The Heir to Beecham Park

CHAPTER VIII.

The sun was growing ruddy in its glory, filling the heavens with a radiant, beautiful light. Margery had parted with Stuart at the Weald gate, and, urged by the wonder and fullness of her happiness, she turned back again to the spot henceforth engraved on her memory with a golden touch.

She stood beneath the tree that had reared its branches over her unconscious head through the past hours, and her heart thrilled again and again at the thought of the marvelous creature that had come to her. Stuart Crosbie loved her—loved her—Margery Daw—a girl without even a name to call her own! She covered her eyes with her hands, as if to shield them from the memory of his passionate glances. What had she ever done to deserve his happiness? Had not her soul murmured often, fretted beneath the cloud of mystery that hung over her? Ah, how wrong she had been! Even while she had murmured, a gift was coming to her, a gift beside which all else faded away and vanished. A sudden impulse moved the girl. She was alone; save for the occasional note of the birds, the faint flutter of the leaves, there was not a sound to break the silence.

On the very spot where she had stood when Stuart uttered his earnest, fervent vows she knelt and sent up words of thankfulness. Then she sank upon the ground and, nestling close to the tree, let her fancy wander to the future. She felt at times as if she could not be the Margery of the morning—so far away now—and she almost doubted whether it was not all a dream, till a sudden recollection of her lover's voice—the memory of his words—returned, and she knew it was a blissful reality.

The minutes slipped away, and it was not till the chiming of a distant clock fell on her ear that Margery began to realize how long she had sat and how late it was. She rose hurriedly and made her way through the wood to the path. She had her secret to whisper to the poor, sick mother at home, and the thought lent speed to her feet. What joy she would bring to that tender heart! What happiness to share her new delights with such a one!

She ran down the hill, the ripple of the stream sounding in her ears like the minutes slipped away, and it was not till the chiming of a distant clock fell on her ear that Margery began to realize how long she had sat and how late it was. She rose hurriedly and made her way through the wood to the path. She had her secret to whisper to the poor, sick mother at home, and the thought lent speed to her feet. St. John's Mother No Longer Fears Whooping Cough

Use of Vaporizing Ointment, Vicks Vapor-Rub. Proves very Effective for All Cold Troubles.

Mrs. David England of No. 20 Field St. is another mother who has learned that it is no longer necessary to "do" children with internal medicine in treating colds.

As she says: "I have used Vicks on my children for whooping cough and colds with excellent results and I must say that it is the best thing I have ever had for a household remedy. I would not be without it in the home."

When Vicks is rubbed over the throat and chest for croup, deep chest colds, bronchitis or whooping cough, its volatile ingredients—Menthol, Camphor, Eucalyptus, Thyme, etc.—are released as vapors by the heat of the body and inhaled directly into the affected air passages.

At the same time Vicks is absorbed and stimulates the skin like a liniment, taking out tightness and soreness and thus helps the vapors inhaled to break up the congestion.

It is a stubborn cold that can withstand this direct, double action of Vicks.

THE SINGED CAT.

WALT MASON

Old Dr. Johnson made men stare when he went down the street; a u o h shabby clothes he used to wear, such brogans on his feet! His wig was burned, his waistcoat was bespotted, and as along his path he tolled, he grunted and he whooped. He lurched and wallowed as he strode, it was his idle boast that as he progressed up the road he fingered every post. Eccentric motions he displayed wherever he might go, and every time he'd climb a grade he had to shift to low. I seem to see the pickers stand, as Johnson thundered by, and cry: "He surely beats the band! He is the batty guy! And all the cheap and little skates had caustic things to say as he went whoring past their gates, in striking disarray. And they fell dead when they were told that Johnson led the van, possessing genius manifold, the age's greatest man. I see men journey through the town in queer, unseemly ways; I see, but do not set them down as badly laced jays. For great men's thoughts are oft afar, to summits they ascend; and when they'd smoke their last cigar they bite the burning end. Their meditations, in a flood, bar out both sight and sound; they walk right through a pool of mud, nor think to go around. I see the man of learning tread unconscious up the street; he wears his shoes upon his head, his hat upon his feet. The current of his musing is too wonderful to tell, and who am I to say "Gee whiz! He needs a padded cell."

"Yes, you are right," the girl assented. She had followed each word and grasped the meaning instantly. Her natural pride was roused in one moment, and she felt a thrill of desire to add no more to her heavy debt of kindness—to be indeed free.

"Understand me—you must not turn suddenly and be selfishly murmuring over the past," urged Miss Lawson, who had been closely watching the girl. "Whatever happens, be grateful, Margery.

"I am—I am," cried Margery, "thankful to all, and to you, for you have done so much for me, and now you come to help me again!"

"As I shall always help you, I hope," returned the governess. "I knew you would understand me, Margery—I felt you would be true to your nature. I waited only till I had something definite to propose before I spoke to you." She drew out a letter from her pocket as she finished. "You have heard me speak of my sister, Mrs. Fothergill. This is from her. She has married a doctor in London, a man who is fast becoming celebrated as a specialist. I have written many times about you, and when we have met, I have chatted to her, till she thoroughly realizes what you are. This letter came only this morning, and it contains something that I thought would just suit you."

"Yes!" said Margery, simply.

Miss Lawson unfolded the letter. "You have often heard me mention Lady Enid Walsh," she read, "the poor young creature whom John has been attending during the past year. I was sitting with her yesterday. She seems to have taken a fancy to me, and during our conversation she asked me to help her to find a companion."

