Not merely the wealthy, but a multitude of persons of extremely moderate means come under the Income Tax Law of the Dominion.

This booklet for their guidance has been compiled from the most authoritative sources. Precautions have been taken to insure accuracy in its statements, but the Bank does not accept any responsibility in this connection.

DATES TO BE REMEMBERED

March 31—Last day for Companies' and Employers' returns of shareholders and employees, (Forms T4 and T 5) and Fiduciaries' Returns, (Form T3.)

April 30—Last day for return of income and payment of tax—one-fourth of it at least.

June 30—Second instalment due.

Aug. 31—Third instalment due.

Oct. 31—Fourth and last instalment.

The New Income Tax Law and How to Meet It.

A change was made in the Federal Income Tax Law by the Statutes of 1920.

The citizen must not now wait till he is asked for his tax; nor may he leave the calculation of its amount to the officials. He must calculate it himself, and pay it without being asked. With the form showing his income for 1920, he must send in (by April 30, 1921) at least one-fourth of the actual tax which he reckons himself liable for—the rest being payable later, with 6% interest, in three two-monthly instalments.

If he puts the figure too low, he becomes immediately and automatically liable to heavy penalties, even if his error is unintentional. The government officials have no power to let him off. The law decrees the precise sum which he must be fined.

For instance,—

If he understates his income by a trifling amount, up to one-tenth, he must pay income tax on the deficiency with 10% interest.

If he understates his income by more than ten but less than twenty per cent, the fine is half the amount of income omitted,—not merely half the tax. If the deficiency is 20 per cent. or more, the whole of the unreported income is taken. Thus, if he states his income as $4,500, when it is $5,650, he is fined $1,150, besides of course the unpaid tax.

If he is late in sending in his return, 25 per cent. is added to his tax.

If he pays less than a fourth of the tax as estimated by himself to begin with, or less than the proper amount in the case of later instalments, 25 per cent. of the deficiency (and in no case less than $5) is added to his tax. The same penalty is prescribed for not paying within 30 days any sum demanded in addition to the tax as estimated by himself.

If he is asked for further information and is late in sending it, or if he fails to keep such adequate records and accounts as the Finance Minister may prescribe, he may be fined $100 a day for his default; and for a false statement may be punished by a $10,000 fine and six months in jail.

THE GOVERNMENT'S SOURCES OF INFORMATION.

The Government does not rely on the tax payer alone for information as to his income. It may call on any person who has had dealings with him, to produce books or other documents showing the facts; and these must be produced, under a penalty of $100 a day during default, with a possible fine of $10,000 and six months' imprisonment for making a false statement.

Employers have to send in every year (by March 31) returns of all employees paid at a rate of $1,000 a year or more. Fees and other remuneration of Company officials and directors, lawyers' retaining fees, ministerial and other salaries paid by churches, all must be reported.

All companies must in addition file statements of dividends and bonuses paid to shareholders,

Knowledge of a person's private affairs, however, is prevented from going beyond the officials concerned. They would subject themselves to a fine of $200 by any breach of confidence.

OTHER CHANGES IN THE LAW.

The tax is now levied on income from an estate whether that income has been distributed or not. For example, if the income under a will is being allowed to accumulate until the beneficiary reaches a certain age, the executor or trustee must pay income tax year by year. This provision is retroactive; that is, the tax must now be paid for 1917, 1918, and 1919, as well as 1920.

Executors, Administrators and Trustees have to make returns of money collected for an Estate and of all amounts paid or accrued to each beneficiary. An Executor must also file any return which the deceased may have neglected to file.

The income of an estate is not ordinarily taxed as such, but each beneficiary must include in his return, and pay tax upon, all revenues accruing to his credit through an estate.

The guardian or other legal representative of a minor or other incapacitated person must make any return which that person would have to make if capable.

Trustees in bankruptcy, executors, etc., must make returns and pay any tax due before distributing any part of the estate under their control.

Company profits paid to shareholders in the form of stock dividends are now expressly mentioned in the Act as liable to income tax. But the tax will not be levied on such profits if they had accumulated before 1917 and if their distribution to shareholders has been voted before the end of 1920.

