Remarkable Disappearance of a Roches-ter Girl—An Apparently Unfathomable

Mystery.
ROCHESTER, Feb. 17.—The city is excited over one of the most remarkable cases of disappearance that ever took place here. Some three weeks ago a beautiful girl Some three weeks ago a beautiful girl named Louise Scheafer, daughter of a wealthy gentleman residing near Rochester, obtained an abortion, the results of which threatened to prove fatal. The betrayer was a medical student, who boarded at the same house with the young lady and her maid. The police got wind of the affair, and were making preparations to arrest the principals when the girl and and her servant mysteriously disappeared. Tracks of men were found at her window, and it is believed that the dying girl was Tracks of men were found at her window, and it is believed that the dying girl was carried off, but where no one can tell. The girl is believed to be dead, but the maid has been traced to Hamilton, Ont., where all clue to her is lost. French Canadians Benounced. A correspondent writing from Fall River Mass., where a strike of mill hands is in process says: I hear much complaint among the operatives against the French Canadian hands. A spinner said to me this morning: "These French Canadians came from the backwoods of Canada, where they were able to earn but a trifle. When they came here to Fall River they went into the mills and are willing to work for anything. They will go in and take the places of the strikers, and generally demoralize the hydroger. They will join nounion alize the business They will join nounion and as long as they get enough to eat and a place to sleep they are satisfied."

PARIS, Feb. 17.—The supporters of Prince Napoleon (plon plon) held a meeting to-day at which 3000 were present. General Sir Evelyn Wood was immediately sum Evelyn Wood was immediately summoned to the palace and on arrival confronted the mutineers who were arrested. The incident is considered of very grave import, especially following the departure of British troops from Cairo for Suakim.

The petition which was presented by four privates was numerously signed and purported to be endorsed by the whole Egyptian army which objected to being employed in a christian expedition. Gen. Sir Evelyn Wood declares the signatures are forgeries. The mutiny has not shaken the confidence of the English officers in the Egyptian troops.

Gen. Gordon has arrived at Khartoum. Gen. Gordon has errived at Knartoum.
Orders have been given to confine the British expedition to the relief of Tokar.
It is expected that a decisive battle will be fought on the 24th. Gen. Gordon has had a proclamation posted at Knartoum recognizing El Mahdi as Sultan of Kardofan, renizing El Mahdi as Sultan of Kardofan, remitting half the taxes and placing no restriction on the slave trade. The Arabs of Khartoum express great satisfaction. Scouts report Osman Digma as massing men near the defile, closing the road from the coast, at the spot where he defeated Tahir Pasha. It is supposed that his plan is if he fails to reduce Tokar before the arrival of the English troops to give battle at the defile.

Admiral Hewitt is advancing his lines four miles outside of Suakim. The scene of the trenches is within range of the guns of the English fleet and forts.

There is the best reason to believe that the disbandment of the Egyptian army although not absolutely decided upon as an urgent measure is yet virtually settled. An order was received from London today that no officers of the Egyptian army be employed in the present expedition. The order creates fresh confusion, as a dozen of the officers are already on the way

How important a factor the intelligent compositor is in contributing to the necessities of modern life—for the newspaper is unquestionably one of the first necessities now-a-days to the great masses of the people—is little dreamed of by the public. How few think of his importance when scanning over the columns of the morning or evening paper? But were all papers to cease publication for a week these people would think they were suddenly hurled back a thousand years into the dark ages, for dark indeed must have been every age prior to the discovery of printing,—aye, even prior to the publication of a weekly newspaper. It is alleged that sinners enter where angels dare not, and I am not going to attempt a culogy on a subject which he ablest in the past and present ages have failed in doing full justice to, and which has been summed up best in the title "Art Preservative of all Arts." But while this may be truthfully said of the art itself, I do not believe, nor does the world at large believe, that the disciples of that art are by any means as perfect as they themselves would wish to be, for, I am led to understand that now-a-days very little if any attention is given by employers to the educational standing of apprentices to the business, in fact that speed is valued more than intellectual ability and mechanical skill. But lest I show you what I don't know about the latter in Toronto in so far as my acquaintance with them goes, and it is this, that I find them sound trade-unionists as a rule, and that socially they have no superiors. With best wishes for the continued welfare of No. 91, I return my most sincere thanks for the compliment paid myself and the body I represent by being invited to the present occasion—the 40th ann

