THE BELLE OF RUBYWOOD.

CHAPTER VI.

One morning Wynter Leigh woke with the truth flashed into his soul. He loved Muriel Holt. She was the earth's gladness, and without her life had lost its salt. To such a man, earnest, single-purposes, such a consciousness was momentous.

He carried the secret with him for three days, looked at his sheep, tramped across his fields, plucked ears of growing corn with it echoing in his mind and thrilling in his ears with each note of the birds.

On the fourth day he met Muriel, and his heart seemed to leap forth and claim her as his own.

"Well," he said, as they shook hands, "I thought you had neglected the old haunt—had grown tired of it."

"And me," he had almost added, but stopped short.

"No," she said; "I shall never do that, but I have been busy. I am father's housekeeper, as well as his daughter."

He nodded.

Muriel seated herself on the fallen elm; Wynter Leigh threw himself down almost at her feet.

"Did I not hear the bell tolling this morning?" he said, after a few moments' silence.

"Yes," said Muriel, "for Mrs. Dorothy Heatherbridge, Mr. Heatherbridge's aunt. She died last night."

He looked grave.

"Mr. Heatherbridge has been away with her, I suppose?"

Muriel inclined her head.

"Yes, he will stay till after the funeral. I have been looking after his turkeys—that has made me so long."

"Looking after his turkeys?" he said.

"Yes," said Muriel simply.

She saw nothing uncommon or significant in the fact.

"Father promised to look after the farm, and he forgot the turkeys. Poor things! because they are ugly and only fowls they would have been neglected most like."

Mr. Leigh looked relieved.

"You have known Mr. Heatherbridge some time?" he said.

"Yes, since we were children," replied Muriel.

"Do you remember our first meeting?"

"Yes," she replied, "and how communicative I was! Do you know I thought you were Mr. Leigh until you asked the way to Hopwood, and then passed the Holme without going in?"

"Communicative," he said. "You must have thought me inquisitive. Do you know I wanted only to put one question?"

"Did you—what was it?" said Muriel.

"I wanted to ask you who you were," she smiled.

"I should have told you, and not thought you rude, either. Our manners here at Rubywood are what Mr. Vandike calls unsophisticated."

"Mr. Vandike expresses his flattering opinions freely," he said quietly.

"He's very good natured," she said. "That's high praise; how it would gratify him, or any one, to hear you say it! What are you reading?"

She held the book back downward, and he took it from her.

"Browning," he said, glancing at it and looking up at her thoughtfully. "And you understand it? Why, I wonder, when to so many it is an enigma?"

"That is a compliment," said Muriel, with an ungrateful frown. "Give me back my book, please."

He held up the book, and as she took it their hands met. It was the tiny hole in the outward of calm, and the tide of passion swept through.

His strong hand closed on the book, fingers and all, and he sprang to his feet.

She looked up, innocently enough, then quickly lowered her eyes, trembling and half-frightened, for it was the first time she had seen perfect love in a man's face, and there is sort of grandeur in it that approaches the awful.

"Muriel," he said in a low, quick voice, bending over her and keeping the fingers still, though the book had dropped among the flowers, "Muriel, I cannot keep silence any longer. You have not seen the brook for three days, nor I you, but I have learned a life's lesson in that little while. Cannot you guess what it is? I have learned that I love you—love you, Muriel. Oh, that I could find words to tell you how dearly, how truly! Look at me, Muriel, dear Muriel, and see how I love you! Forgive me if I have startled you! I am a rough, awkward man, not fit to touch you, and I did not mean to speak—at least, till I had gained permission—but—but—my love has eaten me up, body and soul, and when my hand touched yours 'twas as if our hearts had met. Oh, Muriel, speak. Tell me that you are not angry—that you do not hate me—that you will strive to love me, even to like me a little!"

He was on one knee beside the elm, and was leaning forward in an eager attempt to catch a glimpse of her hidden face; he could feel her small hand tremble in his, like the heart of a captive dove.

"Oh, speak, Muriel!" he pleaded, putting up one hand to her arm. "Only a word—one word to tell me I may hope."

Muriel stopped him effectually. She rose, put both hands up to her face and sobbed.

Aghast, and positively white, Wynter Leigh bent over her, grasping her hand and struggling manfully with the fearfully strong desire to clasp her to his heart.

Muriel choked back her tears and sank down again; she even uncovered her face, and sat, blushing and sorrowful, gazing downward.

Wynter Leigh bent over her, his heart beating fast.

"You have forgiven me?" he whispered; "you will say yes? Muriel, you know I love you!"

And as he spoke his hand tightened on her arm.

She turned pale, and her head dropped low.

It was not saying "yes," but Wynter Leigh interpreted it rightly, and, with a sharp, quick sigh, caught her to him.

"Oh, my darling, my darling," he whispered, "I never thought I should be so happy! You are more than life to me. You cannot guess how I love you. Will you not say you love me? Think what joy it would give me!"

"I do love you," said Muriel in a tone almost too low for him to hear.

"But—"

"But what. But nothing!" he exclaimed hotly. "If you love me ever so little, I care for nothing—no one else. There is no one who can ever part us. I will go up to Rubywood at once, before the sun sets, and beg for you—aye, as a man pleads for his life!"

"To-night?" she said, wistfully and sorrowfully.

"Yes," he said eagerly, struck by her manner. "Why and what do you fear? Surely," and he turned white, "surely you are not promised to any one else?"

"No, no," she breathed quickly; then turned her head away, her eyes filled with tears.

"No? What then, my darling?" he murmured, striving to draw her to him. "Do you fear your father?"

Muriel's face was answer enough. His own grew hot and crimson. He could not choose but remember that he was a Leigh, and that through the whole course of his life he had never done aught to cast a shadow on the old name. He was a farmer—Farmer Holt's estimate of a man.

"Oh!" he said quietly; "I had forgotten. I am poor, Muriel. You fear for that."

"Not for myself," said Muriel, turning to him at once, her soft hand upon his arm, and sending a thrill through him at its touch. "Not for myself—you know that—but my father. Oh, you do not know him! He is so good so kind, but—he never goes from his word or his wish, and—and—"

He took her hand and lifted it to his lips. It was his first kiss, and no knight could have given it with more reverence.

"I know," he said, "and I had forgotten. Nay, I remember nothing but my love, and I can scarce think of anything else even now. Do you think I love you the less for refusing to give the shadow when your father holds the substance, my darling? For you are mine, though the whole world rose and stood between us. You are mine, Muriel; my very own, if Heaven's love counts as part of us—mine whether I win you from your father or not. Mine! Oh, Muriel, do you know what a strong man's love is! With that word graven on my heart, I could go to the grave for you! How much more fearlessly can I go to ask him for you! Don't fear, my darling; no man could win such a priceless jewel without a struggle for it; no man deserves to let it go who would shrink from the battle. I'll go to him to-night—I will tell him the truth."

Muriel's face grew white; she knew what a bitter mockery the truth would be, with all the strength on one side and not the ghost of a chance for the weaker one.

"No, no," she said, forced to speak in her agony. "No, no; do not go to him. It will be useless. You do not know him. Oh, what will you think of me for speaking like this? But I cannot help it. He will send me away—he loves me better than anything in the world, but he is so firm, so stern, and I know—I know—he will not say yes."

She did not cry now, her heart was too full of despair, for she knew the truth, the bitter truth.

Wynter Leigh's dark eyes were bent upon the ground for a few minutes. They were moist and tremulous, but infinitely, passionately tender when he lifted them to her face again.

"My darling," he said, "I understand believe that I understand; if you uttered no words, my love is so great that my heart would glean your meaning from your face. I know all you claimed hotly. "If you love me ever so little, I care for nothing—no one else. There is no one who can ever part us. I will go up to Rubywood at once, before the sun sets, and beg for you—aye, as a man pleads for his life!"

would say, and I know that it must be true. Farmer Holt is a good and kind man. He has said that you shall not marry a poor man, and you know it. You know that he would take some strong measures—send you away, perhaps—his voice quivered a little there—"put you out of my reach, separate us, cut us off from hope. You know him and his nature better than I could ever learn to do. You know the danger to be feared. Separate us! My darling, I could not bear it! I could love and struggle with the faintest hope of you, but, without, life would not be worth having. I am silent. He shall hear no word of it. I have your love."