HER NERVES BETTER NOW

Received Much Benefit by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Chatham, Ont.—"I started to get weak after my second child was born, and kept on getting worse until I could not do my own housework, and was so bad with my nerves that I was afraid to stay alone at any time. I had a girl working for me a whole year before I was able to do my washing again. Through a friend I learned of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and took four bottles of it. I gave birth to a baby boy the 4th day of September, 1922. I am still doing my own work and washing. Of course, I don't feel well every day because I don't get my rest as the baby is so cross. But when I get my rest I feel fine. I am still taking the Vegetable Compound and am going to keep on with it until cured. My nerves are a lot better since taking it. I can stay alone day or night and not be the least frightened. You can use this letter as a testimonial and I will answer letters from women asking about the Vegetable Compound."

THE PURPOSE.
This much I know: this little gift of years, Which men call life, on me has been bestowed; I have been set upon the open road To journey through the sunshine and the tears, To fashion something out of hopes and fears, And doubts and little facts—a form or mode, Which neither shame nor weakness can corrode, And wait for judgment when the end appears.

I did not ask to come, nor do I know How long my pilgrimage, nor whence nor why; But still I feel all this will clearly show Sometime, somewhere beneath a fairer sky; And then I hope I shall not blush to see The finished thing I shall have made of me.

Ask Grandma, she knows that PEARLINE is the best washing powder. Grandma used it forty years ago. It is the best now as it was then.—Jan 29, 24

Coolidge Tells France That U.S. Debt of Gratitude Has Already Been Discharged

Coolidge Sends a Forceful Appeal to Washington For Help--Admiralty Demands Increase in the Interest of Safety--Dempsey to Forsake Pugilism for Matrimony.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—Coolidge today to a statement by the new French Ambassador to the United States, Emilio Daeschner, of the material debts of nations as well as their debts of gratitude must be paid. President Coolidge declared that the United States had already discharged the debt of gratitude she owed French aid in the American revolution.

DEBT IS PAID. WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—Coolidge today to a statement by the new French Ambassador to the United States, Emilio Daeschner, of the material debts of nations as well as their debts of gratitude must be paid. President Coolidge declared that the United States had already discharged the debt of gratitude she owed French aid in the American revolution.

DEMANDS INCREASE IN ESTIMATES. LONDON, Jan. 30.—The British naval estimates for the financial year is said to have been demanded by the Admiralty and the meeting with resistance from the Treasury. Earl Beatty, who, as Sea Lord, usually figures in the official gossip as the champion of the admiralty, submitted an estimate of £235,000,000, maintaining that this was the lowest figure compatible with the safety of the British nation.

PRESBYTERIAN BUDGET. TORONTO, Jan. 30.—Budget receipts of the Presbyterian Church in Canada for the year 1924 are approximately $11,166,000 to-day, or about $9,000 less than at the same time a year ago, a difference of less than one per cent. In view of the depressed conditions of the Church's financial position is regarded as regretful.

CANADIAN TRADE. OTTAWA, Jan. 30.—Exports from Canada in the year 1924 exceeded imports by $262,416. Exports for the year 1924 were approximately $158,057,898 and imports $132,573. According to a summary issued by the Commercial Intelligence Journal the exports are $1,443,000,000 higher than in 1923, and imports about $95,000,000 less.

ARRIVED ON MAY 20. LOS ANGELES, Jan. 30.—Dempsey, world's heavyweight champion of the ring, announced that his boxing engagement will take place on May 20th next, when he will fight Estelle Taylor, motion picture star, at the altar, and abandon pugilism for good. Jack said he had fought his battle and that his decision to retire has been brought about by his betrothed, who prefers a business man to a pugilist for a husband.

ASQUITH STILL TO LEAD. LONDON, Jan. 30.—The Star, which is known as the organ of the Liberal party, understands that an executive session of the Liberal convention to-day decided to set up any machinery for the election of a leader, thus leaving Herbert Asquith, who is to become the chief of Oxford, as head of the party for an indefinite period. The newspaper said the party decided also to limit any pacts with any parties.

SOME APPEALS FOR HELP. NOME, Alaska, Jan. 30.—The diphtheria epidemic to-day took a sudden turn for the worse, and news through a local correspondent sent out the following appeal to Washington: "Help immediately by airplane with anti-toxin serum. Is the appeal of Nome, not for the stragglers, but especially for the young Americans of to-morrow. We don't want to have to ask Soviet Russia to send us an ice breaker with anti-toxin, nor do we ask for the Shenandoah or Los Angeles, but please have Uncle Sam send us an airplane from Fairbanks with the two red-blooded men who have volunteered to fly to Nome in four hours' time in order to bring us relief."

Harbor Grace Notes

Meters have been a much discussed subject in our town for the last week or so. In consequence of the fact that the United Towns Electrical Co. had given notice to the householders that the Company would, without further notice, install meters, and at the rate of twelve cents per kilowatt hour, with a minimum charge of one dollar a month. This would replace the old flat rate, which the customers had been paying all along. And, as a result of the matter receiving such attention on all sides, a Public Meeting was called on Friday night last in the Town Hall. Despite the stormy night, a large and representative gathering was present, some 350 people having attended. Mr. W. H. Harris was the Convener, and F. C. Archibald was unanimously voted to the chair. A deputation from Carbonbear was present, consisting of Messrs. R. Duff, M.E.A., John Korke (Jr.) and Harold Maddock. Resolutions adopted at a meeting on the same subject held at Carbonbear were read and afterwards put to the meeting and passed. The visiting gentlemen addressed the meeting, as did also F. C. Archibald, R. S. Munn and others. A strong Committee was formed, which will immediately get to work and see what can be done in the matter.

