WEDDED AT LAST

CHAPTER XXVI.

"Sir Hugh is very well," Shirley answered, a slight shade of coldness coming into her voice as she spoke. "Have you any news from the Court? Is Aunt Geraldine better?"

"She does not mention her health, so I presume she is," said Ruby.

"Jeanie and Maud are springing up, you know. Jeanie is to come out next year."

"Is she really?" Shirley interrogated negligently. "Ruby, is Bertie in? Can I see him?"

"Of course," Ruby said promptly. "Ah, Shirley, I don't believe it was Oswald at all you came to see, but the boy!"

"Shirley knows the way to the heart of the boy's mother," remarked Oswald, smiling half sadly the next minute upon seeing how Bertie, a bonny dark-eyed boy of two years, sprang into Shirley's arms, and how closely and tenderly she held him.

The four years which had elapsed since Shirley's marriage had wrought but little change in her; she looked as young and as girlish as when she had sat drooping over the school-room fire at Fairholme Court. She was still very beautiful, for what her beauty had lost in brilliance it had gained in tenderness, and the added quietness and languid pride of manner did not spoil its effect. It was no wonder, Capt. Fairholme thought as he watched her, that Lady Gynn was the belle of the circle in which she moved. She had made a sensation at Court when she was presented, an eminent artist had painted her picture, and she awoke one morning to find herself a celebrity. Perhaps the very carelessness and indifference with which she ignored her triumph made it still greater. With scrupulous exactitude she fulfilled every duty required of her as Sir Hugh's wife; she dressed to perfection, she showed herself wherever he wished her to go, proud, serene, and cold she received his guests, she reigned over his household, she entertained his friends, and sat at the head of the table with her own quiet nonchalant grace, which had such a singular charm. Had she loved him deeply she could not have shown greater deference to his wishes; and yet open rebellion, passionate defiance, tears and sighs would have been less painful to Sir Hugh than this perfect indifference and unconcern.

During the entire space of time comprised in those four years Sir Hugh had not known one really happy day.

When Shirley recovered from the long illness which had prostrated her after the terrible strain she had endured, he had taken her abroad and treated her with a tenderness and consideration which even Shirley's sore and aching heart could not but appreciate.

For a long time she was too weak and languid even to feel much; but as she grew stronger, the sense of the wrong done her grew with her strength, and the keen and passionate resentment against her husband for his treachery deepened. Never for a moment did the icy coldness yet perfect gentleness of her manner toward him change. When they were alone, she never spoke to him unless he addressed her; he never won a smile from the still proud lips or a tender glance from the lustrous eyes.

When he kissed her, there was no movement, no answering touch of the sweet lips; and it maddened him sometimes to see that, cold and unresponsive as she was to him, she yet could be sweet and gentle to others. Once or twice he had made a passionate appeal to her for forgiveness; but Shirley's large eyes had looked at him with a haughty questioning glance as if she did not understand, and she had listened in silence, turning away without a word when his eager entreaties ceased. There were times when Sir Hugh writhed under his punishment, and when he felt that it was greater even than he deserved.

His wife's social triumphs were of course a source of pride to him, but they gave him little pleasure. That she could be beautiful and admired and feted was well—it added to his already great prestige in the world of fashion; but what pleasure could it give him when the beautiful face never softened and the sweet lips never smiled when they were turned to him? There were moments when the baronet felt that to meet her smile and see her eyes lose their cold indifference and soften into tenderness when they met his he would have given his life.

They were tender enough just now as they rested on Bertie Fairholme who had climbed on to her lap and was playing with the little gold-headed riding-whip she carried, and the sweet lips were smiling as she talked to the boy in the sweet pathetic voice which had an odd thrill in it sometimes, and which had always been one of her greatest charms.

"Where are you going to-night, Shirley?" Ruby asked, as Lady Gynn rose to take leave, Bertie still clinging to her hand.

"To two or three places," she answered, with a touch of weariness on her face. "I shall try to get to the Opera; but in any case, my box is at your service, Ruby. They play 'Faust' to-night."

"Oh, then, I will go! I never tire of 'Faust,' you know; and I hope you will be there, Shirley."

"I will try to look in for the garden scene. Now, little man, let me go. Let him come and spend the afternoon with me soon, Ruby. What a lovely morning! Is it not?"

"Oswald," she said softly, a few minutes later, as he helped her to mount and carefully arranged her habit, "I wanted to ask you—have you heard—do you know if it is true that—that—the rich color died out of her lips as she spoke—"Major Stuart has returned to England?"

Oswald's eyes met hers for a moment, and a great pity came over his handsome face.

"I have not heard so," he said gravely.

"They were talking of him at Lady Dulcie's last night," she said hurriedly.

"They were saying how strange it was that a man with his wealth should choose to remain so long an exile. How is he so wealthy, Oswald?"

"Sir Jasper left him all his property, you know," Oswald answered gently.

"Sir Jasper was so wealthy then?"

"Yes."

"But when—when did he die, Oswald?"

"Four years ago, dear—when you were so ill."

Oswald's voice was very grave and compassionate as he spoke, and his cousin's face was colorless as marble; but there was no trace of emotion there.

"Oswald"—earnestly—"do not look so grieved. If he has returned, I shall be glad—so glad to think that he has got over that bitter sorrow and that he is happy. If he could only guess how happy it would make me to know that his long exile is over! I hope—yes, I hope he has come back."

She put her hand in Oswald's for a moment, and her lip quivered, then she rode away, her head bent a little, her eyes with a far-away look in them which showed that her thoughts were not of the present. The groom behind her wondered why she went so slowly as they rode onward and toward the park; but, as he followed, suiting his pace to hers, he was proud of the many glances of admiration which followed his mistress, and he felt as if some of Lady Gynn's celebrity were reflected upon himself.

Just as they rode into the park, a gentleman on foot on the pavement, stopped suddenly, started, and looked long and earnestly at Shirley. Accustomed as the groom was to the admiration his mistress received he was still somewhat startled by the earnest expression on this stranger's face, as his deep gray eyes dwelt long and lingeringly upon Shirley, as she rode on, unconscious of the scrutiny.

