SPEECH BY S. G. P. ELLIOTT.

Notable Exposition of the Position of Englishmen in Canada in Relation to the Intrigues of Traitors.

The Supreme Grand Presidency of the Sons of England is an honor which any man might covet, and the recent elevation of Mr. Thomas Elliott, of this city, to that proud position was looked upon by the brethren here, not alone as a great compliment to him perto the city itself. As an outcome of which he was instrumental in starting and of which he was the first president.

OLD AND COMMENDABLE CUS-TOMS REVIVING.

Provincial Grand Lodges-False Report-Session Faternal Gathering Queen's most influential and zealous sons. Rirthday-At Home.

Lodge business generally is booming in this district, all the lodges doing a large quotation in initiation business. several prominent citizens having recently been added to the already fairly of Hearts of Oak Lodge, who is still in representative S. O. E. roll.

A revival of the old and commendable custom of fraternal visits amongst the lodges is again becoming common, Hearts of Oak Lodge, No. 94, having recently paid a visit to Osborne, No. 122. Britannia Lodge, No. 8, also expects a visit shortly from the abovenamed lodges. These fraternal visits are of incalculable value to those attending, not only in forming new acquaintances and having pleasant social reunion, but also to talk over matters pertaining to the welfare of our noble Order in general. Apropos of this I might say that the deferring of the adoption of the new Constitution seems to meet with general favor amongst the different lodges, not from any particular hostile feeling to the measure, but from the fact that sufficient time had not been given the odges for full and mature deliberation on the matter, fraught with such deep and vital interest to the future welfare of our Order. Without a doubt it is absolutely necessary that some change in our supreme form of government should be made, as it is manifestly apparent that fair and proper represenation cannot be had by the outlying districts-viz.: extreme east and west ledges-at our Grand Lodge meetings, and that very fact should have due weight in considering the matter of provincial grand lodges under the supervision of a sovereign grand lodge, as there is nothing that dampens the ardor and zeal of members of any organization more than the fact of their particular interests having no consideration, or, at the least, a very imperfect consideration at the hands of the governing body.

PROVINCIAL GRAND LODGES.

His illness is probably the outcome of his recent unfortunate visit to Port Arthur in search of employment, an account of which appeared in a recent issue of the ANGLO-SAXON, and of the generosity shown on that occasion by members of Guilford Lodge, Fort William, also Bro. YORKSHIREMEN DINE.

Move to Form a Yorkshire Society-The Secretary of Westward He Invites them to become Sons of England.

Winnipeg, April 4.-In times past there have been gatherings of Englishmen, Welshmen, Scotchmen and Irishmen, but it remained for the stardy sons of Yorkshire to inaugurate an exclusive meeting of the natives of any one farticular shire. The much talked of dinner for Yorkshiremen came off Tuesday night, and to say that it was a success is to put it very mildly After the address the lady bid adieu indeed. Two long tables running the length of Foresters' hall were taxed to their utmost capacity to provide room for those present. The hall was tastefully decorated with flags and banners of every description and the ornamentation of the tables reflected great credit on Mr. Nicholson who arranged them. The dinner, which was first rate in every respect was provided by the well known caterer, Mrs.

Hample. Mr. R. T. Riley very ably and pleasantly fulfilled the duties of chairman, and after those present had done justice to the good things provided for the inner man, gave a few exceedingly well-chosen remarks, after which he asked the company to drink the health of the Queen and Royal Family, which was responded to by all singing the national anthem. A very funny song by Mr. D. Scott, entitled "The Cork Leg," followed. Messrs. F. Roo, Bill Hardy, sr., and T. Hurtley responded to the toast of " The Shire." Then came a song from Mr. Lee, "Men of Merry England." The toast of "The Country we Live In" brought up Mr. Buckle, sr., Mr. Hurtley and Mr. Eddy, who were all unanimous in saying that next to Yorkshire and the Garden of Eden there is no country like Canada and no province like Manitoba. A song from Mr. James Hanby came next, followed by a few practical remarks from Mr. Thompson Westwood, the secretary. To the toasts of "The Ladies" Mr. Foote and Mr. Bill Hardy replied. This was followed by a song from Mr, Fred Roo in his well known style. Mr. Hanby then proposed the health of "Yorkshiremen at with great enthusiasm. There were songs from Mr. Hargrave, another from Mr. Wilks, a selection from Anill-keptroom, provided with dingy, Shakespeare, by Mr. D. Shortly after eight o'olock p.m. the the city lodges of the Sons of England began to gather in the rotunda of the St. Lawrence Hall to welcome the members of the Grand lodge. At half-past eight the sound of music from the Sons of England Brass band was heard and the Grand Lodge delegates marched in, over one hundred strong.

