ANOTHER ARDER SENSATION IN HUD

Rev. Clarence V. T. Richeson Arrested for Murder of Avis Linnell His Former Fiancee.

YOUNG GIRL POISONED BY DEADLY DRUG SENT TO HER.

Evidence Shows that Clergyman Bought Poison and His Arrest Follows—Victim was Choir Singer in Richeson's Church—What Mrs. Linnell Says.

Hyannis, Mass., Oct. 20.—"Thank God, I believe no mistake has been made." It was this exclamation that Mrs. Edgar Linnell, mother of the little music student and Sunday school teacher Avis Linnell received the news today that Rev. Clarence V. T. Richeson had been arrested for the murder of her daughter. In seeming extension of the alleged act of the former Hyannis pastor, however, Mrs. Linnell later voiced the belief that Mr. Richeson was not accountable.

"He must have been out of his mind," Mrs. Linnell said, when she recovered from the temporary breakdown that found her reception of the news in a highly nervous state and occasional interruptions by her daughter, Mrs. Vida McLean, of Brockton, Mrs. Linnell told of certain peculiarities of Mr. Richeson, which she noticed while he was a caller at her home during the time he held the pastorate of the Baptist church here.

"Mr. Richeson, whom I loved as a son even before he became formally engaged to Avis, worried us often by attacks which he had at our house," she said. "Although they did not appear to be serious they left him in a highly nervous state and he was often forced to leave the table because of them. He worried about this trouble and once broke his engagement with Avis, giving his physical condition as the reason. Their engagement, however, was renewed and Avis I firmly believe, was engaged to him when she died."

Loved When a Child.

Between Mrs. Linnell and Mrs. McLean the story of the acquaintance of Avis Linnell and the young pastor was told. Avis possessed a fine voice, was a singer in the Baptist church choir, when Mr. Richeson assumed the pastorate there four years ago, he was only fifteen years old then. The new minister showed marked attention to the child and within a few months was calling at the Linnell home.

"At first I objected," said Mrs. Linnell, "but only because I thought Avis was too young. I liked Mr. Richeson and thought him an admirable man, and finally consented when Avis told me that she loved him and that he was engaged to her. The wedding was set for last October, but Mr. Richeson's attacks troubled him and he broke the engagement, saying he would renew it if he found his physical condition warranted. He became engaged to Avis again but they never set a date after the first failure."

The talk led around to the visit to Boston last week of Mrs. Linnell, when she saw Avis for some hours, and also met Mr. Richeson. "My little girl seemed in the best of spirits and appeared happy in her relation with Mr. Richeson," Mrs. Linnell added. "The minister told me at that time that reports that he was engaged to Miss Violet Edmonds of Brookline were untrue."

"So gay and light hearted did Avis appear that day that one would think the child had not a care in the world," said her mother. "Her music lessons were delightful to her and everything was pleasant. Not a word or sign did she give to indicate her condition."

Richeson Arrested.
Boston, Oct. 20.—Rev. Clarence V. T. Richeson, pastor of the Baptist church in Cambridge, was arrested shortly before 8 o'clock as a result of police investigation of the death by poisoning of Miss Avis Linnell, a student of the New England Conservatory of Music. The arrest was made at the home of Moses G. Edmonds, father of the clergyman's fiancée in Brookline.

Mr. Richeson went to the Edmonds home last Sunday night, almost immediately after he had been informed of the sudden death of Avis Linnell who it was said, had been for some time his fiancée. Reports conflict as to whether a formal engagement between the minister and Miss Linnell was ever announced, but Mrs. Linnell had worn a diamond ring which the pastor gave her and friends claimed the man had often introduced her to his future wife. From Sunday night until yesterday afternoon the minister denied himself to all callers and to every plea for a statement as to his relations with Miss Linnell and never once appeared outside the Edmonds home. Friends of the pastor were extremely at work begging the press and public not to form a hard judgment, as in their belief, the minister would eventually clear himself of every suspicion.

STUDENTS AND ARABS GAVE POLICE CLASH IN MONTREAL

Attempts of Police Captain to Arrest Ringleader of McGill Men on a Time Leads to Trouble.

Montreal, Oct. 20.—Capt. Baker of No. 10 police station is suffering to night as the result of a mixup with McGill students this afternoon. Following the annual sports, the students paraded east along St. Catherine street, snatching fruit from in front of grocery stores and pulling the trolleys off the cars.

At the corner of Peel and St. Catherine streets, Captain Baker and two policemen attempted to check the students and Captain Baker seized one young man evidently a ringleader. He was immediately set upon and struck twice with a heavy stick once on the back and once on the left side. The blows are paining him severely and he has consulted a physician.

The reserves were called out to quell the incipient riot but before they arrived the students having rescued their leader dispersed.

There is great excitement over a rumor that a mysterious ship landed arms and ammunition on the Yucatan coast.

IMPERIAL GOVERNMENT ADMITS LOSS AT HANKOW.

Revolutionaries are Considering Advisability of Making City in Central China Capital of the Empire to Supplant Peking—Imperial Troops are Badly Beaten.

Peking, Oct. 20.—It is apparent here tonight that the imperial government knew the result of the battle at Hankow between its forces and the rebels for more than 24 hours before it became public here. Reports of the rebel victory gradually leaked out during the day, but the first positive account of the defeat of the imperial troops was delivered to the foreign legations tonight by the Associated Press. It created a profound impression.

The success of the revolution has been considered here to hinge upon the result of the first encounter, as its moral effect would be far reaching in China, as probably nowhere else would be the case, when the fugitive imperialists reach the main army, which is mobilizing near Sin Yeh Chow, the news of the repulse, it is believed, will utterly demoralize the troops, while on the other hand the news as it goes along the Yangtze River will probably result in further important adhesions to the rebel cause.

The foreign legations here believe that today's news from Hankow and Yuan Nan, will mean that the provinces south of the Yangtze and also some on the north side of the river sooner or later will secede. The government acknowledges that there is a serious situation in Chang Sha, province of Hu Nan, which it is believed in Peking means that Chang Sha has joined the revolt.

Foreigners whose business it is to study China think that the northern provinces, which are not deeply affected by sedition, may rally around the Manchus. Everything, however, seems to depend on an immediate and successful advance by the minister of war Yin Tchang, who now commands 20,000 men within one hundred miles of Hankow.

NEW CAPITAL.

The ultimate purpose is to make one of the cities on the Han River, the capital of the empire. Such a location would be ideal and have many advantages over Peking, which is removed from the center of population. The Manchus are strong at Nanking and Hang Chow, but all other towns in the district are distinctly revolutionary in sentiment, particularly Si Chow, which is the seat of a great modern university.

Many train loads of refugees from Nanking and Hangchow arrive here daily.

There are a total of 18 foreign warships at Hankow and others are proceeding here. Many foreign vessels are also at other ports on the Yangtze River. The American ships at Hankow are the gunboats Villa-Lobos, Helena and El Cano. The French cruiser Duplex has been sent to Nanking. The American torpedo boats Salsbridge, Barry and Dale are here.

Revolutionist Success.

