LIBERAL PROSPECTS LOOMING UP. LONDON, Feb. 17 .- It is understood that the Liberals will probably win the bye-elections at Colchester next Tuesday, and the prospect of this gain has its inspiriting value, but more of the restored epirits of the Government party is perhaps due to palpable signs of demoralization among their opponents. It is now to have been a tactical error for the Tories and Unionists to avow publicly their alliance with the Parnellites, even on the solitary point of trying to turn the Ministry out. There is already great grumbling from country squiredom, which wants no dealing with the Irish of any kind, least of all with the extreme hillside faction; and Sir Stafford Nor theote, in openly revolting from their partnership, has revived hopes of plain, old-fashioned Torvism along with memories of his father which may exert an influence on internal Conservative politics that was quite unlooked for.

Then Chamberlain is greatly overplaying his self-selected role and making the rank and file of the Tories very tired. They have fallen to staring at him in tight-lipped silence when he speaks, and outside in the lobbies they are no longer careful to dis-

A UNIONIST BLUNDER.

The New York World's London special says Lord Rosebery's Government has survived the initial perils of this session of Parliament, and barring accidents, his st through the spring. The Unionists committed a bad blunder in joining hands with the Redmondites, as the impression has been created in the country that a secret treaty exists between Redmond and the Unionist leaders. There is none, however, If Redmond brings the Unionists back to Parliament, they will return absolutely unpledged to any reform for Ireland. Mr. Balfour has even refused to entertain a proposal that he promise not to revive coercion in Ireland if he gets back to

The efforts of the Redmondites to de. feat the Government are purely factious. They will lose three seats at the next election and will have only six members in the next Parliament.

A dispatch from Shanghai to the Pall Mail Gazette says it is asserted that England and Russia have offered to mediate between China and Japan.

It is reported in Shanghai that the Foreign Ministers in Pekin have ordered the legation guards, composed of sailors and marines from the various warships attached to the Chinese stations, to report to the respective lega-tions in Pekin at once. These guards have been awaiting orders in Tien Tsin for some time past. It is reported in Che Foo that the Japanese have granted freedom to all foreigners of Wei Hai Wei, except the American, Wm. Howie, who was ar-rested by the Japanese at Kobi on the steamer Sydney in November last in consequence of the discovery in conection with a Chinese plot to blow up the Japanese fleet. Howie was subsequent-ly released on parole and went to Wei Hai Wei, where he was engaged in the work of preparing explosives with which to carry out his scheme of de-stroying the Japanese fleet.

ROSEBERY'S GOVERNMENT SAFE. LONDON, Feb. 17.-The debate on the amendment which Mr. Chamberlain introduced in the House of Commons scoring the Government for frittering away the time of Parliament in the consideration of measures which the Ministry has no expectation of passing, while other vitally important matters requiring the immediate attention of the House as affecting the whole country are thrust in the background, has lost its practical interest in view of the fact that the virtually fixed majority of the Gevernment in the House is now about 18. The Ministerialists feel assured that if an unceasing watch is kept upon the rank and file to guard against surprise divisions a business session can be proceeded with until the anti-Lords resolution shall wind up the present Parliament. The position of the Government, too, may be further strengthened by the Parnellite vote if the Irish Land Bill shall be in any degree satisfactory. Apart from the grudging support which has been given by the Parnellites to the Opposition, the appeal of Archbishops Croker and Walsh for unity on the part of the Irish party against the common political foe has influenced the Parnellite faction to a feudal spirit, which certainly must induce them to forget their local griev-ances and rally in support of the main wing of the party. The anti-Parnellites semble their restiveness under his self- are also modifying their methods, as instanced in a meeting held Friday, at which a vote of condolence with the family of the late Eugene Kelly was passed. This action showed conclusively that there was a growing feeling of harmony among members of the factions of the Irish party, and the subsequent cordial conversation of the leadg, as well as the minor, member the respective groups attested the establishment of a better feeling, if not absolute entente.

> SUFFERING FROM THE COLD. LONDON, Feb. 17 .- The continued cold weather in Great Britain is having a most serious effect in all parts of the country. One distressing feature of the situation is that fully two-thirds of the houses in London are without their usual water supply in consequence of the freezing of the water. Elizabeth Harvey, a woman of 73 years of age, was frozen to death in her bed in the bare, miserable little room in which she lived in London. Her sole income was 62 cents a week, allowed by the overseers of the poor. Rent took 37 cents of that, and she had managed to exist until now on 25 cents a week for food, fuel and clothing. There are many thousand Elizabeth Hareys in England to whom the great frost thus far has been less kind. Reports of the suffering in the northern cities are even worse, for the cold there has been much more severe. Thus, in Glasgow alone, 40,000 men are idle and destitute. The police are almost unable to cope with the great throngs of famishing women and children who clamor for food at the soup kitchens and other places where a partial supply is obtainable. The starving multitudes in Liverpool are even greater, and pitiful scenes occur daily at the places, where most inade-quate attempts are made to distribute small supplies of food. The Socialists have opened soup kitchens there.

JESSIE KEITH'S MURDERER

To Be Tried at Stratford on March 26-The Prisoner's Conduct.

Ever since his incarceration in the jail here the utmost secrecy as to Chattelle's doings has been maintained and no one has been permitted to see him excepting by order of the sheriff. Newspaper men have been rigorously excluded. There has really been nothing to say about Chattelle, however, for since his imprisonment he has conducted himself in the most ordinary manner, and has done nothing but eat his three meals a day and sleep at night, as though there was nothing on his mind. He has enjoyed good health all along, and the other day, speaking of himself, said he had never enjoyed better health than at the present time. Chattelle never discusses the crime with which he is charged, and until recently gave no evidence that he ever gave the matter a thought. Of late, however, though he says nothing, his actions show that he is beginning to feen his position.

So far as known, no one has been engaged to defend Chattelle, and it is understood he will plead guilty to the charge.-Stratford Herald.

The meeting was called to discuss the Manitoba school question. It was decided to hear the appeal of the Roman Catholic minority, and steps will be at once taken to begin the hearing.

(United Press Dispatch.) OTTAWA, Feb. 17 .- A four hours' ession of the Dominion Cabinet was held yesterday, every Minister being present. Contrary to general expectations, no announcement was made respecting a session or dissolution. the Government will then announce its ESSEX LIBERALS NOMINATE WM. McGREGOR, M.P.

WINDSOR, Feb. 17 .- The Liberal convention for the north riding of Essex was held here yesterday afternoon to choose a candidate for the Dominion elections, resulting in the unanimous choice of Wm. McGregor, M.P.

NOVA SCOTIA PROHIBITIONISTS. BRIDGETOWN, N. S., Feb. 17.-At large meeting of the representative temperance men of the county of Annapolis, held at Lawrencetown, it was unanimously agreed that the next representative of the county in the Federal House must be a pledged prohibitionist, and the following pledge was signed by 28 of the most prominent men of the county of both political parties, and is to be circulated through the county for the signature of the electors: pledge ourselves to support such candidates, and such only as will openly pledge themselves, both on the hustings and through the press of this county, to give in case they are elected their hearty and sincere support to the immediate enactment of a prohibitory liquor law for the Dominion, and who will promise to do this irrespective of party.'

GRENVILLE LIBERALS. PRESCOTT, Feb. 17.-At the Liberal convention held here yesterday, John Carruthers, of this town, was the unanimous choice of the convention, and will be the standard-bearer of the Liberals in South Grenville. A hearty vote of confidence in the Hon. Wilfrid Laurier was unanimously adopted.

NOMINATION OF MR. TARTE. MONTREAL, Que., Feb. 17 .- At a convention of the Liberals of Laval county, held yesterday, Mr. J. I. Tarte, M. A political club is being formed in Quebec by English-speaking Liberals. A. C. Dewar, Dominion P. P. A. candidate for West Lambton, has not definitely decided to stand.

only 34. The executive committee of the West Lambton Association has issued a call for a convention to be held in the town hall, Sarnia, at 1 p.m. on Thursday, Feb. 28, to nominate a candidate to represent the riding in the Dominion Parliament. Sir Richard Cartwright and Hon. David Mills are announced to speak at this meeting.

