GOVERNORS OF ACADIA MEET

And Decide Against Co-operation In University Federation

An important meeting of the Board of Governors of Acadia University was held on Friday last for the purpose of discussing the matter of university federation. Two sessions were held one in the morning and again in the afternoon. At the close of the discussion which we understand was practically unanimous the course determined upon was outlined in the following statement handed out by the Board:

"The Board of Governors of Acadia University met in special session in the Emerson Memorial Library on the 16th instant, following the inauguration of President Patterson. The chief business of the Board was to consider the report of a special committee appointed last September on University Federation. The report was submitted by Rev. Dr. A. Cohoon. After the fullest discussion the Board reached the decision that it was in the interest of higher education that Acadia should continue to carry on her work in Wolfville, as in the past, and not enter the proposed federation, but, as the United Baptist Convention of the Maritime Provinces is the final court of appeal on all such matters, it was decided that the necessary steps be taken to call a special meeting of the Convention about Easter at such a place as the executive committee of the Convention shall determine, to ratify or reject the finding of the Board of Governors with regard to the future of Acadia. A committee, consisting of President Patterson, Dr. Cohoon and Professor Wheelock, was appointed to prepare a full report embodying the views of the Board of Governors, to be submitted to the Convention for its consideration and action."

WOLFFVILLE HIGH DEFEATS KING'S COUNTY ACADEMY TEAM

Wolfville High School defeated Kings County Academy at Kentville Arena, on Monday last by the score of 5 to 3. Good combination and stickhandling featured.

Immediately after the puck was dropped at centre, Kentville started combination. Cohen scored on a pass from Water Johnson skated the length of the rink and shot, but Redden knocked the rebound in by accident.

The second period opened with the Wolfville boys playing hard. Wallace scored on a hot from centre. Lightie stickhandled through and scored for Kentville. Andrews scored for Wolfville and the period ended 3-2 in favor of Wolfville.

The third period started fast. Kentville scored, tying the score. The play was kept in Kentville territory in which Wolfville scored two goals. The game ended with a score of 5-3.

TREASURE TROVE

A Captain Kid Story That is Interesting to Wolfville People

A sensational story is current to the effect that two Wolfville men were recently fortunate enough to unearth a very large quantity of buried treasure at a point on the south shore of the province. The alleged find is said to have been made last fall although the particulars even now are somewhat indefinite.

According to the story one of the men, who was formerly a sailor, was informed while in the West Indies many years ago of the fact that a big treasure lay buried near his home, and was given a map of the place of its concealment. The man who gave the information, it is said, claimed to have at one time been a pirate and had personal knowledge of the hiding of the treasure. This man was never able to procure the necessary assistance to locate and unearth the treasure until last summer when he succeeded in interesting a young man recently returned from the west. Together they visited the spot indicated by the map and were able to secure a great amount of booty. The treasure was taken to Halifax and placed in safe custody until recently when it was disposed of. The value of the find is said to be in the neighborhood of a hundred thousand dollars including jewelry, gold coin and gems. One of the lucky finders is said to have gone to Montreal to conduct negotiations for the disposal of the treasure while his partner in the find is anxiously awaiting his return.

The provincial Legislature opened yesterday.

WOULD REDUCE INDEMNITIES

Harry Leader, Progressive member for Portage la Prairie in the Dominion House, suggests that members set the country an example of economy by reducing their salaries and indemnities by 12 1/2 per cent.

MANY YEARS AGO

Little thought is spent on the past. We, who have everything in our power, seldom think of the struggle our forefathers put up in order to supply the daily demands of a sturdy family.

When our forefathers settled in Horton, there were no telephones, no telegraph wires, and no trains to afford communication with the world they had left behind. Every one toiled, strong hands worked incessantly, and had they not worked with wondrous vigour, the land they had claimed would again have gone with the wilds, until some new prospector reclaimed it.

Where we now view level fields and systematically arrayed orchards was then rough and unclaimed lands. After the ground had been burnt over it was prepared for the seed; sometimes by plowing with a crude plow, or more usually the rough spike harrow was the only implement used to soften the seed bed, and even in some cases a brushy tree alone did this noble work. Once the seeds were planted the growing crop was seldom touched, although in some rare cases a very crude form of cultivation was practiced.

When the meadows were fit to cut everybody repaired, thither with hugh wooden scythes, and toiled with might and main against the thick grass, which in those days made up in quantity what it lacked in quality. When the hay was ready to be stored men women and children followed the ox-cart, then usually consisting of a flat rack on two wheels, to the meadow. The raking, a prodigious task, was all done by hand, for in those days not even the old, stiff-toothed, dray rake had made its appearance. The men and boys loaded the hay while the women and children "raked after." Day after day this process went on until the harvest time had over taken them. When the golden grain gently invited them to store it beside the hay in the loft.

Then, wheat was too precious to risk shelling even the smallest amount, down they bent their shoulders, and with curved sickle raft and bound every bundle with most extreme care. Not even the clumsy cradling scythe was known at that time; it represents the medieval history of this country.

During Fall and Winter many of the days would be spent in the woods, and in many cases, unless they were visiting, the evenings were spent in the barnfloor of the barn, threshing out the grain with a flail, by the light of a candle lantern.

Now nearly everyone has as their motto, "do all you can, as cheaply as you can"; thousands of dollars are wasted every year by people who try to raise too large a crop and in that way reduce the quality. How shocked our forefathers would be if they could see the waste allowed, on the farms they toiled to clear.

