Sane and Considerate Driving.

MOTORISTS, PLEASE GIVE ATTENTION.

At a meeting of the Executive Committee of the Newfoundland Motor Association, held on Tuesday last, it was unanimously decided to publish the following extracts from the By-Laws of the Association with the idea of advocating sane and considerate driving of motor vehicles. Members of the Association (and other drivers) are respectfully asked to cut out this article until such time as they have familiarized themselves with the following By-Laws.

1. Members of the Association must use the following hand signals:—

If stopping, slowing down, or turning out of the road, right hand held out horizontally. If the drive is left hand, left hand held out.

2. Any Motorist Member of the Association desiring to overtake or pass a car must blow his horn two blasts, and the driver of the car ahead shall signal that he has heard the horn by answering two blasts. If the car ahead cannot keep ahead of the overtaking car, the driver should allow the overtaking car to pass and the overtaking car must immediately get far enough ahead to prevent the occupant of the car passed from getting the dust.

3. A Member of the Association must help any other Member whose car is on the road and in trouble.

4. Cars meeting must keep as close to the left side of the road as possible and slow down.

5. A signal of three blasts will mean that the person blowing is under the impression that the other party has offended against some rule.

6. The horn must be blown at every blind corner and the car must be under close control. A car is under close control when it can be stopped within 10 feet. At sharp curves the horn must be blown.

7. When two cars meet on a hill going in opposite directions, the car going up the hill has the right of way.

8. These By-Laws apply to motor cycles as well as to motor cars.

9. Members should report breaches of the rules and inconsiderate or reckless driving to the Committee on Discipline.

CHAPTER LX.
A LAWYER OF THE OLD SCHOOL.

Lawyers nowadays may possess not one whit less honor, but they are scarcely so loyal to the families whom they represent.

In the old times to possess a solicitor was to possess a friend.

A family lawyer was a family bulwark, henchman, and guardian. He was the recipient of the most sacred confidences, the adviser on matters that even stood outside the pale of purely legal ground.

No marriage was promoted or celebrated without his advice and help; no will made, lease granted, decisive step taken, legal or otherwise, without his advice having been obtained.

Such a lawyer was Mr. Reeves; such a friend had he been to the Dale and its masters up to the death of Sir Harry.

Nay, though he scarcely owed the same true loyalty to the new master, Reginald Dartmouth, he would have remained in the same character to him; but as we know Captain Dartmouth had no friend, no confidant, and could not regard the possibility of one with anything but aversion and dread.

So Mr. Reeves—though acting as the Dale solicitor as before—really did little for Reginald Dartmouth, and had seen nothing of him since the final settlement of Sir Harry's affairs.

He, it will be remembered, had closely questioned Captain Dartmouth concerning the last moments of Sir Harry; he it was who had opened and read the will, and attended to the necessary forms and legalities.

In the discharge of these duties the keen-eyed old lawyer may have seen much to arouse his suspicions—or he may not. Either way he had remained an ever-silent and inscrutable.

To him Sir Charles now went.

He found him located in an old-fashioned, red-bricked house, substantial Constipation, indigestion, backache, headache, biliousness and kidney derangements soon disappear with the use of this well-known medicine.

"And you wish me to take up this clew and follow it out said Mr. Reeves.

"Yes," said Sir Charles.

Mr. Reeves looked grave.

"Sir Charles," he said, slowly, "such practice—such criminal practice—is entirely out of my province. I have never touched matters of this sort, have never soiled my professional hand—you will pardon the expression—by undertaking a case of this description. My practice is peculiarly a civil one, and though for once I might feel disposed, in my anxiety to be of some service to Miss Goodman, to waive that objection, I fear I could not be of so much assistance as a solicitor practicing in a criminal court and having at his elbow a staff of trained detectives."

Sir Charles nodded.

"Just so, Mr. Reeves; this objection I expected, and had little doubt of overcoming, but I regret to say that one still more formidable remains."

Mr. Reeves raised his eyes keenly for a moment, then lowered them again, listening as before.

"That one is—you have not asked me the name of the individual whom Miss Goodman suspects, Mr. Reeves."

The old lawyer smiled a dry smile.

"We do not ask for confidences, Sir Charles; we only receive them."

"Ay, ay," said Sir Charles. "Perhaps it is well that as yet I have not told you. First let me state that the person we suspect of criminal acts and wrongdoing is a client of yours."

Mr. Reeves rose immediately.

"Sir Charles," he said, as the baronet, alarmed at the sudden change in his manner from calm, courtesy to proud reserve was about to speak—"Sir Charles, not another word, I beg. You should have told me this at the commencement of the interview. Surely you must be aware that my client would, on getting the slightest knowledge of your movements, come to me immediately, as his solicitor and legal adviser. How could you imagine that I could so betray a client's interest as to consent to advise his opponent or accusers? You must not say another word, for your own sake, my dear sir, for I am bound in honor to use whatever information you may give me after this morning for the benefit of my client."

He evidently expected Sir Charles to rise and say good-day, but the baronet, though he flushed rather hotly, remained quietly in his chair, and seemed waiting to speak.

When the old lawyer was silent, he said:

"I am fully aware of all you say, Mr. Reeves—knew it to be as you state before I started this morning; but still I am here, you see, and still I ask your assistance in discovering and punishing—a crime. No, hear me out, please," he said, earnestly, as Mr. Reeves held up his hand again, with a warning shake of the head. "I foresaw all your objections, and I still decided to come, for I believe, Mr. Reeves, that I can offer you an inducement to join our side—I say side, for it will be a pitched battle, short and decisive—and help us."

The old lawyer colored faintly.

"If you mean any pecuniary inducement, Sir Charles," he said, coldly.

"But Sir Charles stopped him with a smile and exclamation of impatience.

"I am not so entirely senseless as to imagine that I could bribe you to take any course whatsoever, Mr. Reeves," he said. "One gentleman does not come to ask a favor of another with a bank-note in his hand."

"I beg your pardon," said the old man.

"And I, in granting it, beg yours for putting my case so badly," said Sir Charles. "The fact is, Mr. Reeves, I am the very last person to carry this thing out properly. But I have come with a plain, unvarnished case, and I will go on with it. I ask you to join us, for no pecuniary reasons, but for those of justice and loyalty. Let me put it before you in my blundering way. Supposing you have been—as of a surety you have—the legal adviser, counselor, guide, and friend of a good old house, noble in more than name, ever since you have been able to act in those capacities."

"I follow you," said Mr. Reeves, seating himself.

"That house, family, is bound up in yourself, is a part of your life; you know all its secrets, are more conversant with its history, past and present, than even its masters, and have grown to look upon its sons as your own."

"I follow you still," said Mr. Reeves, in a low voice, as Sir Charles paused to give his words effect.

"From father to son the house and estate go down, not by entail, mark, but by will, an entail of affection and parental confidence; at last the estate rests in the hands of a fiery old man with one brave-hearted, noble-minded son. There exists no reason why the grand estates should not still go with the good old name as of yore, but suddenly, in a fit of unreasonable temper, father and son part—the latter is turned adrift the inheritance falls—mark me, I don't say given—falls into the hands of a man of another name, an individual whose interests lie apart from the old estates, whose life has been entirely separate from it and whose character is doubtful. I ask you where your loyalty lies?"

"With the owner of the estate," returned the old lawyer, gravely. "Be he a stranger or kin matters not. He to whom the estate goes has my loyalty."

"Ah!" said Sir Charles bending forward; "but not, surely not, if he who has it has grasped it from the hands of the rightful heir and holds it by foul play!"

The old lawyer's hands, which still concealed his face, shook visibly.

There was a moment's pause. Then, in a very low voice, he said:

"You are speaking now of—"

"The Dale and Reginald Dartmouth!" interrupted Sir Charles.

The old lawyer's hand dropped suddenly upon the table, and he turned his face, much moved, but still kept in restraint.

"Sir Charles," he said, "I always held you to be Captain Dartmouth's friend."

"So I was until I had good reason to believe him a villain, and then—not being his solicitor—I called him enemy and prepared to fight with him for the heritage which he has stolen from Hugh Darrell."