"Do this in remembrance of Me" was the Saviour's legacy to His followers. Many of our dying friends have made the same request, and so our Saviour wishes us to bear Him ever in mind. In its observance He again and again communes with us, and on each returning occasion we renew our fidelity. In the elements of this feast we have a constant reminder of our debt of gratitude and love to its founder. In conclusion, a powerful appeal was made to celebrate it with a proper conception of its spiritual significance. No moves in sympathy towards a dying Saviour can be forbidden.

And catch with gladness every tone And count myself most happy when,
I love my love by telephone.

The Railway Situation. The request of the Canadian Pacific for a government loan of $30,000,000, and the protest of the Grand Trunk thereagainst have to be dealt with in very different

The loan asked ought only to be granted on it being shown that:

(1) That sum of money was necessary to complete so gigantic a national undertak

(2) That it was necessary to complete it in the time mentioned by the syndicate; (3) That unless it is granted the competing lines of the syndicate in Ontario and Quebec will fall into the hands of the Grand Trunk, and a monopoly of English capital grind down these eastern prov-

The first of these questions is a matter of account to be settled by an examination of the company's outlay so far, and of their estimates for the remainder of the work.

The second is the most difficult of proof. We do not see any pressing need to reach the Pacific in two years in itself, but it may be necessary to finish the main line in the interest of the eastern connections and for the completion of a system that is to be an effective check on the Grand Trunk. This is really the answer of the third

A "custom more honored in the breach than the observance" is that of costly funerals.

The reasons for avoiding it are several; it is a useless expense, often of a nature to be objectionable to the deceased, not infrebe objectionable to the deceased, not infrequently positively injurious to the ill-provided family who mourn at once a relative and a support; it displays a false and vain conception of the significance of the occasion and it appears a spirit of comparison and sion, and it encourages a spirit of competition in display which is in bad taste and illy timed. Against the prevailing tendency of fashion in this direction, a number of prominent personages in England have set their faces, forming the "Funeral Reform Association" with a view of attacking the evil. The recent death. sion, and it encourages a spirit of compeof attacking the evil. The recent death of Lord Grosvenor offered an opportunity of giving practical force to the opinions of this society, and the deceased peer was buried after the simplest manner, his father, the duke of Westminster, taking charge of the ceremonies. Enclosed in a plain pine how the hodgement of the Grand Trunk. The idea of their ever consenting to such a plan must have originated in the minds of people who were not business men. Their first overtures towards securing eastern connection were made to the Great Western company, in combination with which company in was proposed to build the Ontario and Quebec line. The Grand Trunk had influence enough to kill this scheme, which was decidedly from a national point of view the most beneficial plain pine box, the body was carried to its last resting place, accompanied by only so much of ornamental display as consisted in the wreaths and crosses of flowers which the wreaths and crosses of flowers which short of a disaster to every producer and the wreaths and crosses of flowers which covered the coffin. While some degree of ostentation may be excusable in the case of the funeral of a public personage, there is nothing to be said in favor of the practice in private ceremonials of this character. The occasion calls for a relinquishment of the vanities of life, from which the deceased has receded. In its practical relations the custom is still more reprehensible, as we have already suggested. It is a sensible movement on the part of those Englishmen who have undertaken to do away with the fashion, and it may well be imitated among ourselves.

Hamilton as the Seat of Government.

This city is admirably suited to be the seat of government. It is free from discovered in the case of the company which aliance in the case of the Grand Trunk, both in England and on this continent, would at once the changed into a friendly alliance: an unholy alliance, bought at the expense of a poll-tax upon every producer and manufacturer in Western Ontario—and it is a grievous disaster. For since the fusion of the Grand Trunk and Great Western every local shipper knows that he has had an extra tax placed upon his freight, while travelers know that a railway system, at one time singularly well administered, is gradually being worn down to the inferior level of the larger company which absorbed it. Fortunate was it for Canadians that the subsequent attempts of the English owned road to get possession of the Ontario and Quebec and of the Credit Valley roads failed; and that the anxiety of the Grand Trunk, both in England and on this continent, would at once the continent well as a sensible from the case of the Credit Valley roads failed; and that the anxiety of the Grand Trunk, both in England and on this continent, would at once the continent would at once the continent