"No, no," pleaded Muriel. "We must never meet again. I cannot, I will not, deceive him."

The strong man sank on the tree, his head lowered, his hands clasped out in front of him, perplexed, agitated, and moved to his innermost soul. Then he sprang up, a noble resolution in his face.

"Be it so!" he said, looking her in the face. "My love is stronger than death. Give me your hand, Muriel, and let me look into your eyes. You will be true; your eyes cannot deceive. I ask you to wait six months. I have a plan which I will work out. It shall succeed, for my love will make it. Then I will go to him and ask him to give you to me—a little less poor, but not a whit more worthy."

Muriel listened to the heart-stirring love, kept back her tears, and extended her hand, longing, with Heaven knows what intensity, to throw herself upon his breast.

He caught her hand—both of them pressed his lips to them passionately, then, forming the words: "Farewell, Heaven bless you, my darling!" with his trembling lips hurriedly left her.

BY RUTH CAMERON.

"And so Janet says she is perfectly delighted because she has another baby," said Molly, the little stenographer lady, "and it's the third in four years, and Jim can't be earning more than $35 a week. That's perfectly absurd; it must be a pose."

"Of course it isn't," said Molly indignantly. "Well," said the lady-who-always-knows-somehow with an intonation that made further explanation unnecessary.

"I guess you're right a usual, big sister," said Molly, answering the intonation rather than the words, as we learn to do with those we understand and love.

And the lady-who-always-knows-somehow smiled like he sun coming out from behind a cloud for she doesn't like to have to differ with Molly.

Seems to me that the little stenographer lady's mistake is a very common one.

To call any attitude with which you do not sympathize a pose or affectation is one of the most common kinds of injustice of which men and women are guilty.

Long ago when someone insisted that I was posing when I said I should rather enjoy being present at a terrible earthquake or fire or volcano eruption if the thing had to happen anyway, and if none of my friends or myself was hurt, I felt the injustice of this attitude and determined to avoid it.

And yet just the other day I caught myself saying after an unsuccessful attempt to read Peppy's Famous Diary, "People are always saying they like that book. I don't believe it. I think anyone who says he really enjoys reading that stuff is just pretending."

We don't all like the same things. That is a most fortunate provision of nature as anyone who stops to think will see. A world full of people with exactly the same tastes would result in many complications besides being rather stupid. Why then should we be incredulous even when we find someone displaying a taste that is totally incomprehensible to us?

If you are genuine in your likes and dislikes, you ought to believe that others are too. If you are a poseur that may account for your suspecting others of the same lack of genuineness, but it certainly does not prove the suspicion.

To make allowance for tastes and prejudices and points of view which you do not share is the sign of a broad mind and a spiritual culture. To call every taste you don't sympathize with a pose, is a sign of the opposite.

WOMAN'S TRIALS.

The burdens a woman has to carry through life are many but they can be lightened if she will turn to Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. A soothing and strengthening nerve—subduing nervous excitability, prostration, hysteria, hot flashes and the many symptoms which may be caused by distressing its peculiarities to women. For those "dragging-down" pains or distress and for the derangements and irregularities the "Favorite Prescription" has had many thousands of testimonials from people living in every part of America. Another important testimonial from people living in every part of America is made from medicinal roots, without the use of alcohol, narcotics, or any injurious agents. Full list of ingredients given on bottle-wrapper and sworn to by Dr. R. V. Pierce—who is President of the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, at Buffalo, N. Y. Every woman is invited to write to this Institute and receive confidential and sound medical advice, entirely without cost from one who makes the diseases of women his specialty.

"I can cheerfully recommend your remedies, especially your 'Favorite Prescription,' for all female disorders," writes Mrs. M. M. MORRELL, of Bluff City, Tenn., Route 2. "During the past seven years I suffered from pains in the back and ovaries. Tried many remedies but found only transient relief until I was persuaded by a friend to try Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. After giving this remedy a fair trial, I found that it would do just what it is recommended to do. I used in all seven bottles. I cannot speak too highly of Dr. Pierce's remedies for all female derangements."

Household Notes.

To salt almonds, snell and blanch them, then put them in a bowl and thoroughly mix two tablespoonfuls of olive oil and a tablespoonful of dry salt for every pound of nuts. Then place them in a greased paper bag, tie it at the top and roast for ten minutes shaking occasionally.

If it is necessary to keep a hat box on a high shelf, the following suggestions may be worth while. Silt open the two upright edges of one side of the hat box, so that when the cover is raised this side will drop down as if on hinges. This allows the hat to be removed without taking the box from the shelf.

Corks can be made to seal catsup bottles entirely airtight if you will first select corks that are a little larger and boil them in clear water for twenty minutes, thus decreasing their size. Insert them in the mouth of the bottle when hot; they expand in cooling, and in this way will make perfectly tight stoppers.

Prepared peaches are prepared in the following way: Pare and quarter some ripe yellow peaches, dust them with powdered sugar and put into a self-sealing glass jar, adjusting the rubber and lid securely. Bury in ice and salt until thoroughly chilled, not frozen—about a half hour or longer. Serve in small sherbet glasses.

Potatoes should not be soaked more than a few minutes before they are cooked. It is an excellent plan to cook potatoes with their skins on as so much of the nourishment is thrown away with the peel. Pour off the water as soon as the potatoes are done and stand them uncovered on one side of the fire to dry. Then peel and butter and dish them up for the table.

Coddled apples are delicious. Take four large apples, one-third cupful of sugar and two cupfuls of water; pare and core the apples, place them in a saucepan, add the water with the sugar dissolved. Cover tightly, and when tender remove to individual plates and pour liquid over them. Place a tablespoonful of sweetened whipped cream on top of each.

Satin very much soiled can be cleaned by making a solution of one and one-half tablespoonfuls of kerosene with three quarts of soapuds; let the satin soak in one or two hours. After this dip the satin up and down repeatedly in clean warm water. Press it when it is nearly dry.

Fried muslin curtains, which are very troublesome to iron, are easily managed in the following way: Choose a rather windy day, and after the curtains have been put through a lin starch hang them on the line lengthways. Then draw down the sides quite level and just stroke out the frills with the hands. The wind will flap them out and they will look as well as if goffered.

A little cold water put into a saucer and a few drops of ammonia added will make an excellent solution for cleaning a felt hat. First brush the hat well, then sponge it thoroughly with the ammonia water, then wring a thick cloth out of cold water, place it over the hat and iron with a moderately hot iron until it is dry. When you pull the cloth away you will raise the nap, and the hat will look almost new.

The time people really enjoy married life is before the wedding. A man does not want the facts in the case. He wants a version of the matter which agrees with his preconceived notions.

MINARD'S LINIMENT CURES DANDRUFF.

Should Repair the Drain.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir.—About a month ago the Council's men removed from Carter's Hill the "pebble stones" which formed the drain there, and dug down in the earth a foot, presumably to lay a concrete drain, but have not yet done so. The result is an entrenchment 2 feet deep nearly the full length on the left side of the hill. This is a serious matter, as all the filthy water thrown out there sinks into the soft earth and produces a stench which would in warm weather breed disease and cause an epidemic. Truckmen carting coals to that locality cannot land their freight on the sidewalk, and the residents are compelled to bring coals from the middle of the street to their homes. It is dangerous to pedestrians at night time who are liable to fall into it and break their limbs.

Yours truly, CHARLES F. GARLAND, Oct. 8, 1912.

Why Who's Who.

BY H. L. RANN.

