A MYSTERIOUS QUEST.
 CHAPTER XXXVIII.
 Jeannette and Virginia.

But, money of itself is good, do you not think so, too, Jeannette?
 "I do, Virginia, so good that I can never have enough of it," she laughed. "It is not that I am mercenary," she protested; but that my pay is so small and our wants so large. I should like—
 She paused, while a flush dyed her earnest, young face. "I forgot," she resumed, "that you were not a peer as myself. You cannot understand—"
 "But I can," broke in the signorina, eagerly. "And I am as poor as yourself—or soon will be—for I shall have nothing while you—"
 "You will have nothing?"
 "Nothing but what a kind husband will give me; but that is everything is it not?"
 "I do not know," retorted the other, quaintly. "Some day I may be able to answer, when I have graduated in other lore than that we learn out of books."
 "I have graduated," whispered the signorina. Then, suddenly; "I am the singer you alluded to!"
 "You! Oh, how wonderful! I did not dream of that, and yet, I might have known it, too. And you talk about giving up your money, so much as it is? But you have no mother to care for."
 "No; and I have a lover. I shall not be unhappy or unprovided for."
 "Yet, it is marvelous. I like to see you, Virginia. You will always be an embodied romance to me, after this. Of course, I do not know why you have to give up this money, but that you can do it makes my heart burn with enthusiasm. It almost causes me to fall in love with love."
 "Ah!" quoth the signorina, "love has its pains as well as its pleasures. It is almost enviable to be free from both, as you are. And to have a mother. Oh, if I had a mother to teach me and to guide me, I might not now be looking back upon my past with regret."
 She sighed and the tears trembled on her eyelashes. Suddenly she turned to Jeannette.
 "Will you be my friend?" she asked.
 "I, your friend?" cried the other. "Will I not?" exclaimed the signorina.
 And the two girls glided into each other's arms, impelled by an attraction that was almost irresistible.
 When the signorina went away she wore almost a joyous look, and the first task to which she turned her attention upon reaching her home was to take out her letter to Mr. Degraw and enclose in it the following note:
 "If you have any hesitancy as to where to place the large fortune thus thrown back upon your hands, let me suggest that you remember the little school teacher, who is no longer name, and who, as you must recognize, is as worthy as I am unworthy, and as beautiful as any one who bears the name of 'Rogers.'"
 CHAPTER XXXIX.
 Another Turn of the Wheel.

OPERATION HER ONLY CHANCE

Was Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound
 Lindsay, Ont.—"I think it is no more than right for me to thank Mrs. Pinkham for what her kind advice and Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. When I wrote to her some time ago I was a very sick woman, suffering from female troubles, and could not stand or walk any distance. At last I was confined to my bed, and the doctor said I would have to go through an operation, but this I refused to do. A friend advised Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and now, after using three bottles of it, I feel like a new woman. I most heartily recommend this medicine to all women who suffer with female troubles. I have also taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Liver Pills and think they are fine." Mrs. FRANK EMSLEY, Lindsay, Ontario.
 We cannot understand why women will take chances with an operation or drag out a sickly half-hearted existence, missing three-fourths of the joy of living, without first trying Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.
 For thirty years it has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has cured thousands of women who have been troubled with such ailments as displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, indigestion and nervous prostration.

loves him and intends to be his wife. His looks speak his greeting.
 "Enter," Miss Rogers; enter, my dear Mrs. Dutton. My studio is honored by your presence. Ah, I have often wished that you could visit me here, if only to see this sketch of Miss Aspinwall. It is thought to be one of my most successful efforts."
 Jenny's eyes, which had been roaming with visible curiosity through a spot which might soon be her only refuge, turned at these words, and followed his pointing finger.
 "Oh, how lovely!" she cried. "When did you paint this? Has Hilary seen it?"
 "No, I have not felt at liberty to show it to Miss Aspinwall. It is an idealized sketch, you see. I call it 'A Poet's Dream.'"
 "Ah," murmured Jenny, with a wistful tone in her voice.
 "I have another picture which I call 'Love's Reality,'" he tenderly observed, taking advantage of Mrs. Dutton's considerate pre-occupation with the sketches she saw everywhere displayed. "Can you guess who was my model for that?"
 Jenny's eyes met his, and he thought he never saw her look more glowing.
 "May I guess that it is your future wife?" she whispered.
 With difficulty he suppressed the impulse to clasp her then and there to his heart. But he pressed her hand, which had somehow stolen toward his own, and his face told to the rest.
 "Oh, my darling!" he breathed. "Would we were alone for one short minute!"
 "We are," she laughed. "Mrs. Dutton is very short-sighted, and so deaf when she thinks it best to be, that she cannot really be looked upon as an intruder. Yet, I do not mean for you to forget the proprietress," she naively insinuated, as he approached his arm toward her waist. "We can talk unrestrainedly and that is a great privilege, for we have much to say to each other, have we not?"
 "Much; we have to plan for a lifetime," he declared.
 "And you have to explain why you left me for three days, hovering between hope and despair."
 His face fell; a shadow flitted dark and threatening across his satisfaction.
 "Are you going to press me for that?" his look appeared to ask.
 Her look responded. "Certainly; can you think me capable of ignoring such neglect?"
 He sighed, and reluctantly admitted:
 "I have had a great deal to try me lately, Jenny. I have a friend upon whose judgment I rely, and this friend, for some reason impossible for me to fathom, has conceived an inexplicable distrust of you."
 "And who?" she began, but she had not courage to continue. She felt as if an axe had been laid at the root of her happiness.
 "It is a person whose name it seems an indignity to you to mention," he responded; "yet he is a noble fellow and a gentleman. I allude to Mr. Byrd, Jenny."
 "Mr. Byrd!" How wild her eyes looked; and her speech, how thick it sounded.
 "I distrust you," she objected. "This is not talk for such a day as this. Let us omit explanations."
 "No, no," she entreated, drawing him toward a quaint little recess upon which he had expended all his art and taste to make it a nook worthy to hold the picture he had painted of her. "I must hear why Mr. Byrd distrusts me. His conduct surely has not been of a distrustful nature; then why should his thoughts be?"
 "That, dearest, I do not know. I am only telling you why I did not at once rush to you after your loving revelation at Miss Aspinwall's reception. He held me back."
 "And you let him?"
 "His entreaties were urgent," demonstrated the artist. "He asked me to wait a week—only a week. He declared I owed that much to my career, and when I replied that I could not see you without betraying my