The delegates were received with D. D. G. P., Denbigh Lodge, vice-Ellis and Parr.

The gathering was thorougly representative and most enthusiastic, a large number of invicted guests being dictated, present and the delegates turning out in full force. The equipment of the dining room and the menu provided were perfect. The tables were adorned with hothouse plants in profusion, the rose being a prominent feature. The Union England, including a handsome oil formed part of the decorations.

THE ANGLO-SAXON goes regular'y to Sons of England lodges and branches of the George's Society in all parts of Manito of the St. Jeorge's the British Northwest Territories of Canada, British Columbia, Ontario, Quebec, Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island; to branch societies of the Sons of St. George in all parts of the United States, to Clubs, Reading Rooms, Emigration Societies and similar institutions in Great Britain and Ireland, and to British citizens generally throughout Canada, the States, Great Britain and the Empire

As the ANGLO-SAXON is on fyle in about 400 Mechanics' Institutes, Reading Olubs, Y. M. C. A. Rooms, and other places of meeting in various parts of England, and its pages are cagerly able of the same spirit exhibited before scanned for information necessary to intending immigrants, our readers in the Northwest will greatly aid us by forwarding to this journal settlers' testimonies as to their surroundings and prospects in their new home. Englishmen in the Old Country want to know how others get along ere they launch forth into a new life. Let them know then through these columns.

THE WORK ACCOMPLISHED.

A number of inquiries are being made as to what has been accomplished by the late meeting of Grand Lodge in Montreal toward the uplifting of the S. O. E. For a full reply our readers must wait for the publication of the Grand Lodge Report shortly to be issued, but there are some few facts which are patent to all. From past experience at Grand Lodge we do not hesitate to say that each session has evinced an increased executive ability among its members and a higher order of mental calibre, and the late session particularly proved that the member, ship is increasing in its grasp of the necessities of the S. O. E. and the requirements of the country in which we are located. This will not fail to bear fruit. Already evidence is gathering to show that a new era of activity has arisen in the various lodge rooms as a result of the enthusiasm kindled in the hearts of the representatives to Grand Lodge, who have all gone back to their homes full of zeal for the welfare of the Order.

With the appointment of organizers for the Northwest provinces there is a field about to be opened up which, white with the harvest, and which, when properly garnened, will greatly enrich the Order, will give the S. O. E. a strong hold upon an element in the country which shall affect the facts. A labor bureau, properly workfuture of Canada very largely, binding us socially and politically in a union formation as every member needs, and that will greatly aid all its members and tend strongly to the development ly to many brethren, would be the of still closer ties to the mother country. If the establishment of lodges is fully carried out as contemplated, the 300,000 Englishmen in Canada can be brought into a connection so strong and powerful that when they unite, as they may do toward any object having be glad to hear from any brethren who the good of this country, the closer union of the British empire or any moral, social or political question in view, they will be so important a body that the demand will be too strong to resist. To this we are coming and to this the late Grand Lodge session very largely contributed by its various deliberations. According to the United States census report there are twelve states in which the English born citizens outnumber the Irish birth. They are Alabama, Florida, Maine, Kansas, Texas, Wyoming, Colorado, New Mexico, Utah, Idaho, Oregon and Washington. The number of English in excess of Irish is, in New Mexico, about 300, while in Utah the English population is almost ten times as great as that of the Irish. It is remarkable that in the majority of States which are farthest from the Atlantic coast the English outnumber the Irish immigrants. It may be noted, too, that the localities in which the English population predominates are rich in mineral deposits and famed for the ex-cellence of their soil and salubrity of climate.

THE ANGLO-SAXON

LABOUR AND CAPITAL.

