Guelph Evening Mercury

At a meeting called for the purpose, in Duff's Church, East Puslinch, on Tuesday evening, the Rev. K. Macdonald, late pastor over the congregation connected with that church, was presented with a well filled purse and an address on the occasion of his leaving to become pastor over the congregation at Thamesford.
Mr. James McLean was called to the chair, and after devotional exercises, Mr.
Malcolm McNaughton handed the following address to the chairman, who read it and made the presentation:— Reverend Kenneth Macdonald, Dear Sir.—The tie which bound us together as pastor and people in now dissolved, and the time has come when reluctantly we have to bid each other adieu. Before doing so, permit us to express our high appreciation of the confidence you have ever shown in labouring among us. The kind consideration you have evinced for our well being, present and future, your indefatigable effort to inculcate by precept and example firmly faith in the truth and grace of a living, loving, holy Saviour, and to instruct old and young in the fear, nurture and admonition of the Lord. Your place in the social group, in the Bible class, in the prayer meetings and in the sanctuary is vacant, but in the affections of the people of East Puslinch you will remain warm and dear.
As a parting memento accept of this penned and contents. God prosper your journey, own and bless your labours to the people with whom your lot is cast.
Farewell.
We remain, Dear Sir, Yours in the bonds of Christian love
The People of your First Charge, Duff's Church, East Puslinch, April 23rd, 1872.
Mr. Macdonald replied in appropriate terms, thanking them for their munificent gift, and expressing the regret he felt at leaving.
Mr. J. P. McMillan of Guelph, who was present, was asked to make a few remarks. He expressed his pleasure at being present, the more so from the fact that he and Mr. Macdonald were both Glenary men, and regretted that Puslinch was about to lose the services of so able and zealous a pastor.
To speak highly of the worth and earnest character of Mr. Macdonald, and all parted from him with the hope that he and his family might enjoy every happiness in his new sphere of labour.

A Plea for Temperance.
To the Editor of the Mercury.
Sir,—I noticed in last week's Fergus News-Record another letter from "G—" against the Good Templars. The writer, after slashing right and left at his opponents with the imaginings of a madman, of the three, turns his attention to the communication which appeared in the Mercury from Arthur. He said that I credited him with words he never used.
I gave the only inference that could be drawn from what he had written. He next attacks my two quotations from Scriptures. The first he explains away which is a common resort when an individual lacks the candour to admit them.
The other he tries to get over by saying that he does not see how I can say anything against wine and at the same time justify our Lord for making it. I would like to observe that there is a difference of opinion existing among the writers in regard to the kind of wine our Saviour made, most of them agreeing that it was not intoxicating. I am satisfied that he never made such an absolute stuff as is used now-a-days for wine. He is determined to stick to his base assertion that Good Templars accept teetotalism in place of religion, misunderstanding it has been shown to be false, and he himself never offering the first vestige of proof for this gross attack on one of our leading professing Christians. He says again, "But you say there is safety only in the course you have adopted. Then must Christ have died in vain." My say there is only permanent safety from drunkenness in total abstinence whether in the church or out of it. As my friend claims to have such an abundance of spiritual light I hope this will appear clear to his obtuse understanding, which at present seems rather clouded. My opponent reminds me of Gold-smith's village school master, "I've though vanquished still argued on." If the church is sufficient, as my opponent says it is, why don't it put down drunkenness? He seems to think the church will accomplish any and every social reform that is needed. Does past history prove this? No, the church has always been slow in opposing popular evils, and has always lent its aid to tyranny and oppression. Even now, as Neal Dow lately said in Guelph, it is the greatest stumbling block to total abstinence. He says, "the abuse of anything is not proof of its evil." I contend that when the free use of anything becomes a great evil in stead of a blessing it is one ought to be stopped or curtailed by law. I see that my opponent declines the public discussion that he was challenged to by the writer from Douglas. This is in accordance with the moderate drinking style.
They have not the courage to face the public, but are like the man who will argue that it is perfectly right to drink and yet will go with his whiskey jug hid away, and will tell a lie to hide his drinking. How is this if it is right? Why not come out boldly on all and every occasion? Actions speak louder than words." Ask the wives of drinking husbands what they think of an evil or not? My opponent will treat with a sneer the assertion that Good Templars are, generally speaking, members of Christian Churches. I have no doubt it was the best he could do with it, even after making the wild and reckless assertions that he has made against them. In conclusion, I would like to ask my friend if he would like to hear a minister advocating moderate drinking, and if he conscientiously believes that he is acting as a Christian ought to act with all the spiritual light that he claims to have in aiding a traffic that is so prolific of evil, and carrying poverty into so many homes? and finally to ask how much longer he would allow a man to take and remain a member of a Christian Church, or in other words draw the line between moderation and drunkenness.
A GOOD TEMPLAR.
Arthur, April 15.

