"You must be demented." Arthur Thorne stared at him as he were indeed some madman.

"Not at all," returned the other, zirily. "I will explain. I found something else last night, as well as the jewels-a paper that had slipped behind a certain drawer, a legal document duly signed and witnessed, and drawn up in the name of the late owner of this house and propertyold Mr. Silas Thorne, whose wealth you inherited. Well, the name written upon this document as that of principal legatee, was that of the child of the dead man's once sweetheart ; and this child is the woman whom you now call wife-the owner of those jewels, not your arrogant

He moved over to the bell. Th visitor's face had gone pale once more. He realized that Thorne would be as good as his threat. His thoughts flew with regret towards the useful little revolver which fo once he had left behind him.

"Are you sure that the woman you call your wife has really any legal right to that name?" He asked the question in a curious tone. Arthur turned a startled face to wards him. "What do you mean?"

"Merely that she went through previous ceremony of the kind with myself, and, as you see, I am still living; nor was the marriage dissolved by any divorce proceedings." "Liar and thief!"

The words came chokingly from Thorne's lips; but Carew waved a paper in front of him.

With staring eyes the other read through its brief wording.

"Those jewels-" Carew's voice reached Arthur's ears as through some blanket that muffled sound. Now-you understand, I don't see very well how you can keep me here. and run the risk of exposing this pretty piece of bigamy. You had better let me go."

Thorne had collapsed into a chair His legal acumen had enabled him to detect at a glance that this was no forged document, but a genuine marriage certificate. to him, and his eyes opened to behold-Isabel, his lost wife, bending over him, pity and love shining in her gaze.

'Isabel!' He spoke her name in a low whisper.

She smiled back at him, a radiant, reassuring smile.

"I was always your wife, Arthur, she murmured, divining the anxious question in his mind that his lips from courtesy, perhaps, she had alwere almost too weak to utter. "It is lowed herself to be drawn into a fartrue that I went through a marriage away corner of the room; but when

Woman's most glorious endowment is the power to awaken and hold the pure and honest love of a worthy man. When she loses it and still loves on, no one in the wide world can know the heart agon she endures. The woman who suffers from weak ness and derangement of her special womanly organism soon loses the power to sway the heart of her good looks, her attractiveness, her amiability and her power and prestige as a woman. Dr. R.V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N.Y., with the assistance of his staff of able physicians, has prescribed for and cured many thousands of women. ### The CHILDREN'S FESTIVAL.

The postponed Children's Festival took place at the Government House grounds Saturday last under favourable conditions. There were upwards of 5,000 children present. They all behaved admirably, the event having been marred by only two slight accidents. A little girl was struck in the face by a stick, and a boy named Scivier, of Georgestown, was caught in a bight of the rope being used in a tug of war and was badly crushed. Entering the Park at Rennie's Mil Road gate, the children were given The City Band then led the procession to the Government House grounds. At the gate buns were distributed amongst the children by the members of the committee. A cordon was then formed and the youngsters were admitted in companies of about 70 at a time in order to prevent a crush. The children then engaged romping and games on the green till tea was announced. The committee worked untiringly and spared no effort to make the children happy. The Naval boys played all kinds of games usual at outdoor fetes to among of St. John's, Hon. D. Morison and use the gathering. They deserve Capt. Woolcombe, of H.M.S. Brilliant, great praise for their kindness in conributing voluntarily so much enjoyment to the day's programme. Iced lemonade, about 300 gallons, was distributed when required. The City Band led the procession to dinner When they struck up the music all the children fell into line and marched to the tables at the archery grounds. There were 35 tables each feet long. There was a bountiful supply of everything, and as there were 420 attendants, no child was neglected. The greatest credit is due to all who so unselfishly assisted to give the children an enjoyable day. but especially to Hon. J. A. Robinson, who has made himself a human battery all the past month to generate and conduct enthusiasm to the public mind. Amongst those who so splen backed up his efforts were Ma G. C. Fearn, Hon. J. #### District Sunday.

Yesterday being District Sunday the pulpit at Cochrane Street Methodist Church was occupied in the morning by the Rev. W. Wilson, who has ust returned from Sackville, University, and in the evening by Rev. W. H. Webber who has just spent two ears on the Hamilton Inlet mission. Both preachers gave earnest and practical sermons and we bespeak for them many years of successful toil in this country. The choir rendered a Coronation Anthem, "Now know I that the Lord," with solo by Miss Vincent, and the Recessional with solo by Mr A. W. Mews. The Pastor, Rev. F. R Matthews, B.A., during the evening administered the Sacrament of Bap tism, and the services for the day closed with an old fashioned prayer meeting conducted by Rev. G. Paine.