A SHORTAGE OF 80,000,000 POUNDS

The Tea Business, like nearly everything else, has been having its hard times since the War. Unfavourable tea growing weather, labor troubles on the plantations, and the unsettled political atmosphere generally, have so seriously reduced this year's crop, that the world is now faced with a shortage of over 80,000,000 lbs. or more than two years supply for the whole Dominion of Canada. The inevitable result has been steadily increasing prices, until today, tea is bringing higher prices than ever before in the history of the industry. In Canada, the Salada Tea Company, our largest Tea Concern, has been forced by this condition, to recently increase the price of all their blends, in order to maintain their standard of quality.

TROPHIES WILL NOT BE AWARDED

Acadia and Mount Allison Will Not Play Balance of Inter-Collegiate Series

The tie in the western section of the Inter-collegiate league will not be played off owing to the serious loss of time that results to those participating. At the conference in Truro on Tuesday last a temporary schedule was drawn up, subject to the approval of the faculties of U. N. B., Mt. A. and Acadia. In spite of the agreement reached at the conference of representatives of the faculties and the students of the institutions interested in St. John last spring, it was definitely decided that there would be no playoff as some difficulty arose during the season of 1922, over the same matter. Acadia forfeiting her rights due to some misunderstanding.

In view of this agreement and the fact that several of the students would be seriously embarrassed scholastically if the playoff were permitted, the faculties of both Acadia and Mt. A. decided to withhold permission. The attitude of U. N. B. faculty has not been learned. The failure to play off will leave the Summer trophy and the Halifax Herald and Mail cup unawarded for the season, as there is no team eligible to meet the winner of the Eastern section.

GASPEREAU DIVISION CELEBRATES JUBILEE

On Friday evening, Feb. 16th, the Gasperreau, Division, No. 333, Sons of Temperance, celebrated its jubilee.

Fifty years ago thirty-three persons banded themselves together in solemn covenant to do their utmost in making this Canada of ours a sober nation. They have not been altogether successful in their enterprise, but sufficiently gratifying results have been attained to justify the effort. Old John Barclayton is not yet dead, but he is dying, and it is the resolve of the Sons of Temperance not to cease their efforts until he has been sent to his "own place."

Thirteen of the original (charter) members are yet alive to rejoice in the progress made and results attained. One of the number, Mr. Alfred Dunkinson, of Wolfville, and now over eighty years of age was present and delighted the members with a speech full of delightful reminiscences and sparkling wit.

The Division honoured itself by making him an Honorary member for life without the payment of further dues. This honour was also conferred upon Mrs. Tuppou, of Gasperreau.

Dr. R. W. Bennett, W. P., Preceded, supported by D. G. W. P., Mr. Kenneth E. Hünther.

The social program was greatly enjoyed. Special mention should be made of the Dialogue by Miss Swallow and Mr. W. Gertridge, also the reading by Miss Waterman. The musical part was well looked after by Miss Lita Gertridge.

This was followed by an Oyster Supper in the dining room of the Division Hall, Gasperreau Division number 333 does not have to go back fifty years to discover signs of life, for it was never more alive than at the present time. New members are joining every week. A contest is being staged under the leadership of Captains Lita Gertridge and Perry Baker, the losing side to furnish a banquet to the whole division.

Both sides are so sure of losing that they are each making great preparations for the occasion. The Judges say that as yet the issue is in doubt.

It is interesting to note the part the number three plays in the history of the Division:

Its charter number is 333.

Was organized Feb. 13, 1873.

The charter members were 33.

Of whom one third are still alive. During the fifty years there have been six D. G. W. P's.

Gideon Eagles, E. Martin, Rev. H. N. Perry, J. Forsythe, J. L. Gertridge 1879-1907, and K. E. Hunter, 1907 to the present time.

A DISGRACE

"On the list of seventeen civilized nations arranged in order as regards maternal mortality, Canada and the United States stand at the foot of the list. We are seventeenth in a class of seventeen. It is a disgrace to us. We must make a better record. Surely the first step in child and maternal welfare is to save the mother and child alive."

These words of strong criticism are contained in the introduction to a handbook of child welfare work in Canada to be issued shortly by the department of health.

A SPLENDID ADDRESS

Dr. H. R. Grant Discusses Social Problems

Owing to difficulty in the way of heating facilities it was decided at the last moment to hold the mass meeting last Sunday evening at the Presbyterian church instead of as was first arranged at the former edifice. This probably interfered somewhat with the attendance but when the service began at a little past eight o'clock the auditorium was filled with an audience that listened with close attention to an intensely interesting address. Rev. H. R. Grant, who was the speaker, is one of the big men of Nova Scotia and his outlook upon the social conditions of the province has been gained by many years' study of the problems that face us as a people. In his address on Sunday evening he brought home to his hearers the responsibility which rests upon the members of the Christian church in the matter of advancing Christ's kingdom by making as much of this earth as is in their power what He would have it to be. He emphasized the importance of improving conditions surrounding the welfare of children and young people generally and gave a number of incidents to show that present conditions are far from what they should be. Another matter to which D. Grant referred was the conditions surrounding prison life in this province. He severely criticized the methods employed by which prisoners are kept in idleness at the public expense while those dependent upon them suffer want. The government, he insisted, whether of town, municipality, province or dominion should naturally be looked to for a mitigation of evils along this and other lines.

In closing the speaker reviewed the results of Prohibition in Nova Scotia and showed conclusively that while conditions in this regard were not what they should be a very great advancement had been made. Where liquor is sold to-day, he declared, the natural inference is that some one is asleep on the job and ought to be brought to book. Dr. Grant's address was a most informing one and should have been heard by every citizen of the community.

DEATH OF REV. CANON HIND

One of the best known and most popular clergymen of the Church of England in Nova Scotia passed away on Friday evening of last week when Rev. Canon Hind, of All Saints' Cathedral, Halifax died at the Victoria General Hospital after a brief illness. His death was comparatively unexpected as he had only been ill since the previous Monday.