The news that the difficulties which have existed between labor and capital in Lancashire have been fully set tled will be received everywhere with great satisfaction, especially when the terms of the settlement are understood. For twenty weeks the mills in that industrious corner of the manufacturing world have been silent and the breadwinners have been idle, want and suffering filling the homes, and, as usual, the little families of the workmen and workwomen having to endure the greatest privation. It is estimat ed that the loss in wages amounts to $10,000,000, some 125,000 employees having been thrown out of work by the strike. In the settlement neither side can actually claim a victory. It is provided that in future no change shall be made in the rate of wages of more than five per cent. at yearly intervals, so that there will be a feeling of greater security in the whole district. The conference regarding the claims of the United States to Behring Sea and the seal fisheries has began in good earnest. For the next six weeks the discussion is likely to go on. With what result is hard to tell, but thus far brother Jonathan's case has not proved to be the brightest. Already, in one document, evidence has been shown of the Yankee love of bluster, and we shall not be surprised to see considerthe conference comes to a close.

The ANGLO-SAXON is pleased to be able to endorse the sentiments of the Winnipeg Tribune, which are published in another column, as to qualifications of Bro. T. C. Andrews, of that city, for the position of organizer of the S. O. E, work in Manitoba. The gentleman has been a most ardent supporter of the objects of the Order since the first inception of the S. O. E. in Manitoba, his zeal and energy in aiding his fellow countrymen having been abundant. We sincerely hope the Executive will endorse the action of the Winnipeg lodges and appoint Bro. Andrews as the official organizer for Manitoba.

S. O. E. LABOUR BUREAU. The principle which Bro. Glazebrook and others are endeavouring to work out in the form of a labor bureau connected with the S. O. E. is certainly a good one and should be heartily endorsed by every member of the Order, and the ANGLO-SAXON desires to tender those engaged in the establishment thereof its warmest support. It seems to be an opening in which the Order can be of great benefit to the many Englishmen who are scattered abroad in the Dominion, and who could be greatly aided by their brethren in other lodges if this means of intercommunication was opened up. To be of service it must be inter-provincial and wide-spreading. This office has received many inquiries from brethren in the lodges as to the chances for remunerative employment in various sections of the country. In some cases the information has been afforded while in others it has been impossible to comply with the request owing to the impossibility of knowing all the ed in all details, could afford such in-affairs, except it had been done "as BRITISH FEDERALISM: Its Rise and author of "The early history of the Colony of Victoria," "The Permanent Unity of the Empire," the Empire.

etc., etc. This is a reprint of a very able paper ead before the Royal Colonial Institute, January 10th, 1893.

The author of this paper is not one of those writers who bring to a new subject, of which they are profoundly ignorant, the value of a reputation won in other fields of thought and study, to give a fictitious importance to very superficial common-place utterances, but he is a master of the subject of which he writes, and he may also truly be called a father in the political school of thought, which finds its best expression to-day in the aims and objects of the Imperlal Federation League.

The author concisely traces the history of British Federalism-quoting freely the opinions of eminent statesmen in Great Britain and the colonies, who, at various times have spoken or written on "the difficulties" in the path of its perfect development-difficulties which modern discoveries of the uses of steam and electricity have almost totally removed, so that the author rightly observes :-

"What a reflection it would be upon the lustre af the progress and enlightenment of the nineteenth or twentieth century should history have to record that, though the material difficulties of that, though the material difference the eighteenth century had passed away, narrow prejudices, short-sighted provincial jealousies, or the selfish rivalries of traders or of politicians, alone remained 'insurmountable' ob-stacles to the most beneficient policy of union and of empire ever proposed to men of the same blood and lan-

The author, on page six, cites the opinion of that eminent early New Zealand-colonist, Mr. J. R. Godley, as follows:

