5 N. B. GRADUATES AT ST. FRANCIS X.

St. John Man Leads Senior Class and Wins Governor-General's Medal.

Antigonish, N. S., May 17.—New Brunswick loomed large in the commencement exercises at St. Francis Xavier University which began here this afternoon in the beautiful Immaculate Hall of Mount St. Bernard convent with his Lordship Right Rev. James Morrison, Bishop of Antigonish and chancellor of the university, presiding.

Following are the members of the graduating class: Miss Claire Kyle, St. Peter's; Miss Annie Johnson, Mabou; Miss Anna Somers, Antigonish; Henry C. Piel, Moncton, (N. B.); P. Archibald Maclellan, Broad Cove; Robert R. Brown, North Sydney; Edward Jennings, St. John; Harry Hickey, Bathurst; John Butts, Sydney Mines; John Riordan, Bathurst; John Lambertus, Esgonville, (Ont.); James Howard, Esgonville, (Ont.); John Hogan, Chatham; John Chaisson, Glace Bay; George McLean, Furl Brook; Charles Perry, North Sydney; Mark E. Murphy, Buchanan, (Sask.); Edwin Kirk, Antigonish; Claude MacGillivray, Glace Bay.

The degree of M. A. was conferred upon Duncal Maclellan, B. A., Judique, Antigonish. Addresses of an intensely practical nature featured the exercises during the afternoon. Preceding his salutatory address Mark Murphy read a paper on the power of the press, in which he analyzed the functions of the press in a democracy, pointing out some of the evils which had crept in and the duty of all right thinking citizens to work for the eradication of those evils.

Review of College Year. Very Rev. H. P. McPherson, D. D., D. C. L., president of the university, in his address at the degree conferring ceremony reviewed the work of the college during the last year.

The rector spoke in feeling terms of the death of Frederick Ferguson and Frank Anglin, two of last year's graduates, and to the death of Dr. Neil McNeil, the greatest benefactor of St. Francis Xavier, which occurred on St. Francis Xavier's Day, Dec. 8, 1921. Claude MacGillivray's paper on the causes of industrial unrest was a keen discussion of the problem. Blindness and ignorance on the part of either capital or labor, and perhaps both, was always the cause of conflicts between men and nations, he said. He said that employers should have a knowledge of the psychology of man, that they should treat their employees as human beings not cogs in a machine, and that the employer's work should be given a wide and renewed interest through bringing home to them a realization of the integral part their particular industry played in the great fabric of civilization.

Mr. Hickey, preceding his salutatory address, treated on the value of science in an ably written and informative paper in which he pointed out striking by the great debt that civilization and progress owe to science.

Dr. George H. Murphy, of Halifax, delivered the address to the graduates. Following the exercises at Immaculate Hall the faculty and graduates marched in procession to St. Ninian's Cathedral where solemn benediction was given by Bishop Morrison, who was assisted by Rev. Dr. MacPherson as deacon, Rev. Dr. J. J. Tompkins, vice-president, as sub-deacon; Rev. H. J. McDonald and Rev. D. J. McDonald.

The baccalaureate sermon was preached by Rev. D. M. McAdam, of Sydney (N. S.), who took for his text, "We not solicitous, therefore, saying, 'What shall we eat; or wherewith shall we be clothed?'" For after all these things do the heathens seek. For your Father knoweth that you have need of all these things. Seek ye, therefore, first the Kingdom of God, and His Justice and all these things shall be added unto you." Matt. vi, 31-33.

The alumni banquet was held early this evening in the professors' refectory, with Prof. W. H. Buchholz, president of the alumni, as toastmaster. George Kyte, M. P. Liberal whip, an alumnus of St. Francis Xavier, whose daughter was graduated today, replied to the toast to the learned professors. Edward Q. Jennings, of St. John, president of the class of '22, responded to the toast to the graduates. The commencement exercises at Mount St. Bernard were held this evening and were marked by the customary excellence which always distinguishes them. Each of the three young women graduates read a scholarly paper.

The address to the graduates was given by Mrs. F. J. Murphy, of Sydney, diocesan president of the Catholic Women's League. Ideal weather greeted the large number of visitors who are assembled here for the closing exercises. The alumni association will meet tomorrow morning.

KILLS ONE TRAIN ROBBER, ROUTS SEVEN OTHERS

Express Clerk Frustrates the Hold-up of the Golden State Limited in Arizona—Another Bandit Wounded.

Tucson, Ariz., May 18.—With two well-directed bullets, Express Messenger H. Stewart frustrated a spectacular attempt by eight masked bandits to rob Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific train No. 8, the Golden State Limited, bound from Chicago to Los Angeles. Stewart killed one of the robbers, apparently wounded a second and routed the band empty handed.

Passenger were not molested in the hold-up, which was staged at 1:30 a. m. in an isolated spot near Jaynes, a flag station eight miles west of Tucson. The slain bandit was recognized by Sheriff Daniels of Pinal County as Tom Dugan, a Tucson poolroom habitue. The man wore rubber gloves. Besides the body was found a sack of dynamite, intended to blow open strong boxes in the mail and baggage cars. A railroad stop signal was used to halt the limited. Three masked men boarded the engine and a fourth stood guard over the passenger coaches. With revolvers leveled, they forced a train of the express cars. The engineer, obeying orders of the armed trio, rolled the cars about a dozen car lengths, to a point where four other masked men were waiting in an automobile.

When Conductor Madigan looked out of the vestibule of a passenger coach to ascertain what had occurred, a member of the bandit gang opened fire. Meanwhile Stewart, the express messenger, had thrown open the door of the baggage car. When Stewart saw that Madigan was in danger, he killed with one shot the bandit who had fired at the conductor. Stewart then wheeled about and sent another bullet at four robbers who were advancing on the baggage and mail cars. One, apparently hit, staggered and shouted to his comrades. Then all seven turned and scurried to two automobiles and sped west. Sheriff Daniels announced that a large force of deputies had been dispatched to point where four other masked men were waiting in an automobile.

All Southern Arizona highways for 100 miles in every direction are carefully guarded, particularly those toward the Mexican border, where it was suspected the bandits will direct their flight.

Phoenix, Ariz., May 18.—The hold-up of the Golden State Limited was discovered by crew of a freight train which came behind the limited. The freight train's crew heard shooting and immediately returned to Tucson to report the affair. They did not stop to investigate what was happening on the limited, they said.

FOR WHEAT BOARD

Ottawa, May 17.—The passage of an act creating a national wheat marketing agency with powers similar to those of the Canada wheat board of 1919 and to become effective when two or more of the provinces have conferred upon this agency powers possessed by the late wheat board was recommended to parliament today by the house committee on agriculture. This action was taken as a result of the resolution introduced by R. M. Johnson (Progressive, Moose Jaw) and was approved on a vote of 52 to 28. The Liberals voted almost solidly against the resolution but the Progressives were supported by several of the Conservatives. An amendment to the resolution offered by A. R. MacMaster, Liberal member for Moose Jaw, was to strike out any compulsory features, was previously defeated by a majority of seven, the vote standing 27 for the amendment and 24 against.

Jerusalem Fast Taking Old Form. Official in New York in Interest of Restoration Describes Work Already Done—Citadel Walls Repaired.

New York, May 18.—Restoration of the antiquities of Jerusalem from a deplorable state caused by 600 years of Turkish rule is going on rapidly, according to E. Kethi-Roach, first assistant civil secretary to the Government of Palestine who has just arrived in this country to interest Americans in the work. Mr. Kethi-Roach is on a semi-official visit as a representative of the Pro-Jerusalem Society, an organization backed by the British Government and having among its members Moslems, Jews and Christians representing many nationalities and all shades of religious belief.

"All branches of religion are working together in perfect harmony to restore Jerusalem for the whole of the civilized world," Mr. Kethi-Roach said. "It is a great task and will take many years. The effects of 600 years of Turkish rule cannot be remedied in a moment. When the society began its work four years ago under the leadership of the High Commissioner of Palestine, the city was in a state of squalor. In the task of sanitation and feeding the starving people the American Red Cross and later the Near East Relief did wonderful work. Now the city is being restored and some great things in the restoration work have been accomplished. About $400,000 has been spent, but to do the task properly, over a very long period of years, it is estimated that $4,000,000 will have to be expended.

"One of the historic places that has been restored is the Souq Qattanin, the bazaar that has been in existence since B. C. About $400,000 has been spent there and the market is now open again. Much work has been done at the 'Dome of the Rock,' the finest Moslem temple in the world, over Mount Mouriah, the spot where Abraham is reputed to have offered up Isaac. Solomon's temple and Herod's temples are there also.

"The citadel of Jerusalem was the rubbish heap when the society began its work. The top of the wall has been repaired and some rampart walk has been built around the whole town and beautiful citadel gardens have been planted. Mr. Kethi-Roach said he had come here for three months to talk to any organizations interested in the restoration of Jerusalem. He already has accepted invitations to talk before universities, religious societies and clubs of various sorts, he said.

PALESTINE AND BRITISH MANDATE. Formal approval of the British mandate for Palestine is now being pressed by Lord Balfour at Geneva. So thoroughly committed is Great Britain to the Balfour pledge of a national home for the Jews in the ancient land that a favorable decision by the league has never been seriously in question. With our own government now formally on record in favor of the world, we are not in the league—a speedy ratification of the mandate is now being urged. To some degree the delay at Geneva may have stood in the way of a vigorous prosecution of the mandate plan. But in large measure the time has not been wasted. A year ago the Palestinian atmosphere was heavy with mutual fears and suspicions as between British Zionists and as between British interests in that part of the world. High Commissioner who has not been considered friendly enough. The air is still somewhat sultry, but a good deal of the electricity has been discharged. Preliminary difficulties in the way of a reconstruction of Palestine were unavoidable, and it is better perhaps that part of the inevitable trouble now lies in the past.

A quieter mood among all parties in Palestine is bound to come as the stage of political debate passes into that of creative labor. As Zionist activity turns more and more to constructive effort in agriculture, in road building, in industry and commerce, there will be less pre-occupation with political ultimatums. On the part of the Arab population we may also expect a decreasing hostility towards Zionist neighbors who are quietly at work on the reclamation of a common country.

NEUTRALIZED ACIDS IN YOUR STOMACH. GET RID OF INDIGESTION. Few people realize the importance of keeping the stomach free from excessive hydrochloric acid. Yet Acid Stomach is the cause of nine-tenths of all stomach trouble. The food sour and ferment, bringing on Gas, Heartburn, Bloating, Indigestion, and the stomach pains that every sufferer knows so well. Pepsin and artificial digestants are quite as often do great harm. Neutralize or sweeten the stomach acids after eating with a glass of warm or hot Magnesia water. A teaspoonful, or four tablets of pure Bisulphate Magnesia to a glass of water is all that is required. Get a few ounces of Bisulphate Magnesia from any reliable druggist and try this for a few weeks. Eat what you want and enjoy your meals.