Hankow, Oct. 18.—When the fighting ceased Wednesday evening the revolutionists took up a strong position. Reinforcements for the rebels arrived during the night and early this morning (Thursday) a force fully 5,000 strong, commenced an advance on the imperial encampment. The revolutionists conducted cautiously. On the march the rebels burned hundreds of tents, leaving an ambush. The loyalist infantry met the rebels in a field of reeds and failed to dislodge the rebel force which has been made the special object of attack.

When the republican scouts reached the imperial camp they found it deserted. The main body entered waving banners and shouting in jubilation. The loyalist retreat was so hurried that they left many tents and carloads of baggage and ammunition.

The rebel army is now entrenched in the camp which is three miles from Hankow. The loyalists have halted seven miles further north where they are awaiting reinforcements.

TOBACCO TRUST MUST DISSOLVE IN EARNEST

Plan of Dissolution as at Present Proposed will Offer No Relief to the Tobacco Raisers.

New York, Oct. 20.—After thoroughly studying the provisions of the plan of disintegration that has been filed by the American Tobacco Company with the Judge of U. S. Circuit Court, the Attorney General of the State of Virginia, North Carolina, and South Carolina, who have been in conference here on this matter for two days past, reached the conclusion late today that the plan as proposed will offer no relief to the tobacco growers of this country.

The conference decided to file tomorrow a petition in the U. S. Circuit court asking that the southern states be permitted to file written objections to the plan of dissolution and to be heard at the hearing which is to be held on October 30th.

PLAN FOR TWO HIGH COURTS FOR CANADA

Hon. Robert Rogers, Minister of Interior, is one of those who favors the proposition as designed to lighten the cost of litigation of the west.

McKee, another Prince Edward Islander, won both the high jump and the pole vault, and in the latter event J. Smith, from the same province from Cape Breton, won all three weight events—discus, hammer and shot put—and in each hung up a new mark.

THE NORTON REVIVAL

Norton, Oct. 20.—How the movement began was this: Murray Harmer, a business man of Norton showed his pastor, the Rev. John Lennox, a letter from the Rev. Wilbur Chapman, D. D., of the world famed evangelist, recommending Rev. C. P. Goodson as a faithful and powerful evangelist. His recommendation has proved true. The people from every section of the country surrounding Norton are coming to hear Mr. Goodson night after night, and as the work goes on, the deeper the interest grows.

The churches and pastors are behind the movement. The revival has aroused many to Christian activity. The united choir is a great attraction. Many make it a point to arrive early on account of the song service. Rev. C. P. Goodson will preach on the Sabbath at 3 p. m. and 7 p. m.; Rev. Mr. Seelye will preach at 11 a. m. and the revival will continue every night during the next week.

NELSON'S VICTORY WAS ROYALLY CELEBRATED BY THE ST. GEORGE'S SOCIETY

The Great Triumph at Trafalgar Formed Theme of Song, Story and Oration at Pleasant Commemorative Gathering last Evening.

A large number of the members of St. George's Society gathered in their hall on Charlotte street last evening to do honor to the memory of the hero of Trafalgar, and invoke the spirit of patriotism and good fellowship. A splendid programme had been arranged for the occasion, and it was carried out with the swing and dash that characterized the performances of the British fleet on Trafalgar Day.

The principal feature was an address by Col. E. T. Sturdee, in which he gave an interesting and thrilling narrative of Nelson's last and greatest victory. Brief addresses were made by Judge Ritchie, president of St. Patrick's Society, James Jack, representing St. Andrew's Society and there were patriotic songs by G. S. Mayes, Robert Seelye and others, as well as recitations and musical selections.

Mayor Prink presided and opened the celebration with a short speech. After referring to the occasion of the gathering, he dwelt on the importance of keeping alive the memory of the great historic events which had marked the growth of the Empire, as well as the memory of the heroes who by their daring and self-sacrifice had contributed so much to the upbuilding of the Empire. Among all the men Englishmen delighted to honor few appeared more powerfully to the imagination than the great admiral who died at Trafalgar, after achieving probably the most momentous victory in the history of British arms. His life was an inspiration and his memory should be kept green in the hearts of the English people.

While refreshments were being served Robert Seelye sang Rule Britannia the audience joining heartily in the chorus. Mr. Seelye was loudly cheered, and in responding sang Dooley's Five O'Clock Tea, a humorous ditty that made a great hit.

F. McKean, a young man with a richly colored voice sang the Old Brigade, and in responding to an encore rendered The Veteran, with fine effect.

James Jack, of the St. Andrew's Society was then called upon for a speech. He conveyed the greeting of his society and hinted that the Scots had some right to join in the celebration of Trafalgar Day.

Judge Ritchie, of St. Patrick's Society, expressed his pleasure at being a guest at the celebration of such an occasion. After some characteristic remarks, he went on to point out the duty of the people of eastern Canada, who were so well trained in the British tradition, of imposing their ideals upon the west, which seemed in danger of setting the ideal of money making above every other consideration. He thought it rested with the east to temper the spirit of the west with the ideals of patriotism and devotion to all that was best in the British tradition.

Fred McNeil, D. B. Pidgeon, and J. Punter, then contributed songs. D. S. Robillard who had charge of the preparation of the programme, deserves much credit for the successful entertainment. During the evening refreshments were served by a committee and everybody was provided with tobacco and long church warden pipes.

The committee in charge of the general arrangements for the evening was composed of Fred Hanington, chairman, R. W. W. Frink, W. A. Church, D. S. Robillard, C. S. Everett, F. A. Kinneer, D. A. Fox, and J. Punter. The latter acted as the secretary.

INTERESTING LECTURE IN MISSION CHURCH

Mission Work in the Moosonee District Graphically Told by Archdeacon Renshon Last Evening.

In Mission Church last evening, Archdeacon Renshon of Moose Port, James Bay, delivered his lecture on Indian mission work in the Moosonee District. As a lecturer and raconteur, Archdeacon Renshon proved delightful, the speaker relating many experiences illuminating the history of the district, and of the character of the people met in that field of mission.

In the course of his lecture the speaker showed the reasons why the government of Canada should continue the work of civilization among the Indians. While his lecture has been held by some that the easier and natural course of procedure is to leave the Indians to their natural inclinations, the fact is overlooked that the Indian is already a skilled woodsman, adapted by heredity and environment for pioneer work and becomes invaluable as a fire ranger and game warden as well. In the work of forest conservation the services of the red man are immeasurable.

In the important work of conservation, the Indian would become a valuable ally. None so well as he can carry out this work; the woods are his realm. Where the clerical work and other indoor occupations of the Indian, in those occupations which fall within his natural sphere he has been found without a peer.

In the art of description, Archdeacon Renshon showed himself as skilled as in narration. He endowed his description with a realism rarely met with, and faithfully reproduced scenes, and describes persons clearly through the mind's eye the places and people described.

The lecture proved a rare treat and the audience which was large and was unanimous in voting it one of the most instructive and entertaining ever heard here.

World lotteries will take place in the rink on Monday evening at 8 o'clock. The tickets of which there were many have all been disposed of, and as the returns will have been made by Monday evening the drawing will be carried out. No doubt the rink will be crowded for the drawing, as the greatest interest has been manifested in the lottery; and as the prizes are many, as well as substantial, there are many expectant ones. The exhibits, which have been a feature of the fair, will be taken out today.