"The very best argument, perhaps, against separation is to be found in the strength and prevalence of a moral instrength and prevalence of a moral in stinct which separatists do not recog-nise, and which they hardly under-stand, though they bear a strong testi-mony to its truth in the remark mony to its truth in able reluctance which stand, though they bear a strong testi-mony to its truth in the remark-able reluctance which they manifest to avow their doctrines. I maintain that the love of empire, pro-perly understood—that is, the instinct of self-development and expansion—is an unfailing symptom of lusty and vigorous life in a people; and that, subject to the conditions of justice and humanity, it is not only legitimate but most laudable. Certain am I that the decline of such a feeling is always the result not of matured wisdom or en-larged philanthropy, but of luxurious imbecility and selfish sloth. When the Boman eagles retreated across the Danube, not the loss of Dacia, but the satisfaction of the Roman people at satisfaction of the Roman people at the loss, was the omen of the empire's fall. Or, to take an illustration nearer home, it is unquestionable that, not-withstanding the disgraceful circumstances under which America was torn from the grasp of England, we suffered less in prestige and in strength by that is in preside and in strength by that obstinate and disastrous struggle than if, like the soft Triumvir, we had 'lost a world and been content to lose it.' Depend upon it, the instinct of national pride is sound and true."

The earliest advocates of British Federalism are stated to be Edmund Burke, Adam Smith, Mr. Robert Low, Mr. Godley and Mr. Joseph Howe-all names of statesmen of high distinction in different parts of the Empire and possessors of a high-souled patriotism. On page 9, the author cites the late ll, as follows

Progress; by F. P. de Labilliere; part of a great policy of Imperial consolidation." It is the mistake so difficult to alter and constitutes the chief difficulty to-day to a Federal Union of

> We agree with the author in disapproving of the Imperial Federation League fathering "any particular scheme" of federation, but when Lord Salisbury asked for "some definite scheme" to place before a Colonial Conference to be convened to consider the question of Imperial Federation it is a different matter; he did so frankly confessing the immature study he had given to the subject and the vagueness that the whole question had to his mind, and asked from its advocates a few practical suggestions-first, for his own consideration and approval, and, secondly, to justify his action in bringing representatives from all parts of the Empire, not to consider the abstract question, but to consider definite proposals in the direction of closer union. There is in that no necessary connection with "cut and dried' schemes, nor any attempt to dictate terms of union-they would only serve as a basis of discussion and as a broad general foundation of any possible scheme of federation-the skeleton or outline-requiring all the points of detail of importance to be filled in by mutual decision and agreement. It has been the want of any practical scheme in outline that has done more to stagnate the movement in favor of Federal Union than anything

We are thoroughly at one with the author in deploring that part of the Imperial Federation League's Committee Report in which they imply that the federal union of the Australian colonies and South African colonies is in any degree a necessary condition precedent to Imperial Federation. We rather think their present condition of weakness and disunion will make them more readily agree to Imperial Unity, and that local federation The present loose form of the political tie to the Motherland is calculated to and grain elevators, and in fact everyfoster the spurious cry of "independ. thing to make a good live city. AN INTERESTING LETTER.

MR. A. C. HANEY GIVES HIS TESTIMONY.

Trip Through the Northwest Described The Finest Wheat Ever Seen.-The Soil Adapted to all Kind of Farming

The following intesesting descriptive letter, written to the Editor of the Tyndall, North Dakota, Tribune, will be read with great interest:

Calgary, N.W. T., March 4th, 1893. Dear Sir :- As I have safely arrived at Calgary on my way to Edmonton. which is yet 192 miles north, and as I will remain here a week or more to look the country over, I will give you a little outline of my observations thus far, as I promised you when I left Tyndall on Feb. 15th. I arrived at Aberdeen the same night and found our immigration Agent for South Dakota, Mr. W. A. Webster, at the Wisconsin hotel, without any difficulty, and found him to be a very kind and obliging man and well posted n his business, from whom I got transportation (or an order therefor) and several letters of introduction to different parties along the route, who could give me much help in finding out the things I wanted to know. To any who may start for this country, I will say, don't fail to come by way of Aberdeen, and see Mr. Webster at the Wisconsin hotel. I left Aberdeen by the Great Northern for Winnipeg, by the way of Wapheton, Fargo and Grand Forks, and arrived in Winnipeg at 3 p. m., Saturday, the 18th, and remained until Monday, at 5 p. m., which gave me a good opportunity to look the town over; and a very nice town I found it to be, with fine large brick and stone buildings. The population in 1871 was100, now it is 29,000. It has been for many years the chief trading Post of the Hudson Bay Company, which has very extensive establishments at Winnipeg, and has branch houses of general merchandise in nearly every part of the would more easily follow as a result. Dominion. Winnipeg has electric lights and street railways, great flowering mills of immigration building, to whom I had expected to see, it is a fine building, 30x125 feet, three full stories and a basement, all built and finished'in first class order with all the modern conveniences, such as hot and cold water, conducted to all parts of the building in pipes rooms for families with bed-steads and chairs, and single rooms, all heated by furnaces in basement, bath rooms and laundry, large along the route. The winter here at beside being of great service financialmeans of uniting us more effectively and retaining many who now are lost to our Order by their removal to a new district in search of employment and where we are unable from want of knowledge to trace them. We shall may wish to ventilate this question.

