Westminster Council Said to Be Holding Fire Relief Fund for Municipal Purposes.

Families Allowed to Go Hungry With Twenty-One Thousand Dollars Left.

From Our Own Correspondent. Vancouver, Jan. 26.—The scandal over the fire relief fund of Westminster, mentioned in the press periodically for the past month, has reached the stage where some of the Westminster citizens have invited the outside press to take it up.

When the council failed to get the money for the relief committee the mayor refused to sign any more checks for relief.

The council are standing by their contention, which they claim is backed by Mr. Bodwell of Victoria. The city council alone are directly responsible for the money, the relief committee having no legal standing.

The Colonist.

MONDAY, JANUARY 30, 1899.

A NOVELTY IN POLITICS.

The house was occupied yesterday for half an hour with an unpleasant incident. At the opposition organization meeting Mr. Price Ellison made a speech in the course of which he referred to Mr. Joseph Martin as a man "who had come into the province with all that he possessed in a carpet bag, and could get out just as easily."

have remained in power. If the distribution of force before the last session had been continued, the present government never would have been formed, for the coup d'etat of last August would have been impossible? Does any one suppose that the late government did not foresee that the enlargement of the representation of Vancouver and Kootenay introduced an element of uncertainty into the contest? Every one knew that it would do so, but this did not prevent Mr. Turner and his colleagues from doing what they thought was a simple act of justice.

PRECEDENT DISREGARDED.

The house has been in session upwards of two weeks, two members have been legislated into their seats; the address has been passed; an important measure relating to placer mines has been carried through; the Lieutenant-Governor has twice come down and assented to bills; and yet no statement has been made to the house of the fact that a change of government has taken place and why it took place. In any other legislature in the world, the Premier would have risen in his place on the first day of the session, and on moving the adjournment of the house, or on some other suitable occasion, related the facts leading up to the presence of himself and his colleagues upon the treasury benches.

The reason of this course is obvious to any one who knows anything of constitutional law and parliamentary practice. "The King can do no wrong." It is not considered expedient in British countries that the crown or its representative shall be dragged into political controversy. The crown was engaged in a political controversy twice in British history. On one occasion it cost the King his head as well as his throne; on the other it cost him and his family the throne forever. The very nature of our institutions prevents the Lieutenant-Governor from being a party to a political controversy. If he is asked to sign a bill, he is asked to sign it as the representative of the crown, and he is asked to do so without any knowledge of the merits of the bill.

THE REPRESENTATION OF VICTORIA.

It is the avowed intention of the present government to reduce the representation of Vancouver in the legislature, and it is well known that their plan contemplates the cutting down of the membership from this city. The government candidates will not admit this. They will be at great pains to deny it; but they simply have nothing to say in the matter. Every one of them who would be elected, will merely record the wishes of Mr. Joseph Martin, and Mr. Martin has no love for this city. He desires to build himself up as a political power, and for this object will cut down the influence of Victoria in every way. There are not enough people in Victoria, so blind to the interests of the city as to lose sight of this important issue, to elect a government representative. If there are, and when the next general election comes on we find Victoria entitled only to two members, the blame will rest upon the shoulders of our own people.

The Colonist is opposed to sectionalism. It can point to its files for years passed to show that it has always been foremost in advocating the interests of every portion of the province. It realizes that the prosperity of Victoria depends upon the prosperity of the whole province. It desires to see every portion of the province advance in material progress. It never has been a champion of political centralization. It supported the measure to give Vancouver an additional representative. It advocated additional representation for Kootenay. It maintained the justice of increased representation for Cassiar. In these things it expressed the sentiments of its political friends, the people who are allied to be animated by a spirit of sectionalism, to be committed to a policy of enhancing the importance of Victoria at the expense of the rest of the province.

If it had not been for the increased representation granted, Mainland constituencies, the late administration would have remained in power. If the distribution of force before the last session had been continued, the present government never would have been formed, for the coup d'etat of last August would have been impossible? Does any one suppose that the late government did not foresee that the enlargement of the representation of Vancouver and Kootenay introduced an element of uncertainty into the contest? Every one knew that it would do so, but this did not prevent Mr. Turner and his colleagues from doing what they thought was a simple act of justice.