The last word seemed to break the back of the old man's firmness.

At the old, familiar, much-loved name he turned suddenly aside and groaned. Then, before Sir Charles could follow up his advantage—or spell it by attempting to do so—he turned the hand-bell and, in a low voice, said:

"I will accompany you, Sir Charles, to the Warren."

And you wish me to take up this clew and follow it out said Mr. Reeves.

"Yes," said Sir Charles.

Mr. Reeves looked grave.

"Sir Charles," he said, slowly, "such practice—such criminal practice—is entirely out of my province. I have never touched matters of this sort, have never soiled my professional hand—you will pardon the expression—by undertaking a case of this description. ## Trade Relations Between Dominions.

Canada and West Indies Make Commercial Pact -- Poland and Russia Unable to Agree -- Reds Waging "White Collar" War -- Harding Opposes Article X of League Covenant -- Graeco-Turkish War Becomes Intense -- Australian Premier Attacks Australian Archbishop.

CANADA—WEST INDIES AGREE.

OTTAWA, Aug. 4. The new trade agreement concluded between Canada and British West Indies was made public to-day. It increases in certain instances the present mutual preference of twenty per cent. to fifty per cent. It extends the free list, it provides for an increased steamship service with a weekly service between Canadian ports and the Eastern group of the British West Indies, and a fortnightly service between Canadian ports and the Western group. The weekly service is to come into operation as soon as possible and in any case within three years. The fortnightly service with the Western group is to come into effect not later than January, 1921. The agreement provides that the various governments of the British West Indies will contribute towards the necessary subsidies.

GREEKS AND TURKS IN CONFLICT.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Aug. 4. Turkish Nationalist forces opened a bitter offensive against the Greeks along a sixty-mile front in Asia Minor on Monday. The battle line extends along the Bagdad railway, westward. Greek forces in Anatolia are being reinforced from Thrace and, in conjunction with British detachments, have already advanced eastward from Ismid to Adabazar. Izet Pasha, former Grand Vizier, had been commissioned by the Sultan's government to go to Angora and attempt to reconcile the Nationalists. The Turks are reported to have evacuated Adana area, where the French have been heavily reinforced. Beirut messages indicate that the Arabs lost seven thousand men in attempts to prevent the French entering Damascus. The French used armored cars, tanks and airplanes, while the Arabs had only infantry, cavalry and poorly equipped artillery.

POLISH SITUATION CRITICAL.

LONDON, Aug. 4. The postponement of armistice negotiations between Poland and Soviet Russia is viewed here as creating a difficult and anxious situation, which is likely to involve abandonment of the proposed conference here for the settlement of the Polish question.

THE RED TERROR.

PARIS, Aug. 4. In view of the Polish situation, urgent telegrams were sent to-day to Allied Ambassadors, including the United States Ambassador, asking them to return to Paris from their vacations for a meeting of the Ambassadorial Council to be held to-morrow. The first business to be considered will be the adoption of a reply to the German request for permission to use troops for defensive purposes in the Allenstein region. Refugees from the Allenstein region state that all suspected of having money are being shot, and that to wear a white collar is of itself a death-warrant. Soviet forces are reported to have threatened to execute any subjects of Allied countries crossing the frontier.

HARDING AND THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS.

MARION, Ohio, Aug. 4. In his second "front porch" speech to-day, Senator Harding, Republican candidate for presidency, touched on the League of Nations, declaring it to be the other extreme to the referendum of war. "I emphatically agree," he said, "that no authority, other than Congress, can call the boys of the United States to battle. Accepting this truth, why make a covenant that violates the good faith of nation? Suppose," he continued, "that under article ten a programme of armed force is agreed upon and the Congress of the United States declines to respond. The executive would be called upon to carry on war without constitutional authority, or we should prove our compact no more than a scrap of paper. We are on the side of both honor and safety to hold for ourselves the decision of our obligations to the world."

(ARTICLE 10.—The members of the League undertake to respect and preserve as against external aggression the territorial integrity and existing political independence of all members of the League. In case of any such aggression or in case of any threat or danger of such aggression the council shall advise upon the means by which this obligation shall be fulfilled.)

HUGHES DENOUNCES ARCH-BISHOP.

MELBOURNE, Aug. 4. Premier Hughes, speaking here yesterday, attacked Archbishop Mannix, saying "demonstrations in the United States were carefully staged in a manner similar to that pursued by those in Australia, and the people, who acclaimed him there, were Sinn Feiners, possibly leavened with Bolsheviks and other wild fanatics. Mannix does not represent Australia or the Irish or any other question."

LAWLESSNESS IN IRELAND.

DUBLIN, Aug. 4. Clashes between Sinn Feiners and troops occurred on Monday night in Cork, also collisions with patrols in the suburbs of Blackpool, but no casualties are reported. Disorders are reported to have taken place in Londonderry and elsewhere, more barracks burned and courthouses. Yesterday two mail trains, bound for Dublin, were held up near Athlone and the mails removed. During the last three weeks of July one hundred and thirty-two Magistrates in Ireland, resigned their British Commissions.

MESOPOTAMIA TROUBLES.

LONDON, Aug. 4. Further troubles for the British in Mesopotamia were reported by the War Office to-day. A strong British column on the lower Euphrates was attacked and roughly handled by tribesmen, but succeeded in cutting its way back to Hillah, near the site of ancient Babylon, after suffering three hundred casualties and the loss of one gun and twelve machine guns.

MUST BE AUTHORISED.

QUEENSTOWN, Aug. 4. Emigration from Ireland without written authority from "the Home Secretary of the Irish Republic" will be prohibited at an early date, according to an announcement by Vice-Chairman Hennessey, of the Queenstown Urban Council.

TIRED OF INACTIVITY.

WARSAW, Aug. 4. Many British and American subjects are reported as enlisting in the Polish Volunteers by recruiting officers.

PLAYING SAFE.

TOKIO, Aug. 4. Japanese and Koreans residing in the Chita region are officially reported to be withdrawing in the wake of the Japanese Army, fearing a general insurrection.

TAKEN OFF SCHEDULE.

LIVERPOOL, Aug. 4. The Government has informed the Cunard Company that it is advisable that no stops be made at Queenstown as "prevailing conditions in Ireland may prejudice the ordinary safeguards of navigation."

CLIMBING DOWN.

DUBLIN, Aug. 4. No attempt was made by the Government yesterday, to interfere in the Convention of the Gaelic League, which organization was last year proclaimed illegal and attendance punishable by imprisonment.

Christening in Scientific World.

Some curious methods have at times been adopted by scientific folks in naming their inventions or discoveries. It was traditional amongst astronomers that every new minor planet discovered should be given the name of a Greek goddess, and some jealousy was created in republican minds last century because a new planet was christened Victoria, which, however, was appeased when they were told that there was a Victoria in the mythology—daughter of the god Pallas (not Pallas Athens, who never had a daughter). But when new stars began to be discovered by the dozen the mythology ran dry, and when such names as Chicago and Pittsburg were mentioned, names were abandoned and numbers substituted. New species of plants and animals are usually given a form of the name of the discoverer, and the fuchsia, for instance, hides quite prettily in its anglicised pronunciation the fact that it was christened after a gentleman of the name of Fuchs. The naturalist who named the family of Crustacea followed an original plan, having many names to bestow. His wife's name was Caroline. He took the letters of that name, put them in a hat, and drew them out again to every combination that would yield a pronounceable name for the shrimps and their cousins. Another naturalist reversed the process. He had a boundless admiration for the sea-worms, on which Greek names had been bestowed, and he had also seven daughters. So each daughter, as she arrived, was christened after one of the worms.

Germans in London.

The Germans are coming back to London, as there is now no reason why they should not. They may be seen and heard frequently in the West-end nowadays, and in some of the suburbs, particularly at Richmond, where there was a flourishing German colony before the war. A point which strikes one about their coming is whether they ever look for signs of the enormous damage to public buildings in London which used regularly to be announced to them by the Imperial Government during the war as having been inflicted by the Zeppelins and Gothas. If they do, they must be learning at last the actual value of many of their war communiquees.—London Daily Chronicle.