BORN ARMSTRONG—On October 21st, to Mr. and Mrs. Beverly R. Armstrong, a daughter.

BACK FULL OF AGES, HEAD-ACHES, AND DEPRESSION

Much of Women's Suffering is Needless and Can be Prevented by the Use of Dr. Hamilton's Pills.

That Stabbing Pain in the Back is Sure Indication of Kidney Trouble. Mrs. Anna Rodriguez writes as follows from her home in Valencia: "For a long time I suffered with failing strength and nagging headaches. My condition grew steadily worse, my limbs became bloated and shaky. I was sallow and thin, felt rheumatic pains, dizziness and chills. I unfortunately didn't suspect my kidneys, and was nearly dead when I discovered the true cause of my sufferings. I read so much about the wonderful health and strength that comes to all who use Dr. Hamilton's Pills that I felt sure they would help me. ## MR. PUGSLEY'S LATEST DEAL.

Mr. Pugsley appears to have signalized his retirement from the position of Minister of Public Works by putting through a sale of water powers at the Chats Falls, which extend across the Ottawa river near Quyon, that has all the earmarks of an outrageous deal for the benefit of friends of the Laurier Government. The property in question was never advertised as being for sale, nor was the public given an opportunity to bid on it. The transaction directly affects the city of Ottawa, the water powers being variously estimated as worth from $150,000 to $200,000. The sale was made after the Government was defeated for $1,471—a price which is quite in keeping with Mr. Pugsley's explanation when the matter was called to his attention. He pool-poached the whole thing, intimating that all that had been transferred was a lumber chute and that it was a transaction not worth serious consideration. There seems to be all the material for a very searching investigation.

According to the Ottawa Citizen, which has been probing into the details, along the brink of the Chats Falls, there is a row of islands extending across the Ottawa river, so that the falls consist in reality of a succession of cascades between the islands. At one point there is an old lumber chute which traverses the island in the brink of the falls and was used in bygone days for running ribs of square timber. This chute, or slide, is similar to that at the chaudiere, and was improved by the Government so as to facilitate the rafting operations in former days. Naturally the best head of water was selected, and the drop is nearly forty feet. It is, in a sense, a ready made water power, which is capable of producing, with the necessary machinery, about 25,000 horse power. At any other point a great deal of expensive development work would be necessary to take advantage of the water power.

About a quarter of a century ago the island on which this particular water power is situated was sold by the Government, but in the deed the waterway, with a strip of about several hundred feet on either side, was reserved for public purposes. In those days there was comparatively little value placed on water powers, as compared with the "white coal" era now dawning upon us. The water power with the immediately adjacent land on either side was reserved on account of its use as a chute for running rafts of square timber. With this water power and the immediately adjacent land held in reserve, the remainder of the island was not much more valuable than a cow pasture. But in recent years this particular water power has attained a potential value of from $150,000 to $200,000.

For a couple of years past the authorities of the city of Ottawa have been examining this power in conjunction with the Hydro-Electric Commission, with a view to securing and developing it in order to furnish electric power and light to the Capital, and possibly to the towns through out the Ottawa Valley. After the Laurier Government was beaten this power was disposed of to friends of the Government for a ridiculously small sum—$1,400! Under any circumstances, this would be a most unusual deal, especially as there was likely to arise some question of jurisdiction as between the Ontario and Dominion Governments. But the deal was put through, it came before the Cabinet of Sir Wilfrid Laurier and was sanctioned by an order in council, and Earl Grey's signature was secured to ratify it. It goes without saying that if the late Governor General had been made aware of the circumstances connected with the deal he would never for a moment have sanctioned it. The patent has since been registered.

As soon as Mr. Monk, the new Minister of Public Works, became aware of the transaction put through by Mr. Pugsley, he decided to enquire into the sale. As the Citizen remarks: "There is about as much legality to the sale as though a retiring board of control was to sell Rockcliffe Park for one-hundredth of its value, after said board had been defeated at the polls, but had not handed over to its successor."

What action will now ensue will be watched with some curiosity. Those who have obtained this concession for a mere song may be expected to put up a strong fight to prevent the cancellation of the Government patent. In that event it would afford an excellent opportunity for the Government to carry the matter to the Privy Council and secure a decision which would form a precedent for future moribund governments. Mr. Pugsley seems to have shown some anxiety in the dying hours of his power to beat all previous records. If there is any worse instance of corruption on the part of a Canadian government since Confederation, it has never come to public attention.

THE CENSUS RETURNS.

After the taking of every census a number of protests from different localities regarding the indifference way in which the enumeration was made have followed. About the only Province in Canada that in the past has accepted the census as correct has been Quebec. The correctness of the census of 1911 has been challenged from a greater number of cities than on any previous occasion. It has been denounced as incorrect in so many localities and such excellent reasons are furnished to prove its incorrectness that the authorities at Ottawa, under whose direction it was taken, will have some difficulty in explaining why some hundreds of thousands of people have apparently disappeared from the country. According to the returns furnished by the Immigration Department for the ten years up to June 30th last, 1,300,000 immigrants entered Canada, yet the population has been increased by only 1,710,000. It is apparent from these figures alone that either the Immigration figures are wrong or the census is wrong. United States authorities show that only about 250,000 Canadians became settlers in that country. This still leaves a very considerable margin to be accounted for unless race suicide in Canada is more general than is usually supposed.

It is not to be expected that all the immigrants who come to the country remain in it. On their arrival they go to one section and often move to another, still remaining in the country, but sometimes they go South and do not return. There has been in the past a considerable movement of Canadian population into the United States, just as many of our young people seek homes in the West. There is a continuous flow of population from one section to another. When work fails in one locality or another, the means of transportation are so good in these days that a man goes where he can find employment, but this movement of people from one locality to another would not account for the census figures. But whether the census figures are right or wrong the increase in population in Canada in the last decade has been greater than in any similar period in the history of the Dominion, and more than three times the increase of the two previous decades. Compared with previous decennial periods the results are as follows:—

Year	Population	Increase
1871	3,485,761	.....
1881	4,224,810	$38,040
1891	4,823,279	568,429
1901	5,371,215	538,076
1911	7,081,869	1,710,554

Comparing the census returns by provinces it is gratifying to notice that with the single exception of Prince Edward Island, where the conditions are different from that of any other Province in Canada, there is an increase as follows:—

Province	Population	Change
P. E. Island	93,723	Dec. 8,537
Nova Scotia	461,847	Inc. 2,273
New Brunswick	351,815	Inc. 20,695
Quebec	2,900,697	Inc. 351,759
Ontario	2,519,902	Inc. 336,555
Manitoba	454,691	Inc. 199,489
Saskatchewan	453,508	Inc. 262,229
Alberta	372,919	Inc. 299,897
British Columbia	362,768	Inc. 184,111

New Brunswick, according to these figures, has added 20,695 people to its population. The increase in the cities of New Brunswick is less than 5,000, leaving 15,000 to add to our rural population and to the population of towns and villages. This is the reverse of conditions in Quebec, where the increase has been greater in the cities and towns than in the agricultural districts. The same is true of Ontario, notwithstanding the immense amount expended by the Ontario Government to encourage the development of agriculture in that Province.

