ALDERMEN APPROVE OF CHIEF'S DECISION

Aitken Dismisses Fireman
Graham After Court Conviction.

EFFECTIVE TONIGHT

Bylaw Is Cited in Support of
Order To Dismiss
Fireman.

Chief Aitken, chief of the London fire department, in accordance with clause 21 of the fire bylaw, has dismissed Fireman Benjamin Graham, following his conviction in the county court. The dismissal order is effective at 6 o'clock tonight.

Clause 21 of the fire bylaws reads: "Any member or officer of the fire department who shall become intoxicated while on duty or bring liquor into any of the fire halls, or be convicted by any court of competent jurisdiction of intoxication, disorderly or improper conduct, while on duty or off duty, shall be dismissed from the service by the chief."

Fireman Graham was convicted yesterday of common assault and of being under the influence of liquor. He struck James Smith near White's bridge, the youth having refused to have a soft drink with him, and broke his nose. He admitted in court that he had had a few drinks at the time.

In this instance, as in the case of Fireman George Scott and Fred Kerr, the chief has the backing of the majority of the fire committee. Aid Douglas, the chairman, and John Anderson and Edwin Smith, state their full and entire agreement with the action of Chief Aitken in this case.

Chief Aitken makes no bones about his attitude. He supports the chief in his application of the fire bylaws and says so unambiguously. "If the city is to get full value for the money it has invested in its fire department, and if we are to get the efficiency to which we are entitled to from the department, the chief must be the supreme officer. In carrying out the fire bylaws he is entitled to the fullest support of the city council, and, as far as I am concerned, will get it."

Demands Better Support.
"In the past the chief has not got the support to which he is entitled from the council, which has not been in the best interests either of the force or of the city. The attitude of George Scott and Fred Kerr, who appeared before the fire committee a few days ago to answer a somewhat similar charge, proves that things are not right at the central fire hall. It also shows that the fire committee has been too lenient with the men who have been guilty of infractions of the bylaw."

"The support which I as an alderman am ready to lend the chief in putting things right and in a more businesslike condition at the fire hall includes not only the men on the force, but the officers as well. There is no good having a head of a department which is not supported."

GIRL UNFOLDS TERRIBLE TALE

London Youths, Charged With Serious Crimes, Get Preliminary Hearing.

A pretty young girl of London West unfolded a tale in police court this morning, such as has been seldom heard inside those dingy walls. She told the same tale to Crown Attorney Albert M. Judd last week, with the result that Thomas Fox faced a charge of rape when he appeared before Magistrate Gladman.

Both young men, defended by Albert Murphy, will be tried at the supreme court sittings before Mr. Justice Riddell, Oct. 13 next, the evidence today being in the nature of a preliminary hearing.

The girl's evidence was taken late this morning, court being adjourned at 1 o'clock just shortly after Mr. Murphy had commenced his cross-examination.

The evidence of Dr. Robert Ferguson was taken in both cases before the girl was called to tell what happened on the night of July 28. The doctor told of making a medical examination of both sides with the result that he was satisfied that the girl was a virgin.

GAMBLING MUST CEASE IN HAMILTON, SAYS JELFS

Canadian Press Despatch. Hamilton, Aug. 7.—Gambling in Hamilton, says Police Magistrate Jelfs, must be stopped, and a man's physical defects will not be accepted as an excuse for conducting a hand-book. A. H. San Francisco Society Is Unaware That It Harbored Fugitive Deputy Treasurer.

NAME NOT REVEALED

Found "George Gray" Charming, Clever and Good-Looking Gentleman.

By HARRY BERGOVICH, Special to The Advertiser.

San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 7.—During his stay in this city, Charles Matthews Jun. was sheltered for three months by a former Canadian family, the members of which are prominent residents of San Francisco. He was introduced into local society, and more than one member of the social set were probably shocked when they learned a week ago that the charming and good-looking "George Gray," Canadian gentleman, had been a fugitive from justice.

Matthews previously maintained that he lived in cheap hotels for the three months that he had stayed here. He would only disclose the identity of his benefactors here on the condition that their names be not revealed. They had been so kind to him, he said, and he stated that he did not wish to drag them into this awful mess.

Brown said that he had not known Matthews before, nor ever heard of him until he read an ad. which the prisoner had placed in a paper, stating that he would like to meet and live with a good Canadian family.

Matthews impressed them as being a very clever fellow, and he believed that he was working in some downtown office in the day time. At night he was attending business college, keeping up his typing and shorthand.

Some friends have many San Francisco friends. They entertain considerably, and visitors were always impressed by their quiet, tanned and well-groomed appearance. Matthews had not yet purchased the shabby corduroy trousers and flannel shirt which he was wearing when he was captured in Santa Clara trying to frankfrank.

Mr. Brown bought a Canadian paper every month so she always did her husband said, just to see how things were going in Canada. She read with interest all of the news in the paper, and was particularly interested in the government affairs from which Matthews had fled many hundreds of miles and left family and friends to live a new life.

She was struck by the likeness of a picture in a Toronto paper and their friend, George Matthews. One day the fact was mentioned to Matthews by Brown. He confessed in confidence that he was the same man and placed himself at the mercy of the family which had been so very kind to him.

RANEY ASKS PLEBISCITE BALLOT BE SIMPLIFIED

Wants Question To Be "Are You in Favor of Prohibition?"

SCORES FERGUSON

Former Attorney-General Objects to Cross-Examination of Electors.

Canadian Press Despatch. Toronto, Aug. 7.—In another open letter to Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, prime minister of Ontario, Hon. W. E. Raney, former attorney-general, declares that the only question to be submitted to the electors of Ontario in the plebiscite in October next should be the simple one: "Are you in favor of prohibition?"

Mr. Raney gives the opinion that whatever answer is given by the people of Ontario to this question will give a definite indication to the Legislature and leave that body free to strengthen the present Ontario temperance act as may be thought desirable. The ballot paper, says Mr. Raney, should not be a "cross-examination for the electors."

Toronto, Aug. 7. I hate to trouble you again in the dog-days (particularly as my last letter appears to have irritated you), but really you brought it on yourself when you refused to permit the Legislature to settle the form of the questions to be printed on your plebiscite ballot paper. Having been denied the opportunity to discuss this matter in the house, I propose to address myself to it now.

The first question ought not, I think, to be that forecasted the other day by one of your journalistic supporters in this city: "Are you in favor of the Ontario temperance act?" Though the act has been strengthened at almost every session of the Legislature since 1916, it is still not a perfect law. For instance, the prescription sections are not ideal either from the point of view of the general public or from that of the medical profession, and it may well be that the Legislature may in the future modify those sections.

Some electors otherwise friendly to prohibition would probably feel so. Please See Page 2, Column 6.

The old C. P. R. telegraph line from the depot included a thick network of overhead wires along Wellington street to Dundas, then west to Richmond and south to the company's office. The overhead poles of the company for two blocks on Dundas and for almost a block on Richmond street were to be removed. The C. P. R. depot direct down Richmond street to the company's office in the Dominion Savings Building.

The Bell Telephone Company, with a staff of eight men, is carrying on the work of transferring the wires from the poles to the duct on behalf of the telegraph company and the commission.

It is understood that the public utilities poles on Wellington street will be done away with and the higher poles of the C. P. R. used in their stead. This arrangement has been made in exchange for the use of underground hydro ducts by the C. P. R.

Several other improvements in wiring are expected in the downtown blocks, within the next week or so, and in that event overhead wires will be practically eliminated.

MACHINERY AT WORK

Canadian Press Despatch. Toronto, Ont., Aug. 7.—A special despatch from Los Angeles, California, to a Toronto newspaper says: "Another chapter of the Ontario treasury scandals is being closed here. Andrew Harvey Pepall, who was mentioned in connection with the Aemilius Jarvis transaction and who has been fighting extradition and deportation strenuously for months, has been recommended for deportation as 'an alien who entered the country without submitting to inspection, and who was convicted or admits the commission of a felony, or other crimes and misdemeanors involving moral turpitude.'"

Walter Carr, superintendent of the U. S. immigration department, in charge of this district, said that papers in the case, including the findings of the deputy assigned to hear the proceedings, had been sent to Washington for action a few days ago. He said on the showing made he could see nothing but the deportation of Pepall. His family must go with him.

"Pepall a few days ago purchased a $25,000 residence, and occupies rather an influential position in club and business circles. He is president of the Long Beach Glass Company, of the R. L. Donley Manufacturing Company and a director of the Globe Petroleum Company. Secretary-treasurer of the See Candy Company and director of the Southwest Petroleum Company. What is more to the point, in consideration of the machinery by which he must be deported before the immigration department, Pepall is strong with certain political factions having powerful pulls in Washington."