Five per cent. has been added to the amount payable on any taxable income of $5,000 or more. (This was levied on incomes for 1919.)

The agent in Canada of anyone resident outside Canada must make a return of any income collected for such non-resident; but such income is not made subject to tax merely because an agent in Canada was employed to collect it.

STUDY THE ACT ITSELF.

Every citizen should carefully study the law, which is given in full on pages 13 to 30; but its main features, so far as they have not already been described, are made clear in these answers to questions:—

WHO COMES UNDER THE LAW?

Everyone with $1,000 a year (or $2,000 if he or she is married) who ordinarily resides in Canada, or has lived in Canada 183 days during the year, or is employed or carries on business in Canada, or is paid for services rendered in Canada (but, in this last case, only on the income so earned). For exceptions, see pages 21 and 22.

HOW MUCH IS THE TAX?

The Normal Tax is 4% on incomes up to $6,000, and 8% on incomes exceeding that figure. Then there is a Surtax on incomes over $5,000, and this rises by regular steps from 1% on the first $1,000 over the $5,000 mark to 65% on anything over $1,000,000. Also 5% of the combined Normal Tax and Surtax is payable on any net taxable income of $5,000 or more. (See pages 16 to 19.)

CITIZENS MUST APPLY FOR FORMS.

Individuals must not wait till some official sends them forms to fill up. The law insists that they get them for themselves. Forms may be obtained from the Inspector of Taxation for the district, or from a Post-Office.

SENDING IN FORMS AND PAYING THE TAX.

The form, when filled up, must be sent or handed to the local Inspector of Taxation by April 30 at latest. Allow plenty of time for possible delay in the mails.

Along with the form, as already stated, there must be sent at least one-quarter of the tax itself. The remainder may be paid in not more than three instalments—two, four, and six months after April 30—with 6% interest from that date to the date of payment.

It is strongly advised that the first remittance, being based only on your own estimate, should be well over the one-fourth minimum. If possible, send a half. At any rate, add a good margin in case of error, and so obviate the risk of penalties. The more that is paid, the more will be the interest saved.

Every payment should be made by money order or certified cheque if not delivered in cash.

IF FIGURES ARE REJECTED.

If the figures in the return are accepted, the sender will be notified by the local Inspector of Taxation.

If the taxation officials think the sender has paid too much, they will return the surplus.

If they think too little has been paid, or the income under-stated, they will demand the balance of the tax which they reckon to be due, (with penalties as described on pages 1 and 2).

CONDITIONS OF APPEAL.

If dissatisfied with the official assessment, any person can appeal (within 20 days of its mailing) first to a Board of Referees and finally to the Exchequer Court of Canada.

The Board of Referees may increase the official assessment.

EXEMPTIONS AND DEDUCTIONS.

To the question "What Income has to be stated?" the answer is:—

Your revenue for the calendar year 1920, from salary and fees, business profits, rents, interest, dividends, and other income, including that received from another country.

WHAT DEDUCTIONS ARE ALLOWED IN CALCULATING NORMAL TAX?

1. $1,000, if you are unmarried or widow or widower and without dependents.
2. $2,000 if married.
3. $2,000 if unmarried or a widow or widower with dependent child or brother or sister under 18, or with a dependent parent or grandparent.
4. $2,000 if a widow or widower with dependent child under 21, or with incapacitated child of any age.
5. $200 for each dependent child under 18.
6. Dividends from companies doing business in Canada, which have themselves paid Normal Tax.

EXEMPTIONS FROM ALL INCOME TAX.

In addition, the following four items are entirely exempt from Federal Income Taxes:—

1. Interest on any Dominion of Canada War Bonds issued free from income tax.
2. Pensions granted to any member of His Majesty's forces or their dependents, on account of disabilities suffered in the Great War.
3. Money made by speculation outside the ordinary course of your business.
4. Legacies, gifts, and proceeds of Life Insurance Policies, but not money earned by the investment of these.

