BIBLE HOLINESS

The Doctrine Taught by the Believers in it.

The Work Done in the Past, and What is Being

The people who profess Bible Holiness in Carleton County and elsewhere throughout the Province are just now attracting considerable attention. The first Convention or general meeting ever held by them in the Province commenced this morning at this place, and will continue eight or ten days. The question has been repeated time and again of late: "Who and what are these people?" "Are they a distinct set of christians?" It can be said that the doctrine as a distinct doctrine is something new in this province:

Series of camp meetings are also held by these people to accomplish their object. In connection with this work the Rev. Mr. Inskip and the Rev. Wm. McDonald, within the last ten years, made a tour around the world preaching the doctrine of Bible Holiness. Evangelists have been sent to all parts of the United States, works expounding, heir doctrine have been published by scores, ad many papers and periodicals are published at the present time as organs of their Associated Holiness work. A Circus Car Taken Fire-Twenty Persons Killed.

Denver, Col., Aug. 29.—A despatch from Greely to the News says the burning of a circus car, nine miles north of Greely, was attended with indescribable horror.

The burned car was next to the engine in a train of 17 cars containing Orton's Anglo-American circus, which left Fort Collins about midnight, last night, for Golden over the Greely, Salt Lake and Pacific Railroad. The train was nearing Windsor, a small station near Greely, and was running 25 miles an hour when Eagineer Colleprist discovered the car to be on fire, and at once reversed his engine and threw open the throttle valve. There were 60 men in the car, arranged in three tiers of bunks on either side. The forward side door was closed and the men in the bunks were sleeping against it.

The Rear Side Door was Closed and the men who, awoke discovered the lower unoccupied berth near to it, containing rubbish, on fire, filling the air with smoke, cutting off escape in that direction. The only menas of egress was through a small window between the car and engine. John Pike Edgeton, of Wisconsin, and Elwer Millit, of lowa, crawled through this opening and tried to pass in water from the engine tank. Owing to suffocating gases it was difficult to arouse the sleepers and some were kicked and bruised in a shocking manner and pitched cut of the window. The screams of those unable to get through the blockage to the aperture were terrifying. The wild glare of the flames and the sight of burning victims outside who lay writhing in agony on cactus beds, caused the wild beasts in the adjoining cars to become frantic with terror

Making the Scene Appalling.

On Tuesday week the Owen Art Gallery in Portland, St. John, was opened to the public, and an exhibition of paintings was given. This exhibition consists principally of pictures sent down by the Royal Canadian Association. The number is quite large and many of them are highly spoken of. The Exhibition was formally opened by Chief Justice Sir William Ritchie, in an excellent speech, wherein he spoke of the future of St. John, and pointed out the good results say they are commanded to be such in Matt. v. 48; "He ye therefore perfect, even as your Father which is in heaven is perfect," and in Heb. vl. 1. Their ideas of "heart purity" is a heart freed from all pride, deception, malice, jealousy and any feeling of resentment whatever. Foolish and trifling talk is as great a sin as any forbidden in the ten commandments. Love of money, love of praise, earthly ornaments, display, worldly greatness and the love of placebrank, station and human honor, are looked upon as paramount sins by the "perfect believer." Dr. Watson, who is a firm believer of the doctrine of holiness, speaks as follows concerning this subject of pardon and purity.

New York, Aug. 27. The Graphic has the following:—

Pardon and Purity
Pardon and Purity
Pardon and Purity are the two wheels to the chariot of the New Testament salvation, while faith and love are the celestial steeds that draw this chariot along the King's highway to heaven. Pardon and purity are the two posts on which the gates of pearls swing back to admit us to the city of light. Pardon sweeps away from my soul all my responsible sin, purity sweeps from my soul all my responsible sin, purity sweeps from my soul all my responsible sin, purity sweeps from my soul all my responsible sin, purity sweeps from my soul all my responsible sin, purity to covers the mighty subterranean empire of cravings. Pardon puts into my hand a title deed to heaven; purity puts into my heart a moral fitness for heaven. Pardon and purity are the two wings on which perfect love can soar and sing its way to the high mountain of God."