What has become of our distinguished fellow citizen, Postmaster-General Frank H. Hitchcock? Why this submerged silence of the part of F. H.? Time was, and not so long ago, that he was leading the embattled hosts at the head of the colored delegates, with the republican campaign text book in one hand and a bright cluster of second-class post-offices in the other. But now he is mute—in fact, so goggled mute that he has to repeat what he hasn't said several times before you can understand what he intended to say.

The last heard from Mr. Hitchcock was in the form of a stern utterance which, with the aid of congress, he tossed the postoffices on Sunday, hereby depriving several millions of 'reb-born and super-taxed Americans' of the pink sheet. For this unfeeling act he is burned in effigy every Sunday morning by a caustic and conscienceless constituency.

Mr. Hitchcock's last public benefaction was the nomination of Mr. Taft our years ago with the assistance of a single-seated steam roller, which was modeled last spring and used with gratifying success at Chicago. Despite the fact that this was an old team roller and had seen severe service, it completely overthrew all competitors, including the famous T. R. model, which blew out a cylinder head immediately after the first roll call.

Mr. Hitchcock is a very efficient man, notwithstanding, and when he is succeeded by some influential contributor to the campaign fund, who doesn't know the letter rate of postage from the Pentateuch, he will have no trouble in securing a steady position at $5 or $20 a week. He is the first postmaster-general we ever had who made a $17,000,000 deficit sound like a small, but noisy surplus.

If Mr. Hitchcock is supporting anybody for president his year, he is not arrying any enthusiasm as excess baggage. It must be that he is trying to earn his salary, which probably accounts for the suspicion with which he is viewed by the remainder of the cabinet.

No Place For Workers

From north, from south, from east, from west the story is the same—the People are tired of the self-styled People's Party. They never liked the name and they have soon sickened of the fame of the People's Party. The experience of four years. The fishermen, the Farmers, the Mechanics, the Laborers, the Clerks, and all who work for a living, find themselves deceived by the so-called People's Party. They were told they would find a rallying point, under the banner of the People's Party, where all who wish to see their country advance may join together to work for the common good. They find themselves crowded out by a pack of picknickers, bent on taking trips at the country's expense. They find themselves crowded out by a gang of timber grabbers bent on enriching themselves by exploiting enormous timber limits obtained from the Government. They find themselves crowded out for a lot of shouters looking out for a living by obtaining soft jobs from the Government. They find themselves crowded out by members of the party looking out for salaries, arbitration fees and other pickings.

The cry of the fishermen, farmers, mechanics, laborers, clerks and all who work for a living for a chance to live more cheaply is disregarded. Solenn pledges to them are broken. Instead of the cheaper coal promised, they are paying more for coal than was ever paid before in the history of the Island. The promise of better housing and sanitation has ended in talk. Instead of a reduction in the taxation on the prime necessities of life, more duty is exacted on all goods which have advanced in price and on which an ad valorem duty is levied. Instead of being allowed to manage their own local affairs by elective boards in the outports, fishermen find a whole host of commissioners appointed to work out petty grants, requisitioned by members. Instead of the establishment of Cold Storage for Bait. In such a way that advantages of it might be generally participated

What About Morris's Cold Storage?

Messrs. Foot's banker Olivia arrived at Grand Bank from the Banks on Monday. She had been out since Aug. 23rd and was for weeks searching for squid bait but without success. After about six weeks absence she returned to port with the unprecedentedly small catch of 20 qts. The Percy Roy another of their vessels, has also been weeks looking for squid, and the Nellie R. is yet on the Banks. These vessels have respectively, 900, 800 and 400 qts. Owing to the scarcity of squid bait the Grand Bank bankers have made a failure of the voyage and they will be from 500 to 700 qts. short of last season's catches. The people of Grand Bank and other places on the S.W. Coast are indignant with Morris and his Government of squanderers and plunders. When they usurped the Government of Sir Robert Bond one of their biggest promises was cold storage to afford bait to the fishermen. That promise like most other Government promises was not constructed as promised but every concession was given to Americans to work this project and even these have not yet made a start. The fishermen all over the S. E. Coast are disgusted with Morris and the reactionary Tories which he leads, and in common and rest of the country will hurl him from the position which he has been advanced to, mainly by false promises and bluff in 1913.

Happy, Laughing Child Shortly.

If Cross, Feverish, Bilious and Sick Give Delicious "Syrup of Figs."

No matter what ails your child, gentle, thorough laxative physics should always be the first treatment given. If your child isn't feeling well; resting nicely; eating regularly and acting naturally it is a sure sign that it's little stomach, liver and bowels are filled with foul, constipated waste matter and need a gentle thorough cleansing at once. When cross, feverish, feverish stomach sour, breath bad or your little one has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, sore throat, full of cold, tongue coated; give a teaspoonful of Syrup of Figs and in a few hours all the clogged up waste, undigested food and sour bile will gently move on and out of its little bowels without nausea, griping or weakness, and you will surely have a well, happy and smiling child again shortly.

With Syrup of Figs you are not drugging your children, being composed entirely of innocuous figs, senna and aromatics it cannot be harmful, besides they dearly love its delicious taste.

Mothers should always keep Syrup of Figs handy. It is the only stomach and bowel cleanser and regulator needed—a little given to-day will save a sick child to-morrow.

Full directions for children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the package.

Ask your druggist for the full name 'Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna' prepared by the California Fig Syrup Co. This is the delicious tasting, genuine old reliable. Refuse anything else offered.

Picked up a Vessel.

About two weeks ago after the calm which succeeded a heavy gale, the people of Flower's Cove being evidently with no person on board drifting to sea about 4 miles off that place, we learn by the schr. "Melba" which arrived here a few days ago Geo. and Ell Diamond, Jas. and Jno. Walsh and W. Spencer, manned their boat and boarded the vessel which they found to be a 20 ton schooner named the "Zero." She was stripped of her canvas, had very little ballast on board with no cabin or forecastle furniture, and only some cordage on deck. The vessel was towed to Flower's Cove where she now is moored. The men believe that she drifted out of some harbor on the coast during the gale, after burning her mornings. She is a comparatively new vessel.

Broken Propeller Blades.

The S. S. Duchess of Marlborough arrived here at 4 a.m. to-day and was immediately dry docked. The ship on her last trip from Battle Harbour in coming up the French Shore struck some sunken wreck or other object and broke off two of her propeller blades. New ones will be adjusted to the "boxes" and she will also get a cleaning up. She will resume her route in a day or so.

Big Freight Shipments.

No word of the S. S. Florizel leaving Halifax was received by the agents up to noon to-day. She is possibly delayed taking a large freight from there.

The S. S. Morweana which was supposed to arrive here to-day has not left Sydney yet. Her delay is also caused by a big freight consignment.

ADVENTURE LEFT.—The S. S. Adventure, which has been chartered by the Black Diamond Company, left Montreal last night for here, coming direct.

Earthenware! Dinner Sets Toilet Sets. JOHN B. AYRE.

Gas is Coal With the Trouble Taken Out.

Gas is really nothing more than coal, only with gas you have the coal less the dirt, ash and smoke. These have been taken out by the Gas Company. The weight, too, has been taken out, for when you use gas you don't have to carry up from the cellar in buckets, straining your back in the attempt. All of the drudgery has been removed. The Gas Company has taken everything out of the coal but the heat—and that's the one thing you want. This they deliver to you right to the burner of your range. You only have to turn a tap and strike a match in order to have it. If your mind is half made up to buy a GAS RANGE, remove the remaining doubt by thinking out last summer and the many days when your kitchen was like a burning furnace. The gas range never overheats the kitchen. Phone the Gas Company, or call at their showrooms and get full particulars.

Here and There.

VESSELS ARRIVE.—The schooner Cabot and Stilla have arrived at Westville from the Labrador with 200 qts. of fish each.

RISE IN PRICE.—Shore fish sold at 5.80. Since then the market has taken on an upward tendency and today the figure for it is $6.10.