DEDUCTIONS FROM INCOME ON ACCOUNT OF EXPENDITURE.

To arrive at net income deduct also:—

1. Ordinary expenditure for the purpose of your business or profession.
2. Interest on money borrowed, excluding mortgage on your own residence and borrowings for personal and living expenses.
3. Taxes, insurance, repairs and depreciation on land or buildings, except your own residence.
4. Amounts paid by employees under Superannuation Funds or plans.
5. Carrying charges on securities, not exceeding income therefrom.

Note.—No deduction is allowed for subscriptions to hospitals, or other gifts for charity. Nor may anyone deduct, from the profit on his chief business, any loss on a "side line."

DEDUCTIONS FROM TAX.

Each person is entitled to deduct from the tax:—

1. Certain payments made for corresponding periods under the Special War Revenue Act or the Business Profits War Tax Act; and
2. Income tax paid to another country, if this deduction does not exceed the tax you would pay in Canada on the particular income for which tax has been paid elsewhere, and, in the case of a foreign country, if that country reciprocates by allowing a similar credit to persons receiving income from Canada. This credit is allowed by the United States.

NO THREE-YEAR AVERAGE HERE.

Persons from the United Kingdom, accustomed to paying on their average income for three years, will notice that no such practice is allowed in Canada. Also, that Life Insurance Premiums are not exempted here. Nevertheless the tax in Canada is considerably less than in the United Kingdom.

Persons from the United States, while they will find the rates practically the same in Canada, will notice, among other differences in the law, that Canada does not tax as income the profit made by selling a capital asset at more than its cost, unless such sale forms part of their chief business.

DEPRECIATION.

The Finance Minister has to judge what is "reasonable" depreciation. In practice, he allows a yearly depreciation of 2% on stone or concrete buildings, 2½% on brick and 5% on wood buildings; from 5% to 10% on machinery; and 10% on office furniture and fixtures.

Depreciation is allowed on an automobile in proportion to its use in the owner's business.

FARM INCOME AND EXPENDITURE.

A Farmer or Rancher has to supply, on a special form, a large number of details.

He has to include among other items of gross revenue the value of his products consumed on the farm itself, and of products bartered as well as sold.

He may deduct, among other items of expenditure:—

1. Wages and board of hired help employed in preparing land for crops; in cultivating, harvesting and marketing same; and in caring for livestock.

2. Cost of seed, feed, and fertilizers.

3. Cost of small implements and sundry materials such as pitch forks, spades, binder twine, etc.

4. Cost of repairs to machinery, fences and buildings other than his dwelling.

5. Interest on mortgage or unpaid purchase price of farm, of livestock, and of equipment.

6. Depreciation: 5% on fences and wooden buildings other than farmer's own dwelling; 10% on machinery and work horses.

MARRIED WOMEN'S INCOMES.

A married woman having a private income not derived in any way from her husband may claim personal exemption up to $2,000, for Normal Tax, just as he does. Beyond this figure she is liable to the same taxes as anyone else and must apply for a form and send it in with the necessary remittance.

In such a case, the $200 exemption for each dependent child may be claimed by either husband or wife, but not by both.

No partnership between husband and wife is recognized by the Income Tax Law. A man and wife carrying on a business together cannot make separate returns and claim two exemptions on the ground that they draw separate incomes from the business. The law treats such a pair of incomes as one.

WHAT INCOME TAX DO COMPANIES PAY?

A Normal Tax of 10% on income exceeding $2,000. If the taxable income is $5,000 or over the tax is increased by 5%, making a total of 10½% in such a case.

It should be remembered that returns must still be made under the Business Profits War Tax Act, as well as under the Income Tax Act; but only the greater of these two taxes has to be paid.

When a company's fiscal year does not coincide with the calendar year, returns may be made for the fiscal year that ends during the calendar year.

The individual shareholder may be taxed on his proportion of a company's undivided profits, if the Finance Minister considers that their accumulation is intended to evade the law and exceeds the reasonable requirements of the business.

A company has to send in before the end of March (not April) the names and addresses of its shareholders, with particulars of dividends, etc., paid to them, if any such payments have been made.

