Narrow Escape of Princess Beatrice.

BERLIN, July 31.—A wing of the castle at Heilingenberg, near Jugenheim, was discovered to be on fire at 1 o'clock this morning. The fire originated in the sleeping apartment of Princess Beatrice. The most valuable part of the structure was not touched by the flames.

The Queen Must Make a Choice.

LONDON, July 31.—Land and Water, an unusually well informed politico-society journal, says that when the Duke of Devonshire visited the Queen a few days ago, her Majesty said that she relied upon his advice to assist her in avoiding the necessity for sending for Mr. Gladstone to form a new Government. The Duke, it is reported, said in reply to her Majesty that there was but one alternative for her to adopt—she must either call upon Mr. Gladstone to form a ministry or must abdicate the throne.

A Brilliant Wedding.

LONDON, July 30.—Victor C. Cavendish, nephew of the Duke of Devonshire and heir to the dukedom, was married this afternoon in St. Margaret's Church, Westminster, to Lady Evelyn Montrose, eldest daughter of the Marquis of Lansdowne. The ceremony was witnessed by a large and fashionable assemblage. Many members of the aristocracy having returned to London expressly to attend the wedding. The gifts to the bride were numerous and costly—jewels from the Duke of Devonshire, the Marquis of Lansdowne, the Duke of Westminster and many others. Among the most costly gifts were a watch and a bracelet set with diamonds and rubies from ex-Empress Eugenie.

O'Brien on the Irish Cause.

LONDON, July 31.—In a speech to-day in Mallow Wm. O'Brien said that the Irish cause now occupied a position which their forefathers had never dreamed of. He condemned those evil prophets, the Parnellites, who, he said, are exerting themselves to throw out Mr. Gladstone and discourage him by heaping difficulties in his path as if he were a terrible ogre. It was not Liberal treachery that would defeat home rule, but dissensions among Irishmen. He, however, believed that among the nine Parnellites elected to Parliament, there were men who could never be persuaded to unite to defeat home rule. The Irish had the best of all guarantees against Liberal treachery. They could and would turn Liberal traitors out of office within 24 hours.

The Manitoba Schools.

LONDON, July 31.—The Privy Council delivered judgment yesterday in connection with the Manitoba separate school question. There were two appeals to be decided—that of the City of Winnipeg vs. Barrett, and the City of Winnipeg vs. Logan. In both of these cases their Lordships allowed appeals with costs. The actions were the outcome of separate school agitation in Manitoba. When the Legislature abolished separate schools a test case was submitted to the Supreme Court at Ottawa, where it is still pending. Meantime the city of Winnipeg endeavored to collect taxes for the public schools, but Messrs. Barrett and Logan refused to pay said taxes unless a fair proportion to separate schools. The cases went through the different Canadian courts, and were finally taken to the Privy Council asking leave to appeal, which was allowed with costs.

A Company and Its Agent.

Connecticut Fire Insurance Company vs. Kavanagh—Appeal dismissed with costs. In this case the company accused Kavanagh, who was their agent in Montreal, of fraud in connection with an insurance of property of Warden King & Sons, Montreal, destroyed by fire some time ago. It appears that the insurance was placed in Kavanagh's hands and that he transferred it to another company. The Connecticut company claimed that this was irregular, but Mr. Kavanagh pleaded that he acted only in the ordinary way. The company was defeated in lower courts and asked leave to appeal, which has been refused.

Canadian Husband and Wife Case.

The case of Smart vs. Smart was also dismissed with costs. This was a case in which a mother endeavored to retain possession of her child against her husband, from whom she is separated. The wife won the case in a Toronto court, and the husband went to appeal with the above result.

The Dreaded Cholera.

BERLIN, July 31.—The Reichsanzeiger yesterday published a lengthy article on the precautions which should be taken to prevent the introduction and spread of cholera, and this fact leads many to believe that the authorities consider an epidemic of the disease imminent. The representative of the Associated Press has interviewed three of the medical authorities of Germany—Prof. Koch, Dr. Virchow and Dr. Hirsch, of the Berlin University—all of whom have served upon sanitary committees in past epidemics. Dr. Virchow will shortly go to Russia to study the epidemic there. Dr. Virchow said that the cholera appeared to be localized in Russia at present, but it may appear here at any time. Concerning America, he said: "No one need tell your people that they must remove all dust and dirt and exercise the utmost cleanliness and that they will be all right." Dr. Hirsch said: "I had formed an opinion that the disease had changed its character, owing to the immunity of other places in spite of the constant recurrence of the disease in Italy and Southern France since 1883, but its rapid progress in Russia and its reported appearance in Northern France proves otherwise. I think that sooner or later it will attack all Europe. There is, however, little fear of an epidemic in Berlin, as the city's sanitary condition is perfect. I have thoroughly studied the condition of America and there is little danger of an outbreak of the disease there, provided thorough cleanliness is maintained and sanitary precautions are adopted. With a complete inspection of all steamers arriving at American ports there is little danger of infection through travelers. One danger to America is the Canadian frontier. Canada has imported several epidemics of cholera and typhus fever from England, and might do so again. The greatest danger is in the importation of rags. The American authorities should strictly prohibit the importation of rags from an infected district or from any district where cholera might be suspected of existing. Immense quantities of rags, gathered in all parts of Europe, are shipped from Stettin, Konigsberg and Hamburg, and these may carry infection, as they are subject to little or no inspection." Prof. Koch referred the reporter to the article in the Reichsanzeiger previously mentioned. As the article in question is supposed to be the work of Prof. Koch it is assumed that he also expects that the cholera will spread to Berlin.

The cholera has decreased in the towns in Russia in which it first made its appearance, but in those places more recently affected by the disease it is increasing rapidly. It has also broken out in several districts which have hitherto been free from its ravages. In Astrakhan, on the 26th inst., 46 new cases of cholera and 42 deaths from the disease were reported, and on Wednesday there were 39 new cases and 25 deaths. In Samara, on the same date, there were reported, respectfully, 120 new cases and 74 deaths, and 130 new cases and 64 deaths, and in Rostov 105 new cases and 70 deaths. At Baku on June 27 there were 190 new cases and 141 deaths. The scourge holds full sway in Nijni-Novgorod, where on Thursday last 74 new cases were reported and 30 deaths occurred. In Kooban, the most seriously affected of the western districts, were 85 new cases and 24 deaths on Wednesday. In Baghestan, on the same day, there were 372 new cases and 184 deaths, and in Tuck 383 new cases and 205 deaths.

Long Drawn Out Litigation.

Ontario Bank vs. Murry—Appeal dismissed with cost. The judgment in the case of Murray and the Ontario Bank is in favor of the estate of the late Alexander Murray, confirming the estate in their privilege and lien on the bonds of the Sorel Railway Company. This is no less than the eleventh judgment given in favor of the estate throughout several years of litigation.

The Queen's Speech.

LONDON, Aug. 1.—Parliament will meet on Thursday next. Owing to certain preliminaries the Queen's speech will not be read until Monday, Aug. 8. The Queen will sign the speech at a meeting of the Privy Council at Osborne House on Saturday.

Filth Results in Cholera.

LONDON, Aug. 1.—The Times announces that cholera has broken out in Toringo, Burmah. Many shops there have been closed on account of the provosts' illness, and business is at a standstill. Many persons are quitting the place. The outbreak was due to the filthy condition of the town.

New King Installed by the British.

LONDON, Aug. 1.—Advices from the Gold coast say that the British have installed a new king in Eastern Crabo, abolished human sacrifices and other fetish rites and expelled all the priests and priestesses. The new order of things has caused great rejoicing among the natives.

Celebrating Columbus.

CADIZ, Aug. 1.—The Christopher Columbus celebration was formally begun yesterday by the departure hence for Huelva of the Columbus caravel Santa Maria, towed by the Hielgo and escorted by the British cruiser Scout, the French cruiser Harondelle, several Spanish warships and a flotilla of small steamers. The spectacle was a fine one, and an enormous crowd lined the quays and ramparts. The man-of-war Lapanto saluted the caravel as she passed out. A brilliant company gathered at a fete given by the Minister of Marine in honor of the event.

Moors Fired on Spaniards.

LONDON, Aug. 1.—The Spanish gunboat Piler, while passing along the Northern coast of Morocco, was repeatedly fired upon by a considerable body of Moors. The Spaniards hoisted the royal standard of Spain and answered the Moors with rifles. This seemed to add to the rage of the Moors, who redoubled their fire upon the gunboat. The Spaniards then turned their machine gun upon the enemy, and the Moors fled into the desert. It is not believed that the Moors were regular Moorish troops, but that they were one of the bands of insurgents that are roaming around the country, and some of which are actuated by a fanatical hatred of Europeans. There is a strong feeling in Madrid that the European powers will have to take decisive action regarding Morocco.

A Brutal Officer.

LONDON, Aug. 1.—Corp. Feber has been retired from the Hungarian army for an act of unparalleled cruelty. About ten weeks ago Feber began drilling a raw recruit. When the recruit had drilled a few minutes Feber struck him in the face, kicked him and asked him what he meant by entering the army with his hair uncut. The recruit said he would go at once to the barber's. Feber caught him by the collar and said: "No, I will fix that." Feber then had kerosene brought, pouring it on the recruit's head, and then touched a match to his hair. The recruit ran groaning into the barracks, where a comrade threw water on him, and that saved his life. It is said that Feber's punishment will be followed by the disciplining of Col. Scotti, who, instead of reporting the outrage to the divisional commander, let the whole affair rest after reproving Feher.

Startling Confessions.

LONDON, Aug. 1.—A man who is confined in prison in Glasgow has confessed to the authorities that he was implicated in the murder of Lord Leitrim, who was shot and killed April 2, 1878, while driving near his residence in county Derry, Ireland. The prisoner also stated he was concerned in the killing of Lord Mountmorris at Rushen, county Mago, Ireland, Sept. 25, 1880. He further says he was hired to assist the man who killed the informer, James Carey, who was shot on board the steamer Melrose at Port Elizabeth, South Africa, by a passenger named O'Donnell. The authorities are carefully investigating the story of the man, whom they have subjected to a most searching inquiry, and are endeavoring to secure proof of his statements. They refuse to divulge the prisoner's name or to furnish any information regarding him. None of the persons concerned in the murders of Lord Leitrim and Lord Mountmorris were ever caught.