Elora and Salem Correspondence.

ST. GEORGE'S DAY IN ELORA.—The sons of old England here celebrated the anniversary of their patron saint by a dinner at Dally's Hotel, on the 23rd inst. Owing to the inclemency of the weather the attendance was not as large as on previous occasions. Mr. Dally fully sustained the reputation he enjoys of being a first-class caterer, for the roast beef and plum pudding were not only of excellent quality but were served up in good style.
The chair was filled by W. H. Lapointe, Esq., President of St. George's Society, and the vice-chair by Mr. James Arzell, Vice-President. The usual loyal and patriotic toasts were drunk and responded to with enthusiasm. To that of the Army, Navy and Volunteers, Mr.
Malcolm McGregor, Mr. W. Kerrand Mr.
Garrard replied in fitting terms. Dr. Griffith supplementing their remarks—according to request—by reciting the "Charge of the Light Brigade." The "Day and those who honour it," was responded to by Mr. John Smith, of the Observer, in a very appropriate speech.
"To our Sister Societies," Mr. J. M.
Fraser and Mr. A. Gordon replied in fitting terms, and M. J. M. Shaw, of the Express, for St. Patrick's Society.
"The Dominion of Canada," was next proposed by Mr. W. P. Newman, in a most speech, and replied to by Dr. Griffith in his usual graphic style. "The Press" was acknowledged by Mr. J. M.
Shaw. The Secretary then read letters of apology for non-attendance from Messrs. George A. Drew, M. L. L., Charles Clarke, M. P. P., and Alex. A. Han, President of St. Andrew's Society. Mr.
Hendley contributed much to the evening's entertainment by singing in capital style several comic and sentimental songs. Volunteer toasts followed in rapid succession, and at the "vive, viva" hours, the company sang the National Anthem and dispersed, all feeling that a pleasant evening had been spent.

Harriston Correspondence.
On Tuesday last, Neil, a boy about 3 years of age, son of Mr. Macdonald, Me-lan's leg broken by a kick from a horse, Dairied, of the 8th con. Min to get Dr. Rutherford was called on to fix it up again.
The weather during the last week has been variable, but always with a deception of Tuesday; there were hard frosts at night. The maple trees during the latter part of the week were yielding their sap in abundant quantities. Sugar and molasses making is carried on to a considerable extent by those who had time to attend to the business. Ploughing has been progressing in favourable places, but on Sunday afternoon at about half past 4 a heavy rain accompanied by a few claps of thunder commenced, and continued until about 6 o'clock, when frosts again set in, and to-day it has been most keenly cold, and all the operations mentioned have had to be abandoned.
Cattle seem to have stood out again, the short allowance of food, at a time when almost double the quantity would have done them good, better than many expected, for scarcely any deaths amongst them have taken place around this neighborhood.
There has been some disease amongst horses, but they also have in most instances been kept alive.
The merchants have agreed to close their various places of business on and after the 1st of May at half-past seven o'clock. No one thought of going for the nine hour movement and the evil of long hours has not been experienced by the employees here to any great extent, or for any length of time as until lately two or three only existed, but their number has now increased, and they no doubt feel grateful to the horses for granting to them this unlooked for boon.
Mr. A. T. Armstrong, of Millbrook, had recently in Toronto, has commenced business as a general store keeper, in daily receiving goods to fill up the several departments in which he intends to engage.
A meeting of villagers (ratepayers) was held last week to consider the vexed question of incorporation, but without result.
Those in favour of the movement claim a daily augmentation of strength, and another meeting is to be held to have another slash at it. The object aimed at will doubtless be obtained before a great while.