"I Can Eat Pork and Cabbage Now," Says H. C. Tucker

Port-de-Grave Man Says Tanlac Has Been Worth Its Weight In Gold To Him.

"Yes, sir; Tanlac has been worth its weight in gold to me," recently declared Henry C. Tucker, a well-known and prosperous fisherman, living at Port-de-Grave, Conception Bay, Newfoundland.

"I was in such a bad fix before I got Tanlac. Why, I couldn't eat a thing without suffering the worst kind of indigestion afterwards. Everything I ate soured on my stomach and bloated me up with gas till I felt as though I was going to suffocate. I also had pains in the pit of my stomach after every meal that just about doubled me up and the pressure of the gas made my heart beat like a trip-hammer. I never dared to eat anything like pork and cabbage and in fact lost all desire for food. I often had a sharp pain across the small of my back and awful spells of headache and dizziness. I had a tired, heavy feeling all the time and never felt equal to my work."

"When I was in St. John's last summer, I heard of so many people being helped by Tanlac that I decided to give it a trial and took a few bottles back with me to Port-de-Grave. Well, I never would have believed that any medicine could have done what Tanlac did for me. In a very short time I could eat anything I wanted and never suffer in the least from pains in the stomach or gas. I never have a sign of indigestion now and am never bothered with headache, dizziness or dizzy spells. I've lost that tired, heavy feeling and get up in the mornings feeling full of life and energy. I've gained at least fourteen pounds in weight and feel as well as I ever did in my life. Tanlac certainly did me a world of good and I'm sure it would help all who suffer as I did."

Tanlac is sold in St. John's by M. Connors; by Reg. Sullivan, Pouch Cove; Sound Island Store, Sound Island; Dennis Flynn, Avondale; J. J. O'Brien, Cape Broyle; J. W. Smith, Baine Harbor; W. A. Burdock, Belleoram; John Morey, Fernesque; Mrs. Jos. Quinn, Renewa.—advt.

Not in the Programme.

The police were kept busy at the King's Bridge all yesterday and late last night regulating traffic, and through their good work everything went O.K., and only a few minor accidents occurred. One or two rows took place and two arrests were made. The owner of a beer shop in an altercation with a customer at his tent had his head split open by being hit with a glass bottle. His assailant, who was handcuffed before he was brought to the lockup. Shortly after the start of the races, while a number of young men and two girls were in the swinging boats, the whole thing collapsed, two heavy shores falling on the girls, who luckily escaped with a few bruises.

HANDS ACROSS THE SEA.
NEW YORK, Aug. 4.
Greetings on the sixth anniversary of Great Britain's entry into the war to-day were cabled to Field Marshal Earl Haig and Admiral Sir David Beatty, by Franklin D. Deller, National Commander of the American Legion. The message says, "Honor to the statesmen who had the courage to assume the responsibility of that decision and honor to British millions, who with valor unsurpassed, and hearts of oak, executed that decision on Britain's many fronts. When we contemplate what would have been the state of affairs in the world to-day, had not Britain acted as she did, and when she did, the trials and difficulties of the present hour, however vexatious they may seem now to be sink into comparative insignificance. United States forces have had the privilege of service on land and sea under the British High Command, and the memories of the associations of those great days will never perish, but will perpetuate themselves in our hearts and thus serve to perpetuate the indissoluble friendship of the British and American peoples."

Oh, how sweet and clean is the hair— what a delicate fragrance lingers— how invigorated is the scalp, all the dullness and fatigue gone— and what a sense of comfort and restfulness throughout— for there is no soap so satisfying for a shampoo as the pure, hygienic

KIRK'S JAP ROSE SOAP Golden Transparent

IT is well known that most women dislike to shampoo their own hair. With ordinary soaps it is such a task to work up a lather, while it is even harder to rinse the sticky, greasy, undissolved soap from the hair. And the free caustics in many cheap soaps and shampoo powders bite into the scalp and injure the hair.

But a shampoo with JAP ROSE—the golden transparent soap—is ease and luxury itself. Just moisten the hair and scalp and dip the pure, golden transparent cake in the water. Then just a very little rubbing, and almost instantly, thousands of pure, pearly bubbles cleanse hygienically every strand of the hair—every pore of the skin. The oil and dust and dirt are cut out and removed as by magic, without the slightest injury to the hair or scalp. After that, a dash or two of water, and the hair is left perfectly clean, and healthy and fluffy.

For, even in cold, hard water JAP ROSE is quickly and absolutely soluble. There being no sediment, the bubbles are easily and completely washed away.

Made of pure oils of the finest grade and chemically pure glycerine, all scientifically blended by experts, JAP ROSE soap is not only pleasant and easy to use, but is also soothing and beneficial to the hair and skin

A BITTER INJUSTICE.

I heard something the other day that just made my blood boil.

A woman whom I know slightly has just died. This woman was for years an invalid and her youngest daughter had taken the entire care of her. She had heart trouble and could not be left alone, and the care of her was so con-

That makes it seem a little more forgettable, but only a little. Think of the Confusion. I know people do not like to think of themselves as dead and their possessions as being divided, and therefore do not make will. But surely they cannot like any better thinking of their children receiving some bitter injustice or arguing over some question which the absence of a will leaves unsettled. I believe young and old should make will, and I believe that parents should leave their money according to the need of their children. The impartiality that treats all alike, without consideration of need or desert, is sometimes the worst kind of partiality.

SMOKE OF BATTLE.

The smoke of battle now will rise, and for four months obscure the skies. The two great parties now are set to make things hum, already yet. The candidates, good men and true, with ardor of alarm will view, and show catastrophe begins the day the other fellow wins. foot around a time or two with the old gag, decreed and weird, and chestnuts of the long gray beard. We who have struck for higher pay, and shorter hours, and cheaper hay, will now be asked, by statesmen bold, as we've been asked so oft of old, to strike for altars and for fires, and for the green graves of our sires. And sounding platitudes will soar around our ears and prove a bore. We view the fuss serenely now; we won't throw bricks in such a row; but in three weeks or maybe six, you'll see us busy throwing bricks, and dodging rocks by others heaved--we'll all be rattled mad and peevish. And when the smoke has cleared away, the morrow of election day, we'll wonder why we acted thus, and tore our garments in the fuss.

She Must Feel Terribly Hurt. I do not know the daughter personally so I do not know how she feels, but it does seem as if--aside from the difficult situation she faces--there must be a terrible bitterness in her heart to think that her mother would have treated her that way--she would have so plainly showed how little she appreciated the great gift of devotion she had received. Perhaps it was just carelessness; perhaps the will was made years before and had not been altered.

Drink Water at Meals.

At a recent examination of the State of New York, the question was asked: "Is it beneficial or harmful to drink water with meals?" The following is the official answer: "I was formerly taught that water should not be drunk with meals, because (it was urged) such a procedure resulted in diluting the gastric juice and that digestion would be delayed or inhibited. But it has now been proved that the drinking of water with meals stimulates the secretion of gastric juice, also that it causes inhibition of the growth of intestinal bacteria, that it produces an improved liver function, that it decreases intestinal putrefaction, and that it enables the food to be utilized more economically; further, the salivary acts more efficiently as an amylolytic agent when diluted with water."

I bought a horse with a supposedly incurable ringbone for $10.00. I treated him with $1.00 worth of MINARD'S LINIMENT and sold him for $85.00. Profit on Liniment, $54.00. MOISE DEROSIER, Hotel Keeper, St. Phillippe, Que.

Fads and Fashions.