FISHERY EXHIBIT.—Several members of the Board of Trade held a meeting in their rooms last evening when preliminary reports were talked of for the proposed exhibit to be used next year.

COUNCILLORS TAKE NOTICE.—The elusive light on Clifton Street has been out several nights, making it very disagreeable for the residents. The matter should be attended to immediately.

ARRIVED WITH PRISONER.—Const. Jno. Morrissey arrived here to-day via Portugal Cove with a male prisoner who is to serve a term for misdemeanor committed on Bell Island. He took the man to the Penitentiary.

VISITED NEW PARK.—At 11:30 to-day Hon. E. R. Bowring, Mr. J. S. Munn, Mayor Ellis, all the Councillors, secretaries and assistants, drove to the new Bowling Park at Cape Island where they inspected the improvements being made there.

BUILDING NEW RINK.—The work of building the new Skating Rink at Bell Island began Monday and a large lot of men are engaged at it. It will be a fine building, 185 feet long with concrete base, and will cost about $3,000. It will be finished in about two months.

BUILDING NEW BRIDGE.—The Board of Works will start the erection of a new bridge just west of the Lunatic and near the entrance to Bowling Park. It will be a substantial structure of 26 by 22 feet and will be rushed to completion in a few days so as not unnecessarily delay traffic.

GLENCOE'S PASSENGERS.—The Glencoe arrived at Placentia at 3:30 to-day with the following passengers: J. Baxter, Wm. Webb, R. Rowell, C. Howard, Miss Whiteley, Miss Lench, J. Pettie, S. Tibbo, Dr. and Mrs. Roberts and child, Miss LeDrew, L. S. Hue, W. Butler and G. A. Moulton.

ANOTHER WRESTLING BOUT.—In consequence of a draw between Neville (Oppelt Club) and E. Barnes (Avalon Club) after thirty minutes wrestling for the Middleweight Championship in the British Hall, on Friday night last, another match has been arranged to take place in the near future. The last bout proved most interesting and the coming one ought to be no exception.

A PECULIAR DOUBLE CURE

Wife's Hand and Husband's Shoulder Both Got Better.

Mrs. Jane Lane, of Denbigh, Ont., tells a remarkable story of how she unexpectedly cured her crippled hand. She writes: "For about eighteen months I had no use of my right hand. My husband had a lame shoulder and after bathing him a few times with Egyptian Liniment I noticed that my hand was getting better, and in a short time I could use my fingers quite freely. Before one bottle was used Mr. Lane's shoulder and my hand were both well. It made a wonderful cure and I cannot speak too highly of Egyptian Liniment." 65 Douglas' Egyptian Liniment is simply splendid for sprains or stiffness of joints, contraction of muscles or cords, rheumatism or sciatica, in fact for any kind of an ache or pain in man or beast. 25c. all druggists. Sometimes the digestive machinery gets away off. No kind of food looks good to you. You need STAFFORD'S PRESCRIPTION "A." It is a temporary artificial digestive process to do the work until the stomach recovers normal condition. Many people think Pepsin is the thing to take. Four times out of five they are wrong. Pepsin will digest eggs, meats, etc., but has no effect on starchy foods like bread, potatoes, cake, puddings—in fact most of the vegetables that cause the trouble. Stafford's Prescription "A" is the thing. It contains all the valuable ingredients for the cure of Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Gastritis and Nervous Dyspepsia, etc. Eat what you like. Stafford's Prescription "A" will do the rest. Price (small size) 25c.; postage 5 cents extra. Large size, 50c.; postage 10c. extra. Prepared only by DR. F. STAFFORD & SONS, St. John's, Nfld. BRILLIANT ASSEMBLAGE

FUR EXHIBIT.

Always a leading house with Furs, we have this year surpassed all previous efforts. Never was our stock of Furs so extensive, both in variety and quality. The price range is more extensive, because it starts lower.

The most popular furs worn this season are Fitch, Kolinski, Caracul, Black Seal and Mink Marmot.

Prices range from $4.50 to $100.00 a set.

You are cordially Invited to attend this Style Exhibit. You'll find it instructive of such ample scope that choosing apparel to suit your own personality will be an easy task.

Shop by Mail.

Those who live out of town may buy by Mail with the assurance of Intelligent Service.

OUR FALL FASHION EXHIBIT.

THE GOODS now on exhibition in the various departments of our store are typical of the accepted and authoritative fashions for the Fall and Winter season. We desire to impress upon you the fact that our efforts in making this collection were not confined solely to the higher priced kinds, for we have gone to the extreme to procure a very extensive assortment of goods at popular prices.

Every woman in St. John's should see the splendid exhibit in its entirety; for an hour or more spent here will give you a correct idea of the styles being worn this season. The prices? Ours are always fair, generally lowest, invariably satisfactory, because they are attached to nothing but satisfactory goods.

Our New Fall Coats.

This season, as heretofore, the latest and most correct fashions in Women's Coats are a characteristic feature of our opening displays. From the season's most elaborate and exclusive creations to the more conservative models our stock is wonderfully complete.

Particularly do we feature garments of unquestionable worth in quality and workmanship that reveal a modification of the season's more striking style ideas at a price range to fit every woman's needs.

Come and see this matchless collection of Fall Coats. You are welcome to look or buy.

Supreme Court.

In Chambers.
Before Mr. Justice Johnson.
Hannah Graham vs. Wm. Hogan et al.
This was an application for an order nisi for foreclosure. Mr. McNelly for Plaintiff, Howley, K.C., for Hogan and Wood, K.C., for Minnie Dwyer, a second mortgagee. Mr. McNelly supported the motion. Wood, K.C., opposed the motion; Howley, K.C., admitted the claim. An order nisi for sale was made.

The Fishermen's Union Trading Co. vs. The Chronicle Publishing Co.

This was an application to have the defendants' defence stricken out on the ground that it is embarrassing and tends to prejudice and delay the fair trial of the action. Kent, K.C., is heard in support to the motion; Howley, K.C., is heard and stated he wished to amend his defence. Kent, K.C., argued that the present defence should be stricken out, and consented to an amendment. It was ordered that the plea of justification be stricken out and that the defendants have four days in which to amend their defence; and that the costs of this application be paid by the defendants.

Before the Chief Justice.

Kalleem Noh vs. Karl Ryding.
This case was continued this morning, several witnesses were examined and cross-examined; it will probably be concluded this afternoon.

The Police Court.

Two drunks were discharged.
A drunk and disorderly was fined $2 or 7 days.
Another charged with being drunk and disorderly in his own house was released on his undertaking to take the pledge.
Case brought by a married woman against her husband for non-support was withdrawn.
A case of cruelty to a dog, preferred against a lady residing in the West End, was postponed till Saturday.
A charge of threatening language was withdrawn.
Several owners of unlicensed dogs were summoned; most of them settled up before the Court opened.
Two drivers of motor cars, whose cases had been postponed about a month ago, were fined $25 and $20, respectively.

For Dandruff, Falling Hair, or Itchy Scalp—25c. "Danderine."

SAVE YOUR HAIR! DANDERINE DESTROYS DANDRUFF AND STOPS FALLING HAIR AT ONCE—GROWS HAIR, WE PROVE IT.

If you care for heavy hair, that glistens with beauty and is radiant with life; has an incomparable softness and is fluffy and lustreless, you must use Danderine, because nothing else accomplishes so much for the hair.
Just one application of Knowlton's Danderine will double the quantity of your hair, besides it immediately dissolves every particle of dandruff; you cannot have nice, heavy, healthy hair if you have dandruff. This destructive scurf robs the hair of its lustre, its strength and its very life, and if not overcome it produces a feverishness and itching of the scalp; the hair

Man Had His Leg Broken.