BY TELEGRAPH

THIS MORNING'S DESPATCHES

The Spanish Cortes.
The King's Speech.
Outrage in Missouri.
Two Men Murdered.

Madrid, April 24.—King Amadeus delivered his speech in person at the opening of the Cortes. His Majesty first alluded to the relations of Spain with other powers, and stated that they were of a cordial nature. Venezuela, he said, had made the most satisfactory explanations of her conduct toward the Spanish Consul at Caracas. The policy adopted toward the South American Republics is peaceful, and the relations between them and Spain are mutually respectful. The King anticipates that he will soon be able to announce an agreement between the Pope and the Italian Government. He says he intends to give his utmost efforts to the protection and development of the sacred and constitutional rights. Reform in the army is announced and the fulfilment of promises of reform in the Colonies is promised. In so doing he will endeavor to avoid everything tending to impair the integrity of the Spanish territory or which would put arms into the hands of the enemies of the Spanish name and race.
In relating to the movements of the Carlist, the King says: "a party denying the legitimacy of the modern right and a stubborn enemy to the national situation, after its defeat at the elections, rises in arms in some of the Provinces.
The Government has taken effective measures to promptly crush the insurrection, taught by experience of the utility of political clemency, it will be inexorable in its punishment of constant enemies to liberty and disturbers of the peace. If ordinary measures prove insufficient, the Government will ask sanction of the Cortes for others which may be necessary to restore the reign of the law." The King expressed hopes of the prompt termination of the insurrection. He praises the army and civic guard for their courage and loyalty, and says he asks in the Cortes a guide and means identical with himself and with the nation. The speech concludes as follows: "While I will never impose myself upon Spaniards against their will, I will never desert the post to which they have called me, the constitutional duties which I will fulfil with loyalty and constancy due to the honor of my name."

Holden, Mo., April 24.—A mob stopped the eastern bound train on the Missouri, Kansas and Texas R.R. at Grain City, Mo. this evening and murdered G. R. Cline and J. Stevenson. Stevenson was a member of the County Court and presiding Judge when the recent mob excitement was raised, while Cline was an attorney in the case. The mob said that they had just commenced their work of murder.
Versailles, April 24.—The perils of the election of the Officers Bureau took place in the Assembly to-day. Duke Annual was not elected chairman.

DOMINION PARLIAMENT.

Ottawa, April 24.

A petition from the City of Toronto praying for the construction of the Ontario & Huron Ship Canal, but as it asked for a grant of money, it could not be received.

Mr. Belmore inquired whether it was the intention of the Government to take new measures for the purpose of placing on a more satisfactory footing the commercial relations existing between the United States and Canada.

Sir F. Hincks replied in the negative. Mr. Stephenson asked whether it was the intention of the Government during the present session to make any alteration in the existing mode of remunerating Inspectors and other officers of the Inland Revenue Service, by paying them only a fixed salary, and compelling them to fund all the receipts arising from seizures made by them.

Hon. Mr. Morris stated that the Government had decided that, as the Inspectors of Inland Revenue were a class by themselves, and were called upon to perform quasi judicial functions, they should not, after the current fiscal year, be entitled to the proceeds of seizure.

With regard to subordinate officers, they should still participate in the value of seizures, and would be allowed to do so as an incentive for the energetic performance of their duties.

Mr. Jones (Leeds and Grenville) moved for the appointment of a select committee to enquire into and report upon the agricultural interests of the Dominion.—Carried.

Mr. Kirkpatrick moved that the House go into Committee of the Whole, to consider a resolution declaring it expedient to make further provision for the collection of demands against vessels navigating certain lakes and inland waters of Canada.—Carried.

The House was in committee for some time.

On motion to resume the adjourned debate on the second reading of the Bill to amend the Insolvency Act, Hon. Mr. Cameron said he understood it had been agreed by the members who had spoken on this subject, that the Bill should after the second reading be referred to a Committee.

Some discussion took place with regard to the Bill, and as there was but a small attendance, the debate was adjourned.

Wallington Spring Assizes.

April 24.

The Court was engaged in the case of Newton vs. Gore Mutual Insurance Co. till four o'clock, when the jury after having sat a day on the case retired. After being absent some time they came into Court with a verdict for plaintiff for $1,100.