Mr. J. L. Wilson, Wilsoncroft, East Lambton's P. P. A. candidate, is said to have been offered the postmastership of Petrolea if he will pull out .- Sarnia Post. Verily this will be news to most of Petrolea people, the general impression being that we already have a postmaster in Petrolea, and will have a Liberal representative in the Dominion House after next election.—Petrolea Topic.

Sir Richard Cartwright spent yesterday in Ingersoll, returning to Toronto in the evening. While there he received personal assurances from the leading supporters of Mr. Janes at the convention that now they will support him heartily as the Liberal nominee. Such cordial acquiescence in the action of the majority is as creditable to the gentleman referred to as it must be pleasing to Sir Richard. It insures a united party and a vigorous campaign should the Conservatives bring out a candidate—which, it is said, they are considering this week. — Woodstock Sentinel-Review.

SKATERS' NARROW ESCAPE.

Eighteen Men and Boys Were Rescued by a Duck Hunter. CHICAGO, Feb. 17 .- Eighteen young men and boys had a narrow escape from being carried out into the open lake on an ice flow yesterday afternoon. They had skated out to the four-mile crib, and when they were making the return trip they found that the ice had parted and they were being carried out into the lake. The crib-keeper saw the trouble and at once telephoned to the city for a tug, which was instantly started out. Before it was out of the river, however, all of the eighteen had been rescued by Henry Tagg, a hunter, who was in a small row boat looking for ducks. The ice had parted close to the Government pier, which is about a mile from shore, and forms the outer edge of the harbor. Tagg, seeing the ice part, quickly brought his boat between the pier and the ice floe upon which the men were drifting out. In three trips he landed them all in safety on the pier.

NEW CURE FOR INDIGESTION.

A Chicago paper says that a smooth stranger recently placed a number of nickel-in-the-slot machines in the town of Evanston. The machines bore the following inscription. THE GREATEST KNOWN AID

Drop a Nickel in the Slot. PUSH, THEN PULL.

At the top of the machine was a handle to be pushed, then pulled, and many townspeople who could not resist the temptation of some new device. dropped in their nickel and took a push and a pull out of the machine. But that was all. No result followed and there was some talk of blowing open the hoarded treasure. At the end of the week the agent appeared, unlocked the machine, garnered the wealth and retired, after explaining that "exercise was the greatest thing for digestion in the world." The crowd was so paralyzed that the agent took the train with-

UNABLE TO WALK,

And Therefore the Queen Objected to Being Seen.

Her Arrival in London - Hidden Troops, But the Crowd Cheered Her.

London, Feb. 18.—The Queen arrived in London this afternoon. Her Majesty had requested that the strictest privacy be bserved in her reception, and at the Victoria Station she was kept in seclusion so absolute that empty trains were aligned along the platform so that persons on the other platforms could not see her alight. The reason for this extra ordinary privacy is that the rheumatism in her joints has so increased that the Queen is unable to walk. She was assisted from the car down an inclined platform, where she was placed in a chair and carried to her carriage. Her dislike of public observation was further evinced by the fact that a detachment of the Life Guards completely surrounded the carriage as it was driven to Buckingham Palace. In spite of all this Council. WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 18.—The second triennial of the National Council of Women of the United States began this morning. Mrs. May Wright Sewall, of Indianapolis, the president of the National Central Council, rapped for order. She looked down upon a representative gathering of women from every section of this country and a few from other countries, while the gallery above was crowded with an appreciative audience. Conspicious in the gathering, by reason of their prominence in women's work, were the Countess of Aberdeen, president of the International Council of Women; Lady H. Somerset; Miss F. E. Willard, of Illinois; president of the National W. C. T. U.; Mrs. Russell Sage, of New York; Mrs. Elizabeth, B. Grannis, of New York, president of the National Christian League for the Promotion of Social Purity, who recently attained some prominence in the metropolis by following in the footsteps of Dr. Parkhurst; Mrs. J. recent ecclesiastical reforms, arrived not only from societies and corporations, but from thousands of private individuals also. The enthusiasm and delight of the liberals has taken the shape of numerous loyal demonstrations throughout Hungary. Fetes by day and torchlight processions by night are the order of the hour, and a spirit of rejoicing and delight reigns throughout the nation. Only the ultra-montane press strikes a jarring note, but the ill-humor with the crown counts for little, and the Emperor-king, Francis Joseph, remains at this moment the most popular man in Europe.

four mules and one donkey. After being exhibited to the Sultan it is said the heads will be placed upon the city walls as proofs of the triumph and a warning to the insurgents. The rebel tribes in the south, though powerful and brave, are being rapidly brought under subjection.

TALL STORY FROM OKLAHOMA. Fish Blown from a River and Frozen in a Snowbank GUTHRIE, O. T., Feb. 18 .- During the past few days large quantities of fish have been marketed in this city by farmers and an inquiry as to where they secured them develops one of the most remarkable freaks of a storm on record. Near Perkins, 30 miles east of here, the Cimarron River runs east and west with a low bank on the south side. During the recent blizzard when the wind blew at a terrific gale great banks of snow were formed along the south bank of the river. Next the wind blew so hard that it lifted the waves of water out of the river and dashed them against the snowbanks. As they receded they left great big catfish sticking head first in the snowbank, where they froze and remained. After the storm the settlers chopped the out and drew them away by the wage load, many of the fish weighing twelve fifteen sunds on

AT THE OPERA HOUSE. It was a large and intelligent audience which greeted Dr. James Johnston at the men's meeting in the Grand Opera yesterday afternoon. The reverend gentleman has traveled widely through Africa and Jamaica, and has labored ardently and successfully in the missionary work in both places. He is a tall, well-built man, showing power of great endurance. He is also a brilliant speaker, and makes his hearers feel his power. Mr. Geo. A. McGillivray acted as chairman, and Mr. Appel, the evangelist, opened the service with prayer. A quartet, consisting of members of the orchestra, rendered "Remember Me, O, Mighty One," in a grand manner.

In opening, the speaker referred to the beautiful hymn, "Just as I am, Without One Plea," and said that it seemed to be the keynote to the solving of this great question of religion. He said that there were many men there, and, therefore, many minds. Me are free to elect whom we please as political and municipal representatives, but we cannot use our pet notions in the things of God. The difficulty in this country is that we know too much. He lived in a country where the people had not got to criticising the Bible yet. Everything we attempt fails if we take away the one grand idea of the justification with God through Christ.

Many people think a negro is simple. It would be a grand thing if some white men had his faith. Even though in sin and guilt, God loves everyone. God is not an angry judge, but a God of love. There are many kinds of religion. Some people have their religion in spasms. No man is so hard to argue with as one who is trusting in a false hope. If anyone is trying to pray himself into religion he had better stop at once, as that alone will do but little good.