Commandant Urquhart, a musical genius, of the Salvation Army, St. John's, is visiting the Corps here and will give a Concert in the S. A. Citadel on Tuesday night next, February 3rd. A big programme consisting of sixteen items will be rendered, and included in the number are the following of special interest:—Harmenous Spelling, Musical Musical Wash Board, Sleigh Bell Selections, Hand Bell Selections, Musical Saw, Tea Kettle Music, Fairy Bells, etc. The Commandant gave a similar recital here during last year, when all who attended were amply repaid, and all music lovers are again assured of a rare treat on Feb. 3rd.

The death of Mrs. Thos. Peddle, of Bristol's Hope, occurred at her home there on Saturday last. She had been in failing health for the last few years, and the end was not unexpected. Besides her husband, she leaves to mourn their sad loss (by a former marriage) one daughter, Mrs. William Murphy, residing in the U.S.A., and two sons, Simon Wells, of Boston, Mass., and Eugene Wells, of Bristol's Hope; also one brother, Mark Pike, of British Columbia, several grandchildren and a large number of friends, to all of whom we offer sincere sympathy. The funeral was held on Monday, and despite the very unpleasant weather, was very largely attended, when all that was mortal was laid to rest in the C. of E. Cemetery. "Until the day dawns and the shadows flee away."

A well known resident, in the person of Nicholas Perry (Sr.) entered into rest at his home on Saturday last, after a lingering illness. Deceased kept a small store and bake shop on Water Street during the latter years of his life. He is survived by a wife and several children, who are all residing away, with the exception of one son, Nicholas, of this town. He is also survived by two sisters, Mrs. Robert George and Mrs. Geo. Kitchen, and one brother, William Perry, all of this town. Our sympathy goes out to the bereaved in their hour of sorrow. The funeral was held on Monday at the Methodist Church and interment made in the cemetery on the hill.

Testimonial: "I was only 24 years old, my health, my good looks, and the old-time dynamic energy, which I had believed so permanently mine, were gone. A man of wisdom is my physician, but I thought him indeed crazy when he prescribed three yeast cakes a day. But at the end of a month I was surprised to find that the world looked much better to my tired eyes. For two months more I took the Yeast and now I am well and happy, the old-time buoyancy and energy are mine again."

Testimonial: "When I was constipated, I was always gloomy, melancholy, and unhappy. I got so I did not believe in any remedy at all. But I found on taking Fleischmann's Yeast that I did not have to have faith in it. It is one thing that will do its work whether one has faith in it or not." "At the end of about three months I was as well as any man could possibly be. My constipation was gone, all my old headaches, listlessness and gloom left me. It does seem strange that these little yeast cakes can do this thing, but as sure as the sun shines, they can."

Testimonial: "One day the chef at the country club suggested that I try Fleischmann's Yeast. I was haggard, anaemic, and had lost all interest in life. I smiled, reminding him of my previous experiences with 'tonics.' He began serving me with what he called a special cheese sandwich daily. A month elapsed, and everyone marvelled at my complete transformation. One day I saw the chef spreading Fleischmann's Yeast on sandwiches and realized that I had been the butt of what he thought was a good joke."

Testimonial: "Youthful freshness made way for lackadaisical indifference—headaches and constipation were my constant companions. Splices appeared upon my face, and with seven large carbuncles, in a short time my neck and back resembled a shell-torn battleship. When Fleischmann's Yeast was proposed I readily accepted it as a possible means of escape. The effect was marvellous. The invaders withdrew, and in ten days the last of the carbuncles was healing, and very soon my health was restored."

FLEISCHMANN'S YEAST FOR HEALTH comes only in the tinful package—it cannot be purchased in tablet form. All grocers have it. Start eating it today! You can order several cakes at a time, for Yeast will keep fresh in a cool, dry place for two or three days.

Obituary
CHARLES H. GOULD.
Dear Mr. Editor.—Allow me space in your esteemed paper, to relate the death of Charles H. Gould, who passed peacefully away on Sunday, the 29th inst. The deceased was the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Gould, of Upper Hill. He passed away at the early age of 22 years, owing to an ailment from the throat and stomach. He bore his suffering patiently to the end. During the early summer he sought medical treatment at New York, but after a short period of time, finding his health failing, he decided to return to his home where he had good hopes of recovering. Finally he grew worse; this was in the early part of November. From then until his death he patiently bore his malady, awaiting that great call beyond all sickness and sorrow. His funeral was largely attended by his many relatives and friends. He leaves to mourn a father and mother, four brothers and one sister. Robert and Nellie reside at Brooklyn, N. Y.; Chesley, at Prince Rupert, B.C.; and George at home, and many relatives. It is hard to break the tender cord that binds the heart; 'Tis hard to hard to speak the words, "We must forever part."

A loved one from us is gone,
A voice we loved is still;
A place made vacant in the home,
Which never can be filled.