BETTER THAN HARD COAL. Soft coal so free from soot that it does not make whistlers on stove covers or pipe and does not melt or clog when burning, is far better than Hard Coal for general household use. Quicker to light, takes less to make a fire, cheaper in price and small heating stoves. Such a coal is Broad Cove soft coal. The main thing is to insist on getting the genuine article. No other soft coal burns just like Broad Cove. You will know it by the characteristics.

RAILWAY ESTIMATES BEFORE COMMONS

Ottawa, May 17.—Discussion of railway estimates in the house today brought from Hon. T. A. Ceras, leader of the National Progressives, an important declaration of his policy on the national roads. He advocated the setting up of part of the Transcontinental lines running across the wilderness between Eastern and Western Canada. He urged a re-orientation of the entire system on a replacement basis and its unification. It was also under such principles, he argued, that the fiscal policy of the country should be drafted to stimulate production from the farm, the forest and the mine, the railway traffic thereby being encouraged.

A splendid asset. "In the national railways," Mr. Ceras declared, "the people of Canada have a splendid asset. If they are turned over to private ownership at any price which would involve no loss to the public, the country would forever lose their potential value, but would not escape the liability involved." When unification of the system took place, Mr. Ceras added, there should be a complete revaluation of the whole policy of the merchant who when he marked down the prices in order to win the department of railways. He was not logical if this were done with the railways. Answering Mr. Logan, the Progressive leader said he would value the railway on a replacement basis. Interest on bonds which were not written off, but which were charged against the system.

Ottawa, May 17.—Estimates of the department of railways and canals, chargeable to income, were taken up when the house went into committee to supply. The first item was that of $42,900,000 to meet expenditures made on indebtedness incurred (where amount available from net operating earnings is insufficient) by or on behalf of the Canadian National Railway Company, the Canadian Northern Railway Company or any company comprised in the Canadian Northern system, on any of the following accounts: (a) Operating materials and supplies; (b) acquisition of property, materials and supplies; (c) interest and sinking fund on notes, securities, and obligations; (d) principal and interest of maturing or matured loans secured or unsecured; (e) co-ordination or

ST. JOHN, N. B., MAY 18, 1922. The St. John Evening Times is printed at 27 and 29 Canterbury Street, every evening (Sunday excepted) by The St. John Times Printing and Publishing Co., Ltd., a company incorporated under the Joint Stock Companies Act, 1880, in Canada.

NO CAUSE FOR DREAD.

St. John is not on the verge of calamity. It is not threatened by persons with burglarious intent. Honesty and public spirit have not departed from the earth. Well meaning persons are still to be found in office and out of it. There are enough of them to ensure this city a supply of cheap light and power. It is not necessary to keep the burglar alarm ringing because the New Brunswick Power Company is not to be permitted to go on charging prohibitive rates for these services, or for any other reason whatsoever.

SIGNIFICANT FIGURES.

There is great encouragement for those who are interested in the fight against tuberculosis in a recent statement by Dr. Matthias Nicoll, Jr., deputy commissioner of health for the state of New York. He said: "If the present rate of decline in the death rate from tuberculosis may be even approximated in the future, it would not seem an extravagant hope to look forward to the time, possibly in the next one or two generations, when deaths from tuberculosis will not be an important factor in the general death rate, or even that the disease may become a rarity, provided always that within that time no great national disaster leading to financial distress, unemployment, unhygienic living conditions, and partial starvation, such as has overwhelmed Central Europe, shall visit this country."

THE WAR MEMORIAL.

Since the meeting of citizens last evening decided that the war memorial should take the form of a monument and not a building, it only remains for the strong committee which was appointed to choose the most fitting, whether inscribed shaft or great memorial arch, and select such a site as will make it dominate the particular portion of the city where it may be erected. Naturally one thinks first of King Square, around and through which pulses the life of the city, and which already has the Young monument and the Tilley statue. The committee may be assured that in choosing a memorial the question of cost will not stand in the way of making it worthy of those who gave their lives in the struggle that saved Canada and the Empire, and freed the world from the threatened bondage of a military autocracy as soulless as it was formidable in the war. St. John has too few monuments. In every New England town one sees memorials erected in honor of those who fell in the struggle that freed the slave and saved the union. Let this St. John memorial be of a character such as will impress upon coming generations the lesson of the devotion and sacrifice of the men and women of the early years of this century, and show that we who arrived the war were not unmindful of the debt we owed to them.

UNITED STATES AND EUROPE.

M. Schaner, head of the Italian delegation at Genoa, expressed the wish yesterday that he was in Washington, endeavoring to convince Pres. Harding and Secretary Hughes that the United States should be represented at the Hague conference. He and Mr. Lloyd George said that if there was in the United States a feeling that the powers were inspired by utilitarian motives in asking the cooperation of the United States, every effort should be made to remove it, and convince the Americans that it was because of the prestige of the United States and its reputation as impartial and disinterested that its cooperation was sought in the economic restoration of Europe. That such a feeling does exist is clear from the following extract from an article in the Independent of May 15: "As we have pointed out before, the real purpose of the Genoa Conference was to find some clever formula whereby, without too great a shock to the moral sense of the world, certain financial interests might acquire from the Soviet government the opportunity to exploit the resources of Russia. The main issue is how to accord to the Soviet government the recognition that will enable it to transfer to the foreign capitalist the vast properties which it has confiscated from their legal owners, and at the same time, by that recognition, not compromise the rights and claims of foreigners who have suffered loss by the Soviet socialization programme. It is manifest that a deal of this sort, so destructive of the fundamentals of international commercial morality, can not achieve eventual success."

HUNGARIAN BUFF.

Correspondent adds the following to our list of mixed metaphors. A representative in the Hungarian Diet declared passionately: "Gentlemen, the apple of discord has been thrown into our midst, and if it is not nipped in the bud it will burst into a conflagration that will deluge the world." — Boston Transcript.

New York, May 18.—Ten cases of whooping cough reported by the police. Within two hours after they had eaten cream pie in a restaurant and luncheon conducted by the city in the basement of the Public Library, at Forty-second street and Fifth avenue, six women employees of the library became ill yesterday afternoon. Three went home after receiving first aid from Mrs. A. Levitt, head of the library force. The other three remained at work about an hour longer. Dr. Simon, called from New York Hospital, said he thought they were suffering from ptomaine poisoning. He attended those who had remained at the library, and Mrs. Levitt took them to their homes in a taxicab. They were Misses Mary Harrison, Valley Road, Montclair, N. Lugin-Bauer.
A pretty wedding took place at 11 o'clock yesterday morning at the home of the bride, 168 St. James street, when Henrietta Florence (Tita), daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Bauer, was united in marriage to Arthur Lawrence Lugin, son of C. T. Lugin, of this city. The ceremony was performed by Rev. R. A. Armstrong in the presence of relatives and a few immediate friends. The bride, who was unattended, was given away by her father. She wore a beautiful traveling suit of navy blue tulle, a mole skirt, black picture hat and carried a lovely bouquet of American beauty roses. After a delectable luncheon, Mr. and Mrs. Lugin left by the noon train on a wedding trip to Halifax. On their return they will reside at 168 St. James street. The bride, who is a popular young lady, received a large number of beautiful and useful gifts.

RECENT DEATHS

Dr. William R. Wilkes.
The death of Dr. William R. Wilkes occurred last evening at the home of his father-in-law, J. Robert Bartlett, Lancaster Heights. Dr. Wilkes was well-known in this city. He joined the C. C. E. here in 1916, in the Canadian army dental corps with the rank of captain and served for some time overseas. He returned in September, 1919, but did not receive his discharge here until August, 1921. He was then consulted for several months with the dental clinic board of the D. S. C. R. He served his connection with the board in early fall, and in October removed to St. Catharines (Ont.), where he resumed the practice of his profession. Dr. Wilkes had been in failing health since the latter part of January, and recently his condition became serious. It was finally decided that he should be sent back to his home in this city. He arrived here early yesterday morning and passed away last evening.

Dr. Wilkes was well known in St. Stephen, where he carried on a practice prior to his enlistment. He was also well known in musical circles in this city, as it was mainly through the efforts of Dr. Wilkes and his wife that the present surprise choir was organized. At the time of his death, Dr. Wilkes was president of the New Brunswick Dental Society.

Mrs. Mary R. Edwards.
Mrs. Mary R. Edwards, of Sea Dog Cove, died yesterday afternoon at 6 o'clock after a lengthy illness. She was eighty-eight years of age and was born in Ireland and came to this city in 1874. She had resided in St. John and Kings county. Her husband died in 1874. Mrs. Edwards was survived by four sons, John, Thomas, Hamilton and Walter, and one daughter, Mrs. Annie Porter of Lovell (Mass.), and twenty-four grandchildren and sixteen great-grandchildren. The funeral will take place on Friday afternoon, following the arrival of the ferry steamer Maggie Miller, which will leave Millidgeville at 1 o'clock. Interment will be in the family lot in Bayswater.

Thomas McMaster.
The death of Thomas McMaster of Hardwick, Northumberland county, occurred in the Moncton Hospital last night, following an operation. He was sixty-seven years of age. He is survived by his wife, two sons and three daughters.

BARNARDO BOYS' NEW HOME.

Youngsters Are Now Housed in Mansion Amid Delightful Surroundings.

After fifty-five years in the heart of London's slums, Dr. Barnardo's boys' trade schools at Stepney way have been moved into the country. A large mansion near Hertford, standing in fifty-two acres of ground, has been acquired, freehold, and to this spot the plan by which the boys learn their various trades has been moved. "Goldings," the name of the new technical school, stands just outside Hertford town, and is a mansion built in the Tudor style, about the year 1870. Included in its grounds are woods and a pretty sylvan lake, in which the boys will bathe. Covered tennis courts are provided, as well as cricket and football pitches. Accommodation will be found for about 700 boys, the full number leaving Stepney, and all these, at Hertford, as at Stepney, will be thoroughly taught a useful occupation before they are launched on the world.

"It has long been our ambition to get the boys right away from the slums in which they were reared," said an official of the homes.

"I should like to make it quite plain that the cost of the new building, and of the move, is not coming out of the ordinary funds of the homes. It is being specially provided, but we still need £25,000 to have 'Goldings' equipped as perfectly as we should like it to be."

MISTRESS OF 300 TONGUES

Miss Warner, a professor at the School of Oriental Studies, London, has mastered three hundred languages and dialects. She is the foremost authority on African languages. In addition she converses fluently in French, German, Italian and Dutch, and is able to read Spanish, Portuguese and Swedish. She considers Zulu to be the most difficult language to master, as it consists of a riot of clicking, clicks, poptings and hissing. One commonly used Zulu word has three separate "kiss" sounds in it. Another when uttered resembles the consecutive uncorking of four champagne bottles, a series of pops followed by buzzing noises.