MISSIONARY SUNDAY. The congregation of the Queen's Avenue Methodist Church took possession of Monday afternoon at the Centennial their temporary home, the Grand Opera House, for the first time yesterday. The services were such as are annually held in the cause of missions, and the day was called "missionary Sunday." In the morning Rev. John Philp, D.D., pastor of the Centenary Church, Hamilton, preached an able and eloquent sermon on the words: "And I, if I be lifted up from the earth will draw all men unto me." The house was well filled at this service, but the attendance was almost incomparable with that of the evening. The large building was then packed from pit to gallery. The boxes were filled, people sat on the aisle steps and stood around everywhere. The house has seldom contained such a crowd. Rev. W. F. Wilson, of Toronto, was the preacher, and his sermen will long linger in the minds of those who heard it. Mr. Wilson spoke on "Our Religion," and made a strong appeal, pregnant with good points, on behalf of the mission cause, and although the address was of an hour's duration, the hearers exhibited no lack of interest throughout. In a reference to the destruction of the two city churches, Mr. Wilson said it was almost worth a fire to bring out the brotherly love and sympathy which had been shown by the various denominations to the homeless worshipers. At both services the choir and orchestra, under Mr. Fetherston, rendered its usual valuable assistance. The collections were in aid of the missions.

aided in the REET METHODISTS. out congregation of the Church worshiped yes-Dundas on in the First Congreterday urch. The edifice is somenaller than the old church, and was crowded to the doors. The large choir especially was cribbed and confined in rather narrow quarters. The whole service was a singularly appropriate one, and the congregation joined heartily in singing the opening hymn; "My God, my Father, while I stray, Far from my home on life's rough way, Oh. teach me from my heart to say,

Thy will be done." Then came Mr. Lanceley's prayer. "Oh, Lord, we thank thee for friends," said he, "friends that have come to us in the darkest hours of our life; friends that have come to us in our homes when shadows have crossed the threshold; friends that came to us in the hour of our sorrow; friends that have come to us in the hour of our bereavement; friends that came to us in the hour of our sin, and pointed us to him who is our wisdom and righteousness, our sanctification and redemption. We thank thee for friends that have come to us in domestic troubles; friends that have encircled us in their arms in commercial trouble; friends that have taken us under their roof in ecclesiastical trouble." A prayer for the injured men and a thankful note that no lives had been lost and no one left homeless followed, and the preacher closed with a reassuring glimpse of the future of the church.

The refrain of the anthem was contained in the words; "God be Merciful Unto Us." Rev. W. F. Wilson, of the Trinity Methodist Church, Toronto, was no-ticed in the audience by Mr. Lanceley and invited to the pulpit seat. "Stand together," were the words of advice which he offered, "Stand together; trust which had been drawn into an de by the enemy, till it got the ship in safety.

the origin of the fire. I suppose neither do you. I only wish I did. But I said to my sexton, 'You be careful of our church,' and I said to our trustees, 'You but on most said to our trustees, 'You but on most said to our trustees,' put on more insurance on our church.'
This I know—that the insurance companies were reaping the benefit. These two fires should be voices speaking to every church in this Dominion, and out of your sorrow may come great and lasting good to many churches that might have gone as yours have gone. However, I notice that the judgments of the Lord are right, and whatever he has permitted he intends that from it shall come glory to him and to you."

Mr. Lanceley's sermon was preached Mr. Lanceley's sermon was preached from Ezra iii., 10 to 13. The verses of the text pictured the return of the Jews from captivity and the beginning of the rebuilding of the temple. It told of the laying of the corner stone, the shouts of joy of the young men and the tears of the old men who had seen the former temple. "Oh, brethren," said Mr. Lanceley, after an historical sketch of the period, "it is the old, old story over again—Whom the Lord loveth he chasteneth, and scourgeth every son whom he receiveth." He punishes to teach his children the heinousness of sin and to prepare them for higher usefulness. "Purified as by fire, the people of God are once more in the holy land." The pastor assured his people over again that God's presence was the assurance of final victory. God would give them of final victory. God would give them beauty for ashes, and the oil of joy for mourning, and the garment of praise for the spirit of heaviness. He drew attention to the readiness of the Jews to give all their means unto the Lord, even before they had homes built for themselves. They gave three score and a thousand drachms of gold, and 5,000 pounds of silver and 100 priests' gar-ments—equal to $500,000 among 50,000 people. And a poor and poverty-stricken people, fresh from captivity at that! What the church wanted also was willing workers. Many were willing to give but not to work. Hearts and hands were always worth more than gold or silver. He asked the Lord to hasten the day when there would be no idlers in his vineyard, and urged the brethren to dwell together in unity. Harmony should mark the acts of the official boards, and such should have due respect for the prerogatives of others. Self and selfish ends should vanish in the presence of the one important object—the glory of God and the upbuilding of his temple. The announcements intimated that a joint meeting of the trustee and quar-terly official boards would be held tonight at the parsonage to discuss plans. You are a loyal people, and you have an enviable reputation all through the west as being loyal to your own church. Let that reputation be well sustained. Don't drift."

He then explained that a congregational meeting was called for Thurday night to talk over arrangements for meeting the present emergency. Every member of the congregation was urged to attend. The service then closed, the congregation singing heartily:

AN EARLY LONDONER'S GOOD WORK.

Mr. John C. Appel, of Portland, Ore., and Mr. Anderson, a sweet singer from the Moody Institute, Chicago, opened a series of evangelistic services in this city on Saturday. In the afternon and evening large crowds gathered in the City Hall to hear the truth as expounded by the former.. Mr. Appel is a comparatively young man and the possessor of a powerful voice. He entirely lacks the passionate manner of the average evangelist, and appeals to his hearers in a tender yet firm manner. The result of the two meetings was a number of professed conversions, and still greater results are expected next week, when meetings will be held in the Mechanics Institute, and at which Rev. Arthur Murphy, Ingersoll, and Conductor Snider are expected to assist. In Mr. Anderson Mr. Appel has an able assistant. His voice is a rich tenor, and his songs are very pleasing.

Mr. Appel, it may be stated, is a former Londoner, and has many friends in the city. He was one of the "jolly good fellows," and became very popular. He was a slave to drink for many years, and after leaving London went west. One evening he was attracted by the services in the Gospel Union Mission, at Los Angeles, Cal., where Major George A. Hilton was superintendent, and he entered. It seemed to him —so he afterward said—that every word uttered by the speaker was meant for him personally. The theme was the old story of the Prodigal Son, and when the speaker concluded the poor drunk-ard's heart cried out, "I will arise and go to my father." In that hall he made a complete surrender of his life to Christ and asked for divine help and grace to consecrate the remainder of his days to Christian service. The transformation from the weak, vacillating inebriate, with no thought and will of his own and no hope of heaven in his heart, to the patient seeker after righteousness and the new life, was complete. He shortly afterward went to Chicago and took a regular course of training at the Moody Institute in that city, as a means of preparing for the mission work on which he intended to enter. This finished, he at once began active service in the field, holding meetings at dietar ent places in Michigan. He aftergrd went to Portland, Ore., and foundedhe Portland mission, and few Ameran cities have passed through a mor remarkable spiritual experience in a ery brief period than Portland since Mr. Appel took hold of the work there i the old People's Theater.

Debs Confident the Conspiracy Trial Will Not Be Resumed.

Good News for Many Port Huron Railroad Empioyes.

PORT HURON, Mich., Feb. 17 .- The hearts of the employes of the railroad shops in this city were gladdened yesterday by the announcement that the shops in the northern part of the city would begin runaing on a nine-hour schedule and six days a week on Monday. For nearly a year past the men have been putting in but 28 hours a week, and the change is hailed with joy. TERRE HAUTE, Ind., Feb. 17 .- "The adourned conspiracy trial at Chicago will never be resumed; it will die out," said Eugene V. Debs, president of the A. R. U. "While confined in the Woodstock jail I said I would stake my head no jury would convict me and my colleagues. The statement has been as good as proven true, as a result of the recent three days I was in court at Chicago. That adjourned trial will never be continued; I will never be put on the stand again in that case. I want a trial, but the General Managers' Association has connived to have it killed. We had the jury with us unanimously, and had them completely knocked out. Mr. Wickes went to Europe to escape the trial. I will tell the people of Chicago a few things on Thursday evening, Feb. 28, when I will speak at the Auditorium on 'Who are the conspitators?' Though almost every high tax journal in the country asserted that the date of the dissolution or the date of Parliament opening would be settled on Saturday, the reply of Premier Bowell, at the close of a six hours' session of the Cabinet, was, "We have nothing to say." They stand shivering and shaking, afraid, apparently, to take the leap either way. It seems, though, that the men in power dare not face Parliament again, with the necessity for imposing increased taxes and for settling other ugly questions. They will go to the country at the earliest possible moment. Let no one have any doubts on that score. There will be a general election

-A recent reference to the passing around of the hat among the Montreal high tax beneficiaries was inadvertently credited to the Hamilton Herald. It appeared in the Montreal paper of that name.