52 PER OF NEW ZEALAND'S PEOPLE SERVED BY HYDRO

Associated Press Despatch. Wellington, N. Z., Aug. 7.—With reference to the progress of hydro-electric power in New Zealand, the minister of public works, J. G. Coates, states that there are thirty-six electric power boards in the country, covering an area of 55,414 square miles, or 56 per cent of the total area of the dominion.

The population served by the hydro-electric power boards totals 661,567, or 52 per cent of the entire population of New Zealand, according to the minister of public works. The plants in operation at the present time aggregate 26,000 horsepower, while those under construction will total 130,000 horsepower.

Removal of Thick Network Of Telegraph Lines Will Further Beautify Streets

Overhead Wires From C.P.R. Station to Downtown Office Soon To Disappear.

NEW SWITCHBOARD

Despatches Are Now Being Carried in Utilities Underground Cable.

Overhead wires, used by telegraph, telephone and electric power corporations in London's downtown streets for years, are soon to be no more. The telephone and power lines have long since been placed underground. The telegraph lines have remained until now. They, too, will pass out, and the Morse code will be carried underground so far as business districts are concerned.

The voice that has flashed through the air millions of times faster than the homing pigeon, is now routed by underground cable, as invisible to the eye of the pedestrian as atomic energy.

Today the C. P. R. telegraph system changed its route from the depot to its downtown office. Despatches are now being carried on the local public utilities underground cable from the C. P. R. depot direct down Richmond street to the company's office in the Dominion Savings Building.

The old C. P. R. telegraph line from the depot included a thick network of overhead wires along Wellington street to Dundas, then west to Richmond and south to the company's office. SCORCHING DAY IN NEW YORK.
Associated Press Despatch. New York, Aug. 7.—New York endured another scorching day, with temperature at 82 at 10 o'clock, the same as reported yesterday. The humidity had fallen from 79 to 76. No records are being broken today, however, as the thermometer reached 102 on Aug. 7, 1918. Two deaths, one a case of suicide, and more than a score of prostrations, have been reported in 24 hours. Most of the city's millions seemed to have forsaken the tenements during the night and thronged parks and beaches. Special officers were assigned to the streets and immediately went into a deep sleep, but they may survive.

The liquor was seized in a raid last night. "This is the sort of stuff that causes a rabbit to spit in a bulldog's face," said Coroner Hoffman. "Men who get a shot or two of the booze are ready to go out on the streets and commit any crime."

There were two 100-gallon stills, 115 gallons of mash and 500 gallons of "white mule" seized last night.

"Hootch" Sold Kills Rabbit

White Rats May Survive Stuff Made For Humans.

Chicago, Aug. 7.—Some idea of the potency of the stuff being peddled in Chicago as whiskey was gained yesterday when three ounces of the stuff was given a rabbit. The unfortunate bunny expired within a half hour in extreme agony.

Two white rats were given a taste of the stuff, and the next morning went into a deep sleep, but they may survive.

The liquor was seized in a raid last night. "This is the sort of stuff that causes a rabbit to spit in a bulldog's face," said Coroner Hoffman. "Men who get a shot or two of the booze are ready to go out on the streets and commit any crime."

FIREMEN DISCOVER NO BLAZE AFTER RUN

The fire department was called to the Reid Paper Box Company, Nightingale avenue, early this morning, only to find there was no reason for the call. Chief Aitken stated this morning that he thought it was defective wiring in the private alarm at the plant which caused the alarm to ring.

The run was made in record time and a thorough search of the building made, but no fire was discovered.

German Officials Pay Visit to Herriot at Hyde Park Hotel Today.

Associated Press Despatch. London, Aug. 7.—The allies and the Germans have reached a complete agreement on the manner in which defaults are to be declared under the Dawes plan.

Associated Press Despatch. London, Aug. 7.—After this morning's meeting of the "big four" of the international conference on reparations, a French spokesman said that Germany was in sight by which agreement would be allowed to address the inter-allied reparations commission, should she be adjudged in default under the Dawes plan.

It was emphasized by this informant that concessions would be accorded Germany as a privilege rather than as a right, and that the final determination of Germany's possible default must remain strictly an allied affair. On this point the French spokesman was optimistic that the Germans would accept the agreement reached by the allied delegates among themselves before the Germans were invited to London.

The council of four, which adopted the full text of the report of the first committee of the inter-allied conference. The council will meet again at 5 p.m. to take up the report of the third committee.

Chancellor Marx, Foreign Secretary Stresemann, and Finance Minister Luther of Germany will be followed by the semi-official Havas Agency arrived at Hyde Park Hotel and paid a visit to Herriot of France. The visit of the German government representatives to the French president was of a strictly formal character, says Havas Agency says, but it is evident that the world followed by an exchange of views on the principal questions of interest to France and Germany in connection with the inter-allied conference now being held in London.

Seattle Would Honor Major MacLaren on Return of American Airmen.

Associated Press Despatch. Seattle, Wash., Aug. 7.—An invitation to attend a celebration in Seattle about the last of this month for the United States army aviators on completion of their 27,000-mile circuit of the earth, has been extended to Major A. Stuart MacLaren, commander of the British round-the-world expedition, by the Seattle Chamber of Commerce. Major MacLaren and his companions, who were forced to abandon their world flight when the engine of their plane failed and the machine was damaged beyond repair last Saturday off Berling Island, are en route to Vancouver. The Seattle invitation requested Major MacLaren and his companions to be honored guests of the city on the celebration for the United States fliers.

GERMAN OBJECTIONS SERIOUS, SAY PRESS

Finds Stumbling Block in Protocol Dealing With Deliveries of Reparations.

London, Aug. 7.—In a lengthy summary of the German memorandum to the international conference the diplomatic correspondent of the Daily Telegraph today says that some of the objections raised by the Berlin delegates are serious, especially that regarding the protocol of the third commission, which deals with deliveries in kind and transfers of reparations.

The German critics in this respect, he says, "goes amazingly far, and is wholly destructive of the conclusions reached by the third commission and the conference."

Among other things, the Germans insist, according to the correspondent, upon the right of appeal against the program for deliveries in kind to be elaborated by the reparations commission and the bodies emanating therefrom.

Even Children Tire of Using Barrel Structure For Gymnastics.

The pontoon bridge, constructed at Beecher's Island swimming camp, recently has come in for great use and is considered a valuable adjunct to patronage. The bridge was built a month ago in order that people could gain access from the west bank of the Thames River to the swimming camp on the east side of the river. One night this week there were as many as fifteen cars parked on the west bank of the river.

The "barrel bridge" is standing up well to its constant usage, and the playgrounds children are showing more respect for it than at first when it was considered only as a useful bit of gymnastic apparatus.

2,432 SCIENTISTS IN ASSOCIATION

Reading of Twenty-Six Papers Occupies Morning Session of Great Convention.

Canadian Press Despatch.
Business of the various sections of the British Association for the Advancement of Science began this morning with the reading of 26 papers which treated widely diversified subjects. One of the most interesting papers was the report of the committee on educational training in the secondary schools of Great Britain for life overseas. The work of the schools is one in which the Prince of Wales is deeply interested, and he particularly referred to it in the cable which he sent to the inaugural meeting of the association at Convocation Hall last night.

Memberships in the British Association to the number of 2,432 for the Toronto meeting were issued yesterday. This figure assures the success of the conference, as far as figures can be taken as a criterion, in the opinion of Secretary O. J. R. Howarth. When the association last met in Toronto in 1897, the total attendance was 1,362, and at the first Canadian meeting in Montreal in 1884, 1,777 people affiliated.

Some 573 tickets were issued in England for the overseas party. This raises the original estimate of 540.

PAINTER APPRECIATES QUALITY OF WORK

Stops To Admire Fine Finish Inside Utilities Building.

There are those who haven't fancied the glossy steel work, imitation mahogany and quartered oak, which adorns the fireproof chambers within the public utilities building. It wasn't just done tastefully, they have criticized. But one citizen, and a painter at that, paid a considerable tribute to the excellency of the workmanship of the steel casing.

He came to one of the offices in the three-story edifice looking for a position as a painter.

That's a lovely finish on that woodwork, looks almost like a fine piano finish," he ejaculated as he paused to admire the steel work.

Oh, that's just varnished steel work," he was told—and felt a bit taken back.

COURT DISMISSES CHARGE OF BREWING

Frank Waldeck Appears on Two Counts, But Evidence Is Insufficient.

Frank Waldeck, charged with brewing without a license or giving notice to the inland revenue department, was discharged on two counts by Magistrate Gladman this morning. Inspector Cecil Webbe, of the inland revenue department, told of visiting Waldeck's home on July 14, finding six quart bottles, one pint bottle and two one-gallon jars of some brew, as well as a capping machine with caps and corks.

