NUMBER 9.

PROSPECTUS.

The die is cast! We have launched our barque! May our voyage be a successful one! We to-day present our first-born—the MORNING STAR—to the public. May they receive it with the good wishes for us that we have for them in making the offering.

THE MORNING STAR is destined to fill a long-vacant place in the city. Everybody here must know that the CAPITAL CITY OF THE PROVINCE should not be left to the tender mercies of two weeklies. These papers never could fill that void which we now propose to fill.

No doubt much is expected of us on our first appearance, some people expect to see us flout in silks, while others expect to see every "item" knock somebody down. They will be disappointed. Under the ragged coat often palpitates a noble heart—excuse our appearance if we look somewhat shabby at first—and we come not to knock down, but to build up. The easy way, like the old man who commenced pelting grass, we shall try, till a desperate case compels us to give harder knocks. It is only when badly angered we will bring a millstone on a mosquito's back. Some people—of course there are busy-bodies everywhere—are itching to know what the

POLITICS OF THIS PAPER ARE. Our politics, dear friends, we create for ourselves. Rest assured our paper shall not, like a cur, creep, and lick and fawn, and wag its tail or its tongue, that dame Lucre may follow. No we shall set up no man as an idol; to none shall we "crook the pregnant hinges of the knee," from Sir John Macdonald to Mr. Fraser, from Mr. Fraser to nobody. We shall not shape our policy after a flock of clamorers, be they Government or Opposition, for when these fellows' stomachs are filled, they, as a rule, subside like gormandized gulls. Our policy shall be

A POLICY ON PRINCIPLE! And we don't care who upholds that policy, we are with them. But let nobody be deluded into believing that if we stick to our party when on the road of political rectitude, we are going to follow it into every dirty slough. No. When we approach a dirty neighborhood, we act the part of the coward and return to our own broad platform. We shall not define just now what the particulars of our policy are, but suffice it to say, that as far as the Great Disposer has given us what He has not given many of our politicians, we shall use the same towards ameliorating the people's condition, towards battering down those walls that divide one paltry clique from the other, in trying to bring discordant elements into harmony, and in trying to rout once and for ever from the field those clamoring crows whose sole object is to fill themselves.

THE MORNING STAR we hope to make an EXCELLENT FAMILY NEWSPAPER. No slang or degrading literature shall find a place in its columns; no crew of rampant scribblers shall practice on its pages. It shall be devoted to choice literature, important and reliable information, and several departments we hope to make in time specially suited to

OUR YOUNG READERS. We shall have it circulated all over the Province, yes, beyond St.

Lawrence Gulf. In the woodman's hut and the farmer's cot it will be found, on summer evenings and winter nights, bringing mirth to the jocular and wholesome information to the inquiring. In the railway cars and on the steamboats, in the hamlet and in the town, the STAR will be found always full of matter to please the old or the young, the poet or the calculator. We hope to be able to afford little that the ignoramus will enjoy. Catering to this section of humanity, alas! is becoming the curse of the press, due in part to the ignorance of attaches in part to the greed and low taste of the managers.

We know pretty well what the public want and what is good for them. We shall give

SPICED DISHES and varieties of food. We guarantee nothing that will take an emetic to work off, nor anything that will make a soporific. Others in the business can do that better than we. We shall sound no notes on the Temperance or the Opium question, on Orange ascendancy or Fenian degeneracy—we weigh the two latter, observe—but should these questions at any time come up, did intimidators stand with pistols or pitchforks, money or "slobber," we shall

LAUNCH OUR BROADSIDES into the action and on the right side. During Exhibition week the

MORNING STAR will be published daily—every morning—after which we shall issue a tri-weekly—always trying to keep up to the mark—on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday mornings. On Saturday evening we shall strike off the WEEKLY STAR, a large paper, containing considerable original matter. The latter paper will be excellently adapted for people living outside the city.

And now this part of the tale is told. We hope to be long in the field, and if ever we get into a contest, we hope to show our wounds on the front. If we go down, it will not be without a hard struggle. Gnats cannot affect us, nor sneering opposition take a feather out of us. The heart, strength and respectability of the community are on our side, and we cannot but win. We have full confidence in the public, and, to be candid, no small amount of confidence in ourselves.

We have been in the dark long, but this issue of the MORNING STAR—bright herald—announces approaching day. The dark shadows of night flee before its piercing twinkle, and a new flood of light bursts upon us. May it ever be a true light, shewing things as they are. May we ever stick fast to our motto.