Hamilton as the Scat of Government. This city is admirably suited to be the seat of government. It is free from disease, has good water and pure air, is picturesque—altogether a charming place. It a poli-tax upon every member of the com-munity between the St. Clair river and the city of Montreal. Such a monopoly as could then govern rates in and through On-tario would be one unparalleled in the history of the world since the dawn of the railway era. It would make Ontario an unbearable place to live in. The farmore eare, has good water and pure air, is picturesque—attogether a charming place. It is both unjust and impolitic to crowd all public departments and public institutions into Toronto, building up that city at the expense of the rest of the province. Let Mr. Gibson use his influence with the attorney-general to have a sufficient sum voted for proper provincial buildings, and to have the buildings erected in Hamilton.—Hamilton Spectator.

re is quite pure. The extract truthfully says that it is free from disease, although we have heard of ccasional cases of cold in the head and measles. Strange to say, however, our esteemed fellow citizen, Mr. Joseph Popp, who lives, moves and has his being in the nhealthy atmosphere of Toronto succeeded in knocking the stupendous chief of the Hamilton police out in three rounds the Hamilton police out in three rounds the other night. Hamilton is surrounded by a flourishing agricultural country, and is quite a busy little place on Saturdays. It boasts of several handsome churches and public buildings, and they have street cars public buildings, and they have street cars a government measure.

of employment among the laboring classes Yet this unambitious company [the Canadian Pacific rallway] is now moving heaven and earth to fortify its monopoly in the Northwest by the construction or absorption of a vast system running parallel to the Grand Trunk and ostentatiously proclaimed as intended to kill out the latter. As there certainly is no room for two such lines in that part of the dominion the justice of Mr. Hickson's remonstrance against the government's thus proposing to destroy a private joint stock enterprise by means of taxpayers' contributions will find charities have procured a quantity of pine, which they are having split into kindling wood and tied up in bundles, selling the same at one cent per bundle, and with the desire to bring plainly before the public the great necessity of providing work for the very many destitute in the city, I write this to let the citizens know how much they can assist the charities in their laudable efforts by making purchases of the wood from the secretary, Mr. J. lustrious and, above all, a clever manipulator of men and things. But when he published his recently circulated bull-dozing pamphlet, in which he impudently challenges the government, threatening to appeal from them to parliament if they did not use their strength to bring about a surrender of all the Ontario roads to the Grand Trunk company, he placed himself in a dilemma. Either he is not the clever man we have supposed him, or he is the nere creature of the Barings, Glynns, Gilespies, Tylers and others who control the Grand Trunk in England, and who, knowing nothing of the temper of our people, think they can ride roughshod over "a mere colony." If the Canadian Pacific had in the middle of the hall and was invited for them at this juncture, the most valiant effort of the leading lance would have been only child's play by comparison with the blow struck for the Sanda Pacific willow by Mark 1997. present condition of the country may also be influential factors in establishing the result.

As for the Grand Trunk's protest that is another matter. It is simply the standand-deliver of the highwayman, addressed more particularly to the people of Ontario. We are going to have opposition to the Grand Trunk in Ontario in spite of Mr. Hickson or his powerful corporation, and it is simply because we think the nopoly cry, because it hopes to silence its enemy by reducing it to the apparently humiliating rejoinder of a tu quoque. But have the people of Canada—especially of Ontario—determined to shut their eyes and care to the danger that awaits them (6) Your correspondent insinuates that "the professional advocates of fanaticism" are disappointed applicants for licenses and have friends who will be ready the moment the licenses are withdrawn from the grocery stores to set my approximately the set of the set o syndicate fall into the hands of that already overgrown corporation. If the ready overgrown corporation. If the thirty millions are going to save us from that it is a cheap investment.

We do not desire Grand Trunk monopoly in Ontario and Quebec any more than we desire it in the Northwest, and we have no hesitation in saying that the point-blank condition on which any further aid to the syndicate is given ought to be the surrender of the monopoly clause in the Northwest.