Mr. Henderson also submitted that the charge of Waldeck having brewing apparatus in his possession should also be dismissed, contending that a capping machine and corks could not be called brewing utensils. Two large crocks found on the premises were also used for pickles or eggs. Mr. Henderson declared the court agreed with Mr. Henderson and the second time, and this charge was also dismissed.

TREATY IS FAKE, SAYS L. GEORGE

British Press Backs the Former Premier in Condemnation of Russian Pact.

ISSUES UNDECIDED

Associated Press Despatch.
London, Aug. 7.—This treaty is a fake, a contract in which every essential figure is omitted, exclaimed the former Premier Lloyd George in the House of Commons last night in the course of a sharp criticism of the proposed treaty with Soviet Russia.

His phrase is endorsed by the majority of the morning newspapers, which fully share in the amazement with which the Conservatives and most of the Liberals received the announcement by Arthur Ponsonby, under-secretary for foreign affairs, that a commercial treaty and a general treaty had been arranged with the Soviets.

There is one favorable comment, the Daily Herald, Labor organ, naturally welcoming the happy results with "greatest satisfaction." The Daily News, Liberal, thinks that "to have arrived at any agreement with the Soviet delegation is a very considerable achievement, for which praise is due," but it withholds definite opinion of the merits and possibilities of the treaties, pending fuller explanation of their terms.

The Westminster Gazette, Liberal, without condemning the agreement, says the terms will need to be scrutinized carefully. "The arrangement," it says, "not only leaves the main issues practically undecided, but by raising expectations, which cannot be fulfilled, it endangers any slight prospect there might be of improved relations with the Soviets."

The Daily Mail expresses indignation, and recalls that Mr. Ponsonby, of the question for the government to guarantee a loan. The Daily Chronicle, supporter of Lloyd George, cannot recall "any government ever treating parliament in a worse manner in a great issue of foreign affairs."

The astonishing and sudden change from an announcement of a breakdown of negotiations to the reaching of an agreement is attributed to the special efforts of Premier MacDonald and the trade unions.

WOULD OMIT "BRITISH" IN LIABILITY COMPANIES

English Conservative Introduces Bill Authorizing Limitations in This Respect.

London, Aug. 6.—The objectionable incorporation of the word "British" in the titles of limited liability companies led J. R. Remer, Conservative member for the Macclesfield division of Cheshire, to introduce a bill in the House of Commons which was read a first time last night, authorizing the board of trade to impose limitations in this respect.

Remer said there were public companies that ostensibly were British but were simply cloaking their foreign nationality under the title "British." He cited the case of a recently-registered concern with three directors, one of whom was an unnaturalized Russian who held eight-ninths of the share capital, another a Lithuanian and the third a naturalized citizen of the United States born in Russia. This company dealt in the bill introduced by Mr. Remer provides that where companies use the word "British" as part of their trading name, all the directors shall be of British nationality and 51 per cent of the shareholders shall be British born or British by naturalization.

"DICKIE" LOEB'S FRIENDS APPEAR

Three Young Women Called by Defence as First Character Witnesses.

Associated Press Despatch.
Chicago, Aug. 7.—Three young women, all friends of "Dickie" Loeb, have been called by the defence to appear today as the first character witnesses to be examined in augmenting the testimony mental experts have offered Judge John R. Caverly in mitigation of the penalty.

Loeb and Leopold must pay for kidnapping and murdering Robert Franks, Miss Lorraine Nathan, 18, pretty co-ed who was in Loeb's college freshman class, and to whom he wrote shortly after his confession, asking her pardon, her sister, Rosalind, and Miss Germaine K. Reinhardt, who has repeatedly visited the jail and declared her intention to help "Dickie," are ready to tell of any eccentricities which made him unusual. No girl friends appear for Leopold.

Former fellow students of the University of Michigan and University of Chicago, some of Loeb's fraternity brothers, relatives of his governess, and friends and relatives also will testify, defence counsel indicated.

Neither of the slayers will take the stand, but Foreman Leopold and Alvin Karpis, their brothers, will be called upon to identify pictures, and other exhibits which will be used in evidence.

Meanwhile Robert E. Crowe, state's attorney, who has contended since the start that a jury should try the youths on a plea of insanity, plans to continue his cross-examination attacks in an effort to show both are sane and not "emotionally childish," "paranoid personalities" and "victims of childish phantasies," as the defence has made them out.

The first identification of Loeb as the actual slayer of the Franks boy brought out in defence testimony a name yesterday when Dr. Bernard Glueck, of New York, the third mental pathologist to take the stand, said Loeb throughout had admitted to the expert that he, Loeb, struck the blow.

His notes, however, which the prosecutor demanded that he read, did not contain any direct reference to striking the death blow.

BLenheim MINISTER RESIGNS HIS CHARGE

Rev. Dr. J. F. Smith Plans Visit To Former Foreign Stations.

Special to The Advertiser.
Blenheim, Aug. 6.—Rev. Dr. J. F. Smith, for several years pastor of Erskine Presbyterian Church, informed his session and managing board at a special meeting that he had decided to resign his charge here and make a visit to his former mission fields. His statement was received with profound regret, not only by his congregation, but the public in general.

Dr. Smith's resignation will be in the hands of the Presbytery shortly, as he intends sailing for Japan on October 4. He was for several years a medical missionary in Japan, China and India. He became pastor here several years ago, following Rev. J. W. Curry. His wife, who passed away a few months ago, was with him on the foreign field.

Dr. Smith has taken an active part in the town's interest, and has been chairman of the public library board for some time.

CITY HALL RENOVATION IS NOW PROCEEDING

The paperhanging in the city engineer's office in the city hall and on the stairways will now go forward after the council has agreed to the work. Mayor Weir thought that this subject had never been discussed in committee, but he has minutes to show that it was.

"It seems useless," he said, "to do a little bit of work like this when the whole building needs overhauling, but I suppose a little is better than nothing. Every office in the building needs to be cleaned and decorated. They are a disgrace to the city."

Two parties of touring automobilists arrived in this city yesterday. One was Mr. Arthur Pock of Orchard Lake, Mich., who had a very large touring car, electric, and was eastbound. The other was a westbound gasoline car, travelling from New York City to Chicago. Speaking to The Advertiser, gentlemen in both parties were loud in their praise of Ontario roads.

D. McIntyre purchased on the local market a carload of live hogs, for which he paid $5.25 and $5.50 a hundredweight.

FEARS SENATORS MAY ELECT BRYAN

Lodge Warns Again Probable Deadlock in House Over Next President.

Associated Press Despatch.
Nahant, Mass., Aug. 7.—Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, in an address dictated from his sick-bed, and made public tonight, warns Republicans against what he terms the "calamity" of Governor Charles W. Bryan becoming president, as he said is very likely to happen if Coolidge fails to receive a majority of the electoral vote and the election is thrown into congress.

Lodge declared a deadlock probable in the house, and that if the election came to the senate "it is quite possible" that the two Farmer-Labor senators and others listed as Republicans would vote with the Democrats and elect Bryan.

THE BUSINESS ELEMENT.
Associated Press Despatch.
Washington, Aug. 7.—Conflicting assertions as to what the conservative business element of the Democratic party is going to do in the presidential campaign constitute one of the most interesting features of the contest at present. Republican leaders are diligently engaged in putting out the report that the conservative Democratic businessmen are going to support Coolidge instead of Davis, especially in New York and Ohio states.

The reasons which the Republicans assign for this prospective desertion of their party candidate by the Democratic business element is that the conservative Democrats fear Governor Bryan will bring Bryan into the White House.

Many observers here think the real campaign will be fought out in September and October, and that it will not be possible to catch the real drift or sentiment for six weeks or more.

SWIMMING TANK IS BEING CLEANED

Thames Park Supervisors Take Advantage of Cool Weather.

READY TOMORROW

With dull skies and cooler weather today supervisors of playgrounds took advantage of the "off" day in attendance to empty the Thames Park swimming pool. Attendance has been at its peak during recent sultry weather, but today a good opportunity was provided to clean out the pool without seriously impeding patronage.

Those in charge report that a good bit of suspended matter gets into the pool. Two beautiful overhanging trees that the playgrounds committee wouldn't do without for worlds, make a fine contribution of twigs and leaves. Youngsters come with feet that might be cleaner, but aren't into the wading pool and leave with zittering toes and so on.

Today the pool was emptied and the concrete work is being scraped and dusted. The pool will be ready for use again tomorrow when some five and a half million gallons are pumped into the huge reservoir.

The swimming pool, as well as the two supervised swimming camps in the Thames River, will remain open as long as weather permits. There is no specified closing date now as weather alone will govern. The camps will be supervised as long as they remain open.

PARENTS INDORSE ADOLESCENT ACT

Attendance Department Receiving Better Co-operation, States M. M. Sims.