Nerves Are Exhausted
 And nervous prostration or paralysis is creeping steadily upon you.
 You hear of people suddenly falling victims of nervous prostration or some form of paralysis. But when you get all the facts of the case you find that they have had months of years of warning.
 They haven't slept well. There has been frequent attacks of nervous headache. Digestion has failed. They have been irritable, easily worried and excited and have found memory and concentration failing.
 Had they but known that these symptoms tell of exhausted nerves or had they realized their danger they would have restored the feeble, wasted nerves by use of such treatment as Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.
 This great restorative treatment cures by forming new, rich blood and by rebuilding the wasted nerve cells. No medicine is more certain to prove of lasting benefit to the system. 50 cents a box, 5 boxes for $2.50; at all dealers or Edmondson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

feelings, he entreated me to stay away from you till he could substantiate his doubts. He did not say what they were, promising that he would do this in the one week which he expected. As he naturally awakened my own doubts by these unexpected and forcible demonstrations, I yielded to him, Jenny? Though I see now that I did wrong in this, that I should have trusted you implicitly, I was weak enough to withhold myself from your side for three days. Then my love triumphed. I went to Mr. Byrd and told him that he had exacted too much from me, that I could not and would not believe that you were gave as an argument in your favor the fact that you were ready to give up your great fortune to please my whim. He was overwhelmed; had not dreamed you or any other woman capable of so great a sacrifice, and ended by asking my pardon for insinuations which had been occasioned, as he asserted, by a total misconception of your character. This was at 8 o'clock, Jenny. At half-past nine I was at your house. There were lights in the parlor, but I was not admitted.
 "It was through a mistake," she murmured, with lowered head and brow turned away. "—And there she paused. How could she go further? How explain this situation? Besides, she felt weak and shaken. That any man should have distrusted her and made her lover share his doubts, if only for a few days, was terrible to her. She did not know how to hide her agitation, nor how to keep back her tears.
 "When I got home, I wrote to you," he resumed. "The letter must have been a wild one, but since it has brought you here I will not apologize for it. And now, is my sweet one going to forgive me? Can a woman ever forgive her lover's distrust, even when occasioned by the well-planned suggestions of a reliable and generous friend?"
 She did not answer; the waves of grief and fear were rising bitterly in her breast.
 "I love you so," he went on, forgetting Mrs. Dutton's presence, which, indeed, did not trouble itself, "and my trust is so completely restored; I can never doubt you again, nor will I ever in the future listen to any one's words against you, Jenny, Jenny! my queen! my life! Look around, give me your hand, breathe sweet forgiveness, and forget—"
 "The word was uttered loudly in Mrs. Dutton's most pronounced tones. Mr. Degraw and Miss Rogers at once turned, and colored deeply as they saw the form of Hilary standing in the studio door.

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON

One of my letter friends, who was particularly interested in the talk about "G o d's delivery horses," has sent me a most interesting little document along this line.

This document was issued by authority of the Police Department of New York and has been published in several cities. I do not think it can be published too widely or too often.

If you haven't seen it yet, I'm sure you'll find it much food for thought, in regard to man's best animal friend. If you have seen it before look it over again. It's worth it.

Horse's Prayer to His Master.

Feed me, water and care for me, and when the day's work is done provide me with shelter, a clean, dry bed and a stall wide enough for me to lie down in comfort. Talk to me. Your voice often means as much comfort as the reins. Pat me sometimes, that I may serve you the more gladly and learn to love you. Do not jerk the reins and do not whip me when going up hill. Never strike, beat or kick me when I do not understand what you want, but give me a chance to understand you. Watch me, and if I fail to do your bidding, see if something is not wrong with my harness or feet.

Examine my teeth when I do not eat. I may have an ulcerated tooth, and that, you know, is very painful. Do not tie my head in an unnatural position, or take away my best defense against flies and mosquitoes by cutting off my tail.

And, finally, O, my master, when my useful strength is gone, do not turn me out to starve or freeze, or sell me to some cruel owner to be slowly tortured and starved to death; but, do thou, my master, take my life in the kindest way, and your God will reward you here and hereafter. You will not consider me irreverent if I ask this in the name of Him who was born in a stable. Amen!

"Well, Miss Cameron, you must be just about perfect, you write against so many faults," a woman said to me the other day.

Hr. Grace Notes.

The funeral of the late Mr. John Sheridan took place yesterday morning and was very largely attended by all classes and creeds by whom he was largely esteemed.

The Telephone Company are today putting in additional telephones for parties desirous of enjoying its benefits. The Telegram placed an order with them some time ago for one for its correspondent here, but up to the present we are like the man on the house; still we keep believing.

The Please U was again well patronized last night, and the pictures were very good. The company are already practicing for a big entertainment on Easter Monday night.