-Those glib Canadian editors who prophesied that the Liberal Government of Great Britain would fall within a week after Parliament met have revised their verdict. Lord Rosebery is not to be discomfited by prophets of the El Mahdi type.

"Unless" President Cleveland is reported to have said the other day, "we are prepared to enter upon a policy in violation of our rule and of international law, and utterly unjustifiable, it should be kept in view that Hawaii is entirely independent of us, and in her relations with us is a foreign country." Yes, Hawaii is a republic, and means to paddle her own cance. If the spirit of faction can be kept under, there should be a bright future for a nation situated as are these islands.

-"Disloyalty," according to the dictionary specially gotten up for the use of high tax campaign orators, is "opposition to the men now in office at Ottawa." Dreadful to contemplate! And all who are opposed to present men and present methods at Ottawa must be got rid of by ballots or by bullets, says Mr. Patterson, the high tax war What a sanguinary fellow the represents himself to be. -Lord Lansdowne, formerly Governor-General of Canada, in a recent speech in England, spoke deprecatingly of Senates made up like that at Ottawa. He saw a good deal of the second chamber, he said, while in Canada, and he had no hesitation in affirming that the House of Lords occupied a better position in the confidence of the English people than the Senate did in the confidence of the people of Canada. After all, however, this compliment to the Lords may be left-handed. The Senate at Ottawa, as now constituted, is a useless and expensive barnacle.

-Not soon will electricity be applied to long distance railroading. This is the verdict of an expert who writes in this month's Lippincott. "Though there has been much speculative planning of long line electric roads for freight and passengers," he says, "none but enthusiasts will assert that the time for this change in the form of traction has come, or is ever likely to come, except in a few instances, such as the straight line road between Chicago and St. Louis, a distance of 256 miles. This road, if any, should meet with success in its plan of operating on the electric system; for it has an almost level plain for its entire course, while at a convenient distance from one end is a waterfall, and at a similar distance from the other is a coal mine, in both of which the road company has secured controlling interests. The field of the electric locomotive appears to be railroad yards, factory premises, short branches and lines, and mines-having in the latter advantages which will doubtless ere long render it the exclusive system in such situations."

GOOD MEN FOR QUEBEC. The Liberals are bringing out some strong French-Canadian candidates. Mr. Joly was one, and now Mr. C. A. Geoffrion, Q.C., nominated in Chambly, is another who for ability would rank with the leading men in Parliament. People have been wondering where Mr. Laurier, if he happens to win, would carried off as placed capable Ministers from for Quebec. It looks as though the problem may be serpent column.

low temperature of the last few days in Great Britain has caused a practical standstill of all horse-training operations and hunting during the last six weeks. A number of important race meetings, including the big military steeplechase at Sandown Park, fixed for Friday, and the Manchester February meeting, had to be entirely abandoned. An extraordinary scene was witnessed on Wednesday last in front of the Mansion House, the official residence of the Lord Mayor, in connection with the intensely cold weather. A large number of persons gathered there in consequence of the circulation of a false report that the Lord Mayor had issued a proclamation warning the citizens of London of the approach of a furious blizzard, which would impede all traffic and cause a cessation of business. It was also reorted that the proclamation urged the people to provide themselves with a full stock of provisions for three days in order to be prepared for any emerg-ency, and also warned all citizens to be within the doors of their residences before midnight on Thursday in order to escape being overtaken by the elements. Skaters, however, in England have never had such an excellent opportunity for indulging in sport on the ice, and the lakes and ponds, all of which are frozer, over, are crowded day and night.

Society interest has centered in the Dutch skating parties, which have been held on the lakes in Buckingham Palace gardens, and all which the Prince of Wales and his unmarried daughters, the Princess Victoria and Maud, the Duke and Duchess of York, Prince Henry of York, Prince Henry of Pless, who is a beautiful skater; Lord Marcus Beresford, Sir Francis Edmund, George Astley-Corbett, son of the Prince of Wales' friend, the late Sir John Dugdale Astley, the noted patron of sports, and numbers of other prominent persons were in attendance. Hockey matches on the ice, beginning at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, and lasting until 5 o'clock, when tea and other hot drinks were served, have been the features of these parties. The most not-able match was played on Thursday afternoon between teams captained by the Prince of Wales and Francis Mildmay, M.P., the side captained by the Prince of Wales winning by a score of 8 to 5. On this occasion the Princess of Wales was also present and took great ies and their party paid no heed whatever to the intensely cold weather which prevailed, the mercury being 4 degrees below zero. The Queen, who is coming to London to-day from the Isle of Wight, has issued orders that certain members of her court shall be invited to witness the sports on the Buckingham Palace gardens lake and has announced that she herself intends to witness them.

ANOTHER RAILWAY PROJECT. There is another project of carrying a branch of the Trans-Siberian to the Murman coast. This will link the Pacific with the Polar Sea at a point where it is open for nearly the whole year. The heaviest trade would then be inevitably secured and largely developed, and there is plenty of room for development, when one considers that the population of China, Japan and Corea taken together numbers 400,-The immense possibilities connected with this route are also attracting much attention from the commercial papers of England. Not only is the internal trade of Siberia concerned, but it is predicted that there will be a great struggle for the valuable trade of the far east between England and Russia. This fact naturally brings into prominence the presence of a large Russian and English fleet in Chinese waters. According to some of the quidnuncs of the diplomatic world, neither Russia nor England intends to lose a point in the settlement of the eastern Russia has the success of her great railway at stake, and England still wants to maintain the supremacy of the Lancashire manufacturers. It

A number of English and continental artists have been interviewed on the subject. John L. Toole said: "I have kissed so many ladies in my time, but I cannot understand the objection raised to the custom in Vienna." The Maude Millet said: "I have no opinion to offer. One always looks upon it as written in one's part. It has never occurred to me to give much attention to the subject. Miss Fannie Brough said: "Stage kissing is purely mechanical. It is just part of the art, and it would be ridiculous not to be as real and natural about kissing as the circumstances of the character demand. With a jealous wife or husband, though, the position is indeed terrible. It is part of our business, but is not a part that needs rehearsing; we always leave it out then." Louis Waller "There would be no life in act-

has been suggested in more than one quarter that these two nations have not only arrived at a political approach-ment, but that they will go cheek by

The excavators who have been working on the actual site of the Temple of Apollo have not been encouraged by the results of their labors so far. The terrace in which the temple stood nas been almost completely cleared, and on the west side the workmen have dug down to the living rock, with the melancholy result that no really characteristic fragment of architecture has been found, and not so much as a little finger of the sculpture of either frieze, metope or pediment secured. The heads of the horses found, which it was hoped belonged to the chariot days of Helios, have now been fitted to the bodies of horses which formed part of the chariot groups of Ammon or Baltos men-tioned by Pausanius. The conclusion is almost inevitable. But these temple sculptures from which it was hoped to learn so much have been systematically carried off as plunder, possibly by Constantine when he took away the great

Aside from the suffering involved, the the number of columns and the length of the intercolumnial spaces cannot as yet be determined. The only hope remaining is at the north angle of the temple, which has not yet been completely dug out. One satisfactory discovery has, however, been made. In the middle of the temple pavement a deep depression is to be seen, the walls of which are carefully worked. The hole is at present filled with a mass of miscellaneous remains, inscriptions, verses, fragments of statues, and its clearing away may solve many a question. A CLUB BLACK-BALLING. The Prince of Wales' set has been greatly agitated this week by the refusal of the Marlborough Club to elect Mr. Belt, the South African millionaire, and partner of Rhodes in the De Beers mines, a member. This is the favorite club of the prince, and no candidate is proposed for election unless it has been ascertained whether the prince has any objection to him. Mr. Belt was proposed by the Duke of Fife, and his election was considered a matter of course. But the ballot revealed quite an unusual number of black balls, which, according to club gossip, were not east so much against Mr. Belt as against his proposer. The duke has put on great airs since his marriage, and is consequently the reverse of popular. When the prince heard of the affair he offered to have Mr. Belt nominated again imnediately, but that individual wisely declined a repetition of the ordeal.