Worry never yet solved a business problem, but it has prevented many a man from solving them. The hopeful, courageous and energetic man never succeeds. He may not succeed just as he expected, but he rarely makes a complete failure of his life, and there is a good philosophical reason for this. The inspiration of such a man is faith, and there is no power on earth that is equal to faith. Here again it is necessary to say something about the way Scriptural expressions are understood. Talk to most men about faith and they jump to the conclusion that what you have in mind is some ecclesiastical dogma having special reference to the future life. But if we understand the New Testament idea of faith at all, it is the liveliest kind of force and is one that ought to be employed in every day affairs.

There is an old saying that a proverb is the wisdom of many and the wit of one, the same holds good of some of our ordinary colloquialisms. The secret of a man's success being his faith in himself. Napoleon declared that the force that sustained him most in his harrowing career was faith in his destiny. We fancy it would not be difficult to get at the philosophy of this, although his demonstration would probably be too long for a newspaper article; but the idea is after this sort: There are laws in the mental life just as there are in the physical life. There are mental forces just as there are physical forces. This will be admitted by all. But as has just been said, there is no cause to believe that the Governor-General will interfere. No one in authority has intimated anything of the kind. On the contrary, it is announced from Ottawa that there is likely to be legislation during the coming session of parliament in the direction of giving Canadians certain preferences in the gold-mines of the Yukon.

The proceedings of the Anglo-American commission have demonstrated that the United States government will surrender as little as possible to the people of Canada, and that they will not meet us in fair reciprocal arrangements. The people of Canada are far more likely to be called upon to support the Laurier government in an effort to meet American exclusiveness than to hold up the hands of Joseph Martin in keeping the Disposer Mines act on the statute book. Disallowance is a bogey, conjured up by Joseph Martin in order to draw the attention of the voters away from the great crime, which has been committed against the Constitution.

Now as most people will recall, when the Disciples were sent out to evangelize the world, they were to depend upon faith chiefly for their success, and one of the instructions given them was not to worry about how they were going to get along. If they worried, their faith would be unequal to the calls upon it. Now, if there is one thing about which we may feel assured it is that, if there are laws in the mental arena, they are as universal in their operation as are the laws in the physical arena and are equally uniform. You may depend upon it that if worry would unfit men to exert evangelization, which was not a faith that eternal happiness would be the reward of virtue, but the sort of faith that "can remove mountains," it will unfit us to exercise the degree of faith necessary for success in our every day projects.

But worry is not only an obstacle to success. It brings with it a train of evils. It is sleep's worst enemy. Some people believe they can think out problems better after they go to bed and the house is all dark and quiet. There may be such people. There is a man somewhere who goes to the bottom of a tank full of water and eats things there. There is said to be a physical reason why the thinking done in bed is rarely satisfactory in its results. The explanation has something to do with the action of the blood upon the brain when in a recumbent position. But whatever is the explanation, it is a good plan to cultivate forgetfulness of business cares when bedtime comes, for of all worrying that is the worst which keeps a man awake when he ought to be asleep.

THE PARLIAMENT GROUNDS. This government, which represents itself as so friendly to Victoria, exhibits its friendship by the manner in which it has left the grounds around the Parliament buildings. If the late government had remained in power, those grounds would have been put in first-class shape and a number of Victoria workmen would have been employed. Under the new regime, the grounds are left in a disgraceful condition, presenting to strangers a spectacle calculated to create a very bad impression of the city and province. Even the roadway has not been finished, and people driving in at the Birdcage Walk entrance find it necessary to turn around and come out by the same way, because this beautiful government was not able to cover the stones on the western approach. The lawn looks like a badly ploughed meadow. The whole appearance is highly discredit.

MARTIN'S BOGEY MAN. Attorney-General Martin is skilled in appeals to passion and prejudice. He is an adept at shirking real issues and in raising false ones. His speech in the theatre on Friday night is an illustration of this quality. He called upon the people of Victoria to elect government supporters so as to prevent the Placer Mining act from disallowance. One answer to this appeal is that there is no authority for any one to say that the act will be disallowed, or that the Laurier government has the slightest intention of disallowing it. Moreover, if it is disallowed at all, it will not be because aliens have been excluded from our placers, but because its other provisions are such as cannot fail to materially injure business interests.