By the Bruce express which arrived at noon to-day there came Samuel Cooper of Point Leamington, who on Monday had his left leg broken at the thigh. Cooper was working 8 miles inland from Badger Brook logging for Mr. Crowe, when while building a camp a heavy stick of wood rolled down on him and broke his leg at the thigh as stated above. His son and other men hauled him on a team to Badger where Dr. Ames would have set the fractured limb but that the express came along too quickly for him to do so. He was taken to hospital in the ambulance by Mr. Eli Whiteway. He suffers intense pain.
The same stick struck a man named Joseph Chin who was working with Cooper and broke one of his legs below the knee. This man is a native of Twillingate and was attended to by Dr. Ames who went up to the camp to look after him.

Minard's Liniment Co., Limited.
Sirs,—I came across a bottle of your MINARD'S LINIMENT in the hands of one of the students at the University of Maryland, and he being so kind as to let me use it for a very bad sprain, which I obtained in training for foot races, and to say that it helped me would be putting it very mildly, and I therefore ask if you would let me know of one of your agents that is closest to Baltimore so that I may obtain some of it. Thanking you in advance I remain, Yours truly,

Though it has been stated in the press that all the city shipwrights are now busy repairing the wooden sealing ships and other vessels, prominent shipwrights ask us to-day to say that a duller season they never experienced. The ships were all repaired months ago and over half the city shipwrights have been idle for several weeks past.

The Rev. Gentleman is giving this dinner in honor of the Star Football Team, the victors of 1912. The dinner will be held at Smithville to-morrow night, and the Star boys look forward to a real good time. Father O'Callaghan's interest in the Star Team is highly appreciated by the lovers of the game of football.

Man Robbed of $6.00.

The waterfront thief still continues to get in his nefarious work and is fast becoming most daring. His latest escapade has been to go through a man with his clothes on. Last evening a laborer, who had been working on a steamer along the waterfront, was paid off with between six and seven dollars. Fleming spent what those change he had and then, unfortunately for himself, went down on the King's wharf and fell fast asleep. When he awoke last night at dark he discovered that his pockets had been rifled with as they were turned inside out. Later he discovered that his $6.00 in cash had vanished. Fleming is a poor man, can ill afford to lose his money, and the police should endeavor to round up the guilty party and recover the victim's money.

PARIS, To-day.
A general conflagration in the Balkans is expected by officials within forty-eight hours. Montenegro's declaration of war against Turkey is regarded merely as the beginning. It is believed other units in the Balkan coalition will follow suit, as soon as the mobilization of their armies is complete. There is only a faint hope that the representations of the Powers will avert general hostilities. Montenegro's move is considered to be all a part of the pre-arranged plans. It is asserted Greece was first selected by the Balkan Confederation to force the issue and inaugurate war. This could easily have been done by Greece seating in the Greek Parliament, deputies from Crete which was certain to prove a Casus belli to Turkey. Greece, however, declined to accept the responsibility for starting the flame of battle. Montenegro was then picked for the task. She had a long standing quarrel with Turkey over a boundary question and Turkey's refusal to grant satisfaction. Of Montenegro's resort to arms a prominent Diplomat said to-night "It looks as if our fine European diplomacy has been beaten by cleverness." These states have grown weary of Ottoman promises. Turkey's recent decision to inaugurate reforms were considered unsatisfactory and the hesitancy of certain powers to join in an urgent intervention, lead the Balkan peoples to feel the battlefield was the only sure means of enacting what they felt to be justice. It is not doubted here that cooler heads in Bulgaria have been against war from the start, but popular excitement reached such a high pitch that the country will be practically driven to war to satisfy public opinion. In the failure of intervention every energy will be exerted by the great Powers to prevent war flames from engulfing Europe. It is realized all depends on the eventual attitude of Austria which according to our advice has already mobilized our army corps in Croatia, Bosnia, Herzegovina and Southern Hungary, and stands ready to occupy Sanjak or Vozvada. Should this coveted strategic territory be menaced by Serbians and Montenegrins despite Russian sympathy for their Slav brethren of the Balkans, no complications are anticipated between Russian and Austria. Both these nations have assured other powers of their determination not to be drawn into any Balkan imbroglio.

LONDON, To-day.
Parliament reassembled yesterday and to-day the Government passed the closure resolution, securing the passage of the Bill by the Commons on December 20th. There is as yet nothing to show that there is any probability of a Government cave as the Government has indicated, mobilized a would interfere with the passage of the bill. It is estimated the Government will take at least 25 days of the month of December to pass the Home Rule Bill. This means Welsh disestablishment will be crowded out until January, which will cause considerable discontent among many faithful Welsh radicals. The answer to the great demonstration of Belfast on Sept. 28th, was apparently that of P. S. Sutt, former member of parliament and editor of the Manchester Guardian, the most powerful Liberal party organ speaking at Manchester, Scott urged circumspection, combined with courage and resolution. There should, he said, be ample time given for deliberation and adjustments and if needful compromise. He reminded his hearers that the Home Rule Bill would be the first measure to be passed under the provisions of a Lords veto bill and therefore must receive at this season final form, wherein hereafter it will have to be passed in two succeeding sessions. The Unionist press seized on Scott's speech as an indication of weakening in the part of that important body of Liberalism for which the Manchester Guardian stands. In concluding his speech, Scott said, in reference to later, we are threatened with something approaching civil war? That is serious threat which we ought to be prepared to meet. I do not think we ought to proceed with the bill unless we are prepared when it is law to enforce it by whatever means necessary. It is urged therefore the necessity of giving their advisers' reasonable grounds for saying this case had not been taken as the Government's reply to later day.

CONSTANTINOPLE, To-day.
Montenegro's forces yesterday attacked Berana which at noon was completely surrounded. Skirmishes also are reported on the Serbian frontier, and Djumbala on Bulgarian frontier. Opinion is deepening here that Montenegro was used as a cat's paw by the other Balkan states in order to forestall European intervention and confront the Powers with a fait accompli. It is believed that to representations of the Powers, Bulgaria, Serbia, and Greece, will reply "It is too late," we must go to the succor of our ally. Last night, the Bulgarian Serb and Greek Ministers were still without instructions from their Government, but their baggage was packed in expectation of a rupture at any moment. They all seem to think that diplomatic pressure will not be able to avert war. The universal belief is that only the occupation of Serbia by Bulgaria, and Russia, would serve the purpose, but such a contingency is considered out of the question. Russia has assumed the charge of Montenegrin interests in Turkey.

Turkish troops have been placed aboard all Greek vessels in Turkish waters, which have been seized by the Ottoman Government. The Greek legation here ordered the masters of the vessels to land their crews.

Special Evening Telegram. CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 8.

Martial law has been proclaimed in the city and suburbs. The impression prevails here that Montenegro in declaring war acted at the behest of the league of Balkan nations, with the object of blocking the proposed intervention of the Powers.

Special to Evening Telegram. BELGRADE, Oct. 8.

Reports have reached here that Montenegrin troops have crossed the Turkish frontier. The Serbian parliament to-day, voted an extra credit of $8,900,000 for military purposes, while merchants of this city are making large donations. Funds are being raised for the assistance of poor families whose breadwinners have been called upon for military service.

Special Evening Telegram. SOFIA, Oct. 8.

The Austrian and Russian ministers have made joint representations to the Bulgarian government on behalf of the Powers to-day. They informed Bulgaria that the warlike attitude of the Balkan States, and urged upon them a prompt cessation of military concentration. They advised the Government to leave to the cabinets of the great Powers the task of assuring Macedonian reforms.

Special Evening Telegram. PARIS, Oct. 8.

Bulgaria, in reply to the Powers, will thank them for the interest manifested in the cause of the Balkan people. After setting forth the exact demands of Bulgaria the cabinet will ask the Powers to obtain from Turkey a similarly precise statement of Turkey's proposed programme of reform. The correspondent adds,—Bulgaria cannot afford to brook delay, as this would compromise her military situation. Concentration of troops by Bulgaria is almost complete. It is expected that strategic points on the frontier will be occupied to-morrow, possibly producing skirmishes between them and the Turkish advance posts. Czar Ferdinand may leave for the front to-night.

Special to Evening Telegram. LONDON, Oct. 8.