DRIVER SNATCHES PLAYING BABY FROM TRACK AS TRAIN SPEED ON

Caldwell, N. J., May 18.—An unusual feat of heroism was the rescue of a 17-month-old child from in front of a speeding Erie passenger train by John J. Cotter of Jersey City, engineer of the train. Cotter's train, north bound, had just passed through Riverdale, a flag station, where no signal was displayed, when he saw the baby on the ties, 200-feet ahead. Jamming on the air brakes, Cotter sprang out on the running board and climbed down on the side step of the pilot. Leaning forward he, with one hand, snatched the baby from certain death. The train's momentum carried it fifty feet beyond where the child was playing with pebbles between the rails. It so happened the baby, Adele Lillian Cushman, is a granddaughter of Ira Meade, one of the oldest Erie engineers. She had wandered out of the back yard of the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Cushman, across a vacant lot, and rolled down an embankment onto the track.

PREDICTS OIL EXHAUSTION.

Matter of a Few Years, Says Committee of Electric Light Men.

Atlantic City, May 18.—The report of the Prime Movers' Committee to the annual convention of the National Electric Light Association, declared that exhaustion of petroleum resources was a matter of only a few years. The committee advocated development of refining processes and utilization of foreign sources of supply, and said that Mexico offered the greatest possibilities. "The outlook for the electrical industry was never brighter," declared Milton R. Bump, president of the association.

"I am convinced that we have not yet realized 10 per cent of our possibilities. No other great industry is facing so promising a future."

NEW EDUCATIONAL SYSTEM DESCRIBED

Albert Mansbridge Addressed McGill Graduates After the Valedictory Addresses—Workmen's Lectures.

(Montreal Gazette.) Education in its fullest democratic sense, the uplift of men and women of the working class by means of co-operative study of the subjects which hitherto have been reserved for those who go through the great academic institutions, was the subject on which Albert Mansbridge, chairman of the World Association of Adult Education of McGill University, assembled to hear the valedictory addresses at the Royal Victoria College last night. Mr. Mansbridge spoke as one of the pioneers of the recent movement in England and Wales which has created a revolution among the working classes there, and which has spread with unprecedented enthusiasm to Australia and New Zealand, although it is but vaguely known in Canada as yet.

Mr. Mansbridge's address came after the year's valedictories had been given. The chair was occupied by the class president, J. C. Russell, and beside him were Principal, Gen. Sir Arthur Currie, Dean Laing and Professor Basil Williams.

The latter introduced Mr. Mansbridge who began his address by directly tracing the first movement of the workmen's educational system in England, and by stating that the great masses of the people, although not of the university in a literal sense, are very much of it in a spiritual sense.

"I at once take you to a small town in Lancashire," said Mr. Mansbridge. "Not a beautiful town, but an industrial

SORES SPREAD ALL OVER FACES AND BODIES

Mr. Howard Hoollett, Waukegan, Ill., writes—"I wish to tell you of the benefit we have received by using your valuable medicine Barlock Blood Bitters.

"My children started to break out on their faces in small white pimples which kept getting larger each day. Pus would form under the scales and they would come off, and each time the sores would be larger. Some were as large as a twenty-five cent piece, and would spread all over their bodies. I was nearly in despair and sent to the village for a bottle of good blood medicine. The druggist sent me a bottle of Barlock Blood Bitters which I commenced giving them at once.

"In about ten days I saw an improvement and they grew steadily better each day, and in one month the sores had all disappeared.

"All blood and skin diseases are caused by bad blood, and to get it pure and keep it pure you must remove every trace of the impure and morbid matter from the system by a blood cleansing medicine such as BARLOCK BLOOD BITTERS.

"This remedy has been on the market for the past forty-five years, and one without an equal for all diseases and disorders of the blood.

"Manufactured only by The T. Millburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

"Twenty-five per cent. of these men and women today are held to be equal and can write essays which fully measure up to those written by university students who are honor holders."

The working people of England are fully aware of their possibilities, he added, and their object in studying is not a profession, an expression of citizenship, or curiosity, but a development of the mind to broader and nobler heights. Speaking comparatively the new pupils produce as many outstanding lights as do the universities.

"I have seen some queer ancient monuments walking about Cambridge and Oxford," said the speaker, amid laughter, "and it is after all very fortunate that all our students are not outstanding geniuses. But among each class in these new classes there is invariably at least one, often two, who are really superior men and women."

Dean Laing, in moving a vote of thanks for the speaker, said that he might have been skeptical had Mr. Mansbridge merely announced the idea, and not so thoroughly and enthusiastically delved into his subject.

"If he had only done that," said Prof. Laing, "we might have taken up Dante, searching for Paradise and reaching Inferno, and we might have taught chess-fers to study the stars and cooks to attend lectures on the latest phases of Einstein's theories. There is only one matter which rather alarms me and that is that if these adult educational classes on the plan as outlined by the speaker, prove altogether successful, what will happen to our universities?"

Well-known Glove Manufacturer Tells of His Remarkable Experience With Dr. Chase's Nerve Food

MR. HERBERT STREET COWAN, President and General Manager of the Craig-Cowan Co., Ltd., Glove Manufacturers, 164 Pearl St., Toronto, writes:

"About ten years ago, at the age of 37, I had a stroke, as a result of which I have been partially paralyzed ever since.

"For two years I lay in the house in a helpless condition in spite of all that six doctors could do to restore me. I also resorted to massage and electrical treatments, but without very much apparent benefit.

"About seven years ago I began to use Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and have used it at intervals ever since. It is only by using this restorative treatment that I have been able to attend to my large and growing business, and for this reason I feel that the least I can do to recommend the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food to others who suffer from nervous derangements.

"In fact, it has afforded me a great deal of pleasure to recommend the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food to my friends, and to observe the way in which they have been benefited by its use. As a result of the large number of cases I have observed, as well as my own remarkable experience, I feel that I can speak with some authority."

centre, where not so very long ago a group of seventy men and women met together in council, with the object in view of developing education among working men and women; by pooling their experience, and by facing the problem: what ought working men and women to study.

The actual beginning was made with a trade union, the Carver's and Lorrymen's Union, and the logical subject on which to educate was the horse. It began with a small attendance, which gradually grew; the speakers learned their subjects well; and the speaker added: "the horses in that town have had a good time ever since."

It was ludicrous Mr. Mansbridge continued, to attempt to lecture on Dante or stars or economics at the start.

The working men and women were eager to learn about their own problems at first, and so one of the first lectures discussed on trade unions. The poor lecturer found it difficult to answer the questions—direct which came his way. The people he was trying to educate know of that subject, had lived with it for years. Then a group of Lancashire men and women pledged themselves to attend all the lectures that could be attended, and to read all there was to be read, providing they were given an able lecturer. Oxford was appealed to, and a lecturer was sent and the people renewed their pledge, for the period of three years. Eventually other classes were formed, from the Five Towns, described by Arnold Bennett, in the Staffordshire pottery district, and other centres in the industrial parts of Northern England, and as the classes grew the desire for more learning grew. The exponents came to be the men and women themselves, who have launched a new idea and a new life into those dreary parts. Nobody slackened. Enthusiasm was remarkable.

"It was not so much a question of spelling," went on Mr. Mansbridge, "workmen don't spell very well; but for that matter, you should see the spelling of some of our undergraduates, or even of some of our most eminent men. That is considered an elementary phase which is gotten over in due course. I should like to give you a little conundrum on this subject: it is better to spell correctly, so that nobody can understand what is written, like some of our leading professors, or to spell incorrectly so that everybody can understand, like our working men and women do?"

AN OLD RECIPE TO DARKEN HAIR

Common garden Sage and Sulphur makes streaked, faded or gray hair dark and youthful at once.

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is messy and troublesome.

Nowadays we simply ask at any drug store for "Wigly's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients, at very little cost. Everybody uses this preparation now, because no one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, thick and glossy and you look years younger.

Enthusiastic Support for Civic War Memorial Scheme

Public Meeting, Called at Instance of Municipal Chapter, I. O. D. E., Decides That Object Should be Commemoration of Those Who Fell—Many Plans Suggested—Committee to Consider What Form it Should Take.

A civic memorial to the fallen, sufficiently imposing and appealing to typify the gratitude of the community and the everlasting honor in which the dead are held, is to be erected in the city of St. John, it was decided at a general meeting held in the board of trade rooms last night.

Commemorating these men and should be a testimony of the citizens' gratitude. The resolution passed by the G. W. V. A. favoring the proposed memorial was read and Commissioner Bullock voiced his personal opinion that the memorial should be adequate and should be something living and useful, and not merely commemorative.

Canon R. A. Armstrong, who had been authorized by the mayor to say that the city council would be only too willing to do anything in its power to provide a suitable site should public ground be selected.

T. H. Estabrooks thought it might seem better to commemorate all who took part in the war, not merely those who had fallen.

Mrs. J. Boyle Travers, regent of the municipal chapter, said the I. O. D. E. had long regretted the absence of a memorial to those who gave their lives in the great war. It had felt that every citizen should have an equal share in the memorial and that it should take the form of a monument or a centoph

Nervous Breakdown COULDN'T SLEEP NIGHTS

To those on the verge of a nervous breakdown the following symptoms present themselves: nervous headaches, feeling of depression, fitful, disturbed, restless and unrefreshing sleep, often troubled with frightful dreams, avoidance of crowded places, dread of being alone, horror of society, etc.

When the nervous system becomes affected in this way the heart generally becomes affected, too, and on the first signs of any weakness of the heart or nerves, flagging energy or physical breakdown, do not wait until your case becomes hopeless, but get a remedy that will at once quieten the nerves, strengthen the heart and build up the entire system.

This you will find in MILBURN'S HEART AND NERVE PILLS. Mrs. M. Dangand, Young's Cove Road, N. B., writes: "I was bothered very much with my heart and nerves, had nervous headaches and dizziness, could not sleep at nights, and my appetite was all gone. I was on a nervous breakdown when a neighbor told me to try Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. This I did, and before I had the second box used I was better and would advise anyone who has nerve trouble to take them."

placed for all time, not a building, as too many had been erected by that slogan. Nothing so inspired him as the Young monument, commemorating the boy who sacrificed his life for another.

After Mr. Hipwell's appeal, the motion carried unanimously. The exact form of the memorial was then considered.

Dr. James Manning asked if the I. O. D. E. members, who had so kindly and nobly started the movement, had any particular form of monument in their mind.

Mrs. Travers replied that something entirely for the dead and not for the use of the living, to take the form of a centoph, a monument or a memorial arch, had been favored.

Canon Armstrong then moved that a committee with instructions to add be appointed to consider what form the memorial should take. The motion carried and the members appointed were R. T. Hayes, chairman; F. B. Ellis, Colonel E. T. Sturges, Mrs. J. Boyle Travers, Mrs. Hugh Mackay, Mrs. Heber Vroom, Charles Owens and Canon Armstrong.

A Memorial Flag Staff. W. H. Golding said he expected to be out of the city and would not have an opportunity to present a suggestion later so he brought before the meeting a sketch plan of a memorial flag staff with a heavy masonry base which he thought might be erected in King square. The staff would be about 120 feet high and with all its rigging would cost about $1,000 and the masonry base and ornamental stone encircling the staff might be as expensive as the funds permitted. Ceremony should be observed in the daily raising and lowering of the flag and it would be seen for a long distance. He thought this would be an inspirational and highly patriotic form of memorial.