A PARTNERSHIP NOT TAXED.

No income tax is levied on partners collectively, but each partner individually must pay the tax on his proportion of the firm's profits.

EXAMPLES

(a) Married man with three children under 18. Salary, $1,800. His exemptions ($2,000 for his wife and $200 for each child) amount to $2,600. Result, no tax. His income will have to rise above $2,600 before he has to pay anything under the present law.

(b) Unmarried man with no dependents. Salary, $1,200. Earned also $36 by work in his spare time. Drew a War Disability Pension of $96. His $200 tax-free Victory Bonds yielded $11. On the other hand, $48 was kept back from his salary as his contribution to a superannuation fund; and he lost $50 by stock speculation.

Apparently his net income was $1,245, after deducting the $48 and the $50 from the total of $1,343. But, for the purpose of the income tax he is not allowed to deduct that $50 loss. On the other hand, he is allowed to deduct not only the $48 held back from his salary, and the War Pension of $96, and the $11 from War Bonds, but a Statutory Exemption of $1,000. His net taxable income therefore is $188 (being $1,343 less $1,155), and his income tax is $7.52, being 4% on $188.

(c) Agent. Unmarried; is the chief support of his mother. Income from commissions, $4,875. Incidentally, bought a car for $200 and sold it for $250. His business having nothing to do with cars, he does not report this profit as part of his income. He deducts $355, office rent and other business expenses; also $2,000, the personal exemption, on account of a dependent parent. Net taxable income, therefore, $2,520. Income tax, $100.80.

Deciding to pay the tax by instalments, he sends one-fourth of it, \$25.20, by certified cheque along with his form, in good time before the last day, April 30. On or before June 30 he pays the next \$25.20, with 6% interest, or 25c for the two months, making \$25.45. By August 31, he pays \$25.70, being the third instalment with four months' interest; and before the end of October he makes the final payment, \$25.95—being the remaining $\frac{3}{4}$ \$25.20 with six months' interest.

(d) Merchant. Married, with three dependent children. Business profits, $8,580. Yield of tax-free bonds, $550; of various Canadian dividends $785. Total income, $9,915.

He deducts $3,935 (the yield of his bonds, his Canadian dividends, the $2,000 personal exemption of a married man, and $200 for each child) and finds $5,980 liable to Normal Tax. On the first $4,000 of this he pays 4% or $160; on the remaining $1,980, he pays 8%, or $158.40, making his Normal Tax $318.40.

In calculating his Surtax, however, he may only deduct from his total income of $9,915 the $550 received from tax free bonds, leaving $9,365. This does not mean that the Surtax is levied on the whole $9,365—but on such part of that sum as exceeds $5,000. That is, on $4,365. And even on that $4,365 it is not levied at a uniform rate, but at three different rates. On the first $1,000 above the $5,000, it is 1%, or $10; on the next $2,000 it is 2%, or $40; on the remaining $1365 it is 3%, or $40.95. Total Surtax, $90.95.

Normal Tax and Surtax are next added together, making $409.35; increase this by $20.47, the 5% supplementary tax on incomes of $5,000 and more; and the total income tax payable is found to be $429.82.

(e) Married couple. Husband earns $1,800. Being married, he claims his $2,000 exemption and pays no income tax. His wife goes out and earns $960 a year. Being married, she claims her $2,000 exemption and pays no income tax.

THE INCOME TAX AND THE INDIVIDUAL

INCOME TAX TABLE

The following table shows the amount of Tax payable by a married man, without dependent children, on various amounts of income, assuming that all such income is taxable. Few people will find the total Tax shown opposite the income to be exactly accurate in their cases, as most will have certain incomes which are wholly or partially exempt from taxation, such as Dominion of Canada tax-exempt bonds, dividends from Canadian companies, etc., etc.

To find the amount of tax payable by an unmarried man add $40.00 (4 p.c. on $1,000) to the total tax shewn opposite the relative amount of income, if less than $5,000 and $42.00 ($40.00 + 5% of $40.00) if income is $5,000 or more.