Spray From Heart's Content

Frozen one week by icy blasts rushing in from the north, being furnished only the next by heat generated over the lightning system. There is no doubt but what "juice" (electricity) supply generates heat, well as light—on occasion it generates sulphur, a strange phenomenon.

Murphy's dodgers—I beg your pardon, Mr. Murphy, most mention the gun and not the man behind the gun—the United Town's Electric Co. "dodger" was fired just in time to prevent people's blood from freezing in the below zero weather. Like trout after flies, or thirsty mortals after scripts, the multitude jumped impulsively for the U.T.E. Co's scalp. It was great to be in the vortex, for, no doubt, they did go to it. The "juice" consumers got the J.P. The J.P. as in "dodgy" bound "at the request of, etc., etc." posting a notice calling for a public meeting in the Orange Hall to take action on the burning question. The voters and householders responded to the call in goodly numbers. The meeting, after it got duly warmed up, saluted after the U.T.E. Co. Eight, sixteen, twenty-five, forty, candle power, watts, kilowatt hours, charts, contracts, agreements, obligations, tramways over the barriers. Why, the boys got more technical terms in one hour than any years since Murphy's juice first shot across "the barriers."

"Some meeting boys." "Sure thing, a bit of 'ol right." "There's nothing like a change of diet to get the liver in good trim. Saturday nights in H.C. are usually devoted to Archie's moving pictures in the basement of the Orange Hall. For a change the "bedlamers" got moving floods of eloquence in the upstairs hall. My great "Jehosphiel" if words could do it the U.T.E. Co. and the man behind the gun, would be "attn crowd," while the crowd in the "Three Towns" would be "attn murphies."

You wicked Company! "Breaking your charter." "Riding roughshod over the rights of the people." "Inflicting hardship without any justification whatever." "Pure robbery." Yes! Messrs. Co. you just were hammered, and only that corporations are well known to have a grasping, hungry man in place of a conscience—at least so the saying goes—you would be trembling on your own wires, or hanging on your own poles by this time.

"Glass houses" and those who live in them, "shouldn't throw stones," did you say. "Nar a word about it, believe me." Never a word about our own moving part in Murphy's meter move. The listener sat and chuckled as though harked back to an ancient "chestnut" old but exceeding witty. "B'gob Mike, you spalpeen, poaching again from his rivvines wood pile. 'B'jabers ye'll be getting caught yet." A stick or two bored and plugged with blasting powder and Mike did get it, so did the dampers of the stove. 'Tis rivvine laughed last.

"Glass houses. Sure thing! People live in them too, and forgetting, throw stones." When privileges are abused, in the long run privileges are forfeited. Current history, no less than ancient, proves that some folks had the privilege of easy, honorable service in the Public Departments, they abused it and the privilege was forfeited. The U.T.E. Co. has a shrewd idea that folks are using the "flat rate" privilege to steal "juice." "Like Mike stole his rivvines wood." Thus the flat rate privilege goes and the meters are coming, "Jackie Coolidge." As Wally sometimes sings "They all do it, they all do it, and get more 'juice' than they pay for." Nobody said so at the meeting. The "glass houses" were forgotten and they just "threw stones."

The meters "leak," they "race" like mad, sure pop! And why wouldn't they, when by mistake, or for want of knowing better they get a 100 watt light going in the kitchen. "Sure boys, we know they lions their 'giggy flings' and 'waves' and 'dolls' their hair, and perkylaters their coffee with Murphy's 'juice.' No! sorry, C. F. heaters can't come in under flat rate privileges, make no mistake about it, they are conasters and roasts."

"Cascarets" 10c
If Dizzy, Billious, Constipated

To clean your bowels without cramping or over-acting, take "Cascarets." Sick headache, dizziness, biliousness, gas, indigestion, sour upset stomach and all such distress gone by morning. Nicest laxative and cathartic on earth by grown-ups and children. 10c, 20c and 50c boxes—any druggist.

ers, and that's where Murphy's meter dodges will have ye, where his rivvines blasting powder had Mike "on toast" and like his rivvine Murphy will laugh last.

But the petition. The petition is going round, and in the opinion of some folk it will do the trick. It was a bait for the fishermen of the olden days, "that Sunday's works don't prosper," verbum sap. But the petition. It is thought that petitions from Carbonar, Mr. Grace and Heart's Content will stop the "meter move." Of not, then with the assistance of a great legal luminary, folks really think that Murphy's meter move with like Prohibition, soon be as the fabled "dodo" extinct. But then they don't know "R.J.M." as well as the Harbor Grace people do—the Mr. Grace Standard says "there is no doubt that the company is within its legal right. . . . They learned that lesson from 'Murphy' over the 'phones' a year or two ago.

It's surprising what a lot of heat an electric storm—or meter—generates. "Allee samee," if R.J.M. is wise he won't let "legal rights" blind him to two facts; one, the active resistance inherent in his celtic forbears; two, the passive resistance inherent in the Anglo Saxon. If the people in the "Three Towns" will stop "chewing the rag" and unite on the passive resistance "stunt," the U.T.E. Co. will, no doubt, suspend action as far as meters are concerned. The Co. can only get dividends by studying public opinion, not by defying it. If public opinion with no uncertain voice says "my house is my castle, no meter here, you can cut the connection at the nearest pole," well! the dividends will go, and its dividends, and bigger dividends the Co. is after. It requires steady, persistent, united action to get anywhere with monopolies—neither bluff nor empty talk will avail. —R.W.