"Some hartist chap, I suppose," was the groom's mental comment. "Looks like it with all that hair on his face. He's struck all on 'em with her ladyship; and no wonder, for she's a pretty creature, but too thin for my taste."

Meanwhile the "hartist chap" was slowly making his way toward Piccadilly, with a flood of bitter memories at his heart which made his lips close firmly under his heavy mustache.

"Well and happy," he was saying to himself, thinking of what some great lady he had met the night before had said of Shirley Gynn, "well and happy, with that look in her eyes? My darling, if you had been my wife, it should not have been there!"

The Liberals are non-plussed by the Government's failure to again bring forward the Measure will be substituted providing for increased representation of the Provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia in the Senate.

Healthy and Unhealthy Lighting.

Gas, it may be said, vitiates the atmosphere. True. But it also helps to purify it. Its purifying power is greater than its vitiating power. Electricity does not vitiate, nor does it purify. Hear what three eminent men have said—

Much evidence has lately been adduced to show that gas is more useful than the electric light in promoting efficient ventilation of air. It is for this, amongst other reasons, that gas is being frequently substituted for the electric light. The latest example is, perhaps, the Society of Medical Officers of Health, which has recently installed gas on its premises, after experience with the electric light.—Dr. Jamieson B. Hurry.

He would merely add that no member who had experience of their meeting room under the old conditions could deny the improvement that had taken place since gas had been substituted for the electric light and the new system of heating and ventilation had been installed.—Dr. Reginald Duffield, before the Society of Medical Officers of Health.

I have in my mind's eye, at the moment, a hall which, in the old days was lighted by gas, and in which a large audience could, with comfort, sit through an hour's lecture, or with pleasure through a three hours' dinner, but which with the march of civilization, had its illumination changed from gas to electricity, the latter been employed with all the latest refinements to effect the lighting under the best conditions, with the result that any large gathering within its walls leads to a static little short of apoplexy.—Vivian B. Lewes, Professor of Chemistry at the Royal Naval College, Greenwich.—nov.14

Found—A Feminine Sense of Humor.

By RUTH CAMERON.

Of all the silly fallacies that are current about our sex,—such as that women cannot keep a secret,—I think the one which disturbs me most is that women do not have a sense of humour.

Some women don't, to be sure, but then neither do some men. As a whole I think women have just as much sense of humour as men.

To be sure, the two have a different sense of humour, and I suppose that's just where the fallacy started. Man didn't understand woman's sense of humour, and so, in his know-it-all, superior way he said she hadn't any. And woman was so accustomed to having man tell her what she did and didn't have that she thought it must be true.

Now that the feminist movement has come along and woman has discovered that she has a soul and a mind (two attributes which men in times past have denied her), she is beginning to believe in her own sense of humour also.

Of course there are some things that do not amuse women as they do men. For instance, the slapstick style of humour. It is the little boy rather than the little girl to whom the clown's antics are most hilarious. And yet I need not say the little boy, for I have seen fathers, uncles and grandfathers laugh as heartily, when one clown perpetrated the exquisite joke of kicking another clown, as their young companions for whose sake, theoretically, they attended the circus. Women can't do that. They do, I admit, lack that particular variety of humorous appreciation.

At the vaudeville show it is the same. When one "artist" crushes another "artist's" hat in, or slaps him on the back so that he falls over, the male portion of the audience guffaws delightedly at the clever bit, while most of the feminine contingency appear to miss this fine point of humor.

On the other hand, the nonsense humour appeals more to women than men. I have known but one man who collects nonsense rhymes and at least half a dozen women.

The humour of exaggeration, the typically American kind of humour that takes a phrase or a situation or a peculiarity, and plays on it and exaggerates to the nth power of absurdity is appreciated by most men and women alike.

I think women, as a rule, appreciate character humour rather more than men. What do I mean by character humour? The humour that is in character rather than in event. For instance, "Pigs is Pigs" is the humour of event; the story of the little girl who was told by the nurse not to let her little brother into the room while she was in per nightgown because nice little girls didn't let little boys see them in their nightgowns, and who promptly called him in with the explanation, "You tan tom in now, I tooked it off," is character humour. And I never knew a woman who couldn't appreciate the humour of that.

One thing I will admit. Women, especially of the older generation, are more literal than men. It was a woman of the older generation who didn't see anything funny in the nonsense rhyme,

"The optimist fell ten stories
"And at each window bar,
"He called out to his friends,
"All right so far."

and who, on being asked why, said it didn't seem probable.

But even this literalness is beginning to wear off. Women are getting the masculine viewpoint more and more. Who knows but that some day they will learn to laugh at clowns?

Ruth Cameron

"More Business"

By GEORGE FITCH.

Author of "At Good Old Siwash."
"More business" is the motto which has made the United States the greatest country on earth for merchants, manufacturers, automobile sellers and nerve specialists.

"More business" keeps every enterprising man hustling from sun-up until he runs down in the evening. It makes every year a race with the year preceding. It makes millionaires in one-fourth and nervous wrecks in one-tenth the time required by any other system. It makes the United States grow so fast that all business statistics are out of date by the time they are published. It makes every phenomenal year a calamity to the owner of a business because it requires him to work himself to death the next year to beat the record again. It is more profitable than digging gold with a steam shovel and less healthy than running 100 yard races all day without stopping for breath between dashes.

The "more business" fiend has cut the word "fail" out of his lexicon. He has also cut the words "content," "rest," "caution" and "lunch hour." He only recognizes the word "happiness" when he is formally introduced, because they live so far apart. "Happiness" lives away up the line somewhere, no one knows just where—probably where "more business" has become "all the business" and successful plans for doubling "all the business" in the next three years and of establishing a branch office on Mars have been worked out.

"More business" makes prosperity

Had Itching Piles For 27 Years

Often Laid Up for Days at a Time—A Wonderful Tribute to Dr. Chase's Ointment.

Few people were ever more enthusiastic in praising Dr. Chase's Ointment than the writer of this letter. When you read the description of his case you will not wonder why.

Mr. John Johnson, Coleman, Ala., writes: "Three years ago I was cured of blind, itching piles of 27 years standing by using Dr. Chase's ointment. I used to think that death would be the only relief I would ever get from this terrible misery of piles. Often I was laid up for three days at a time, and at other times worked when I should have been in bed."