Soft fabric hats have high standing folds set in the back. Negligees and lingerie are profusely trimmed with lace. The Balkan blouse influence is seen in coats and dresses. There is a perfect use of fur and embroidery on suit coats. Many fall turbans and sports hats are entirely of ribbon. Sleeves of suit coats are long and tight, and flare at the wrist. Fur coats will be unbelled and have large collars and cuffs. Small leather flowers give a smart touch to a serge dress. Smart mole jackets are made on the fitted lines of suit coats. Sailor hats with wide red brims are made of long-ray beaver. For street wear, dresses are made in two pieces, redingote style. Lace veils are coming back, especially the fine Chantilly effects. Evening gowns are draped with lace instead of wired at the hips. The loose peasant sleeve and draped skirt are foretold for fall. Winter hats will have slightly rolling brims and blocked crowns. Figured English sateen is smart and new for kiddies' wash dresses. A gown of red Georgette has deep cuffs of pleated navy turtine. The scalloped hem carries out the idea of the uneven hem successfully. Dresses of dark blue serge show large pleated collars of white chiffon.

Just Folks

THE FAILURE. He was a failure. Let's study his case: He entered, and then didn't finish the race. Somebody passed him that he couldn't catch. And so, in despair, he dropped out of the match. Quit trying, and worried and heartsick and sore. He decided that he wouldn't run any more. He got a position, and made a mistake-- As everyone living is certain to make-- And so they discharged him. But right there and then He made up his mind he was doomed among men; He put on his hat and went out of the door, Deciding that he wouldn't think any more. He was a failure. And yet he possessed That self-same equipment God gives to the best; 'Twasn't lack of two legs and two arms and a brain That make all his efforts seem useless and vain-- He failed not because he was really unfit, But because he was always so ready to quit.

Paper Suits.

There is no law of Nature which ordains that our garments must be made of the substances approved by our grandfathers, and, in fact, one-half of the population already freely uses fabrics which, if not technically made of paper, are derived, like paper, from wood pulp. If women have no objection to artificial silk why should men spurn artificial serge or tweed? We know that horrifying pictures have been drawn by persons of imagination of the effect of weather on some of these new feminine fabrics. We have been asked to think of our sisters and our cousins and our aunts with their stockings and their jumpers dissolving about their embarrassed persons. But the event has not yet occurred. The Germans were able to make paper fabrics which would stand service as sandbags, and it is a man of rude energy whose trousers have a harder life. The objection which seems to us most serious is that paper has now become a precious material.--London Daily Telegraph.

Yesterday's Regatta the Most Notable in Our Local Annals.

Everything Went Off Without a Hitch---Telegram Won Press Race in Heated Contest---Quickest Time for Day, 10.06.

The thousands of people who attended at the Lakeside yesterday, thoroughly enjoyed themselves, and perhaps at no time in the history of local aquatic sports was a better or more pleasant day spent by the multitude. From early morning, numerous vehicles, both ancient and modern, took the road, their occupants being determined on making a day of it. Notwithstanding that the weather man frowned and wore a scowl on his face, the "sports" male and female were not deterred, for the decision of the Committee, which met at 8 o'clock was final. "The Regatta will go on," the members said, and go on it did. Having inside information from the meteorological bureau, they were fully aware that the dull-looking sky was merely a bluff, precluding the sun clear at meridian, and a pet day. Thus in their intimate knowledge, withheld from ordinary mortals, the Committee issued their decree, and it stood as immutable as the laws of the Medes and Persians, and Regatta Day was the one event of an otherwise dull season. And their weather wisdom was justified, as subsequent events bore ample testimony. The wind ripple on the Lake surface was at no time strong enough to make rowing difficult, and was just at a nicely regulated velocity to keep all the participants, whether racing or spectating, cool and keen. As punctually as could be managed the events were carried out in the order appended:

AMATEUR.
This was the first race, and four boats entered, Guard, Nellie R., Red Lion and Cadet. It was an exciting race to the finish, and was won by the Cadet by a close half boat's length ahead of the Nellie R., at an equal close distance behind the Guard and Red Lion. Time 10.20.

PRESS.
This was the second race and was also exciting and provocative of much difference of opinion. The bets were on the Advocate and Telegram boats amongst those who had studied the pond. The race was close all the way down, but the Guard (Telegram) took the lead coming up the course and held it to the goal. Time 11.50 2-5.

TRADESMEN.
The boats were Nellie R., Cadet and Guard. The Cadet won in 10.53 2-5 over the Nellie R. second and Guard 3rd. It was a close finish and the distance between the winners and the Nellie R. was only two boat's length.

FOOTBALL.
Four crews entered, C.E.I., Star, C.C.C. and Fellidians. The race was very close going down, and all turned together. The C.E.I. won with a fine dash in the Guard; the Star came second, Fellidians third and Cadets last. Time 10.40 2-5.

JUVENILE.
Three boats, Guard, Nellie R. and Cadet made a very close race and all turned the buoys together. The Guard then shot ahead and kept the lead to the winning stakes, Cadet a close second, Nellie R. third, a short distance behind the Cadet. Time 11.55 2-5.

MERCANTILE.
Bowling's crew in the Cadet won this race in 10.28 2-5. The order of the others were Knowling's second in the Guard, R.N. Co. third in the Nellie R., and Harvey's last in the Red Lion. It was a good race and close at the finish.

FISHERMEN.
The fishermen from Flatrock, in the Guard, won this race in 10.19. It was a close race and the Nellie R. (Torbay-men) came second and the Cadet and second Flatrock crew came last. The Outer Cove men were missed from the contest this time.

TRUCKMEN.
This was another surprise, and was won by the East End men in the Nellie R. The Central men second, went down to defeat three lengths behind; the Guard came in with third place.

FACTORY.
Four crews took part in this exciting race. It was very close to the burning buoys in the four boats. The Nellie R. then forged ahead; the Guard soon overhauled her, also the Cadet which won ground after the turn. The Guard held her place and finished in 10.30 2-5, Cadet 2nd, Nellie R. 3rd.

WAR VETERANS.
A good smart race this was, there being two naval crews and two military. The Cadet came in first, Nellie R. second, Red Lion third. Time 10.25 2-5.

CHAMPIONSHIP.
Three crews entered, viz., the East End Truckmen and two crews of Flatrock fishermen. The Truckmen won this race in the Nellie R., leaving the nearest fishermen crew in the Guard nearly three lengths behind. Time 10.12 4-5. It was sad to see that this race should for the first time go away from the fishermen.

NOTES.
Congratulations to President Hiscock, Secretary J. Noonan and the other active members of the Committee for the admirable way in which the programme was carried out. Vice-President Higgins and Mr. J. R. Bennett were particularly busy throughout the day.

At the close of the Championship Race, His Excellency the Governor addressed the people from the grand stand. He congratulated all on the success of the day and said that the thanks of the people were due especially to President Hiscock, Vice-President Higgins and Mr. J. L. Noonan, the indefatigable Secretary.

The medals were presented to the winning crews by Mrs. Hiscock wife of the President, in a most graceful manner. At the close hearty cheers were given for His Excellency, the President, Mrs. Hiscock, the Vice-President and Mr. J. R. Bennett.

Those who have been attending the races since the seventies, say that there were more people on the banks of the Lake yesterday by far than ever before. The order was excellent and there were very few cases of disturbance, or heated argument, even.

It was a surprise to see that the fishermen lost the race and were beaten by the Truckmen. The motor engine will gradually do away with rowing in Newfoundland, and an owl will be a curiosity to the next generation of fishermen.

Mr. James Vey took some good photos of the Regatta yesterday, especially of the Committee and individuals of it in groups, and also the presentation of the medals.

The lunch served by the K. of C. Ladies to the Committee yesterday, was excellent, and compliments to the ladies were in order accordingly.

The Telegram Press crew did the trick without any tall talk, and the suspicion that their silence caused me all along has been justified.

Police Court.

Two men, drunk and disorderly, who were charged with assaulting Supt. Grimes at the race course yesterday, were fined $10 and $5 respectively.

A drunk who paid his cab fare to the lockup, was allowed to go.

A drunk, who assaulted Sgt. Long was fined $2 or 7 days.

A charge of attempting to rescue a prisoner, was dismissed, the Judge remarking that it was the police who broke the peace in this instance, as the prisoners were sleeping on the sidewalk when arrested early this a.m.