So far as the figures made public regarding Nova Scotia are concerned, these work have been a large falling off in the rural population of that Province. The total gain in population for Nova Scotia has been 2,273, with two districts in Cumberland county still to hear from. As the gains of Nova Scotia cities are over 23,000, this would apparently show a decrease of 30,000 in the rural population. Both Quebec and Ontario show very respectable gains, but the returns from the West are disappointing, not only to the people themselves, but to the rest of Canada.

An immense sum of money has been expended by the Government and by large land-owning corporations of that section to encourage immigration into the West, while the East has been entirely neglected by the Government immigration authorities. It is to be hoped that the new Conservative Government will immediately remove this cause of complaint by placing the attractions of the Maritime Provinces before those intending to emigrate, as well as those of the West. There is room in New Brunswick for double its present population without any crowding, and the opportunities for agriculturists, and all other classes who are willing to work, are just as good in this Province as in any other part of Canada. Until the returns for the counties of New Brunswick are made public, it is not possible to state in which localities the increase of population has taken place.

A NAVY PLEBISCITE.

Toronto Saturday Night sees no difficulty in the way of a plebiscite on the navy question. It says that in the handling of the matter the late Government was much in the position of the old man of the fabre, who tried to take the ass across the bridge. Its policy satisfied nobody. Saturday Night is not in agreement with Mr. Monk, but protests that "the member for Jacques Cartier is unquestionably right in demanding a plebiscite on the question."

The ballot to be used, in the event of a plebiscite being decided upon, is the most serious and difficult phase of the matter, since an imperfect ballot might lead to an unrepresentative general election. Saturday Night furnishes no such difficulty, suggesting the following form for the ballot:

Are you in favor of rendering assistance toward the naval defence of the Empire?

If so, which mode of assistance do you favor?

(a) Direct contribution to the British Admiralty.

(b) A navy constructed and manned by Canada herself.

That a plebiscite would shift responsibility from the Government to the people does not enter into Saturday Night's consideration of the question. It remarks: "That is what plebiscites are for, and every thinking Canadian would like to know the people's view on this matter, which was, by force of circumstance, shelved during the recent election. It is better for the Government to disclaim responsibility temporarily on this most momentous issue than to accept responsibility for a wasteful and useless policy which its party never approved and of which it is very probable that a great majority of Canadians of all shades of thought disapprove."

It is 106 years today since Lord Nelson won the glorious victory of Trafalgar. In honor of the day it is hoped all citizens will fly their flags.

The Duke of Connaught has made it plain that there will be no departure from the customs which have governed his predecessors in the post of Governor General. There will be no "court"; there will be no added ceremonies, no adoption of a court dress which contemplates knee breeches at receptions and the like. His Royal Highness gave orders that Rideau Hall should not be refurbished for his occupancy. He has made it clear that what was good enough for the illustrious line of Governors General not of royal blood "is good enough for him." The Canadian people are not to witness more than the residency of one of the most democratic of Royalties.

HON. J. D. HAZEN

Press Comment on Appointment of New Brunswick Premier as Minister of Marine and Fisheries.

(Charlottetown Guardian, Ind.)

As Premier of New Brunswick, Mr. Hazen has distinctly made good. At the outset he surrounded himself with honest and capable colleagues, and has since introduced a number of important reforms. One of these was in the administration of the crown timber lands, where great abuses had crept in under previous Governments. These have been corrected and the revenue from this source nearly doubled, which was a matter of great importance, as the sister Province, like our own, suffered from insufficient funds for efficient housekeeping. Other reforms effected were in the matter of public expenditure, and an entire change in the road system, which has produced good results. It has been long since New Brunswick had a more capable and efficient Government than Mr. Hazen has given it. If, indeed, it ever had one of that standard in the legal profession, and has since introduced a number of important reforms. DOCTORS GAVE ME UP

But "Fruit-a-lives" Cured Me Moorfield, Ont., March 25th, 1910. "I suffered from severe indigestion and dyspepsia for nearly two years. I could not take food without fearful distress.

I could not do any work and became so run down and weak that I could hardly walk. I was attended by two experienced doctors and they both pronounced my case incurable, that they could do nothing more for me as they thought my disease was HEART FAILURE AND INCURABLE. The doctors gave me up and I looked forward for death in a short time.

"At this time my son asked me to try 'FRUIT-A-LIVES' and from the outset of taking these wonderful tablets I was better, and gradually this medicine cured me. I took a large number of boxes, perhaps a dozen, and now I am entirely well. I have gained over thirty pounds in weight."

HENRY SPEERS J. P. "Fruit-a-lives" is sold by all dealers at 50c. box - 6 for $2.50 or trial size 25c. - or sent on receipt of price by Fruit-a-lives, Limited, Ottawa.

STOCK MARKET WAS AGAIN ERRATIC

New York, Oct. 20.—Erratic movements again characterized the stock market today, although it exhibited a consistently firm undertone. Prices seem to fluctuate in response to no well defined changes in opinion, which remains in a state of confusion and uncertainty.

While the movement in these stocks is largely speculative, it has a basis in current conditions in the copper metal trade. Sales of copper continue on a large scale for both domestic and foreign delivery, and prices have been quite generally advanced by producers and selling agencies.

Trading in bonds was on a smaller basis today. Prices improved after early irregularity. Total sales were unchanged on call.

HAS A DOLL HOUSE ART COL-LECTION OF REAL PAINTINGS

MARGARET BUCKNER, ART CONNOISSEUR.

If you are a little girl—wouldn't you like to have a real art collection? That is exactly what Margaret Buckner, of Milwaukee possesses. She is 14 years old and goes to school like any other girl, but she has one of the most unique picture galleries in the world. All the pictures in it are good and most of them are masterpieces. They are all small pictures and look as though they had been painted for an exhibition in a doll house. Every one was painted expressly for Margaret, though none has cost her a cent.

There is another picture gallery in the Buckner home. The pictures in it were collected by Samuel Owen Buckner, prominent in business and artistic circles of the country. But Mr. Buckner's gallery is on the conventional order. Modern French, Dutch and American pictures have claimed his attention especially. Each year he goes to Europe and spends most of his time in the ateliers of famous artists. On these trips he takes his daughter.

Even when she is a very little Margaret loved to climb up the narrow dark stairways in the Latin quarter or hunt with her father through the quaint old streets of Amsterdam for the studio of some painter. As a souvenir of her visit and her interest, it became quite the thing for the artists from whom Mr. Buckner purchased, to paint little pictures for the American girl.

TWO GIRLS AND TWO SONGS
START A MILLION SMILES

EMMY WEHLEN.
Surely You'd Smile With Her?

Christie Macdonald and Emmy Wehlen—they with a dandy little song apiece, were the hits of the theatrical season in New York. The season dragged miserably, with failure after failure, until this pair came onto the scene. After that New York had found somebody to worship, somebody's songs to sing.