Kenneth Cameron Hind, sixty-three years of age, was the son of Henry Youle Hind, D. C. L., at one time Professor of Chemistry in Trinity College, Toronto. It was in that city that he was born, but his parents moved to Windsor, when he was very young, his father having accepted a professorship of King's College. The father of the deceased was a man who played a conspicuous part in the exploration and discovery of the Canadian Northwest, and also of Labrador and was an author of a number of valuable works on those portions of the continent. He was also the founder of Edgemoor Church School for Girls at Windsor, Canon Hind's mother was Katherine, second daughter of Lieut. Col. Cameron, C. B., who commanded the 79th Highlanders at Waterloo. Thus the deceased was only the second generation from that historic event.

Canon Hind was educated at King's College, taking his Bachelor of Arts in 1882; Master of Arts in 1885. He was ordained Deacon by Bishop Binney at Halifax in 1883, and priest in 1884. In his thirty-nine years of priesthood he held the following charges: Rector of Newport, 1884 to 1893; Rector of Horton, which is the the parish of Wolfville, 1893 to 1899; Resident Chaplain to the Bishop of Nova Scotia at St. Stephen's, generally known as "Bishop's Chapel," until that was incorporated into the Cathedral of All Saints; Priest Associate of All Saints' Cathedral from 1910 to 1916, when on failure of health he was appointed Rector of Shelburne. He returned to Halifax and assumed the duties of Canon of the Cathedral in 1920.

During his residence in Wolfville Canon Hind was very popular with all classes and the news of his death was heard with very real sorrow by many old-time friends.

At Evangeline rink on Friday evening last a very novel and interesting exhibition of skating was given. This consisted of a program of fancy skating by a returned man who had lost one leg. For intervals of fifteen minutes at a time he performed difficult skating feats using one foot only. Owing to insufficient advertising the attendance was not large but those who were present certainly got their money's worth.

Elliott Smith, in making the presentation spoke feelingly of the loss which the Lodge would sustain in the departure of Bro. Bauld from Wolfville and was assured in a few words of appreciation from Jerry that although he was leaving Wolfville he would also continue to be a member of Orpheus Lodge and always have their interests very much at heart.

RHODES SCHOLARSHIPS

An Interesting Review of the Report of the Trustees

In the recently-published Report of the Trustees of the Rhodes Scholarships for the academic year 1921-22, it is known that during that time there were actually in residence at Oxford for the whole or some part of it, three hundred Rhodes Scholars—one hundred and fifty-six from the British Empire and one hundred and forty from the United States. Of these seventy-two men took up their scholarships for the first time. In addition there were also in residence during the term, nine ex-scholars, continuing independent courses. Eighty-seven Scholars either completed the term of their scholarship or went out without doing so. The year 1922-23 begins with 262 Rhodes Scholars and seven ex-Scholars in residence.

Among the Academic distinctions, at Oxford during the term, eleven were awarded to Rhodes Scholars, five going to New Zealand and one each to Canada, Australia, South Africa and the British Indies. Ninety-one Scholars "proceeded to degrees for which they were qualified and thirty-two were permitted to read for advanced degrees." In various branches of athletics, twenty-three Scholars represented Oxford against Cambridge.

Notices were received during the year of the publication of seventeen books by Rhodes Scholars. This with a note of deep regret over the loss sustained by the Trust through the death of Sir George Parkin, the first organizing Secretary of the Rhodes Scholarships, who died in June of 1922, within a week of making his last address to a great gathering of Scholars is the gist of the Report as far as the actual work of the Trust is concerned.

The 1924 Scholarship appointments will be made this year—that is in 1923—and Scholars selected will go into residence in October of 1924. The value of the Scholarships has been increased for the present by the addition of fifty pounds sterling, but even with this the amount of the Scholarship is not sufficient to cover the cost of a full term with vacations and the appointed must be prepared to supplement it with another fifty pounds, which is, however, a small amount when the advantages of Oxford are considered.

It is a most interesting thing when one is closely identified with Oxford and are familiar with Rhodes' own devotion to the culture that he felt was the greatest asset association which the life at Oxford gave to its students, a feeling that the number of Rhodes Scholars who are giving their time to the Study of Law and of Science is not exactly in accord with his views. Broad humanism was his desire, rather than an education that might be classed as entirely practical or utilitarian. The latter is the tendency of the day. Rhodes was looking forward, it may have been, to the creation of leaders, for men who could bring to bear a wise and philosophic judgment on men and events; for men who would read, mark, learn and inwardly digest, who would look with a tolerant criticism on the development of the times and would act from a humanity rather than from the definite conclusion that two and two make four.

Rhodes was, in spite of many things to the contrary, a bit of an idealist, and he sought through the Open Sesame of these Scholarships to make some of his dreams come true. The opportunity is beyond a doubt a wonderful one and none realize this more potently than do the men who during the past twenty years have benefited by the Rhodes Scholarships. An indication of this is shown from the fact that gradually there has come about a change in the manner of selection of the Scholars. This is now falling into the hands of ex-Scholars and ultimately, it is said, all Scholars will be elected by this body, their choice subject, of course, to the final confirmation of the Trustees. This tends to strengthen the bond between those who have been enabled to take advantage of the Rhodes Scholarships, and will result in the development of a pride in the achievement of the men who thus are drawn more closely together.

Sir George Parkin had a vision of a great education and intellectual strengthening of the Empire and the English speaking peoples through the opportunity provided by the Rhodes Scholarships, and to further this he gave a devoted service in order that the desire of their founder might not fail of attainment.