"Dr. Chase's Ointment is worth sixty dollars a box instead of sixty cents. I am a different man since using it. I am farming all the time, and never miss a day. Words fail to express my gratitude for the cure this ointment made for me. I cannot tell half as much about it as it deserves. Anyone doubting this can write direct to me." Dr. Chase's Ointment, 50 cents a box, all dealers, or Edmondson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

more dangerous than adversity in this country because each increase of business necessarily means a heroic effort to find capital to increase it still farther. When the United States becomes so prosperous that every factory has doubled its output and has bonded its debts in order to make the first payment on a plant which will increase the doubled output 101 per cent, it is time to put up storm warnings, rent the family automobile and clean out the cyclone cellar for immediate occupancy.

When a man has "more business" to such an extent that while he made $750,000 profit last year he is depressed because his volume of business decreased .97 per cent he thinks he needs less legislation; but ten to one he needs less business.

Gentlemen.—I have used MINARD'S LINIMENT from time to time for the past twenty years. It was recommended to me by a prominent physician of Montreal, who called it the "great Nova Scotia Liniment." It does the doctor's work; it is particularly good in cases of Rheumatism and Sprains.

Col. Astor Left Estate Valued at $85,900,826.

New York, January 7.—The gross value of the estate of the late Col. John J. Astor, one of the victims of the "Titanic," is $85,890,826, according to report or re-appraisal filed to-day in the Surrogate Court here. The re-appraisal, which was made for the purpose of fixing the status of certain properties transferred by Col. Astor to Mrs. Madeline Force Astor in an ante-nuptial agreement, adds another $1,009,821 to the latter's share of the estate and also reduces her inheritance taxes by $29,823.

Johnson Turned Down Offer of $30,000.

Chicago, January 8.—Walter Johnson, the famous pitcher, has refused an offer of a salary of $30,000 for three years and a bonus of $10,000, made by Joe Tinker, manager of the Chicago Federal League team. Tinker announced to-day that Johnson said he "was sorry, but he had already signed with Washington and would not jump his contract."

A Record of Waste.

Explorer Grenfell Writes of Labrador's Lost Opportunities.

The fish, fowl and fowl of Labrador, writes Dr. Grenfell in the January Wide World, have been exploited to the last degree, and no scientific or practical effort has been made for their protection or rehabilitation. Our aulks, curlew, ducks and many other birds have become either extinct or dangerously depleted. Our deer, owing to forest fires caused by carelessness and unrestricted slaughter by Indians as well as white settlers, have so far diminished as to bring semistarvation to doors where once there was always plenty. The destruction of seal herds has brought families once affluent to miserable poverty. For some reason our unrivalled herring and mackerel have left us altogether. The salmon catch is only a shadow of what it once was, and even the returns of our still valuable cod fishery show increasing uncertainty in quantity and distribution. The growing number of trappers, the lack of protection, or the destruction of their food supplies, has made the annual winter fur-hunt insufficient to maintain in comfort all who prosecute it, and that in spite of the immense increase in the price of pelts. Seals and whales are rapidly approaching a similar fate.

No mines are yet opened, no timber properties yet developed; and no use is made of our unlimited water power. Only a handful of visitors come to enjoy the wild scenery, the unique natural conditions, and the invigorating atmosphere, though our fjords rival those of Norway, and have the additional attraction of being virgin and unexplored. No charting has been done, and at that time, as already stated, there was not one light on the coast from the Straits of Belle Isle to Hudson's Bay to render navigation safe. It is little to be wondered at if adequate tourist steamers do not ply in our waters. In fact Labrador is in that melancholy stage of evolution that must inevitably overtake every country until attention is turned to the development of industries that man does not share with the tiger and the shark.

Children Hate Oil Calomel and Pills

"California Syrup of Figs" best for tender stomach, liver, bowels—tastes delicious.

Look back at your childhood days. Remember the "dose" mother insisted on—castor oil, calomel, cathartics. How you hated them, how you fought against taking them.

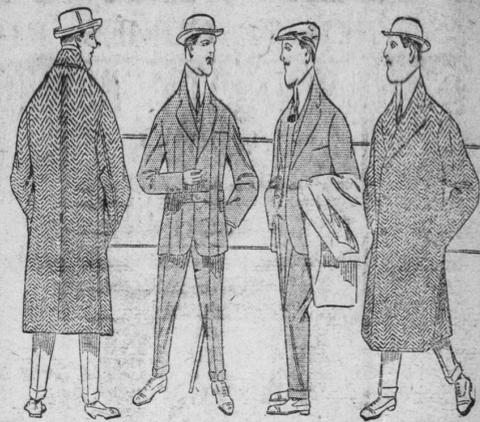

With our children it's different. Mothers who cling to the old form of physic simply don't realize what they do. The children's revolt is well-founded. Their tender little "insides" are injured by them.

If your child's stomach, liver and bowels need cleansing, give only delicious "California Syrup of Figs." Its action is positive, but gentle. Millions of mothers keep this harmless "fruit laxative" handy; they know children love to take it; that it never fails to clean the liver and bowels and sweeten the stomach, and that a teaspoonful given to-day saves a sick child to-morrow.

Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on each bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. See that it is made by "California Fig Syrup Company." Refuse any other kind with contempt.

At the House.

SIR ROBERT BOND'S RESIGNATION.

After His Excellency the Governor had delivered his address in the Legislative Council Chambers, the members of the House of Assembly returned to their own quarters and Speaker Goodison read the Speech again. The Premier rose and said he had received a notification from the Governor of Sir Robert Bond's resignation of his seat in the House. The Premier said he himself had occupied a seat on the floors of the House for nearly thirty years, and even at that time Sir Robert had attained eminence in the House and had given earnest of that distinction and success he afterwards attained. Sir Robert at that time had been in the House then for three years and had been honoured by being raised to the Speakership. Since that time Sir Robert had loomed large in public affairs. He had served with him in the same administration as a colleague and afterwards had served under him. He had abundant opportunities of observing the high qualities he had shown in the administration of affairs and he could bear testimony of the great public services Sir Robert had rendered. He regretted that Sir Robert felt constrained to come to his present decision and hoped the time would come when they would see Sir Robert come more in their midst. There were promises of magnitude and vital importance before the country, which required handling by men of the sagacity, experience and ability possessed by Sir Robert. He hoped later to move the House to give expression in a more formal manner of the signal services of Sir Robert Bond to the country.