What has become of Chang Lee, our Laundry man, is now the burning question. Chang went to St. John's nearly three weeks ago and has not since returned, notwithstanding the fact that quite a number of our citizens have laundry there. Chang was a very quite, good fellow, and we would be sorry to hear of any mishap befalling him. Too long, Chang, too long, no good, too much away.

Mr. Collis' Concert takes place on Wednesday next, 31st inst., and promises to be a very enjoyable affair, as the majority of our local talent is taking part.

Mr. J. J. Norris, of Notre Dame Bay, who with his wife and children removed here last fall to spend the winter, left on Thursday for a trip to Canada and the United States. The trip will take about six weeks, and is on business and pleasure combined. We wish our friend a very pleasant trip with most profitable business.

Playing With Dynamite.

Children Injured by Explosion.

As the result of a dynamite explosion recently at Mudford, near Yeovil, several school children received serious injuries.

A nine-year-old boy named Colley discovered in a outhouse two small brass tubes containing dynamite and used for blasting purposes. Imagining they were fireworks he called his playmates together, and after emptying the contents of one tube into the other he applied a match.

The tube exploded with great force, and a boy named Garland had his left hand almost blown to pieces, his right hand torn open in several places, and his face severely cut, while his coat buttons were blown to fragments and parts of his body scorched.

Colley's hands and face were severely injured, and his sister was struck in the face by flying metal. All were found in a stupefied condition.—Daily Mail.

Patriotism

The stomach is a larger factor in "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness" than most people are aware. Patriotism can withstand hunger but not dyspepsia. The confirmed dyspeptic "is fit for treason, stratagems and spoils." The man who goes to the front for his country with a weak stomach will be a weak soldier and a fault finder.

A sound stomach makes for good citizenship as well as for health and happiness.

Household Notes.

A cloth dipped in ammonia will often remove the stains from the collar of an overcoat.

Whip cream in a pitcher instead of a bowl, to do it in half the time and without spattering.

Paraffine rubbed on the heels of stockings will cause them to last much longer without wearing out.

Orange fritters are as delicious an accompaniment to broiled or fried ham as apple sauce to spare rib.

In cooking beans and peas, their flavor will be much better if they are cooked in as little water as possible.

Dates stuffed with peanut butter and then rolled in sugar are a pleasing change from dates stuffed with nuts.

If curtain or portiere pole is rubbed with hard soap before being put up, the draperies will slip on easily.

Dates and figs cut in small pieces and served with plenty of sugar make a tasty accompaniment to a dish of rice boiled in milk.

Cheese may be kept soft and good for a long time if wrapped in a cloth wrung out in vinegar and then wrapped again in a dry cloth.

Whole wheat or brown bread cut into very thin slices and spread with unsalted butter is tasty served with oysters on the half shell.

Strange as it may seem, beef may be kept for months if immersed in sour milk. The lactic acid destroys the germs of putrefaction.

Scraps of toilet soap should be saved, and when half a cupful or so in hand it is a good plan to make the scraps into a jelly.

To use sour milk for griddle cakes, never add baking powder, but instead, an even teaspoonful of baking soda to each cup of milk.

Stick a pin through the cork of every bottle that contains poison, and this may save tragic mistakes when seeking medicine in the dark.

Some of the most attractive glass mustard jars come provided with glass spoons. Many prefer these to silver, as they will not tarnish.

Potato balls which are sauted in butter after being boiled are delicious. They should be served with a generous sprinkling of minced parsley.

New President of Board of Trade

We congratulate Mr. G. C. Fearn on his election to the Presidency of the Board of Trade. It is a well deserved compliment to him for his untiring labours since the movement was started to establish this Association. He spent much time and labour in bringing the institution through the trials of its birth, and has been constant and unwavering in his attempt to conserve the interests of its members. Notably has he done much in the way of attempting to stop the practice of firms cutting one another out in supplying fish for the foreign market. We understand that the new President intends to take a trip to the Mediterranean markets, in the near future, in a steamer which will leave here with fish for those markets, and the visit of the President of the Board of Trade should do much to place our staple in a better position in those markets. Some think that the Board of Trade has spread its activities over too wide a field, and that such matters as Municipal affairs might well be cut out of their sphere of influence.

The Board of Trade would also stand better with the community if less attention was paid to projects of the Government which are not matters of trade. The policy of the Government in regard to Agriculture is hardly a subject which should find a place within the confines of its annual report. We have no doubt as time goes on the Board will concentrate its efforts on its proper and legitimate sphere, and these are sufficiently engrossing to take up all the energies of its busy members can spare from their own private and business affairs.

We extend our congratulations to Mr. Gosling on his election as Vice-President. Time has brought some tardy recognition of Mr. Gosling's services in the promotion, formation, and working of the Board of Trade. It may be remembered that Mr. Gosling was a pioneer in the promotion of this association. Towards the end of the year 1908, Mr. Gosling wrote a series of letters which were published in the Evening Telegram, on "The Fishery and The Fish Markets."

In a letter dated December 1st, 1908, Mr. Gosling strongly advocated the formation of a Board of Trade. In this letter he wrote as follows:—"I think, however, that it is obvious that our fish business is not being conducted in a manner to ensure the best results, and that a great deal may be done to improve the situation. The disadvantages under which the trade is labouring may be classified as lack of harmonious co-operation amongst ourselves, lack of information, and lack of proper representation in our principal markets. I put "LACK OF CO-OPERATION" first because all the rest results from it. We are like the bundle of sticks in the fable,—combined we would be strong enough to resist attack, but separated, we are broken in turn.