The octrine first took practical shape among the members of the decenomination for a more thorough consecration to the work assigned them, and a more complete holiness in their every day living. The desire continued to grow, and the doctrine spread widely among some of the other denominations as well as the Wesleyan. AT RIVER DES CHUTES.

A Pretty Spot on the Banks of the St. John.

The Observations of an Amateur Botanist.

I presume you will not take it amiss, if, in The scenery in the immediate neighborhood is charmingly picturesque. The Des Chutes here debouches into the St. John through a narrow rocky gorge. Art has in the mill and its necessary adjuncts, added just enough to give piquancy to the picture. The gorge is breasted across by a strong wharf and earthwork to form a mill-pond. The highway passes over the mill-pond wharf. The pond at the breast is about twenty feet deep, extends up the valley one quarter of a mile, and is some two hundred yards wide. It is simply a charming sheet of water well stocked with brook trout, which, though not large size, yet well repay the angler's toil, if the Waltonian art can be so called. When the pond is full, and the surplus water goes over the "spill," it forms a most attractive waterfall, dashing down on the rocks beneath a mass of white foam,

The banks are covered with wild flowers of varied form and hue; overhead towers the lofty pine, the stately spruce, while between, a shorter growth of cedars, dogwood, alders and hazels, fringe the stream. I have no doubt the scene was very similar which suggested to Burns that inimitable description of natural scenery, the "Birks o' Aberfeldy."

the enterprising kind, and is commencing a

Climbing, when it can reach a sturdier stem to climb by, is the handsome marsh everlasting pea; here and there tufts of vetch, some with their showy racemes of purple flowers, others with the bunches of funy pods ready to scatter the hopes of next years bloom. Another good looking member of the pulse family is Wistaria with its long raceme of blue purple flowers. Of course there are both red and white clovers. Close to the foot of the banks are to be seen at intervals large patches of wild Grape vines, spreading a handsome carpet of foliage over the unsightly boulders. Conspicuous among the bushes up the bank is the Staghorn Sumack with its crowded panicles of crimson fruit, and not far from it may be seen the smooth Sumack with its less attractive yellowish fruit. In moist shady corners grows the Spotted Jewel weed, with smooth red stems and deep orange flowers with a curiously formed hood and spur. The Pink family is represented by Catchflies with tiny white petals which soon shrivel off leaving the cally with its enclosed pod. One of the most conspicuous among the local flora is the Hypericum or St. John's wort, a perennial herb with branched stems and showy yellow flowers. The Rananculus family has representatives, the small flowered Crowfoot, the Hook-beakel, and the tall Crowfoot or common Buttercups, also an Anemone still in blosom. The evening Primrose has 3 representatives, the low evening Primrose has 3 representatives, the low evening Primrose and two species of Willowherb, the great Willowherb being popularly known as fireweed, from the fact of its taking possession of the soil after a fire has passed over it. The great Ledum or Live for Ever, with ts flesh oval leaves and dense cymes of purple flowers is apparently a

In wet places the Water Hemlock rears its coarse herbage and compound umbels of small white flowers. The Aralia family shows Spikenard and Sarsaparilla. The Dwarf Cornel shows well among its staller neighbors. The red-berried Elder, with large loose bunches of red fruit is a very noticeable feature of the flora in many places. The common Teasel though not a very pretty flower, keeps its ground persistently. The Composite family makes a great show, both as to numbers and appearance. There are three or four varieties of Thistle, reminding one of the Scotch motto, "Nemo me impune lecessit," several Asters, Burdock, Goldenrod, Everlasting and Chamomile, with large patches of Coltsfoot leaves, the blossoms of which have long since passed. Two members of the Lobelia family are found here, L. spicata and L inflata. The slender Harebell is very common along the shore. We found one specimen of its congener, the tall Campanula, C. Americana. One or two bunches of blueberries is all we see of the Heath family. The Figwort family has one very conspicuous member, the common Multein, and another not so showy, Linaria or Toadflax. The White Vervain is the only one of the family to be found. We find at least four species of Mint; one species of Bonage. The Dogbane and Milkweed families have each one representative. They golargely into the milk business. When a stem or branch of either is broken, a clammy milky juice comes dropping from the wound for some time. The Milkweeds have very curious flowers. Several species of Polygonium or Knotweed are to be found. Two species of Nettle, Arum triplyllum or Indian Turnip, several Grasses, Sedges and Juncociea. Unless patience Le more the special virtue of editors than of other people, perhaps I have said enough for the present.