MR. KENT rose for the purpose of associating himself with the expressions of regret that Sir Robert Bond had severed his connection with the House. He considered the country had sustained an overwhelming loss. In his opinion Sir Robert Bond stood head and shoulders over all his peers as a parliamentarian and administrator. He expressed the hope that in the near future, Sir Robert would once more take the place in the public affairs of the Colony that his ripe experience, recognized integrity, and marked ability warranted.

ADDRESS IN REPLY.
MR. CURRIE then rose and in a pleasing manner and with easy discourse moved for the appointment of a committee to draft an address in reply to the Speech from the Throne. He congratulated Mr. Goodison on his appointment as Speaker and was confident he would uphold the high tradition of the chair. He expressed satisfaction at the visit of His Excellency the Governor to the outports. The Agricultural policy and could note the prospects of the future. He was glad to learn that the Duke and Duchess of Cornwall might visit us next summer and he was sure they would meet with a right royal welcome. He was pleased with the results of the elections and congratulated the leader of his party. Wherever the election had been decided on principle, their party had won. The free entry of fish into the States had had a marked and favourable influence on our fish trade. He was glad that information on the bait question was to be sought. The exports were greater last year than the imports. This he considered a favourable sign. The shortage in the revenue did not come as a surprise. The Minister of Finance last year had been over sanguine. He attributed the shortage partly to the election year. Elections unsettled trade. The shortage would not be made up by any new taxation of foods and necessities. He was gratified at the increased number of Agricultural Societies and he had hoped of further developments in farming, which would be stimulated by the building of railways through the Bay of St. Lawrence and to Salmonier when the country could afford the expenditure.

MR. HIGGINS seconded the motion in a fluent speech. He joined Mr. Currie in congratulating the Speaker on his unanimous election and expressed his regret at the loss of the House and country had sustained by the withdrawal of Sir Robert Bond. New members had much to learn from the example of an experienced parliamentarian of the calibre of Sir Robert. He expressed appreciation of the good influence of the Governor and the pleasing intelligence of the prospective visit of distinguished members of the Royal Family. He thought there might be much to gain by the institution of the proposed train ferry service and in any case the country could lose nothing. The Premier had done much in advertising the resources of the Colony abroad and as a result he believed the country had a better standing abroad among capitalists. He was hopeful that the proposed establishment of industries on the Labrador would prove fruitful. They should keep the forest resources for themselves and stand by the policy of developing the products at home.

OPPOSITION CRITICISM.
MR. KENT on rising congratulated the Speaker on his election and also referred in a few choice words to the pleasing manner in which the mover and seceder for the Address in Reply had performed their tasks. He thought the House had seldom heard two speakers who had performed their duties in this respect more acceptably to the House at large. As to the Speech they had commented on it was the baldest and least satisfactory in his experience. The one feature which stood out in prominence was the reference to the revenue for the first half of the current fiscal year which is below the estimates. This shortage abundantly justified the criticism that had been directed last session at the budget proposals of the Minister of Finance. On that occasion it had been pointed out that the budget was an election kite, and that it would be necessary at the next session to impose taxes to meet the shortage which must ensue. What was pointed out then had now come to pass. It had been said that the shortage might be attributed to the disturbance of trade on account of the year being Election year. But, surely the Minister of Finance knew when he laid his financial proposals before the House last session that it was Election year. He could hardly plead he "forgot" it was Election year. He should have taken that fact into consideration at that time. He had been told he was not justified on financial grounds in his actions and the Opposition prediction had come true. The criticism which had been made by the Opposition to the railway contracts and the loans had been justified by the event. Time was the great justifier. At the present time there was not a single branch line completed. Not even the Bonavista branch was finished. The Government Engineer had not given his certificate of a completion in a single case. He spoke subject to correction. The Prime Minister could correct him if he was wrong. As the Prime Minister did not deny the statement, he repeated that not a single branch was completed and been passed by the Government Engineer giving his certificate of completion. That meant not a single branch line had been finally laid for. There was and would be money to be paid for finishing even the Bonavista branch, as well as the other branches. Further, there were many extras to be paid for. Under the terms of the contract, the rolling stock on one branch would cover all that the contractor had to provide for the $15,000 a mile. The rolling stock on all the other branches would have to be paid for as extras. These payments led up to the mode of payment under the contract and the Government had agreed to pay the contractor in gold instead of by debenture bonds. This had been a most unfortunate arrangement for the Colony, for the Government had to raise the money in a market steady of fluctuations in the Colonial loans. From its inception to the present, the branch railway proposals had been vitiated by mistakes. They were full of blunders. The estimate of stage was out. The estimate of cost was wrong. The payment in cash instead of bonds had resulted adversely to the Colony. The risk was to the Colony and the Colony had to pay the blunders. The loans had been raised and a third would be necessary, and the money market was stringent. This contention, Mr. Kent fortified by reading a comment of Lord Strathcona, the great financier and the High Commissioner for the Dominion of Canada. In reference to the negotiation with the water powers of the Labrador, Mr. Kent said it was time they were hearing something about the settlement of the Labrador boundary question. The agreement to refer the dispute to the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council had been made during the time he was in the Department of Justice. Since that time little had been heard. He was convinced at that time that Newfoundland had an impregnable case but it was disturbing to find from Canadian press comment that the Quebec authorities also had similar faith in their case. It would be well to know more before the Government rushed into further complications. Mr. Kent said the Government of the day had shown the past five years in the coal question. All they had done was to hand over coal areas to some contractors to investigate and develop some years ago. Since then nothing had been heard of the arrangement which appeared to have fallen through. He did not propose to go into details further. Opportunities would be afforded during the session to discuss the measures the Government contemplated and the Opposition would avail of them.