Judge Armstrong thought the staff would not be sufficient and suggested a memorial flag staff.

These medals are given for a certain grade of proficiency in rifle shooting. During the last month 310 pro-marksmen's badges were won, 216 marksmen, 109 sharpshooters, 173 bars, eleven experts and three instructors.

Sixty-five matches of various kinds were shot, mainly in Y. M. C. A.'s and schools.

Dr. R. E. Armstrong suggested that it was too early to select a site and referred to the qualifications which Queen square had in this regard.

Mr. Golding said that if a centoph were erected why not have a flag also to inspire this generation? He would guarantee to supply the big flag and the custodian to see that it was raised and lowered.

ENGLAND, WALES AND SCOTLAND ARE CHANGING HANDS

Historic Estates of Great Britain are Being Broken Up—London in Transition.

London, April 21.—(By Mail)—"England is changing hands" and Scotland, as well as Wales, for that matter, writes the estate market correspondent of the Times in today's issue. The total area of the landed properties comprised in the full-page announcement in the Times yesterday by a single firm exceeds 1,000 acres. The significance of the real-estate market is being discussed from various points of view.

One famous mansion mentioned yesterday, Holme Lacy, has been divested of a series of sales in the last few years, of most of the land that it encloses. It is now one of the great territorial domains. There are 1,000 acres, a house of great historical interest, surrounded by grounds in the deer park and five miles of moor fishing in the Wye, is now to be "chopped at a price which is small indeed compared to what was asked when the late Lord Mansfield's Suffolk estate, Sudbourne Hall, 7,650 acres; Hawkestone, Salop, 1,288 acres; Ingham Hall, Norfolk, 4,000 acres; Colworth, Sir Albert E. Bowen's Bedfordshire estate of 300 acres; and Scottish domains constitute a large part of the average mentioned at the beginning of this article. It is necessary, in case of the realization of such properties, to give as long ahead as possible an intimation that a sale is contemplated, and the first news of the most recently announced group of properties, the Duke of Hamilton's estates of nearly 31,000 acres, appeared a week ago (April 15). It is well to give a reminder of the fact that this or that estate is in the market and if, as the auction approaches, a more frequent allusion is made to it the price has to be used, as was proved in the great "break-up" at Regate last year and scores of other instances.

London Properties.

The tendency to break up estates is not limited to landed property in the country. It extends to urban property everywhere, whole towns having been involved in the process. In London a convenient point, as regards time and the importance of the interests, from which to consider the operation is undoubtedly the Covent Garden contract, entered into by the Duke of Bedford, just before the war.

That was an out-and-out sale of a property which, by reason of its central situation and the nature of the public or quasi-public interests bound up in the time, and has remained for all the subsequent dealings in the property publicly. The latest of the many transactions in the estate is the intention to submit some scores of freeholds by auction next month.

Recent articles in the Estate Market column have covered the impending private and other offers of central London sites, including the Foundling Hospital and other freeholds in Bloomsbury and its neighborhood, often very valuable land—some with substantial and adaptable buildings, and close to or at the junction of Tottenham Court-road.

City properties on offer include sites and premises belonging to the Port of London Authority, and the London County Council has at the moment many finely situated properties, besides the offices of its Education Department, to dispose of.

Transportations in the last few months have included a slice of the Duchy of Cornwall estate in Kensington, extensive areas near Liverpool street Station, and the realization of the Holborn estate of the Doughty-Tichborne family as well as isolated sales of land and buildings formerly belonging to the Westminster estate.

The Town Houses.

North of Oxford-circus, the movement in property matters is seen in the formation of a company to control a portion of the Howard de Walden estate, the effort to re-develop a large area around the Primrose Hill portion of Regent's Park, and the premonitory symptoms of a change in the character of Portland-place and other hitherto solely residential parts, not least in Cavendish square. Offices and shops are invading the district heretofore noted for its Adam houses and exceedingly select residential aspect.

Mayfair has suffered its first serious shock, a whole square and contiguous streets having changed hands in one private bargain, and the sacrifice of historic town houses has, as its precedent in these days of change, the Duke of Devonshire's disposal of the famous mansion in Piccadilly. Its ample grounds are overlooked by the mansion of the late Baroness Burdett-Coutts, which is itself in the market.

Ecclesiastical and official premises have shared in the general tendency to disruption or conversion, notable among the examples being the leasing of the Chapter House of St. Paul's Cathedral. There, fortunately, a well-known bank became the occupier, and the structure was most uniliterally ever to be placed in the market, are for sale at low prices. Such is the Astor office on the bankment, adjoining the L. C. C. Education Office already referred to.

Elizabethan Memories.

Of suburban seats, as distinguished from the smaller houses with a few acres, there are many in the market, one, Holly Lodge, Highgate, to be sold some time this year. Half a dozen grand old houses, of great historical and architectural interest, are to be had on the western fringe of London, within a few minutes of Uxbridge. Hertfordshire supplies a list that includes, as one of the first about to come under the hammer, Carriobury Park, rich in Grilling Gibbons' carving and other unmatchable works.

No great distance from it is Ashridge Park, the late Lord Brownlow's Berkshire seat, an early home of Edward VI. and Queen Elizabeth, an example of the genius of James Wyatt and Sir Jeffrey Wyatville. Moor Park, another place which has been sold in recent years, is bound up with the history of great Elizabethans and other notable figures, and its early history has formed the theme of more than one article in the Times, in which the connection of Cardinal Wolsey and other famous men with the Rickmansworth seat has been told all too briefly.

Cheap Estates.

Relatively, the large English or Scottish estates is today the cheapest thing in any market. Proof of this is given again and again, in the sale of large estates in bloc, and their re-sale in lots, at a price which leaves the mansion and surrounding lands free of charge, for the buyer to live in or to re-sell at a profit (all profit in fact), the purchase money, in the first instance, having been more than recouped by the re-sales.

Sometimes, of course, that result is not attained, but it happens often enough to make anyone wonder why syndicates for dealing with English landed properties are not formed on a joint-stock principle. The security would be there, and the profit, too, usually. Half a column could be filled with a list of more or less important country houses that have, in the last year or two, been converted from residential to other uses.

The list of large mansions that, divested of their former glory of broad acres, await occupiers at a moderate rental, in some instances inclusive of old furniture and works of art, would extend to many columns. Never a week passes but that some are mentioned in these pages, and they are to be found in all parts of England, of every style of architecture; and sometimes the effort to find worthy tenants is ended by the dismantling of the mansions.

Gwydyr Castle was sold piecemeal, some of the panelling being still for sale at a nominal price, and there has been a whisper that the Grilling Gibbons carving at Cassiobury may be removed in certain eventualities. Some old houses, not, happily, of the first rank architecturally, have been demolished, and catalogues, and enough to read, have been embellished by reproductions of beautiful panelling and carving that not even had printing could conceal.

PROGRESS ON PLAN FOR GAME RESERVE

A committee of five, with L. B. Knight as chairman, was appointed to formulate a definite scheme for the proposed forest, fish and game reserve in the Musquash area, at a meeting of the larger committee considering the project, which was held yesterday afternoon in the board of trade rooms, with N. R. DesBrisay presiding. The committee of five is to report back to the larger committee, when action will be taken. Strong emphasis was laid on the fact that the scheme is not to favor special sportsmen, but to give adequate protection to a property which should be a great asset to the province and which has valuable stores of fish and game.

Those present were N. R. DesBrisay, the chairman; Dr. C. F. Gorham, C. B. Allan, H. J. Sheehan, Frank McCafferty, F. B. Ellis, A. N. McLean, Dr. J. H. Barton, L. B. Knight, Murray Campbell, Leon Keith, George F. Barbour, Ronald A. McAvity, P. D. Holman, K. J. MacRae, F. J. Shreve, George McAlister, R. E. Armstrong and F. W. Daniel.

There was some discussion as to the limits of the reserve and the area to be included.

Mr. McAvity suggested that the forty-five mile flooded area should be considered as a start, as this was mostly government property and would have to receive attention by the government at this time. It was shown that the association could handle that area satisfactorily if it could extend its territory.

The committee was then nominated by the meeting as follows: L. B. Knight, chairman; F. J. Shreve, G. McAlister, F. B. Ellis and M. Campbell.

Mr. Allan said that it was clear that there was a good deal of opposition due entirely to ignorance of the whole proposition and it should be understood that the scheme was in the interest of the sport of the individual or to give any individual a salary. It was to make the property an asset to the province and not waste land.

Mr. McLean recommended that representatives of the three counties interested should be members of any committee which went before the government.

The committee appointed met after the larger committee adjourned and will hold another meeting shortly.

They offered $125 a month from June 1 to May 1, 1923. Mr. Bullock said last year this warehouse was rented to the Bradley people for $100 a month. On his motion the application was approved.

Permission was granted Commissioner Wigmore to purchase a Ford half-ton truck for the water department at $875.

South End League Appeal.
 The delegation from the South End Improvement League was first heard. Mr. Hamilton explained the work of the league, which included the boys club, skating rink and baseball diamond. He presented a financial statement from the treasurer. He said it would be impossible to carry on the work further without assistance.

Mr. Belding explained that the grant to the Playgrounds Association was not sufficient to provide assistance to the improvement leagues. He said that the work planned for the summer would cost considerable money. A caretaker would also be required. He said at a meeting last evening a league of five teams was announced.

To Mr. Bullock, Mr. Belding said the work of the league was really playground work. He said each of the improvement leagues was affiliated with the Playgrounds Association.

Mr. Bullock asked if the whole effort could not be amalgamated.
 Mr. Hamilton said that the South End League asked for a grant of $500. Commissioner Thornton said the council could expect to have an application from the next end and west end leagues. He advocated the handling of the finances through a central committee.

Mr. Hamilton said that the league was willing to have the grant through the Playgrounds Association and asked for it before the estimates were submitted this year, but so far they had received nothing.
 Commissioner Wigmore favored the handling of finances through the Playgrounds Association. He moved that, if the money could be obtained, the improvement leagues of the South End Improvement League be complied with, not to exceed $500.

J. Flood & Sons applied for permission to use a portion of the roadway of Burpee avenue for the use of their plant during the construction of the Trinity school. They proposed to leave twenty-two feet clear for traffic. The firm accepted any responsibility and liability. The matter was left to Commissioner Frink with power to act.

Refuse Building Permit.
 Regarding an application from G. D. Mills for a permit to erect a house in Orange street, Commissioner Thornton read a report of the city engineer, in which he supported the ruling of the building inspector that the supporting walls should not be less than twelve-inch concrete blocks in thickness.
 Jas. Carleton, building inspector, said that, according to the law, a wall should not be more than fifteen times its thickness.

Commissioner Thornton said, in view of the reports, he would have to move that the application be refused.
 Mr. Carleton said he would have no objection to accepting a ten-inch block of the same form. Mr. Thornton's motion was carried.