Productive Work for Unemployed

Editor Evening Telegram. Dear Sir,—Since the publication of my letter, many, while agreeing with the statements set forth therein, have said that the only proper work which men could be employed at this season of the year is rock breaking. With this I take issue. Profitable work to the country and city can be undertaken if there is the will and constructive ability upon the part of those in authority to provide it.

Recently the Railway Commission held a meeting. One of the matters discussed at that meeting was repairs to the Dry Dock. The discussion impressed upon those participating the urgent necessity of the work. It was felt that if the Dock is to be of any industrial value in the future, immediate and extensive repairs are necessary. At the present time it is almost in a state of collapse. It would be used for the repairs it will be necessary to import large quantities. The suitability of wood for such purposes is, however, open to deliberation and inquiry. Dry Docks are usually constructed of concrete. All replacements and repairs with very few exceptions can and should be made of concrete. The objection of the effect of local climate upon concrete may be raised, but upon examination this will prove to be unfounded. Concrete work can be just as effectively done in cold as in temperate or warm weather. The necessary skilled help is in this city to supervise the work. If the work were undertaken, hundreds would obtain employment from it and the men would thereby retain that self respect and manhood, of which the giving of dole must necessarily deprive them.

Shipping accommodation at the Dry Dock is wholly inadequate. For many years past, many tons of thousands of dollars of work have either passed by or went out of the Port of St. John's because the Dock is not large enough to accommodate the passing shipping in need of repairs. Now that extensive repairs have been decided upon at the Dock and relief in some form must be given, is not the time opportunity for the remedying of this defect by widening and lengthening the Dock? The amount, which will be expended in giving a dole, will pay the cost of the work or a very large proportion of it. Why waste when we can save? Why unprofitable and degrading expenditure of money when it can be made profitable and uplifting? The money's thus, judiciously expended will increase the purchasing power of the workmen, be the means of bringing additional work and trade as a whole will greatly benefit thereby.

In connection with these repairs to the Dry Dock, there may also be undertaken the enlargement of that portion devoted to traffic. At present the facilities for the loading and unloading of steamers are grossly inadequate. Storage accommodation is absolutely necessary. More especially is this so, if the quantities of goods to be handled increase. It is practical to carry out such work during the unemployment period. Work of this character will be a valuable asset to the country, whereas the giving of a dole to men who are anxious and willing to work is not alone a direct loss to the country, but has a most demoralising effect, which will take years to eradicate. With your permission, I will set forth in my next letter another important and necessary public work which should be undertaken. Yours very truly,
M. P. GIBBS.

Citricura

Clears The Scalp Of Dandruff

Treatment: On retiring, gently rub Citricura Ointment, with the end of the finger, on spots of dandruff and itching. Next morning shampoo with a suds of Citricura Soap and hot water. Rinse with tepid water. This treatment does much to keep the scalp clean and healthy and promote hair growth.

Further Expressions of Sympathy

Editor Evening Telegram. Dear Sir,—I should be glad to avail of your columns to further acknowledge the kindness of friends who have come forward with sympathy and service to help in most the disaster which recently came to us. I enclose communications from J. G. Higgins, representing the Knights of Columbus and from Hon. R. Watson, representing the International Grenfell Association.

Yours truly,
R. F. HORWOOD,

Dear Mr. Harrington—If the Grenfell Hall would be of any service to the Methodist College Board at this juncture I have much pleasure, on behalf of the Institute Committee, in placing the Hall at the disposal of the College Board.

Assuring you of my deep personal sympathy with you and your Board in the great loss you have sustained, I remain,
Yours faithfully,

Columbus Hall, St. John's, Nfld.,
January 26, 1925.

WHEREAS in a disastrous fire which occurred last evening, the Methodist Denomination of this city suffered the total destruction of its College, Hall and their entire contents; AND WHEREAS such a catastrophe involves, not alone the loss of an imposing building with its irreplaceable records and cherished souvenirs, but the suspension of activities on the part of an Institution that is rendering such invaluable service in the educational interests of this country; BE IT THEREFORE RESOLVED that Terra Nova Council No. 1462 of the Knights of Columbus, in meeting assembled, greatly deploring such a calamity tenders to the Methodist Denomination of St. John's and to the Board of Governors, the Principal and Teaching Staff of the Methodist College, an earnest assurance of deepest regret and of sincerest sympathy in their severe loss, and a fervent expression of hope that the very near future may witness their complete recovery from the misfortune that has befallen them, the re-erection of their College and the resumption of its all-important work in the cause of education in Newfoundland; For and on behalf of Terra Nova Council,

Religion in the Schools

DEBATE IN THE CHURCH ASSEMBLY.

(The Times Educational Supplement, Nov. 29, 1924.)

At the autumn session of the Church Assembly, which was held last week at the Church House, Westminster, the Archbishop of Canterbury presiding, the Bishop of Wakefield presented the interim report of the Education Commission which was appointed by the Assembly in July to survey the present position of the religious education question.