"The moral therefore is COMBINE. But it will be said that it has been tried before and failed. With all due deference, however, I think that there were excellent reasons why the two previous attempts at combination broke down. The first, which included an attempt to regulate the buying price of fish, was, in my opinion, very detrimental to the trade of the country. It was clearly an agreement in restraint of trade, tended to depress prices, and deserved to fail. It would now be illegal. The second combination included four to five merchants only but worked fairly well for a time but as it did not include all the exporters, the full value of combination was lost, and it was foredoomed to failure.

"To be successful, any combination in trade must be fundamental and comprehensive. A half and half affair will not be strong enough to gain the desired end, will tempt opposition and enmity from those who are not included, and will certainly fail again. "In my opinion, the first thing to be done is to form a comprehensive Board of Trade, including every class of industry and every business man in the city. It should be duly incorporated and be a dignified body able to compel the respect and adherence of its members. Let us form such an Association as will be strong enough to influence Governments and secure such legislation as may be needed; that will be rich enough to pay for the collection and tabulation of all sorts of information which may be required by trade."

Mr. Gosling was one of the principals at the meeting which inaugurated the Board of Trade. Since its incorporation he has been one of the chief workers, and like Mr. Fearn has not spared himself in his efforts to make the Board a success.

Three Vagrants Arrested.

At 2.30 this morning, Officers Lee and Dunphy found 3 men vagrants who have no home sleeping in a stable in Hayward Avenue. The night was very stormy and while the men were in the stable there was danger of their setting fire to it. The trio who are never do wells, were arrested and in Court to-day were sent down for 10 days on a charge of vagrancy.

THE BAHIA MARKET.—The Fisheries Department had the following wire to-day from Bahia: "Forty two milraes, fair."

A Reservist Dismissed.

Mr. Samuel Spurrell, of Pool's Island, who was here to put in two months' drill on the Calypso, was court-martialled and dismissed yesterday, and though he had earned about $38 for the four weeks' time that he put in, he says that he will not get a cent. According to his own story his case is a hard one. Another Reservist man missed his collar Sunday morning. He complained to the officer and on a search being made it was found that Spurrell had it on. He says that he did not know till that moment that it was not his own collar. He had taken it out of his own box where he had an ample supply of his own, which circumstance, he says, should be in itself proof that he need not steal the collars of other men. He believes that some one put this particular collar in his box either by mistake or for a malicious purpose. There are now 180 men on the Calypso. He was given only a ticket to take him home.

Beat His Wife.

Mr. John Diamond called at our office to-day and stated that as his wife was driving home with him on his slide Saturday evening she was assaulted and beaten by another teamster whom, he alleges, she was man asked to haul out of the way so that their horse might pass by. Diamond says that the man hit the woman between the eyes and that in falling she came in contact with an ice hook on the slide and was hurt about the body. She was confined to her bed Sunday and yesterday, and he says further that she will summon her aggressor.

Reids' Ships.

There was no report of the Gloucester try. It was clearly an agreement in restraint of trade, tended to depress prices, and deserved to fail. It would now be illegal. The second combination included four to five merchants only but worked fairly well for a time but as it did not include all the exporters, the full value of combination was lost, and it was foredoomed to failure.

"To be successful, any combination in trade must be fundamental and comprehensive. A half and half affair will not be strong enough to gain the desired end, will tempt opposition and enmity from those who are not included, and will certainly fail again. "In my opinion, the first thing to be done is to form a comprehensive Board of Trade, including every class of industry and every business man in the city. It should be duly incorporated and be a dignified body able to compel the respect and adherence of its members. Let us form such an Association as will be strong enough to influence Governments and secure such legislation as may be needed; that will be rich enough to pay for the collection and tabulation of all sorts of information which may be required by trade."

Rev. Father Curran's Will.

Our contemporary was all astray yesterday in saying that the late Fr. Curran's estate was worth $60,000. The fact is that it is worth only about $10,000 and very little of it dry money. The will was made in 1910 and amongst the legacies is one of $1,000 to Rev. Fr. Healey, his old teacher at Holy Cross College, Dublin. Another bequest of $1,000 goes to the Catholic Extension Society of Canada. The greater part of the balance of the estate, chiefly property, goes to the Diocese of St. George's, including the house on Water Street and two houses on Cochrane Street. Out of this, however, an annuity is to be paid to an old housekeeper of his father, Miss Foley, of Hayward Avenue. Most of his books that are not theological works are willed to the Knights of Columbus this city. The theological works go to his Alma Mater, Holy Cross College, Dublin. The household furniture is left to Belvidere. There is a substantial amount also set out for Masses for his soul and those of his parents. Mr. J. J. McGrath is his executor.

Here and There.

KOHLER PIANO.—A splendid new 400 dollar Kohler Piano is offered at a bargain. Not one year in use. Owner leaving the country and selling off. For particulars apply to CHESELEY WOODS, Water Street.

ENTERTAINED THE OFFICIALS.—In celebrating his 80th birthday yesterday, Mr. M. T. Knight entertained the officials of the Board of Works office at his residence. They were his co-workers for many years and he related many interesting incidents in his career. Mr. Jas. Harris Secretary of the Board, in a neat speech, congratulated Mr. Knight and thanked him for his hospitality to himself and friends.

McManigle Told All.