The outbreak of war caused no surprise here but the quarter in which it started was unexpected. Prompt action by the allied Balkan nations and Greece was looked for, instead of the initiative being taken by the weakest among them. The official world here now awaits the announcement that Bulgaria, Serbia and Greece have also broken off diplomatic relations with Turkey. It is assumed that they have chosen to-day for launching war, that they may reply to the protest which Austria and Russia are serving on them on behalf of the Powers, that it comes too late. Should a general state of war be declared to-day, experts consider that no important engagements can be expected before Oct. 15th, and perhaps another week from that date will be required for the Bulgarian and Turkish armies to come into contact in the region of Adrianople, where the first clash of arms on a large scale is considered most probable.

Stafford's Liniment for sale by Mrs. Morris, Field St.—sep28.tf

Messrs. Lever Bros., Ltd.

With reference to the above firm, whose name indeed must be known to every Newfoundland, we are pleased to announce that the genial and ever popular Mr. Perkins—who has now been visiting here for a number of years—has been given a still more responsible and prominent position than he has hitherto occupied—namely, that of sales-manager for several extensive territories.

We have had the pleasure of meeting his successor, Mr. T. G. Hennings, a young gentleman of pleasing personality, and difficult as his task will be to follow in the footsteps of one who has been so extraordinarily successful, we are confident he will rise to the occasion, and that this great English firm will still be most ably represented. We understand that we will still have the pleasure of seeing Mr. Perkins each year, as his numerous personal and business friends here make him feel that to miss coming to St. John's annually would be to deny himself one of his greatest privileges.

Deep Sea Mission Work.

Dr. and Mrs. Wakefield who arrived from England by the Carthaginian, will leave here on the S. S. Solway for Mud River, which is near Rigolette on the Labrador, to establish a Hospital in connection with the Deep Sea Mission. This pioneer work of Dr. Grenfell in the far north will be attended with much anxiety during the winter months. The Battle Harbour Hospital, it is said, will soon close down for the winter as the medical man in charge, Dr. Grieve, has been granted several months' leave of absence.

Almost Hopeless

The accident to Miss Martin, daughter of Mr. A. W. Martin, of the Post Office, is a very sad affair and her parents are grief stricken over the unfortunate occurrence. The brain is so badly affected by the fall over the stairs at Mr. J. Miller's residence which is the cause of the young lady's illness that it is feared she cannot recover. Yesterday her father and Dr. Rendell went to the island and the Dr. with Dr. Guthrie held a consultation on the case and concluded that death was but a question of time. Mr. and Mrs. Martin have the sympathy of the whole community in their trouble.

Vessels Sailed.

Five more vessels have sailed for Europe from Labrador ports the past week and up to date 17 have left the coast all told. There are 9 or 10 other vessels on the coast which will sail in due course. As Capt. Parsons, of the Solway, told the Telegram on arrival here there is not tonnage enough to take away the balance of the cured catch and most of this will find its way to St. John's.

MISINFORMED.—In the report made by us a few days ago concerning the girl Critch, who was arrested for vagrancy, we were erroneously informed. We are told by Miss Anderson that Miss Critch was not an inmate of the C. of E. Orphanage.

Fish and Herring Struck In.

Yesterday fish were in abundance on the local grounds, the waters from Torbay Head to Petty Harbor, teeming with cod. There was also a sign of herring which the fishermen used for bait. The average catch for boats was seven hundred weight. Some good hauls of herring and cod were taken by the residents of Blackhead and Petty Harbour.

Certainly Ends Stomach Misery.

"Pape's Diapiesin" cures Heartburn, Gas, Sourness and Indigestion in five minutes.

Sour, gassy, upset stomach, indigestion, heartburn, dyspepsia; when the food you eat ferments into gases and stubborn lumps; your head aches and you feel sick and miserable, that's when you realize the magic in Pape's Diapiesin. It makes such misery vanish in five minutes.

If your stomach is in a continuous revolt—if you can't get it regulated, please, for your sake, try Diapiesin. It's so needless to have a bad stomach—make your next meal a favorite food meal, then take a little Diapiesin. There will not be any distress—eat without fear. "It's because Pape's Diapiesin "really does" regulate weak, out-of-order stomachs that gives it its millions of sales annually. Get a large fifty-cent case of Pape's Diapiesin from any drug store. It is the quickest, surest stomach relief and cure known. It acts almost like magic—it is scientific, harmless and pleasant preparation which truly belongs to every home.

On Second Thought.

BY JAY E. HOUSE.

It is difficult to say whether the crowned heads of Europe or the poor have the most children. If you have one it is well to remember that a four-year-old boy is a humorist only in the sight of the parents. Lincoln spoke only six minutes at Gettysburg. The moral is obvious and anybody can adjust it.

ST. JOHN, N.B., Jan. 10, '07. Fillmore & Morris, Amherst, N.S. Dear Sirs,—We telegraphed you to-day to ship immediately 5 Gross Mathieu's Syrup. We hope you will send it promptly, but if you are not able to send the whole amount at once, please send us some as our stock is getting low. NATIONAL DRUG & CHEM. CO.

ORANGEDALE, C.B., Aug. 7, '08. Blacking & Mercantile Co.'s, Ltd., Amherst, N.S. Dear Sirs,—We have nothing but good to say of Mathieu's Syrup and can conscientiously describe it as the most popular and successful Cough Medicine we handle. Owing to the absence of any drug store in this vicinity there is a great variety of proprietary medicine sold in the course of the year, and Mathieu's Syrup pre-eminently leads in its own class. Yours sincerely, D. MARTIN.

A Duchess' Solution.

LADY SUTHERLAND PLACES HER
HOPE IN DOMESTIC SCIENCE.

British Noblewoman Says Men Should Marry Only Women Who Are Scientific Housekeepers and Many Hils
Would Be Removed—She is a Hard Worker in Behalf of Betterment of the Lower Classes.

"If I were a man, I would marry
only a woman who had been taught domestic science. This means in all its branches, including cooking, making beds, sweeping, marketing, etc.
Woe betide him if he does not especially if he is an old-fashioned type of man. And perhaps I ought to add, woe betide the woman. The men and women of bygone days understand the importance of these words. Women in all classes, from the richest to the poorest, could weave, spin and embroider and cook. Their potions and household remedies gave them and their children health and beauty, which women acquire with difficulty these days. They did not bother their heads about Latin and Greek, and never felt ignorant because they were uneducated in the higher learning so much appreciated by women to-day."
These are the words of the Duchess of Sutherland, one of the great leaders of English society, spoken recently before a class in domestic science. "It would be a good thing," she concluded, "if some of the subjects at present taught in schools made way for longer hours at cooking, hygiene, laundry and needlework. Practically developed, domestic science, taken seriously, might be a valuable cure for the restlessness of the age."

Few titled women in England today have more attraction for all kinds and classes of people than that exerted by the Duchess of Sutherland.
She was the eldest daughter of the Duke of Rosslyn and was born in 1865. Married when very young, from the time when she first assumed her position as mistress of several famous ancestral homes, she has shown a serious trend of mind and has been interested in all sorts of social questions. When she was yet a bride, she noticed in going over her husband's estate that some of the women were neglecting their homes and their families because they were employed away from home. The duchess determined to get them work which could be done at home at the same time look after their families. She worked hard, and very successfully,
to encourage the revival of the hand loom weaving of homespun, serges, and tweeds. The sale of these goods she fostered by wearing the stuffs herself and encouraging her friends to wear them.

The duchess gives up a certain portion of her time every week working as a nurse for the sick and the poor.
She wears the regular nurse's uniform and does all the hard work required of the professional nurse. The institution in which she nurses is a small hospital founded by herself for treatment introduced by Dr. Quinlan, of Paris. The treatment is especially designed to cure diseases arising from overcrowding.