The Bishop pointed out that many important questions had been left over for consideration. In recording the results of the survey which the Commission had made, the report had been divided into sections. They had set out facts and conditions which were extremely material if they were to get a grip of the position. They had enumerated recent proposals for a settlement, and outlined the present position of the elementary schools, secondary schools, and training colleges. They had included in the report a restatement of the principles for which Churchmen stood, and some recommendations for action under present conditions. The Bishop of Wakefield went on to urge that no settlement which was not just to all parties concerned could have any hope of being carried. While sympathizing with all those devoted school managers who loved their schools, and wanted to cling to them, and who were among the most faithful promoters of religious education, he could not think they would be wise in pressing the Church to take a narrow line at the present time. Churchmen could not be too grateful to the Archbishop of Canterbury for the three principles he laid down at the Memorial Hall Conference, which were accepted by the representatives of Nonconformity. Those principles, which were endorsed in the report of the Commission, were that in all schools supported or subsidized by the State, religious instruction should form an integral part of the education given, and that religious observance and instruction should have a place in the regular curriculum, and be available, subject to a conscience clause, for all children; that religious teaching, if it is to be worth having, must be given by men and women who are qualified to give it and can give it conscientiously; and that religious teaching must not be of a vague or indefinite character, but must mean for Christian children the definite teaching of the elements of the Christian faith.

The aim of the Church was to secure adequate religious teaching for all the children in the land. At this moment they believed there was a sufficient desire for co-operation and unity between men of many denominations to enable them to come to some agreed settlement. The Commission suggested that unity of administration with variety of type should be a guiding principle which should underlie the policy of the Church in dealing with the problem of education. This principle would involve administrative control of all schools by the local education authorities, with frank recognition of denominational schools and denominational teaching as an integral part of the national system, and would include allocation and grouping of schools in accordance with the denominational needs of the population they are intended to serve. The issue before them was whether the Church was to be an effective cultivator in the great field of national education, or to retire to cultivate her own little garden on the hillside far away from the great centre of industry in which they were all interested.

BISHOP OF MANCHESTER'S RESOLUTION.

The Bishop of Manchester then moved:—"That the Commission be instructed to continue their investigations and to bring up proposals at the next group of sessions based upon the guiding principle suggested by them in dealing with the problem of education, namely, unity of administration with variety of type."

He believed we had an opportunity at present of ending to a great extent the antagonism and suspicion which had beset discussion of the matter, and at the same time securing the recognition of that for the Church had stood within the national system of education. There was now an opportunity for discussing the matter on a new basis and of securing a settlement on the ground of general equity and justice rather than on the ground of previous service and established right. But regard must be had to two considerations: there must be unity of administration, which was required in the interests of efficiency and variety of type, because of the religious interest concerned, but primarily because of the general effect on the whole of the school. They were standing for the maintenance of Church schools and the schools of other denominations within the scheme of education which the nation provided.

The Dean of York seconded the resolution. Mr. Henry Hobhouse urged that they must take a practical view of the present situation. They had now less than one-third of Church children in the schools, and less than one-third of the teachers were in Church training colleges. That was a very perilous situation, and he hoped the Church would take the broadest view and follow in the direction of securing good Christian teaching for every child in the land. The division between Christians had been, too much emphasized in the past, and he hoped there was not going to be such emphasis in the future. It was essential that no time should be lost in securing the application of the principles laid down at the Memorial Hall Conference. Prebendary Thicknesse and Lord Parmoor were opposed to the motion.

Mr. W. B. Scott (Manchester) urged the Assembly not to accept any schemes until they had studied the details fully. They had no difficulty in working the dual system in Lancashire, and no difficulty in regard to the teachers.

The Rev. H. W. Hinde, Vicar and Rural Dean of Islington, said he came from a congested area. In the borough and deanery of Islington there were 60,000 children between the ages of five and 15, of whom only 5,020 were in Church schools. He earnestly pleaded that they would enter upon this matter in the direction of larger treatment of the whole problem; not making Church schools their first concern, but adequate religious instruction in all schools.

The Archbishop of York said he intended most cordially to support the Bishop of Manchester's resolution. Throughout the whole discussion his heart had gone out to those who were described as the "Old Guard." While he entirely sympathized with them in the position they took up, yet he was convinced that the mere policy of maintaining Church schools as they are was not a courageous policy, nor a policy which had any future, nor a policy which was really just to the cause for which the schools stood. He was sure that Church schools would wither unless brought into the main stream of their national education. They would wither because of the inevitable pressure which would be brought upon them. They did not want any longer to be put into the position of making the Church, which had done so much for education, seem to be perpetually blocking the way to educational progress. The debate had revealed the great change that had taken place in the tone in which the subject had been discussed compared with the controversies of 15 years ago. There was the same changed atmosphere among the representatives of the Free Churches, many of whom were increasingly realizing that the real question of the future was whether the citizenship of this country was to be based on a Christian outlook, and that depended on whether in all schools all their children were made familiar with the life, the teaching, and, above all, the claims of Jesus Christ.