Greater sympathy is being shown by parents for the adolescent school attendance act, according to M. M. Sims, school attendance officer. People are getting the idea that the school attendance department is a co-ordinating, useful department, instead of an adjunct to the police force.

"We have had only two requests so far for work permits for next year," Mr. Sims told The Advertiser. "However, no permits will be issued for another ten days."

The attendance officer believes that there is a lessening of requests for work permits and that there is more interest being shown in school studies.

HUNDREDS HEAR "FIERY IRISHMAN"

Revival Services of S. J. McConnell Prove Big Attraction.

CONVERTS GROW

Came the sound of hundreds of voices, singing as one great voice of revival choruses over and over again—singing, shouting, shouting, shouting, with voices lusty and vigorous and with feeling. There were fervent supplications from leaders in prayer, attestations by hundreds of fifteen, their hands and their souls to heaven as they prayed and rejoiced. And several hundred people, filling a marquee, at the corner of William and Dundas streets, as the rain poured in torrents outside, listened in awe and with rapt attention to the "Fiery Irishman," S. J. McConnell, an evangelist, who is conducting an evangelistic campaign for the Pentecostal Mission.

That was the tribute paid the revival meeting of the "Fiery Irishman" last night. There was no faith healing of physical ills apparent, but a faith healing was announced for Friday afternoon and evening. The revivalists said that one thing is certain: Things that were prophesied in the Bible have become realities. Space is being cut. All the lost tribes of Israel have been reached by the word of God. In only a few months there will be no excuse for people saying that they have not heard the gospel message of Christ's coming. Then will the world be prepared for Christ's coming.

For eighteen centuries has the earth been visited by the word of God. Plagues, wars, devastation, immorality, lust, division of Christians by sectarianism, have all come to pass, as prophesied in the Bible. The time has come when all people have reached the end of the world. The time has come when all people have reached the end of the world. The time has come when all people have reached the end of the world.

World's End Uncertain.

"When and how the world will come to an end I will not attempt to prophesy," said the evangelist, in recounting prophecies of the Bible in his address on "Signs of the Times." But one thing is certain: Things that were prophesied in the Bible have become realities. Space is being cut. All the lost tribes of Israel have been reached by the word of God. In only a few months there will be no excuse for people saying that they have not heard the gospel message of Christ's coming. Then will the world be prepared for Christ's coming.

Centuries of Progress.

"Centuries of progress have been made in the last fifty years. Coming to us are great advances in the thousands of inventions and the many great scientific developments—the telephone, the newspaper, the radio, the aeroplane, the electric locomotive. Modern inventions provided the all-necessary withal to broadcast the gospel of Christ's coming. The lost tribes have been located. The aid of man's inventions from God-given ideas.

"Soon aeroplanes without engines would glide from the ground, anchored in the air or at office windows, and from their carriages would sound phonographic records of gospel sermons. There would no longer be excuse for any people not knowing of Christianity. "All these things were written in the Bible. They are easy enough to interpret, if one only has sufficient belief in God. They are the signs of the times, and they have come to pass."

Farm Buildings Are Burned by Lightningbolt Near Simcoe.

Special to The Advertiser.

Windsor, Aug. 6.—Trees crashing into windows of homes along Windsor's main residential streets, automobiles blown for several blocks and windows blown in by wind or broken by hail, figured in the eccentricities of a violent storm which broke over this city today causing at least two serious accidents.

Bernice Wilson, 13, and Ernest Wilson, her brother, 16, 149 Wellington avenue, suffered serious injuries in Wyandotte Street Park, when struck by a large plank hurled by the wind. The girl's left ear was almost torn off and her body bruised. Ernest suffered a possible fractured skull and internal injuries.

The auto of Dr. H. I. Wiley, who attended the victims in Grace Hospital, was blown several blocks.

HEAVY HAILSTORM.

Special to The Advertiser.

Chatham, Aug. 6.—So far as could be learned, no serious damage was occasioned by a severe storm, at times resembling a cyclone, which broke over this district this afternoon. Heavy rains, approaching a cloudburst, followed thunder and sharp lightning. Hail fell over the district, and at Kent Centre, the hailstones were as big as eggs, breaking windows of the dwellings. Some damage to the corn crop in Dover Township is reported as occasioned by hail.

The hydro service was interrupted for ten minutes, and the alarm in the city was temporarily raised by the commission by lightning, which also damaged the roof of the home of Mrs. Major, Wellington street west.

DECISION LOOMS IN FARE QUESTION

Admission Fee Expected To Be Settled at Meeting This Afternoon.

It is almost certain that the admission to be charged at the Western Fair this year will be settled this afternoon at a special meeting of the directors called by President J. H. Saunders for 2:30 o'clock.

The question of the admission fee has hung fire for months now between the fair board and the council. The fact that the board must of necessity have final and definite information in the matter to place the admission fee on the tickets, and in advertising in the press as well, makes it imperative that action be taken at once. Other matters of varying importance will also receive attention at this afternoon's session.

TWO CADET TEAMS WILL ENTER COMPETITION

Crack Shots From London, Wingham and Tillsonburg Going to Toronto.

Two cadet teams will go from Military District No. 1 to the Ontario Rifle Association meet at Toronto, which begins on Monday. One team, No. 543, from Wingham High School Cadet Corps, is entered. This team made splendid scores last year.

The second team is from Tillsonburg High School Cadet Corps. There will be five men on each team.

Stanley Heard of London Collegiate Institute will go from London. W. Menzies will go from Guelph. This makes a total of twelve cadets from this district.

Lieut.-Col. G. H. Gillespie, district cadet officer, will attend the meet.

The first match, on Monday, is a cadet match. They can shoot individually or teams of five. The total medals and prizes in the individual shoot is $305, which means that there is a good chance for cadets making expenses.

In the team matches the total amount of prizes and trophies amounts to $70. It is likely that all cadets going from here will enter with the hope of making the free trip to Ottawa, which goes to the best marksmen.

CHILDREN'S BOOKS COVER WIDE RANGE

Special Department at Library Looks Well to Little Tots.

Picture books gladden the hearts of children, and mothers of London are aware of the service rendered little tots by the public library. The books are by the increasing number of library cards taken out each day by the little ones.

The smaller children who go to the public library have a corner set aside for them. The tots of five or so start with picture books. Mother Goose and the Three Bears. These books are brightly illustrated. While many of the little ones come to the library all alone, older brothers and sisters often accompany them until they are acquainted to go alone. The children have their own cards and take great pride in them.

Older boys and girls take out such books as the Water Babies and other classic favorites. The following are now available in the children's department: Aspinwall, A. (T.)—Short Stories. Short People. LIVE STOCK JUDGING RING IS ENLARGED

Rearrangement of Position of Midway Planned For Fair.

Additional accommodation in the way of a live stock judging ring for cattle has been provided in the southwest corner of the Western Fair grounds, owing to a rearrangement of the position of the Midway at the big fair.

The Midway, Johnny J. Jones' Exposition, will this year entertain the visitors to the fair arranged in a semi-circular position behind the Manufacturers' and Dairy buildings, at the same time occupying a portion of the ground formerly set aside as Midway space.

The grandstand performance has been the subject of assiduous attention at the hands of the committee in charge of this particular branch of entertainment at the fair. The big vaudeville program will include the following acts: Lenor's London Steppers. De Koch Troupe. Darin Cromwell. Eugene Randow. Bud Snyder and Bulch Company. Equestrian Cabaret. Horl Jans. Belleaire Bros. and d'Lonra.

The nightly display of fireworks will be in charge of the American Fireworks Company.

Although no extensive alterations will be made to any of the buildings at the fair grounds this year, all the buildings will receive a thorough cleaning before the exhibitors bring their goods.

The Manufacturers' Building is all ready for the exhibitors, having been cleaned and scrubbed out till it looks like a brand new building. There were some places on the floor where the concrete had chipped, but these have all been repaired.

The walkways around the park are being stripped of all large stones, and will give the same comfort as a cement sidewalk with just a little added comfort, as they will be softer to walk on than the city sidewalks.

The half mile oval is being put in shape, and all the holes filled in so that there will be plenty of time for the filled-in places to become hard before the races start. As the center of the track is used as a parking place, the grass is all cut down, and this will not have to be done before fair time.

Five Hundred Quit Theatre Leave Skunk In Possession

Canadian Press Despatch.

Fort William, Aug. 6.—A record exodus of patrons from a local theatre was established during the height of a performance on Tuesday night. The entire audience of approximately 500 cleared out of the building in precisely two minutes.

The cause of the hurried evacuation was traced to a very young Chinese boy, who after capturing a young skunk near the city, and not knowing its potentialities, carried it into the theatre in his pocket. It slept until the lad was about to push his way into one of the seats, and then got in its dirty work.

The youthful Oriental decided he did not care for the animal's company and gave his protesting guest its liberty, and it at once slipped away under the seats. It "perfumed" the large building with amazing results. People trampled each other in a rush toward every exit, and the theatre was speedily emptied.