Bismarck's Pilgrimage.

JENA, Aug. 1.—Prince Bismarck was enthusiastically greeted on arriving here. He made a tour of the town in a carriage, the university students in full strength forming a guard of honor and lining the whole route of his drive. Replying to an address presented, Prince Bismarck said that the defeat of France was a necessity because if she had not been humbled she would have hindered German unity. People said that the Bismarck policy had luck. He wished he could say that other Ministers and Chancellors were lucky. Some found fault with his criticisms, but he would continue to speak his mind whatever the consequences might be.

At a demonstration by the students, Prince Bismarck delivered an important political oration. He said: "I have sworn to found a Protestant empire. It is therefore out of the question to try to rule with a Catholic party as the chief factor. We must take the present Catholic party as an example, and must imitate them and form a united party against Catholic influence. I say nothing against the supremacy of the Catholic party or of Catholic influence or of foreign influence. It would even be preferable to have a papal nuncio in Berlin so that irresponsible party leaders should not as at present give colored and untrustworthy reports to the Pope." Referring to what he called the false policy of the Government, the ex-Chancellor said that so fast as the Government gains a Germanizing influence over the polls that influence is captured by the Catholic party. He concluded by comparing himself to Goethes Goetz Von Berlichingen, who, although a faithful subject of the Kaiser's, refused to recognize the Kaiser's commissioners, and when besieged gave free utterances to his opinions. He was to-day, he said, in the same position—a faithful servant of the Kaiser, but he had the right to express the sharpest criticism on the Kaiser's advisers. The speech was received with enthusiastic applause. The Prince and party departed for Schoenhausen at 3 p.m. They were accompanied to the railway station by large crowds.

Great Icebergs at Sea.

NEW YORK, July 31.—Captain Ash, of the Red Cross Line steamer Portia, which arrived from Pilley's Island and St. Johns, Nfld., yesterday, reported passing through a field of icebergs, nearly 50 of the Arctic monsters being encountered. On one of them were two polar bears. Another huge iceberg was encountered at midnight in a heavy fog. It was sighted just in time to enable the steamer to avoid collision.

"Canadian Aggression."

WASHINGTON, July 30.—In the Senate to-day Mr. Higgins offered a resolution in reference to the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, its large subventions from the Canadian and British Governments, and its discriminations against American railroads and American commerce, and directing the committee on interstate commerce to investigate the whole subject of the aggressions of the Canadian Pacific Railway and its affiliated Pacific Ocean steamer line on American commerce, and to report as to the propriety of suspending the privileges of transit trade on the west side of the continent and to recommend such other legislation as may appear necessary in order to protect the international and foreign commerce of the United States against Canadian aggression. The resolution was referred to the committee on inter-state commerce.

Gala Day at Brampton.

BRAMPTON, Ont., July 30.—Brampton was en fete to-day, it being the place selected by the employes of the C. P. R. for their annual excursion and picnic. The merchants and citizens generally decorated their business places and residences. Flags were displayed in profusion all over the town. The mayor and corporation attended to the wants of the visitors and all vied with each other to welcome the immense throng of railway people who began to arrive by special trains at an early hour. By 11 o'clock five very heavy excursion trains had discharged their cargoes adjacent to the Agricultural Park the race track, which was thrown open for the visitors, and is particularly well adapted for the purpose of picnics and games. Fully 3,000 railway people assembled and immense crowds of citizens joined in the afternoon, when a programme of sports was carried out.

TERRIBLE BURNING ACCIDENT.

Heroic Conduct of a Girl at Windsor, Ont.

She Sacrifices Her Own Life to Save That of a Baby.

WINDSOR, Aug. 1.—Yesterday morning fire broke out in the house of a family named Smith, consisting of the aged mother, two single daughters, Florence and Alice, and a married daughter, Mrs. Green, and her baby, who about a month ago moved to Windsor from Wyoming, Ont. In an effort to save Mrs. Green's baby, Florence Smith was badly burned, but the doctors say she cannot live. The girl, with a bravery seldom seen, dashed into the house and managed to reach the room where the child was. When she went to return she found that she was cut off in every direction by the flames. She hugged the child close to her, and by going through a sheet of fire reached a window, her nightdress and hair all afire. With the child still in her arms she made a jump, and as soon as she reached the ground it was found that the flames had burned everything from her. While she was battling with the flames upstairs, the mother and other daughter, Alice, had entered one of the lower rooms to recover a roll of money and some jewelry. The mother soon returned, her body and arms badly burned, and Alice was seen to stumble just outside the doorway. Capt. Murdock, who was one of the first to reach the fire, saw her, and, unmindful of danger, made a rush and caught her in his arms. She was also horribly burned and the screeching of the poor women as they rolled in the grass was too horrible to describe. She was burned from the top of her head to the soles of her feet and inhaled some of the fire. Mrs. Smith and the other single daughter, Alice, are in a critical condition, but it is thought they will pull through if inflammation does not set in. The baby is all right with the exception of a slight burn on the forehead. The house was completely destroyed. Loss, $600; insurance, $400. None of the furniture was saved.

WONDERS OF MARS.

Discoveries Made by the Great Lick Telescope.

Exposure of the "Canal" Yarn and Investigation of the Tiny Moons.

LICK'S OBSERVATORY, Cal., Aug. 1—The giant telescope presented to the University of California by James Lick is making a record for itself during the present apposition of Mars. Many of the Milanese Astronomer Schiaparellis' fanciful details are shown to have no existence. This will be a bitter disappointment to many visionary theorists who have found in the existence of "three canals" and particularly in the announcement that all were seen to be divided most indisputable evidence that Mars was inhabited by human beings. The most startling of the million observations are those made on the two tiny moons of the planet which were first discovered by Asaph Hall in Washington during the apposition of 1877, and which have since been seen at brief intervals and only in the very largest telescopes. Not only have these little attendants, by long odds the faintest planetary bodies to be seen anywhere in the sky, been in plain view for the best part of the month, but of late astronomers have regularly observed their eclipses in the shadow of Mars. The satellites are seen to disappear in eclipse upon reaching the line of shadow with almost the same instantaneous effect which is seen when the dark limb of the moon passes over a bright star in the sky. Within two-tenths of a second the whole body of the moon is seen to be immersed in the shadow cast out in the space by the globe of Mars. The inner satellite of Mars has no larger area than an ordinary California ranch, and is so near to the planet that if there are any inhabitants they can easily find out whether this satellite is inhabited, the distance being less than one-sixtieth that of the moon from the earth. The inner satellite is probably eight miles in diameter, the outer one about twenty. The first is less than 4,000 miles from the surface of the planet, and the other about three times that distance. The inner one completes one revolution in less than eight hours, so that it seems to be "new" three times a day.

A CREDITABLE TURNOUT.

The City Corporation Men's Procession in Connection With Their Picnic.

The first annual picnic of the corporation men was heralded this afternoon by a flourish of trumpets and a procession. These faithful conservors of the city streets gathered on the Market Square, and shortly after 1 o'clock started for Queen's Park via Dundas street, amid rows of admiring spectators who lined the sidewalks.

First came Sidney Loveless, chairman of the picnic committee, mounted on a spirited charger and bedecked with a waving ostrich plume. The Seventh Band followed in a bus, playing the new selection, "Boom-ta-ra," vigorously. The city engineer and E. T. Essery beamed from beneath the roof of a covered rig. Maurice Baldwin came next in charge of the new street sweeper, which was nicely decorated. No. 1 ward lead with a vehicle handsomely decked out with evergreens and mottoes. Then followed a long string of typical corporation wagons laden with picnickers. The majority were barren of embellishment, although a few were pettily rigged up. The street-sweepers had rather a novel turnout. The fire department was represented by Chief Roe, No. 2 supply wagon under Foreman Findlater, No. 1 hook and ladder truck driven by T. Hartley, and No. 3 wagon under Foreman G. Aitken. Ald. Connor, Ald. Garratt and the reporters brought up the rear in a hack. The affair was very creditable to the promoters, and the picnic will make a very agreeable departure from the routine of corporation work.

A Desperate Act.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., August 1.—As the Placerville train was coming into the city a Mexican named Jacob Aldarez, with his 3-year-old son in his arms, threw himself on the track in front of the locomotive, his intention being to commit suicide and kill the child. Engineer Hanford performed a remarkable feat. He reversed the engine and clapped on the air-brake, stopping the train within a distance of a few feet. Jackscrews were got out and the locomotive had to be raised before the man and child could be liberated. Strange to say neither were killed, and, although both were terribly mangled about the head and face, both will recover. Aldarez's wife died a week ago and he has been despondent ever since.

HEAT IN EARTH'S CENTER.

It Contains Many Important Secrets That We Wot Not Of.

The workmen in the deepest mines of Europe, says a writer in Goldthwaite's Magazine, swelter in almost intolerable heat, and yet they never penetrate over .007 part of the surface to the center of the earth. In the lower levels of some of the Comstock mines the men fought scalding water, and could labor only three or four hours at a time until the Sutro tunnel pierced the mines and drew off some of the terrible heat, which had stood at 120 degrees.

The deepest boring ever made, that at Sperenberg, near Berlin, penetrates only 4,172 feet, about 1,000 feet deeper than the famous artesian well at St. Louis. While borings and mines reveal to us only a few secrets relating solely to the temperature and constitution of the earth for a few thousand feet below the surface, we are able, by means of volcanoes, to form some notion of what is going on at a greater depth. There have been many theories about the causes of volcanoes, but it is now generally held that, though they are produced by the intense heat of the interior of the earth, they are not directly connected with the molten mass that lies many miles below the immediate sources of volcanic energy. Everybody knows that many rocks are formed on the floor of the ocean, and it has been found that a twentieth to a seventeenth of their weight is made up of imprisoned water.