First Regatta Meeting.

The first meeting of the Regatta Committee will be held at 8 p.m. in the armoury of the T.A. Hall. The Committee have but five weeks to prepare for this important and pleasureable event, the day which all the eople look forward to with pleasure Though the time is comparatively short with such men as the Hon. Jno. Harvey, Mr. Hiscock and those of last year's Committee to the fore, we feel assured that an interesting Derby will be ours this year.

Cathedral on Coronation Day by the choir; "Empire Flag," by Mackenzie; "Newfoundland," by Allen, accompanied by C. L. B. band—as performed by 300 voices and military band at the Pageant of Empire, Crystal Palace; Elgar's setting of the National Anthem and other popular choruses and

Dear Sir,—This morning's issue of the Daily News, in its reference to the scape of prisoners Evans and Bursey, from the Penitentiary on Saturday forenoon publishes the following statement:—"The Penitentiary people were first made aware of the men being at large through a telephone message from Ross's, Quidi Vidi Road." This, sir, is recklessly, if not maliciously, untrue and misleading. The two convicts had scarcely got clear of the yard when their escape was discovered by the officers in charge here, and Deputy Thompson after them. Being at the Magistrate's of 11 and 12 o'clock. I was not present when the unfortunate incident oc-curred. But, after careful inquiry, I am in a position to know that the Deputy and Chief Warden had the wo men in sight almost from oment of their escape, and closely ursued them till they left the Logy ay Road and entered the woods near he Golf Links, from which they telehoned to the Police authorities in orming them of the escape, and askng that as many constables as possible be sent out in pursuit. Subseuently a message was received from Mr. Ross saying that he had seen two nen in prison clothing running up he road through Mount Carmel the road Please publish the foregoing, in justice to the officials here, Yours faithfully

Rejoicings at Whitbourne.

Editor Evening Telegram: Dear Sir,-Perhaps a few notes relative to the "sayings, doings and looks" of men and things at Whitbourne may find a place in your valued columns and be interesting to your many readers.

Whitbourne for the past two days has laid aside its working garb, and donned its holiday attire in order to do honour to our Sailor King George the Fifth.

The trains on Wednesday night brought a large number of former residents, as well as others to do honour to the occasion. Among the visitors we noticed Mr. E. Duder and C Butt, of the Locomotive Shops, R. N. Co., Mr. A. Findlater, of the firm of T. & M. Winter, also Mr. Jack Ellis, the ising young taxidermist of St. John's Mr. Ellis is a Whitbourne boy and nothing pleases him better than visit to his birthplace, he is spending a few days here enjoying the splendid trout fishing there is to be had here The town was awake very early or the morning of the Coronation and every one busy decorating for the occasion, and very quickly flags of all descriptions were very much in evidence from one end of the settlement to the other. The front of the railway station was very tatsefully decorated, two very beautiful pictures of the King and Queen occupying the centre of the decorations. The work was done under the supervision of Mr. Saunders and reflects great credit to his artistic taste. The trains coming and going al day gaily decorated with bunting adding beauty and pleasure to the scene At night the windows of every house in the town were illuminated. The beautiful residence of Sir R. Bond looked very conspicuous with lights shining from every window, the lights being mirrored in the lake before the house gave to the scene the ap pearance of fairyland. Last but certainly not least was a very pleasing display of fireworks which were giv en by the L. O. A. of this place before the door of their lodge. This brought to an end one of the most pleasant and enjoyable days in the experienc of the place. The brethren of the L O. The three former were armed with revolvers. At 8.30 p.m. Consts. O'Neill and Lee came upon the two prisoners in a wood near Mount Cashel, and after an ex citing chase captured Bursey, had been doing two years for theft of money from Manuels station Evans, who is a fleet runner, made his escape, and the officers after taking Bursey handcuffed him and took him to the Penitentiary. After doing so the officers returned to search for Evans, and were after him all Satur day night and yesterday.

Police Arrest Boy.

Saturday night a number of unruly boys "raised Cain" around New Gower Street in the neighbourhood of Mr H. Tapper's store, and the police captured one of the crowd who refused to give his name. They then took the boy, who is only 14 years old, to the station, and on the way he kicked out and gave the officers much trouble. At the station he gave his name and of those who were with him, when Supt. Grimes permitted him to go home. "Boys will be boys," but of late their conduct on the street has savored too much rowdyism, which the police intend to prevent. Football kicking, stonethrowing and horse play is indulged in, while the worst kind of language is used; the windows of residences are broken and citizens are fast losing patience with this kind of thing. Boys need not use the streets to inin games for there are plenty of places in the suburbs for such.