At an early hour last Sunday morning the store of Mr. Arthur Roberts on Gasperreau avenue was destroyed by fire, with its contents. An alarm was rung in about 2 o'clock but it was too late when the firemen arrived on the scene to render any effective assistance, as the building was lightly built of wood and burned very quickly. THE ACADIAN learns that there was $1700 insurance on the store and goods.

ALCOHOL AS A DRUG COMPARED WITH MORPHINE

Dr. Horatio C. Wood Jr., a very eminent authority on drugs, has recently made some important statements concerning alcohol that are of timely interest. Doctor Wood has taught pharmacology in the Medico-Chirurgical and University of Pennsylvania for twenty years. Doctor Wood holds that as a drug alcohol is valuable to medicine, just as morphine is a valuable drug. He would put alcohol in the medicinal cabinet with morphine, strychnine, and with other drugs. He would use it in accurate and small doses and for purposes indicated by the skilled judgment of a diagnostician. Stimulus to heart action is the chief use of alcohol. It is so used, for instance, in the treatment of typhoid fever. The stimulus would be caused by about an ounce for a man. A large dose would not stimulate but would depress heart action. "A small dose will stimulate the heart, but a larger dose will weaken it, say one four times as large. Ultimately it will paralyze the heart. "Hardening processes caused by alcohol include hardening of the arteries, cirrhosis of the liver, which simply is hardening of the kidneys in a form of Bright's disease. There is also a general hardening, of which those mentioned are the chief forms. "Alcohol is chiefly a narcotic in its action. It is like ether, to which chemically it is closely related. Alcohol is composed of the ethyl radical, made of atoms of carbon and hydrogen with oxygen and hydrogen added. It is known as ethyl hydroxide. "Except for power and speed the effects on the body of alcohol and of ether are about the same. A person who is "dead drunk" is in the same condition as one who is etherized for a surgical operation. Under the influence of ether a man will talk in a rambling fashion, just as one under the influence of alcohol. —Forward.

THE LOW NECK NOW

Oh! really girls it's time for you to cover up your necks. We hate to have to scold you, and do not wish to vex, but while in warm September they made nice scenery, early in November, they are things we should not see. Not that there is reason to criticize the throats, but more through fear on our part Jack Frost will get your goats, or those pneumonia bugs perhaps who are inquisitive will take such liberties that you might cease to live. Talk of great temptation to the pulmonary knot, you'll simply get him going till he don't know where he's at. You'll wear the low neck blouse until he really can't refrain from rubbing too much at it, and just because you're vain, you'll catch a dose of something that's lurking round about, liable to lay you up, or even lay you out. Could you hear the things we say when you are passing by clad in style that we admit is real nice in July, perhaps you would have sense enough to see the folly you are guilty of at present in dressing as you do. Instead of admiration, be you young or be you old you get but sneering pity, because you must be cold. You are mortgaging your future in a mighty reckless way. "The Lunatics" is what you cause a lot of folks to say, and if you will persist, in it we sorrowfully fear that we will miss some pretty necks when summer comes next year.

DR. PATTERSON'S INAUGURAL ADDRESS

My task is simple. I shall keep in mind the average man, interested in educational ideals rather than in the detail of educational technique. I shall seek to avoid the technical and highly doctrinaire. I shall have little to say explicitly of the new "realism, pragmatism, behaviorisms, and psychologisms" of which education in our day is the jousting-place, and shall discuss things which, though very common-place, are as fundamental as they are easily forgotten.

Take the fundamental question that confronts every educationist: What is education? What constitutes an educated person? What a multitude of voices, not all heavenly, are trying to answer!

As one listens one becomes conscious that amidst the almost countless variations two themes are finding expression. In the one the call is for practical efficiency in education, for results that can be seen merely by opening the eyes, and that require little mind and less imagination to appreciate. Those whose voices express this conception of education are people whose "mental structure is mechanical, the practical people, the lovers of efficiency, the tough-minded people, the exploiters of men since all eternity."

Education, as they define it, fits one for life, and is to be measured chiefly by its commercial value. For is not the best education that which insures the best livelihood? Its supreme test is the summer homes, the automobiles and the pleasure yachts it will purchase. They care as little for history as they know of posterity.

Course of instruction find a place in the curricula solely because of their vocational values. If one may adopt the words of an unknown poet, "The things that men need know about "Are properties and land. But why the leaves are on the trees, Why honey is the fruit of bees, Why horses founder at the knees, Why faith is more than what one sees, Why charity is more than these." The need not understand."

For such people the standard of value for the products of the school and of the college is the same as for the products of the factory. "Efficiency" is installed as Resident Manager, methods are standardized, and the attempt is made to standardize the product.

Others whose voices are heard in this group are not quite so practical, but are equally insistent that the education of any particular individual can be weighed and accurately valued. For what are examinations if not to measure the education of the candidate? To these, education consists in knowledge. He is best educated who knows most. The more nearly one approximates to a good encyclopedia in the range and accuracy his information, the clearer one's title to an educated man, and, incidentally, to a perfect bore. Someone has defined a bore who, when you ask him how he is, tells you. Another kind of bore is the man who tells you what he knows when you don't ask him. A friend of mine met the typical representative of this school at Ottawa. Perhaps he was not lonely in the Federal Capital. He had purchased the 11th edition of the Encyclopedia Britannica and was proceeding to educate himself. Surely here was the system of free electives carried to its reduction absurdum.

Of course knowledge must be the basis of education, but it is not education. Knowledge is something acquired, "the extension of oneself from without."

Education is the enrichment of oneself from within. That which is of primary importance to the man of education is not the range of his information, but the quality of his mind; not the number of things he knows, in other words, his fitness to conduct an information bureau, but the ripeness of his nature, the range of his fellowship, and the resources of his goodwill. For the man of education, knowledge has not merely "enriched specific faculties, it has enriched him." His chief characteristic is not learning, but light.

