alcohol.