It cost the management a pretty sum to purify the ozone.

STRATHROY MAN SEEKS REMOVAL OF FIRE DAM

R. M. Pincombe Claims Power Cut Off by Emergency Water Supply.

Special to The Advertiser.

Strathroy, Aug. 6.—At the regular meeting of council last evening Mayor Wright notified the council that some action must be taken immediately with reference to the dam across the Sydenham River at Alexandria Park, erected by the public utilities commission to store water for fire protection. R. M. Pincombe, owner of a power site about half a mile up the river, has objected to this dam for years, claiming it has cut down the power in his plant, and insists that it be removed at once. The council decided to meet Mr. Pincombe and the members of the public utilities commission this evening to investigate the situation.

The finance committee reported over $32,000 taxes collected to date, an increase of about $1,000 on last year.

Authority was given to Councillor Evey, chairman of industrial committee, to extend the use of Alexandria Amusement Park to outside organizations, subject to the present grants to the ball clubs.

The outstanding account of the hydro-electric commission for moving the poles and wires on the right-of-way across the park, when the river was widened, was settled, the town paying one-half the amount of the account rendered.

TILLSONBURG RESIDENT DIES OF HEART TROUBLE

Special to The Advertiser.

Tillsonburg, Aug. 6.—Sidney Luke, aged 72, well-known business man of this town, died suddenly this evening. He had been around as usual but took suddenly ill after supper, and died before medical aid reached him. Heart trouble is said to be the cause of his death.

The late Mr. Luke retired several years ago from the manufacturing business. He was a lifelong member of St. John's Anglican Church. The funeral will be held on Friday afternoon at 1:30. It is expected Rev. T. B. Howard, former rector from Listowel, will assist Rev. W. H. Dunbar with the services.

He is survived by the widow, one daughter, Gladys, and one son, Max, Evey, chairman of industrial committee, to extend the use of Alexandria Amusement Park to outside organizations, subject to the present grants to the ball clubs.

Hon. Mr. Martin Says "Co-operation."

Hon. J. S. Martin, minister of agriculture for Ontario, has returned from an extensive trip to Britain, Scandinavia and Holland.

Mr. Martin is impressed with what he saw in Denmark, the country that has given Canadian dairy produce and bacon such stiff competition in the British market. His conclusion is that the Ontario farmer must sell goods on the basis of quality, and that his selling must be done on a better basis than ever before, preferably by co-operative effort.

Ontario can produce quality goods. She proved it when she captured the British market in the first place. Ontario lost that bacon market because the quality was not sustained. It was not sustained, because there was not enough cash difference to the farmer between lard and bacon hogs. The trouble was that the selling was in the hands of other interests. When the farmers got their pay for the hogs, they were through. The fat hogs and the bacon hogs went through together and appeared on the British market as Canadian bacon.

The producers of wool and honey are working on the co-operative basis. The growers of beans have started, their idea being to grow better beans, and direct the sales. The result should be that in a year or so the name Canadian beans or Ontario beans will mean something to the consumer. He will know he is buying the best, and the best seldom has to take a low price.

Mr. Martin should call in Manning Doherty, the former minister of agriculture in the U. F. O. government. He had gone into the question extensively, and was ready to give government assistance to co-operative marketing when the government of which he was a member was defeated. It is so important a matter that it calls for the assistance of all parties, and the way to get this assistance is to ask for it.

Whence Come the Electrical Storms?

Electrical storms have been frequent in this section of Ontario during the past few weeks. They are impressive, too much so at times for the timid ones. We come inside when one starts, close the doors and windows, look around to see if there is a candle in the house in case the lights go off. Being thus fortified the average household awaits the attack. There is a vivid flash, followed almost at once by a crash, and someone offers the suggestion that some place has been struck close by.

But, apart from that, do we know a great deal about electrical storms? The answer to which, as far as the average person is concerned, is in the negative.

The man who studies these matters tells us that it is frictional electricity. Just so, but explain. He proceeds: "You can rub glass and silk and produce electricity; on certain days you stroke a cat's back and there is the crackle of electricity; the same result comes from using a comb on the hair." There are always two kinds of electricity, positive and negative, and their desire seems to be to get together, and in this way each is cancelled.

In the summer time there is water vapor floating in the air in the form of clouds; they are driven around by the wind, rubbing against each other, and in this way a strong force of electricity is created. The professor here used the word "potential," in plain language meaning that a great amount of electricity is created and stored upon the banks of the clouds.

Now what happens? As children we were told that thunder was two clouds bumping together, nor was that very far wide of the mark. Two clouds come close together laden with positive and negative electricity; the tendency is for these forces to jump one to the other, and in some cases they will do so at distances of half a mile. This takes off the tension, and it's for that reason that a severe storm is not usually long. When one of these flashes takes the form of a great streak of lightning that seems to hurl itself from the sky to the earth, it means that the interchange of forces between clouds is intense.

It is then that most people who are inclined to be timid seek the clothes closet or some inside room. They do not like the flash, nor are they in love with the crash.

What makes the crash? It always comes after the flash. The electric spark as it hurtles through space heats the air it touches. This heated air expands and causes a displacement in the atmosphere. There is a rush back to fill this space and this produces vibration, and it is the vibration that is communicated to the drum of the ear.

When the lightning and thunder come close together it means that the lightning bolt has descended quite close. If you are cool and collected enough, you can determine it this way: As soon as you see a fine bright flash start and count the seconds. But you must not get nervous or hurry. Remember you are working on a scientific basis, so you must be quiet and deliberate. It works like this—sound travels at the rate of 1,000 feet per second. Now then, there is a great flash—one—two—three—four—five—bang comes the thunder. You simply remark that it landed some place a mile off. If you do not get past one, you know it is very much closer, perhaps only a few feet away, but in the interests of science you must not get excited. And bear in mind, too, that it is very difficult to count scientifically in the depths of a clothes closet or with your head tucked away under a pillow.

What Does the Council's Vote Mean?

London City Council did a poor stroke of business when it turned down a recommendation for a salary of $1,200 for the judge of the juvenile court.

Nor is it exactly correct to refer to the $1,200 as a salary for Judge Warner. The judge is rector of Crornyn Memorial Church. It was found, after he got well into the work of the court, that it was making such inroads on his time that it was necessary for his parishioners to engage an assistant to look after part of the work in his parish. In this way Crornyn Memorial Church has been carrying the cost of supplying a very competent judge for the juvenile court. It was not the intention of Judge Warner to retain the salary; it would go to pay his assistant.

It is difficult to conceive by what process the $1,200 vote was turned down. It must be that the aldermen voting against it have not been seized with the importance or the extent of the work being done. It would be hard to imagine how an adverse vote could have been recorded by one who had looked into the matter, consulted the record of the court, or possibly attended any of the sessions.

It may be that the court works so quietly, and with so little publicity that people are not as familiar with its functions as they should be. The juvenile court is operating as it should when it does its work noiselessly. It is not the intention that it should be made known that a certain boy or girl has made a slip. And yet the records are there to show the work that is being done. In the first year there were 266 delinquent children dealt with, and 25 cases of positive neglect were remedied; outside of the court there were 1,102 interviews with the probation officer in connection with 277 various occurrences. It is the aim of the whole organization to keep people out of court rather than bring them there.

The confusing feature is to try and interpret the vote of the council in refusing to grant $1,200 so that Judge Warner can deal fairly with the membership of Crornyn Memorial Church. He is not asking for remuneration for himself, neither has he threatened to resign if he did not receive a salary, as was stated by one of the aldermen.

Is the vote of the council to be interpreted as meaning that there is dissatisfaction with the court or its personnel, or that there is no need for this class of work in London? Is that the view of the aldermen opposing the vote? If so, they are not correctly representing public opinion. Mayor Wenige did not take the proper course in refusing to vote one way or the other. On a matter of this character he should have given his whole-hearted support to the juvenile court.

It is hoped that Judge Warner will find it possible to continue the work, notwithstanding the adverse vote of the council. The members of Crornyn Memorial Church have given him every encouragement in his new work; they have never asked for financial help from the council to reimburse them for the time the judge spends at the juvenile court. Yet that church has no right to carry the cost of providing a judge for a court that is at the disposal of the whole community, and it is certainly not the wish of citizens generally that they should continue to do so.

As They See the Royal Family.

The Los Angeles Times comments on the easy manner in which the king and queen of Britain and the Prince of Wales received a hundred or more American jurists who were in London, and adds:

"In spite of some of the politicians, the relations between the English-speaking peoples on opposite sides of the seas are of the most fraternal character and there is definite respect and regard here for the British royal family. So far also as the Prince of Wales is concerned the Americans positively love him—especially the girls."