In our comment on the election of Supreme Grand Vice-President in our last issue we were in error when we said it was Bro. E. J. Lomnitz' first appearance at Grand Lodge. He has represented his lodge at Hamilton and London as well as at Montreal last March.

The unanimous expressions of good will made by the Winnipeg Lodges of the S. O. E. in favor of the ANGLO-SAXON being taken by the Executive as a means of distributing S. O. E. information to Englishmen desirous of joining our Order is a move in the right direction. What better means could the Executive adopt than that suggested by the subordinate lodges? We thank our hundreds of subscribers in Winnipeg for their hearty appreci-ation of our efforts.

We draw the attention of our read-ers to the lodge cards of Prince George, No. 162, Quebec City, R. Ackerman, president; W. T. Martin, secretary; Britannic, No. 113, Montreal, P.Q., J. Croston, president; Harry Smith, sec-retary; which appear for the first time in our columns. in our columns

In my eyes it would be a sad spectacle—it would be a spectacle for gods and men to weep at —to see this brilliant Empire, the guid-ing star of freedom, broken up—to be-hold Nova Scotia, the Cape of Good Hope, Jamaica, and New Zealand try each its little spasm of independence; while France, the United States, and Russia would be looking at each, wil-ling to annex one or more fragments to ling to annex one or more fragments to the nearest part of their dominions." Again in referring to the present status of the colonies he cites the remarkable pronouncement of Lord Beaconsfield in 1872 :--

"I cannot conceive how our distant colonies can have their affairs admincolonies can have their affairs admin-istered except by self-government. But self-government, in my opinion, when it was conceded, ought to have been conceded as part of a great policy of Imperial consolidation. . . It ought, further, to have been accom-paned by the institution of some re-presentative Council in the metropolis, which would have brought the Colon-ies into constant and continuous rela-tions with the Home Government. . . In my opinion no Minister in this country will do his duty who neglects any opportunity of reconstructing, as much as possible, our Colonial Empire, and of responding to those distant sympathies which may become the source of incalculable strength and happiness to this land."

On completion of the transfer arrangements will be immediately made for the change of the track to the standard width and placing the roadbed in the members of the party are natives thorough repair. There is no doubt of Nova Scotia, who settled in Nebraska that next year the gap between Lethbridge and Macleod will be joined by iron bonds and then the line carried through the Crow's Nest pass into the Kootenay district.

Want Canadian Wheat.

7 Brandon, March 25.-Two gentlemen from North Dakota arrived in the city recently and purchased all the wheat owned by Henry Nichol, whose farm s north of the city three miles. The wheat, comprising five carloads, is a fine sample of Red Fyfe and was purchased for use as seed on the other side of the boundary line. Fifty-eight cents is the price paid, which, together with the duty and freight, means $1.10 per bushel to the buyer laid down in Dakota.

No Lack of Mills

It is expected that there will be a large influx of capital and prospectors into this country during the coming summer.

A NEBRASKA COLONY.

LARGE PARTY GOES WEST AND SETTLE NEAR EDMONTON.

Winnipeg, April 4th.-A party of nearly one hundred settlers, from Nebraska, arrived in Winnipeg, and proceeded west to locate in the vicinity of Edmonton. They bring with them several carloads of stock and effects, and are prepared to make themselves comfortable in their new home. All of Nova Scotia, who settled in Nebraska some years ago, but recently decided to return under the flag of the Dominion. Arrangements have been made for a church and school house to be immediately established in the colony.