The Capital complains of the shabby appearance of the soldiers while on public parade, and suggests that a non-commissioned officer should be stationed at the barracks gate to "pull down the vests" of the troops. The militia men think the suggestion a happy hint, and that the military editor should immediately be detailed to the duty.

Pranks of Mischievous Boys-Business

About 4 o'clock, yesterday afternoon, at Porter's Landing, Charles F. Harrison, one of a pleasure party sailing on a catamaran, fell over the stern of the craft and was drowned ere assistance could arrive. The party on the catamaran hailed for St. John and was composed of Ernest Philips, Leslie Olive, James H. Morrison and the deceased. They had been cruising up the river for a fortnight and were on their way to St. John when the accident occured. The catamaran had tacked at the rate of about six miles an hour. The water was rather rough at this time. Suddenly Harrison who had just walked to the stern of the craft stumbled or slipped off and immediately went drown. He came to the surface and remained in sight a few seconds but did not succeed in catching hold of a boat which was cut adrift or an oar thrown within his reach. A few yards distant from the catamaran was a rowboat in which were Charles Peters, Ee Roi Willis, H. V. Cooper and a number of ladies. They immediately rowed toward the spot where Harrison was struggling in the water, but before they reached there he went down, and did not again come to tho surface. Had he been able to keep alloat a few seconds longer they would have rescued him. A grappling apparatus was secured from parties on shore, but latest reports received state that the body had not been recovered last night. Harrison's family belongs to Mangerville. Beverley Heustis, the Evangelist, has been holding a series of revival meetings during the last fortnight, at Day Hill and Barony.

He delivered a very able discourse on "Sanctification" to a large audience at the Round Top meeting house, Nackawick, on the evening of the 12th inst. In the course of his remarks he briefly referred to refinement, intellectuality and civilization, and said that the mother of these was Christianity, and that without them, according to ancient and modern history, no country had ever made any progress interesting in its details or wonderful in its results. He concluded by asking where would Nackawick have been to-day had it not been for christianity?

The Reatty Organ And Piano Co.

(From Frank Leslie's Illustrated Newspaper.)

The name of Daniel F Beatty, of Washington, New Jersey, is tolerably well known to the majority of the people of the United States in connection with the manufacture and sale of musical instruments. By liberal and widespread advertising, and by dealing direct with the purchaser, he built up a most extensive business in organs and pianos. It was his ambition to erect and own the hargest organ factory in the world, and he succeeded in so doing. But the hindrances and losses incident to a disastrous fire in 1881, and the want of adequate capital, combined with a lack of business method, led to a scrious entanglement in his affairs. Although he made and sold over seventeen thousand (17,000) organs last year, his embarrassments, which dated their origin years before, became so serious that he finally sold his business to a corporation composed of his creditors. It is understood that this company, with ample capital, has undertaken to make good as far as possible all the obligations of Mr. Beatty; giving preference to the purchasers of organs and pianos whose goods are still undelivered, and to whom it is shipping daily their instruments. An Amusing Occurrence.

A curious accident, and one that provoked much merriment among the crowd of onlookers, happened on Tuesday eve'g week at the corner of Queen and Regent streets. Three young men were sauntering along across the street, at that place, gazing at the Tennis players, when two of the demi-monde world drove up at the flying rate and were close upon the trio before they saw their danger. One of them, the last to see the carriage, made a sudden jump to clear the road, and just at the time he was making the big spring, the shaft struck him on the shoulder he was detained at Bar Harbor by illness. There was enough speaking, however, ex-Vice-President Hamlin, Boulelle of the Whig and others taking part. There was a torchight procession, an illumination and a good time generally—too good a time for some as the goal was full of drunken men. Next day the party went to Presque Isle. Every effort seems to be made to secure a big majority for Blaine. Seventy Frenchmen the other day passed through here to Bangor to get their nationalization papers.