ENGAGEMENT AT ST. JOHN, N. B. TODAY

(Continued from page 1.) University which has been so instrumental in furnishing the means of an education to so many young men who have passed through its portals with honors, and now that I carry the full weight of a degree, I will feel that I will be able to speak with much more authority and probably with greater frankness than heretofore.

Many suggestions for extensions are made from time to time. Other provinces are able to do better by their state university than we are, more particularly in the West where public lands are set apart for the particular support of their universities. In this province we are greatly handicapped in the expansion of our educational system by reason of our meagre income. I have seen with some difficulty that we have been able to even in a small way increase our appropriation to this institution, but in spite of the need for economy brought about by the condition of the times, we have not compromised on education, for the last two years our appropriation for this purpose has been increased about $100,000 as we realized it was one of the vital needs of the people.

Nature has endowed this institution with a commanding and healthy situation, but nature has not accomplished all, for without the guiding hand of one who is capable and interested in such important work and with high ideals, the results which have been attained could not have been accomplished. It is a credit to you, Chancellor Jones, and to you, Mr. Jones, that many of the students who have passed through this institution now look back with pride and great interest to the days when they were here.

RAILWAYS AND EMPLOYEES IN AGREEMENT

Mechanical Trades Matters Adjusted, as Announcement—Some 85,000 Men are Affected.

Montreal, May 18.—The representatives of the railway associations of Canada and of their employees in the mechanical trades, who have been in negotiation here on a revision of rules affecting working conditions, have today concluded a mutually satisfactory agreement.

It has been agreed that for work in main shops the payment of time and one half time for Sunday work will be continued, as it will also be for holidays, except that employees necessary to the operation of power houses, millwrights, gaugers, heat treating plants and pipe fitters will be required to work on Sunday.

Employees necessary to the operation of train yards, running repair and inspection forces will be assigned one regular day of duty in seven, Sunday if possible, and if required to work on such regularly assigned seventh day of duty, they will receive punitive overtime at the rate of time and one half time, although in cases in which such assigned day of duty is not Sunday, work on Sunday will be paid at the straight time rate.

Those employees engaged in running work will be paid time and one half for work on New Year's day, Labor day and Christmas day.

Many other details and technical matters affecting working conditions have been negotiated and disposed of.

FIFTEEN MINUTES OF RADIO EACH DAY

Formerly Technical Electrical Expert For U. S. Government

Lesson No. 3 ELECTROMOTIVE FORCE

The previous lesson explained the relations between pressure, current, and resistance by the fundamental and very important Ohm's Law. By maintaining a constant pressure, or ELECTROMOTIVE FORCE, in all electrical circuits we are able to produce a constant current along the conducting path of the circuit.

Two valuable methods used in the production of Electromotive Force for purposes of Radio communication are as follows:

(a) Chemical Action (By Primary or Secondary Batteries)

(b) Mechanical Action (By Generators or Dynamos)

PRIMARY BATTERY: A primary battery is composed of primary cells connected together. A single primary cell consists of a jar containing two electrodes of different material, usually contained in plate form and supported without touching each other in a liquid known as an electrolyte.

The chemical action of this electrolyte on the material in one of the plates sets up a pressure, or difference of potential, between the plates. The plate which has the higher potential is termed the Positive Plate and the other the Negative Plate and the difference in potential as a result of chemical action, causes a current to flow from the positive to the negative plate along the wire connecting the two.

The electromotive force, or pressure, of a primary battery, depends upon two factors, namely, the materials of the plates and composition of the electrolyte. In a primary battery, replacement of the plates is not necessary, after a time, due to consumption of material in the negative plate and change in composition of the electrolyte.

A common type of primary cell consists of a plate of zinc and a plate of copper suspended in a dilute solution of sulphuric acid. In this sulphuric acid solution, current will flow from the copper to the zinc plate outside the cell and from the zinc to the copper plate inside the electrolyte.

It is important to remember that in a primary battery the plates must be of different materials and the electrolyte must act chemically upon one of the plates in order for the cell to develop ELECTROMOTIVE FORCE.

ELECTROMOTIVE FORCE of primary cells varies from .06 to 1.4 volts per cell, depending upon the materials of which the plates are composed and upon the strength of the electrolyte.

A common type of primary cell is the type known as the "Dry Cell" which consists of a zinc cylinder containing a rod of carbon. Between the zinc and the carbon rod is placed a mixture of crushed coke, graphite, carbon rod and zinc chloride. The zinc rod is being saturated with a solution of zinc chloride and ammonium chloride. The top is sealed with an asphaltum compound and sal ammoniac. The top is sealed with an asphaltum compound and sal ammoniac. The top is sealed with an asphaltum compound and sal ammoniac.

The voltage of this cell on open circuit is approximately 1.5 volts. This cell becomes rapidly exhausted if used in delivering small amounts of current continuously.

In the article to follow will be described the construction and operation of the Secondary Battery which has an important place in Radio work.

WESTFIELD PLANS TO USE HYDRO

Lorneville Also is Taking Up Matter, as Well as Several Communities Along the C. N. R.

Definite arrangements for the securing of hydro-electric current in the parish of Westfield were made at a meeting of the residents which was held here yesterday. A delegation had already waited upon the N. B. Electric Power Commission and were assured that they would receive the current at the rate of not more than 12 cents a k. w. h., the same as charged the City of St. John.

The question of handling of the matter within the parish was one of the difficulties encountered. It was found that the parish would first have to be incorporated and as an act of legislation would be required and could not be obtained until next winter, some arrangement would have to be made to carry on in the meantime.

Committees were appointed to canvass the residents of the different stations along the C. P. R. and if 500 subscribers are obtained an attempt will be made to make arrangements for a temporary measure under which the current could be delivered until the act is passed.

The plan at present is to tap the main transmission line at Manchester's corner, the distributing line will run from Lorneville built by the parish.

Mr. Ringland, the same time announced that the Y. M. C. A. had called an offer of $80,000 for the vocational training of these refugees after their release to various European centres. He explained that the Relief Administration had determined that it was no use to continue the feeding unless definite progress was made for the future of the refugees.

The fountain in King Square came in for its share of attention with many small boats sailing out from the edge under the impulse given them by their youthful owners, later to be driven back by the spray from the fountain to where their landing was eagerly awaited by the children. One in particular, a model of a warship, was having an adventurous time under the falling water, while its owner tried to coax it back to the safety of the shore with long sticks.

BALFOUR URGES SELF HELP

American Aid to Russian Refugees in Constantinople is Proposed.

(By the Associated Press) Geneva, May 18.—The Earl of Balfour urged the nations of Europe that they would lose what prestige they have in America unless in making appeals for aid they show some indication of trying to help themselves.

Lord Balfour's warning was voiced in connection with discussion by the Council of the League of Nations of the American Relief Administration offer to feed Russian refugees in Constantinople.

The offer on which Lord Balfour based his remarks, employing words which plainly startled the council, was presented by Arthur C. England, American Relief Administration representative at Warsaw. It proposed that the Relief Administration continue the feeding and maintenance of 27,000 Russian refugees in Constantinople for four months upon the condition that the members of the League raise £25,000 to finance the evacuation of the refugees into Europe at the end of that time. The offer entails an expense of $125,000 and is subject to acceptance by June 1.

Mr. Ringland, the same time announced that the Y. M. C. A. had called an offer of $80,000 for the vocational training of these refugees after their release to various European centres. He explained that the Relief Administration had determined that it was no use to continue the feeding unless definite progress was made for the future of the refugees.

Balfour Pleads British Fund. Lord Balfour immediately pledged Great Britain to give £10,000, one-third of the amount needed to meet the American offer. He said "America has shown itself ready and willing to assist in restoring the world, but what opinion can the Council in such a matter be expected to form if it turns out that that Europe does not find the narrow margin of £20,000 needed to meet this generous American offer?"

Mr. Ringland, the first American to appear before the Council in such an official way, was accompanied by Major Clavin Davis from Constantinople, who probably continues its relief work there if the American Relief Administration offer was accepted. The council official thanked the Americans for their offer and promised to make every effort to raise the funds required by Mr. Fridtjof Nansen, the League's High Commissioner for Russian Relief, said America could always be depended upon to do its part in such work.

Will Study Famine Menace. A proposal for the appointment of a commission to investigate the famine effect of the Russian famine on Western Europe came up for consideration before the Council of the League of Nations today.

Formation of such a commission has been recommended to the Council by Dr. Fridtjof Nansen, high commissioner of the International Committee on Russian Relief, who declares the first year there is a failure of the American and Canadian crops, unless drastic steps are taken to halt non-production in Russia. Indications are that, if such measures are not taken, the Russian food shortage will continue for several years.

IN WALL STREET. New York, May 17—(1922)—Another active day in copper and steel shares followed the opening of today's stock market. Gains ranging from large fractions to 1 1/2 points were made by some of the metal issues. Inspiration Copper accepted. Among the metals, Midvale, yesterday's steel, Midvale, yesterday's steel, Midvale, yesterday's steel.

THE WOMAN'S TASK IN PUBLIC LIFE

Stirring Appeal by Lady Astor to English-Speaking Women.

(From Speech by Lady Astor at Baltimore.)

When I speak of women I don't mean every woman—I mean real women, who care more about real things. The sort of women who have not only borne men but have given them such unselfish love that the world has seen through them a bit of what the love of God is like. Now, if we possess courage and faith, it will be no use unless we use it. Faith is like a belief—it is only helpful if it leads us to knowledge. Belief in God will only help us if it leads to knowledge of God.

"So we women must turn to account some of this courage and faith. We must put into public life these qualities which women have had to put in their home life—unselfishness, cleanliness and kindness; the world needs it. I don't suppose the world as a whole was ever more in need of kindness than it is now.

Aftermath of War.

"We need not ask ourselves why the world needs help. You have but to cast your mind over the world and you will get the answer. The Continent of Europe partly devastated and still halting; Russia starving; capital and labor, like nations, almost as far apart as ever before. I suppose this must be the aftermath of war. You can't let hell loose on earth for four years and expect to find Paradise at the end. Yet when I speak of war I don't mean it—hell. There was one aspect of war which was better than anything I have found in the aftermath of war. There was a kindness among all classes of the population. One felt that at last a brotherhood of men was coming about. At least, that is how it was in England; and I feel certain it must have been the same over here. A common purpose shared by a whole nation, if that purpose is one of sacrifice, idealism and helpfulness, is a wonderful thing.

"Think what a common purpose shared by nations—a purpose with an ideal and helpfulness and sacrifice of self—would be. This is what the war should have left. I cannot help believing that that common purpose has been left, anyhow, in the hearts of those who suffer. I cannot speak for the women of Europe, but I can speak for the women of England, and I can say that they through suffering have determined that, so far as within them lies, there is no sacrifice too great to make for the cause of peace. I have seen the women of England when they were determined. I have seen them tried and not found wanting. I can tell you it was a glorious sight. You may read diaries of the war which tell of dinner parties in plenty in London; but that no more represents the women of England than a night dancing club in New York or a night club in some city here represents the women of America.