Now, these rocks are hurled in time under overlying strata, which serves as a blanket to keep the enormous heat of the interior. This heat turns the water into superheated steam, which melts the hardest rock, and when the steam finds a fissure in the rock above it it breaks through to the surface with terrific energy, and we have a volcano. We find that these outpourings, which have lain for countless ages many thousands of feet below the surface are well adapted to serve the purposes of man. Many a vineyard flourishes on the volcanic ashes from Vesuvius, and volcanic mud has clothed the hills of New Zealand with fine forest and its plains with luxuriant verdure. The most wonderful display of the results of volcanic energy is seen in the northwestern corners of our own land, a region of lofty forests and of great fertility.

A GRATEFUL MOTHER.

Her Child Is Saved by Lactated Food.

A child's life saved! A mother's heart filled with joy and thankfulness! She is anxious that other mothers should know something about the agent that saved her child from the dark grave. She is aware of the fact that thousands of little babies in Canada are hovering between life and death, and that they urgently require the same life-giving food that brought new life and vitality to her own little one.

Mrs. Thos. Caven, of Whittington, Ont., writes:

"I think it is my duty to let you know that your Lactated Food was the means of saving my baby's life. When he was a few weeks' old he got very sick; we did all we could for him, but he cried night and day. I took him to our doctor, who said that baby was suffering from bowel consumption, and he thought it could not live, and he advised me strongly to try Lactated Food.

"All my friends who had seen the child at that time, said it could not live. I procured a package of your Food, and took it home with me, and commeneed to feed it to my baby, and very soon I could see a decided change in him for the better. He was four years old last June, and is now a bright, smart and strong boy, and the picture of health. I would strongly recommend Lactated Food to all mothers for their babies."

Why allow your little ones to waste and pine away, after reading this strong testimony of Mrs. Caven? Why continue with the common and poorly prepared foods which are now so numerous?

Your child's life is too precious to allow any trifling or procrastination. Go to your druggist at once, and ask him for Lactated Food, that can sustain, fortify and build up the weakest infant.

This was the first relief she got, and before one bottle was used the benefit she derived from it was beyond our expectation."

The tobacco of Martinico was once the favorite of the smoking world, and when old Father Hennipen descended the Mississippi about 1680 the Indians were much surprised to see a European with such an excellent sample of their native plant. But the smokers of the "Myrtle Navy" would give but a poor account of the once celebrated Martinico. Their favorite brand is as much superior to it as it was to the raw and uncured leaf which the Indians of that day smoked.

WESTERN ONTARIO.

BRUCE.

Fresh evidence is coming in almost every hour at Wiarton showing the terrible strength of the wind during the storm in that section last Wednesday. The track of the tornado was not very wide nor does it seem to have gone very far, but it left desolation and great loss to mark its path. No lives are yet reported lost on land. In Keppel the storm was particularly severe. A farmer named Haynes, living near Mountain Lake, had his barns carried away and smashed to pieces, and his crops completely ruined. The greatest losers by the storm in Wiarton are R. Eby, whose boat house and bathing establishment was blown over, crushing and ruining many valuable boats, and William Young, whose saw mill was wrecked, and in a wing of which the dynamo, by which the town received its light, was located. The place has to dispense with electric lights until repairs are made.

Hiram Walker & Sons, Walkerville, some time ago offered a trophy to the champion bowling team of Toronto, but what the trophy was to be was kept a secret. It was on Friday presented to the Granites, the victorious team, and consisted of a magnificent solid silver cup, gold lined and handsomely chased.

GREY.

Several carloads of steel for the construction of the third Government cruiser have arrived at the Polson shipyards, Owen Sound, and work on the vessel has begun. This is the cruiser intended for service on Georgian Bay in the work of protecting the fisheries from poachers.

C. P. R. Officials at Owen Sound say that if the retaliation bill be enforced by President Harrison the steamships of the C. P. R. line from that port to Fort William, and all other lines trading with Lake Superior ports, will be compelled to tie up to their wharves; and all freight will have to go round by rail, as every steamer would have to pay out from $3,000 to $4,000 each trip for the privilege of passing through the canal. Hugh Ryan, contractor for the Canadian canal, passed through Owen Sound last week, and is credited with having stated that the whole question is merely a matter of money. If the Government is prepared to meet the extra expense he can put a couple of thousand men at work on the canal, push it through during the winter months, and have it completed by next May. Otherwise the canal will not be ready for navigation till 1894.

KENT.

Dr. J. L. Bray held an inquest in Chatham Thursday on the body of a young lad named Henry Oxford, 13 years of age, who was secured from Dr. Barnado's home in Toronto by Wm. Morrison, a Raleigh farmer, two weeks ago and who died suddenly. On the day of his death he watched the cows till noon; at 3 o'clock he was working, pulling mustard, for half an hour; about 5 o'clock he went out for the cows. Not answering when called to tea, Mrs. Morrison went out to look him up. She found him lying on the roadside dead. Dr. Duncan held the post mortem and gave it as his opinion that death had been caused by the excessive heat.

Isaac Trerice died at the residence of his daughter, Mrs. Lynch, Chatham township, Wednesday morning. Mr. Trerice was in his 90th year and had spent 35 years in this section, where he engaged extensively in farming and timber business. He was highly respected by the entire community. He formerly came from Yarmouth township, where he was engaged by Col. Talbot in developing the natural resources of that fine section. His remains were interred at Dresden on Friday.

LAMBTON.

At the last meeting of the Sarnia Town Council it was decided to give the waterworks extension debentures for $15,750, bearing 5 per cent. interest per annum, to George A. Stimson, of Toronto, for $16,054, that sum being the amount of the tender.

A Sarnia dispatch says: Traffic on the Grand Trunk Railway on this division of the line was never more active than it is at the present time. The grain elevators at Point Edward and Sarnia keep their available storage space fully occupied, and so great is the rapidity with which the elevators are filled and emptied that the rolling stock of the Grand Trunk is taxed to its utmost capacity. Steady employment is given to a large force of men in unloading vessels and loading cars.

Word was received a few days ago of the death by scalding, in California, of Frank, son of Mr. Donley, butcher, of Thedford. The information received states he was injured in a wreck. He had left the parental home only three months at the time of the lamentable occurrence, and was 20 years of age. The grief-stricken family have the heartfelt sympathy of the entire community.

A Women's Christian Temperance Union has been organized in Mount Brydges with the following officers: Mrs. (Rev.) Anderson, president; Mrs. Elsey, vice-president; Miss Marion, London, corresponding secretary; Miss Eliza Robertson, recording secretary; Mrs. (Dr.) Bica, treasurer.

A tabernacle meeting was commenced just west of Parkhill in the woods of R. Smith on Thursday, July 28, under the superintendence of Rev. Stephen Knott, pastor of the Sylvan Circuit. After singing, prayer was offered by Rev. W. H. Cooper, of Thedford, and a sermon by Rev. John Holmes, of Parkhill, on "Peter and John's visit to the Temple;" then a short consecration service was held, led by Evangelist Jinkins, from Aylmer. On Sunday three services were held, in the morning by Rev. Stephen Knott, in the afternoon by Rev. John Holmes, and in the evening by J. S. Jinkins, evangelist.

OXFORD.

Robinson Bros., of Ingersoll, have shipped from the county of Oxford during the past few weeks about 20,000 dozen eggs direct to the English market. Another shipment of 5,000 dozen of the same product has been sent forward during the past three or four days.

Charles Wood, the would-be-suicide, was brought up before the magistrate at Tilsonburg on Thursday, but as there was no charge against him he was let off. Wood wanted very badly to be sent to jail, and urged the magistrate to convict him.

The residence of Thomas Rixby, of North Oxford, was entered between the hours of 6 and 10 o'clock the other night, and a suit of clothes, a fine shirt and some jewelry stolen. A tramp had been seen loitering in the vicinity during the afternoon, and suspicion fell upon him. He gave his name as James Colgan, and was brought before P. M. Chadwick at Ingersoll and sentenced to three months in the Central Prison.

A few days ago particulars were published of the capsizing in the Canadian channel, near Belle Isle, of a rowboat, and the drowning of a young woman and the probable drowning of a man, who was also an occupant of the boat, the second man who was with the unfortunate couple being saved. The identity of the young woman has since been established. She was Mrs. Emma Fox, of Drumbo, her maiden name being Carey. Her body has been recovered. Deceased was a young widow, whose husband, Lewis Fox, a switchman, was killed on the Michigan Central Railroad, near Eighteenth street crossing, Detroit, on June 9, and who had been rooming since the death of her husband at the residence of Mrs. John Foley, 300 Abbott street, in that city. Two female friends of Mrs. Fox stated that the deceased was between 18 and 19 years old and that she had relatives in Windsor. She was at one time employed in a restaurant on Howard street, and for a time worked on Eighteenth street, Detroit. A correspondent writes: "In searching for further information the downfall, disgrace and subsequent death of a Canadian girl who came to Detroit some months ago to seek her fortune alone and without friends, was brought to light. Emma Fox, as she is known here, was the daughter of well-to-do people named Fulton living in Middlesex. Tiring of her home in the country she went to Drumbo, Ont., and later to Toronto, where she was employed in the office of Wyld, Brock & Darling as a typewriter. Her true name is said to be Edith Fulton, but she frequently went by different names. Naturally of a vivacious nature, she made friends, principally among a fast set of young men in Toronto. One, a clerk, became infatuated with her and her downfall soon followed. He had influential parents, and when they discovered the intrigue the girl was forced to leave Toronto." The name of the man who was drowned at the same time is believed to be August Reitz, of Detroit, whose remains have been found near Amhersburg.

WELLINGTON.

Thirty head of cattle belonging to John Black, of Fergus, died on the steamship Virginia between Montreal and Father Point. There was some insurance, but not nearly enough to cover the loss.

The dead body of a man was found in a field on the farm of Isaac Teeter, Erin. The body presented the appearance of a man about 50 years of age. He is supposed to have escaped from some criminal or charitable institution and that he died from exhaustion.

A prominent farmer of Arthur had occasion to visit a creek bottom on his farm, accompanied by his dog. While walking through the tall grass he suddenly came upon a migrating army of minks, and they instantly attacked him with incredible ferocity, jumping at his throat, biting his hands and legs and fairly swarming upon him. His dog was quickly compelled to abandon him, and but for the assistance rendered by some men in an adjoining hayfield, who were attracted by his cries, he would undoubtedly have been overpowered. A boy armed with a stout club succeeded in killing twenty of the ferocious animals.