THE PRIMATE'S SPEECH.
The Archbishop of Canterbury said they had had a great debate. Thirty-three speeches had been made, very many of which would not have been delivered in the tone in which they had taken place ten or 12 years ago. Churchmen and those who were separated from them had grown to a wider understanding of the largeness of that question, the range of its possibilities, and the comprehensive nature of English Christian education as it could be, and, please God, was going to be in the days to come. He had purposely not taken any part in the debate because of his anxiety to learn from the Assembly what its view was in this matter. The resolution on which they would vote directly put the whole question, it seemed to him, in the right way, and they were not to have any rival resolutions before them. There was nothing controversial in what they were doing. The principles they were asserting in passing that carefully worked resolution were principles of real importance in regard to their policy and action in the Church's life to-day. What he asked the Assembly to remember was that there should be no feeling of hesitancy or doubt in giving their vote. They should remember that they were casting their vote in the year 1924, and not in 1902 or 1906. They were doing it at an hour when there was a great educational advance going on. In that advance the Church of England had a great part to play. They had a deep responsibility, and they were seeking to discharge it as they asserted their wish that for the good of all there should be unity of administration with variety of type. They were giving their vote that day with a sense of what their responsibilities were for the children of England as a whole; for the good, the great good, of the Englishmen and

The Chairman then put the Bishop of Manchester's resolution as follows:—
That the [Education] Commission be instructed to continue their investigations, and to bring up proposals at the next group of sessions based on the guiding principle suggested by them in dealing with the problem of education—viz. unity of administration with variety of type.
The resolution was carried with two dissentients amid loud cheers.

THE BOTTOM OF THE WORLD DAY.

Do you remember I wrote you once upon a time about the top of the world day that comes once in so often to all of us, the day when everything goes right, and praise and success and joy come to us in overflowing measure and we feel as if we were sitting on the top of the world?

I don't suppose there is anyone who doesn't have those days once in a while.

And I'm just as sure there isn't anyone who doesn't have the opposite, the bottom of the world days sometimes.

The day when everything goes wrong from start to finish.

Your Clothes Elude You.

When you get up in the morning and start to dress and can't find half the things you want to put on: "Where is my blue tie" you boom if you are a male.

"I left it on that bureau last night." Or if you are a female you hunt frantically for the stockings you meant to put on, with one eye on an inexorable clock.

Then you simply can't get your hair to go properly or your beard to take a decent shave.

The coffee boils over while you are getting breakfast, and the postman brings a bill you have been dreading and you find it half as large again as you expected in your most pessimistic moments.

You hear of a wonderful trip your dearest friend is going to make. Of course that ought to make you happy and equally, of course, it seems to add a little to your depression.

You take out some of your winter things and find moths have gotten into them.

The furnace goes out.

A mistake in figuring you made some weeks ago comes home to roost, bringing a whole brood of complaints with it.

When you are washing your face at noon you have a feeling that your nose looks a little red and that you are going to have a cold.

The washerwoman sends word her husband's cousin is dead and she won't be able to come.

A friend calls up on the telephone who can usually be counted to say something gracious and cheering, but this day she is in the conspiracy against you and seems to take pleasure in singing the praises of a friend she knows you are inclined to be jealous of.

A Run In Your Best Stockings.

You take out your best pair of silk stockings and find a run in them.

A neighbor comes in to inform you that she has heard that some objectionable people have bought the house across the street.

If you are an author (and I am told that there are about a million of us who do "a little writing" more or less) the postman brings you a returned manuscript as the end of a perfect day.

And you feel you know what the pessimist meant when he said: "All day, fellows have gone over me."

Unquestionably he had just had a bottom of the world day.

This Too Shall Pass.

But why do I write about all these unhappy things, you may ask? Why paint so drab a picture? Only so that I may bring you this message: "Courage comrades the devil is dead." We've all had them and we've all gotten over them—those bottom of the world days. Such days can't last anymore than the top of the world day can.

Things will right themselves, happy things will come to cheer you up, you will get through with the worst of your troubles and out the other side.

In short, in the words of the great philosopher, "this, too, shall pass."

Kegashka Bay, Labrador, Jan. 30—(Special)—"I feel my bounding duty to write and tell you how grateful I am, to be able to tell you what a wonderful recovery I have had from taking four boxes of your Dodd's Kidney Pills." So says Mr. J. L. Osborne, a well-known resident of this place.

"I used to get those griping pains in my back and kidneys and was seriously inconvenienced with urinary troubles. I was advised by my aunt to give your pills a trial, which I did, and Oh, gee, what a wonderful change came over me. I can now run and jump and perform all kinds of stunts and not an ache or a pain. Goodbye to weak kidneys. I feel like singing and dancing all the time. You are at liberty to use my letter which I know will help others to enjoy this wonderful change in life."

Little Jack Rabbit

By DAVID CORY.

"What's the matter?" asked Cockey Doodle from the little window above the Henhouse door, looking down at Old Man Weasel, all dressed up in dear Uncle Lucky's swallowtail coat. It was so dark that the little rooster never supposed for a moment it could be any one except the dear old gentleman rabbit himself.

"Open the door and let me in, I've creepy, cold shivers all over my skin."

answered the wicked old weasel doing his best to make his voice sound like dear Uncle Lucky's.

"Wait a minute till I smash Off the door the wooden latch," answered Cockey Doodle jumping down from his perch.

"Don't wait too long," whispered the Weathercock, leaning over the edge of the roof.

"I won't," answered the Policeman Dog in a whisper, crouching for a leap.

Pretty soon the click of the wooden latch sounded on the midnight stillness and the Henhouse door slowly opened.

"Whatever is the matter?" asked Cockey Doodle peering out into the darkness. The next minute he gave a frightened squawk as Old Man Weasel grabbed him by the neck. But, thank goodness, the next frightened sound came from Old Man Weasel himself. Yes sir, before he could run off with the trusting little rooster the big Policeman Dog had the old weasel by the collar.

"Keep quiet," growled the kind protector of law and order in Rabbitville, giving an extra twist on the collar.