SEEDING COMMENCED.

SPRING OPERATIONS AT SOURIS-AR-RIVAL OF STOCK FROM THE EAST.

Souris, April 4.-On Saturday last another stock train came in from the east laden with a large amount of live stock and valuable effects. The Souris dirtrict, notwithstanding that its free lands have been long since exhausted, still draws a large number of the best class of settlers every spring. On some farms within a radius of 10 miles from Souris the snow is almost wholly gone. on others hardly a foot in depth still remains.

Already one or two farmers have sown a little wheat.

Large Immigration.

The C. P. R. land department is in receipt of inquiries and information from the eastern provinces that indicate a large emigration to Manitoba and the Northwest this spring.

Selk irk, March 18.-Building operations have begun and every carpenter available is employed. A company is being formed having for its object the building of several cottages, a number of which are already rented.

Primrose Brigade.

Possibly most of our readers have and farther than that the primrose was England's woods and dells, making it "State of Nebraska" arrived from beautiful England indeed. to meet one Mr. Foster at Parkston, a man I had never seen, but he didn't show up, so I thought I was in for it alone; but, as he didn't understand the arrangement, he started the next week, and as I was stopping off so much I happened to run on to him at Indian Head, and we have been together ever since. He, like myself, is looking up a location for himself and others, and we are both well pleased with the country. He wrote his wife today and gave her prices on all his effects there and told her to sell everything as fast as she could and come on, and if I was just looking for myself alone, it wouldn't take me long to decide, but I have concluded to wait until spring opens, so I will wait until then, yet I think I know right now what I will do.

Well, now I will give you a little discription of Calgary, and I am done. It is 840 miles west of Winnipeg, and the most important, as well as the handsomest on a level plain, entirely surrounded by white peaks of the Rocky Mountains. It is the centre of a large ranching country. terial ver Excellent building m hand and a large saw mill, sash and doorfactory help to make up the town. The population is 4,500. Immense quarries of sandstone are right at the edge of the city limits, which is easy to work and takes a very nice finish. There are several very large buildings of this sandstone here now, and more to go up in the spring. I think this town has a great future before it. Here at the mills, I can buy lumber cheaper than I can at Tyndall, but don't know how it will be after it is shipped out h opeful of a large immigration from to other towns. Freight is high.

intending visitors were dismayed to find that the "Special Providence" of Manitoba, i. e., the C. P. R., had decreed there should be no train until 10 p.m. on this particular day. As there was no alternative, as nothing could be done in the absence of the D. Hawke and Conflans, 1759

Early in June, 1759, Admiral Sir Edward Hawke sailed from Spithead to cruise off the Soundings, with a powerful fleet, consisting of forty- the flag of the Marquis de Conflans. three sail. He detached several squad- As if intent only on securing her prey, rons to watch the coast of France, and she passed without heeding the boom more particulary Brest. The Marquis ing shot of the other ships, with the de Conflans, Marshal of France, and angry sea flying in sheets of snowy Vice-Admiral des Armees Navales, being now convinced that the coast was Iy on, under a press of spreading canclear, put to sea on the 14th of November.

On the 15th, Captain M'Cliverty, in the Gibraltar, joined the fleet, and reported that he had seen the French armament about twenty-four leagues north-west of Belleisle, steering to the south-east. On this Sir Edward Hawke immediately shaped his course for Quiberon Bay, in the district of the Morbihan; but a gale from the east drove the fleet considerable to leeward. On the 19th the wind shifted to the westward, when the Maidstone and Coventry, frigates, were ordered ahead, to look out for the enemy; and next morning at eight o'clock they let fly their topgallandt-sails, the exiting signal that the French fleet was in sight.

The whole torce proved to be in pursuit of Captain Duff's squadron, then stationed in Quiberon Bay, blocking up in the Morbihan those transports destined for a projected invasion of Britain.

The moment the Marquis de Conflans perceived the British fleet, he recalled the leading ships that were in chase, and, after some manœuvres, formed al in order of battle; while Sir Edward Hawke drew his fleet into line abrest. In the battle that ensued, one of the most brilliant in our annals, the strength engaged was as follows:-The French fleet consisted of twentyfive sail, all save three ships of the line, manned by 15,200 men, and mounting 1,598 guns.