Before our pen shall Error fly,
And Truth the vacant place supply.

THE TREASURE CAVE.

A Tale of Golden Bay. CHAPTER I.

A DISCOVERY.

"Her hair in ringlets hanging down, as black as any snow. Her rolling eyes distracted me, her skin as white as snow."

It was an August evening. Heavy banks of clouds lit up with all tints of the setting sun hung low on the horizon's rim. The great orb of day had gathered about him his mantle of purple clouds, and was preparing to retire to his far ocean couch for the night.

In Golden Bay our story opens. A wild, yet beautiful spot it is. Towering cliffs many hundred feet high rise on either side; between runs a long level strand against which the ocean waves make ceaseless roar. In the background is a beautiful quiet vale embosomed between two hills that enclose it within their verdant arms. A brook in which gambols the sportive trout winds and bubbles its way through alder clumps, under bridges adown and brawling over some ledge and away complaining over the shingly beach till it yields its tribute wave to the ocean.

Beyond on the clear blue waters of Golden Bay sail the downy hantans of the northern seas; away upward in the dizzy height of the cliff sits the sea bird pruning her wings or devouring the shell fish she a moment before snatched from its quiet sea bed.

From a clump of bushes in the bosom of the glen curls a spiral column of smoke rising upward on the ambient air; through the vistas may be seen the unpretentious sides of a cot.

This is the far famed Golden Bay, the resort of pirates and freebooters,—where lie hidden chests of bullion, kegs of gold coins and Mexican dollars. Near this is the famous cave heard of the country round, but never seen by other than freebooter's eye.

Below the cottage is a nook run, lying between an opening in the hill; it is shaded with alder, birch and fir. In the centre is an unpretentious wooden seat. But is the fair creature sitting there some lovely nymph, or an inhabitant of the secluded spot? She holds a book in her hands, poring intently over some passages. It is from the gentle Cowper she reads:

"Blest he though undistinguished from the crowd,
By wealth or dignity,"

she reads aloud, when the wind turning over the leaves causes her to start from her reverie. She looks up, and as she gives a hasty glance seaward an exclamation, half of surprise, half of alarm bursts from her lips. A ship under full press of canvas tacking across the Bay, it is that startles her. And it is no wonder. Not to know what the maiden knows, one need but look at the long low, black hull, the tapering taunt spars of the vessel, her full flow of canvas, to feel alarmed. In a few minutes she disappears around a bluff headland, and the maiden, her book thrown away, sits, her hand against her temples, in evident agitation.

Will our readers pardon us for a moment while we try to describe our heroine? She was of that height which is graceful in women, queenly and erect without hauteur: her skin was fair and might well be compared to the wilderness lily that she was. Her face had that expression which nature pure and simple, unsparing upon those favored ones bestows. Fashion had not taught her to dissemble, nor society to put on airs. From under the long silken lashes of her lustrous eyes, shot forth a glance that might melt the beholder as much from its artlessness as its fascination. Dark, full, lustrous, were those eyes,—brilliant as the diamond they sparkled. The mouth was artless, yet firm,—the face oval—there was beauty, without affectation: expression without art.

And long and rich hung down her glossy raven hair now gently abraded by the autumn wind.

Her fair face as yet could not have seen more than eighteen summers. This was the lovely Helen of the Glen, whose beauty was the theme of the simple folk far and wide, and whose superior mind made the honest rustics to look upon her with the deepest respect.

Then, to tales were told of how on a stormy night when the wild waves followed on the shores, a ship was cut away on the crag rocks and that in the morning drenched with brine.

"Close lashed to a drifting mist" was found little Helen by the family living in Golden Bay.

A lonely region it was. Some miles away, and looking on the bleak ocean was Lear's Cove, a hundred iron cannon thrown upon its rocks that told of days when the daring Vikings too closely tempted the dangerous shores. For many miles around there lived only here and there a solitary family or two, their humble cottages, built beside the craggy cliff as the sea bird holds her nest.

In this wild place, whom could Helen love? He with sympathies more in accord with those whose office it is to command. Not among the humble fishers? Not one who many years ago had seen the little Helen when a lovely child, like a nymph's strand gathering sea shells ocean depths? Three miles distant on the Cape he lived, and while a more boy, two years Helen's senior, he often with his trim and the lamp which were to be a warning to the mariner, of rocks whose touch was destruction, ran gleefully down to see his beloved little friend. Together would they walk the strand with childish glee, holding the canoes to their ear to hear the miniature ocean roar within.