The Volcanic Eruption on Sangir.

VICTORIA, B. C., July 30.—The steamship Empress of Japan brings additional details of the volcanic eruption of Gunong Aroo on Great Sangir Island, June 7. The town of Toroana was buried by ashes and the enormous cocoanut plantations covering the hills on each side of Toroana Bay were destroyed. One captain who was there with a ship at the time estimates that 10,000 lives were lost on the island, which presents a most dismal appearance. Relief has been forwarded to the survivors from neighboring islands.

Harry's Turn Now.

Johnny, aged four, and Harry, aged five and a half, had been left at home with their sister, mother having gone out.

When bedtime came they wanted to stay up for mother, and it was hard work to get them to bed. Harry maintained a stolid indifference, but Johnny cried lustily.

Their sister listened at the bottom of the stairs, hoping that they would soon be good.

At last Johnny stopped, and the listener heard him say:

"You cry Harry. I'm tired."

FIERY SERPENT IN THE SKY.

A Strange Sight at Sea Described by the Captain of an Anchor Liner.

NEW YORK, July 31.—One of the strangest phenomena ever witnessed at sea was described by Capt. Thompson, of the Anchor liner Trinacria, which arrived from Mediterranean ports, and also by Pilot Sullivan, of the David Carll No. 10, who brought the steamship into New York. It was in brief an earthquake shock on July 15, followed by the appearance in the sky of a huge, fiery serpent which stretched from the zenith to the horizon. Pilot Sullivan was on board the David Carll at the time, as the Trinacria had not been sighted. The boat was in latitude 41.65, longitude 65 degrees, or in the vicinity of George's Sheals, south of Cape Sable. An earthquake shock from the northwest was felt at 7 o'clock in the evening. It lasted six seconds, as nearly as the pilot could judge. The vibration caused the pilot boat to tremble, but the sea remained calm. The shock was unmistakably that of an earthquake, the pilot said. Hardly had the shock subsided when a streak of light was seen extending from the zenith to the northwestern horizon in the form of a huge serpent. The reptile gradually tapered from the head, which appeared to be reared high in the air, to the tail near the horizon. It lasted for more than a quarter of an hour and then gradually disappeared.

Capt. Thompson, of the Trinacria, says he saw the fiery serpent also at the same hour, 7 p.m., of July 23. His vessel was then in latitude 40.47, longitude 65.9, or about 60 miles distant from the pilot boat's position. Capt. Thompson says he saw what appeared to be a fiery cloud in the northwest. It resembled at first glance a forked streak of lightning. Gradually it assumed the form of an immense serpent, and as if to further carry out the delusion the serpent began to coil itself like an enormous spring. The head reared itself as if his snakeship had suddenly been disturbed and was about to strike his fiery fangs into his opponent. There were 297 passengers on board, including 30 howling dervishes who will illustrate the faith of Mohammed at the Word's Fair. The passengers all crowded to the rail to witness the strange sight, and the dervishes, taking it for a manifestation of Allah, began to pray with their faces toward the north. The vessel's barometer had sunk from 29.39 to 29.29 and heavy "tide rips," or short, choppy waves slapped the vessel, though there was almost no wind. The shock was felt very slightly on board the Trinacria. The serpentine form in the sky lasted about an hour and then gradually faded. Capt. Thompson said he had never seen anything like it before.

TALMAGE ADMIRES THE CZAR.

Going to Correct False Impressions of Russian Affairs.

ABERDEEN, July 30.—The Rev. Dr. Talmage, who is here, says of his recent tour in Russia:

"Of course it would be improper for me to reveal the details of my private conversation with the Czar on July 22, but I may say that I found the Czar and his family especially genial, artless and sympathetic. The Czarewitch is an urbane gentleman who speaks English well and is widely informed.

"The Czar received me in a room on the third floor of the Peterhof Palace, and we talked facing each other from opposite sides of a narrow table. I judge from his questions that he is more interested in religion than in politics. He spoke in a kindly manner, and when anything pleased him especially his face was radiant with smiles.

"I believe he is doing the best possible for his people, although naturally we cannot expect him to keep all the people of his immense realm in hand and mold them as he will.

"After a prolonged and delightful interview the Czar said that the Czarina wished to see us, and he conducted us to her parlor on the first floor. The room is adorned with flowers and vines and choice bric-a-brac.

"The Czarina reminded me of the Princess of Wales, as I told her. She has no air of arrogance, but is simplicity personified. She introduced us to the children, who are so full of life and fun, of unaffected boyhood and girlhood, that I almost romped with them. After dinner the Czar's carriage took us to the station."

Dr. Talmage said that monstrous misapprehensions are abroad as regards Russia and the Czar's Government, and that he should devote much of his time upon his return to America in correcting false impressions of Russian affairs.

A PURELY ORNAMENTAL TARIFF.

(Chatham Banner.)

The retaliatory tariff on eggs has now been in force for three weeks, yet hen fruit is 5 cents to 6 cents a dozen higher in Detroit than in Chatham—just as has been since the McKinley Bill came in force. Why don't the price go up in Canada? Foster said that would be the effect of the tariff.

"August Flower"

I had been troubled five months with Dyspepsia. The doctors told me it was chronic. I had a fullness after eating and a heavy load in the pit of my stomach. I suffered frequently from a Water Brash of clear matter. Sometimes a deathly Sickness at the Stomach would overtake me. Then again I would have the terrible pains of Wind Colic. At such times I would try to belch and could not. I was working then for Thomas McHenry, Druggist, Cor. Irwin and Western Ave., Allegheny City, Pa., in whose employ I had been for seven years. Finally I used August Flower, and after using just one bottle for two weeks, was entirely relieved of all the trouble. I can now eat things I dared not touch before. I would like to refer you to Mr. McHenry, for whom I worked, who knows all about my condition, and from whom I bought the medicine. I live with my wife and family at 39 James St., Allegheny City, Pa. —[BROWNING.

London, Monday, August 1.

ALL THE returns are in for the Manitoba elections. Premier Greenway has a majority of 14 in a House of 40.

IN OSHAWA, also, the reliability of the census of Canadian manufactures is challenged. How can general deductions be deemed correct if doubts can be effectively raised regarding individual towns and cities?

MR. ALBERT SPICER, chairman-elect of the English Congregational Union, who wrested the seat for the Monmouth boroughs from Sir Geo. Elliott in the recent campaign, made his fight on the platform of the single tax on land values, as enunciated by Henry George. Mr. Spicer is a progressive Liberal, and he has the courage of his convictions.

THE British Government granted civil pensions to seventeen persons last year, amounting in all to $6,000 a year. Among the recipients is Mrs. Mary Grey Gordon, daughter of James Hogg, "the Ettrick Shepherd," "in consideration of the literary merits of her father and of her inadequate means of support." Like the majority of poets, the sweet singer of Ettrick vale died comparatively poor.

AN OLD inhabitant says that cholera followed in the wake of the grip in 1832, and caused dreadful ravages in the United States and Canada. Let us hope that history will not repeat itself this year. There is one thing in our favor: the epidemic of 1832 set in as early as the first week of July and the later visitation, twenty years afterwards, first made itself felt in Canada on the fourth of that month. The later the season, the less chance will there be of the plague crossing the Atlantic. Cleanliness and sobriety are the best antidotes to the disease. As Police Magistrate Parke fittingly put it, when addressing a visitor to his court, a few days ago, "The drunks go first."

SEPARATE schools in Ontario and Quebec are part of the Confederation compact. Protestant separate schools in Quebec and Catholic separate schools in Ontario were continued as a compromise at the time of the union of the Provinces, and will have to be maintained while Confederation lasts. In British Columbia, Prince Edward Island, Nova Scotia and New Brunswick there are no legalized separate schools, but in the last two named Provinces there is an arrangement whereby in the centers of population the Catholics practically enjoy the privilege to have separate schools. In Manitoba separate schools were permitted up till 1890, when the Legislature declared that there should be but one system of schools—non-denominational. The general election just fought resulted in the confirmation of that policy, and the appeal to the British Privy Council to upset the law has just been dismissed with costs in favor of the Province. Sir John Thompson has held out the hope that in the event of the highest court in the land being against separate schools in Manitoba, some remedial legislation would be passed by the Dominion Government, but it is doubtful if this view can be sustained now that the Privy Council has virtually decreed that no right or privilege held by the minority when the Province entered Confederation has been prejudicially affected.

SIR EDWARD WATKIN still enthusiastically advocates the settlement of the Irish question by a ship canal through Ireland and a tunnel under the sea between Scotland and Ireland. His latest arguments are set forth in the following letter to the London Times of Saturday last:

The distance between Liverpool and New York via Queenstown is 3,547 miles, while the distance between Liverpool and New York via Galway Bay is 2,964 miles, or a saving of 583 miles, and questions of safety and certainly have also to be weighed. Had a ship canal existed the Chicago would now be reloading at Liverpool. Sea dangers lurk mainly on the coast line. The speed at which a ship can pass along a canal is a question of engineering, no doubt attended with some extra cost of works, but economic in the end. The larger the ship becomes the more important is the saving of distance and time. But such a work as I contemplate would serve many other purposes besides navigation, main drainage, the improvement of the Shannon, and so on. The state of mind of my critics is well illustrated by a letter from Lord Anglesey, the most popular Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, to Attorney-General Blackburn, dated 1824, from Rome. He says, dilating in contrast on the building of the works of the Imperial City, which appeared to have been destined for eternity: 'They would have made you a ship canal from Galway to your bay in a month. How a Roman Emperor would have smiled at the difficulty of forming one from Kingston to Dublin!'"

Sir Edward's scheme has a formidable opponent in the channel bridge project, which is progressing rapidly—on paper. A few months ago the drawings of the bridge showed 141 piers resting on the bed of the channel and rising high out of the sea. Now 69 of these costly piles have been removed, not by the fury of the waves, but by the activity of the draftsman and India rubber. The revised bridge will only require 72 piers, and the cost will be considerably reduced. It is interesting to note the enthusiasm of the company, as shown at its meeting recently, over what seems to outsiders very poor prospects. The bridge, on the revised estimate, is to cost £32,000,000. In order that interest may be paid on this enormous capital it would be necessary for the undertaking to earn daily a net profit of £3,000 to £4,000. Then there is the further question, how could such a bridge be defended in the event of war?