The Colonist can speak without being misunderstood on this matter, because it advocates the preservation of our placers for British subjects before Mr. Martin thought of it. The Colonist's object was to check the inrush of alien miners bringing outfits from foreign cities; but it had no idea of preventing the introduction of foreign capital. The latter is what the act put through the legislature by the government will do, and it is for this reason that there are no complaints in the gold-mines of the Yukon. The proceedings of the Anglo-American commission have demonstrated that the United States government will surrender as little as possible to the people of Canada, and that they will not meet us in fair reciprocal arrangements. The people of Canada are far more likely to be called upon to support the Laurier government in an effort to meet American exclusiveness than to hold up the hands of Joseph Martin in keeping the Disposer Mines act on the statute book. Disallowance is a bogey, conjured up by Joseph Martin in order to draw the attention of the voters away from the great crime, which has been committed against the Constitution.

HENRI'S WIDOW IN COURT.

Though Her Husband Forged to Con-vict Dreyfus She Maintains He Was No Traitor. Paris, Jan. 27.—The trial of the action brought by Madame Henri, widow of Lieut.-Col. Henri, who committed suicide in prison here after confessing to having forged one of the documents in the Dreyfus case against M. Joseph Reinach, member of the chamber of deputies and editor of the Republique Francaise, for libeling the deceased by declaring him a traitor, opened in the assize court to-day. Madame Henri was present in deep mourning.

M. Laborie, counsel for M. Reinach, immediately asked the court to postpone the trial until the Dreyfus inquiry was determined. He declared the suit was merely the work of a political party and invited the court to dismiss it. The verdict of the court of cassation in the decision of the Dreyfus trial. The suit was ostensibly instituted to obtain satisfaction and honor for a woman and child.

Madame Henri began to weep and M. Laborie expressed regret at the fact that his duty compelled him to attend to her matters. Counsel then protested against the popular subscription started by the Libre Parole, which, he said, was opened for the purpose of raising the sum of Col. Henri, who had become a forger to maintain an innocent man in prison. The court of cassation, counsel then said, "in spite of the insults and the daily attacks made upon it, continues serenely to perform the work of justice, and I bow in advance before the decision which will be given by the court of cassation, for it is the duty of all to bow to the truth." M. Laborie concluded with declaring that he demanded an adjournment of the case in the superior interests of justice and protested that the accusation that the revolutionists or those who favor a revision of the trial of Dreyfus, insulted the army was an infamous calumny.

Opposition Candidates other than Mr. Turner and the North B. Mr. Turner Refutes that He Supplied the Government. Another section of the Estate, last evening declared position candidates and the which they stand. The which in Johns Bros' hall, filled with residents of the ladies and gentlemen the meeting was the company by Mr. Turner of the last evening's Times that supplied pipe to the gas works done at Nelson that the pipe was supplied Columbia Pottery Company. Ald. Kinsman was voted and after asking those for the three opposition candidates on Mr. McPhillips said the "cast" ridicule of the Times did not effect him. The attention they were simply showing us they with strong opposition. was said about the Cassia way subsidy. As a matter of fact, the Cassia Road had not been sufficient to meet the project there seen. The government were made to see the error of their way. If their candidates were elected would be represented in the next session. Mr. McPhillips, who did not vote, said that he would not vote for the candidates to the cabinet. That would be the simplest way to select a majority. He said that he would not vote for the candidates to the cabinet. That would be the simplest way to select a majority. WORK ESTATE IN LINE

Opposition Candidates Receive Another Hearty Reception in the North End.

Mr. Turner Refutes the Statement That He Supplied Pipe to the Government.

Another section of the city, the Work Estate, last evening declared for the opposition candidates and the principles for which they stand.

The feature of the meeting was the complete refutation of Mr. Turner's charge made in last evening's Times that his firm had supplied pipe to the government for some work done at Nelson.

Mr. Turner did not believe that the men elected in July last had done anything to forfeit the confidence of Victorians.

The men had the same views as they held then and he was firmly of the opinion that the people had. It would be a better for him if he were not elected, but for one reason, before the general election it would be remembered he and his colleagues had been induced by the then opposition press and the charges of hoodlums were made against them, although the government supporters now denied that such charges had been made.

enough of them; Premier Semlin would like to get out but if he gave up his seat he would start another election and it would be good-bye Charlie. All that the Attorney-General would have to do when he got rid of Mr. Hume and Mr. Semlin, was to get rid of Mr. Cotton and then he could get the Governor to make him the whole government.