And as years rolled uncounted in their flight, the lovely girl had bloomed into fair womanhood, the boy into manhood. His was a daring spirit, a frank, open, honest heart, who would no more stoop to do wrong, to fawn or flatter, than the eagle could come from his lofty perch to mix him with the cloister seeking bat.

His loved young Helen well, but loved in secret. The love he bore her was the great beacon that shed light on his way. At winter nights he trimmed his lamps, at day read such books as Helen offered him. In summer none so successfully searched the coast for treasures of fish than he.

We turn to Helen. She sits upon her bench till the dark shadows of night begin to creep from the valley up the hills, throwing its arms around each crag and peak. She then rises, and taking her book is about going to the cot when four men wearing masks surrounded her, one hissing in a tone, "A word and you are dead!" (To be Continued.)

DEGRADING LITERATURE.

There is one curse to which ninety per cent. of our young people who read are subject, the reading of thrashy literature. In Yellow covered books, in the sensational periodicals they get it. The first are the dime novels containing nothing that instruct or elevate the young mind. We read of bands of Indians, feathers crowning their heads, scalp locks dangling from their belts, whooping in the still night their murderous war cry, as they burst upon the settler's cabin. They are begrimed in their war paint. A butchery next ensues, and a fire always follows. There is invariably a lovely girl in the scrape and she always falls into the hands of the savages. Then there is some gallant young trapper facetiously named Long Knife or Eagle Eye who scents out the affair. He is off to the rescue. Night and day he follows the trail, and at last performs more feats than Sampson, and finally rescues and marries the girl.

The passions are stirred, the blood is stirred, eye, often the hair is put on its feet, but nothing is gained. Time is lost. These books are written by a low class of writers who knowing nothing can't be expected to impart much.

Then come such papers as Saturday Night, New York Weekly, &c.,

&c. It is only a wonder to us that even silly young people can be deluded into spending an hour over them.

There is not a writer of culture or education on the staff. Their matter is the meanest trash, obscure scenes are laid, imaginary characters are made to rant and rave, to shoot, make love, commit suicide and so end up.

Not a classic or historic allusion. Not a simile or comparison, to set the reader thinking. Not an original thought—not a gem—all blood and thunder sensation and trash. Nothing worth remembering.

Every ten cents laid out to purchase a New York Weekly had as well be laid out buying rum or tobacco—money so laid out had better be thrown to the dogs.

Then there is a class of books of undoubted literary merit. But the matter is like honey and poison mixed. He who would take the honey runs the risk of also getting the poison. Like a serpent hid in the gorgeous flower garden, the demon of obscenity is dressed up in glittering and fanciful English. No worse books are now read and tolerated than Ovid's. She is highly cultured, is original and perhaps second to few novelists, but her writings are poisonous to the young reader. She lays bare the faults of society and her justification—in her own view—seems to be in the moral worked out. But is not the deadly pestilence less injurious in its own filthy slum than stirred up and scattered through the town? No good can come of these exposures. Such books should be forbidden. What then will we read? Read, ay, read a thousand good books if you will, they can be had.

Take Scott, and you get what entertains and instructs you. The Norman lord or the Saxon chief is drawn in such word painting as has never been excelled. Chivalry is seen as vividly as if one lived when knights entered the lists and at the signal of the truncheon met in the lists shivering their spears and goring their opponents.

There then is Marryatt instructing in his way. George Elliott, Wilkie Collins and Bulwer are works none should be without. But what is more interesting than our poets? Who could read Shakespeare, Pope, Swift, Milton, Moore, Byron and not get a square meal? These books are in every bookstore. Read the living authors, Tennyson, Longfellow, Emerson, Whittier and choose from the host of other writers. They fill the world with wholesome diet and improves the man—and the woman.

Immigration.

We at every election allow our zeal to carry us far enough often to get a cut nose or a black eye, over some candidate that we are in favor of. He may be for the Dominion, or he may be for the local legislature—it matters little, as a rule, for which.

The great blockhead will mount a platform, or an empty hogshead and shout out to the "people of York," the "electors of St. John," or somewhere else standing up and protecting their rights and their interests. Ten chances to one the fellow had better be piling "black fallow," or chasing an ox cart round the field. When he comes to the house it takes all his time to ape the fashionable honorables and his constituency is allowed to take care of itself.