I cannot spare time for the other voices in this chorus. That on which I wish to insist is that their theme is one. For whether you define education in terms of living: measure it by its power to exploit commercially resources of nature: make it synonymous with an encyclopedic range of knowledge; or are guilty of the snobbery of holding it in reverence only because of its recognition by "degrees," you bow to the tyranny of the senses, you value the binding of the book more than its message; you appraise the band by its earning power rather than by the subtlety and beauty of its harmonies; you allow the arc-light at the corner to blind you to the glory of the distant star; you give to that which is incidental: the emphasis that belongs only to the ultimate, and, by implication, you deny the God that is above.

It may be said, of course, that knowledge of the sciences, and kindred subjects, fits one for life; that it is the sciences also that make the great additions to the sum of knowledge; that the resources of nature are rightly ours, to know, to master, and to use; and, further, that the future will see an extension of knowledge to which the present is as a cloud the size of a man's hand to a cloud-filled sky; that in this knowledge lies power for individuals and for nations. I grant it. I wish it understood that not for one moment do I oppose either the knowledge itself, or the opportunity of securing it rather welcome every addition to real knowledge. I do not decry the scientist, I have no sympathy with the obscurantist. And yet I confess (nor am I ashamed of my confession that I fear the rapid advance of scientific knowledge. My fear grows not out of any fancied conflict between science and religious truth, but out of the fact that scientific knowledge is power for individuals and for nations, and that power has no moral quality of its own, but takes its quality from the hand that directs its exercise. There comes to me an impromptu answer (it was not my own) given during my student days to an unexpected question by a professor to a student who was inattentive. The professor seeking to trap him, asked suddenly: "Mr. W — what is a tyrant?" Inattentive the student was, but not napping. At once his answer came,—"A Tyrant is one who has power and uses it to the disadvantage of others."

We pass by the now subdued professor, and note merely that it would be rather difficult to improve on this answer. Knowledge is power, but power may be charged with menace or with blessing. It may transform the world into an Eden or leave it as desolate as the battle fields of France. And whether it is potted in one direction or the other depends wholly on the moral purpose that directs its exercise. I fear the advance of knowledge, therefore, because I fear that the growth of moral purpose does not keep pace with the increase of power. We have seen too much of power directed to selfish ends. The war through which we have just passed, was but the inevitable outcome of twentieth century knowledge that was controlled by passions more primitive than those of the early Baby-

Fifty Dollars a Month

(Guaranteed to you by the Canada Life)

How Fifty Dollars a Month looks to the Average Man

Age 20—Happy on Fifty Dollars a month.

Age 21—Fifty Dollars a month is not enough.

Age 35—Thinks he can easily afford to "spend" Fifty Dollars a month.

Age 50—Things are not going as well as they were.

Age 55—Strange how these assets have depreciated! Fifty Dollars a month is good interest on $10,000, and not to be despised.

Age 60—He finds Fifty Dollars a month pension, added to what income is left, brings happiness.

You know of men well up in years who are still "drudging along". They cannot stop if they would, but must go on to the end of their days working for a living. You can avoid that.

Why Not Pension Yourself?

Why not "take stock" of your present financial position—to size up your personal affairs and decide on a plan for the future?

Our New Pension Plan

guarantees that upon reaching a certain age in life, you will receive a monthly cheque for $50.00, $100, $200, $250—as you may now decide—and this monthly payment cannot cease as long as you live.

An Income for Life

Think what it may mean to you to be certain of an income right up to the end of life, when you consider that 97% of people in their later years are partially or wholly dependent upon others for support.

When they were younger they did not have the chance now offered you. It was not then possible to secure such a convenient and certain provision as this Monthly Pension Plan.

And This is Not All

Suppose some day before you reach age sixty you meet with a mishap and become totally and permanently disabled through accident, illness or any cause. (Such a thing has happened soon after men have secured this new policy of the Canada Life.) Immediately, the payment of further premiums would be cancelled. The Canada Life would become responsible for sending you $50.00, $100, $200, $250, a month, as arranged, for the rest of your life.

There are many other benefits. An average deposit of only a few dollars a month will return you $50.00 a month later on.

HANTSPORT NOTES

We extend congratulations to Editor H. P. and Mrs. Davidson.

A "Missionary Programme" of great interest was carried out in the Methodist church here during the past week.

On Tuesday evening, Dr. Smith, who for thirty years has been engaged in Missionary work in West China, gave an interesting and instructive address on different phases of the works being carried on among the people in the Province of Szechuan.

On Wednesday evening an illustrated lecture was given on China and Japan, by the pastor, Rev. A. B. Higgins, about one hundred pictures were shown, illustrating the manners and customs of the people, and showing schools, hospitals and churches, connected with the work of the Canadian Methodist church, in different parts of the Mission field.

A unique feature of the Sunday evening service, which took the form of a missionary Pageant, was the presence of a number of persons, dressed in Oriental Costumes. These visitors from the Celestial Kingdom occupied the choir, and led the congregation in the service of song.

An impressive and inspiring address was given by the Rev. J. W. Presford. The beautiful Missionary hymn, "A Little bit of Love," by E. Purcell, was impressively rendered by Miss Cora Whitman.

Much missionary enthusiasm has been awakened by this series of services.

Mr. Fred Dodge, of Windsor, spent several days at his home here recently owing to the very serious illness of his father, Capt. F. Dodge who we are glad to report is improving.

Mrs. Overson, who has been a patient at the Payzant Memorial Hospital, Windsor, returned home last week.

Messrs. W. Perry and Geo. Newcombe, who are employed on the United Fruit Company's steamer "The Saro Bruno", visited at their respective homes here recently.