The government had done well by the province; opening up the districts which would give a fair return for the expenditure. The members of the present government had preached sectionalism and called the Turner government a Victoria clique. If they were a Victoria clique they had confidence in the rest of the province and had expended the revenue in opening up the Mainland districts. (Applause.)

A HYPNOTIST'S CONFESSION.

By Will A. Easthart.

To you, the only one whom I can truly call a friend, I, the last of the Denmark family, write this confession, as a final confession, for I have no more to say in this world, and I am now in the midst of a long and painful journey towards the other side.

My mind, then, seemed to be of a dual nature. You, who analyze but little your own mentality, may not readily comprehend this. I may remind you, then, that there have certainly been times when your mind took hold of the occasion and bowed its way through the commonplaces that were demanded, while a deeper and more rational part, refusing to participate in what seemed, as all else, a vain fantasy, held aloof, criticizing your action and asking you why you did these things, and to what they led.

It is difficult to see to what this points? If it had, would you ask me to remember the attitude toward criminals, rubbish, in its destruction of bad. Perhaps I can not better portray it than by reminding you of the attitude toward criminals, rubbish, in its destruction of bad.

A VICTIM OF RHEUMATISM.

A Young Farmer Tells of the Agony He Endured From This Painful Malady.

Mr. Samuel Francis, a young farmer living on the farm of his brother near Northfort, in Renfrew County, says: "About three years ago the cows got into a grain field at night, and I was called up to put them out. In doing so I got thoroughly wet, and when I arose the next morning my limbs were so stiff that I could scarcely move them. I was thoroughly rubbed with liniment, but without any effect. Mustard plasters were then tried, with equally poor results.

By this time I was suffering great pain, and a doctor was called in. He said the trouble was rheumatism, and that on four or five days he would do for me. I was then treated with a course of medicine, but the doctor decided to discontinue the treatment and give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a fair trial.

Then I took, two after each meal, for nearly six months, a course of the pills, and in that interval some fine work in all kinds of weather, without feeling any of the usual effects of the disease, so that there was no return of the trouble. I am now in the best of health, and I have no more of the trouble. I am now in the best of health, and I have no more of the trouble.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills CURE RHEUMATISM AND SCIATICA.

Rheumatism There is a popular idea that Rheumatism is caused by exposure to cold and dampness and that some localities are more infested with it than others. Such conditions frequently promote the development of the disease, but from the fact that this ailment runs in certain families, it is shown to be hereditary, and consequently a disease of the blood.

External applications may afford temporary relief, but to cure the disease it is necessary to treat it through the blood.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills go direct to the seat of the disorder, purifying and enriching the blood by eliminating poisonous elements and renewing health-giving forces, thus curing every type of rheumatism.

Do not accept anything that does not have that name printed on it in red ink, in this shape.

Take care that there shall be no missing words.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all dealers in medicine or sent post paid at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50 by addressing the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brookville, Ont.

THE PANGS OF SCIATICA.

Mrs. Palmer, of Penlon Falls, Confined to Her Bed for Weeks—Her Lot Iron Course Has Placed Upon It Without Her Knowledge.

Only those who have felt the agonizing pains of sciatica can form any conception of the torture which the victim undergoes. The case of Mrs. Job Palmer, of Penlon Falls, was one of unusual obstinacy and severity, and she makes the following affidavit in reference to her cure, for the good of humanity: "I am 29 years of age, and I had always enjoyed the best of health until November, 1897, when I took a stinging pain in my right hip, which seemed to be in my marrow, as it affected every muscle and joint.

"I kept up for several weeks, although suffering the most intense pain, freely using liniments and many other internal and external preparations that sympathizing friends would suggest. I was then compelled to stay in bed, as I got so weak and run down that I could sit up no longer. I received several courses of medical treatment, such as electric battery, poultices, etc., but got no ease from the excruciating pains which would shoot down through my legs without my feeling any relief. "I kept up for several weeks, although suffering the most intense pain, freely using liniments and many other internal and external preparations that sympathizing friends would suggest. I was then compelled to stay in bed, as I got so weak and run down that I could sit up no longer. I received several courses of medical treatment, such as electric battery, poultices, etc., but got no ease from the excruciating pains which would shoot down through my legs without my feeling any relief.