Although interested in charities and good works of all descriptions, the duchess does not neglect her own home, as she practices what she preaches. Her husband owns half a dozen magnificent estates in different parts of the kingdom and the duchess superintends all the household affairs of each of them. She is a distinguished-looking woman and while she does not possess the remarkable beauty of her half-sister, Lady Warwick, she has a charm which is no less compelling. Her husband is said to be much prouder of the duchess than he is of being head of the great house of Sutherland.

N. Y. Policeman's Double Crime.

New York, Oct. 1.—Anthony Debs,
the policeman who arrested Harry K. Thaw, after the latter killed Stanford White on the Madison Square Garden roof, shot and probably mortally injured his wife, sent two bullets into the thighs of his two small girls and then committed suicide.

The shooting took place in front of the Debs home on the upper West Side after a quarrel, the outcome of which was the serving a subpoena upon Debs, summoning him to appear in the domestic relations court.

Standing on the lowest step of the stoop Debs fired four times at his wife as she stood on the landing. One bullet went through his wife's head,
and the other struck Mary Collins, thirteen years old, and Kate Hawkesworth of the same age, neighbors' children, who were playing at the doorway.

Stepping over his wife's body Debs entered his home, reloaded his revolver and shot himself in the temple.
Two hours later he died in a critical condition, with the two children less seriously injured in an adjoining ward.

Debs had two small children who were not at home at the time of the shooting.

Wearing Lizards

Tiny Reptiles Are Popular Adornments in London Now.

According to the London Daily Mirror, the fashion, introduced some time ago, of using live lizards as women's adornments is growing rapidly in favor, and bids fair soon to become the "rage." Many English women now pay afternoon calls caressing wriggling green lizards, which have little gold or silver collars around their scaly necks. So popular has the reptile become that it threatens to de-populate the fluff beauties of the Pom-eranian and Pekinese world from their posts of honor.

A lizard has many qualifications as a pet. It can cling around and decorate its own neck; get itself tucked up under the collar of a coat;
snuggle under fluff wraps and feather boas; be used as a live and elegant bracelet; carried with dignity in the hand, and shoved away in a bag should it happen to be temporarily in the way. And it has a further advantage—not that it is material—of being cheap; 60 cents will buy one, and eight meal worms a day—they cost twelve cents per 100—will satisfy its normal appetite.

"Scores of well-known ladies keep lizards as pets," said J. W. Seal, recently. Mr. Seal is an authority on the subject. He has a shop where he has sold hundreds of lizards to well-known persons. "The fashion started last April. A lady artist had four blue Persian cats, but she wanted to add to the color scheme, and so she bought a few bright grass-green Dal-matian lizards, and now the blue cats and green lizards frisk about together on the floor of the lady's studio. Her friends were delighted with the idea, and the craze for lizards has become so popular that during the last two months I have sold hundreds.

"Dangerous? Not a bit. We tame them before selling them. We handle them over water—if they fall they don't hurt themselves—until they get accustomed to us and stop biting, and afterward they never give any trouble.

There are various kinds of lizards
—the wall, green horned, Gallott's, great spotted eye lizard and the Dal-matian are the best. They are about twelve to eighteen inches long, and ladies carry them about while walking or motoring. As a rule a pet lizard has a tiny gold or silver collar around its neck, and attached to it is a chain, so there is no chance of the pet getting lost while out with its mistress.

"Lizards are no trouble to keep. You put them in a glass case when they are not being fondled, and all they require is a glass of water and a few meal worms. These worms—they are about an inch long—come from Germany, and from eight to ten form a complete meal. They like just a pinch of lettuce, but worms are their favorite dish. They need to be fed only once a day—in the evening.

"One of my customers has named her lizard Fritz. Fritz," she calls, and the lizard goes to her and actually holds up its head to be fed.

"It's the same in my shop. All the lizards know when it is feeding time, and when I approach them with the worms they put up their heads and open their mouths. They won't touch dead worms.

"Properly cared for, a lizard will live for many years."

Dominion Coal Company.

Reported to Have Purchased Large Areas in Alberta.

Calgary, Alta., Sept. 30.—A deal is reported closed between the Dominion Coal and Iron Company and A. H.
Ford, of Calgary, whereby the former becomes possessed of the Ford Coal areas in the High River District, comprising 12,000 acres. The purchase price is said to be $1,000,000, and gives possession of one of the largest anthracite fields in Canada. Seams have been prospected for a distance of 15 miles, and range in width from seven and a half to 30 feet. The deposits carry both cooking coal and anthracite of quality equal to that of Pennsylvania, both of which will be developed.

It is a well-known fact that the faces of many of the carved saints in our churches are so like those of celebrated sinners that the resemblance must be more than accidental. But Birmingham, England, goes one better in two of the gargoyles that adorn
the Church of St. George, Wheeler street, Lozells.

When the church was built, many years ago, two of the stonemasons employed on the carving quarrelled, and finally had a stand-up fight, which ended in one of the men having a black eye and the other a broken nose.
Like good Englishmen, the men having settled their differences, again became fast friends, and in order to commemorate the event they carved two figures, which still ornament the windows, facing Tower street, one with a bandage round its eye and the other with a big plaster across the nose.

The story, we may add, is confirmed by the present record of St. George's.

What New York Spends at the Theatre.

The Most Theatre-Hungry City in the World Spends Fifty Million a Year on Theatrical Amusements.

If Paris spent a little less than $12,000,000 on its amusements last year, as was shown two weeks ago from our consular reports, that seems small beside New York's $50,000,000. This figure is the estimate placed by the New York Tribune, explaining that it includes "the income not only of the homes of the drama, but of the opera, concerts, vaudeville and moving pictures."

New York is called "the most theatre-hungry city in the world"; but one reason given for this avidity is that little else is provided for the pleasure-seeker. New York has not the cafe-life of Paris, nor the cheap driving-fares of European cities nor yet the "little trips on small boats that go up and down the rivers."

That seems to be the real reason for the race to the glittering lights of Theatre Alley—there is nowhere else to go. The large amount which is alleged to be spent in amusement lacks the authoritative statement of the Paris report, for there the 10 per cent. of gross receipts collected by the state for the benefit of the poor gives the figures the validity of a Government report. The Tribune writer tries to match this authentically by giving verification for most of his statements. It is perhaps startling to learn that New York has ninety theatres of all classes, and about seven hundred cinematograph show-places. "If such places of amusement as the parks and shows on Coney Island, and similar resorts at the other beaches, etc. were counted in here, as they are in Paris, there would be no such limit as $50,000,000. But they are omitted because they are practically incalculable. What we read is this:

"In considering the incomes of the playhouses in New York the Hippodrome tops the list with its $1,500,000 intake during the forty weeks of its 1911-12 season. This is said to be the record even for that highly popular institution."

"The small type of first-class producing theatres, the admirably designed and, for the most part, choicely decorated little playhouses for which New York has become famous, have averaged an income of between $8,000 and $10,000 a week. The Little Comedy Theatre, with its popular play, 'Bunty Pulls the Strings,' has averaged about $11,000 a week, although it is one of the smallest theatres in the city."

"The Century Theater with the 'Garden of Allah,' has tipped the half-million mark. The wide-spread interest in Mr. Hichens's book, and in the fervid spirit of romance which permeates it, drew curious theatre-goers from over the whole country to revel in the great realism of the stage."

"Another big playhouse which has been a money-maker is the Winter Garden, which during the past forty weeks has gone considerably over the half-million point. The elasticity of the program at this theater of varieties, with the general spirit of impromptu and the constant innovations introduced, has made it a place to drop in upon now and then. This custom is a highly profitable one for the box-office, for it is quite as good as an increase in the population."

"Other notable figures in the dramatic field are those which represent the Weber and Fields jubilee receipts for their twelve weeks or so of activity at the Broadway. The seat sales for that gala run alone amounted to $360,000."