Christie Macdonald, the star of "The Spring Maid," a German musical piece, sang a waltz song that had the town by the ears. The chorus goes like this:

Day dreams—
Visions of bliss—
Dear as the hopes of childhood:

Emmy Wehlen, in "Marriage à la Carte," came only recently to this country from Vienna. She is a young girl. In her musical piece she begs the audience to smile, in a chorus that goes like this:

Even though it be a grin—
Drive away
Trouble for the day.
Now, then—begin!
Don't look gloomy all the while.
One, two, three;
Do the same as me:
"Come along—Smile."
The words alone may seem silly. But the tunes and the singers atone for that.

CROWNS SOME DAY FOR THIS YOUNG PAIR, SOON TO WED

PRINCESS ZITA OF PARMA, AND ARCHDUKE KARL FRANZ OF AUSTRIA.

This young archduke and his bride-elect will some day occupy the thrones of Austria-Hungary, if they live and the empire lasts. But they must wait for two other sets of occupants to die. The present emperor, Franz Joseph, is 81 years old. His nephew Franz Ferdinand is slated to succeed him, but as Ferdinand married beneath his station—his wife being just a countess—his children are barred from succession. At Ferdinand's death the crown will fall to this young man, and other nephew of the reigning monarch. His marriage to the pretty Princess Zita of Parma, set for Oct. 21, will be attended by a large delegation of the crown hunters' union.

Hundreds of men are at work preparing castle Holzeudorf for the reception of the young couple. Magnificent presents are being received. Emperor Franz Joseph has ordered a $25,000 diamond clasp for Princess Zita. The princess is the seventeenth of nineteen children.

THE CANDY KITCHENS EXPLAINED

A Business Enterprise That Began When the Owner Was a Girl of Eight.

(New York Sun.)

"My candy making began way back when I was a little girl, hardly 8 years old," declared a woman who today owns and manages several candy kitchens. "By father was a confectioner and he carried his lunch to work. Being fond of sweets and home made Judge in particular he used to have some in his handy basket whenever he could find time to make it. It was because I found that father missed his candy when mother's supply was low that I learned how to make it. I think I was only about 8 when making candy for father's lunches became one of my regular duties.

Father's candy gained such a reputation among his fellow workmen, that one of them suggested that he should tell me that if I wanted to make money for Christmas I need only make up a lot of candy and bring it to the store yard to sell. This chance was very distinctly that I made $7 within one week selling candy in the store yard.

"Soon after I was 14 mother died, and father followed her within three months. My brother was only 2 years my senior, but he had sense enough to see that it would be better for him and me to work and take care of the three younger children than to put them in an orphanage. My brother had been working in a grocery store for nearly a year and was earning $4 a week. That paid our rent and left $1 toward buying coal and food. We talked it all over with grandmother, and I was sure I could earn the rest of the money necessary to keep the family going.

"I began by selling candy to the workmen at the store yard, then I put it on sale in the grocery where my brother was working. Some people hearing about what brother and I were working for used to buy candy of me for the sake of helping us. At least I think that was the reason they began to buy, but I'm almost sure they could because they found it a little better than that bought at the regular shops.

"Within a short while the demand for candy at the door became frequent enough for grandmother to suggest that I keep some on hand for her to sell to those calling for it. This was the third branch of my first little business and when school opened, one of the largest public schools of the city being near our home, grandmother was soon selling more than the other two branches together.

"Within a few weeks after school opened grandmother turned over the kitchen to me, having a smaller stove for the family cooking put up in what had been our dining room. This change was made for the sake of giving me more room, and because my father had put up several marble shelves for me to handle my candy on. To distinguish my kitchen from grandmother's mine was called the candy kitchen. So far as I know that is the first of all candy kitchens.

"All this time I had been selling my candy without any thought of putting it in boxes, or giving it any fancy touch to add to its attractiveness. Kingston, Ont.

THE COURTS

COUNTY COURT CHAMBERS.

In County Court Chambers yesterday morning before Judge Forbes, James McElwain was found guilty of unlawfully wounding Charles Thompson with intent to do grievous bodily harm. The assault took place on Oct. 9. The accused elected to face a jury. He pleaded guilty to common assault, but not guilty of wounding with intent to do grievous bodily harm. The complaint was the only witness and he held of the assault. During a statement made by the accused it appeared that he purchased twenty-five cents' worth of pure alcohol just previous to the assault. He drank this, and then forgot where he was. Hence the assault. His Honor sentenced him to attend church at least once every Sunday for the rest of his life, and to climb aboard the water wagon and stay there for the same period. If he fails to do either of these things, he is liable to go to Dorchester penitentiary for five years. He was then liberated. C. H. Ferguson appeared for the crown and E. S. Ritchie for the prisoner.

Before Judge Forbes, yesterday morning, A. A. Wilson, K.C., for the plaintiff, in the case of Frank E. Jones vs. Oliver T. Evans, moved to strike out the defendant's appearance and plea on the ground of informality. J. A. Barry for the defendant, contra. Judgment reserved.

A Feeling of Uneasiness Before
And After Meals is Quickly Cured With Nerviline.

Nearly everyone gets an occasional attack of indigestion and knows just what that heavy feeling means in the stomach. "I was subject to stomach derangements and my health was seriously hampered on this account. After meals I belched gas, had a weighty sensation in my stomach and over my left side. The first relief I got was from Nerviline—I used it three times a day and was cured. I continue to use Nerviline occasionally and find it a wonderful aid to the stomach and digestive organs."

The above letter comes from Mrs. P. R. Stearns, wife of an important merchant and a well-known member of the city of Montreal. She writes: "I am sure there will be few sufferers left. I used to have cramps, rumbling noises, gas on my stomach and severe fits of indigestion. Nerviline was the only remedy that gave me relief and I found it so entirely satisfactory that I would like to have my letter of recommendation published broadcast in order that others may profit by my experience."

You'll find a hundred uses for Nerviline—it's a trusty household remedy that sells to the extent of a million bottles per year—that's the best proof that it must cure and give unlimited satisfaction. Refuse anything offered in place of Nerviline, large size bottle, 50c., or sample size, 25c. Ask dealers or The Catarbzone Co., Kingston, Ont.

Rather Hard Luck.

Two of the city laborers when they opened their pay envelopes recently found therein a receipt for taxes and a few coppers. It would seem rather a problem to keep a family on an income like this.

A CENTERPIECE in OUTLINE

Designed by
Carylyn McCracken

THINK OF IT! All in outline, so that before you know it the design has worked itself into a lasting effective piece of fancy work!

A white effect is very good for a table centerpiece. A colored treatment looks well on tan, blue or gray. Any shades of one color make up very well. Three shades of blue, of yellow, of green, can be used at your own discretion. Make the outer line in any case of the darker tone.

Use a coarse thread for this. Outline the scroll and the double line with the heavy cotton; this will give a sufficiently heavy effect. The little medallions can be worked solid, as shown in the design. Fold lengthwise of the shades and work as the lines are indicated.

Fill in the crescent-shaped spaces with French knots, and presto! your centerpiece is complete. A peacock color scheme is a lovely one to follow. On the linen you can use green, blue and old gold, with a golden brown for the edge. Mix the colors in the French knots if you wish a novel, iridescent effect. When placed under a lamp, with blues and greens predominating, this is lovely.

NAPKINS AND THEIR PRIMITIVE USE

IN EUROPE, in the fifteenth century, napkins and plates were unknown. Neither kings nor emperors possessed them; neither were they to be found among the nobility, much less among those of lower rank.