PREMIER REPLIES.
Sir Edward Morris extended congratulations to the Speaker, the mover and seceder and Mr. Kent. He would not go into detail. For nearly thirty years he had heard blue rinds predicted and the Speeches from the Throne characterized as the baldest yet. The Opposition had to criticize and they must expect criticisms as a matter of course, however, but they were merely perfunctory. The reduction in the Tariff last session had not been a death-bed repentance but a carrying out of a solemn pledge. Mr. Kent had played the part of Cassandra. The bottom had not dropped out of affairs. The people were taxed a million dollars a year less than in 1882. They were not going to revise the Tariff policy of last year. They would make the better-to-do pay as far as possible. The fact that no final certificate had been given for any of the branches showed that they were keeping the contractor to his contract. As to cost of finishing, he estimated that $1,500,000 more than had been raised in the previous two loans would provide enough to finish the work contracted for. As to the payment in bonds instead of gold, it might be imagined the contractor had nothing to say on the matter. The Government had the pay of the laborers raised and the contractor received payment in gold instead of bonds. As to the market, the stringency was general, and not particularly against Newfoundland. On the coal question, Sir Edward reviewed the history of it and said the Government had obtained the services of Professor Dunstan on the recommendation of the Colonial Office.

The Speaker appointed Messrs. Currie, Higgins, Cliff, Grimes and

DEATH OF SIR JOHN MOORE at the Battle of Corunna, 1809. At the close of 1808 Napoleon arrived in Spain to take charge of the French Army then engaged in the Peninsular War, and entered Madrid in December. Sir John Moore in command of the English troops, had to fall back before a powerful French force of some 100,000 men, which was advancing upon him in four armies. On reaching Corunna the English found that their transport ships had not arrived. A stand had to be made against the French under Soult, and the result was a victory for the English arms, but with the loss of Sir John Moore, who was killed in the battle.

NEGOTIATIONS FAIL.

Special to Evening Telegram.
LONDON, To-day.
The Unionist Leader, in a speech at Bristol Hall last night, confirmed the report that negotiations between his party and the Liberals for a settlement of the Ulster Question had failed. He said there have been conversations between party leaders, but as far as they have been without result, and I am grieved to say that so far as I can judge, there can be no result. We are declining rapidly, if something does not turn the current, inevitably to a civil war, which will shatter the whole fabric of our national existence, and leave us exposed to dangers from without. We must, however, continue Mr. Law that it is the present intention of the Government to carry their policy to the bitter end, and on that assumption it is our duty by every means in our power to prevent them from committing what we believe to be a great crime. Parliament has not the right to sell the people of Ulster into the hands of a foreign power. If the Government persists, if Premier Balfour is right, we shall have to have a general election, and he has an alternative in the referendum. The Government is ready, apparently, to face civil war rather than face the people, we have given a pledge that if Ulster resists, we will support her and we intend with the help of the Almighty, to keep that pledge.

Hr. Grace Notes.

Miss B. Hawkins, of the West End, was taken suddenly yesterday afternoon, and her friends had to be hastily summoned by phone. We are very pleased indeed to hear Miss Hawkins is much better to-day.

We would advise every boy and girl too, in Newfoundland to read "Walt Mason" on "The Old Man" in Tuesday's Telegram. Look it up, Tuesday, January 13th. How much better would things be if "Walt's" advice was acted on. But we would like all the lads and lassies to include the "Old Lady" as well. Oh, yes, be kind to your daddy by all means, but be equally thoughtful of your mother, also, for she rejoices in your good fortune, and feels your troubles and pains as much when you are a thousand miles away from her as when she is on the scene. So, be kind to your mummy as well.

The ladies of Christ Church Women's Working Guild, intend holding their postponed Sale of Fancy and useful articles, candy, etc., on Tuesday and Wednesday, January 27th and 28th. They are anxious that all their St. John's friends would note these dates.

Last night was the coldest for the season. Up to the present we have had very little snow, but sleighing is fairly good now.

Miss Mollie Boyle arrived from Carbonar this afternoon on a visit to Miss Gladys Oke.

The friends of Mrs. Samuel Taylor who is now at the general Hospital, St. John's will be glad to hear that she is steadily improving in health. The operation lately performed was very successful, and under the skillful treatment of doctors, and kind attention of nurses at the institution, it is hoped she will soon be able to return home fully recovered.

McMurdo's Store News.

FRIDAY, Jan. 16, '14. Have you tried (as a bath and a general toilet soap) one of the English Toilet Bars made by Bloudeau & Co. They all say that for the purpose this soap is really excellent and most economical. A half pound bar of well-dried English made soap nicely perfumed and of good quality is well worth 20 cents. Among them we find Brown Windsor, Elder Flower, Honey, etc., and all are of the same high quality.

For that obstinate corn, that has defied other remedies—plasters, ointments and liquids—the simplest, one of all—McMurdo's Corn Slik—will sometimes succeed when all others have proven useless. If you want to get rid of this unpleasant possession, try Corn Slik. Price 10c. a pkg.

W.C.T.U. Meeting.

Last night's meeting held by the W.C.T.U. at Gower St. Church, was presided over by Mr. W. H. Jones. After hymn and prayer, a number of brief addresses followed. After prayer by Mr. Barnes, the chairman expressed his pleasure at seeing such a large attendance and referred to the good work of the W.C.T.U. in their effort to bring about prohibition. A hymn was then sung after which a letter was read from the Rev. Mr. Sutherland, who regretted his unavoidable absence. The closing prayers were offered by the Rev. W. H. Thomas, and the benediction imparted by the Rev. J. W. Bartlett.

POLICE COURT.—Two drunks and disorderlies were each fined $5 or 14 days.

Mrs. Butler, of Flat Island, P.E., arrived by last night's local to enter the hospital. She arrived at Placentia at 7.30 p.m. the day previous, and while waiting for yesterday's train was practically dependent on some charitable disposed persons. In this respect the Government would do well to have a person at the terminal points to meet patients, as during the present season connections are not readily made, by the steamers, and patients for the hospital cannot endure the inconveniences, often met with at Placentia, which are trying on the most robust travellers.