QUEEN v. GILLES.—The prisoner was put on his trial for having committed an indecent assault, with intent, on the person of Mrs. Elizabeth Husson on the 21st of February last. We gave full particulars of the case at the time it came before the Police Magistrate, when Gilles was sent up for trial. On the day in question he was walking down the track of the W.G. & B.R. two or three miles from Elora. He asked Mrs. Husson, who is married to one of the section men on the road, and whose home is close to the track, if she would give him a drink. He went into the house, and after standing some little time caught hold of Mrs. Husson; threw her down, and attempted to violate her person, but without success. She ran to a neighbour's house close by, and informed the woman what had happened. Mrs. Nickinson sent her boy after Mrs. Husson's husband. Immediately after the occurrence the prisoner started down the track, but Mr. Hill was followed and caught Chief Constable Kelly, such information as enabled him to arrest Gilles next day. Prisoner said he belongs to Tisonburg, and has an ugly, long dog look about him. Mrs. Husson suffered severely from the effects of the assault both from the shock given by her nervous system, as stated in evidence by Dr. Paet of Elgin. Prisoner had not the means to engage any barrister to defend him, but Mr. H. A. Macdonald volunteered to conduct the defence. Mr. Peterson prosecuted for the Crown. Verdict, guilty of indecent assault with intent.

QUEEN v. LOWRY.—Prisoner was tried for assault and robbery, committed on Robert Beck on the Waterloo Road about two miles from Guelph on the 14th March last. It appeared from the evidence that on the day in question the two were in Guelph and left town together. Beck before leaving had received some money from Thomas & Jackson. The two had been drinking porty, beer during the day. Beck, having received the money in his possession, was apprehensive that Lowry, who had before wanted to borrow some from him, might rob him, and in order to get rid of him went into Mrs. Atkinson's shop, whither Lowry followed. Soon after Beck left, but was followed by Lowry, who overtook him near McKersie's farm, threw some stuff in his eyes, knocked him down, kicked him, and then took $8 from his pocket. Such is the evidence as given for the prosecution. We gave the full particulars of the case at the time it came up in the Police Court. Lowry was found guilty of common assault. Mr. Peterson for the prosecution; Mr. Guthrie for the defence.

Thursday, the 25th April.—GERMAN vs. AUB.—An action for breach of warranty. The defendant sold to the plaintiff a machine of certain horse power for sawing wood. The plaintiff contends that the machine is not what it was represented. The defendant contends that the machine was improperly used by plaintiff. It appears from the evidence, who styles himself "California John," and is moreover a very valuable witness, that in consequence of the non-working of the machine he lost a valuable contract, besides a good deal of time by hired men and teams. He testified that the saw would sometimes stick in the log, although the machine being quite powerless to withdraw it. On being asked by Counsel to account further, he replied that he "guessed it was too tired." Mr. Guthrie: "In fact it was a very sick machine." (Loud laughter) Mr. Guthrie and Mr. Goforth for the Plaintiff; Mr. Michael, Mr. J. McDougall, and Mr. A. H. Macdonald for defendant. Verdict or Plaintiff $100.

The sum of seven hundred dollars has been raised for the purpose of building a home for the Religious Sisterhood, in connection with the Holy Trinity Church, Toronto. A lot has been secured on Belmont street for the purpose. Two sisters are expected to arrive towards the close of the month from England.

THE ATLANTIC MONTHLY.—We have received from Messrs. J. R. Osgood & Co. the April number of this very popular magazine, which fully sustains its high character. Among the leading papers is another very interesting article on Jefferson; New York Dogs; and From Shore to Shore. The serial stories, Septimus Felton, Diversions of the Echo Club, and a Comedy of Terrors are continued. The Poet at the Breakfast Table is pleasing as ever, and the notices of Recent Literature are racy and good. The papers on Art, Music, Science and Politics are ably written. For sale at the bookstores.

BLACKWOOD'S MAGAZINE.—We are in receipt of this popular magazine (Leopard Scott Publishing Company, of New York, reprint). Its contents we find to be very interesting, and comprise the following papers: The Maid of Sher, part 9; a Century of Great Poets, Shelley; French Home Life; a True Reformer, part 2; the Ministers, the Parliament and the Country, &c. Single copies can be had at the bookstores.