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 9.—Whatever Ortle E. McManigle, the confessed dynamite, knows about the complexity of others besides the McNamara brothers in the blowing up of more than one hundred "open shop" structures in various sections of the country in the last five or six years is believed to have been related by him in his preliminary story before the Federal Grand Jury yesterday. Taken from his cell in the Federal Building, where he had been lodged before daylight after his secret trip, in the custody of Government officials from Los Angeles, Cal., McManigle, the confessed accomplice of John J. and James B. McNamara, went before the jurors after his written confession had been presented in detail. That the prisoner will be kept in attendance on the Grand Jury for ten days or two weeks was indicated by the intention of United States Attorney Chas. W. Miller to have him repeat his confession orally and to describe with minute circumstance his relations with others in his dynamiting, from the time he first blew up a structure in Detroit in June, 1907, down to his activities in the same business on the Pacific Coast.

McManigle confesses to personal knowledge of at least thirty of the explosions which destroyed bridges and other structures erected by firms employing non-union men.

The Grand Jury devoted much attention yesterday to witnesses from Tiffin, Ohio, where last April 540 lbs. of dynamite were found by detectives in a barn in the rear of the home of James L. McManigle, father of Ortle. This was one of the stores from which Ortle McManigle and James McNamara replenished their supply of explosives when they started out to do "jobs" in Pennsylvania, New York, Ohio, Indianapolis or Illinois.

Fur Sealing.

Fur experts say the 25,000 seal skins recently sold in London at an average price of $27 per skin means that only about 6,000 new sealskin coats will be available this year for the women of the whole world. The same authority says that in March next there will be offered for sale in London 300 more seal skins from Copper Island by the Russian Government. The fact that Russia has only 300 pelts to offer from the Commanderofski rookeries, which less than ten years ago had 40,000 skins, shows the inroads made by Japanese raiders. These raids have badly cut up the Russian herds during the past few years. In 1904 the raiders began while the guard was withdrawn during the war. Five schooners took 12,000 skins. In 1906 a fleet of schooners from Japan made a concerted raid, landing a field gun. The guard was driven back and the raiders in the guard house while the raiders clubbed and killed on the hauling ground. No details of this raid were ever made public.—Fishing Gazette.

Connaught Impresses Americans.

Special Evening Telegram. LONDON, Jan. 29.

An editorial in the New York Times on the Duke of Connaught's visit concludes: "The Duke is back in Ottawa, but memories of his brief sojourn beyond the border will live and bear fruit in many minds. It is the feeling of the masses of the people which, in self-governing nations like Britain and her Dominions, and like the United States, which, determine national relations. Such visits as that which has just come to a happy close tend to make these feelings more friendly and more intimate, and to obliterate the last traces of prejudices that are old and prevent the growth of others. They make for common good-will, and in so doing make for the peace and happiness of mankind."

The Telegraph says editorially:—"Connaught has come, seen, and conquered. First, because of his great, dignified personality, which carried with him an influence proportional to the authority of the Royal House of Britain; secondly, because he has been found an admirable representative of the English race, who say to their kinsmen across the sea, with sincere desire that all members of the Anglo-Saxon brotherhood should work in common for the peace and welfare of the world."

Special Evening Telegram. LONDON, Jan. 29.

Stops a Deep-seated Cough in a Hurry

A Family Supply of Unequaled Cough Remedy for 50c—Money Refunded if it Fails.

Cough medicines, as a rule, contain a large proportion of plain syrup—a good ingredient, but one that anyone can make. A pint of granulated sugar, with ½ pint of warm water, stirred for 2 minutes, gives you as good syrup as money can buy.

A 50-cent bottle of Pinex, mixed in a 16-oz. bottle with home-made sugar syrup, gives you 16 ounces of really better cough syrup than you could buy ready mixed for $2.50. There's a clear saving of $2.00. Full directions in package. And money couldn't buy a quicker, better remedy. Takes hold at once, gives almost instant relief, and usually stops the most obstinate, deep-seated cough in 24 hours. It stimulates the appetite, is slightly laxative, and has a pleasant taste—children take it willingly. Splendid for hoarseness, asthma, chest pain, and other throat troubles, and unequalled for prompt results in whooping cough. Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of imported Norway White Pine extract, and is rich in gualacol and other natural healing pine elements. Simply mix it as directed with sugar syrup or strained honey, and it is ready for use. Used in more homes in the U. S. and Canada than any other cough remedy. Pinex has often been imitated, but never successfully, for nothing else will produce the same results. The genuine is guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. Certificate of guarantee is wrapped in each package. Your druggist has Pinex or will get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

"Keep Pegging Away."

Men seldom mount, at a single bound, To the ladder's very top; They have to climb it, round by round, With men a start and stop. And the winner is certain to be the man, Who labors day by day, For the world has learned that the surest plan Is to just keep pegging away.

You've read, of course, about the hare And the tortoise—the tale is old— How they ran a race we don't know where, And the tortoise won, we're told. The hare was sure he had time to pause And to browse about and play, But the tortoise got there first, because He just kept pegging away.

A little toil and a little rest, And a little more earned than spent, Is sure to bring to the snug home nest A spirit of calm content. And, so though the neighbors may put on style, Be patient and don't get gay; You'll have treasures to loan 'em after awhile If you just keep pegging away.

Conciliation, the Watchword.

Special to Evening Telegram. LONDON, Jan. 9.

Sir Edward Grey, at a political meeting in an obscure hamlet, referring to attacks on his foreign policy by the press and supporters of his own party, speaking of Russia's practical annexation of Mongolia, said that if Britain was going to interfere actively in Central Asia, in questions far beyond the Indian frontier, the nation would incur not only very heavy naval expenditure, but vastly increased military expenditure as well. That policy, added Sir Edward, if carried out, would soon leave us without a friend in Europe. He virtually admitted that Persia had been thrown overboard to secure a continuance of Russian friendship. The secret of this attitude is found in the fear that Britain is in danger of a clash with Germany as an outcome of the Moroccan differences. From now on conciliation will be the watchword in British diplomacy. There is intense dissatisfaction in England at this amiable attitude. Mass meetings have adopted appeals to the Government to prevent the partition of Persia, which is regarded as the inevitable outcome of the present Russian expansion and British non-interference.