A RIVAL TO THE C. P. R. Reports from Russia show that the Czar is taking active interest in the trans-Siberian Railway. Several of the Moscow and St. Petersburg journals have given considerable space to the subject this week, and have shown the vast importance of this enterprise not only in Russia, but to the various commercial nations of the world. A through train from Moscow to Vladivostock running at 30 miles an hour, will complete the journey in eleven days. By the service contemplated from London to Moscow the traveler or the mail bag will be able to reach Japan in sixteen days. The shortest route at present existing, that across the Atlantic, Canada and the Pacific, occupies 28 days to Japan, and 31 days to China. These figures speak for themselves. The trans-Siberian is the only possible mail route between Europe and Australia. That is, provided the calculations of the engineers, which seem plausible enough, work out well in practice, and that a regular uninterrupted train service carries mails and passengers to the Pacific in eleven days.

game. The royal lad- THRILLING STORY OF HEROISM. A thrilling story of German heroism at sea, which goes far to offset some of the reports regarding the loss of the Elbe, comes from Schleswig-Holstein. One stormy night last week a fishing village was awakened by a gunshot off the coast. Hastening to the beech, the people saw a ship wrecked on a reef a mile away. The crew were in the rigging. A lifeboat was run out, but Haro, the leader of the crew, was absent. Eight men, however, rowed out to the wreck. The crew were got into the life boat, with the exception of one who was ashed high up on a mast. He was half frozen, and as the storm was increasing and the lifeboat overloaded it was decided that he could not be taken off. When the lifeboat returned to the shore Harro had arrived. He asked whether everyone had been saved, and he was told that one remained. "I will fetch him," said Harro; "will you go with me?' The men refused, saying it was impossible. "Then I will go alone," said Harro and sprang into the lifeboat. At this moment his mother came running down and begged him not to venture out, reminding him that both his father and his brother Uwe had been drowned. Uwe was his youngest brother, and as he had not been heard from for years he was supposed to be dead. "For love of me," Har o's mother begged, "don't go!"

"But the man on the mast!" exclaimed Harro. "Are you sure he has no mother to mourn his loss?" Harro's mother said no more, and he son and four other men set out for the wreck, which was now quite under the water. The waves were so furious that it was difficult to aproach. At last the lifeboat reached it, and Harro climbed the mast and fetched the half-frozen man down. He was laid in the bottom of the lifeboat, and Harro bent over him and remained so until the boat was so near shore that his voice could be Then he waved his cap and heard. shouted: my mother we have saved

"Tell SALISBURY ON IRISH POLITICS. Lord Salisbury spoke at length on Irish politics Saturday night at the dinner of the Irish Loyalist Club at the Hotel Metropole. What had happened in Irish national politics before, he said, was now happening again. When the first enthusiasm of any movement passed away, when the initiators of it were removed or their influence grew less, the Irish party were split by hope less divisions, which resulted in weakness and discouragement. The visitors started to rush the play from the first and kept it up. London was on the defensive nearly all the time. The game was characterized by a rough energy in which the visitors excelled far more than they did in skill. The Granites' forwards had the puck to themselves during the most of the match, and shoved it between the goal posts chiefly by physical force. At the end of the first half the score was 3 to 1 in the Granites' favor. MUSIC AND DRAMA.

SEABROOKE TONIGHT.

Thos. Q. Seabrooke will appear at the Grand tonight. The following is from the Toronto Globe of Friday last: "The Grand Vizier, from a musical point of view, is a collection of attenuated operatic strains, reinforced by a number of topical songs of vaudeville character. The principal part is that of Dennis O'Grady, an Irishman who finds himself washed ashore on the beach of Tunis and becomes court physician to a hypochondriac ruler. Seabrooke, unlike De Wolf Hopper, with whom he was formerly associated in merrymaking, is of the reposeful rather than restless order of farceur. His make-up is that of the stock Irishman in ordinary Hibernian farce, but by a quiet comicality of face and a humerous turn of expression he keeps his audience up to the risible pitch throughout. His lines, well rendered. are generally humorous. His renditions of the now pepular ditty, 'Swim Out, O'Grady,' and of his due about Patsy Clancy, who played the cymbals in the Connemara band, are known to fame and were decidedly up to expectation. The second act is composed chiefly of variety selections in the song-and-dance line, and here Elvia Crox, who is a remarkably dashing and vivacious soubrette, and now a familiar favorite, shines with excellent effect. As a whole, the production. though slender, is bright and amusing, is laughable throughout, and avoids duliness by the dash and cleverness of the princi-

"NO GODD, AND A CUR."

What One London West School Trustee Said of Another.

Mr. Crockett Was Angry-Trustee Jones'. Feelings Were Injured—The Former.
Admits the Offense.

For come time past considerable feeling has been exhibited in the London West School Board over the janitor question. Old Mr. Pudney, who has acted in that capacity for several years, was recently accused by two or three residents with going to the school under the influence of liquor and using improper language towards the pupils. Then for a few days the school was so cold that many pupils were kept at home, while the majority of those who went to school had to keep their coats or jackets on. A committee was named to investigate the first charge, but failed to find any foundation for the complaint. A man was placed in charge of the furnaces for two weeks to learn of any defect in them, but it was found that the poor heating was the result of an inefficient ventilator shaft. At the last regular meeting a motion to dismiss the janitor was made, but was negatived on a tie vote, Trustees Jones, Dell and Pudney casting nay. A special meeting was held on Monday evening last, and as the board was about to resign the question was again raised and the meeting threatened to assume a likeness to an 1894 session of the village council.

CALLED HIM A CUR. Trustee John Crockett, at any rate, asserted that Trustee Jones was no good, that he was a cur, a — eur, and if he came out into the yard he (Crockett) could knock the stuffing out of him. Trustee Jones' feelings were very much hurt, and he sought balm for them by having Mr. Crockett summoned before Squire Lacey. The case came up on Saturday night, and the magistrate's office was packed with villagers. Chairman Ludwig, Trustees Dell and Pudney and ex-Reeve Spence were present as witnesses. Squire Lacey read the charges of abusive language and threatening

Squire Lacey thought it would be better to settle the dispute without going any farther. Ex-Reeve Spence appeared in the role of peace maker. Crockett, he said, was willing to make an apology to Jones. It was one of those cases where Crockett let his temper get the better of his judgcharacter was always good. A conference between Messrs, Dignan and Jones resulted in Mr. Dignan stating that his client, as a public official, together with the other trustees, insisted on being accorded his rights as an official. Mr. Jones would be quite content if Crockett would admit the charge and give peace sureties.

"I, too, wish he would do so," said the magistrate. "I know that the heat with which questions are discussed sometimes causes people to use language which they otherwise would shun. I hope Mr. Crockett will prove a valuable member of society during his term on the board. I do not think he intended to carry out any threats if he did use

THE OUEEN AND CARLYLE."

An Unpublished Letter Describing His Interview with Victoria in 1969. London Athenium.

The subjoined account was written by Carlyle to his sister Jean, the wife of the late Dr. Aitken, of Dumfries. For sufficient reasons it has hitherto been withheld from publication, and it is only now that we are enabled to give the interesting epistle to the public.

CHELSEA, March 11, 1869.

Dear Jean—Mary, I find, has inserted for you a small letter along with the

for you a small letter along with the one that belongs to the doctor. I have nothing of my own in the form of news beyond what that "child of nature" will have said. All busy here-March winds "snell" s possible (one's new cape not useless) but not unwholesome; fine, dry and cold, instead of the wet, tepid puddle we have long had, and, in consequence,

But my present business is to tell you exclusively of the Queen's interview, for which great object I have only a few minutes. Swift, then, if my poor hand but would! "Interview" took place this day gone a week. Nearly a week before that the Dean and Deaness, who is called Lady Augusta Stanley, once Bruce, an active, hard and busy woman, drove up here, and, in a solemnly-mysterious, half-quizzical manner, invited me for Thursday, 4th, at 5 p.m.—"must come; a very high, indeed, highest, personage has long been desirous," etc. I saw well enough it was the Queen's incognita, and briefly agreed to come. "Half past 4, come you," and then went their ways.