"Now, what can we do—the English-speaking women of the world—and I cannot help feeling that we have got men all of the women with us—but what can we do to help the whole world on? We cannot live for ourselves alone and get peace. We cannot even get happiness, and I doubt whether we can get plenty. We must somehow rectify the mistakes of the stronger sex, when left alone, and we must do it soon.

"When America came into the war Europe saw the dawn of a new hope—America in the war to end wars. When America went out of the peace Europe was disappointed. Idealism took America into the war; idealism cannot take her out of the peace, no matter what politicians say.

League's Aims Forgotten.

"The League of Nations was started by America or an American. Some seem to think only of the starter and forget it was the high purpose of his people who gave the impetus which brought the League from America to Europe. When we go for a great ideal we go for the ideal and not for the idealist. It's a principle we should follow and not be sidetracked by a personality. Let us see what the League, even without America, Germany and Russia, has done already. If we realize its achievements we may be inspired to give it greater trust and add to its number of associated nations.

"The League of Nations has not only prevented three wars and registered over one hundred treaties. Besides this, the League has active humanitarian sections dealing with health, labor conditions, traffic in opium and drugs and the white slave traffic. Each one of these must surely find hundreds of thousands of women backers in the United States. We want your help inside the League to bring on backward countries, whether it be to protect the world from war or from plague or to protect young girls from what is worse than plague."

SAY EXCHANGE IS TOO COSTLY

Toronto Trustees Object to Interchange of Teachers.

Toronto, May 18.—The exchange of teachers with the Educational Council of London, England, was the chief subject of discussion at a meeting of the finance committee of the Board of Education.

Reports submitted by Chief Inspector Crowley and Administrator Pearce showed that under the present system of exchange the cost to the board for the coming year would be approximately $8,900. This was due to the fact that teachers from the Old Country, possessing long experience, demanded the maximum rate paid by the board, while, on the other hand, Canadian teachers going to England asked that the deficit between the English and Canadian schedules be paid to them.

Considerable opposition to the adoption of the report was offered by Trustees Miller and Beer, who felt that, while the benefits to be gained from such an exchange were undoubted, there should be no extra cost for the system devolving on the Board of Education. After a lengthy discussion, which included attempts by Mr. Cowley to clar-

Belgrade, May 18.—(Associated Press.)—A dress of pure gold is one of the most conspicuous of the wedding gifts received by Princess Marie of Rumania, who will be married here June 1 to King Alexander of Yugoslavia. The dress was presented to her by the peasants of the country.

King Alexander has received from the Serbians in Macedonia a shirt of pure silver, woven on a hand loom from a medieval design. Among the king's presents to his bride-to-be is a magni-

KRUPPS TO CULTIVATE HUGE RUSSIAN TRACT

London, May 18.—The Krupps, who used to make the Kaiser's great guns and who have "beaten their swords into ploughshares," in conjunction with a big German agricultural machinery company, are going into a vast grain-producing scheme in Southern Russia. Such is the information which reaches London from Russia. Negotiations have been under way for the last six weeks, and it is expected the deal will be closed immediately.

This project involves a tract of 185,000 acres in the Cossack country and marks the first move on the part of big German interests to embark upon land cultivation in Russia. The Krupp experts received great encouragement while in Russia. It is believed that by next year there may be a move to extend their grain tract to 5,000,000 acres. It is suggested also that the Germans may be encouraged to undertake the cultivation of cotton in Turkestan, where modern agricultural machinery, it is claimed, would make it possible to raise more cotton than is produced in Egypt and India combined.

About Bread -- and Other Foods --

Foods aren't all alike in value.

The next time you start to plan a "square meal," Mrs. Housewife remember this—

It's quite easy to spend large sums on elaborate menus, and not get half the nourishment from them that you would from a meal of pure wholesome bread.

Bread deserves a more prominent place on your table at every meal.

A WOMAN has a right to assume that a new mattress, just delivered, is as clean and wholesome and sanitary as fresh laundered bedding.

But many of them are not. Scraps, odds and ends, "renovated" materials have been used by unscrupulous makers.

3,000 BOYS WATCH
 MARBLE SHOOTING FOR CHAMPIONSHIP

Jersey City Lad Wins World Title by Beating Washington Champion—A Hit at Fifteen Feet.

New York, May 17.—The marble shooting championship of the world was won at Pershing Field, Jersey City, by Charles "Buster" Rech, fourteen years old, of 88 Broadway, Jersey City, when he defeated the Washington, D. C., champion, Michael Troiano, fourteen years old. Three thousand spectators, mostly boys, witnessed the contest.

"Buster" Rech won two straight games of "fat" two out of three being necessary for the title. He won the first game in twenty minutes on the sixteenth shot, the second in two minutes and thirty seconds on the tenth shot. His last shot, sent from the knee, hit the marble of his opponent at a distance of fifteen feet. It was a marvellous exhibition, and the crowd went wild with enthusiasm when the referee flung up the boy's arms and proclaimed "Buster" the "undefeated marble champion of the world."

After the contest "Buster" was almost mobbed by his enthusiastic backers as he ran off the field holding in his arms the big silver championship cup. He announced his readiness to defend his title against all comers.

It is reported in Jersey City that more marbles changed hands in bets on the championship than ever before in the history of marble shooting.

"The day was ideal for the contest—'great marble' weather all the hundreds of local experts on the field said. Before the contest both boys declared that they were in the pink of condition. Contest in Styles.

Added interest was given to the game, the result of which has been awaited eagerly in boydom all over the country, as the two experts are representatives of the two best known styles of shooting. The Jersey City marvel shoots with his knuckle and the Washington wonder with his thumb nail. The victory of the knuckle method is expected to affect the style of play in the marble game everywhere.

The 3,000 boys watched with keen technical interest and with many shouted words of advice as Alexander Ormsby, superintendent of playgrounds of Jersey this shout of triumph as, three shots later, he also became "Poison."

The field rang with cheers, yells and a thousand pieces of advice during the next fifteen minutes. Both players manoeuvred for position with extraordinary skill, but neither seemed able to put over the winning shot. Only the two players remained cool, apparently undisturbed by the surging, hurrahing crowd, held back by the guards.

Then a mighty yell. The Jersey City champion had sent the marble of the boy from the south spinning across the ring. The first game was his.

But Troiano did not lose courage. With one game against him he entered the second one with determination. For a minute it looked as if his gameness would sweep the Jersey City boy into defeat. With a long, accurate shot, he won "Poison." Then he was after the marble of Buster with splendid accuracy. Twice it seemed as if he had hit him. It seemed sure that the second game would be his.

It was then that Buster Rech showed himself to be a real marble champion. His position was of the worst. He was being outplayed. But fifteen feet away from the marble of Troiano he balanced his "nimble" and his thumb knuckle, then knuckle on knee, and with a long, fast shot he sent the marble spinning across the ground.

"Smack!" The "nimble" had hit the "law"—fair and square. A perfect shot. And Buster Rech of Jersey City was the champion marble shooter of the world.

SENTIMENT IS SWINGING TOWARDS STORIES OF WAR

A message to the effect that trade conditions are improving in England and that there is less unemployment in that country now, comes from Sir Arthur Spurgeon, chairman and managing editor of the House of Cassell, London publishers, who is visiting in Toronto. In discussing English literature, Sir Arthur said that the war had a peculiar effect on the matter produced. For a short time after the war, there appeared to be a marked reaction against anything with a war tinge, but now public sentiment appears to be swinging back in the direction of war stories, not so much the stories telling of the actual fighting, but those bringing out the psychological phases of the war and its effects upon the people.

At the same time, Sir Arthur had an encouraging word for Canadian writers, as he said that there is a good market with English magazines for the story which deals faithfully with living conditions in Canada.

City, the referee, laid out a circle a foot in diameter and placed ten marbles inside of it, then marked off the first shooting line twenty-five feet away.

He then announced the rules. The contestants must shoot first from this line, and the one coming nearest to the ring would have the first shot in the game. The boy to knock the first marble out of the ring would become "poison." As soon as a player became "poison" he could shoot at the other player's marble. Each boy must shoot from where his marble would lie. The competitor first hitting the other's shooting marble would win the game. The first man to win two straight games would win the championship.

The murmur of the excited crowd broke into a loud cheer as the slim, black-haired challenger took his place on the line, but the spectators went mad with enthusiasm as the stocky local hero advanced into position.

The referee examined both shooting marbles carefully. Both were very small. Rech had an "nimble" and Troiano used a "law." The referee passed them both.

Then amidst a tense silence from the thousands of boys, the two young champions took their places on the line, five motion picture machines cranking away, making news pictures of the heroes of boy life.

A long sigh of relief, such as sounds when Babe Ruth swings his bat over the plate on the big baseball day of the year, sounded as the challenger, coolly, but with a grave face, realizing the importance of the movement, lifted his right foot off the ground, placed his marble hand on his right knee, and shot the opening shot of the championship.

The first wild yell went up when a moment later, Buster sent one of his ten marbles flying out of the ring, and became "Poison." But Troiano's little band of supporters tried to drown out

Splendors of Portugal Seen In Fifth Avenue

Thousand Dollar Fans and Painted Oxen Yokes, Filigree and Weaving, in Exhibit of Arts and Crafts.

Caravels — and probably more than three, to bear so many carved treasure chests — have been sweeping into port, and we never knew it! Surely no other craft could have brought this gold and silver filigree, these silks and tapestries, these fans of priceless lace. All came from Portugal. They are the ambassadors of ancient and gorgeous arts, stranger to New York than those of lands far more remote. A great room is radiant with rugs in colors of rhododendrons and gentians. The pottery vases are hung with precious chains. Three looms above Fifth avenue, and you are in Portugal!

The first opportunity that New York has ever had to see the splendor of native Portuguese arts and crafts will come on Wednesday, when the exhibition of the Industrial Region of Portugal is to be opened to the public, every week day, from ten until six, at 34 Fifth avenue. It is not at all like a show. It is a bright bazaar, and its commercial purpose — which is, of course, to make us familiar with Portugal's particular wares — dimes beneath the strange sides of the place. Handicrafts that pervade the people of mountain villages devote their lives to them; ardent and patient, practiced nowhere else in the world, they are the same way.

"There are so many hearts about here!" I said to one of the mariners who sailed over with the caravels, for indeed the motif was persistent, in silk, gold, enamel, and lace. "And who would believe that jewel caskets like these were made in Portugal? Years must have gone into the working of this exquisite filigree."

"In Portugal," explained the mariner simply, "we love much and we have many jewels. It appears that the ladies of New York wear few jewels. As far as I know, we present them freely, when they are appropriate. Why send a vase without one's heart?"

The Portuguese hearts are well worth having. They are most richly wrought, and in a country where such jewelry is abundant it is natural for wine jars and rose bowls to wear necklaces with pendants inscribed "meu bem." But the jewel caskets are prodigally perfect — the filigree on the bottom, which does not show, is as intricate as the cover. There is great lavishness of gold and silver at this show. Fruit baskets and bonbon dishes are entirely of shining metal lace.