THE TONSORIAL ART.

THE TONSORIAL ART.

The tonsorial art is a form of torture invented by the Chinese just prior to the discovery of the pole-vaulting toothache. The Chinese popularized this art by shaving the members with a pair of wire nippers, and in some localities the formula is still doing business at the old stand. The barber has a very trying life. He is expected to cut a man's hair so that his wife won't think the grocer has duplicated an order for head lettuce, and if he works in a few quaint stepladder effects and hedge fence trimmings the customer will engrave the date on memory's wall and roar about it until he hasn't got enough hair to make a door knob. Jealous. Whenever a man's hair begins to fall by the wayside, he lays it to the barber and has his shampooing done at home by a devoted wife and a section of tar soap. The barber is the best informed person in the community and never allows anybody's mind to wander. A communicative barber once told us that the most harrowing experience of his life was when he related the inside history of the Russian-Japanese war to a customer who turned out to be so deaf that he couldn't hear the fire bell. It is a very annoying thing to be shaved by a barber who is of an intellectual turn, as he is liable to lapse into a dreamy reverie and inflame the customer's eyeballs with surplus lather. There are various styles of shaving. Some barbers first rub the customer's beard into a state of coma, leaving the pleasing impression of having been walked over by a disc harrow, while others glide o'er hill and vale with a razor which biteth like a serpent and stingeth like an adder. The barber who can dehorn an imposing stand of whiskers without strapping the patient to the chair and administering laughing gas never has to patronize the column devoted to "Male Help Wanted."

Florizel's Rough Trip.

The ss. Florizel, Capt. Smith, arrived here from New York via Halifax at 8 a.m. today after a very rough run from the latter port. The ship left New York and made the run to Halifax in 49 hours, with extra fine weather prevailing. She left that port Sunday evening at 7 o'clock and had fine weather for the first few hours, only to be succeeded by heavy seas from the N. and N. W. with thick snow squalls and a mountainous sea, which lasted until this port was reached. Yesterday terrible weather prevailed and time and again heavy waves swept over the ship. At 5 a.m. one tremendous sea swept on board over the port rail, beat in the saloon doors on that side and sent tons of water down into the saloon, flooding it completely and doing considerable damage. The water entered several of the state-rooms and overturned tables, etc., drenched everything about and while the ship was pitching in the sea everything was turned topsy turvy, tables were broken and a good deal of damage was wrought. The seas also beat in several of the saloon port lights and a great quantity of water was let in through these apertures. Another sea took away the after flagpole and did some damage about the decks. The ship steamed through a lot of heavy slob ice to the eastward of St. Pierre Bank and lost two patent logs while coming through this. She brought a full cargo, some small matter and these passengers:— Mrs. F. Long, E. L. Elizer, Jno. F. Evans, J. M. Marshall, R. Marshall, Jno. Anthony, W. Norman, Leo Fitzgerald, L. Mold, A. P. Colman, Mrs. P. Winslow, J. B. Croutart and child, W. H. Thackeray, G. G. Yelkine, H. F. Fenwick, G. G. Hetherington, P. E. Hall, W. H. Patterson, A. W. Meade, W. B. Williams and 5 second class.

How the Accident Occurred.

Sergt. Jno. Byrne of the Detective Department of the police force, narrowly escaped sharing the sad fate of Rev. E. Curran in the terrible explosion of Saturday evening at Pouch Cove. While Fr. Curran was in the generator house charging the cyclinder with the gas, Sergt. Byrne remained with him from 5 to 6 p.m. and then left for Grouchy's home. But that the Sergeant had some business to perform he might have remained with the priest, who left the place for a short time until he returned with Nellie Wall, who brought a lantern. Sergt. Byrne says that when the Priest reached the generator house he stood in the porch, which leads to the house and on opening the door the fumes of escaping gas met him. The girl, Wall, stood outside the porch with a lighted lantern behind her back, and when Father Curran closed the door to the generator house which he did almost instantly some of the gas which came through the door was ignited by the flame of the lantern, and this communicating with the gas which filled the generating house caused the explosion, while the deceased priest stood in the porch. Some weeks ago a brother of the girl Wall while helping Father Curran to charge the generator was overcome by gas which escaped and almost lost his life. The poisonous vapour was inhaled by him in large quantities and extreme measures had to be taken before he could be revived. He narrowly escaped death.

Railway News.

The east bound express left Arnold's Cove at 8 a.m. today. The west bound express was at Woodford's at noon today. The plow special that left here yesterday morning taking Mr. Connors and 50 men to do snow fighting and relieve the outgoing express, arrived at Brigus Junction at 10 a.m. After relieving the train this afternoon the relief train with plow and a gang of men will go on to Carboneau to clean up the road there and allow the local to get on to town. They will then go on to the Broad Cove line to clear the snow. The Bonavista line is closed. The Carboneau train will be free to-night. One of the big rotary plows started from Bay of Islands coming east this morning and the other left Bishop's Falls also coming east to clear the road and relieve the express that is at Arnold's Cove coming this way.