When it comes to making international friendships, the ruling house of Britain takes second place to none.

Dr. Frank Crane

DOUMERGUE

On the 13th of June, M. Gaston Doumergue was elected president of the French republic by the National Assembly at Versailles. This National Assembly consisted of the Senate and the Chamber of Deputies combined.

M. Doumergue received five hundred and fifteen votes as against three hundred and nine by his nearest competitor.

M. Doumergue is considered a radical Socialist but a mild one. So mild, indeed, that the bulk of the Socialists and Radicals were opposed to him and he was elected by the more moderate votes of the assembly, by those who considered it necessary for the traditional policies of France to be maintained. It should not be forgotten that M. Doumergue voted for and defended M. Poincaré's foreign policy in the Senate and approved of France's entry into the Ruhr.

Voting was closed at 4:50 o'clock, at which time the result was read in congress by M. Bienvenue Martin, vice-president of the Senate. Fully two-thirds of the Deputies and Senators present arose from their seats cheering wildly. The benches occupied by the Socialists and Radicals, the Socialist deputies could at once be distinguished, as their occupants remained seated. The small knot of Communists attempted to sing the "Internationale" but their voices were promptly drowned by those of over five hundred senators and deputies singing the "Marseillaise."

There were three candidates, M. Doumergue, M. Painlevé and third, M. Camelinat. The result of the voting was that M. Doumergue received 515 votes, M. Painlevé 309, and M. Camelinat 21. Having polled more than half the votes cast, M. Doumergue was therefore declared elected.

M. François Marsal announced to M. Doumergue, in a private reception room called the Salle Maréchal, that he had been elected president, and M. Marsal, who during the interregnum had been constitutionally charged with all executive powers, handed them over to the new president.

After thanking Mr. Martin and M. Marsal for their congratulations, M. Doumergue said that he would endeavor to put into practice the Elisee the same principles of fidelity to ideals and love of country which had been his during a political life extending over 30 years.

After thanking M. Martin and M. Marsal for deputies and the members of the French and foreign press, and thanking them all for their congratulations, M. Doumergue drove off through the troop-lined streets in an open car bearing the presidential flag to the Elisee, or official residence of the president.

Long before it was possible for the presidential cortege to reach Paris, the public, eager for the first sight of the new president, were crowded along the Champs Elisees. It was important for this crowd to be near, for heavy storms broke from time to time, and the chestnuts with the finest foliage were those selected.

What M. Doumergue will do with his new position is as yet uncertain, but he is the distinct choice of the majority of the deputies selected by the people and the reign of a constitutional head of the state is always followed with interest.

Hail To This Groom!

The groom's gift to the bride was a handsome check.—From the society page.

More power unto a chap like this, who when it comes the time to wed, he sits and thinks and fumbles up the hair that sticketh to his head, and ponders o'er a lot of things, a kitchen stove, a new brass bed, then calmly stabs into the ink and writes a handsome check instead.

He is the thrifty sort of man who's saved his scads from day to day, not peeling off with reckless fiat his bills upon the gilded way.

Nor did he gather to himself six forks what's made to munch at fish, nor did he cart unto his bride ye ancient gorgeous pickle dish.

He knewed quite well how folks would go when beckoned to the wedding feast, and cart along the pewter spoons and lamp shades glowing in the east, while others brought ten jardinières, a green set for the lemonade, a pie knife fashioned of the type used for the first truck garden spade.

Dear man, he was, he saw these things, piled high upon the sweet bride's neck, 'twas then he stabbed into the ink and penned to her a handsome check.

There's only one thing that may cloud, and hold the joy from keepin' up, when those folks live about six months inside that newly-papered hut—when bills come from the butcher shop, and from the corner store as well, along with one from where they carve the bonnets in the style called swell.

Ah, pause a bit, but will a word be spoke from off the quarter deck, remindin' husband of the day he writ for her a handsome check?

I hate to think a thing like that could cast a shadow on the floor, but then you see old folks like me has heard of things like that before.

But let us gather round this groom, he's of the sort we like to see, well sing a song unto this gent, we'll toast his health now with cold tea; we'll wish him luck, we'll wish him joy, we'll wish him all good things, by heck, this groom what goes with fervent glee and writes his bride a handsome check.—ARK.

Turns On Lloyd George

(By a London Correspondent.)

If the Liberal party is ground to pieces between the Labor and Conservative parties—as Lloyd George fears—he will have no place to go. Neither of the others will give him leadership. He tried to form a Center party and failed. He is ever threatened in his home district by the Laborite gains in Wales. So his case is desperate.

Never was a political party in a more distressful—or more interesting—situation than that which now holds the venerable Liberal party of Britain. This organization, which Gladstone made so powerful, which was in control of the British government when the world war began, is the butt of the politics of the country at this moment, and there seems to be no way of getting it out of that position. For its woes the ambition of Lloyd George was chiefly responsible; and he is now reaping his punishment.

THE DAY OF REST!

On Sunday morn we pack our lunch. We meet with apparent gle. Set out in father's motor car. The city's heat to flee. We find a cool and languid spot. Just suited to our needs. But there a sign-board meets our gaze. "No Trespassing" it reads.

We drive away to farther haunts. But all along our route. We meet such blazing signs as these: "Move On" and "Please Keep Out." Each place we go a sign flares forth. Before us like a torch. And so we take our lunch back home. And eat it on the porch.

"Doctor, are you married?"

"Not at present," said the great explorer, "but I have probably been the most married man in the world. I have never kept an accurate account—the memories of some of my matches are too poignant—but they were all regular. Quite so."

"Frequently the weddings were forced. I had to carry on in order to save my life. These, of course, I did not consider binding. Such a union was mine with Tokana, queen of the Dakota tribe in Central Australia. I was married to her at the point of a hundred spears."

"While Tokana hunted I was kept locked in a compound, the high walls of which were made of kibula wood, deadly poison to the touch. Its construction had cost a thousand lives. How could I escape a wall I couldn't touch? The answer was simple. I couldn't."

"But I got out. The idea came one night when I heard a soft thud. A body had fallen inside. A cautious search showed me the form of a huge kangaroo to whom the 30-foot wall had been child's play. It was now or never. I acted instantly. Creeping up to the creature I seized its tail, at the same time sending my wisdom tooth home to the hilt. The first leap landed me a quarter of a mile beyond the compound. I hunk on for three leaps and the kangaroo then switched her tail and threw me, fortunately another half mile in the right direction. Naturally I never went back to that wife."

CLAIMS FOR PENSIONS OUTLAWED THIS MONTH

Canadian Press Despatch. Ottawa, Aug. 6.—Canadian ex-service men are reminded in a bulletin issued today by the Dominion Command of the Great War Veterans' Association that all claims for disability pensions will be outlawed after Aug. 31, 1924.

The bulletin states that "Every ex-service man who suffers from any disability which he believes to be related to his war service should file his claim immediately."

Putting the "Jell" into Jelly

New method of making jelly entirely eliminates all failures.

By ANN PROCTOR

Jelly making used to be a gamble. Brides have cried over soft, runny jelly almost as often as their first pies. Even experienced home makers found at the end of a blistering day that the coquettish juice absolutely refused to become clear and of the right consistency. Stiff, rubbery jelly was also a discredit to the prestige of the good cook.

Ripe fruit that would give the best flavor was not suitable for jelly making because it did not contain that mysterious substance called Pectin, which made jelly "jell." Certain fruits, such as peaches, pears, cherries, rhubarb, strawberries, and blackberries absolutely refused to turn into jelly.

Along came science in the laboratory to aid the thousands of jelly makers who have faced disappointment in past seasons, and the result is bottled pectin, a real jelly making insurance, sold under the name of Certo.

Certo is pure—contains no gelatine or preservative. Jams and jellies made the Certo way will keep perfectly. Certo saves time and guesswork and you get 50 per cent. more jam or jelly from the same amount of fruit. It is highly endorsed by cooking experts everywhere. Ask your friends about it.

To make Raspberry Jelly by the simple Certo process:

Crush thoroughly 2½ to 3 quarts berries. Place fruit in cheesecloth bag and squeeze out juice. Then drip juice through cotton-flannel bag if a sparkling jelly is desired. Measure 3 cups of juice and 6½ level cups sugar into large kettle. Stir and bring to a boil. At once add 1 bottle Certo, stirring constantly and bring again to a FULL BOIL for ONE HALF minute. Remove from fire, let stand 1 minute, skim and pour quickly. Use same recipe for strawberry, blackberry or loganberry jelly.

Cherry Jelly is something which the housewife has never been able to make before. It is most delicious and is so easily made by the following recipe:

Stem and crush well about 3 lbs. ripe sour cherries. Add ½ cup water. Stir until boiling, cover pan and simmer 10 minutes. Strain juice through a jelly bag. Measure 3 cups juice and 6½ level cups sugar into large kettle, stir and bring to a boil. At once add 1 bottle Certo, stirring constantly and bring again to a FULL BOIL for ONE HALF MINUTE. Remove from fire, let stand 1 minute, skim and pour quickly.