Walking up at the set time, I was ushered into ered into that long drawing room in their monastic edifice. I found no Stanley yet there; only at the further end a tall old year-pole (?) of a Mrs. Grote, the most wooden-headed woman I know in London, or the world, who thinks herself very elever, etc., and the sight of whom led me to expect Mr., too, and perhaps others, as accordingly in a few minutes fell out. Grote and wife, Sir Charles Lyell and ditto, Browning and myself; that I saw to be our party. "Better than nothing," thought I; "these will take off the edge of the thing, if edge there be"-which it hadn't, nor threatened to have.

The Stanleys and we were all in a flow of talk, and some flunkeys had done setting coffee pots and tea cups of a sublime pattern, when her Majesty, punctual to the minute, glided in escorted by her dame-in-waiting (a Duchess-Dowager of Athol), and by the Princess Louise, decidedly a very pretty young lady, and clever, too, as I found out in talking to her afterward. The Queen came softly forward, a kindly little smile on her face, gently shook hands with all the three women, gently ack-nowledged with a nod the silent bows of us male monsters; and directly in her presence everyone was at ease again. She is a comely little lady, with a pair of kind, clear and intelligent gray eyes; still looks almost young (in spite of one broad wrinkle which shows on each cheek occasionally); is still plump; has a fine, low voice, soft; indeed, her whole manner is melodiously perfect. It is impossible to imagine a politer little woman; nothing the least imperious; all gentle, all sincere, looking unembarrassing-rather attractive, even; makes you feel, too (if you have any sense in you), that she is Queen.

After a little word to each of us-to me it was, "Sorry you did not see my daughter" (Princess of Prussia), or "all sorry," perhaps so; which led us to Potsdam, Berlin, etc., for an instant or two. To Sir Charles Lyell I heard her say, "gold in Sutherland,"— but quickly and delicately cut him short in responding. To Browning, "Are you writing anything?" (who has just been publishing the adsurdest things!). Grote I did not hear what she said, but it was touch and go with everybody-Majesty visibly without interest, or nearly so, of her own.

After this coffee (very black and muddy) was handed round, Queen and three women taking seats, Queen in the corner of a sofa, Lady Deaness in opposite corner, Mrs. Grote in a chair, intrusively close to her Majesty; Lady Lyell modestly at the diagonal corner: we others obliged to stand and hover within call. Coffee fairly done, Lady Augusta called me gently to come and speak to her Majesty. I obeyed, first asking, as an old, infirmish man, Majesty's permission to sit, which was graciously conceded. Nothing of the least significance was said nor needed; however, my bit of dialogue went very well. "What part of Scotland I came from " "Dumfries (where Majesty might as well go some times). Carlisle, Caer Lewel, a place of about the antiquity of King Solomon (according to Milton)," whereat Majesty smiled. Border ballads and old James Pool slightly alluded to, not by name. Glasgow, and grandfather's ride thither, ending in more psalms, and street vacant at 9 1-2 p.m.-hard, sound Presbyterian root of what has now shot up to such a monstrously ugly cabbage tree and hemlock tree! all which Majes ty seemed to take rather well; where-upon Mrs. Grote rose good-naturedly and brought forward her husband cheek by jowl with Majesty, who evidently did not care a straw for him, but kindly asked-"Writing anything?" and one heard, "Aristotle, now that I have done with Plato" (but only for a minimum of time). Majesty herself (and I think apropos of some question about my shaky hand) said something about her own difficulty in writing to dictation, which brought forward Lady Lyell and her husband, mutually used to the operation; after which, talk becoming quite trivial, Majesty gracefully retired with Lady Augusta, and, in ten minutes more, returned, to receive our farewell bows, which, too, she did very prettily, and sailed out as if moving on skates, and bending her head to us with a smile

By the underground railway I was home before 7, and out of the adventure, with only a headache of little moment.

Froude tells me there are foolish myths about the poor business, especially about my share of it; but this is the real truth, worth to me in strictest truth all but nothing, in the myths less than nothing. Tell the Dr. I intended writing to him, but it is already (horrible to think!)

AN EXPLODED CANON. The "advanced woman" will have to tackle Canon Du Moulin, of Toronto, He has preached a sermon against her in which he told her that she must totter or fall, for she is unscriptural, has forsaken her household duties, and has become a keen rival of man. "The time is not far distant," cried the Toronto canon, "when woman will be deposed from the throne she has usurped, and be driven back to her own domestic domain." We shall look on quietly while this canon of the Episcopal faith drives her back. As yet, we must doubt whether he or anybody else can do it, whether she can be driven out of politics, the halls of learning, the re form of business, the professions, the fields of science and philosophy, the ordinary industries, and all the other temptations which beset her. She herself evidently thinks that she is entitled to liberty and has a right to pursue happiness in her own way, even out side of the domestic domain. It will be job for a canon to turn her mind. It seems to us that the canon is too severe upon the advanced woman. We hardly think there is any ground for his fear that she is destitute of womanhood. We are rather disposed to entertain the opinion that, after all has been said against her, she is a good deal of woman, and has in her the prime qualities of the original woman. She is often handsome, too.—New York Sun.

Seized the Meat.

In his inspection of meat on the market on Saturday, Medical Health Officer Hutchinson came across a couple of beeves' lungs, heads, livers, etc., in a wagon belonging to a country butcher. One of the lungs was found to be covered with numerous black spots, the size of a pea. Dr. Hutchinson ordered the sale of the meat stopped, and took a quantity of it for examination. It was found to contain tubercular deposits and unfit for use. The butcher will bring the balance of the stock to market on Tuesday, when its destruction will be ordered.

AS WONDERFUL AS EVER

Is the Grand Old Man-His Psalter Will Be Published Shortly.

London, Feb. 18 .- Mr. Gladstone's recent illness has not prevented his completing his edition of the Psalter, with his own concordance and notes. This will be published, says one of his friends, in about a fortnight, both in England and America. Index-making to a version of the Psalter seems an odd occupation for a retired Prime Minister with impaired eyesight, but to Mr. Gladstone nothing comes amiss. That he is no longer an invalid he himself has assured the mayor of Mentone, on the Riviera, before whom he stood bareheaded, the mayor also being bareheaded, the older man refusing to be outdone in courtesy. Last week, also, saw his definite appearance as preface writer to a pictorial Bible. The preface will be found remarkable for more reasons than one, and requires to be considered at leisure. Inadequate as it is from the critical point of view, and ill-informed with respect to the immense work of modern research into the true history and origin of the scriptural text, Mr. Gladstone's dissertation shows not a sign of failing energy or of dimmed intellectual power. The wonderful old man is as wonderful as ever.

SUICIDED THROUGH TROUBLE.

Hamilton Man Hangs Himself-His Wife's Former Husband Turns Up. Hamilton, Feb. 18 .- Henry Geiger, a German about 60 years of age, who has kept a saloon at the corner of Queen and King street for several years, committed suicide this morning by hanging himself in the barn in the rear of his house. Geiger left a note saying that business and domestic troubles had been the cause of the act. About two years ago Geiger was married to a supposed widow, but shortly ofter the marriage the first husband of the woman turned up and threatened to cause trouble. He did not claim her, however, but Geiger and the weman lived unhappily until two months ago, when they parted. Deceased was in good circumstances as far as known. Consequently there was much indignation, and early Saturday morning a party of Lethbridge citizens banded together and proceeded to the house of Jim Donaldson, whose name was unpleasantly connected with the domestic troubles leading to the suicide of Gillies. He was taken from bed and immersed in tar and rolled in feathers, after which he formed a striking unit of an enthusiastic procession, which marched up town to the hotel, where he was put on view as a warning to evil-doers. When last seen Mr. Donaldson was making fast time over the

MRS. J. MARTIN, Fashionable Millinery,

"Up to the Scratch."