Music, whatever its devotees may think of the forced association, is usually classed as an "amusement." The opera last year, in its one house, brought in from the public between $7,000,000 and $8,000,000. Upon which figures The Tribune makes a few interesting comments:

"What answer do these figures make to the accusation that people attend the opera only because it is 'the thing'?" It certainly is not "the thing" to sit in the family circle or on the balcony, or to stand downstairs behind the parquet. Yet a large proportion of the revenue of the Opera House comes from the occupants of the sky seats and from the dense packs of standees. Another point for the music lover is that, whereas no one claims that it is fashionable to go to concerts, there was $8,000,000 spent on that form of pleasure during its comparatively short season."

"Lighter forms of musical entertainment are undeniably popular, and every sort of good musical play, ranging from light opera to the musical variety, finds continued and enormous favor. This spring 'Robin Hood,' the Gilbert and Sullivan revivals, 'Rose Maid,' as well as the latest type of musical comedy such as 'The Winsome Widow,' at Ziegfeld's Moulin Rouge, and 'Over the River,' have kept full house, and those that are still open are defying the summer-time heat to lessen their attendance by a single ticket."

One verification of the intakes must be found in the salaries paid to actors.

Breaks a Cold in a Few Hours--Pape's

First dose Pape's Cold Compound relieves all gripe misery.

After the very first dose of "Pape's Cold Compound" you distinctly feel the cold breaking and all the disagreeable gripe symptoms leaving.

It is a positive fact that a dose of Pape's Cold Compound taken every two hours until three consecutive doses are taken will cure Gripe or break up the most severe cold, either in the head, chest, back, stomach or limbs.

It promptly ends the most miserable headache, dullness, head and nose stuffed up, feverishness, sneezing, sore throat, running of the nose, mucous catarrhal discharges, soreness, stiffness and rheumatic twinges.

Take this wonderful Compound with the knowledge that there is nothing else in the world which will cure your cold or end Gripe misery so promptly and without any other assistance or had after-effects as a 25-cent package of Pape's Cold Compound, which any druggist can supply—it contains no quinine—be sure you get what you ask for—accept no substitute—belongs in every home. Tastes nice—acts gently.

Digging Diamonds at Hudson Bay.

Cobalt, Ont., Oct. 3.—It is expected that Walter Tabone, a well known northern Ontario prospector, will shortly return here with the first lot of diamonds from reported diamond fields bordering on Hudson Bay. He was in the Nottaway river district last winter and went in again early last spring with a gang of men. They remained in the country all summer and must have struck it rich from the length of time spent there. Tabone first received his information regarding diamonds in Northern Quebec from a Chicago man, who claimed to have been in the country 18 years ago and to have brought out $300,000 worth of diamonds. He provided maps and directions which Tabone on his first trip found accurate. He succeeded in locating the old camps and workings.

It is stated the gems are in blue clay working which geologists have stated as the proper formation for diamonds. Other prospectors have visited the north but have failed to bring back anything better than good looking diamond matrix.

The Folly of Crime.

The courage of criminals is the recklessness of fools. Brave men are never lawbreakers. Honesty is not afraid to fear the wrong. Crime is an acknowledgment of inferiority. Thieves and murderers are low types—weaklings unable to control their impulses and passions—cheats who by their misdeeds proclaim inability to meet their fellows in fair contest.

With organized society aiding and encouraging law and order, he who believes that he can pit his wits successfully against 99 per cent. of his fellows, is either an ass or an imbecile.

No example more firmly establishes this truth than the recent looting of an express car by a rattle-brain who, after plundering the safe, remained upon the train and calmly ensconced himself in a Pullman berth, where within a few hours he was discovered sound asleep and with the evidence of the robbery upon his person.

Any experienced jail-bird will tell you that the wages of sin are not only poor but uncertain. The greatest safe robbers of the century died in poverty. There is no record of a swindler or forger who was able to bequeath an estate to his family.

When one considers the fact that stolen goods must be sold to "fences" on such terms as to justify the risk of receiving them—when one estimates the furtive, secretive life enforced upon the criminal, and considers in how few ways and in how few places he can spend his illegitimate gains—when one subtracts from his periods of liberty the years which the average "crook" drags out in prison, and contemplates the few pennies he receives for his daily grind in the shoe shop, on the stone heap, in the chair works, the income of the meanest laborer is far greater, his burden of effort far less, and his employment of the good things of life immeasurably beyond that of the most adept "gun."

Viewed from every standpoint and from every tangent, deliberate crime is the height of folly. It is the poorest paying and the most precarious pursuit under the stars.—Herbert Kaufman in Woman's World for October.

ST. MALO, Quebec, Oct. 8.

Two men are dead and three dying as the result of a prolonged carousal, and of a mysterious drink which a physician is alleged to have mixed for the party. The five men had been drinking together. The supply ran out, when, according to current reports, the doctor made up a drink of which the five partook.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.

The fur sealing season has closed with the smallest killing of seals in many years, and a total absence of pelagic sealing according to reports from the Departments of Commerce and Labour. The result has been, it is declared, a considerable increase in the number of the seals which were threatened with extinction. The total number killed off the Pribilof Islands this year was 3,764 less than the average of past years. These were killed by American Government agents, and the skins will be sold in London in January, the proceeds to be distributed among the United States, Britain, Russia and Japan, according to the terms of the treaty.

Special Evening Telegram.

BRANTFORD, Ont., Oct. 8. At this morning's meeting of the Methodist Board of Missions, Rev. Dr. Bond, of Halifax, presented a resolution emanating from the Foreign Missions Committee, that was to go forth as an appeal to the Church relative to the inadequacy of the income to meet the situation. The resolution said the Board cannot extend its work either at home or abroad, and its operations in China and Japan are hampered against its will. It has been compelled to decide that not a single additional man can be sent to either of these strategic centres during the year. The resolution said the words "retrenchment" and "retreat" were unworthy of the Church and made an appeal for greater concentration and liberality. The Board appointed Rev. Dr. Fenwick, Supt. of Newfoundland Missions. The resignation of Rev. Thoms Marshall, Supt. of Missions, Maritime Provinces, was accepted, but his successor is not named.

At the Casino.

"The Man of the Hour" was reproduced by the Klark-Urban Company at the Casino Theatre last night and attracted a large audience. The stage settings were good. The performance was clever and the performers won frequent applause. Those who took part in the specialties were seen to good advantage. To-night and on Thursday evening "Wildfire"—one of Lillian Russell's greatest successes—will be produced for the first time in St. John's, and it is safe to predict for it a full house. To-morrow afternoon and on Saturday matinees will be given for "The Man of the Hour" and "Wildfire," respectively, are booked.

Nothing is so thoroughly unreliable, nor so often upset by fact, as "general belief." The Ohio man who threw blueberry pie at a suffragette had no gallantry, but any plan for getting rid of blueberry pie will attract adherents. There is no place like home, and some of us are glad of it.

Three Good Pals

Breakfast time should be the "curtain raiser" of a happy day. But the day can't be a happy one with ill health. Tea and coffee are often disturbing factors. They contain a drug—caffeine—that gets on the nerves of many a naturally happy-tempered man or woman, resulting in "crossness" and irritability. But now comes which is absolutely free from any drug.

This new food-drink makes "good company" at breakfast or any other meal. Manufactured from choice Northern wheat and the juice of pure Southern sugarcane, it is prepared at table instantly by stirring a level teaspoonful, direct from the tin, in a cup of hot water and adding cream and sugar to taste. Everyone can drink it with happy results.

Grocers Sell Instant Postum

With "Paisley Flour" you really can!

Perhaps you once tried to make cakes and pastry at home and were not successful. Some ways are difficult, especially for beginners, but the "Paisley Flour" way is so easy you can hardly go wrong. Paisley Flour is mixed dry one part with eight parts of ordinary flour. This done you are sure of light and well raised cakes and scones, and pastry free from doughiness.

Begin to-day with one of the recipes in the "Paisley Flour" tins and you will find that "you really can."

Sold in 22c., 14c. and 5c. tins. The 22c. tin contains 14 ozs. and will raise 7 lbs. of ordinary flour.