The British fleet mustered twentythree sail, all, or nearly all, of the line, with 13,295 seamen and marines, and carrying 1,596 guns; hence the enemy outnumbered Hawke's force by 1,905 suddenly careened over, filled, and

THE ANGLO-SAXON

The moment he discovered his sinships, as, with all their sails set, they gular position, he cut hls cable and passed successively onward to reach the van of the enemy, and her crew, drove his ship ashore a little to the westward of Crozie. The Essex, 64 consisting of 820 men, returned their fire with promptitude that excited the guns, Captain Lucius O'Brine, was ordered to pursue her, and in the execution of this duty struck opon a shoal and perished. On the 22nd Sir Edward Hawke sent the Portland, the Portsmouth Harbor-with Sir Edward Chatham, and Vengeance to destroy Hawke on board, was approaching Le the Soleil Royal and L'Heros. The Soleil Royal, 80 guns, which carried first, on seeing the approach of our ships, was fired and abandoned by her crew; and the latter shared the same fate at the hands of our own people ; while Le Fuste, 70 guns, was totally wrecked at the mouth of the Loire. In this most memorable victory the French lost seven ships of the line, and the number of slain ond drowned was never ascertained; but if we may judge every side, her pilot said to the admiral, of the former by the carnage on board "Sir Edward, we cannot carry on the Formidable, it must have been very great. The British fleet had only 300 killed and wounded. Among the former there was only one officer, ing out the risk," replied Hawke; "but Lieutenant Price, of the Magnanime. Captain John Campbell, of the Royal George (afterwards Vice-Admiral of the Red), was dispatched to Britain with the news of the victory. This officer, a man of acknowledged bravery who had originally been pressed into the service when an apprentice boy on board of a Scottish coaster, was taken to the palace in the carriage of Lord Anson, with whom he had sailed round the world in the Centurion.

On the return of Sir Edward Hawke he received the thanks of Parliament, guns to reload. He was afterwards raised to the peerage, as Baron Hawke of Towton; and amid other augmentations to his coat armorial was a chevron erminois between three boatswain's whistles. It is worthy of note that during this war we took or distroyed twenty-seven French ships of the line and thirty-one frigates; two of their great ships and four frigates perished, so that their whole loss was sixty-four sail; whereas the loss to Great Britain did not exceed seven sail of the line and five frigates. WHAT AN EXPOSURE.

How Justice is Administered in the United States

For the past three years, the United States Courts have kept the Missouri jails filled with county judges, because they-the county judges-refuse to obey the orders of the United States courts and levy taxes to pay railway bonds which the state courts had de clared were fraudulently and unconstitutionally issured. The courts of Pennsylvania have become notoriously the corrupt tools of corporations There the judges are so unblushingly in the employ of the railway companies that Chief Justice Paxson of the Supreme court, after coming down from his high position to charge the Alleghany county grand jury lest it should permit some of the Homestead workmen to escape from the coils which the Frick companies had woven around them, resigned his office to accept the receivership) of the Reading railway combine. In St. Paul, Judges Bray and Egan ordered the arrest of members and officers of the legislature for performing their duty in investigating the great coal combine and discharged them only when threatened with im-peachment. Judge Egan declared he would punish the members only he could find no law to fit the case while Judge Bray "reprimanded" the members who were brought before him. In Kansas, the Supreme court broke up the legislature at the dictate of the Santa Fe railway company. In Toledo, court, has opened an entirely new vein in railway decisions and established a precedent that will allow future jurists to lick the boots of corporations more easily than heretofore. He decided in the Ann Arbor railway strike cases that the officials of any labor organiza tion who order a strike may be indict ed for conspiracy and further that they are personally liable for all damages accruing from such orders. The railway company took the hint and immediately sued Chief Arthur of the locomotive engineers for $300,000 damages. While thus bolstering up Capitalism with monstrous decisions like these, the servile courts are equally ready to declare all laws passed for the amelioration of Labor to be unconstitutional. For example, the Illinois court has just decided the law forbidding the "pluck-me" stores to be unconstitutional. The Judges no longer seem to feel any sense of degradation or shame at their servitude, but wear the collar of Capitalism openly as cannot serve God and Mammon. They cannot serve Capitalism and Humanity exaltation of Property and the degrada they will break down all bulwarks it ware. The vengeance of an outraged public will not always be held back and when it comes in its blind fury it may not distinguish between the master and the servant .- The Star.