HANDEL'S "MESSIAH" AND HAYDN'S "CREATION."—The above works will be performed in Lent with full Chorus and Orchestra. Chorus practices will be held in the Parish Room, Synod Building, on Sundays at 4 p.m., and on Wednesdays at 8 p.m., commencing Sunday next, the 15th. There will be no practice on Wednesday, the 14th. The Conductor, Mr. A. H. Allen, 29 Monkstown Road, will be glad to receive additional names of singers, which must be sent in to him not later than the 20th inst. It may be added that where it is found impossible to attend both on Wednesdays and Sundays, one practice weekly will be considered sufficient. J. M. PATTEN, Hon. Secretary.—Jan 15, 16.

M.C.L.I. Debate.

The debate held in the M.C.L.I. Rooms last night, proved highly interesting. The question of debate, was "Would Government by Commission be preferable to our present Municipal system?" The supporters of the former were Messrs. W. White, G. Grimes, and J. W. Bartlett, and for the latter, Messrs. I. C. Motris, W. Butt and R. P. Holloway. The arguments on both sides were very clear and after an interesting discussion the decision was given in favor of the Commission form of Government. Mr. E. M. Jackman, who was present, spoke at the request of the Chairman. He outlined the duties of citizenship in an interesting manner. The debate for next week will be on the question of an Educational department.

FREIGHT ARRANGEMENT.—It has been decided that on her next trip, the steamer Prospero will not accept freight for north of Tilt Cove, owing to the heavy ice conditions north and the possibilities of the steamer being frozen in.

EXPRESS HORSE BOLTED.—At 6 p.m. yesterday, Stott's express horse bolted, dashing along King's Road and up to Rawlin's Cross, where the sleigh runners became caught in the car rails, upsetting the sleigh and throwing the parcels into the street. The animal was captured before any damage was done.

PUT INTO AQUAFORTE.—The schooner Mary Duff, Capt. Janes, was reported last evening at Aquaforte. She was bound to Carbonear from Bahia, in ballast, and was 48 days on the passage. The vessel must have met adverse weather yesterday which would account for her sheltering on the Southern Shore.

Headaches and Heart Trouble

Nervous Prostration of Three Years' Standing Cured a Year Ago by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Anyone who knows the discouragement and despair which accompanies the helplessness of nervous prostration will appreciate the gratitude felt by the writer of this letter.

Mrs. H. C. Jones, Scotch Lake, C. B., writes: "I suffered from nervous prostration for nearly three years. I had frequent headaches, had no appetite and was troubled with my heart. After consulting two doctors, without obtaining satisfactory results, I began the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and was completely cured by this treatment. It is nearly a year since I was cured, and I want others to know of this splendid medicine. I now attend to my housework with pleasure and comfort, and am glad to have the opportunity of recommending Dr. Chase's Nerve Food."

At least some benefit is bound to be derived from each dose of this great food cure, as day by day it forms new blood, and builds up the system 50 cents a box, 6 for $2.50, all druggists, or Edmondson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

The Grand Pantomime.

Oh, have you seen Blue Beard? It's the best yet, for it is funny, with many beautiful songs and dances. How the audience applauds the living statues, one of the most beautiful sights ever seen on any stage, can it be possible that those statues are our own city girls, that's what one hears on every side, and how wonderful Mrs. Rossley thinks out those things for our pleasure is indeed astonishing. Blue Beard's wives heads hung up is another mystifying sight, to see those heads hung on the wall in the Blue Chamber awaying too and fro, singing their warning to the new wife is the greatest idea. The like of which has never been seen here, Jack Rossley, as Sister Annie, the actress who has lost her memory, and goes through the audience to find herself, singing, "Has anybody here seen me." It's a scream. Blue Beard is a splendid pantomime and last night's crowd was delighted. Monday's pantomime, "Robison Crusoe." In preparation the great Scotch pantomime Bonnie wee Mary McLadoo.

The Legislature Opened.

Under favourable auspices and in the presence of a large concourse of people the Twenty-Third General Assembly was opened at three o'clock yesterday afternoon by His Excellency Governor Davidson. Lined up outside the House were the members of the Constabulary in charge of Inspector General Sullivan and Superintendent Grimes besides a detachment from the Royal Naval Reserve under command of Capt. Atlay and officers of H. M. S. Calypso.

At the appointed hour His Excellency Governor Davidson, Esq., C. M. G., accompanied by Major Davenport, A.D.C., and Capt. A. C. Goodridge, A. D. C., entered the grounds amidst the rendition of the National Anthem by the City Band and the presenting of arms by the naval and police squads. After inspecting the guards of honour His Excellency was escorted to the Legislature. In that Chamber were His Lordship the Chief Justice, Sir W. H. Horwood, Mr. Justice Johnson, Sheriff Carter, Mayor Ellis, Consuls of the various Nations, The Lord Bishop of Newfoundland, the newly elected Speaker, to His Excellency the Governor, who, having approved of the Speaker, began his speech which we published yesterday.

His Excellency, who was attended by Major Davenport and Capt. Goodridge, A. D. C.'s, Commander Atlay, I. G. Sullivan, Supt. Grimes and the commanding officers of the City Brigades, then took his seat on the Throne. Mr. Speaker and members of the Legislature were summoned to the Bar where the Prime Minister presented Mr. J. R. Goodson, the newly elected Speaker, to His Excellency the Governor, who, having approved of the Speaker, began his speech which we published yesterday.

IN THE COUNCIL.
After His Excellency and the members of the Assembly had withdrawn the President of the Council took the Chair, and in accordance with custom the Clerk of the House read the Speech from the Throne.

Hon. John Anderson rose to propose the appointment of a Committee to draft an Address in Reply. He explained his attitude to the policy of the Government, stating that it was his first opportunity of doing so as he had been absent during last year's session. Mr. Anderson made a sectional commentary on the Speech and in the course of his remarks urged greater care in the valuation of our exports.

Hon. J. J. Murphy seconded the motion. He stated that prosperity of the Island was due to the increase of labour in mining and lumbering rather than to the development of the fisheries. He said the country teemed with resources awaiting development and deplored the appeals made for outside capital, when there was plenty of money in the different banks that could be employed in the furtherance of local enterprises. He referred to the abundance of opportunities and the timidity of the capitalists in this direction.