THE MEETING OF PARLIAMENT.

The exciting time in the British Parliament will not arrive till next week, though the new Parliament assembles on Thursday next. Swearing in of new members and other preliminaries will last till Monday, when the Queen's speech will be read. On its contents will depend the immediate action which the Liberal leaders will pursue. At present it is known that the conferences of last week have resulted in the establishment of unity and enthusiasm among the various corps that compose the Liberal army. Even Keir Hardie, the Labor member, who showed a disposition to flock by himself, has demonstrated his belief in the adage that in unity there is strength by offering to help John Morley should he accept office and seek re-election in Newcastle. According to a reliable cable correspondent, the fall of the Salisbury Government will follow the passage of a want of confidence motion. Then the Home Rule Bill will take precedence of everything else, and measures dealing with the electoral registration laws, suffrage qualification, and the extension of local government in Great Britain will follow closely in its wake. If debate in the House of Commons on the motion of want of confidence should be at all prolonged, the Queen will be at Balmoral when she has to summon Mr. Gladstone to her presence, which means that the Grand Old Man would have to travel to the Highlands and back, a distance of over 1,000 miles. This would be unfortunate, and the British Liberal journals suggest that her Majesty may well consider whether she should not await the Premier's convenience rather than make him dance attendance on her in the Highlands. It may be that she will remain at Osborne, Isle of Wight, till the crisis is past, but in any case it is understood that she has refused to occupy any of her palaces in London at this time.

WHY THIS WOBBLING?

The Canadian newspaper organ which is the first to defend a war of tariffs and preach retaliation when there seems no immediate prospect that the United States will take action, is also the first to indorse a back down on the part of the Ottawa Administration. If retaliation is a good policy it should be carried out with firmness. To assume Quixotic attitudes of never-falling ardor, and at the first sign of resentment on the part of those opposed to them, is the best possible way to invite that evil which it is sought to ward off, as well as to cheapen and bring ridicule upon the Ministry following out a course so very full of wobbles.

THE QUEEN AND GLADSTONE.

There may or may not be truth in the statement that the Duke of Devonshire, till the other day Lord Hartington, told Queen Victoria that she would have to abdicate the throne if she refused to accept Mr. Gladstone as Premier of Great Britain. What is certain is that the duke was sent for by the Queen, and that she had an earnest interview with him. It is surmised that while the Queen has no objection to Mr. Gladstone personally, she does not think that he concedes her prerogative in all things to such an extent as is desirable. She knows that while Gladstone stood between her and the members of Parliament who attacked the view that large grants should be voted to each one of her children as soon as they come of age, the Liberal leader is by no means a stickler for the continuance of the present arrangement when her Majesty dies. He has stated that the settlement only holds good while the Queen lives, and that a new arrangement, in all probability less advantageous to the royal family, will follow the present arrangement. In other words, Mr. Gladstone holds to the democratic view that rulers were made for countries, and not countries for rulers. Knowing that Gladstone holds these views, and that there is a growing sentiment in favor of them, the Queen professes alarm lest the granting of local self-government to Ireland may weaken the hold of her family on the British throne. With this view her Conservative advisers have readily fallen in; indeed, it is no secret that they have steadily urged it as a reason why her Majesty should do everything in her power to thwart the consummation of the popular will.

The Duke of Devonshire is too sound a constitutionalist, however, to deceive her Majesty. The cable tells us that he has informed her that he was obliged to recognize that a majority had been elected to the House of Commons favorable to Mr. Gladstone's views. This was the only answer which a statesman could make. The day has gone by when the will of the British people deliberately expressed at the polls can be set aside either by dukes, princes or queens. No matter what her personal views may be, the Queen will have to indorse the legislation brought forward and carried through Parliament by the chosen representatives of the people, and whether the Duke of Devonshire so advised her or not, the persistent adherence to an opposite course would result in her abdication. It is well that it should be so. Great Britain has progressed and prospered just in proportion as her people have secured the recognition of their individual rights and privileges. As class laws have been swept away, and the despotic landlord system of government has been combatted, and in a large measure overthrown, the British people have improved their condition socially, morally and politically. It would be a retrograde step if the Queen were now enabled to overturn the will of the people, and reject the advice of the chosen leader of the majority, merely because of her personal likes or dislikes.

The day has certainly gone by when a British monarch's will can be regarded if it conflicts with the will of the nation, constitutionally expressed.

TEMPERANCE VICTORIES.

(Leeds Times.)

In London the elections have been particularly favorable to the temperance party as compared with the previous position. Out of 58 elections 24 have resulted in the election of members pledged to vote for the direct veto, as compared with thirteen in 1886. In the case of the thirteen the majorities have almost uniformly been largely increased, while in the eleven seats gained the great minorities at the last election have been turned into substantial and in some cases striking majorities.

These 24 seats are exclusive of the two for North and South-west Ham (a great industrial borough just across the Essex border) where two implacable opponents have been exchanged for two firm friends of the direct veto. Practically, therefore, the London vote on temperance questions has been just doubled—13 turned into 26.

The most conspicuous temperance victory in London, and one that has excited intense satisfaction in temperance circles, is the defeat in St. George's in the East of the Right Hon. C. T. Ritchie, president of the Local Government Board, and the leader of the compensation proposals of 1888. Mr. J. Williams Benn, an old Band of Hope boy, a strong abstainer, a direct vetoist, an uncompromising opponent of compensation, and "whip" of the Progressive party in the London County Council, has turned Mr. Ritchie's majority of 657 at the last election into a majority in his own favor of 398. The temperance party may well congratulate itself on this result.

THE WONDER OF THE SHIP.

[New York World.]

The City of Paris cuts down the time of the ocean passage by 33 minutes, and we are full of admiration for the performance.

But the really interesting and wonderful part of the matter is that human ingenuity and skill in construction have so perfected the ocean steamer that minutes or even seconds are to be reckoned in comparisons of speed.

Think of it! We build great hulks, weighing thousands of tons, with such precision in their machinery that in spite of all the weather possibilities of a voyage we reckon upon their time of arrival on the other side with a confidence as precise as that with which we schedule railroad trains.

And these vast ships are so accurately designed that no wind can harm, no sea assail them successfully. They have only to keep off the rocks to make safety upon them is sure as it is in one's own drawing-room.

There is no more impressive illustration of the human mind's capacity than a great steamship affords, with every line calculated to a hair, every possible strain measured to an ounce, and with machinery so perfect in its workings that minutes count in the time of a voyage of nearly 3,000 miles across a particularly turbulent ocean.

What poet ever had an imagination big enough to conceive what human skill has made not only possible but actual and even commonplace?

Were the scrofula sores on my poor little boy, sickening and disgusting. They were especially severe on his legs, back of his ears and on his head. His hair was so matted that combing was sometimes impossible. His legs were so bad that sometimes he could not sit down, and when he tried to walk his legs would crack open and the blood start. Physicians did not effect a cure. I decided to give him Hood's Sarsaparilla. In two weeks the sores commenced to heal up; the scales came off and all over his body new and healthy flesh and skin formed. When he had taken two bottles of

AN EXCITING FINISH.

The Alerts Defeat the Tilsonburg Blues.

A Big Crowd at the Kensington Grounds —The Boston A. A. Team Coming—Halifax and East Toronto Beaten by American Cricketers—Close of the Grand Circuit Races at Cleveland.

CRICKET.

HALIFAX BADLY BEATEN.

HALIFAX, N. S., July 30.—The cricket match between the Germantowns, of Philadelphia, and the combined Halifax eleven ended to-day in favor of the Americans by an inning and 31 runs. Score: Germantowns, 207; Halifax, 176.

THE TRIGGER.

KANSAS CITY, July 31.—There was a large crowd of sportsmen out at the Kansas City Shooting Park yesterday to see the competition between Jim Elliott and Jas. A. Bolt for the American field championship cup given to the champion wing shot of America. Elliott successfully defended the cup by a score of 49 to 40 out of a possible 50. This makes the cup the individual property of Elliott, he having won it twice in succession.

BASEBALL.

ALERTS VS. BLUES.

The Tilsonburg Blues, assisted by Pete and Fred Wood, of this city, mopped the diamond with London's crack team, the Alerts, at the Kensington grounds Saturday afternoon. The home team as usual won, though their chances for victory seemed very slim until the last moment. The game was without any exciting features, until the last two innings when the crowd warmed up. When the Alerts, through deplorable errors, allowed their opponents to pile up four runs, the crowd rather lost heart. With Hiscott taken from short and placed in the box, the infield is greatly weakened, as Johnson is removed from his proper place at first and a general shift of players occasioned. Hynd was hit in the head early in the game and was not in his usual form, while Quinn was the victim of some very badly-thrown balls.

At the end of the sixth inning the score was 8 to 3 in favor of the visitors. The Alerts added three in the seventh and eighth. In their half of the ninth the excitement became intense, as they wanted but one run to tie the score. Wylie was on third, Johnson on second and Hiscott on first; two men were out. Player was at bat. The latter hit a fly behind second base within easy reach, but the fielder dropped the ball. Two runs came in and the crowd went fairly wild with delight. The Blues went to pieces after that, and before they recovered the Alerts had made five runs, the score standing 10 to 7. The visitors went in for their last half and managed to fill the bases, with only one man out. Hiscott struck McPhail out, Tait popped an easy fly to Player, and the match was ended.

The crowd was one of the largest seen on the grounds this season, and the enthusiasm augurs well for the game. A pleasant feature was the large attendance of ladies. The score is appended:

BOSTON BALL TOSSERS COMING.

The Alerts, of this city, have made a date with the Boston Athletic Association team to play in London on Monday, Aug. 6. The club is making a tour of the States, and London is probably the only Canadian city they will visit. They are one of the best amateur teams on the continent, most of the players being Harvard University men. The only professional on the team is Miah Murray, who caught for the Tecumsehs when Phil Powers was manager. As the Alerts are under heavy expense in bringing the team here, lovers of the game should support their enterprise by turning out well. The crack Chatham team will also play in this city on Aug. 9. The Alerts are to be commended for the vigor they are putting into the national game here.