We should excuse his being turned out of their houses and homes, English that Josh Billings would blush to write! we should wink at the oratory and even the average brains, but we can't forgive the stupid dishonesty.

Just imagine any honorable ass standing up in the house and blathering in favor of an immigration bill. How much better for the country he had remained chasing calves, or writing writs? Imagine all the fuss and feathers and formulae,—the bowing before somebody in the chair, the strutting around of the sergeant-at-arms, and the attempt to look wise, while such a stupidly iniquitous bill is being writ to the eternal disgrace of the men who is a blot upon the name of intelligence? This may seem harsh talk but 'tis too easy.

A lot of fellows whom the honest confiding people send to represent them, deliberately band together and offer a bonus to strangers to come from Scotland, or from the Netherlands or from China to open up, save the mark, and populate our country. These innocent creatures come out here green as leeks, hardly knowing which they should eat, a pancake or a dish of birch leaves. They know as much about farming or lumbering as the law makers do about legislation. The grit and backbone of our country, our young farmers must root like hogs for their own living and grunt too without compassion. They turn their faces from home, from the wide forests and the fields they love—their skilled labor is lost to the country, sympathies are torn and shattered, while the money which should be paid them as an inducement is expended in "breaking in," the foreigner. We don't care how much per head or per tail the amount is, but every dollar paid to the stranger is a sin crying to Heaven for vengeance against the sons of the soil. Charity begins at home, and anything to be given away we want. It is our own money, and we shall, must have it.

Let strangers come and settle if they will, and after they have become as ourselves, let them have their share of the sums wrung out of the toilers.

We want this policy knocked higher than the McKenzie Government.

THE TEMPERANCE BILL.

The temperance agitators are at work through the city canvassing for the coming election. There are two candidates in the field—Temperance, Esq., and the blackguard Mr. Rum. The friends of the former glory in their candidate, and are bound they say to put him through. On the other hand the friends of Mr. Rum are holding their caucus meetings and feel determined to have their man win.

There are many opinions floating as to what the bill can effect. Some claim that any law which draws a line between the rich man and the poor man is obnoxious. They claim that this is what this law will do. The man who can afford it buys ten gallons at a draw and can get drunk or keep sober while that lasts. It is claimed that this fact robs from the bill its moral leg, inasmuch as the high ones should set examples of morality. Then comes the advocate of the bill. He contends that he is legislating for the poor who can't afford to waste their money on buying liquor. He claims it is the first step towards the final eradication, and that era when peace, and prosperity shall hold joint reign.

These are the two phases of the case, and the people no doubt on the 30th of October will be able to decide on a proper course.

LOCAL BITS.

BUILDING.—Mr. O. Sharkey's new buildings are getting on their feet. This looks cheering.

PERSONAL.—The Receiver general, Mr. Adams, is in town, and is we presume about to die.

NO DESPACHES this morning. Wires closed in consequence of last night's gale. All right soon.

THE GOAT SHOW seems as if it intended to winter here. When it comes to cold for the "camp," "nanny" can go next door.

AGRICULTURAL SHOW.—Kingsclear show was held Thursday last and was quite successful. After our late Exhibition it did not receive very much attention from city folks.

OBITUARY.—The funeral of Mr. T. R. Robertson took place yesterday and was followed by a host of friends and was followed by a host of friends and was followed by a host of friends.

THE REGATTA.—The "Ed" of the Telegraph is very ignorant on boating matters. Had it been a question of canoe or scow racing we should argue it with him, presuming he would know something about it.

Naval H. M. S. Bellerophon, carrying the flag of Vice-Admiral Ingfield sailed from Quebec for Halifax on Saturday, under a salute from the fort.

THE FREDERICTON ROWING FEVER. Wm. Russell, who spoiled the exhibition regatta by rowing into E. H. Allen, has challenged Mr. Allen to row a friendly two-mile race.

LOOSENESS.—Some people are sieves. They leak; they have no bottom. We are fully prepared for an article that is to appear in Saturday's Agriculture, which is to swamp everything.

JES A SLIGHT MISTAKE.—Mr. McCane was looking round for "de fellers dat rowed down onnd broke his glass."