"You come with me without a fuss or the part in your hair I'll surely muse." Just think of dropping into poetry at such a time. Well, why not, I should like to know. Mother Goose always spoke in rhyme. Why shouldn't the good Policeman Dog of Rabbitville?

"Oh dear, and oh dear," gasped guaranteed another moment in the dear old gentleman bunny's clothes! Then slipping a pair of handcuffs on the old weasel's front paws, he started off for the Rabbitville Jail.

As he heard Uncle Lucky's little red-shingled house on the corner of Lettuce Avenue and Carrot Street, he stopped.

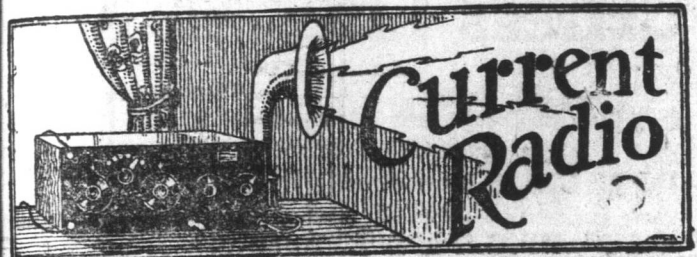

"Guess I'll hang my coat on the kitchen doorknob," he said to himself. "I'll telephone in the morning to Little Miss Mousse! Then once more he trotted off still holding on tight to the old weasel."

"Let me go, won't you," he begged.

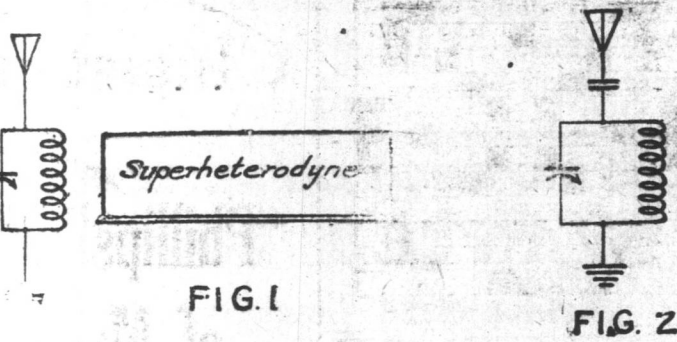

"Not till the Turkey Judge sees you," answered the brave Policeman Dog, and in the next story you shall hear what happened after that.

Policeman Dog had the weasel by the collar.

Antenna Connections for the Superheterodyne

Because a superheterodyne set good results on a loop antenna mean that it can not get better with an outdoor aerial.

As many people seem to be misled by the misconception that a superheterodyne set will run only on a loop. This is decidedly not so.

It is the misconception that a superheterodyne set is not sensitive to the frequency of the incoming signal that you have a good superheterodyne set.

The chief advantage of the loop antenna is in its ability to bring in signals, not in its convenience, compactness, portability, and also the fact that it picks up less static in proportion to the signal, than an outdoor antenna.

In many of the modern types of superheterodynes, no provision is made for connection to an outdoor aerial. Some types, in fact, incorporate a loop in the cabinet, and are designed around this loop.

In Fig. 1 is shown one idea of what we mean. The trap circuit in the antenna is one of the "standard" secondaries. Sixty turns of No. 22 d.s.c. wire on a four-inch cardboard tube, and shunted by a 15-plate variable condenser will be satisfactory.

Place the coil in various positions on or near the superheterodyne until best results are obtained.

In Fig. 2 is shown the same "standardized" secondary, but with a two-plate variable condenser in the antenna lead. This will aid selectivity.

In operation, pick up a signal with the superheterodyne in the usual manner. Then tune with the condenser in the trap circuit until the signal is loudest. As stated above, it will be advisable to move the coil around in different positions on the superheterodyne cabinet until best results are had.

The aerial is preferably a short one—not over 50 feet in length. Even this short length is often a great help in increasing the strength of received signals, however.

FINANCIAL STABILITY!

If you question our ability or willingness to pay just claims, the following facts should interest you: During 1924 we paid for claims of all classes, $13,910,000. Since 1906, total claims paid us $114,620,000. In Newfoundland alone, this Company has paid $15,260 including four death claims, one of $4,000 and three each of $1,500, and no company, the world over, has a better record for promptness in settlement.

We realize fully the value of the word SERVICE, and we give it 100 per cent, and SERVICE should mean almost as much as PROMOTION.

Mother!

Watch Child's Bowels
"California Fig Syrup" is Children's Harmless
Laxative

Children love the pleasant taste of "California Fig Syrup" and gladly take it even when bilious, feverish, sick, or constipated. No other laxative regulates the tender little bowels so nicely. It sweetens the stomach and starts the liver and bowels without cramping or overacting. Contains no narcotics or soothing drugs.

Tell your druggist you want only the genuine "California Fig Syrup" which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on bottle. Mother! You must say "California" or you may get an imitation fig syrup.

Best for Coughs & Colds

Minaid's gives quick relief for coughs and colds, grippe, influenza, etc. Madame J. Edmond Potras, of Faubourg, St. Jean Ste. Quebec is only one of hundreds who highly recommend it. She writes as follows: "After having tried several syrups and rubbing lotions for cough I consider that Minaid's alone gives satisfaction. I also value it for warts, which I have quickly removed with Minaid's."