NEW DOMINION MONTHLY.—We have received the May number of this Magazine, which contains a large amount of very excellent reading matter for old and young. It is also embellished with a portrait of Horace Greeley in farmer costume. For sale at the bookstores.

J. B. LEAT'S Patent Spinning-wheel, Five, and Churn factory, Baltimore, was burned down on Tuesday. Loss said to be about $2,000; insured for $1,000.

HELEN MOIR OR
LOVE AND HONOUR.

A TALE OF THE CLYDE.
 CHAPTER XXVII

"Your meaning sir?" demanded Bridgenorth, sternly. "Is it difficult to divine, Monsieur? What purpose can I have in bringing you and Mam'selle away in this vessel but to make her my wife?"

"Oh, heaven!" gasped Helen, in horror. "Are you mad?" exclaimed Bridgenorth, "Far from it. I flatter myself my sanity was never better established than at this moment. If the course I have taken is unwise, Monsieur must not blame me. I was left without any other resource, seeing that every favor was shown to my rival, and for me only repulsion. This being so, I had to devise a plan to secure my object, and with the assistance of my good friend Jacques I hit upon this, which has been so successfully accomplished. I hope, therefore, that Monsieur and Mam'selle will recognize the force of circumstances and bow to their necessity."

"Depend upon it, sir," said Bridgenorth, "I fully recognize the atrocity of the outrage, and warn you of a heavy punishment if you do not instantly put the ship about and return with us to the place where we were entrapped."

"No, indeed, Monsieur. You do not know me, or you would understand that I am not to be frightened or turned aside. Mam'selle Moir, your daughter, has a different notion."

"It is all shadowed, and her face wears an expression of hopeless dismay. She knew only too well how unscrupulous and determined the Frenchman was."

"You see, Monsieur," went on Dubosque, "I am earnest and resolute. No power can stop me, and this being so I do hope your good sense will render violent measures unnecessary. I am ready either for force or any other course, but would prefer the latter, a guarantee for which you have in the fact that I brought you with Mam'selle, when it would have been much easier to have carried her off alone. Behold in this, Monsieur, a proof at once of my love and goodwill. Let me hope that you will reciprocate, so that amicable relations may be established among us."

"I know not what your French nature may lead you to imagine," said Bridgenorth, "but I tell you in the plainest words that I and my daughter can regard you only with feelings of detestation, abhorrence and contempt."

"Oh, Monsieur!" burst out Helen, "why will you persecute me thus?"

"For the best of all reasons—because I love you."

"No, no; you cannot love me, or you would not act so cruelly."

"I swear to you, Mam'selle, that I do love you to distraction, and my whole after life shall prove it. As my wife, you shall have everything you can wish—honor, devotion, adoration."

"I can never—never be your wife."

"Ah, but you shall—I swear you shall. You think to marry Rheinhardt, now you know that your father committed it no crime. That shall not be, Mam'selle. Mine you shall be, and we are going now to where I shall lead you to the altar—my own sunny France, where a priest shall join us beyond all human power to sunder."

"Villain, forbear such impotent threats," roared Bridgenorth, seeing the state he was in which Helen was thrown. "You well know your words are idle and meaningless."

"Are they, Monsieur—are they?" shouted Dubosque, with a sudden blaze of fury. "What will convince you that my resolve is fixed as fate? Shall you believe me if I send you to some other part of the vessel, and take your place in the cabin as Mam'selle's companion? By heaven I have a mind to do it, in requital of the scorn and insult I have received from you both. I have many provocations to urge me to this, Mam'selle. In your pride and haughtiness you despised me, and spurned me as an inferior thing from your presence. 'Twere good to learn you I am master now, and can exact obedience—' Ha!" he shouted, for at the moment Bridgenorth, goaded to frenzy by his devilish threat, springing upon him and plucked from his bosom a pistol, the muzzle of which he had seen protruding.

The onset was so furious and sudden that Dubosque was taken by surprise, and his antagonist had raised the trigger and presented the weapon at his bosom ere he had recovered from his amazement. The next moment would have been the French-