In a case against a young woman for selling a single cigarette to a boy, His Honor asked if it was the intention to make it a special case, or did the Inspector General intend to start a crusade, for like the Lottery Law, the Cigarette Act is more honored in the breach than in the observance. The Lottery Law, said Judge Morris, is a sham and a farce. The Inspector General promised that prosecutors in the juvenile smoking law would be started whenever evidence sufficient to warrant an action was received. The defendant was fined $2.

In a breach of the street traffic regulations, the owner of a motor provoked an alibi, to wit, that he was in the west end of the city when the police charged that he was in the east end. Case dismissed, the Chief of Police, obviously through his witnesses, suffering from aphasia.

Boy Killed by Train.

On Tuesday morning a ten year old boy named George Notall was run over and killed by the Bay de Verde train near Broad Cove Station, the victim being playing on the bridge when the train came around a curve. The engine driver, to whom no blame is laid, tried his best to stop the train in order to avert the fatality. The lad's father, who was in the vicinity at the time of the accident, tried to save his son's life, but unfortunately without success.

The Man in the Street.

To damn governments, to criticize churches, to settle out of hand every question under the sun from the price of potatoes to Indian Education is the privilege of the Man in the Street. Feared by politicians, courted by ward bosses, praised by orators and breached at by parsons, he feels that his opinions, his bitter dicta, are the things that really count.

Often we have wondered why such an individual should be put in the street. Perhaps because he is supposed to have no ties, no prejudices, to have a free, impartial mind, an ordinary viewpoint and unconventional speech. Just why the absence of responsibilities is supposed to qualify a man to express a worth-while opinion is hard to see. Thinking men do not commit themselves to the judgment of a gallery spectator. Any man who is worth his salt gets down into the game of life.

Only the down and out are men in the street. The rest of people have homes. They have ties, prejudices and affiliations. Their opinions are worth listening to because they are the average citizens. As a basis of judgment they have a background of life as varied as it is real. Here we can get the reaction on any situation from a thousand different angles. The sense of responsibility in life gives some salience to their judging.—Canadian Churchman.

Her Ubiquitous.

(From the Literary Digest.)
Men are a clanish lot. At any time, that's what one woman thinks, and with very good reason. One evening Brown had motor-trip alone on the road where she found it impossible to reach a telephone to notify him. As the hour drew on towards midnight that lady became very anxious, and finally she telegraphed to five of her husband's friends: "George hasn't come home yet. Am worried. Is he spending the night with you?"
Meanwhile Brown had managed to get his motor going and a little after twelve he arrived home. Then came the answers to the telegrams she had sent. In effect, all five answers were the same: "Yes, George is spending the night with me."

All Alike.

"Morning, stranger," began the likable party as he settled himself in the only vacant half-seat in the smoker. "And what state might you be from?" "Oh," replied the stranger cheerily, "it doesn't matter. One's as far as another."

S. P. A. Flower Day.

On Saturday, the 7th August, a Flower Day will be held in aid of the Society for the Protection of Animals. It is not often that this Organisation, which does its work quietly and without ostentation, appeals to the public for assistance, notwithstanding the fact that it performs a service of distinct value to the community. The Society employs an agent, and it is to meet his salary that funds are chiefly needed. Through this agent the Society investigates all cases of cruelty reported to it, and prosecutes when necessary, besides keeping a sharp lookout regarding the treatment of animals generally, and thus doing much preventive work. It destroys animals humanely and without suffering, when fatally injured, and attends to the care of horses and cattle lashed from trains and steamers. In old days these unfortunate creatures used to remain many hours tied up, without food or water, in acute discomfort. Ten years ago, even strangers who came to St. John's exhibited at the wretched appearance of its horses. Now, most newcomers remark on their smart appearance. A keener public sentiment with regard to the care and treatment of animals has no doubt been aroused here, largely through the efforts of the S.P.A. There are many reforms the Society is anxious to undertake as soon as funds are forthcoming. A free dispensary, combining treatment for sick and injured animals, is needed, and an Ambulance system of trapping which does away with the horribly cruel steel-toothed trap is advocated, and its use will probably become general in time. The humane slaughtering of animals used for food is a matter that is occupying the attention of humanitarians everywhere, and legislation to enforce it could and should be secured here. These things need money, and more than money,—they need the co-operation of the public. Saturday will be a day of opportunity for all to show their practical interest in this good work, and every contribution, however small, will be gratefully appreciated.

The Flower Day will be under the direction of Mrs. Charles Harvey, which bespeaks its success.

General Lucas Escaped

KIDNAPPED OFFICER NOW AT TIPPERARY.

LONDON, July 30.—Brig. Gen. C. H. T. Lucas, Commander of the Fermoy Military area, who was kidnapped late in June by the Sinn Feiners, has escaped. He reached the Tipperary military barracks to-day, it is announced in Irish advices received here.

General Lucas was picked up by a military lorry near Cola, between Limerick and Tipperary. The lorry was later ambushed by Sinn Feiners and a desperate struggle ensued in which two soldiers were killed and three others wounded.

On the arrival of a second lorry the raiders decamped, and General Lucas was then taken to Tipperary.

BELFAST, July 30.—Reports received here, regarding the escape from Sinn Feiners of Brigadier-General C. H. T. Lucas, indicate that he was accompanied by 12 or 15 armed soldiers at the time of the clash which resulted in his return to Tipperary.

Encouraged by the soldiers, he was being conveyed from Limerick in a lorry. As the lorry approached the village of Cola, a party of armed raiders appeared, demanding that it halt and surrender. The driver responded by putting on speed and the lorry was disabled by a volley of shots from the raiders.

General Lucas and some of the soldiers seized rifles, but before they could use them another volley from the raiders rang out. Two soldiers fell dead, several were wounded and the remainder surrendered their arms. The raiders carried off the soldiers' equipment and were about to set the lorry on fire when another lorry appeared, full of soldiers.

The raiders thereupon fled and General Lucas, with the survivors of his escort, was rescued. The General is reported at present to be in the military barracks at Tipperary with a half battalion of armed soldiers.

Schr. Eileen Corkum arrived in port yesterday from the Banks for salt and supplies. She hails for about 1,400 qts. of fish.

Schrs. Democracy and Muriel E. Winters reached port yesterday from the banks hailing for 1,600 and 1,500 qts. of codfish, respectively. Both will resume the voyage after taking bait and supplies.

Schr. Muretta put into port yesterday from the banks and will have some repairs made to her mainsail which was damaged on Tuesday night by a four-masted schooner colliding with her during a fog. She has 1,500 qts. of fish on board.

It is likely that on the next trip of the Digby she will go direct to Halifax from here, omitting the call at Sydney.

TO-NIGHT'S GAME.

The regular League schedule will be resumed to-night when the first game of the final round will be played.

The C.E.I. and Wanderers will be the contestants, and it's going to be some melee for A. Harvey has done nothing in the past fortnight but to spend his evenings with Alan Churchill showing him the finishing touches on how to put 'em over.

The line-up will likely be as follows:

C.E.I.	Wanderers.
Churchill . . . . .	Donnelly p.
Drover . . . . .	c.
Churchill . . . . .	Britt 1b.
Alderidge . . . . .	Clouston 2b.
Gabriel . . . . .	McCride 3b.
Thomas . . . . .	Brown s.s.
Carter . . . . .	Burton rf.
Windsor . . . . .	Dillon cf.
A. Nother . . . . .	Dobbin lf.
	Regan

Umpire Chessman and Hartnett will control the game, with Messrs. Merner and Conroy in the scorers' coop.

The pitcher had a little ball. And it was white as snow. And where the striker thought it was that ball it wouldn't go. It had a sudden in-shoot curve, it had a fearful drop.

And when the striker wildly struck that ball it didn't stop. "Why does the ball foot strikers so?" The children all did cry. "Our Walter twirls the ball you know." The teacher did reply.

And we'll inform the universe that Walter Clouston pitched some game Tuesday when he twirled the Lions to victory over the Cubs by 8 to 1 in a 5 inning game for the Bowling Cup.

We knew the Hiltz gang were very sore at being ousted out of the running for the H. D. Reid trophy, but we (nor any one else) had no idea that they would have had such a terrible revenge on Claudie.