Letter From Dr. Fraser.

Dear Mr. Parsons,
Jan. 6th, 1914
In answer to your enquiries regarding the Ford Car which I purchased from you last season—1913, I may say it has given entire satisfaction. I has been in good running order during the whole year, and required no replacements, except to one back brake.

In addition to the ordinary town work I used the car touring. I took it around Conception Bay as far as Harbor Grace, then across to Trinity Bay, from Heart's Content up the South Shore by Trinity Bay through Heart's Desire, Heart's Delight, Island Cove, Cavendish, Witless Bay Green's Harbor, New Harbor and then up to Whitbourne, from Whitbourne to Colinet, then back over the same road, and down to Brigus. Returning to New Harbor we went over the Barrens to Spaniard's Bay. On the Brigus Road we followed a car track three miles taking the car up to the side of the pond where we fished.

Some of these roads, like the Spaniard's Bay Road, were all rocks, and some such as the road near Heart's Desire, soft marsh, but the car is light, has good clearance underneath and is a splendid hill-climber, so that nothing stopped it. It is also light on tires which is a great thing when touring. I had no spare tires on my tour and beyond two small punctures, no trouble.

Yours truly,
(Signed) N. S. FRASER.

At the Crescent.

Five great pictures for Friday and Saturday will wind up the fifth week of the Crescent Picture Palace. The first of a splendid line is "Mona," a stirring Nestor Indian romance that will surely find favor with all classes. "College Chums," a genuine comedy giving with it a spectacular baseball game, centring with a very pleasing story and to all lovers of sport this picture will prove very interesting. The third picture, "Dolly and the Burglar" showing how Dolly, a pleasing actress, saved the cash box. "The War of the Beetles" is certainly a wonderful achievement in moving pictures. The last grand series is "Cartoons," by Hy. Mayer. Mr. David Parks, sings an illustrated song "I've Been Through The Mill." These pictures make up a splendid variety and it goes without saying that the coming programme of this week will be a rattling good one.

On to-morrow evening the Crescent's special Matinee for ladies and children will be given; look it up for a good afternoon's amusement; plenty of excitement and an even supply of comedy.

Men Are Getting Nearly as Much Sense as Women.

Quite often now you hear a man say, "When do the stores begin holding their winter shoe sales? I want to lay in my year's supply of shoes."

Or you will hear a man tell his wife, "Better look through the papers, my dear, before you buy that stuff." And "my dear," who has never done anything else but look through the papers for the past ten years before she has bought any stuff, simply smiles tolerantly and continues with her own shrewd shopping by constantly following the advertising in her own shrewd way.

But it speaks well for the growing intelligence of most men to see that they are beginning to notice that there is such a thing as advertising.

A store can actually offer exceptional bargains, as quite a few stores are doing in this paper to-day, and expect to get a goodly crowd of men.

Not only that, but these men seem to be pleased at saving a good amount of money on the personal things they buy.

In other words, the old, Tom-fool idea about advertising has just about passed away.

Advertising is a low priced

Scientific selling method, which is used by all of the brightest business concerns. When a store can sell 200 pairs of shoes through advertising with the same amount of heat and light and rent required to sell one hundred pairs without advertising, there isn't much question about the value of that advertising to the stores nor about the extra profit to you.

Furthermore, when a store can come out with its Clearance Sales, as some stores are doing now, and by advertising reduced prices, can turn its entire winter stock into cash and be ready with a brand new stock for spring, there isn't much question of the value of that advertising for them and there certainly isn't much question of that kind of bargains for you.

Don't worry about these stores. They have had to figure in season upon cutting their prices out of season, and if you do not get your share of these bargains now, you certainly are not getting what is coming to you.

There are some remarkable bargains being offered in this paper these days, and any man who doesn't watch the advertising and get his share ought to be ashamed of his stupidity.

Petition of W.C.T.U.

The Rev. J. W. Bartlett announced at last night's meeting of the W.C.T.U., that a petition to the Legislature for the abolition of the conveyance of intoxicating liquors into local option districts by the subsidized steamers, signed signatures. The petition is as follows:

To the Honourable the House of Assembly, in Session Convened:
The Prayer of your Petitioners humbly sheweth—
FIRST.—That despite the fact that as a result of strenuous effort on the part of the people, the Local Option Act is in force, very generally, throughout Newfoundland; nevertheless its effects are largely neutralized and its benefits greatly minimized by the facility with which intoxicants may be obtained from St. John's. By trains and steamships strong drink is conveyed to the various out-ports of the country, corrupting the morals and vitiating the habits of the young men and the boys, and creating disturbances in homes and communities where otherwise peace and harmony would prevail.

We most humbly request, therefore, that during the present Session, your Honourable House may be pleased to enact such legislation as shall render it illegal to convey intoxicants of any kind, by railways, steamships or any other conveyances whatsoever, subsidized by the Newfoundland Government, to districts in which the Local Option Law is in force.

SECOND.—That your Petitioners are of the opinion that the time has come when the Importation, Manufacture and sale of Intoxicants in Newfoundland should be prohibited; and in order to afford the inhabitants an opportunity of declaring their will in respect to this matter, at the Polls, we humbly request that an Act be passed during the present Session of the Legislature, prescribing the necessary procedure for the taking of a plebiscite at some future date.

And as in duty bound your Petitioners will ever pray.

Five Minute Cure If Stomach Is Bad

When "Pape's Diapepsin" reaches stomach all Indigestion, Gas and Sourness Disappears.

You don't want a slow remedy when your stomach is bad—or an uncertain one—or a harmful one—your stomach is too valuable; you mustn't injure it with drastic drugs.

Pape's Diapepsin is noted for its speed in giving relief; its harmlessness; its certain unfailing action in regulating sick, sour, gassy stomachs. Its millions of cures in indigestion, dyspepsia, gastritis and other stomach trouble has made it famous the world over.

Keep this perfect stomach doctor in your home—keep it handy—get a large fifty-cent case from any drug store and then if anyone should eat something which doesn't agree with them; if what they eat lays like lead, ferments and sours and forms gas; causes headache, dizziness and nausea; eructations of acid and undigested food—remember as soon as Pape's Diapepsin comes in contact with the stomach all such distress vanishes. Its promptness, certainty and ease in overcoming the worst stomach disorders is a revelation to those who try it.