OUR GRAND OLD MAN

To the Editor of the Acadian:

Dear Sir: I think everyone who was present at the late inauguration will agree with me when I say that apart from the central figure, the outstanding participator was our honored fellow citizen, Dr. Manning. I have attended a good many public functions under Dr. Manning's direction, and have always admired his exceptional gifts in that line, but last week he seemed to excel himself. I never remember him in a happier vein. His dignity of bearing, the forcefulness and aptness of his utterances, with those little touches of humor, and his manifest physical vigor, were really delightful, and many were the appreciative and admiring expressions I heard on every side. On behalf of the citizens of Wolfville may I take the liberty of respectfully tendering to our distinguished fellow citizen, our congratulations on his undiminished bodily and mental vigor.

Wolfville is proud of Dr. Manning, may his noble figure and genial personality and withal dignified presence be long known on our streets. CITIZEN.

MRS. W. J. WALLACE

An aged lady, well known and most highly esteemed, in the person of Mrs. W. J. Wallace, passed away at her home in Canada, on Friday last, in the eighty-ninth year of her age.

Mrs. Wallace was formerly Miss Witter, of the well known Witter family of Wolfville, and other parts of Kings county. Her exemplary life was reflected in the children who went from the country home at Canada, so well equipped mentally, morally and physically to take their places in life's activities.

Owing to the storm and snow blockades her sons, who have so frequently visited their mother, and tenderly cared for her interests, were unable to be with her in her last days. She leaves to mourn their loss, one daughter, Mrs. Bertha Rand, who lovingly cared for her during her last illness, and two sons, Rev. O. C. S. Wallace, D. D., formerly chancellor of McMaster University, and pastor in churches in Montreal and in the United States, now pastor at Baltimore, Md., and Burpee W. Wallace, a leader in educational work at Yorkton, Sask. One daughter, Mrs. Shaw, predeceased her mother last year.

INTERESTING CANADIAN WOMEN

(Mrs. Commissioner Sowton)

Cheeriness, friendliness and a serene faith in human nature are characteristics of Mrs. Sowton, who is not only the wife of Commissioner Sowton, the Canadian commissioner of the Salvation Army, but also his fellow-worker and supporter in the great social service which the Army is accomplishing. She is of Scottish birth, and is endowed with native tenacity when she sets out to achieve some object. She is a woman of vision and originality and a speaker of considerable force and magnetism. She also co-operates with Canadian women's associations through the affiliation of the Salvation Army with the National Council of Women, on which she acts as representative.

The death of Mrs. Reid, relict of the late Duncan C. Reid, of Gaspereau, took place on Monday last at the home of her niece, Mrs. Scott Trenholm, of Grand Pre, with whom she had made her home for the past three and a half years. The deceased was before her marriage a Miss Caldwell, of Gaspereau, and was a sister of the late Prof. A. E. Caldwell, of Wolfville. Her husband predeceased her by thirty-one years. Mrs. Reid was eighty-four years of age and had been in failing health since early fall, for the past two weeks she was confined to her bed and failed very rapidly. She was a consistent member of the Baptist church in Gaspereau where she was buried on Wednesday. She is survived by one sister who resides in Beverly Mass. Of a bright and cheerful disposition she had many friends who mourn her death.

A man in trouble always appreciates a favor until he gets out.

CANNING BEAT BRIDGEWATER

CANNING, Feb. 20—The visiting Bridgewater hockeyists were defeated by the Canning team by a score of 10 to 4 in the local rink here on Tuesday night. The visitors put up a good game for the first two periods but collapsed in the final stanza and were completely outclassed by the locals. The game opened fairly fast and the first period saw plenty of scoring in which the locals had a slight edge, scoring four goals to the visitors 3.

The second period produced the best hockey of the night. The Bridgewater team set a fast clip and evened the score shortly after the whistle, but the locals also tallied before the period ended leaving the ice with the score five to four in their favor. In the last period the visitors were outclassed, the locals scoring five goals and putting the game on ice. The line-up:

Canning.—Goal, Miller; defense, Dickie and Baxter; forwards, Eaton, Bennett and Lyons; subs, Hueston, Burns, Christie.

Bridgewater.—Goal, Kelly; defense, Simmons, Covey; forwards, McGin, Baker, Mailman; subs, Naugier, Cushing, Hall.

Frank Power managed the Bridgewater team, and R. W. Griffin was the mascot, but his charms proved futile against the Canning players.

Many a girl who has money to burn doesn't seem to care for a match.

The death took place at Bridgetown on Saturday last of Mrs. A. F. Little, wife of the manager of the Royal Bank at that place. The deceased took cold early in the week but was apparently getting better when she grew worse suddenly and the end came. Mrs. Little had been a resident of Bridgetown for ten years and was a social favorite. Before going to that town she was for some time a resident of Wolfville where her husband was one of the early managers of the bank here. The news of her sudden passing was heard here with sorrow by many old friends and much sympathy is felt for the sorrowing husband and family.

lonians. And the world heads in that direction again, if the prevailing view of education defines it either by its knowledge-content or by its commercial value, or both.

"Man shall not live by bread alone," said the Great Teacher. By implication, we could not live without it, yet the bread was neither his life nor the measure of his life.

Exact knowledge, and the power to be a producer rather than a parasite, are to education what bread is to life, necessary, indeed, but fulfilling their highest function when they supply the basis of education and impart the medium through which education may express itself in sacrificial service.

These views of education that are materialistic and utilitarian are aggressive. They have behind them a great mass of popular opinion. They are intolerant as the German militarist in pre-war Germany.

I make no apology for stressing this view of education. It is the only view that is Christian. The world needs nothing else so much as it needs this and it is worth the life of any man or any institution for its exposition and defence.