Is this expression derived from the old idea that a witch was deprived of her power by a person drawing her blood by cratching her? In the trial of Richard Hathaway, as a cheat and impostor, at Surrey assizes, March 24, 1703, it was al leged against him that he did, in the presence and hearing of divers persons falsely, devilishly and knowingly, and a a false impostor, pretend and affirm that he was bewitched by Sarah Morduck, and that by reason thereof he could not eat but had fasted ten weeks successively, and pretended also that he was affected with divers diseases, and that by drawing blood from the said Sarah by scratching he should be freed from his said pretended bewitching, and that the defendant did thereupon scratch the said Sarah and draw blood from her, and thereupon falsely affirm that by drawing the said blood he was freed from the said diseases, whereas, in truth and fact, he never was bewitched, nor had fasted, as aforesaid, and knew himself not to be bewitched by the said

Sarah. Forby, "Vocabulary of East Anglia,"

volume 2, 1830, says: "Where a witch is known to harbor resentment against any one, or to have exjury, it is held to be a sure preservative if the party threatened can draw blood from the sorceress, and many a poor old woman has been sacrificed from the received opinscratch."-Notes and Queries.

"And I say so still, in my best moments; but in my worst— Well, I suppose we men are great cowards—moral cowards. No matter, I am glad the moral crystall to the best, my wife; and it is the best for the will never come again, depend best, for they will never come again, depend

But strange to say, they did; and at last t became absolutely necessary to return these friendly visits.

"I will beg a holiday from my master"— poor Roderick! he sometimes took a savage pleasure in the word. "We will hire the village fly, and go in state: appearing for once as respectable people—Mr. and Mrs. Jardine of Blackhall."

"I thing we are respectable people," the wife answered; she had learned not to be hurt at these accidental bitternesses. "We are well-born, well-bred; we live in our own pretty house; we pay our debts; and we stint nobody—except ourselves, perhaps." Herself, she might have said, for her hus-band, simple as he was in his ways, wonderfully so, considering his up-bringing, never suspected how many domestic and personal sacrifices were necessary, that she might in a sense, though not in the sense he had meant it, really "put the best on the outside" for him when he came home.

He was at home so little now that the whole day's holiday—they two tegether was quite a treat to look forward to. But when, instead of the villiage fly, which Mr. Black had offered to order for them, there came up his own well-appointed but rarely used carriage, with his compliments, and the horses had not been out for a week, would Mrs. Jardine oblige him by using them?—then Roderick's pride rose up at

"Make Mrs. Jardine's compliments to Mr. Black, and she regrets extremely

A hand laid on his arm-a whisner which always fell on hi- jarring nerves like a soft finger-touch on a quivering harp-string.
"Dear, yesterday when I was thanking Mr. Black for all his kindness, he said-you know his quick husky way of speaking-'Madame, you may have a hard life-I rather think you will-but I hope you will never know one hardship; to find your self in your old age without one single human being whom you have a right to be "Poor old fellow!" said Roderick, much moved. "My little Conscience! you are right. John, tell your master he is exceedingly kind, as he always is; and Mrs. Jardine will enjoy her drive exceedingly. So she did-to an a most pathetic degree -for it was weeks since she had been outside the garden gate. And the whole world vas so lovely that still November day-November, but bright as June; it often is so in Scotland - all the fading landscape oked as beautiful as an old face sometimes looks to eyes that loved in when it was These two, sitting side by side and hand in hand, though they hid the latter fact under a kindly plaid from John the coachman, were young still; to them the dying year brought only a charm of sadness. They were very happy, and all the happier, Roderick declared, because in their circuit of nearly twee by miles, owing to the rarely fine day, they found everybody 'out' except one family—the Symingtons.

Sir John—a fine old Scottish gentleman of the last generation-with his old wife beside him, still keeping the remains of that delicate English beauty which had captured him fifty years ago, were, even Roderick owned, quite a picture. And they remem-bered his father; and they had known Cousin Silence. Their greeting was more than courteous—friendly; and their house, upon which, being childless, they had expended all they had to spend, was full of art treasures collected abroad, each with a istory and an interest. The old couple seemed still to have the utmost enjoyment in life, and to have the faculty of making others enjoy life too.

"I knew you would like them," said
Silence, when, having sent the carriage away, they walked home through the wood path, which, Sir John carefully pointed out to them, made Symington only a quarter of an hour's walk from B'ackhall. Yes, I like them. That is just the sort of house I should care to go to, if I could go. Lucky folk these Symingtons. They seem to have had everything the heart can

"Not quite. Did you see a miniature over Lady Symington's arm-chair? She saw me looking at it, and said—you should have heard the tone, quiet as she iswas our only son-my one child! He died at seven years old.' I think," Silence continued, softly, "if you do not mind, I should ike now and then to go and see Lady Sym-

Her husband pressed her arm, and then said, suddenly, "My innocent wife, what happy way you have of taking everything."
It is because I am so happy!"

And I—ves. I ought to be happy too, d knows! But—"
She put her hand upon his lips. "God loes know. And I know too. Many things hem; we will just bear them. We can bear them, I think, together."

"Yes, my darling."
And after that he made no more 'misanthropic' speeches for the whole evening. A week afterward, coming back from neeting the postman, which he always did though few letters ever came, and never hose which, his wife could see, he missed and looked for still, Roderick threw down before her a heap of notes.

"It never rains but it pours. Evidently, as old Black says, the 'hale countrie' has fallen in love with young Mrs. Jardine. Four invitations to dinner and one to a dance—extending over three weeks, and an area of fifteen square miles. To accept them would take half our quarterly income, in carriage hire, etc.: and to return them, why, six Caleb Balderstones could scarcely accomplish that feat."

She read and laid the notes aside, with a rather sad face.

"You would like to go? Well, then, my darling, shall we don our purple and fine linen—we have a few rags of splender left and fare sumptuously at our neighbors' ex-pense for four days? We can starve after. ward for fourteen; I'm willing if you are."

"Else—we must get up some excuse—you must have a cough, and be unable to go out of evenings." "But I am able-they may see me at church every Sunday."

"Most literal of woman! Of course it is a 'big lee'—as Black would call it. But any lie will do; the bigger the better, since we cannot possibly tell the truth."
"Why not?"

"Why not?"

The question was so direct and simple, yet so perfectly natural, that it staggered him. He laughed, though not very mirthfully, and made no reply.

"Why not tell the truth?" Silence repeated. "It would be much the easiest way. Why not say to everybody, what everybody must know, or soon will, that we are not rich enough to keep a carriage or give entertainments, but that we appreciate our neighbors' kindliness, and will be glad to meet them whenever chance sllows. Shall I write and say this? Nobody could be offended, for it is just the simple truth. And surely the truth is better than even the whitest of lies."

He had lived beside her and with her for a whole year now—this woman, so different from all other women he had ever known; and yet he seemed always to be finding out something new in her—some divine simplicity which made all his worldly wisdom seless; some innocent courage which put even his manliness to shame. But he was even his maniness to sname. But he was too truly manly not to own this.

"My darling," he said, not laughing now,
"I did not propose to teil a lie—not seriously. But the truth must be hid sometimes, when it is an unpleasant and humiliating truth. Come, then, shall we make a great effort, and appear at all these fine houses an effort, and appear at all these fine houses en grande tenue, and in a carriage and pair (Black's, perhaps, borrowed for the occasion) and 'make believe' as children say, that we are rich people?"

"Would not that be acting a lie, which comes to the same thing as telling it? Did not your father once say so? And you once told me that if"-she paused a moment-"if you had boys you would teach them exactly as your father taught you, that either to tell or act a lie was absolutely impossible to a gentleman and a Jardine!"

"You little Jesuit!" "Don't call me that!" and her eyes filled with the quick tears, which, however, she rarely allowed to fall—she was not a 'crying' woman. "I can not argue, I can only feel and think. Dearest, I sit and think a great deal—more than in all my life before.

Her head dropped and a sudden flush came over the sweet young face. Her brief eight months of married life had made a woman of her. And there were the long lonely hours-alone, yet not alone-when a wife ever so young, can not choose but sit thinking of what God is going to give her; of the mingled joy and fear, and solemn responsibility, stretching out into far generations. Well, indeed may she say, even as the holy woman of whom it is recorded, of the board ploying her.