Village of Craftsmen.
Arraiolos is a village of weavers. They have sent some remarkable textiles — a knitted rug and wall hangings, colored with home-made vegetable dyes. The town of Evora makes brilliant painted arches, suitable for bungalows, and nurseries, which resemble, but faintly the sort made here. Vista Alegre is famous for pottery, and the exhibition, bearing designs in singular shades of orange, yellow, and blue. Caldas da Rainha offers beautiful vases and jars, some made like huge calli-

There was a large attendance of directors, including several ladies and gentlemen new to the board who were elected at the recent annual public meeting. These new directors were at once given a share of the work by the president, who was requested by the meeting to form the committees.

Numerous matters pertaining to the internal affairs of the Home were thoroughly discussed and several important changes suggested and acted upon. Judge Forbes felt that the old set of by-laws might bear revision and the committee on that matter were virtual-ly instructed to proceed with the consideration of bringing them up to date.

The purchasing committee, headed by the Rev. Mr. Estabrooks, were instructed to discuss the matter and listened to the opinions of other directors. It was the consensus of the committee that the amalgamation was a practical issue and should be consummated as soon as possible. The committee appointed by president Clark at the meeting last week-— upon the suggestion of previous directors — to bring about a re-approachment with the directors of the Provincial Memorial Home, tend- ing towards a merger of the institutions, openly discussed the matter and listened to the opinions of other directors. ACADEMIC COSTUME FAVORED BY THE U. N. B. ALUMNI

Fredrickton, May 17.—The annual meeting of the associated alumni of the University of New Brunswick was held here tonight and was one of the longest and most interesting sessions in many years. A variety of subjects was discussed. Much time was devoted to the wearing of academic costume which has been neglected in recent years by both student body and faculty. The overwhelming opinion of the alumni was in favor of wearing cap and gown about the university and at lectures.

Officers were elected as follows: President, P. J. Hughes, Fredrickton; vice-presidents, W. J. S. Miles, St. John; H. H. Hagner, Fredrickton; J. D. Rankine, M. D., Woodstock; secretary and treasurer, H. V. B. Bridges, Fredrickton; members of council, E. S. Bridges, St. W. W. Brodie, St. John; C. D. Richards, M. P. F. B. M. Hill, C. McN. Steeves, J. B. McN. Steeves, Fredrickton; E. C. Weyman, St. John; representatives in the senate, C. D. Richards, M. P. F. W. D. Rankine, M. D.

It was announced that the alumni gold medal for Latin prose had been won by H. F. C. Bridges, of Fredrickton, and the Brydson Jack memorial scholarship for 1932 year physics by George E. Creed, of Sussex.

By unanimous vote the society recommended to the senate that the honorary degree of master of science be conferred upon Francis Vaughan, of St. John, well known as an electrical engineer and a friend of the university.

J. B. McGilvray reported for a special committee that four University of New Brunswick clubs had been established during the past year. He touched also on other matters.

As the result of Mr. McNair's report the sum of $250 was voted to the purchase of 1,500 copies of a year book containing information concerning the graduates of the past year.

The proposal of western graduates for a reunion in 1933 is under consideration. W. H. A. Leitch, of Winnipeg, was attendance and spoke.

On motion it was decided that copies of the proceedings of the meeting should be printed and forwarded to all members.

On request Chancellor Jones reported on the proposal for university amalgamation in the maritime provinces. The U. N. B. senate had not favored the original proposal for centralization at Halifax. A subsequent proposal had been made by the Carnegie Foundation, but was of a confidential nature.

The alumni society of the University of New Brunswick held its annual meeting tonight. Officers were elected as follows: President, Miss Louise King-Stewart; vice-presidents, Mrs. Ethel Anderson, Fredrickton; Mrs. J. B. Crocker, Fredrickton; secretary-treasurer, Miss Grace H. Fleming, St. John; assistant secretary, Miss Sarah Thompson, Fredrickton; members of council, Mrs. Wolf, Barbara Dobson, Miss Marguerite Adams, St. John; Miss Mabel Sterling.

The president, Miss King-Stewart, also is representative in the senate.

Among other matters the society discussed the tendency to discontinue academic costume at the university. The members were decidedly in favor of returning to the former custom.

DO this, and you will have a pleasant, easy, work-free wash-day — with wonderfully clean sweet clothes:

For each tub of clothes take half a package of Rinso, dissolve in just enough cool water to make it as thick as cream. Then stir in two quarts of boiling water, and stir well. When the bubbles disappear you will have a clear, amber-colored liquid that is the magical Rinso washing solution. Pour it into your tub of cool or lukewarm water, and put in the clothes and soak. For extra hard water or extra dirty clothes add more Rinso solution.

In the morning rinse thoroughly and hang out to dry — the washing is done! That's why Rinso is different from all other Soaps and Washing Powders.

The spirit of yesterday's meeting was one of progress and optimism with a frank discussion of the problem confronting the Protestant people of New Brunswick in giving further accommodation of the very best kind to the orphan children of the province. The charter has been changed so that the name of the institution correctly indicates the scope upon which it has been working for the last sixty-eight years. The new home project is a very real matter with the officials and directors but it is desired to clear up all such matters as the projected consolidation of institutions, the alignment of the Protestant denominations and fraternal societies before the actual construction of the big buildings will be undertaken.

On request Chancellor Jones reported on the proposal for university amalgamation in the maritime provinces. The U. N. B. senate had not favored the original proposal for centralization at Halifax. A subsequent proposal had been made by the Carnegie Foundation, but was of a confidential nature.

The alumni society of the University of New Brunswick held its annual meeting tonight. Officers were elected as follows: President, Miss Louise King-Stewart; vice-presidents, Mrs. Ethel Anderson, Fredrickton; Mrs. J. B. Crocker, Fredrickton; secretary-treasurer, Miss Grace H. Fleming, St. John; assistant secretary, Miss Sarah Thompson, Fredrickton; members of council, Mrs. Wolf, Barbara Dobson, Miss Marguerite Adams, St. John; Miss Mabel Sterling.

The president, Miss King-Stewart, also is representative in the senate.

Among other matters the society discussed the tendency to discontinue academic costume at the university. The members were decidedly in favor of returning to the former custom.

NATIONAL GOLF CHAMPION IS DISQUALIFIED BY HIS OWN CLUB

Boston, May 18.—Two is tournament golfing company, but five is a crowd on any green, the Tournament Committee of the Woodland Golf Club ruled in disqualifying Jesse Guilford, national amateur champion of that club, who had apparently won first prize in an open tournament. Another low scorer who played as a member of the same foursome, while competitors were going around in pairs — J. A. (Duff) Gammons of Providence, R. I. — also was disqualified by the committee.

granted not because of a sentimental interest in this experiment in workers' control of industry, but because the guild workers' control contractors. The Ministry of Health gave large housing contracts on a cost-plus basis, but the Ministry was safeguarded by preliminary estimates and an insurance scheme to prevent undue excess over the estimates. For capital the guilds have depended upon various sources, such as the Co-operative Wholesale Society, but they are trying to raise a national fund of £100,000. Of this they have obtained a sufficient sum to erect the first of a chain of large joinery works designed to cover the whole country and to supply the guilds with raw materials at low cost. In short, the guilds mean to make themselves a factor of the first importance in British building. Meanwhile, they are planning the invasion of the engineering field, and the London Times Trade Supplement, in an extended article by an engineer, calls upon technicians to give the movement serious attention. One may or may not have faith in the large claims made by the guild advocates; claims that it will restore the old high standards of craftsmanship, give workers a new pride, interest, and initiative in their labor, provide for continuous pay and much more nearly continuous

THE CANADIAN
HENLEY JULY 28-29

The Athletes of Canada Have Made Names for Themselves in Rowing.

Toronto, May 16. — (By Canadian Press.)—Of all the outdoor sports in which the athletes of Canada have made names for themselves, it is unquestioned that the one particular sport that has carried the fame of Canada, or any individual Canadian the farthest, is that of rowing. In the past Canadian rowers have held premier positions in the world's rowing championships, both professional and amateur, and it now remains to be seen whether or not there can be developed from among the five thousand amateur rowers of Canada some worthy representative who will restate Canada in the very front ranks in the rowing world.

The Canadian championship events will be held at St. Catharines, as usual, the dates for this year's Canadian Henley being Friday and Saturday, July 28 and 29. The St. Catharines regatta ranks as one of the biggest and best on the continent and is in reality a meeting of champions, not only from Canada, but also from the United States. To compete in these events it is necessary to establish the right to do so by winning a club or district championship and this, usually, the oarsmen competing in the blue ribbon events at St. Catharines are the best in their classes. A fluke winner in a club or district regatta would indeed be a lucky individual if he were able to repeat in the Canadian Henley.

The Canadian Association of Amateur Oarsmen has a membership of some twenty-five clubs, extending from coast to coast, and is, through close affiliation with the National Rowing Association, in close touch with rowing all over the North American continent. The oarsmen of the Canadian clubs are as familiar to the oarsmen of the United States as are the Americans, and the clubs from the south of the international boundary have the reputation of being the best in the Canadian championship events.

Comparisons of stars of other days with the leading lights of present times are very seldom satisfactory, but in the opinion of a number of veterans the amateur of today compares very favorably with his counterpart of the past. Against O'Connor, Marsh and others of the last generation, we have today, or yesterday, Scholes, Dibble, Butler, and Belyea. John, the present champion, and a lot of good material in the making. Lou Scholes was the only Canadian to win the Diamond Sculls at the English Henley, and he had to establish a record for the course in order to do so. Scholes was also successful in winning the Canadian and United States championships, as were also Dibble and Butler.

The Canadian championship at St. Catharines last year, completely upset the hope when he captured the blue ribbon event. He has a style that is all his own and he drove his boat to the title by main strength.

The scullers of twenty years ago, quoting the same authorities referred to above, were superior to those of today, but when one considers that the men of the past generation were outstanding figures in the history of the world's rowing, this statement is not so much to the detriment of the present-day scullers. The rowing giants of the by-gone days included the one and only Ned Hanlan, who is claimed to be the greatest sculler of all times in the world. F. J. O'Connor, also of Toronto; Jake Gandour of Barrie, Ont., who at the age of thirty-eight won the world's championship; Wallace Ross, the great maritime province sculler, and Denny Don-hue. In the same era the United States had men like Teemer, Lee, Plaisted, Hosmer, Riley, Ham and Stevenson. This group of scullers occupy a unique position in rowing history and the professional stars of the present day cannot begin to compare with them, in the estimation of the veteran critics. Professional sculling has, in fact, almost passed out and the present American champion, Eddie Durman of Toronto, a nephew of the great Hanlan, has held the title and today, at the age of fifty, is unbeatable.