About 300 excursionists Tuesday week came up 'out of the darkness' and foggy regions of St. John, to share with Fredericton one of the most disagreeable wind and rain storms that it has been the lot of this city to experience during the summer months. Many a one wished the St. John people a fine day, but the fates were bontrary and their picnic at the grove was entirely spoiled. Two or three hours were spent in dancing at the Masonic Hall, at the music of the 1. S. C. Band. A number of them drove in covered carriages about the city and others found their way to Marysville. Previous to 1845 the Province of New Brunswick formed a part of the Diocese of Nova Scotia. In that year it was decided by the authorities of the Church of England to erect the province into a separate diocese. There was considerable discussion as to who was at the University, upholding the claims of the Rev. Dr. Grey, of St. John, and as a routeto other and better fishing the claims of the Rev. Dr. Grey, of St. John, the Madawaska, and the Toledi Lakes, and restream was officed to the present incumbent who was at that time Curate of Exeter, England, and already well known for his learning, piety and zeal in good works. In June, 1845, his Lordship arrived in New Brunswick and was given a most cordial welcome. In his circular letter he took occasion to inform the subscribers to the fund that there was no truth in the report that he had received ample funds from England to pay for the edifice, but that on the contrary the Cathedral was in debt to him many hundred pounds for which he was liable, all of which was due from subscribers to him. There is no doubt that but for his courage in accepting the great responsibility of the work and taking upon himself the liability for all indebtedness the Cathedral never would have been built. St. John was greatly opposed to its crection here, and the papers of that city said a great many sarcastic things about it. It is well wooded, and will furnish a supply for a large milling establishmen; for an indefinite period. The site of the proposed mill is on the Madawaska river a short distance above the bridge over that stream, and about a quarter of a mile from its confidence with the St. John. The Madawaska, which is the outlet of Temiscouata, the Squa-took and the Toledi Lakes, and receives the waters of the Cabineau, a large stream emptying into Temiscouata from the west, is a stream of singular beauty and is famous for both the fishing it affords and as a routeto other and better fishing grounds beyond. Sunday last was a day of unusual interest in the town of Woodstock and vicinity. The Convention of Bible Holiness believers, which has been in session since Friday, attracted crowds of curious and anxious people at the special services on that day. Early in the manning, and long before the services were opened, crowds began to pour in from the surrounding country to be present and hear for themselves the wonder of Christian perfection. "Praise meetings," "Spiritual services," and "Hallelujah gatherings," were held in the early part of the day. The large number of distinguished American ministers who were present and who were to conduct the services added to the great interest taken in the convention. The night previous in a Hallelujah meeting prayers were offered that on Sunday. "The Great Libel on Holiness" might be reided and that 10,000 might experience the powers of entire sanctification.

As the most of our readers are unacquainted with the most of our readers are unacquainted, as well as with the doctrine taught, a description of the meetings as led by the American ministers will be given. A singing band consisting of some 50 or 60 choresters has been organized for the occasion, who occupied seats upon the stage erected about and in the rear of the Holiness divines. The latter about 20 in number have their row of reats in form of a semi-circle to the front of the platform; and each one appears to occupy the same chair at all the meetings. At the opening exercises and long before the regular services begin; the singing band sing

As Perfectly as the Angels.

It is the duty of angels to do His will; but it is our's not only to do the will but to suffer it. Man's glory is then to suffer the will of God."