The treasure room of Charles V could not boast of such luxuries. An energetic weaver in Flanders started to manufacture the first napkins. The first dozen woven were presented to King Charles VII for crowning festivals.

During the sixteenth century table service made rapid changes, so that weavers were forced to work day and night to supply the enormous demand for napkins. At this time plates assumed into use, and the leaders of social functions became so infatuated with the new idea that at each course the plates and napkins as well, were changed.

The changing of the plates and napkins, to serve the guests in regular courses (what we now call French breakfast, lunch or dinner), was really originated by the Chinese. We must give credit to whom it belongs and acknowledge that in China stands the cradle of our modern table service of today.

Some of our readers will remark that in this part of the world, the orient, the table was unknown. True, but the tabourets, trays, bowls and earthen platters were handled at that time with napkins. To pass napkins and sticks was a separate course. Hence comes our phrase, "Handle it with napkins."

To this nation we owe thanks for the tradition of our decoration, ornamental as well as ceremonial, and for the root of our modern service. During this period all travelers of note, such as representatives of different courts and countries, even the clergy, were so impressed with this new luxury that they in reality were the first importers. Napkins were then woven in many varieties, sizes and colors; large white ones predominated, then the small colored followed. They were first in use in all parts of Europe and Russian Asia for the tea and coffee service. The English named the small napkins "doilies," and to this day the doily plays a prominent part in our table service. Today the napkin is to be found in use by all who make any pretension of housekeeping, at hotels, restaurants and all places where refreshments are served.

We also get our table decorations from this early advanced nation. Up to this day, even in the poorest Chinese families, you will find flowers on their tabourets in the corners of halls and rooms. A pretty custom of the Chinese is, when serving guests while they sit in groups on the floor, you will find a vase of flowers in the center and the serving maid wearing the same flower as those she is attending. This custom is neat and practical. At our social functions, where more small tables are used, the attending maid wears the same flowers in her belt that her table is decorated with. Hence also came the button or badge that our waiters of today wear, with the numbers corresponding to their tables.

Ribbon Novelties

A DRESDEN GIRAFFE

CAP OF BAURLE

THE RIBBON ROSE BANDEAU

A CHAIN AND BLOSSOMS

TO WHAT better or prettier use can ribbon be put than to supply the dainty accessories for millady's toilette? And what charming novelties there are nowadays, that set off the plainest frock and give it the air of an elaborate costume!

A delightful little theater cap is fashioned of violet gauze ribbon (thickly covered with transparent yellow dots. Four strips five inches wide are sewed together at the edges and drawn up to form a narrow frill.

Another bandeau for the hair is made by simply twisting two long pieces of ribbon and tying them together in loose knots at regular intervals, making a fllet that circles the head.

The rest of the ribbon is divided into three equal parts and each end is cut into a blunt point, around which is strilled many rows of plain pale pink satin ribbon.