CURLIANA.—At a meeting of Curlers of this city held Thursday evening, at the Waverley Hotel, the following Officers, skippers, etc., were elected:

THE PRESS ON THE "STAR" The "STAR"—The Fredericton Morning Star don't twinkle much itself, but it appears determined to make some of its neighbors blink.

THE MORNING STAR is the name of a sprightly sheet published at Fredericton by Mr. Joseph E. Collins. It was issued daily during Exhibition week, and will be published tri-weekly in future.

THE COURIER has always been known to have the faculty of keen appreciation. We have received the first number of a new daily newspaper just published at Fredericton, N. B., called the "Morning Star."

THE FREDERICTON STAR. Fredericton's new paper, The Morning Star, which is published tri-weekly by Mr. Jos. E. Collins, is filled with well-written original matter.

Now look at the wretch, nobody to love, nobody loving him, skulking along the street anything, but cheerful looking. It is he who has no hopes of ever being married. Take for this last melancholy example. Ourselves. Fredericton rumor gives the lie to this statement about "nobody loving him," and asserts that "he has hopes of being married very soon."

CORRESPONDENTS.

(For the STAR.) WEST END ITEMS. A correspondent sends the following: This section of the town since exhibition week and its consequent turmoil, has at last settled on its beam ends;

Comparatively little is known to the dwellers on the St. John, and the inhabitants of the western portion of New Brunswick, of this part, but few of us are aware of the vastness of the extent, and greatness of the capabilities of the region to the northward of us.

(For the STAR.) MIRAMICHI. Comparatively little is known to the dwellers on the St. John, and the inhabitants of the western portion of New Brunswick, of this part, but few of us are aware of the vastness of the extent, and greatness of the capabilities of the region to the northward of us.

Chatham, Nelson and New Castle are the principal towns romantically situated on the river bank, near the head of tide water. At these ports during the summer months, the greatest activity prevails, the waters of the bay and river being whitened with the sails of hundreds of vessels engaged in carrying the products of the virgin forests to the crowded marts of the old world.

Our local scullers, as the weather assumes its frigid state, one by one hang up their shells upon the stretchers, and now nothing but the stroke of the noble red man disturbs the placid bosom of the St. John in the intervals of the steamship arrivals.

From present appearances there is no sign of an eclipse of the Morning Star. We have every hope it will shine with brilliancy in this more northern latitude than whence it first shot forth its beaming rays.

There is some talk of a protest against the return of Mr. Connel being entered, but we are not in a position to state that all that is mooted will be carried out. We shall wait patiently for authentic information ere we make it public.

Numbers of our young men are now unemployed owing to the mills being shut down for the want of lumber. Some are preparing for the lumber woods, while others will shelter themselves with farmers during the coming winter.

To-day our streets are pretty muddy owing to a heavy rain on Saturday evening. Farmers here would welcome a greater number, so that they could prosecute their fall ploughing with effect. They have every reason to be thankful for an abundant harvest; in general their barns are filled with hay and grain. The root crop with the exception of the potato has been very satisfactory.

The principal stir is made by the few potato buyers from the United States, who are picking up all the good ones, and leaving the poor "christy" to supply the local market. They are worse than the "rust." If the price keeps as at present, we venture to say that in a few weeks there will not be an early rose potato for sale in the county.

Some farmers are foolish enough to think that this is the first fruits of "Protection" and those who support the great O'Connell, take pleasure in boasting that their words came to pass. The sudden rise in the price of potatoes will benefit the farmers, but those who have to work for their daily wages will grumble much at this paying $1.40 to $1.50 a barrel for this article. However, we will wait in anticipation of the golden harvest that all are to reap when Sir John launches forth his "Protection" ship on the much troubled waters of this New Dominion. Our worthy mayor intends leaving for Boston early in November to spend the winter at some hotel, where he will enjoy more "Protection" than he has heretofore had here.

We send you a subscriber for the MORNING STAR, and we hope soon to send others, trusting that Carleton County may assist to counteract any "transit" which may be prophesied to mar the brilliancy of the newly discovered heavenly orb.

A fire occurred here Thursday destroying Mr. Richard Cliff's barn and dwelling. Though the firemen were promptly on hand nothing could be done to save the buildings. Cause of fire attributed to incendiaries. The loss is $1100; insurance $700 on British Mercantile.

Our correspondent wants us to offer inducements to the Marquis of Lorne and "His Royal Lady" to visit Fredericton. We don't know about that just now. Perhaps poverty, for we have not an overflow chest here, is not a fit match for Royalty.—Ed.