The afternoon services were even more largely attended than the morning, crowds being attracted to hear the great expositor and writer of this doctrine of Holiness the Rev. Dr. Watson of New York. To the multitude of casual observers and onlookers, this meeting was of more than unusual interest. Rev. I. T. Johnson a regular Hallelajah divine, and in affectation and manners a genuine type of the off-hand yankee, began amid shouts of glory and praises to call in the lost stray sheep of the congregation to the altar of sanctification. The scores of holiness believers were sent all through the building while he himself mounted the top of a seat in the middle of the audience and commanded the choristers to sing with more energy while he appealed in the loudest tones for all unboly and worldly church members and unbelievers to join the holiness band. Scores were scattered throughout the whole building pleading, singing, and numbers found their way to the altar when Mr. Johnson described it, as just as if the full sanctified believers, the professors of perfect love. The last class He commands to charge the battlements, while half believers stand back and criticize. It demands a "fullness of the spirit to declare unto Jacob his transgression, and to Israel_bis sin;" or in other words to do the hard, unpopular, thankless work that must be doue to save a drowsy church and wicked world. Every one on this earth belong to these four classes. When man is converted he receives the love of d. He may have possessed all the education, refinement and culture that it is possible to obtain; but on conversion he has something in heart he never had there before. All his past sins are wiped out and God reigns there. "But mark" said the preacher, "that is not sanctification. In sanctification he gets the love of God made perfect. The heart must be sanctified, emptied of all original depravity and purified from all sin. Then a christian can love God with all his heart. Another somewhat similar incident to the Baker Pasha episode happened on the Intercolonial day express from St. John last Frievening. A young lady was insulted and nearly assaulted by an ex-city school teacher, who was in too much a state of exhilaration, and subsequently wanted to fight a duel with the conductor, but that official succeeded in handcuffing him to his seat until the train arrived in town, and by that time the prisoner's brain had became somewhat disclouded from its recently previous pottent influence—Halifax Chronicle, 27th.

one morning in the early part of the week a man named Rogers was found in an insensible and paralyzed condition alongside a fence on the mountain road, some distance from Moncton, and died soon after being found. We are informed he had been in Moncton the previous day, and being sadly addicted to the use of strong drink, had left town in an intoxicated condition. The supposition is that endeavoring to get to a house a little distance off the road he had attempted to climb the fence, and falling backwards had injured his spine, rendering him helpless, in which condition he lay all night, until discovered next morning. The story is also current that he had been poisoned while drinking some of the villainous compounds sold in Moncton for whiskey and rum, and that in endeavoring to reach a house to get assistance he had fallen as above stated—the fall and the poison paralyzing him and rendering him unconscious. However this may be, the case is a very sad one. The unfortunate man was buried on Thursday.—Moncton Transcript.

Why, because it almost breaks my back handling that water pot, and half the water goes on my feet, and it takes about a half an hour to pump that pail full of water, and it requires something like a dozen pailfuls to do the business. What great effect do you think the tender dews of memory would have on a good drum-head cabbage?

The scores of holiness believers were sent all through the building while he himself mounted the top of a seat in the middle of the audience and commanded the choristers to sing with more energy while he appealed in the loudest tones for all unholy and worldly church members and unbelievers to join the holiness band. Scores were scattered throughout the whole building pleading, singing, and numbers found their way to the altar when Mr. Johnson described it, as just as if

In memory of the Dead.

A number of people, on Sunday last, visited the large and costy monument in the Woodstock Protestant Gemetry, which had just been reared the day previous in memory of the Belyea family who were drowned at sea. The mounment is about 15 feet in height about ten of which are solid; and an ornamental structure is supported by four pillars which rest upon the solid work, over which a large urn is placed. The upper side of the monument bears the following inscription:—"In memory of Robert Bayard Belyea, Merchant of this town, aged 53 yrs. and 8 mos.; also bis wife Mary Elizabeth aged 51 yrs. and 7 mos., who were lost off Gay Head, Mass., in S. Lord Rayleigh is alarge man, almost bald on top of his head, with handsome arched eyebrows, and short brown curls resting on his shirt collar. He wears a butterfly necktie and baggy trousers.

People who read scientific books and papers have heard much within the last few years of Professor Sylvanus P. Thompson. To the surprise of such a reader, Prof. Thompson appeared on the platform to-day in the form of a very young and handsome-looking man—as handsome as Mayor Seth Low, and slightly resembling him. He is rather petite in figure, and wears a captivating little brown moustache, His eyes and complexion are dark, but there is a boyish rosiness in his roundcheeks, and all the time that he is talking of "ohmes" and "volts" and other electrical terms, the corners of his mouth are wreathed with little smiles which follow the gracefully curved ends of his moustache and go rippling over his face. A delicate bit of pink necktie showed above his tightly buttoned, close-fitting bottail coat. He looked so handsome and smiled so charmingly that several young ladies in the audience followed his exposition of the "equations of dynamore electric machines" with undivided and unmistaksble attention.

A Mechanical Calculator.