In the second stanza they piled in 7 runs—the most ever scored off Bat in one innings—and were it not for Tommy Duggan, Walter would have hung a shut-out scarp to his belt.

Holiday eyes generally find a slack gate receipts, but an unusually large number of fans turned out Tuesday night to see the much heralded clash, and as a result the baseballers' donation to the Church of England Orphanage garden party funds should be in the vicinity of $150.00.

In the opening innings, Callahan sent the Cubs batters back to the bench pretty near as fast as they stepped up to the plate, and in the remaining four innings only three men reached the bags, viz.—Duggan twice and Hall once.

Quick opened hostilities for the Lions by a neat single, and Robertson's two-bagger scored him.

Then the fun started!

Billy Callahan's hit was good for a double. Smartering under the lash of Cockey and Coke's oratorical efforts, Bat threw the ball to center field in an endeavour to trap the wily William. Incidentally the heave was intended for Duggan at second but it went up in the air like Hall himself.

Then Walter tapped one directly to Bat whose sense of direction was to the port side of DeMers with the result that it went into the grandstand.

Then Coke Cahill smote one to Rex Field, who picked it up well and evidently desired it to reach DeMers but its eventual destination was in the vicinity of where the boys don their playing raiment.

Not to be outdone in the matter of erratic throwing, Ernie Clouston tried for third and nearly hit the scoreboard.

Then, when Quick bunted, Clouston tried for the other corner and DeMers is looking for the ball yet.

In the meanwhile, 7 Lions crossed the plate; everyone on the list connecting with Bat but Power.

Truly it was a comedy of errors, and no one would have imagined for a moment that it was the Cubs who were playing.

Claudie knew he was sky high, and his efforts to get some one to substitute for him were pathetic. We guess all the Cubs figured that if Bat was the angora he'd better retain the honour.

"And to think that I didn't get even a single when hits were as plentiful as snowflakes in January," moaned Doc when it was all over. He was the only Lion who couldn't crash that old apple to a safe spot.

Ellis had a sweet two bagger to his credit, making the third off Hall for the evening, which to say the least was most unusual.

The Demon's steal home in the fifth was spectacular when he fooled Cockey.

The Lions were in excellent batting form and found no difficulty in smiting Bat's cunning offerings.

Walter Callahan was master of the situation all the way through, and received splendid support.

Carried Away Traces.

Into Mr. Toddles' room marched the detective.

"You sent for me, I understand," said he, gravely, "to investigate a burglary that was committed here last night!"

"Of course, I did! Of course—of course!" fussed Mr. Toddles.

"What is missing?"

"Several odds and ends, and three complete sets of harness—brand new, too!"

"Ah!" murmured the detective. "Did the thief or thieves leave any clues—any traces behind them?"

"Traces!" said Mr. Toddles. "No, they took those, too."

Real Yachts.

Now that the America's Cup races are over, it may be in order to consider some of the suggestions thrown out by the New York Tribune in discussing the present contest. A great majority of the lovers of good, clean sport, who take the human equation into account in every way, will agree heartily with the Tribune's position that the best qualities of yacht racing have been eliminated from the America's Cup contests.

In the beginning the boats contending for supremacy were worthy the name of yachts, and were sea-worthy boats able to stand up under a good blow. It was possible for them to contest for the Cup and be of service after the races were over. Although costing considerable money they did not represent sheer waste, and they could be reckoned as expressing the best in sea-craft known to both countries. For some years past this has not been the case. The real sporting element seems to have disappeared, and the only thing aimed for is winning.

When winning becomes the only goal, true sport disappears. It means a battle of wits, not to construct and sail a craft worthy the name, but to devise a racing machine that under favorable weather conditions will hold together long enough to run the necessary five races, and after that remain a costly piece of junk. The challenger, having to cross the seas, must necessarily be more staunchly built than the defender, constructed solely to defend under conditions that the builders know well. But both have suffered from the extreme desire to win rather than to show what craftsmanship both in building and sailing can do.

Sandy Hook should not be the place of sailing, and any boat that could not sail 10 miles in a stiff breeze on an outside course should not be considered as an entry. The international yacht races should be a matter of interest and pride to all citizens of both countries, as showing which had made most progress in constructing and sailing craft of the yacht class. At present it is a rich man's sport, and consists solely in providing how little is necessary to hold a boat together long enough to win. It is a commentary on modern ideas of sport, ideas that our forefathers would have flouted as unworthy of consideration. They would not have considered building a "ghost" as a defender of American yachting prowess, and even Shamrock IV, would not have passed muster as the best type of sailing yacht Britain could have devised. Of course a real sailing yacht would have no chance whatever against craft of the Resolute type in a race off Sandy Hook in light winds and smooth seas.

It is to be hoped, however, that, before the next contest, the regulations will be modified as the Tribune suggests, and brought more into harmony with the intentions of those who inaugurated these international races. Not mere racing machines, useless for any other conditions, but genuine racing yachts capable of meeting adverse winds and tides and standing up against both. Boats, too, that when their famous contest is over, may be some part of the yacht squadrons of their respective countries, objects of admiration and respect of all who care for honorable sporting traditions. —Halifax Morning Chronicle.

Cole Aero-EIGHTS Average More Than 15,000 Miles on Original Tire, Equipment Besides Increasing Gasoline Mileage 50% for Cars of Their Capacity and Power

Tires never have to be taken into consideration by the owner of a Cole Aero-EIGHT. The original equipment outlasts every expectation. That is one reason for the extremely slow depreciation of the Aero-EIGHT. Its remarkable economy in the use of tires and fuel and the sturdy dependability and continuous improvement of the mechanism with use cause it to gain in service and utility as time goes on. It retains its original value indefinitely.

The Cole Aero-EIGHT was the first car to negotiate uniformly under all conditions of travel upwards of 15,000 miles on tires—5 times the distance across continent on its original casing. Besides, it affords fully 50% more mileage per gallon of gasoline than is ever expected of a car of its capacity and power. Owners of Cole Aero-EIGHTS understand the significance of aero-type construction as it is revealed to them in the performance of their cars.

Just Common Salt.

What is the greatest mineral treasure of the world? Coal? Iron? Gold? No, just common salt. For gold, iron, and coal substitutes may be found, but without salt life would be impossible. In some countries it is mined from the sea, notably at Alvarado, near San Francisco. There flocks of low-lying country are flooded with sea water, which rapidly evaporates in the intense heat, leaving the brine behind in pans, to be harvested and carried to the refineries. Open-air salt farming is hopelessly impracticable in Britain for the simple reason that Old Sol cannot be dependent upon. Consequently the salt in the beds at Droitwich and Northwich has to be recovered by mining and pumping. Beneath the latter town there is a massive chamber, seventeen acres in area by seventeen feet in height, which has been produced by excavating salt. The ground upon which the town is built is steadily caving in, the skin of soil and rock, upon which the buildings are resting, proving too weak to support them. Of course, as most people know, the most amazing salt mine in the world is at Wieliczka, Poland, with its magnificent cathedral, crucifix, altar, pulpit, and statues of saints, magnificent ballroom, bewildering lay-out of broad streets, restaurants, railway station, and other features incidental to every surface colony, but all of salt.

The Mother of England.

"Ave Mater Angliæ" is the motto of the arms of the City of Canterbury, and it expresses an historic truth. Many secular influences have been the fathers of the United Kingdom and the British Empire, but the church founded at Canterbury 1,300 years ago has, like a mother, been the main source of religion and moral culture in which the Kingdom and the Empire have both been nursed.

The cardinal principles of the faith which Augustine established in Canterbury in the year of grace 600 have controlled the main stream of the spiritual and moral life of the English peoples.—London Daily News.

The Land Purchase Bill.