Today the two young men who were arrested yesterday afternoon for assaulting and beating Kim Lee, Hong Ene, and Hon Wah, pleaded not guilty to the charge. Mr. Kent, K. Coaker's Reception in Bay de Verde

Special to Evening Telegram. OLD PERLICAN, To-Day. President Coaker held a meeting here last night and spoke three hours, delivering the best speech ever heard here. The audience was delighted and amazed, and cheered and applauded. A grand reception was accorded him on his arrival on Friday. Grand send off today. Volleys of musketry for an hour rang out all over town. Grate's Cove on Saturday accorded Coaker the best demonstration ever held there. Bay de Verde on Friday received Coaker royally. People of both places met him a mile from the settlements and greeted him with cheers and volleys of musketry from hundreds of guns. Coaker will eventually be a big factor in the future of the Colony. He is a coming man. CORRESPONDENT.

George Street Epworth League.

Last evening in spite of the storm a goodly company gathered under the auspices of the above League when the most interesting debate entitled, "Is woman man's equal and ought she to be accorded man's privileges?" was under discussion. The affirmative was ably upheld by Mr. G. W. Rabbis, Mrs. Cockram and Mrs. Tucker; while the negative was supported by Mr. C. Pratt Mrs. J. W. Bartlett and Mrs. A. S. Butler. In the general discussion which followed the debate was sustained by Rev. J. W. Bartlett, Messrs. R. Herder, J. Bowden, B. Edgecombe, C. Bowden, Misses Butler and Parsons, Mr. H. T. Courtenay rendered the beautiful solo, "Queen of the Earth," with sweet expression. The President, Mrs. Hunter, in a few well chosen words welcomed all the visitors present and announced the Devotional meeting for next week. After the collection and usual closing exercises one of the most interesting and I trust, profitable meetings was brought to a close.—Com.

Rossley Star Theatre.

Last night the greatest crowd yet attended the Star Theatre to witness one of the best acts ever given in any theatre for the money. McPhee, J.P., in an act every one should see, there are nine people in the cast, and every character has an important part. Bill Bravley, impersonates an old Irish woman with a grievance, which is a genuine piece of acting; Marie Rossley was funny as Mrs. McAllen; Percy Orth, made a great lawyer; Lillie Bravley, and Bonnie Rossley, each played their parts with the spirit of old times; Wee Willie, caused roars of laughter when he brought his ladder and mounted it to speak to the judge; Joe, the comical Joe, Burkhardt, as the pride of the force, with his smart strut delighted one and all; Joe Burkhardt is only a very young man, but we prefer a great future for him as a born comedian; Then Jack Rossley who has kept his audience laughing for over a year, an unheard of record, as McPhee, J.P., was one continual laugh; his sentences on the various prisoners being too funny to express. It's the greatest show yet. Joe Burkhardt does a fine single specialty before the big act. Bonnie Rossley sang an illustrated song, that got her two encores. The pictures were now and very good. Then the Star Orchestra played some beautiful selections, with Miss K. Ring at the piano. Jack Rossley is being complimented on all sides for his class of entertainment and packed houses. He deserves it.

As a Cure for Whooping Cough

A medicine that will cure whooping cough can certainly be relied upon to overcome all ordinary coughs and colds. This is about the severest test, and one to which Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine has frequently been put with the most satisfactory results. Mrs. John Chesney, Inverkip, Ont., writes:—"We have used a dozen bottles of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine. It cured my little girl of whooping cough when the doctor had given her up, and since then we always keep a bottle of this as a treatment for coughs and colds. It is the best medicine we ever used. In spite of imitations and substitutes, the sales of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine keep right on increasing, and this is, we believe, the most substantial evidence that can be offered as to the reliability of this well-known medicine as a cure for croup, bronchitis, whooping cough and similar ailments; 25 cents a bottle, at all dealers, or Edmondson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

Priest Had Narrow Escape

Last week Rev. Fr. Caecilia, P.P., Barron Island, narrowly escaped being drowned. After a trying time going from the Island to LaManche on a sick call, he made a wearisome journey over land to Southern Harbor, accompanied by three men. A blizzard raged and all four were often on the point of complete prostration by reason of beating their way through the deep drifts, and when they arrived at their destination they were completely used up. After visiting several sick people the priest started to return to Barron Island on Saturday last. A gale of S. W. wind and snow prevailed with a big sea running in the bay. The priest and a man named John Flynn started in a dory to reach a western boat lying in the bay to take him home. They had not progressed far towards the boat when the dory was thrown broadside to a high sea which filled her with water, drenched both occupants and almost turned the boat over. The back wash of the wave

His 81st Birthday

Yesterday the veteran Capt. John Green, formerly manager of the Tur Co., celebrated his 81st birthday. His advanced age does not seem to affect the captain greatly, and he seems to be almost as energetic as he was 20 years ago. We wish the captain a continuation of his present health and hope to see him round out the century.