The present generation has shown great progress in style, much has been learned in sweep rowing, and Canada's colors have been carried to victory frequently on United States courses. The list of American championships accredited to Canadian crews bears unmistakable evidence of the prowess of our crews in the eights, four and doubles. Canada has, however, never been able to win the Grand Challenge for eights on the Thames, and this is very significant, inasmuch as a number of United States colleges have adopted the English style of rowing, and in future crews from this country, competing in events across the line, will be confronted with crews that have been drilled in that style, by coaches who have been imported from England. The University of Toronto eight is probably the only Canadian crew whose training is inclined towards the Old Country style, and it may be regarded as significant that this crew won the Canadian eights championship last summer. Advocates of the British style, in discussing the merits of the two styles of rowing, lay stress on the fact that it was a crew from the United States navy, using the so-called British style, that won the Olympic championship. The British style that is now at the height of its popularity calls for a much slower and longer stroke than that which held sway in America until a few years ago.

Whatever be the merits of the respective styles, a decision should soon be arrived at, and it is not too early even now to begin the building up of good strong crews to make a successful invasion of Paris in 1924.

CURIOSITY OF MOTHER
SAVES SEVERAL LIVES

Edmonton, Alta., May 18.—Curiosity proved the means of saving six or eight children from being blown to atoms. The curiosity of a mother to see what sort of fire-crackers her daughter wanted to set fire to, revealed a stick dynamite. Two little boys had been prowling around the warehouse of a construction company near 39th street and picked up what they thought were fire-crackers. They took them home and handed one each to their sisters and four other girls living on the street.

TO CABLE ENTRY FOR
DIAMOND SCULLS

NEW GOLF GROUNDS FOR HALIFAX CLUB

The entry of Hilton Belyea, Canadian sculling champion, for the Diamond Sculls race at the English Henley on June 30 next will be cabled today by J. C. Chesley, president of the St. John Rowing Club. This was decided on yesterday at a meeting of the citizens' committee in charge of the arrangements for sending Belyea to Philadelphia. The English rowing authorities may look with disfavor on the entry owing to Belyea's occupation as a fisherman, but there is the precedent of the Dutch Village Scholes, of Toronto, the only Canadian to ever win the Diamond trophy, was allowed to compete. If Belyea's entry is approved he will be forced to move fast this summer to uphold his title.

Without a dissenting vote, almost 80 per cent. of the total membership of the Halifax Golf Club, including gentlemen and lady members, gathered yesterday afternoon at a meeting held in the Board of Trade, and after electing a committee consisting of Messrs. J. J. Tobin, F. B. A. Chipman, Peter Jack, John Murphy, W. H. Piers, W. A. Henry, H. A. Flemming, F. St. C. Harris, and R. H. Teisson, empowered this committee to act and make all necessary arrangements toward the financing and purchase of the Webb and the three Pierces, properties on the Dutch Village Road, for the new permanent home of the Halifax Golf Club.

It is believed that the sum of $50,000 will be required to defray the purchase price of the hundred odd acres of which the property consists, secure the services of a golf course architect to survey and lay out the greens for the first nine or twelve holes, and pay for the clearance of a golf course through the woods.

The Webb property has two buildings which could be made into a clubhouse and garage, or workshop. There are two streams running through the property that would make ideal water hazards.

The properties referred to are about seven or ten minutes walk from the end of the Arundale car line along the Dutch Village Road. They are of sufficient acreage to allow for an 18-hole course, 12 of which it is hoped will be ready for use this autumn, if it is in the power of the committee to have them so.

It is believed that bonds of $100 of denomination will be issued, and every playing member will be asked to subscribe not less than one share.

London, May 18.—(Associated Press.)—A record field of 252 players is entered for the American golf championship, which begins May 22 at the Prestwick Links and continues through to May 27. Four American players are entered and are paired as follows: John G. Anderson of Sivanoy against Walter Wright of Henden; George A. Dixon, Jr., National Links, against R. Sagar Fugh of the Royal St. Andrew's; Donald Parson of Youngstown, Ohio, against Alex. Wenzel of Raleigh; and Ted Chapin of Greenwich, against H. E. Taylor of Mid-surrey.

SUSSEX ATHLETIC MEET.

Sussex has secured sanction for a big athletic meet which will be held there on July 1. The meet held at Sussex last year on Monday Day was a great success, as more than sixty athletes competed and fast time was made in several of the events. The field also gives great opportunity for the other athletic events. A baseball diamond has been laid out this season, which will compare favorably with those in the larger centres in Eastern Canada. City Championship Game.
Sports are being made to have the only winners of the City League, and the Hawks, winners of the Y. M. C. I. League, roll a three-game series for the championship of the city. The decision was practically made last evening to hold this roll-off and it is expected that the first game will be rolled tonight on the Y. M. C. I. alleys, not Jack's as was announced.

Games Last Evening.
In the Automobile League match played on the Y. M. C. I. alleys last evening the Hawks defeated the Dodgers by a total of 1,239 to 1,183. Stacked the winners with an average of 98 1-3.

I. O. G. T. League.
In the I. O. G. T. League last evening Patricia Lodge forfeited four points to Thorpe Lodge. The latter team rolled their three strings and had 1,178 for a total pin.

South End League.
The meeting of the South End Baseball League was held last evening, when the captains of the five teams in the league each received a copy of the agreement, which the South End Improvement League is drawing up for the carrying on of the season's activities. The captains will have until the latter part of this week to decide what attitude they will take towards the terms. Another meeting will be held later in the week.

Sport in Sydney.
Sydney, N. S., May 18—A Sydney amateur baseball league with senior and junior divisions was organized at a big meeting here last night. Each division consists of four teams. Play will begin on June 1. Mainly through the exertions of Fred A. Hardman, new physical director of the Sydney "Y" a great impetus has been given to amateur sport here, and not only is baseball booming, but rowing is again in vogue, with daily shell practice on the harbor and the prospect of entering crews in maritime and other competitions during the season. The Sydney Rowing Club will be organized on Saturday.

Dempsy Home Tomorrow.
New York, May 18—Jack Dempsy and his manager, Jack Kearns, will return to the U. S. tomorrow aboard the S. S. Aquitania. While abroad the champion signed an agreement for a return match with George Carpentier some time within the next year, and re-dempsy's rivals, and reports of an offer for a contest between the pair in Montreal on June 1 were coupled with statements that Tex Rickard and Frank Flourney, Madison Square Garden promoters, would make them a proposition. Lucrative offers for a bout with Luis Firpo, sensation of the Argentine, and a possible return match with Bill Brennan, who stayed twelve rounds with Dempsy some time ago, also were said to be in prospect.

Miss Leitch Wins Again.
Sandwich, Eng., May 18—Miss Cecil Leitch, champion, won her match in the fifth round of the ladies open golf championship here today, defeating Miss Joy Winn, of Alderburgh, by 4 to 2.

King Scratches Derby Entries.
London, May 18—(Canadian Press)—His Majesty the King will not be represented in the Derby on May 31, as his horses were all scratched today.

A Close Watch.
Chicago, May 18—"Young Jake" Schaefer, world's 182 lb. line billed champion, last night defeated Walter Cochran, 200 to 400, in the second block of their 1,000 point championship match. Schaefer leads the challenger 1,000 to 919. The final block will be played tonight.

TO CLOSE HIS BIG MANSION.
London, May 18—Because of tremendous taxation, the Marquis of Londonderry, one of the wealthiest British peers, announces that he will close his great mansion, Seaham Hall, at Seaham Harbor, County Durham. The Seaham estate contains some of the richest coal mines in England, from which the Marquis and his family draw a great income.

THE MARQUIS OF LONDONDERRY.
The marquis owns a mansion in North Wales, as well as Castle Mount Stewart, County Down, and Londonderry House, a great residence in Park Lane here. The closing of a house like Seaham Hall, where costly entertainments were given, is a great loss to the tradesmen and others in the neighborhood. Even when such places are bought by men who made fortunes in the war, they are not kept up in the same style.

Because they could not bear the burden of taxes, eight dukes and nearly two dozen other peers and industrial magnates have sold their country estates in the last two years.

A BARBECUE IN TAHITI.
Rollo H. Beck of the American Museum of Natural History is primarily a bird man. Searching for birds he spent ten days not so long ago in Tahiti—that country of beautiful maidens and natural charms which is constantly being rediscovered—and really found something new there that no one else had upon. Mr. Beck calls it a fireless cooker, and it was run by one of the natives, who also gave an exhibition of a first-class method of cooking pork. They didn't do much in the way of birds, but a "dirty, bristly, brindle pig" succumbed to a gunshot from the bird man, and Taifa, the native guide, took it immediately in hand.

Taifa gathered up sticks and limbs of trees, Mr. Beck relates, and then carefully together, fired the heap and then enclosed it with large lava chunks. When the blaze was well under way more of these chunks were placed on top of the burning mass. After about ten minutes the lava was well heated, and taking the porker Taifa began pulling one side of the body rhythmically back and forth over the heated rocks. He delicately manipulated the legs and ears until one side of the animal was beautifully depleted. He then submitted the other side to the same process. In less than half an hour from the time the rough-looking pig had walked up within range of the gun he had become a clean, smooth, white-skinned animal.

Taifa's first work being so successful, it was decided to allow him to cook the pig in Tahitian style, which he did. The meat was thoroughly washed and cut into convenient pieces. A pile of rocks was set to heat and after some time had elapsed these were covered with a layer of thick green leaves on which the pork was placed, another layer of leaves covering it and more rocks placed over the whole.

When supper time came and the mound was uncovered a most appetizing sight was revealed. The most desirable pieces were eaten and the remainder went into what Mr. Beck calls the fireless cooker. The meat was carefully cut from the bones, rained into three large green bamboo joints, which were placed on the still hot rocks, covered with leaves, and taken out the next morning, deliciously cooked, to furnish the party with rations for the next three days.

"Fireless cookers as fabricated by several American manufacturers may produce edible and economically cooked results," says Mr. Beck, "but for thoroughness, toothsome and exquisitely flavored pork preparations Taifa's one and lava method is hard to excel."

NO MORE EVIDENCE IN THE STILLMAN CASE.
Poughkeepsie, N. Y., May 18—John E. Mack, guardian and litigator for young Guy Stillman, has announced that hearings in the Stillman divorce case have been finally closed. The testimony taken before Referee Daniel J. Gleason will now be studied by the latter prior to his report to Justice Merschaer.

TEACHERS' PENSIONS.

Under the superannuation system which went into force in September, 1920, the teachers of Ohio pay four per cent. of their salaries (though in no case to exceed four per cent. of $2,000). In addition to superannuation and disability allowances, there is a provision that teachers leaving the service and not eligible for pension receive back all their payments with four per cent. interest, compounded annually. Superannuation schemes are now in general operation in progressive states, provinces and countries. Our Ontario fund is making good progress, according to the report of the commissioners, and another five years should enable the commission to provide

FAIRVILLE CHURCH ROLL CALL.

A special service was held last evening in the Fairville Baptist church. The affair took the form of a general roll call and a large proportion of the church members answered their names last evening. A special address was given by Rev. D. J. MacParson, of Sussex, formerly pastor of the Central Baptist church of this city. A musical programme consisted of a solo by Percy Flewelling; a song by a trio composed of Mrs. Murray Long, Mrs. George Currie and Miss Marion Stevens; and several choruses by the choir. A special offering was taken up and more than $180 was raised.