Comparisons between the present rate of progress in Canada and the United States, to the disadvantage of the former, are founded upon an entirly erroneous assumption.

The conditions in the two countrie are in no sense parallel. The cumula tive momentum of a population which has reached the dimensions of that in the States is a factor whose importance seems to be entirely overlooked.

When Canada has a population of sixty millions, her rate of progress will be far greater than that now going on in the United States.

American history cannot show rate of development under like conditions that begins to equal that which has taken place in Canada since Confederation.

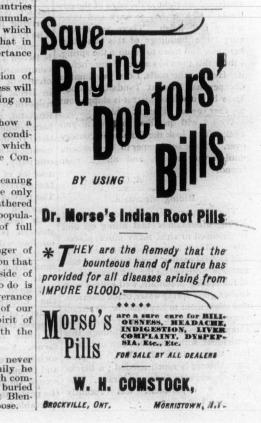

This country has been busy cleaning up the farm, and the crops are only just in. When the harvest is gathered the wheat will come, and the population, and the lusty strength of full manhood.

Canada as a nation, is in danger of suffering from the evil tempation that besets a poor man living alongside of a rich one, and what we want to do is to cultivate the patient perseverance that will bring us the wealth of our big neighbor, and avoid that spirit of envy which kills out effort with the blight of discontent.

The late Duke of Malborough never had much respect for the family he sprang from but he paid it a high com-pliment when he desired to be buried in some other vault than that at Blenheim, in which his ancestors repose

Waiting ! Waiting ! Waiting ! - Weekly Dramatic Rehearsals-Picnics - Build-ing Operations in full Swing.

Special correspondence to the ANGLO-SAXON. Wnnipeg, Man., April 7th, 1893 .-The condition of the average citizen of Winnipeg is now, and has been for some time past, that of Micauber, Dickens' celebrity, who was always waiting for "something to turn up." It has been suggested that this last named individual should have gone to work, and up turned something by his own efforts. Now, in Manitoba, that which is most frequently turned up at this season is the soil, and seeding oporations are usually announced as being well, under way ere now; but this year the papers are silent, and for the good reason that though the streets of Winnipeg are weltering in mud of the most ordurous, as well as most malodorous description, the prairie is covered with half-melted snow, and the ground yet frozen. In the city we are waiting for spring, to escape from the clutches of old winter. There is a very time-worn chestnut about winter lingering in the lap of spring, or, as, some say, it would have been better expressed the other way about, but any way the first named individual has been for many ages supposed to be personified in the masculine form, and in such case a lap would certainly be an inconceivable appendage. But we are wandering ; let this lap business lapse for the present.

In another month or so the sun will e high and will take a course, not as is usually expressed, from east to west. but three parts round the heavens, giving us some eighteen hours of daylight. Then will nature get to work in earnest and do as much in the fructification line in one day as she does in three in the effete regions in the older half of the world. It would be hard to make new comers believe this, but they, like ourselves in the past, must learn by experience.

But, to return from whence we started-waiting. We waited for Lent, then we waited for that fishy season and its ecclesiastical ceremonials and mild dissipations to be over so we might get the Easter holidays. When this time arrived the milliner shops put on the appearance of professional green houses-decked in greens, lilacs, violets and pinks. The dearest of quaint shovel-shaped hats, suggestive of the days of "Bony," attracted crowds, men and women, the ladies thinking how nice this one or that would suit "my" style of profile or complexion, while men, the selfish brutes, were thinking how cute that hat would make Sis look, and that one there would just suit my best girl.

But while all this show is going on within the glass the gazers and admirers without are pulling up their fur collars and dragging down their seal skin caps further over their ears, putting off the purchase till later on.

A BUSY TIME SET IN. In point of fact everyone is waiting except the carpenters and the Sons of Davis and Reynolds addressed the England. The first named, as was lodge.