The Royal Cradle

King Edward Wanted Old Bassinette For His Grandchildren. Among a host of other good things published in the Christmas number of The Strand Magazine is a striking article written by a member of the Court on the home life of the Royal Family, in which an interesting reference is made to the late King Edward, who was always passionately fond of children. His grandchildren were immense favorites with him. Often, early in the morning, he would walk over to York Cottage, where his arrival was received with shouts of delight, and spend some hours in the prettily-laid-out gardens there, smoking his cigar and watching the children at play, entering into their enjoyment with obvious delight. Queen Alexandra once remarked that His Majesty was as "great a child as anyone," and his delight was unbounded when the news of the birth of the present Prince of Wales was announced to him. His first action was to telegraph to the late Queen Victoria and request that the old fashioned bassinette that had been used for himself and his brothers and sisters might be sent for the occupation of the new arrival. This is neither hung, as is the modern style, nor is it in rockers. To it is affixed a silver plate with the inscription: "This bassinette was made for Victoria, Princess Royal (the late Empress Frederick of Germany) in 1840, and was used by all Her Majesty's children, and was given by the Queen to the Duchess of York in 1894." It was beautifully furnished for the use of the Prince. The sheets were of the finest Irish lawn, embroidered in the corners with the royal arms surmounted by the crown and trimmed with Valenciennes lace. The pillows were to match. The blankets were of white Yorkshire wool, likewise bearing the badge of the royal arms, and several elder-down quilts accompanied the gift. In this dainty cradle each of the children of King George and Queen Mary has slept, and Her Majesty has passed many happy hours by its side. It has now been carefully stripped of its hangings and packed away until such time as the Prince of Wales can have it passed on to him. An interesting story is told in the same article concerning Prince Albert, King George's second son, who is the cricketer of the family, and among which most treasured possessions is a ball, now mounted on a silver stand, with which he clean bowled with successive balls King George, the Prince of Wales, and Prince Arthur of Connaught. One day the late King Edward was prevailed upon to play in a game at Windsor, between sides captained respectively by the Prince of Wales and Prince Albert. His Majesty agreed to take a place in the Prince of Wales' team provided he was not called upon to field. There was every prospect of a very close finish, and when there only remained His Majesty to bat, little Prince Henry expressed his fear to Prince Albert that they were going to be beaten. "Pooh!" said the latter. "There's only grandpa to come, and I can bowl him any time." His words proved correct, for King Edward, succumbed to the first ball sent down by his second grandson.

Last Night's Hockey Match.

VICTORIAS DEFEAT ST. BON'S.
 The hockey match of last night between the Victorias and St. Bon's teams resulted in a victory for the former by 7 goals to 3. Despite the storm raging there was a goodly attendance of spectators, but the game was not as fast as many others witnessed in the rink from the same teams heretofore. The line-up was: St. Bon's—S. Walsh, goal; Hearn, point; Golden, cover; Thompson, rover; Collins, right; D. Walsh, centre; Shortall, left.
 Victorias—Vinnicombe, goal; Parsons, point; Tobin, cover; Bulley, rover; Brien, right; McPherson, centre; Shortall, left.
 When the referee's whistle opened the game the Victorias were quickly in St. Bon's territory and in four minutes McPherson, for Vics., secured first blood. Five minutes later Collins, for St. Bon's, equalized. Soon after Bulley on a pass from Shortall notched up the second for Vics., when a few minutes later Thompson equalized. Parsons and Bulley now put up nice combination play, but Hearn prevented their scoring. The Vics. now began a fast pace and Walsh was kept busy. He cleared cleverly, when Bulley, taking advantage of an opportunity, sent in No. 3 for Vics., and less than a minute later McPherson found the net for the fourth time. Both teams now played a fast game and Collins sent the disc in, but it having gone through a hole in the side the shot did not count. When the rubber was again put in play, Shortall neatly passed to Walsh, who sent in No. 3 for St. Bon's. Soon after the teams crossed—Vics., 4 goals; St. Bon's, 3.

SECOND HALF.
 When this half opened the Vics. took a run but were blocked, when after Golden did some excellent work the Vics. put on steam and but for the splendid goal tending of Walsh would have scored many goals. Some splendid individual play was noticeable and Walsh saved a difficult shot sent in by McPherson, who was only a few feet distant. The Vics. were now constantly on their opponents' goal, when after about 14 minutes of this half R. Shortall, who did very clever work, sent in No. 5 for the Vics., and in a comparatively short time the Vics., through McPherson, took the 6th and 7th goal, the Vics. being the winners. The goals came in the following order:—
 First Half—1, McPherson (V.), 4 min.; 2, Collins (S.B.), 9 min.; 3, Bulley (V.), 11 min.; 4, Thompson, (S.B.), 11½ min.; 5, Bulley (V.), 20 min.; 6, McPherson (V.), 21 min.; 7, Walsh (S.B.), 26 min. Second Half—1, Shortall (V.), 18 min.; 2, McPherson (V.), 18 min.; 3, McPherson (V.), 26 min.

Prescription "A"

Cures Indigestion and Dyspepsia in all its Forms.

It is quite a daily occurrence to hear persons say: "Oh, what a feeling of distress I have after meals, fullness of the stomach, heaviness and headache, I feel too tired to do anything I have no heart to exert myself, and at times I care for nothing. I often have a pain in the pit of the stomach, no appetite, my heart beats rapidly on the slightest exertion. I feel just as tired when rising in the morning as when retiring to bed. My sleep is often disturbed, and I often awake with a sense of suffocation and a difficulty of again going to sleep. I have to be careful of what I eat, and my life seems a veritable burden."

Now, it seems a shame and a pity for persons to be suffering like that when it is in their power to get cured by taking a bottle of Dr. Stafford's Prescription A. A sure cure for persons afflicted with stomach troubles. It can be obtained at

REID NEWFOUNDLAND COMPANY.

Is your house really lighted from top to bottom or do you still have to take a candle or lamp when you go to the attic or cellar at night?

A great many people who have electricity in the rest of the house have no light in the cellar or attic because it is seldom needed; but, when you do need it, you need it badly.

One Incandescent Lamp set in a Holophane Reflector will give sufficient light for the darkest cellar or attic. Holophane Reflectors are especially adapted to lighting places of this sort as they control the light rays so that every ray is utilized. Wouldn't it be a convenience if you could turn a switch and light your cellar or attic before entering? That means an end to dangerous matches and flames—it means that you no longer need stumble against misplaced boxes and bark your shins in the dark.

We would like to tell you more about electric lighting and more about the wonderful light-giving Holophane Reflectors. May we send a representative to see you?