The greatest of all causes of Irish discontent from the Conquest down was the loss of the land to the Irish peasantry by reason of its division among the conquerors entailing the most terrible hardships among the natives. This condition obtained until 1903 when the famous Wyndham Land Bill became law, by which the land in Ireland was to be sold to the peasantry at a price fixed by three commissioners, one appointed by the Government, one by the landlord and one by the peasant farmer. Later, this Act was followed by two other Acts to the same effect, and the entire sum expended under all these various Acts up to the present time is 125,260,000 pounds sterling. This is a very large sum and means that a large portion of Ireland has been placed in the hands of the peasantry. It is estimated, however, that sixty-one million pounds more will be required to complete the purchases and a Bill has been introduced in the British Parliament to raise this. It is interesting to know that in the most congested districts of the island, 1,485,774 acres have been purchased and are being worked by the farmers, while 15,000 brick cottages have been erected from the fund so provided. The pity is that the Bill of 1903 did not contain a compulsory clause so that the Landlords would be forced to sell out as rapidly as the applications came. This was not the case, however, and the result was that sales were slow and much disappointment followed. From now henceforth, compulsion will be applied, and it is quite likely that in another ten years we will see the entire island once more in the hands of the Native Celt, and a wrong of seven centuries will in a measure be righted.—Acadian Recorder.

The Wireless Wonder.

It is a really exciting thing to listen to the wireless voice, as projected by the new instruments; and yesterday's messages from the western ship Victorian brought, like almost all recent messages, new excitement. They were the first messages spoken at sea for publication in a daily newspaper.

The science grows palpably week by week. The very timbre and quality of the voice are preserved with greater fidelity in successive messages, as was tested yesterday with the voices of the managing editor of The Daily Mail heard with amazing clearness over 600 miles of land and water. Such trials are much more than "a success of curiosity." They illustrate and bring home and make common property of the latest achievement of science, an achievement that may tangibly alter the very tissue of our world, socially, commercially, and in many other ways.

Imagination leaps to the possibilities open to peoples who can speak with one another irrespective of distance. Who knows? This new thing is no toy. It is an agent in the civilization of the world, and every stage of advance concerns us all. It is of good omen that the latest stage is directly connected with delegates of the Imperial Press Conference, whose mission it is to cement a confraternity of journalists all writing in English and together encircling the world.—London Daily Mail.

Wedded at North Sydney

(North Sydney Herald, July 26.) A Juliet but pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Myrden, Peppett street, last Thursday, July 22, at 8 p.m., when Miss Lydia Penney, of Curling, Nfld., became the bride of Capt. John McLeod, also of Curling, owner and master of the schr. Earl Grey, sailing out of Boston. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Mr. Jenkins, of Sydney Mines. The bride and groom were attended by Mr. and Mrs. Myrden.

The bride recently came from Newfoundland to meet Capt. McLeod here and be married to him, while Capt. McLeod came from Boston in his vessel, with which he does a lucrative coasting trade between Newfoundland, Nova Scotia and New England ports.

After the ceremony a very pleasant wedding reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Parsons, a large number of invited guests being present. Afterwards Capt. and Mrs. McLeod left for Newfoundland, to visit relatives. On their return they will make their home in Halifax.

Among the wedding gifts received by the bride, who is well known and popular in her home town, was a cheque for $1,000 from the groom.

Germany Defiant.

Hugo Stinnes is a German. That being the case, it is not amazingly strange that he should give utterance to the bombast about Germany's challenge to the world in refusing to pay the debts which she has pledged herself to liquidate. The world has had experience of Germany's defiance. She defied the Allies in 1914 in declaring war. She defied the laws of civilization and of humanity during the four years that it was in progress. And the world knows to what a state that defiance has brought her.

If Germany is to be rehabilitated, if her word is to be accepted among the nations of the world, if she is again to take her place among the great industrial peoples of Europe, she must accept facts as they are and prove her bona fides. The Allies won the war and it is unlikely that they will allow themselves to be defrauded out of the fruits of victory either by self flattery or by deceit.

It is true—and the truth is cause for gratification—that the people of the British Empire have forgotten a good deal of the pardonable wrath with which they were inspired in the days following the armistice by contact with German frightfulness and the arrogance of militarism. We have the common sense to realize that the pledges given in the heat of passion may be rightly abandoned under the urging of a higher morality and a greater expediency. It may not be popular to say so, but there are few people living who would deal with Germany either as she deserves or in the way in which we said in our haste she should be treated. By abating our demands of nearly two years ago, we benefit ourselves and the world at large.

We are beginning to learn that having won the war we must win the peace, and we can only do this by insisting that Germany shoulder her burden and that she fulfill to the utmost farthing the pledges which she has made. Germany is not penitent and the speeches of Hugo Stinnes are proof of her obduracy. But this very fact makes it doubly incumbent on us to insist on Germany's compliance with our just and prudent demands.

Our generosity must be tempered with unyielding firmness. If Hugo Stinnes speaks for the majority of his countrymen when he says that "the Germans will evade pledges given at Spa," and that "the Allies can do nothing to force their fulfillment," then the Great War has taught Germany nothing.

Germany has two lessons to learn. She must realize that she is defeated, and that realization must be accompanied with a desire for reparation rather than for vengeance.—Montreal Daily Star.

Why the War Ended When It Did.

NO RIGHT TO SHED MORE BLOOD. (Daily Mail.)

Whether the Allies ought to have prolonged the fighting, instead of letting the Germans stop when they did, is discussed in letters written by Colonel House the American Armistice Commissioner, and by Dr. Paul Mantoux, the official interpreter of the Peace Conference and a man of whom it is said he "knows all the secrets of the Conference." The letters are printed in the Philadelphia Public Ledger. They make it clear that the war ended when it did because the Chief Military advisers of the Allied Governments—notably Marshal Foch—were of opinion that the Allied objects had been attained and that further fighting would have been a needless sacrifice of human life.

Colonel House, in a letter to Dr. Mantoux, written from Claridge's Hotel, London, on July 8 last, says:

"It is frequently said that peace came too soon and that the great war should have lasted for 60 days longer until Germany had been completely crushed. . . . No one had a more intimate knowledge of all the facts than you, and I would appreciate your reinforcing my own understanding of the causes which influenced the making and signing of the armistice which ended the world war."

Ends Achieved.

To this Dr. Mantoux, writing from the League of Nations, Piccadilly, on July 6, replied:

"I have a particularly vivid recollection of a meeting at the house you then occupied in the Rue de l'Université, Paris, when the main lines of the Armistice Convention had been agreed upon. Marshal Foch was present. . . . You asked him: 'Will you tell us solely from the military point of view, apart from any other consideration, whether you would prefer the Germans to reject or sign the armistice as outlined here?'"

"Marshal Foch's answer was: 'Fighting means struggling for certain results. If the Germans now sign an armistice under the present conditions we have just determined, those results are in our possession. This being achieved, no man has the right to cause another drop of blood to be shed.'"

"Another day, when the details of the draft were being discussed at the Quai d'Orsay, Marshal Foch objected to the insertion of a clause which was strongly supported by the naval advisers of the Allied Governments, and by which the Germans would have been compelled to surrender immediately and unconditionally some of the battleships which were afterwards interned at Scapa Flow.

"His arguments were these: 'What if the Germans, after submitting to such severe conditions, will not accept this further humiliation? For the mere pleasure of receiving at once a few more of those warships, which, during the whole war, hardly ever ventured out of the harbor, will you risk the renewal of hostilities on land and the useless sacrifice of many thousand lives?'"

"One of the Prime Ministers (I think it was Mr. Lloyd George) asked him what would happen if the Germans refused to sign, and how long it would take to drive them back across the Rhine. He answered, opening both arms, a familiar gesture with him: 'May be three, may be four or five months. Who knows?'"

No Talk of Final Blow.

"He never alluded to a final blow in the next few days. When he brought from Versailles his draft of the military terms of the Armistice Convention he simply said this: 'The terms your military advisers are agreed upon are those we should be in a position to enforce after the success of our next operations.'"

"There seemed to be perfect agreement between the Allied Governments and between the soldiers and statesmen as to the desirability of concluding the armistice. . . . Apart from purely military considerations there was in the minds of the statesmen a strong feeling that the populations, after showing themselves ready to accept every sacrifice for a just cause, would never forgive their leaders if they thought the fighting had been prolonged beyond the limits of necessity. . . ."