I recall my mountain experience also when I note the tendency to appraise our colleges and other educational institutions by the things that can be easily and quickly seen. The marks of strength and of weakness are those that are obvious to a cursory examination...

not wholly false. Buildings and equipment and endowment are necessary to the efficient modern college; they become false only when made fundamental. In the second place, the undue importance attached to the physical side of college equipment is the inevitable outcome of years of struggle with inadequate equipment and recurring deficits...

Nor do I shrink from the charge made in some quarters, that with ideals such as these we are training partisans rather than thinkers. Mr. Bertrand Russell is one of the voices raised for what may be called the right of youth to remain unfettered by the type of the group in which they are reared.

I recall my mountain experience again when I find myself tempted, as I sometimes do, to appraise a college by the fame of the members of its faculty. Nor is this temptation peculiar to myself.

Has not this purpose a very clear bearing upon the type of faculty that will make a college really great? What is needed is not a research-genius, but an artist-teacher. Such a teacher will have small time for research himself, but will keep abreast of the assured results of others' research.

I would be more explicit in that I have already implied. The religious and ethical life of an institution is most potent not when it is embodied in formal instruction but where it is incarnate in living teachers.

In the practice of immorality. When religion and ethics are chiefly subjects of instruction they lose their relation to life. The criticism of George Sampson, that the teaching of English in England has failed because it is too exclusive a subject for formal instruction by teachers of English and too little the basis of instruction in all subjects holds here mutatis mutandis.

Of course some will get into the bottles. Each student will receive, so far as possible, the personal attention he requires. Such is the way of great teaching, and such teaching wherever found makes a great college.

But he had a healthy brood of girls and boys. Who loved the very ground on which he trod.

Oh, you should have heard the way they said his name.

"Father."

Then the highest earthly glory he has won

Says: "That's father."

All of this, with necessary changes, is true of the teacher. He lives in his students. Their success is his, and if he be an artist-teacher indeed, he is content to have them stand on his shoulder and from that vantage grasp the hand of fame.

Once more we must resist the tendency to measure the worth of a college by the number and range of the electives it offers. The system of electives marked a great advance over the rigid courses of earlier days.

In giving effect to this policy, some institutions have so reduced the required work and so enlarged the range of electives, that it is possible for two men to be graduates of the same institution and have no common language.

work and so enlarged the range of electives, that it is possible for two men to be graduates of the same institution and have no common language. As President Capen said in his inaugural address at Buffalo, to have nothing in common but that they have taken 120 semester hours of work.

Departments have little relation to one another. The day's work of every class is done without reference to the students work as a whole. The field of instruction is broken into clearly defined areas,--necessarily,--but the road-ways are not kept open.

We recognize the difficulty of making a college curriculum express the ultimate unity not only of the sciences but of all subjects of study. Something of course can be done. The reaction from the too generous provision of electives is evident in many of the smaller colleges.

Mr. Chairman, there are many things I should like to say, but time will not permit. I should like to suggest that the worth of any policy of education is not to be determined by the size of the mob that may be stamped into supporting it, but by the intrinsic merits of the policy itself.

PORT WILLIAMS ITEMS

The Port Williams Acadian extends congratulations to Editor Davidson and bride of the Wolfville Acadian, wishing them long life and much happiness.

Mrs. Annie Freeman, who is spending the winter at the Parsonage, has been confined to her room with an attack of grippe but is much better.

Miss Doris Jackson, of Berwick, spent Monday the guest of Mrs. Campbell Clark. She will assist Mrs. Clark with the spring millinery work which opens in a few weeks.

Mr. Bruce Hunt, of the Royal Bank, has returned to work after being home in Lawrencetown on account of illness.

Mr. Jack Zwicker has returned to his studies at H. C. A. after a serious illness. Mr. Percy Keeping, of Charlottetown, P. E. I., spent Sunday the guest of Mrs. Belle Harris.

The "Loyal Workers" S. S. class intend holding a Social in the vestry on Tuesday evening (27th). A Good program is being prepared and a pleasant evening may be assured. A silver collection will be taken to swell their class fund from which they are always ready to donate to any worthy object.

The exercise "Beautiful City" by the W. M. A. S. on Sunday evening was splendidly rendered in every part. The Junior choir did their work as usual very creditably.

The masquerade entertainment of the Division on Monday evening last, was lots of fun, some of the costumes were so ridiculous the owners could not be recognized. The programs every evening since the re-organization have been interesting.

The children's Carnival on Friday evening was well attended and some very striking costumes were worn by the little folk. Prizes were won by Earl Graves, James Watson, Gerald Gates and Murry MacDow.

Mrs. A. K. Gates returned on Tuesday from Falmouth where she visited her daughter, Mrs. J. Meisner, at the Baptist Parsonage.

MILK—AND MAE MURRAY'S SKIN

Everyone knows that the smooth whiteness of her skin is the most beautiful thing about Mae Murray, whose Tiffany production for Metro of "Peacock Alley" is presented by Robert Z. Leonard at the Opera House next week. It was that that people used to rave about when she danced in the Follies, and on the screen it produces an effect no actress can attain through the make-up box.

What's the secret? Life in the country? Constant massage? Lotions at $10 per bottle? Not at all. Mae Murray says it's MILK. And she says that any girl with a pimply, blotchy face can be transformed in a couple of weeks. All she needs is ambition, plenty of patience—and MILK.

Miss Murray goes to a dairy farm every once in a while, where all she does is rest and keep the cows busy. But if you can't go to a farm, you can do the same thing as well at home.