To Ontario determined to shut their eyes and ears to the danger that awaits them, if the Grand Trunk railway is to have its grocery stores to set up mammoth establishments for the sale of liquor. The suggestion is too contemptible to answer. My advice to Mr. Sinclair is to comply with the bylaw when passed, and if liquor sell ing is of such vital necessity to him to stick to it and let grocery or anything else alone. He can have under the bylaw, if he be as respectable and law honoring as he says he is, a license to sell his favorite commodity.

Apropos of Gambetta's facility in speaking on the inspiration of the moment the following anecdote is told: While journeying one day with a young deputy from Paris to Versailles, he said: "Do not speak to me. I have a long and important speech to make, which I have not even had time to think over." The silence, therefore, remained unbroken. When at last his friend looked round he saw that Gambetta was not deep in thought, but fast asleep, nor did he wake until they reached Versailles. When reminded of the speech he had intended to prepare he only laughed and shrugged his shoulders. In the evening, however, he delivered a speech as splendid and finished as if he had made voluminous notes and careful preparation. is notes and careful preparation A curious action has been brought in the

On one side of the peaces tal, in an inscription giving a list of the voluminous works of that writer, the famous old melodrama called La Tour de Nesle is included. The members of the statue committee have been proceeded against by the heirs of the late M. Frederic Gaillardet, the founder of the Courrier des Etata Unia on the ground that he was the Etats Unis, on the ground that he was the sole author of the play. At the same time the plaintiffs are willing to be appeased by the removal of the offending inscription. The Tour de Nesle was originally announced as by M. Gaillardet and "X.X.X.," and it was proved in a lawsuit many years ago between M. Dumas and M. Gaillardet that the former had touched it up in manuscript.

* WHAT * IS * CATARRH? *

Catarrh is a muco-purulent discharge caused by the presence and development of the vege-table parasite amorba in the internal lining membrane of the nose. This parasite is only developed under favorable circumstances, and these are: Morbid state of the blood, as the olighted corpuscle of tubercle, the germ poison pressed perspiration, badly ventilated sleepin apartments, and other poisons that are germinated in the blood. These poisons keep the internal lining membrane of the nose in a constant state of irritation, ever ready for the deposit of the seeds of these germs, which spread up the nostrils and down the fauces, or back of the throat, causing ulceration of the throat; up the Eustachian tubes, causing deafness; burrowing in the vocal cords, causing hoarseness; usurping the proper structure of the bronchial tubes, ending in

Many attempts have been made to discover a cure for this distressing disease by the use of inhalents and other ingenious devices, but none of these treatments can do a particle of good until the parasites are either destroyed

Some time since a well-known physician of forty years' standing, after much experimenting, succeeded in discovering the necessary combination of ingredients which never fails in absolutely and permanently eradicating this horrible disease, whether standing for one year or forty years. Those who may be suffering from the above disease should, without delay, communicate with the business managers, Messrs. A. H. DIXON & SON, 305 King Street West, Toronto, and get full particulars and treatise free by enclosing stamp.

Oakland, Ontario, Canada, March 17, 1883.

Dear Sirs,—Yours of the 13th inst. to hand. It seems almost too good to be true that I am cured of Dear Sirs,—Yours of the 13th inst. to hand. It seems almost too good to be true that I am cured of Catarrh, but I know that I am. I have had no return of the disease and never felt better in my life. I have tried so many things for catarrh, suffered so much and for so many years, that it is hard for me to realize that I am really better.

I consider that mine was a very bad case. It was aggravated and chronic, involving the throat as well as the masal passages, and I thought I would require the three treatments, but feel fully cured by the two sent me, and I am thankful that I was ever induced to send to you.

You are at liberty to use this letter, stating that I have been cured at two treatments, and I shall gladly recommend your remedy to some of my friends who are sufferers.

Toronto has plenty of street arabs and gutter children without having them imported wholesale from other countries. Yesterday three lads broke into a house, overpowered two boys in charge and committed a robbery. All three of them were born and bred in the slums of London, and were sent out here by a so-called charitable society. The police say that they were not in the city a day before they began to steal. It would be interesting to know what percentage of English children brought out to this country turn out bad.