A younger looking man than Prof. Thompson, a mere youth in appearance is Prof. Hele Shaw of England, who to-day exhibited a machine which he claimed would perform mechanically and with perfect accuracy the operations of differentiations and integration. Sir William Thompson bent his nose close over this marvellous mathematical machine, but did not appear to be entirely satisfied that it could take the place of brains, while Lord Rayleigh added a little extra curve to his aristocratically arched eyebrows and viewed the instrument from a distance.

Mr. B. J. Case's Livery Stable, St. John was destroyed by fire Wednesday night last. The fire originated from a kerosine lamp which was knocked down and broken by a horse. When the alarm struck the firemen were marching in possession, but they speedily came to the rescue and soon had the fire under control, and prevented its spreading to adjacent properties.

The Telegraph's Sussex correspondent says that it is rumored that a very favorable mine up Dutch Valley, in the parish of Waterford, has fallen inte the hands of an American company, three of which now are on the ground aud declares there is wealth in the mines. They are to commence work immediately, and will spend large sums of money.

Money.

Another somewhat similar incident to the Baker Pasha episode happened on the Intercolonial day express from St. John last Frievening. A young lady was insulted and nearly assaulted by an ex-city school teacher, who was in too much a state of exhilaration, and subsequently wanted to fight a duel with the conductor, but that official succeeded in handeuffing him to his seat until the train arrived in town, and by that time the prisoner's brain had became somewhat disclouded from its recently previous pottent influence—Halifax Chronicle, 27th.

One morning in the early part of the week, a man named Rogers was found in an insensible and paralyzed condition alongside a fence on the mountain road, some distance from Moncton, and died soon after being found. We are informed he had been in Moncton the previous day, and being sadly addicted to the use of strong drink, had left town in an intoxicated condition. The supposition is that endeavoring to get to a house a little distance off the road he had attempted to climb the fence, and falling backwards had injured his spine, rendering him helpless, in which condition he lay all night, until discovered next morning. The story is also current that he had been poisoned while drinking some of the villainous compounds sold in Moncton for whiskey and rum, and that in endeavoring to reach a house to get assistance he had fallen as above stated—the fall and the poison paralyzing him and rendering him unconscious. However this may be, the case is a very sad one. The unfortunate man was buried on Thursday.—Moncton Transcript.

take up the regular annual collection in October next.

The boasted bravery of the aborigines of Canada seems to be depreciating as civilization progresses. From Ottawa comes the report that the Caughnawaga Council of Indians will send fifty of their braves to join the Nile expedition in charge of General Wolseley; but this is on the express understanding that they will not be asked or expected to do any fighting.

To-day the Provincial Secretary, Chief Commissioner of the Board of Works, and the Surveyor General started on a tour of inspection of the proposed line of the Central Railway beginning at Gibson. From the Gibson end of the line a survey has been made as far as Little River by a party in charge of Mr. Starkie, of Washademoak, under the supervision of Mr. Moses Burpee. The survey from Little River to Salmon River was made earlier in the season and is now being continued towards Sussex on the I. C. R. by a party under the direction of Mr. Harry McLellan. This party has very nearly reached Sussex, and will soon be ready to begin the survey to Norton station. The Telegraph says all the preliminary surveying will be completed and the line definiely located by the end of September.

'Yes,' she said dreamily, as she thrust her snowy finger between the pages of the last popular novel; life is full of tender regrets.' My tenderest regret is that I haven't the funds to summer us at Newport,' he replied, without taking his eyes off the butcher, who was softly ozing through the front gate with his bill in his hand.

'Ah, Newport!' she lisped, with a languid society sigh; 'I often think of Newport by the sea, and water my dreams with the tender dews of memory.'

She learned back in the hammock, and he continued:

'I wish I could water the sadishes and mignonette with the tender dews of memory.'

Why?' she asked, clasping her hands together.

Why? she asked, clasping her hands together.

Why, because it almost breaks my back handling that water pot, and half the water goes on my feet, and it takes about a half an hour to pump that pail full of water, and it requires something like a dozen pailfuls to do the business. What great effect do you think the tender dews of memory would have on a good drum-head cabbage?

But she turned her head and was looking over the daisy-dappled fields, and she placed her fingers in her ears while the prosaic butcher, who had just arrived, was talking about the price of pork.—Puck.