AQUATIC.

THE SWIMMING RECORD LOWERED.

PHILADELPHIA, July 30.—The first annual swimming championship meeting of the Atlantic Association of the Amateur Athletic Association was held in the Upper Schuylkill River this afternoon under the auspices of the Philadelphia Amateur Swimming Club. The low condition of the river presented almost dead water, there being no perceptible current. Arthur Thomas Kenney, of the Philadelphia Amateur Swimming Club, won both events, the 100 yards and the one mile, breaking the American record in the first race and and lowering the world's record in the latter event.

A Toronto dispatch says Edward Durnan, the sculler, has addressed a letter to city papers stating that illness which caused him to make such a poor show at the regatta here was cramps, and the persons who have been charging him with dishonorable practices will be brought to legal book.

NEW YORK, July 30.—The Columbia Yacht Club race over the triangular course up the Hudson from the club's boathouse at the foot of West Eighth-sixth street and across to the Jersey shore was sailed this afternoon. It was won by Charles T. Wills in 2:17:50. The distance of the course is about ten miles. The race is for the cup presented by Commodore Charles T. Wills to be won in Saturday afternoon races. In the cat-boat race between the Clara R. and Yonkers the latter broke down and the Clara went over the course alone.

FROM OTTAWA.

Marine and Fisheries Contributions for the World's Fair.

The C. P. R. and the Parry Sound Colonization Company—The Dominion Quarantine.

OTTAWA, July 30.—The Department of Marine and Fisheries is about to send out circulars to all persons interested in fish or fishing, inviting them to send exhibits for the Canadian contribution to the Chicago World's Fair. The circular sets forth the classes into which such subjects are divided: Fish and other forms of aquatic life, sea fishing and angling, products of fishing and their manipulation, and fish culture. Assistance is asked in making Canada's exhibits in these groups as complete as possible. Those who signify their intention to exhibit, the department will furnish notice when and where to ship goods for collection at some central point.

Mr. J. R. Booth was seen by a reporter in relation to the report that the C. P. R. had secured control of the Parry Sound Colonization Company, and was asked what action he proposed to take. Mr. Booth said he thought it was true the C. P. R. had secured control of that company, and if that were true they evidently contemplated building to Parry Sound, in which case his road, the Ottawa, Arnprior and Parry Sound, would not for the present be extended beyond Arnprior or Renfrew, as he did not propose to enter into a fight or competition with a large corporation like the C. P. R. Mr. Booth further stated that if the C. P. R. did build a line to Parry Sound he would probably swing his line around in the direction of Lake Nipissing and French River, where he has large timber interests, which alone would create traffic enough to sustain a railway for many years. Mr. Booth furthermore stated that he should take no action towards extending his line beyond Renfrew or securing an entrance into Parry Sound until he was assured that the C. P. R. did not contemplate building through to that place and that he was not a competitor with them for the purchase of the Parry Sound Railway. A prominent capitalist spoken to on the subject said he considered a line built in an alternate direction as above would be of much more value to the Canadian Atlantic Railway, as it would be in a direct line to the "Soo," and if a lake portion was required one could be attained at the mouth of French River, which would be a much better deep-water terminus than Parry Sound. With a through all-rail line to the "Soo" and a lake and rail line from some point at or near French River, the Canada Atlantic Railway would become one of the most complete railway companys on the continent.

The London Mutual Fire Insurance Company of Canada.

To Our Members:

Since the formation of this company, over 33 years ago, every opportunity has been taken to stem the tide of success that has always distinguished this, "The Pioneer of Equitable and Reasonable Insurance in Canada." First and last, the old time companies that held all their own way in charging aggressive rates on farm property and private residences before the advent of this company, in order to make up for their losses on hazardous property, have taken advantage of every circumstance that might tend to our injury. They have not only subsidized so-called insurance papers, but have employed their cohorts of agents in traducing the "London Mutual." The latest of their falsifications has been the circulation of base statements that the "London Mutual" was connected with one or two other mutual companies that had the misfortune to fail, owing to embarking in business more hazardous than their capacity of strength would allow. The failure of these companies has been a test for decrying the system of mutual insurance. The parties who use this cry, forget that companies organized as stock companies—such as the English "Athenæum," the English "Times," the English "Beacon," the English "Equitable," all who came into Canada with a loud flourish of trumpets, ignominiously failed; besides, they forget our "Provincial," our "Erie-Ontario," our "Canada Fire and Marine," our "Dominion Fire," our "Union, of Ottawa," our "Canada Agricultural," and other stock companies that have gone where "the woodbine twineth." But the present circular is not to discuss the merits of the different systems of insurance, but merely to show that the "London Mutual" now has nor had it ever any connection with any other company, stock or mutual; but has always stood on its own principles and merits, and continues to do, at the safest rates, the largest business in Canada. And in passing it might not be out of place to add that the company works under a license from the Dominion Government; its deposit, taking into account the class of risks written, is as large as any other company, and larger than many. No mutual company licensed by the Dominion has ever failed. The directors of the company, ever guardful of the interests of the members, and in consequence of the rumors alluded to in this circular, thought it expedient to have an examination of the books, made by a party entirely separated from the company, and not connected with the regular auditors, and consequently employed Mr. G. A. Savage, a chartered member of the Society of Accountants in Canada; and the result of his investigation is fully set forth in the following report:

To the President and Directors of the "London Mutual Fire Insurance Company":

"Gentlemen,—I beg to report that I have completed a special audit of your books, for the period commencing Jan. 1, 1890, and ending Dec. 31, 1891. I found the system of bookkeeping in vogue to be concise and direct, and the books neatly and carefully kept. The statements published by your company for the year 1890 and 1891 correctly set forth the business done during the period of my audit. I also ascertained that there is not nor has there been any connection between your company and the "City Mutual Fire Insurance Company," or any other fire insurance company, save in the way of re-insurance, as between all fire insurance companies. All of which I respectfully submit." Your obedient servent,

(Signed.) "G. A. SAVAGE,
"Chartered Accountant."

London, July 16, 1892.

The directors trust this may prove satisfactory to our members, and beg to assure them that the same candid, liberal course will be pursued in the future as in the past, and look forward confidently to an increase and improving business.

D. C. MACDONALD,
London, July 20, 1892. Manager.

England's Cheese Requirements.

Considering that the shipments of cheese at Montreal from the opening of the season to the close of last week were about 120,000 boxes in excess of those for the corresponding period last year, and the exports from New York about 85,500 boxes ahead, the export demand has demonstrated a remarkable vitality which has sustained prices beyond the most sanguine expectations of the majority of shippers and dealers. This shows very clearly, says the Trade Bulletin, that the recent strong position of the market has been due mainly to the unprecedented consumptive demand of Great Britain and probably to a curtailed home production, for if as English buyers admitted by last mail that their home make of butter had been reduced by dry weather, why should not the same meteorological influences equally affect the make of cheese? It is quite evident that the extraordinary export demand that has characterized our cheese market this season has been due to an usually vigorous consumptive demand in Great Britain, for it must be remembered that from the commencement of the season to the close of last week the combined exports from Montreal and New York were 1,093,000 boxes, against 895,000 boxes for the corresponding period last year, showing the large increase of over 200,000 boxes. The cheese going out by this week's steamers has cost 9¢c to 9¢c for finest white and colored, while considerable trading has taken place at 8¢c to 9c for under-priced goods. The Liverpool public cable has advanced is 6d during the week to 48s, which is very remarkable in face of the heavy landings there, and the large shipments from this side. Another feature in the situation is that factorymen on this side, having sold their make so close up to the hoops, are not in a mood to accept lower prices at a moment's notice. So that if England's demands continue undiminished now that the flush of production has evidently passed, still higher prices would not be at all surprising; but it can hardly be expected that the demand from England will be as fierce as it has been, unless the English make is shorter than buyers on the other side care to admit.

Crop Prospects in Manitoba.

The weather has been very warm and forcing all the week, and this, following the rains of the previous week, is just what was wanted. The crop outlook is therefore improved to this extent, that we have been favored with a week that has brought the crops on rapidly, thus lessening the dangers which always surround a late harvest. With a continuation of favorable weather the harvest will not be as was at one time expected, and, in fact, may be almost as early as usual. Reports from the country generally indicate a short straw crop, but with a fairly good prospect for yield.—Winnipeg Commercial.

Live Stock Markets.

EAST BUFFALO, N. Y.

EAST BUFFALO, N. Y., July 30.—Cattle—Fresh receipts; 8 cars and 7 held over, making 15 cars. The demand is light; a load of 20 were taken of medium quality 1,200 lb steers at $4 30 to $4 40; a few stock heifers sold down to $2 40, and common old cows sold at $1 40 to $1 65. The prospects look decidedly unfavorable for next week.

Sheep and Lambs—The market was dull, slow and easy with yesterday; only 6 cars on sale, 4 of which were yesterdays. There was only limited inquiry for stock to go east and order buyers had orders for only a few loads, while butchers not evidently in want of stock and with loads mostly it was enough for inquiry. Good 69 lb lambs sold at $5 90; for 63 to 70 lb lambs, $5 75 to $6; a deck of Canada lambs, first of the season, good quality, 75 lb, sold at $6 25, while some poor culf southern lambs sold at $4 to $5 75. Culls very dull.

Hogs—The market ruled slow, with 10 cars on sale, but at steady prices, with yesterday for good weight hogs; good medium weights and good weight Yorkers sold at $6 10 to $6 15, and 2 decks or choice heavy, smooth, fat and fine, even lot at $6 25 light Yorkers slow and were easy in price at $5 90 to $6 10, with pigs, good quality, in fairly good inquiry at $5 90 to $6, and common skips selling down to $4; for grassers, $5 25 to $5 50; roughs, $4 75 to $5 25 stags, $4 to $4 75.

MONTREAL.