The making of Grape Jelly has always been uncertain but it can be made so easily if you follow these simple instructions:

Stem and crush thoroughly about 3 lbs. grapes. Add ½ cup water, stir until boiling and simmer 10 minutes in covered saucepan. Place in jelly bag and strain out juice. Measure 4 cups juice and 8 level cups sugar into a large kettle, stir and bring to a boil. At once add 1 bottle Certo, stirring constantly and bring again to a FULL BOIL for ONE HALF MINUTE. Remove from fire, let stand 1 minute, skim and pour quickly.

If you write to the Douglas Packing Company, Limited, Cobourg, they will send you a free recipe booklet of 78 recipes for making jams and jellies.

STOCK OPERATORS ARE RESTRICTED

Further Irregularity Develops at Morning Session on Wall Street.

Associated Press Despatch. New York, Aug. 7.—Strength of the market was a sharp break early in the morning, but it was not until the first half of the day that the features of the early afternoon trading, Pere Marquette, Lackawanna, Delaware and Hudson, Jersey Central and Nashville, Chattanooga and Louisville all touched new 1924 highs. The gains ranged from 1 to 7 points.

Associated Press Despatch. New York, Aug. 7.—Further irregularity developed during the morning as professional operators, who had been largely responsible for the rapid advance of the last eight weeks, showed a disposition to restrict their operations to give the market a breathing space. Speculative interest was confined largely to specialties.

National Lead extended its early gain to 4 points, and General Electric duplicated its record by moving up 5 1/2 points to 231. Fleischmann, United Cattle Distributing Corporation and American Petroleum Corporation all touched new highs. Lackawanna and Norfolk and Western bettered the highway group by moving up 5 1/2 points to 231. A Little Town Turned Into a Zoo.

The little town of Cottonwood, California, presents the aspect of a regulation zoological garden. The explanation is that on account of the foot and mouth disease tourists carrying pets were unable to proceed unless they left the pets behind.

PEOPLE BET WRONG HORSE AT GRAND PRIX RACE DAY

French Cavalry Gallops Onto Course To Dispel Furious Crowd.

IS WORTH SEEING

Great Race Day of the People Is Worth Patronage of the Tourist.

By JULIA HOYT.

The race of the Grand Prix was undoubtedly a great success from the point of view of the costumes worn. But from the point of view of financial success for the majority the Grand Prix this year was the greatest failure it has ever been. For the first time in history this famous horse race was won by a rank outsider.

The Grand Prix is the race day of the people in France, and they each and every one puts up his little bet. I don't believe that among the thousands there more than a hundred (if as many) had bet on Transvaal, the winner. I have been to many big races, and I have never experienced anything like the silence of that stupendous crowd as the winning horse walked back. It was a silence that screamed, and was almost "frustrating." Not only did this rank outsider win the race, but not one of the horses that had been talked of—the favorite included—was even fourth. It was really astounding!

Worse and Worse.

To make things worse, in the next race the winner so bumped another horse that he was disqualified, and the victory went to the second. At this the French crowd in the pelouse (a field opposite the stands and inclosures) already disgruntled by the previous race, rose to their feet and began to shout. The man on the race course in a fury. For some minutes the police attempted to control them, but failed entirely. Then, to my amazement, as I was wondering what on earth the crowd would do, I saw the cavalry gallop on to the course and charge the people. It was rather terrifying to see, but also rather beautiful. In a minute all was peace again and the next race took place.

The crowd was the greatest that I have ever seen at any race course, and hundreds were there who never had a chance to see a horse run. As a matter of fact, even time I go to a Grand Prix I promise myself never to go again, and then somehow I do. We left before the race, and when we even then we stood for three-quarters of an hour in the broiling sun before we succeeded in getting our motor. Because of the huge crowd of automobiles an elaborate system of "taxi-riaze call" is required. As you drive up to the entrance a chauffeur jumps onto your car. He gives you his name on a card and a number. He goes with your car to get it placed, which may mean a distance up to a half a mile or even more.

A Hunt Begins.

When you come out, you are greeted by what seems like hundreds of chasseurs running madly around calling their names and you, in the company of many others begin hunting for yours. It is a scene that is hectic beyond words. If you are lucky, your chauffeur will be there. If you are not, you may have to wait fifteen or twenty minutes while he is getting another car, then you have to wait another fifteen or twenty minutes or longer while he is getting yours. In the meantime you are spending your time saying "Not" (it has to be said with great firmness, too), to men, women, little boys and girls who try to brush off your shoes and clothes and box money. It is anything but pleasant, and when you finally sink back exhausted in the car you feel quite convinced that you have paid high to see—or perhaps not to see—the Grand Prix. However, the excited crowds and the gay costumes, make a sight that one perhaps should see at least once if one happens to be in Paris at the time.

WHITE FANG

By Jack London

THE STORY SO FAR: White Fang, wild son of a once-tame mother, abandons the wild and enters a covenant with the man animals. He finds himself at Fort Yukon with his master, Gray Beaver, at the height of the Klondike gold rush. His fate as a fighter spreads. "Beauty" Smith, a brute of a man, succeeds in buying the Indian dog. Beauty Smith capitalizes on White Fang's fighting ability; there are bouts. White Fang, his savage nature intensified by a campaign of torment, beats every opponent and Beauty Smith grows prosperous. White Fang becomes known as "The Fighting Wolf." At Dawson, White Fang is matched with a new, strange animal, a bull dog, and White Fang, victor of a thousand battles, at last finds the clinging death upon him.

INSTALLMENT 28. THE FRIEND IN NEED.

At last he fell, toppling backward, exhausted; and the building promptly shifted his grip, getting in closer, mauling more and more of the fur-matted flesh, throttling White Fang more severely than ever. Shouts of applause went up for the victor, and there were many cries of "Cherokee!" "Cherokee!" To this Cherokee responded by vigorous wagging of the stump of his tail. But the clamor of approval did not distract him. There was no sympathetic relation between his tail and his massive jaws. The one might wag, but the others held their terrible grip on White Fang's throat.

It was at this time that a diversion came to the spectators. There was a jingle of bells. Dog mushers' cries were heard. Everybody save Beauty Smith, looking apprehensively, the fear of the police strong upon them. But they saw, up the trail, and not down, two men running with sled dogs. They were evidently coming down the creek from some prospecting trip. At sight of the crowd they stopped their dogs and came over and joined the muster to see the cause of the excitement. The dog musher wore a mustache, but the other, a taller and younger man, was smooth-shaven, his skin rosy from the pounding of his blood and the running in the frosty air.

White Fang had practically ceased struggling. Now and again he resisted spasmodically and to no purpose. He could get little air, and that grew less and less under the merciless grip that ever tightened. Despite of his armor of fur, the great vein of his throat would have long since been torn open, had not the first grip of the building been so low down as to be practically on the chest. It had taken Cherokee a long time to shift the grip upward, and this had also tended further to clog his jaws with fur and skin fold.

In the meantime, the abysmal brute in Beauty Smith had been rising into his brain and mauling his small bits of sanity that he possessed at best. When he saw White Fang's eyes beginning to glaze, he knew beyond doubt that the fight was lost. Then he broke loose. He sprang upon White Fang and began savagely to kick him. There were hisses from the crowd and cries of protest, but that was all. White this went on, and Beauty Smith continued to kick White Fang, there was a commotion in the crowd. The tall young newcomer was forcing his way through, shouldering men right and left with-out ceremony or gentleness. When he broke through into the ring, Beauty Smith was just in the act of delivering another kick. All his weight was on one foot, and he was in a state of unstable equilibrium. At that moment the newcomer's hat landed a smashing blow full in his face. Beauty Smith's remaining leg left the ground, and his whole body seemed to lift into the air as he turned over backward and struck the snow. The newcomer turned upon the crowd.

"You cowards!" he cried. "You beasts!" He was in a rage himself—a sane rage. His gray eyes seemed metallic and steel-like as they flashed upon the crowd. Beauty Smith regained his feet and came toward him, sniffling and cowardly. The newcomer did not understand. He did not know how abject a coward the other was, and though he was coming back intent on fighting, so, with a "You beast!" he smashed Beauty Smith over backward with a second blow in the face. Beauty Smith decided that the snow was the safest place for him, and lay where he had fallen, making no effort to get up.

Come on, Matt, lend a hand," the newcomer called to the dog musher, who had followed him into the ring. Both men bent over the dogs. Matt took hold of White Fang, ready to pull when Cherokee's jaws should be loosened. This the young man endeavored to accomplish by clutching the bulldog's jaws and his hands and trying to spread them. It was a vain undertaking. As he pulled and tugged and wrenched, he kept exclaiming with every expulsion of breath, "Beast!"