YESTERDAYS TELEGRAMS. UNITED STATES. New York, Oct. 19. Six persons returning in a wagon from a camp meeting upset in a lake at Orange County, Florida, on Monday, and five were drowned.

But seven deaths occurred from yellow fever in Memphis yesterday and twenty nine in New Orleans. There were favorable prospects for frost in former city last night.

Barque "Susan," of New Bedford, cleared from that port Saturday on a whaling voyage, and at 7 o'clock that evening was capsized. Out of a crew of twenty-five only three were saved.

LONDON, Oct. 18. A special from Rome attributes the crisis to the dissatisfaction of the Moderates with the home policy contained in the recent speech of the Premier Cairall; also, to other causes, one of which is the interference of the Cabinet with the discipline of the army.

GREAT BRITAIN. The Business Depression. NEW YORK, Oct. 18. A cable special reports better feeling in Glasgow, London and other financial circles.

THE AFGHAN TROUBLE. BOMBAY, Oct. 18. The powerful tribe of Mohmands have divided, and one of the chiefs have offered to join the British. Desertions from the Afghan army are said to be daily.

ENGLAND. Split in Parliament. EDINBURGH, Oct. 18. The London correspondent of the Scotsman reports renewed rumors of the early dissolution of Parliament, in consequence of the differences in the Cabinet relative to the Indian policy.

DEATHS. Suddenly at Fredericton, on Thursday, October 17th, MARY ANN, ELIZABETH, eldest daughter of W. BRYDENE JACK, Esq., President of the University.

New Advertisements. AMERICAN IRON. Now landing per Schooner "Rangola" from Boston: 24 TONS AMERICAN REFINED IRON PRICES for cash or approved paper.

IN THE SUPREME COURT. CONTENTED ELECTIONS. In the Election Petition for the County of York, in which Hiram Dow is Petitioner, and Andrew G. Blair, Frederick P. Thompson, John J. Fraser, and George J. Colter are Respondents.

NOTICE is hereby given that the above Petitioner has, on the sixteenth day of October instant, lodged at the Office of the Clerk of the Peace, notice of an application to withdraw the Petition, so far as the same is against Frederick P. Thompson, John J. Fraser and George J. Colter, of which notice the following is a copy:

"I, the Petitioner, do hereby certify that I have withdrawn the Petition, so far as the same is against Frederick P. Thompson, John J. Fraser and George J. Colter, upon the following grounds:

"With respect to the said Frederick P. Thompson, John J. Fraser and George J. Colter, that the said Frederick P. Thompson has vacated his seat under the provisions of the Consolidated Statutes, Chap. 4, and has demanded of the said Hiram Dow, a bill of the petition's cost, against the said Frederick P. Thompson, and offered to pay the same, stating that such offer was made to prevent further costs.

"With respect to the said Frederick P. Thompson, John J. Fraser and George J. Colter, that the said Hiram Dow has been urged by many of his friends to make this application, and circumstances have arisen which will render it extremely inconvenient for the said Hiram Dow to be in attendance at the time of the said petition, and the said Frederick P. Thompson, John J. Fraser, and George J. Colter consenting to this application; and prays that a day may be appointed for hearing his application.

"Dated this sixteenth day of October, A. D. 1878. "HIRAM DOW, Petitioner."

And take notice, that by the Law relating to Contested Elections, any person who might have been a Petitioner in respect of the said election, may within seven days after publication by the Sheriff of this Notice, give notice in writing of his intention, on the hearing, to apply for leave to be substituted as a Petitioner.

HIRAM DOW, Petitioner. Come and See! 100 Barrels Flour! ELY PERKINS received this day a fine lot of FLOUR, Choice Brands, and Prices very low. YORK COUNTY, WHITE PIGEON, PLIMSOLL, TEA ROSE, &c. Also CORN MEAL.

MISCELLANEOUS. LONDON, Oct. 19. By the overflow of the Bormida River the communes of Millesimo, Orglerio and Coizzano suffered incalculably. Subscriptions have been opened for their relief.

A Berlin special says: "The Hamburg Central Committee of the German Socialists have issued a proclamation urging the Socialists to confine the agitation in the houses, workshops and barracks and to continue the study of works printed about Socialism during the past fifteen years; in short, to change the methods of agitation, but not desist from it."