MONTREAL, Que., July 28.—There were about 350 head of butchers cattle, 120 calves and 450 sheep and lambs offered at the East End abattoir to-day. Trade in cattle was very dull, and prices are lower all round, as the very hot weather has greatly reduced the demand for beef, and large fat cows brought nearly ¼c per lb less than they did last Thursday. There was nothing done here in shipping cattle to-day. A few choice small heifers sold up to about 4¢c per lb; large fat cows brought from 3½c to nearly 4c per lb; oxen from 3c to 3½c per lb, but none of them were very fat. Common dry cows and young stock in thrifty condition sold at from 3c to 3½c per lb and some of the leaner beasts at about 2½c per lb. Shippers pay about 3¢c per lb for good large sheep, but there were none suitable offered here to-day. Lambs are in fair demand at from $2 25 to $4 each. Fat hogs sell at from 5½c to 5¢c per lb.

LONDON.

LONDON, July 30.—The feature of the cheese market on Saturday was the quantity offered and held for better prices. A large bulk was held over, even those who sold being half persuaded that better prices may yet be secured. The sales were as below:

—The Bishop of Huron has fixed the first Sunday in August as a suitable time on which to take up collections for the St. Johns sufferers. Appeals from the Bishop of Newfoundland were read in all the Anglican churches of the city yesterday.

—There will be no band concert until Friday night. Unless the money grant for this purpose is supplemented it will only permit of one concert a week during August. This will be unpleasant news for the hundreds who delight in these affairs.

—Citizens wishing to mail a copy of the Buffalo Express, containing views of London, to friends abroad, can obtain the same at City Hall. If interested in sewerage question ask for copy of Chipman's report at the city clerk's, the engineer's or treasurer's office.

—The successful number in the Oak Hall competition for the pony and outfit is 182, and the lucky owner is entitled to the prize, which is valued at $100. Mr. C. F. Colwell made the draw this afternoon at the request of the manager, Mr. Alfred Taylor.

They Will Have to "Hustle."

To settle the dispute about the time which certain local bicyclists claim to have made between London and St. Thomas, Mr. J. Tune, ex-captain of the F. C. B. C., offered a medal to the rider who could make the distance in less than 57 minutes. This evening Clay Manville and Frank White will struggle to win the trophy, and will start from the City Hall, London, and end at the City Hall, St. Thomas. Messrs. Lamb and Brebner will be the city time-keepers, while J. R. Milne and Walter Mann will hold the watches at St. Thomas. A good number will leave on the evening train for the Railroad City to see the finish.

A Good Time at Nilestown.

As fine a garden party as has graced Nilestown and community for some time was held on the grounds of J. A. James on the night of July 28, under the direction of the R. T. of T. A choice spread was the first attraction of the evening, after which Bro. A. Leith was called to the chair and an excellent programme placed in his hands, the following parties taking part: Messrs. Finch, Harrietsville; harmonica selections with organ accompaniment by Mr. Hazur; Mr. and Mrs. H. Hart, violin and organ; songs by Misses Shaw, Smith and Short; instrumental music by Gracie Edwards; Mr. Stack and Miss Durand, violin and organ; J. Pack, Spearman's Corners, reading; different renditions by the Nilestown R. T. of T. choir. Receipts of evening, $43.

The Dairy.

The sun's jes' shinin' 'fore he nods and says his warm good-night,
The big red barn's a-glowin' like some jewel in the trees,
An' over all there rests a calm—a fadin', rare delight—
The charm o' milkin' time in June, when Nature takes her ease.
"Co', boss! Go fetch 'em, Rover!
Co', boss! Deep in the clover!
Co', Floss and Bess, and skittish Jess,
They're all a-comin' now I guess;
Co', boss! The pails are waitin'."

Along the woodland border green, where cool deep shadows grow,
The cows come slowly down the path to Brindle's tinkling tune;
They answer gently as I call, with voices soft and low,
Far echoin' o'er the shimmering fields of fair, sweet-scented June.
"Co', boss! Be movin' faster!
Co', boss! Up from the pasture!
Co', Flora, Sue, old Martha, Prue;
Keep movin' on. Don't stop to moo!
Don't be so hesitatin'!"

They're wadin' thro' the meadow-brook, now there's a pleasant scene,
How cool they look, how long they drink the water's clear and deep,
An' friendly elms their sleek coats brush with sweeping fringe o' green,
Thro' which the laughing sunbeams glance, an' o'er the ripples leap.
"Co', boss! You've done your drinkin'!
Co', boss! The sun is sinkin',
Co', Sal, an' Kate, co', Jane, don't wait!
You'll never get here at this rate,
Co', boss! The dew is falling'!"

Ah, now they're comin' up the lane, they've surely had their fill,
Into the barn—the stanchions click—how well each knows her place.
"Get over, Nancy—Bet, give down—Whoa fickle Jess, stand still!
You've spilled a brimmin' pail o' milk! O, patience, lend me grace!"
"Co', boss! Be off an' goin',
Co', boss! The moon is showin',
Co', Jerseys all! Go thro' the bars,
Sleep in the meadows 'neath the stars,
Co', boss! The night is callin'!"

Leafy Branches.

—The maple family in America are the sugar maple, which yields a fine sugar and from certain parts of which the fine wood called bird's-eye maple is taken; the scarlet flowering maple, frequently called the soft or swamp maple; the white or silver-leafed maple; the moose wood or striped maple; the black sugar tree of Genessee, and the ash-leafed maple. These are our principle native species. The flowers of the soft maple come out in April, while the branches are yet bare of leaves, and are pale in color. Its trunk is dark to a height of about 10 feet, and about that point the branches are of a light green color. Its leaves are of medium green in spring, and at the first approach of cold a bright yellow steals over them, followed by a deep golden tint, then a few faint flushes until at length the whole mass of foliage becomes ones blaze of crimson or orange.

—Referring to the buttonwood tree a contributor writes: "The plane, platanus, derives its name from the Greek word which signifies the broad, umbrageous nature of its branches. It was held in high esteem in Greece and Rome, and the academic groves which the Grecian philosophers taught their pupils were planted with these trees. It sometimes rises up 70 feet and expands into a fine, lofty head, surpassing in grandeur all its neighbors of the forest. Its blossoms are small greenish balls, appearing early in the spring, which sometimes grow an inch in diameter, assuming a deep brownish color, and hang upon the tree during the whole winter. The great merit of the plane is its vigor and luxuriance. In a good soil it will reach a height 35 or 45 feet in ten years. In lawns of new residences, bare of trees, where speedy effects are desired, there is hardly any other tree that will more quickly produce abundance of foliage, shelter and shade. The color of the foliage is a very pale green, and the leaves are large. In winter the branches are beautifully hung, even to there furthest ends, with the numerous seed balls, each suspended by a slender chord, and swinging in the air."

"I am glad to become acquainted with you, Mrs. Montooth," said the lady, somewhat embarrassed, to the neighbor who had called on her for the first time. "How is Mr. Montooth and how are all the little Misses Monteeth?

CHAPTER X.

Touch the chords gently—
Those strings are heart-strings, and the sounds they utter—
Be silent when you hear them—are the groanings
Of uttermost pain, the sighings of great sorrow,
Voices from out the depths.
—Anon.

About twelve or thirteen years before the date of our last chapters, a young man from Glasgow, with his wife and one child, came as lodgers to a humble road side cottage not far from the town of Fendie, and very near the water-side. Walter Buchanan was an invalid. A delicate, sensitive man by nature, whose fine nervous organization was of that kind which is akin to weakness and not to strength—for there are both varieties—his health had been broken by the confinement and harassing labor of his vocation as a clerk in a mercantile office. His wife had a little portion, a very little one, which nevertheless to their inexperienced eyes seemed able to last long and accomplish much; so on the strength of it, and in obedience to the doctor's peremptory order, that he should have rest and country air, Walter gave up his situation, and the young couple began to make the dangerous experiment of living upon their little capital. The gentle poetic man had been charmed in his early days, in some chance visit to the neighborhood, by the stately water and pretty town of Fendie, and the pleasant remembrance decided their new habitation.

These rash, youthful folk were more fortunate than prudent people might think they deserved. They excited the interest and kindly sympathy of Mrs. Oswald, the banker's wife, and through her, of her sterner husband; so that when the pleasant summer air had done its gentle spiriting on the wan cheek of Walter Buchanan, and he felthimself able to work again—which was happily before his wife's little portion was altogether exhausted—he was received into the bank as Mr. Oswald's clerk.

To be called "of the bank," in a country town in Scotland, is a matter of considerable dignity, and the salary, if small, was enough for their limited expenses. The Oswalds were kind and neighborly; other friends gathered about the gentle couple; and as they stood in their own garden beneath the heavy branches of their own fruit trees, in those serene autumnal evenings, watching the sun go down gloriously behind the dark crest of yonder hill, they were wont to render quiet thanksgiving out of full hearts.

This pleasant life continued through the happy years, and in its placid course the delicate man seemed strengthened in mind no less than in body. His nervous melancholy glided away into graceful mists of pensive thought. The nervous impatience and irritability, which it had once cost him so much pains to subdue, were soothed and softened. He became, mentally no less than physically, as it seemed, a more healthful and stronger man.

At the end of the ten years his position was changed. They had saved enough to raise their little capital to a larger amount than the original sum on which their inexperience had braved the evils of the world. This was invested in the purchase of bank shares, and Walter Buchanan, a clerk no longer, became Mr. Oswald's partner in the agency of the bank.

An unhappy change. The one peculiar, distinguishing feature of the Scottish banking system, over which our economists boast themselves, became a source of constant torment to Walter Buchanan. The quick and prompt decisions of Oswald, in which he could not join, made him feel his own weaker will overborne and set aside. A hundred "peculiar cases," and "very peculiar cases," in which the clear, acute mind of the banker could see no peculiarity at all, troubled the midnight rest of his nervous and tender hearted partner. That this struggling man whose security was dubious, or that hapless farmer wading knee-deep in difficulties, whose cash account was already overdrawn, and who wanted more, should be dealt with summarily, was clear to Oswald's steady eye; but was enveloped in painful mists of distress and perplexity to Walter Buchanan, himself acquainted with all the restless shifts and expedients of the struggling poor.