The crowd began to grow unruly, and some of the men were protesting about the spoiling of the sport; but they were silenced when the newcomer lifted his head from his work for a moment and glared at them. "You damn beasts!" he finally exploded, and went back to his task.

"It's no use, Mr. Scott, you can't break 'em apart that way," Matt said at last.

The pair paused and surveyed the locked dogs.

"Ain't bleedin' much," Matt announced. "Ain't got all the way in yet."

"But he's liable to any moment," Scott answered. "There, did you see that?" He shifted his grip in a bit.

The younger man's excitement and apprehension for White Fang was growing. He struck Cherokee about the head savagely again and again. But that did not loosen the jaws. Beauty Smith wagged the stump of his tail in advertisement that he understood the meaning of the blows, but that he knew he was himself in the right and only doing his duty by keeping his grip.

"Won't some of you help?" Scott cried desperately at the crowd.

But no help was offered. Instead, the crowd began sarcastically to cheer him and showered him with facetious advice.

"You'll have to get a pry," Matt counseled.

The other reached into the holster at his hip, drew his revolver, and tried to thrust its muzzle between the bulldog's jaws. He shoved, and shoved hard, till the grating of the steel against the lower teeth could be distinctly heard. Both men were on their knees, bending over the dogs.

Tim Keenan strode into the ring. He paused beside Scott and touched him on the shoulder, saying ominously: "Don't break their teeth, stranger."

"Then I'll break his neck," Scott retorted, continuing his shoving and wedging with the revolver muzzle. "I said don't break their teeth," the faro-dealer repeated more ominously than before.

But if it was a bluff he intended, it did not work. Scott never farther from his efforts, though he looked up coolly and asked:

"Your dog?"

"Then get in here and break his grip," Tim Keenan continued standing over him, but Scott took no further notice of his presence. He had managed to get the muzzle in between the jaws on one side, and was trying to get it out between the jaws on the other side. This accomplished, he pried gently and carefully, loosening the jaws a bit at a time, while Matt, a bit at a time, extricated White Fang's mangled neck.

"Stand by to receive your dog," was Scott's peremptory order to Cherokee's owner.

The faro-dealer stooped down obediently and got a firm hold on Cherokee.

"Scott warned, giving the final pry.

The dogs were drawn apart, the building struggling vigorously. White Fang made several ineffectual efforts to get up. Once he gained his feet, but his legs were too weak to sustain him, and he slowly wilted and sank back into the snow. His eyes were half closed, and the surface of them was glassy. His jaws were apart, and through them the tongue protruded, dragged and limp. To all appearance he looked like a dog that had been strangled to death.

But he was not dead. He looked at Matt examined him.

"Just about all in," he announced, "but he's breathin' all right."

Beauty Smith had regained his feet and came over to look at White Fang.

"Matt, how much is a good sled dog worth?" Scott asked.

The dog-musher, still on his knees and stooped over White Fang, calculated for a moment.

"Three hundred dollars," he answered.

"And how much for one that's all chewed up like this one?" he asked, nudging White Fang with his foot.

"Half of that," was the dog-musher's judgment.

"Did you hear, Mr. Beast? I'm going to take your dog from you, and I'm going to give you a hundred and fifty for him."

He opened his pocketbook and counted out the bills.

Beauty Smith put his hands behind his back, refusing to touch the proffered money.

"I ain't a-sellin'," he said.

"Oh, yes you are," the other assured him. "Because I'm buying here's your money. The dog's mine."

Beauty Smith, his hands still behind him, began to back away.

Scott sprang toward him, drawing his fist back to strike. Beauty Smith cowered down in anticipation of the blow.

"I've got my rights," he whimpered.

"You've forfeited your rights to own," the other said, the rejoinder.

"Are you going to take the money? or do I have to hit you again?"

"All right," Beauty Smith spoke up with the alacrity of fear. "But I take the money under protest," he added. "The dog's a mint. I ain't a-goin' to be robbed. A man's got his rights."

"Correct," Scott answered, passing the money over to him. "A man's got his rights. But you're not a man. You're a beast."

"Wait till I get back to Dawson," Beauty Smith threatened. "I'll have the law on you."

"If you open your mouth when you get back to Dawson, I'll have you run out of town. Understand?"

Beauty Smith replied with a grunt. "Understand?" the other thundered with abrupt fierceness.

"Yes," Beauty Smith grunted, shrinking away.

"Yes what?"

"Yes sir," Beauty Smith snarled. "Look out! He'll bite!" some one shouted, and a guffaw of laughter went up.

Scott turned his back on him, and returned to help the dog-musher, who was working over White Fang. Some of the men were already departing; others stood in groups, looking on and talking. Tim Keenan joined one of the groups.

"Who's that mug?" he asked.

"Weedon Scott," some one answered.

"And who in hell is Weedon Scott?" the faro-dealer demanded.

"Oh, one of them crack-a-jack minn' experts. He's in with all the big bugs. If you want to keep out of trouble, you'll steer clear of him, that's my talk. He's all hunky with the officials. The gold commissioner's a special pal of his."

"I thought he must be somebody," was the faro-dealer's comment.

"That why I kept my hands off him at the start."

COUNCIL ELECTS LABOR DELEGATES

Members To Represent Social Council At Forthcoming Congress Appointed.

SMALL MEETING

The regular meeting of the Trades and Labor Council last night was a brief and quiet session. There were a small half-dozen members of the council present outside of the officers. President John McGuire, presided.

John McGuire, Cigar-makers' Union, Albert Graves, Boot and Shoe Workers' Union, and William Tite, Federal Union, were elected delegates to represent the council at the meeting of the Trades and Labor Congress to be held in London next month.

A communication was received from J. P. Thomson, secretary of the Federal Union, No. 18,523, advising the council of the appointment of William Tite as delegate to the council in place of George Etchells.

The decision was made to appoint a committee from the council at its next regular meeting to interview No. 1 committee of the city council on August 25 and express the views of the Labor Council with regard to the immigration policy of the Federal government, and the present unemployment situation in the city, prior to the departure for the Ottawa unemployment conference on September 3 of the council's representatives—Mayor Wenige, Ald. Frank McKay and Ald. John Greer.

The council decided to forward to Mr. Lunn, British M. P., in charge of overseas settlement, its protest against immigration to this country under the present conditions. This decision was arrived at in accordance with a suggestion made in a letter received from Tom Moore, president of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, and dated at Ottawa, August 5.

The letter was as follows: "Whilst in England recently I took the opportunity to again bring to the attention of the labor leaders there, both in the trade union movement and in the political labor party, the protests of organized labor against the encouraging of immigration to Canada at this time. A full report as to what has been done by the Congress in this respect during the past year, will be submitted to our forthcoming convention, and I feel sure, will satisfy the delegates that no effort has been neglected to bring about a cessation of immigration to Canada until industrial conditions warrant the same.

"I do not think it would in any way conflict with what has been done, but might be of assistance, if you sent your resolution direct to Mr. Lunn, M.P., chairman overseas settlement committee, 4 Clements Inn, London, W.C. He is the minister of the government at present, taking charge of immigration matters."

NOTORIOUS SWINDLERS BELIEVED CAPTURED

Windsor Police May Have in Custody Internationally-Known Gang.

Special to The Advertiser.

Windsor, Aug. 6.—In the arrest here tonight of William Hope, alias Frank Tarbeau, 72 years old, and four other men, local police believe they have in custody, the master mind and under-studies in an international swindling plot, whose ramifications extend to all parts of the world. The five were captured in a house at 1523 Douglas avenue by Detectives McNab, Renaud and Bowers. All are held for investigation.

The other four gave their names as George B. Scott, 49, of Indianapolis; J. C. Bray, 46, Chicago; Harry E. Wilkerson, 48, Chicago; and Ralph L. Mason, 49, no fixed address.

The gang is believed to have engineered a racehorse wire-tapping swindle by which a wealthy merchant of Cleveland, whose name is withheld, was mulcted for $60,000.

Hope, also known as "The Count," has operated extensively in England and on the continent, police say.

Locomotive, On Way To Stratford, Rounded Sharp Curve Near Guelph.

Guelph, Aug. 6.—When a special passenger train, carrying visitors to the Stratford Old Home Week, steamed unexpectedly around a curve at Trainers Cut, about two miles east of Guelph today, a gang of C.N.R. sectionmen riding on a handcar were forced to jump for their lives. An instant after they made the leap the fast moving locomotive crashed into their "jigger," smashing it to atoms. The workmen escaped injury. The party was composed of Foreman Frank Fokejewski, Tom Sokowski, D. Novakowski, Leslie Stratton and Alf Stratton, all of Guelph.