REACHED HALIFAX.—The S. S. Stephano reached Halifax at 10 o'clock last night, after a passage of 51 hours from this port.

Special Evening Telegram.
BOSTON, Jan. 15.
The foundering of the Bath schr. Grace M. Marlin, 30 miles south of Martinique Rock, yesterday, and the timely rescue of her crew of seventeen men from an open boat 100 miles off shore by the steamer A. W. Perry, from Halifax for Boston, is reported by wireless to-day. For nearly 24 hours the Marlin's crew in an open boat battled against death under the bitterest weather conditions. The distance from the spot where the schooner foundered and the steamer route between Boston and Halifax, is fifty miles, which represents the drift of the Marlin's long boat from shortly after sunrise yesterday until dawn to-day, when the castaways were picked up by the Perry. The Marlin, heavily laden with coal sailed from Norfolk for Portland on January 10th. She was caught in a westerly gale off Cape Cod on Monday. Two days hard pounding opened up her seams, and she filled and sank. The Marlin was a five-masted vessel built at Bath in 1904, and registered 267 tons net.

More Daylight.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir,—A large proportion of the workers of the city are wondering if Hon. John Anderson intends introducing the Daylight Bill this session. It has been discussed so often that there is nothing left to be urged. It has been tried and proved successful in England. In the United States there is not much need for it, as the people there have a day's work finished at the hour we begin business in this country. We are so insular and conservative that we fear innovation of any kind. Railways and other improvements have met with opposition so virulent that when we look back to the arguments used they are enough to make the very best moss-back smile. The effect of adding another hour of daylight to the rest and leisure of the workers would be such a boon that it is a wonder that more pressure has not been brought to bear on our legislators to obtain it.

On behalf of the believers in the Bill I would ask our local Apostle of Light, Hon. John Anderson, to introduce the Bill this session and I am firmly convinced from the personal view of the present House that there would not be any difficulty in getting it passed in the Lower Chamber. By all means let us have more light.

Yours truly,
LUX.

Hr. Grace Notes.

Several shebeen cases are being heard before Judge Oke at the District Court here to-day.

Dr. Charles Cron left last week for Belleoram, where he will remain a month or so attending to some mild cases of smallpox that lately developed there.

Workmen are now employed finishing the interior of the public building, Water Street. At night the building looks very well being lit up by electric lights. It will likely be completed in a few weeks.

At a meeting of the British Band, held last night, the officers for the present year were elected as follows:

Band Instructor—Mr. L. Whitman.
 President—Mr. Robert Brazill.
 Vice President—Mr. James Garland.

Secretary—Mr. Leonard Stirling.
 Treasurer—Mr. Lorenzo Sheppard.

Mr. Herbert Andrews, the retiring President, and a member of the band for the past thirty years, in withdrawing from active service assured the members that he still held a keen interest in the British Band, and that the members could depend on him to at all times do his utmost for the good of the Band. The Band will hold a dance in the Masonic Hall on Feb. 17th, which will no doubt be as enjoyable as former dancing assemblies held by the band.

The King Edward Branch of the British Society held its monthly meeting last night, and elected its officers. President Arthur Rogers read a telegram received on New Year's Day in reply to one sent to the Sister Branch at St. John's, as follows:

"President Arthur Rogers,
 "King Edward Branch,
 Harbor Grace:
 "Albert Edward Branch N. B. Society cordially reciprocates greeting King Edward Branch, and sends best wishes for prosperous New Year."
 "(Signed)
 "H. LUSCOMBE,
 "President."

After the general business had been gone through, the election of officers took place, resulting as follows:

Bro. Arthur Rogers, President, re-elected.
 Bro. Albert Parmiter, Vice-President, elected.
 Bro. John Crocker, Treasurer, re-elected.
 Bro. Chesley Trapnell, Secretary, re-elected.
 Committee—Bros. Frank Tetford, George Webber, Henley Martin, Albert Snow, Chas. Noseworthy, Albert Sellars, George Snow, Max Verge, James Curtis.

Bro. Graham Ash, Grand Marshal.
 Bro. Levi Wells, Deputy Marshal.
 Three new members signed the roll last night. The Branch is in a flourishing condition, and is paying sick benefits to, and the stewards are visiting the sick members. The year 1913 was a good one for the Juvenile Branch of the British Society, and may 1914 bring them very little sickness.

Harbor Grace, Jan. 14, 1914.

Some Vehicles.

I've seen the circus wagon pass, with state-horses hitched in line, all bright with shining paint and brass—it sent a thrill clear up my spine. I've seen the rich man's motor car, that cost him many thousand bones; it burned the road up near and far, and honked in loud Caruso tones. I've seen all things that go on wheels whatever be the motive power; and, viewing them, a fellow feels he's living in a modern hour. Of all the vehicles that roll along the pike from sun to sun, of all that stir me to the soul, the water wagon takes the bun. The water wagon has no gilt, nor is it hauled by circus span, and all its struts and springs are built upon a stern, old-fashioned plan; methinks its wheels are needing grease, and one can hear them squeal and grind; but those upon it ride to Peace, and leave the Land of Grief behind. Hang on, hang on, O thirsey boys, be not dismayed by jests or sneers; you're headed now for saner joys than you have known in many years!

(Miss Mason)

Not all the stories about the length of time an egg sojourns in the storage house are fairy tales. Here is a man in New York who purchased an egg last week and found a girl's name written on it. On writing to the young lady he learned that she had been married a few years, and that the signature on the egg was put there five years ago.

This is easily accomplished if you will take the time to inquire into the processes of Dry Cleaning and Dyeing. A suit or overcoat, or in fact any garment of wear should not be discarded until worn out. If stained or dirty, have them Dry Cleaned. If a new color is desired have the garment Dyed.

By following out this suggestion you will be enabled at all times to be faultlessly yet economically dressed.

Our Agents, Messrs. Nicholle, Inkpen & Chafe, Ltd., Water St., will cheerfully give you full particulars.