His feelings became morbid again under that exercise. He imagined himself ill-used, despised, trampled upon, when the finer points of his compassionate and impulsive benevolence came into collision with the strong sense and energy of his partner, who in his turn grew impatient of the sentiment which he thought sickly, and the tenderness which he called weak. There was a rupture at last. A struggling man with dubious security came to Buchanan when Oswald was absent from Fendie. The sensitive man of feeling forgot prudence in compassion, and by his ill-judged acceptance of the uncertain "cautioner," brought serious loss to the bank. Oswald returned; there were sharp and high words spoken by both, which neither, in less excited mood, would have given utterance to; and in a storm of bitter anger and wounded to the very heart, Walter Buchanan threw up his situation, dissolved his partnership with Oswald, and left the bank.

Very soon to leave the world; for, before the winter was over, his course had ended. He could not bear such tempests of excitement, for pain to him was agony, and anger madness. So in his weakness he died, and left his gentle widow and his young daughter to fight with the world alone.

Helen Buchanan was only sixteen. She had a fair proportion of what people call accomplishments, and might almost have been a governess in a boarding-school or a "gentleman's family;" and beneath the accomplishments there was a sound substratum of education, and a mind matured too early for her own happiness. Fendie was abundantly supplied with ladies' schools; so Helen in her flush of youthful pride and independence, determined to offer her services to the humbler mothers, and to receive as her pupils not the young ladies, but the little girls of Fendie.

Mrs. Buchanan reluctantly acquiesced. She was a gentle, hopeful woman, accustomed to yield always to the quick impulses and keen feelings of her husband, and now rendering a kindred submission to her daughter. Helen was a very dutiful, very loving child, but her mother's cheerful, patient nature was made to be thus influenced, and unconsciously and involuntarily the stronger spirit bore the mastery.

So when the first pangs of their grief were over, Mrs. Buchanan regretfully removed her substantial furniture from the dining-room, of which she had been once so proud, and with many sighs saw her little maid-servant arrange in it the bare benches and large work table which befitted its new character of schoolroom; and the youthful teacher began her labors.

These had gone on successfully four or five years before the pleasant April-tide on which Hope Oswald returned home; eventful years to Helen. It is not well to leave the unconscious happiness of girlhood too soon, even to enter upon the enchanted ground of youth. Toil, poverty, and William Oswald; the three together were well-nigh too many for the youthful champion who had to struggle, single-handed against them all.

In the twilight of that April evening she sat in her little parlor alone. The faint firelight gave a wavering flush to the shadowy air of the holy time; and Helen sat in the recess of the window, wandering through the mazes of such a reverie, as belongs especially to her peculiar temperament and mind. For those delicate lines in her face, those continually moving features, those slight stars now and then, and altogether the elastic impulsive energy and life which you could perceive in her figure even in its repose, testified her inheritance of the constitution of her father. With one difference. His nervous, sensitive, temperament was akin to weakness; hers, with all its expressive grace, its swift instinctive feelings, its constant life and motion, was strong—strong to endure, although its pain was sorer a thousand times than that of more passive natures—strong to struggle—mighty to enjoy.

How a Kansas City Man Kept His Young Daughter at Home.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 31.—Agent Marran, of the Humane Society, found a young married woman undergoing novel punishment at the home of her father. Though only 17 years old she eloped and married an aged man, with whom she lived only two weeks. She now has a petition for divorce pending in court, and not long ago she left the home of her father and, it is alleged, went among dissolute people. Her father found her Tuesday night and took her to her old home near the corner of Fifteenth and Campbell streets, and padlocked a five-pound hitching weight to her ankle by a chain. When found she was wearing the weight, but made no complaint and so Marran left her.

A couple of weeks ago Herbert Baskerville, a young man about 21 years of age, living at Strathroy, had his right hand injured in a planing machine in R. Nicholson's factory. Dr. W. W. Hoare dressed the wounds and found it necessary to amputate the first two fingers at the first joint and all of the fourth finger. CAUGHT AT LAST.

The Bogus Check "Priest" Captured in Michigan.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., July 31.—The bogus priest who has been operating the forged checks all over the country has been caught here, and is now locked up at the police station. There is no doubt whatever that he is the man, for he has practically confessed, and he proves to be either a very slick crook or the biggest kind of a fool.

The bogus priest was first heard of here from Windsor, Ont., and then from Sarnia, Ont., where he had been passing as a minister. Next he was heard from at Muskegon, where he successfully passed himself off as Rev. Father Foley, of Lansing, and succeeded in getting several checks cashed. At Muskegon he also represented himself as a priest of a church at Greenville.

He expressed great sorrow for his relatives, but refused to state where they are. He is rather a heavy man, and about 38 years old. His indentification by all the merchants whom he visited was complete, and two checks for $45, one payable to Rev. Father Foley, and the other to Rev. Father Kelly, were found in his pockets. He was completely broken up by the arrest, and admitted that he was the man.

We have no hesitation in saying that Dr. J. D. HOG CHOLERA.

A Meeting in the City of Those Interested—The Minister to be Consulted.

The consideration of the supposed hog cholera epidemic was the purpose of a meeting of prominent agriculturists in the city Saturday. Discussion took place as to the best means of stamping out the disease.

Mr. W. H. Whyte, of Mitchell, chairman, thought that when contagion was found in an animal it should be destroyed and the carcass burned. Dr. Wilson, V.S., said the Department of Agriculture would reimburse the owner of such an animal one-third for its destruction. Dr. O'Neill thought the Minister of Agriculture might allow the inspectors to act without the delay of a conference.

It was decided to ask the Minister of Agriculture to meet them in London on Aug. 10 and 11, the dates of the Veterinary Medical Association meeting; or on as early a day as possible if that would not suit his convenience.

The following committee was appointed to meet with the Minister of Agriculture here: William Gillard, Stratford; John White, Mitchell; William Pridham, M.P., Russeldale; W. Bogart, Chatham; John A. Leitch, Glencoe; Daniel Regan, St. Thomas; Dr. O'Neil, London; G. I. Walker, Aylmer; Thos. Shaw, Guelph; and Ross and Scott, Tilsonburg.

The following gentlemen were present at the meeting: A. F. McLaren, J. S. Pearce, R. M. Ballantyne, J. H. Thomas, Wm. Pridham, M.P., Dr. Wilson, V.S., J. A. Leitch, O. J. White, J. Hutchinson, Dr. O'Neil, Hugh Munroe, Robert Moore, John Geary, John Bedgeman and John Whyte.

Liver Complaint, Kidney, Debility and Female Weakness All Cured.

LONDON, June 29 1880.

For some time I was a sufferer of liver complaint, affections of the kidneys, debility and female weakness; also with pain in the side, between the shoulders and underneath the shoulder blades, and much weakness in the back and distress across my body, and much sinking down of the system. Through persuasion I tried Williams' Royal Crown Remedy, and have derived great benefit from its use; in fact I am feeling better at present than I have for a number of years. I can with pleasure recommend it, and I would induce any one who is afflicted to get it without delay MRS. E. GREEN.

The Poultry Yard.

—Kerosene oil rightly applied to the henery will send the mites to their long home.

—When poultry becomes a nuisance on the farm by scratching in the garden, eating the strawberries, etc., there is a reason for it and a cure. The reason is your hens are too old, they have learned too much, they know where the strawberries grow and are on the lookout for the first one that ripens, and will find out what is in the bottom of every hill you plant. The older they get the wiser they grow. The cure is to raise enough pullets each year so you can kill off the old hens in the fall. The pullets will lay much better, and your gardens will not be spoiled.

The Queen's Highway.

One morning, on the way to Exeter, in England, writes Wandering Wakeman, alongside those hugh carts which bowled along under their great loads as easily as over a cathedral floor, and in a thousand other places on the highways of England, Ireland and Scotland, I have inexpressibly longed for the power to bodily transfer some of those grand old roads to America; to make American millionaires, who may still have American pride left in them, see their beauty, magnificence and utility beyond those of all things money and patriotism can give to communities; and to compel American farmers to know what might be the matchless independence of their lives and living with these perfect defenses for their toil and homes and granaries against most of the monopolistic "corner" abominations of our land.

In five years' time I have tramped along 3,000 miles of British roads. Each time I step my feet upon their broad, firm even surface every drop of American blood in me tinges with shame at the thought of the mud pikes and bottomless road sloughs of our own splendid country, rich, great and strong enough to match the roads of Europe without a week's delay. And yet for five months of every year, and in a lesser degree for the other seven, half of the people of our farming communities are imprisoned and impoverished hopelessly at home. As one result the people of the whole country pay, in an indirect road tax, through annual sharp advances in the food necessities of life, all of which the farmers lose, a sum each year enormous enough to maintain as superb roads as England anywhere possesses, around every section of cultivable land in the entire United States.

There is not a British, or for that matter a European, stone road in existence that was not originally at once constructed to absolute completion, whenever begun and however long it may have been maintained. And, with European governmental and social conditions inconceivably hard upon peasant populations, wherever these roads exist the condition of the people is incomparably more happy and prosperous than where they do not; while land values have invariably been increased from 100 to 1,000 per cent.

Not so many years ago Austria built nearly 2,000 miles of stone highway up and down and from end to end of Galicia, or Austrian Poland. Previous to that time, materially, a no more wretched, Godforsaken land existed on the face of the earth. What was the result? In less than ten years' time these roads did more for the 6,000,000 people of Austrian Poland in material and social advancement than all the churches, all the books, all the newspapers, all the battles, all the railroads and all the governments had ever accomplished for them from the days of Mieczyslaw and Boleslas to the day these roads were done.

Confirmed.

The favorable impression produced on the first appearance of the agreeable liquid fruit remedy Syrup of Figs a few years ago has been more than confirmed by the pleasant experience of all who have used it and the success of the proprietors and manufacturers, the California Fig Company.

A captain of militia is known by the company he keeps.

Lord Randolph Churchill is referred to nowadays in England as "a man with a brilliant future behind him."

Mr. Job Scales, of Toronto, writes: "A short time ago I was suffering from Kidney Complaint and Dyspepsia, sour stomach and lame back; in fact, I was completely prostrated and suffering intense pain. While in this state a friend recommended me to try a bottle of Northrup and Lyman's Vegetable Discovery. I used one bottle, and the permanent manner in which it has cured and made a new man of me is such that I cannot withhold from the proprietors this expression of my gratitude."