ANNIVERSARY OF DEATH.
Yesterday was the forty-second anniversary of the death of the Papal Delegate to Newfoundland, His Lordship Bishop Conroy, whose obituary was written at St. John's on August 4th, 1876.

Northcliffe on Ireland.

(From the Halifax Morning Chronicle.)
(Lord Northcliffe, controller of the world's greatest combination of newspapers, proprietor of the London Times, the Daily Mail, and owner of the great Newfoundland paper mills, has written the following article on the Irish situation especially for the Chronicle and the Cross Atlantic newspaper service. The Cross Atlantic has exclusive North American rights to the Daily Mail's cable service which now appears in the Morning Chronicle.)

London, July 30.—The Irish situation is back where it has been many times before in the history of Ireland. In the North, Catholics and Protestants are lined up against each other as they have been many times in the past 300 years. In the South and West Sinn Fein is powerful. As seen from your side the situation seems a little out of perspective if I may judge from the speeches and writings from America. Sinn Fein is no more likely to break up the great combination of British nations comprising Canada, South Africa, Australia, New Zealand and Great Britain, than Mexico can the United States. Sinn Fein takes itself too seriously.

On the other hand the British Government is too remiss and careless in letting Irish affairs drift. The Cabinet has the excuse of being much preoccupied with urgent external matters. The Sinn Feiners complain. I think with justice that they have been the victims of false promises of home rule bills delayed again and again.

The proposals offer South Ireland a constitution similar to Newfoundland's which is as free as any country in the world. Under it Southern Ireland is given control of taxation, customs, post offices. If that does not satisfy the Sinn Feiners they are either difficult to please or else they really want no settlement. The Protestant Irish North does not like the proposal and threaten that their followers in Parliament will overthrow Lloyd George's ministry. It is not certain if they have that influence.

One curious fact is that despite religious and civil unrest in Ireland the prosperity of the country was never so great in its history. Farmers have been considerably enriched by the high prices which prevailed during the war. The banks are full of money, and northern manufacturers are unable to cope with the plethora of orders still pouring in. It is to be regretted that the ancient system of assassination and murder has been revived. Such outrages have always damaged the Irish cause. I do not believe that the Sinn Fein leaders are acquainted with the authors of these crimes. In previous outbreaks such as 1882, it was found that offenses against persons and property were committed by members of comparatively small secret societies. Though there is a good deal of thunder and lightning about, I am very hopeful of eventual fair weather in Erin.

The Laziest Town.

The town of Cajamarca, nestled among the Andes Mountains is, perhaps, the most unambitious community in the world.

Cajamarca is very old; the Spaniards found it when they conquered the country centuries ago, but nothing of the old Inca civilization remains, and the oldest buildings are the churches that the conquerors erected. To-day, says Fr. Franck, the churches stand architecturally incomplete, not because time has demolished them, but because, according to local tradition, a finished structure in colonial days had to pay tribute to the government, and so the builders economized by stopping work before the churches were finished. It is a town where the "upper class" is distinguished by wearing collars and shoes and performing the manual labor, where the "lower class" is ragged and poverty-stricken, and where life goes from year to year in a state of inertia which nobody seems to find undesirable. The unfinished churches give the old town a picturesque aspect, being built of stone and colored by the passage of time until they remind a traveler of the ancient Spanish edifices in Salamanca; nor is there any present likelihood that the town will grow rich enough to spoil their picturesque incompleteness by finishing them.

Revenge.

Those who wanted revenge against the Kaiser and his children are getting it in full measure. The suicide of Prince Joachim is fairly indicative, no doubt, of the mood of the Hohenzollern family, from greatest to least. They are living out their lives in a sort of grim, enduring bitterness that amounts to dry rot of the soul. No to-morrow can promise them more than a mockery of happiness, no philosophy can shield them from devastating memories. They eat their food in fear, and the dreams that shake them nightly—even allowing for their unimaginative phlegm—could not be matched this side of the inferno. There is not one of these left who must not feel, as he reads of this suicide, a little of Macbeth's envy of Duncan.—New York Globe.

TIMBER JUMPER SUEB.
TORONTO, Aug. 4.
The Government will sue Walter H. Russell, of Port Arthur, for a large sum, according to an announcement yesterday by Attorney General Raney. Russell is charged with having cut timber on New Ontario lands, to which it is claimed he had no right.

CUTTING IT DOWN.
LONDON, Aug. 4.
The Government proposes to allow only four hours discussion in second reading stage of the Irish Crimes Bill.

RED INVASION FEARED.
PARIS, Aug. 4.
Warsaw will have to be evacuated within two or three days, in the opinion of French and British military experts there, and the Government is expected to be moved within that period, probably to Cracow.

PEACE.
LONDON, Aug. 4.
The Italian-Albania agreement has been finally signed, an exchange telegraph despatch from Rome reports.

A GRIM REPORT.
PARIS, Aug. 4.
Thousands of prisoners of war in Siberia, Russia and Turkestan must die according to Dr. Nansen, who was recently sent by the League of Nations to handle the repatriation of one hundred and seventy five thousand prisoners.

CLEARING THE AIR.
LONDON, Aug. 4.
Poland and Ireland gave Premier Lloyd George a busy day to-day. In addition to presiding at a long Cabinet Council, and discussing these questions, Lloyd George received in the afternoon, and again in the evening a deputation of Irish Unionists and Nationalists from Dublin and Cork, who urged him to grant Dominion Home Rule for Ireland. The deputation was headed by Sir Stanley Harrington, Commissioner for Education in Ireland, and including a number of prominent men, among them being Professor Willebham Fitz John Trench, of Trinity College, Dublin. With the Premier were Bonar Law, Lord Frivy Seal, Sir Hamar Greenwood, Chief Secretary for Ireland, and other Ministers. An official report of the Conference will be issued shortly. The Conference was a private one, but at it there occurred a discussion of the entire Irish situation. Between the Conference with the Irishmen Lloyd George and Bonar Law received Leo Kamenoff, President of the Moscow Soviet, Leonid Krassin and other members of the Russian Mission, who have come to London in an endeavor to solve the trade situation between Great Britain and Russia. This was the first official reception of the Russians since their return to London. The discussion was confined to the Polish crisis. The Premier's reception, twice, of Cork and Dublin deputations was the cause of great interest in the lobby of the House of Commons. Here the belief was expressed that the viewpoint of men of such high standing in the South and West of Ireland; many of whom formerly were opposed to Home Rule, could not have failed of careful consideration by ministers.

A PARIS REPORT.
PARIS, Aug. 4.
Bolshevik forces apparently have scored a great military victory over the Poles, which are reported to have been forced to abandon their Bug River line, and possibly will be compelled to relinquish Warsaw. According to late reports reaching Paris, the Polish army for the time being, at least, has gone to pieces and Bolshevik columns are advancing, in Schelon, in accordance with approved German technique and are enveloping Warsaw simultaneously from the North and East. The river line, Poland's Maure, has gone almost without a fight, compelling the Poles to make a rapid retreat and shorten their front, which, some of the military experts believe, will be likely to bring the Poles on Vistula and San Rivers and involve an abandonment of half of their country to the invaders.

PUTS IT UP TO RUSSIA.
LONDON, Aug. 4.
According to the Herald, Premier Lloyd George, during his conversation with Krassin and Kamenoff yesterday, presented an ultimatum to the Bolshevik representatives demanding an immediate and unconditional cessation of the Russian advance into Poland, even before the signing of an armistice, or otherwise Great Britain would declare war. This newspaper says also that the British note sent to Russia is of a threatening character. The Daily Mail also reports that the note is in the nature of an ultimatum. "It says plainly," asserts the newspaper, "that Poland is being overtaken and if instead of hastening an armistice, the Bolshevik armistice continue to advance the situation foreseen in the note of July 20, will have arisen, and Great Britain and her Allies will be obliged to assist in support of the Poles." The Daily Mail also declares that ministers indulged in some frank talk about the Red advance, to Kamenoff and Krassin.