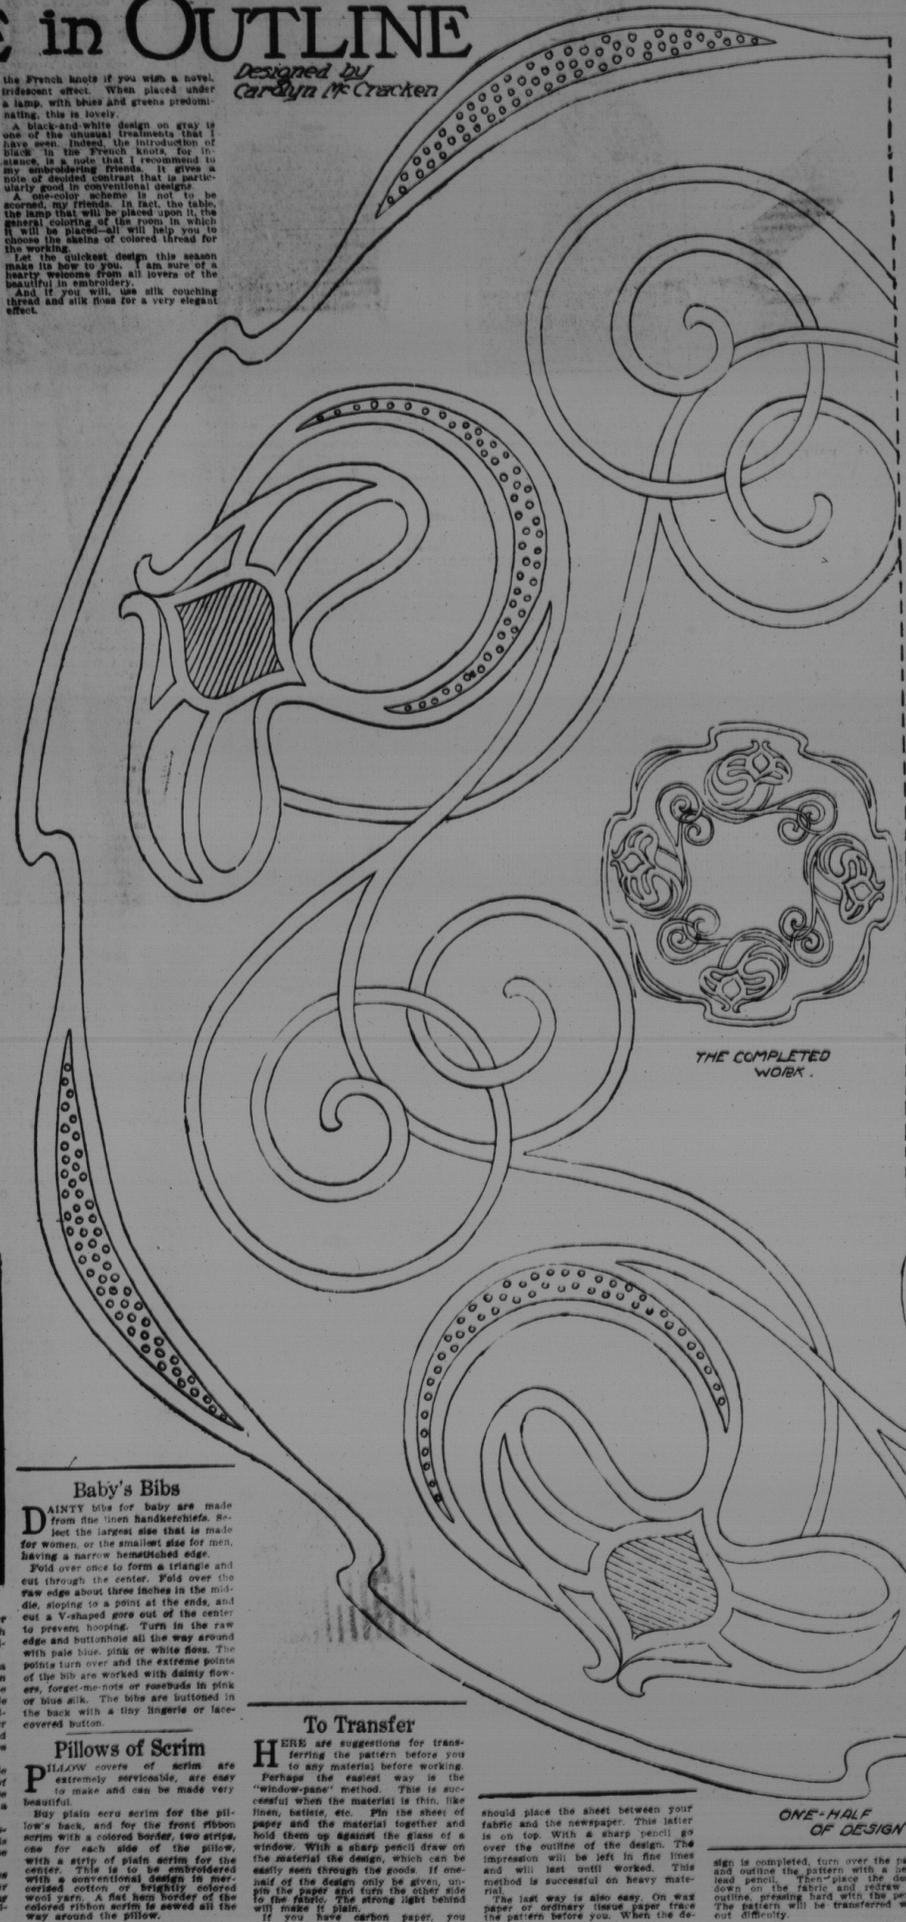

Two of these ends are then caught in about six inches from the bottom with a short frilling of ribbon. The other

Gold beads and emerald-colored satin are used for the grille, which is more useful than would appear at a first glance.

The three overlapping ends are made of double strips of satin stitched together, and in the pointed end of each is concealed a small pocket—one for the powder chamale, one for the lace

THE COMPLETED WORK.

Baby's Bibs
Dainty bibs for baby are made from fine linen handkerchiefs. Select the largest size that is made for women, or the smallest size for men, having a narrow hemstitched edge.

Fold over once to form a triangle and cut through the center. Fold over the raw edge about three inches in the middle, sloping to a point at the ends, and cut a V-shaped gore out of the center to prevent hooping. Turn in the raw edge and buttonhole all the way around with pale blue, pink or white floss. The points turn over and the extreme points of the bib are worked with dainty flowers, forget-me-nots or rosebuds in pink or blue silk. The bibs are buttoned in the back with a tiny lingerie or lace-covered button.

Pillows of Scrim
Pillows covers of scrim are extremely serviceable, are easy to make and can be made very beautiful.

To Transfer
HERE are suggestions for transferring the pattern before you to any material before working. Perhaps the easiest way is the "window-pane" method. This is successful when the material is thin, like linen, batiste, etc.

should place the sheet between your fabric and the newspaper. This latter is on top. With a sharp pencil go over the outline of the design. The impression will be left in fine lines and will last until worked. This method is successful on heavy material. The last way is also easy. On wax paper or ordinary tissue paper trace the pattern before you. When the design is completed, turn over the paper and outline the pattern with a heavy lead pencil. Then place the design down on the fabric and redraw the outline, pressing hard with the pencil. The pattern will be transferred without difficulty.

McGinley left last evening for Houlton, Maine, having been summoned there by the serious illness of her mother, Mrs. Calvin Powers, who has spent some months visiting another daughter, Mrs. George Hood, was taken ill several weeks ago. Her condition now is so critical that her recovery is despaired of.

The Temple Fair.
Considerable interest is being taken in preparation for the Temple fair, which opens on the 28th inst. A ladies' auxiliary is at work providing for the special Thanksgiving supper on Monday, the 30th. A novel design of general decoration has been adopted, which will completely change the exterior of the building. With games and music the fair will be a pleasant place to spend an evening.

Visiting Y.M.C.A. Man From India.
H. C. Dowd, who has been engaged in Y.M.C.A. work in Madras, India, will address the Y. M. C. A. boys in their rooms tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock. St. John Conservative Club.
A meeting of the executive of the St. John Conservative club was held last evening when arrangements were made for providing furniture for their new quarters in the Market building. The club has secured one of the largest halls in the building and will have it repainted and fitted up in fine style. A part of the hall will be fitted up as a reading room, and it will be provided with papers from different parts of Canada, magazines and other reading matter. A billiard table will be installed for the use of the members. As soon as the furnishing is completed the club will keep open house every evening. A smoking concert will probably mark the official opening of the new room. A large number of applications for membership were handed in last evening.

International Waterways.
A. P. Barnhill, K.C., returned yesterday from Washington where he attended a preliminary meeting of the International Waterways Commission. In reply to The Standard Mr. Barnhill said the meeting was quite informal and was held for the purpose of making plans for organization and for the preparation of rules of procedure in readiness for the first regular meeting. Those present were James A. Tawney and Frank S. Streeter, United States commissioners, and Sir George C. Gibbons, Aime Geoffroy, K.C., and Mr. Barnhill representing Canada. The first chairman of the commission, Senator Thomas H. Carter, died about three weeks ago and President Taft has not yet appointed another member to represent the United States.

THE WOMEN'S CANADIAN CLUB'S ANNUAL MEETING

Mrs. E. A. Smith Re-elected President at Largely Attended Meeting — Considering Memorial to Lady LaTour.

The annual meeting of the Woman's Canadian Club, which was held last night in the Keith's assembly rooms, was attended by a large and representative number of ladies who were interested in the work which is being carried on by that organization. Mrs. E. A. Smith, the president, was re-elected after a very flattering tribute had been paid her by Mrs. G. A. Kühring.

Lady Tilley was re-elected vice-president, Mrs. E. A. Smith, president; Mrs. Geo. McLeod, Mrs. John H. Thomson, and Mrs. G. A. Kühring, vice-presidents; Mrs. William Downie, recording secretary; Mrs. A. R. Melrose, assistant secretary; Miss Knox Travers, treasurer; Mrs. Frank, Mrs. G. U. Hay, Mr. G. F. Smith, Mrs. John McKay, Mrs. Robert Thomson, Mrs. James F. Robertson, Mrs. D. P. Chisholm, Mrs. C. B. Allan, Mrs. David McLellan, and Mrs. W. W. White, managing committee.

All the reports submitted were of a very encouraging nature. The secretary showed that during the past year that the present membership of the club was 320, the number joining during the year being 120. The treasurer, Miss Travers, reported total receipts including the balance from last year of $472.63 with expenditures of $275.67, leaving a balance on hand in favor of the club of $197.06.

The annual address of the president was most interesting dealing as it did with the progress made during the past year. It was an admirable resume of the work of the club for the past twelve months and the addresses they had listened to by various speakers. Mrs. Smith took occasion to mention the project for a memorial to Lady LaTour which she hoped would soon take tangible shape in St. John.

The preparation of a programme for the ensuing season was left in the hands of the executive which is composed of the members of the managing committee with officers.

CONSERVATIVE CLUB FORMED IN LANCASTER

Aggressive Organization was Launched Last Evening, at Thoroughly Enthusiastic Meeting.