"Behold the handmaid of the Lord, be it unto me according to thy word."

Mr. Mc-Ewin had been over 60 years in the country, spending the first five or six years of his residence in Hamilton, going thence to Downie, where he had lived 56 years. He died wealthy When Premier Bowell was in Essex last summer among other places he visited were the wine cellars of Mayor Girardot, of Sandwich. When the Premier visited there he was Minister of Trade and Commerce, and in his honor Mayor Girardot has named his twin girls Miss Trade and Miss Commerce. Mayor Girardot so wrote the Premier and received a suitable reply.

The scarlet fever, which has of late been prevalent in the south of Arran, Bruce county, reached the home of Mr. John Griffin, of con. 4, recently. In a few days every member of the family was prostrated with it except Mrs. Griffin and the youngest child, about 2 months old. On Friday night Lorne, aged 7, died, and on Saturday was buried. At this time John, the oldest boy at home at home, aged 19, was seriously ill, and soon became delirious. He even threw himself out of bed, dislocating his wrist. On Sunday morning he, too, succumbed, and on Monday was bur-ied. Before he was interred Mr. Griffin, sen., had also passed away. Thus there were two dead in the home at the same time, father and son. Part of the time Mrs. Griffin had no help whatever to attend the sick. Richard and James Nicholson attended to the stock and did all they could in assisting the sor-rowing widow by doing the outside work and looking after the burials. even at a risk to themselves. MRS. JOHN DOWLY.

One Case Out of Many. Showing the Value of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

LEITH, Ont., Feb. 18.—Mrs. John Dowly, of this place, after suffering for several years from kidney disease, has been cured by Dodd's Kidney Pills. If any doubts existed in the minds of the public regarding the value of this remedy they are now dispelled, particularly in this neighborhood. Mrs. Dowly's case is but one of many that might be cited here showing the great value of Dodd's Kidney Pills as a cure for kidney disease. They seem to be the principal topic of conver-They sation on all sides.

Mr. Thomas Ballard, Syracuse, N. Y. vrites: "I have been afflicted for near ly a year with that most-to-be-dreaded disease — Dyspepsia — and at times was worn out with pain and want of sleep, and after try-ing almost everything recommended, I tried one box of Parmelee's Vegetable Pills. I am now nearly well, and believe they will cure me. I would not be without them for any money."

God makes character and man makes reputation. Why will you allow a cough to lacerate your throat or lungs and run the risk of filling a consumptive's grave, when by the timely use of Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup the pain can be allayed and the danger avoided? This syrup is pleasant to the taste, and unsurpassed for relieving, healing and curing all affections of the throat and lungs, coughs, colds, bronchitis, etc. Marriage doubles the capacity for happiness without always doubling the happiness.

CASTORIA

for Infants and Children.

OTHERS, Do You Know that Paregorie, Bateman's Drops, Godfrey's Cordial, many so-called Soothing Syrups, and most remedies for children are composed of opium or morphine?

Do You Know that opium and morphine are stupefying narcotic poisons? Do You Know that in most countries druggists are not permitted to sell narcotics without labeling them poisons? Do You Know that you should not permit any medicine to be given your child unless you or your physician know of what it is composed? Do You Know that Castoria is a purely vegetable preparation, and that a list of its ingredients is published with every bottle?

Do You Know that Cactoria is the prescription of the famous Dr. Samuel Pitcher. That it has been in use for nearly thirty years, and that more Castoria is now sold than of all other remedies for children combined?

Do You Know that the Patent Office Department of the United States, and of other countries, have issued exclusive right to Dr. Pitcher and his assigns to use the word Castoria" and its formula, and that to imitate them is a state prison offense!

Do You Know that one of the reasons for granting this government protection was because Casteria had been proven to be absolutely harmless? De You Know that 35 average doses of Castoria are furnished for 35 cents, or one cent a dose? Do You Know that when possessed of this perfect preparation, your children may be kept well, and that you may have unbroken rest?

Well, these things are worth knowing. They are facts.

PARKHURST'S LATEST SENSATION

Charges a Number of Clergymen With

Misappropriating Funds. NEW YORK, Feb. 18.-Rev. Dr. Charles H. Parkhurst preached yesterday on "How to Realize the Sintulness of Sin," and in the coure of his sermon charged a number of clergymen with lack of honor, claiming that they misapplied a fund which was raised for a specific purpose and intrusted to their care. The doctor's charge created sensation, and he was besieged with inquirers who wanted to know to whom he eferred. He said: "I cannot name the clergymen who are referred to in my sermon. I am not prepared to do so, but the facts will probably come out in a few days."

Wixom-McGarvey. Detroit Free Press: "The marriage of Mrs. Louisa McGarvey, of London, Ont., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. Niles, of Qu'Appelle, Manitoha, to Dr. Russel P. Wixom, of Bancroft, Mich., was celebrated Tuesday evening at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. James F. Logic in the presence of a large assemblage of friends. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. Scurr. The parlor was handsomely decorated with white carnations and smilax. The bride wore a dress of white silk, trimmed with lace and adorned with white roses. The bridesmaid, Miss Blanche Sanagan, wore pink crepe de chine and lace and pink roses. The little maids of honor, Nellie McGarvey and Mabel Logie, were dressed in pale crepe de chine and carried bouquets of white roses. Mr. Van Wixom brother of the groom, was groomsman. The bride was the recipient of many handsome presents. A wedding supper was served for 30 guests, and later in the evening the newly wedded couple left on a trip to Chicago. Work of the "Ys."

The "Ys" held their regular meeting Thursday afternoon. A very helpful Bible reading on "Prayer" was led by Miss Moore. The monthly reports were encouraging. The total attendance at the rooms for January was 1,302, of which 815 attended during the day, 487 in the evening, 340 at the noon hour. The Y. W. C. A. evening classes were well attended. A club-swinging class has been formed, and meets every Thursday evening from 7:30 to 8 o'clock; the members seem to thoroughly enjoy the exercise. The monthly reception took the form of an art evening, when the rooms were brightened by paintings of the art class. A varied and interesting programme was provided, two notable features of which were a talk on art by Mrs. Stanley Williams and the presentation of a handsome chair as a mark of appreciation and esteem to Mr. Davidson, the art teacher, by his pupils. The members and friends were favored by an earnest address by Mrs. Tilley on the second Saturday evening of the month. The superintendent of juvenile and scientific temperance reported the organization of a temperance band with a membership of twenty girls. The meetings have been held Friday afternoons at 4:15 o'clock. Ten have signed the pledge after obtaining permission from their parents. Papers were read for and against the use of birds for millinery purposes by two of the members. They caused a lively debate, after which it was decided that all "Ys" should discourage the use of birds for millinery purposes by personal example.

Wives and Life Insurance. Chief Justice Armour has just rendered decision in re Grant, which will be of interest to the fathers of families and those who have to do with life insurance. It construes the amendments to the act securing to wives and children benefit of life insurance by virtue of which a man may declare by an instrument in writing an insurance policy to be for the benefit of his wife and children, and such policy shall be deemed a trust and shall not be under the control of the husband or creditors. The act and amendments provide that he may by instrument in writing alter and vary the apportionment as between wife and children. Chief Justice Armour's decision makes a distinction between the words "instrument in writing" and "will" in the amendments to sec. 6 of R. S. O. 126, and holds in effect that a man who has duly declared a life insurance policy to be for the benefit of his wife alone cannot by his will derrive the wife of this benefit and transfer it to his children. He can, however, do so during his life by an instrument in writing attached to or indersed or the apportionment the wife and children are to receive. In the present case the wife, who is the widow of Geo. R. Grant, a commercial traveler, did not claim the whole of the insurance money, but a share in it along with the children. The chief justice, however, went further and decided that she was entitled to the whole of the money, as her husband could not by will substitute the children for his wife as beneficiaries after having first declared the Council, No. 75, acting as grand marshal: policy to be for the wife's sole benefit.