For the best results you should live entirely on milk for three days, and abstain from solid food religiously. After that, begin taking light solids—cereals, chicken, fruits and still plenty of milk. Then, gradually get back to your normal diet with two glasses of milk a day. But if you want to retain the clear complexion you have acquired by this treatment, don't, says Mae Murray, don't go back to red meats, fried foods, French pastry and the fatal chocolate. These gastronomic delights demand their high prices, so if you are looking for a smooth, white skin, avoid them and substitute fruits and vegetables—and do not forget your two daily glasses of milk.

Life is full of bumps, but a sense of humor is a great shock absorber.

WOULD RESTRICT FRANCHISE

Hon. L. O. David has introduced in the Senate a bill to restrict women's franchise in Canada. He would allow all males to vote at 21 years of age, but would only have married women and widows over 21 at age all married women vote only when over 21 years of age.

CALL FOR NEW TEMPERANCE LEGISLATION

A delegation of temperance representatives from the various provinces of Canada was received by the Prime Minister and members of the Government on February 14th, requesting the enactment of new laws to enforce greater penalties and further restrictions on the illegal traffic in liquor. They requested that immediate action be taken in the direction hereafter set forth:

1. That Parliament so legislate that in any province in which the sale of intoxicating liquors for beverage purposes is forbidden, that the manufacture of such liquors for beverage purposes be also forbidden.

2. Inasmuch as the United States is now under a prohibitory law, and it is alleged that the effectiveness of that law is seriously interfered with by the exportation of liquor from Canada, we respectfully request you to consider as an act of international good-will if it would not be possible to prohibit the exportation of liquor from Canada to the United States.

3. That the right to export intoxicating liquors from Canada to any other country for any purpose should be restricted to brewers and distillers, and only under strict safeguards which will insure its delivery to the country of destination and to the actual place and address to which, and person to whom it has been consigned.

4. The liquor shipped from any province in Canada to any other province should be consigned only to such person or persons as are authorized by the government of such province to receive the same for the purpose permitted by the provincial law.

5. That it be enacted that no shipment of intoxicating liquors shall be accepted for carriage by any railway or other common carrier without a certificate from a duly authorized Dominion Government officer, that such liquor be lawfully carried, and delivered at the place for which such liquor is destined.

6. That in view of the heavier penalties imposed under the provincial laws for violation of their provisions, it is suggested that the penalties provided in the Inland Revenue Act, the Doherty Act and the Canada Temperance Act, be proportionately increased.

If laws as outlined by this deputation are enacted it will put a crimp in the rum-running business, because, if it is a criminal offense to export liquor to the United States, which is a prohibitory country, rum-runners and bootleggers will be prevented from entering ports in Nova Scotia to buy coal and other supplies, and then land their rum at some point where there are no custom officers to prevent it.

WHEN THE YOUNG ARE GROWN

By Edgar A. Guest
Once the house was lovely, but it's lonely here today,
For time has come an' stained it's walls an' called the young away,
An' all that's left for mother an' for me till life is through
Is to sit an' tell each other what the children used to do.

We couldn't keep 'em always an' we knew it from the start;
We knew when they were babies that some day we'd have to part.
But the years go by so swiftly an' the littlest one has flown,
An' there's only me an' mother now left

Oh, there's just one consolation, as we're sittin' here at night,
They've grown to men an' women, an' we brought 'em up all right;
We've watched 'em as we've loved 'em an' they're splendid, every one.
An' we feel the Lord won't blame us for the way our work was done.
They're clean an' kind an' honest, an' the world respects 'em too:

If it is true "All the World Love's a Lover," it is also true that a bride is an object of keen and sympathetic affection, especially when she is a charming and natural young girl whom fate has chosen to live in the shadow of a great throne. Lady Elizabeth Bowes-Lyon, who consented to become the bride of the Duke of York after he had proposed three times, comes of an ancient Scottish family. They have occupied Glamis Castle for over six hundred years, and are descended from the Stuart kings. Glamis castle has been the home of early Scottish kings. Lady Elizabeth, it is said, withheld her consent to marry Prince Albert because of her natural dislike of the formalities of Court life and the high associations her marriage would bring her. She is a retiring young woman, who loves the outdoors and all outdoor activities. The Prince is an airman and previously was with the navy, having served on Beatty's ship at Jutland. His hobbies are associated with the social and industrial conditions of England and their betterment. The picture shows Glamis Castle, and the parents of the young couple, the King and Queen, and the Earl and Countess of Strathmore.

DELORO ARSENICALS

"Made at the mouth of the Mine"

Deloro Brown Copper Arsenic Dust combines the advantages of low cost of manufacture, (no coal is used), with high fungicidal and insecticidal value. The difference between the Brown and Blue in scab control in 1922 was less than one per cent. or well within the range of experimental error.

The Brown dust used in 1922 was made in a small way and poorly ground in a ball mill. In sticking value it was in no way superior to the Blue Copper Dust.

The Brown dust being put out by Deloro in 1923 possesses the following advantages over that used in 1922.

It is all ground in a Raymond mill and air floated before packing.

Deloro Arsenate of Lime is the most adhesive arsenical yet made and is used in Deloro Brown dust thus making it infinitely more adhesive than Blue dust mixed with lead arsenate.

Deloro Brown Dust is made in such a manner as to prevent it from caking as rapidly as last year's Blue dust. Samples have been kept over a year without showing any traces of caking.

Experiments in Cornell in 1922 with some air floated, new process dust showed it to be a much better floating material than the Blue Copper dust.

With all these improvements, Deloro confidently expects its Brown Copper Arsenic Dust to prove superior in insecticidal and fungicidal value as well as in sticking value, safety and cost to the Blue Copper Arsenic Dusts in 1923.

Deloro makes a full line of Wettable Sulphur, Lead Arsenate, Paris Green, Nicotine Sulphate, Arsenate of Lime, Nicotine Dust, 90-10 Sulphur Lead Arsenate, Green Potato Dust, etc.,