With the formation of a Conservative club in No. 1 Parish of Lancaster, the organized strength of the party in St. John continues to grow. The new club which is to be known as the Liberal-Conservative Club of Lancaster No. 1, was formally launched last evening in Orange hall, Fairville. The officers chosen for the first year are as follows:

President—James Bryant.
1st Vice-President—Annie Bettison
2nd Vice-President—H. Atkins.
3rd Vice-President—P. Gleason.
Secretary—Stanley Stout.
Treasurer—Wm. Catherwood.

The executive committee is composed of the officers and the following—Wm. Stinson, Fred Linton, J. H. Hayes, R. Catherwood, Wm. Golding, J. Baird, F. Smith, Squire Allingham, J. Hart, Wm. Corbett, Fred. Peterson, Wm. Stout and Wm. Melanson.

Auditor committee—W. Watson, P. McMurray, and P. Linton.
A committee on by-laws was named composed of H. Byers, J. Clarkson, B. Woods.
The new organization starts under favorable conditions. The attendance at the initial meeting was a large and representative one, including members of the Conservative party from Milford, Beaconsfield, Fairville and other places in the district. Throughout the whole meeting there was evidenced a spirit of enthusiasm, a feeling on the part of the charter members of the desirability of consolidating and realizing the fact that the interests of the party could be best served by bringing the different sections into a united whole and carrying on the work systematically and harmoniously by promoting harmony and good fellowship among the members.

The members of the club through their officers and other speakers, expressed their determination to make the club a progressive one, and if the first meeting succeeded in bringing out such a large number of enthusiastic members, the success of the organization is assured.
A delegation from the Borden Club, consisting of J. Sturt, T. V. Ling, Christopher Spina, Allen Agar and John Willett attended the first meeting of the club and encouraged and assisted the club in the work of organization.

Addresses were given by the representatives of the Borden Club, the speakers congratulating the members of the new club on the initiative they have shown in organizing what promises to become a strong and flourishing branch of the Conservative party, and also congratulating them on their splendid activity during the recent campaign.

The secretary of the club was instructed to notify Hon. J. K. Fleming of his selection as honorary president of the Liberal-Conservative Club of Lancaster No. 1.

EARLY CLOSING PLAN HAS PROVED SUCCESS

Although By-law was Declared Ultra Vires, Many Shopkeepers Closed and Found it a Good Plan.

Although the early closing by-law was put into the dead letter class by the police magistrate, the spirit of it has been pretty generally observed during the summer by the shopkeepers of the city and a good majority are still closing early and giving themselves and their clerks a chance to see their families and their sweethearts.
E. Grass, one of the leaders in the early closing movement, in conversation with a reporter, said quite a number of people who opposed the idea at its inception, found out during the time the by-law was in force that early closing did not affect their business much, and continued to keep their shops closed in the evening after the by-law was declared ultra vires. He intimated that the Early Closing Association would probably take action at the next session of the legislature to secure the passage of an act which would give the police authorities power to close the shops in the evening.

Timothy Donovan, the West Side supporter of the early closing movement, said he knew quite a few shopkeepers who had been converted to the early closing idea by their experience during the summer, and were loath to return to the old conditions. "Some who talk of keeping open after the first of October, are still closing," he said, "I am still closing my own shop early and hope to continue to do so. When the people get accustomed to the idea of buying early, there is not much profit in keeping open half the night."

The Late Mr. Rankin.
The funeral of William B. Rankin will take place at Halifax tomorrow, Sunday. His brother Leonard, will arrive here today at noon and go through to Halifax, Mrs. Annie, his sister, was with her brother when he passed away. Much sympathy is felt for the bereaved family in this city. Mr. Rankin was twice married, his first wife, a Miss Erb, having died about nine years ago. His second wife, who was Mary, daughter of Capt. Bealey, of this city, survives him, as do four children, two—Vera and Jack—by his first marriage, and two—Murray and Joyce—by his second. Mr. Rankin was a devout and active Methodist and a member of the quarterly board of Robble street church, by the congregation of which news of his death will be received with a sense of great loss.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Dodge announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss George E. to G. Hartley Colwell, of Vancouver, the wedding to take place in Vancouver on Nov. 17th.

ADDING NAMES TO THE VOTER'S LISTS

Revisors Court Met Last Night and Completed Lists for 1912 — Go Into Effect January 1st.

The Revisors Court composed of Robert J. Cochrane, chairman; Ald. W. E. Scully and E. C. F. Kim, met last evening in the Assessors' office and completed the voters' list for 1912. This list comes into force on January 1st next for provincial elections, and sixty days later for Dominion elections. 303 names were added and six struck off.
A large majority of these names were added by the Conservatives. James E. Cowan and G. Earle Logan appeared for the Conservatives and Heber S. Keith for the Liberals.

CHRISTMAS Dainties WILL COST MUCH MORE

Advances Are Reported in Preserved Peels, Evaporated Fruits and Some Lines of Nuts and Figs.

Christmas is yet a good way off but the local wholesale grocers are beginning to stock up with goods for the festive season. On the whole it cannot be said that from the housekeepers' standpoint the outlook for prices is very encouraging. One of the largest wholesale men told The Standard yesterday that preserved peels would probably be about the same.

There has been a shortage in the crop of peaches and apricots and as a consequence evaporated goods in these lines will be higher. Raisins and currants will be higher. Raisins the reason for this does not appear to be so plain. Last year all the old stock of prunes was used up and this year the supply will be held for higher figures.

Several lines of nuts will be higher, as will be figs. The only reason assigned for the rise in figs was that there seems to have been considerable speculation among the shippers of that fruit, and many losses on shipments as a consequence of dishonesty in packing.

MR. BERTON DEFENDS THE CENSUS TAKERS

Thinks the Criticism of Their Work as Unjustified — Intelligent Men Engaged Did Their Duty Well.

G. K. Berton, who had charge of the census locally, speaking to The Standard yesterday, said he thought the criticism of the work of the enumerators was not justified. If the head of the house was not at home on the first call the enumerator took the number of people in the house from one of the family and left form A to be filled in when the head of the household returned. It was called for later and thus much time was saved. Mr. Berton contended that the men engaged on the work were intelligent and active and had done their duty well.

With regard to the increase not being as great as was anticipated, Mr. Berton said it was frequently overlooked how many St. John people were constantly leaving for the States or Western Canada. This was especially noticeable when a bereavement occurred in a St. John family. The number of relatives who had gone away to other places to live in recent years was a serious loss in population.
Another reason why the increase was small lay in the fact that former residential sections such as King, Charlotte, Beak and Mill streets were now almost entirely given over to stores or factories.

WORK ON NEW THEATRE WILL COMMENCE SOON

The Keith's Theatre Interests Will Have Fine Play House on King Square, to Seat 2000 People.

An announcement made some months ago that Keith's present lessees of the Nickel, had purchased property on King Square for the purpose of erecting an up-to-date theatre, caused considerable interest in local circles, and it will be pleasing news for the public that the interested parties will take measures at once to carry out the original intention. The destruction of the buildings on the King Square property will begin at once, and plans forwarded to be tendered upon by contract. As far as is possible the work on the new theatre will be carried on before winter. Manager Golding of the Nickel has received word from General Manager E. F. Albee that the start of the building to be erected here makes it imperative that the initial stages of the work be begun at once. The plan is to build a fire proof combination theatre with a seating capacity of 2,000.
