KEMP'S

PATENT

Manure Spreader.

The greatest invention since the introduction of the Resper and Mower. It Covers every square inch of ground with finely pulverized manure, in one-tenth the time required with shovels and forks, and ten times as well. Every particle of manure is at once utilized for plant food, ensuring rapid growth and large, uniform crops. The fields where the Spreader is used can be distinguished from others by the quality of crops. Farmers having become familiar with the Spreader claim they would sooner part, with their Mower of Resper than with the Spreader, so indispensable has it become. It is a staumh and reliable implement, well made of best material, durable, not liable to breakage with fair use, and can be readily used as a common cart.

THERE ARE NOW SEVERAL THOUSAND IN USE, cach telling its own story of the economy of labor and the better use of manure. It makes the roughest and severent labor of the farm the easiest and speciest. Handles all of the economy of labor and the better use of manure. It makes the roughest and severest labor of the farm the easiest and speciest. Hindles all kinds of manure found on the farm, from the coarsies to the finest, including lime, ashes, muck, marl, etc., in any condition, wet or dry; placing any amount desired per sere, from twesty bushels spwards, broadcast or in drills, in one-tenth the time it can be done by hand.

Many farmers write: "It saves its cost every year." Another writes: "We have just finished outting over 200 tons actual weight of hay, 60 tons of which we give the Spreader credit for, in consequence of eventy spreading the manure used in top dressing."

Dr. Hopkins, if we are not misisken, has shown that conscience is not intended as a propelling power, but as a regulative power. When in a Christian it is transposed the whole character gets away. The fruits of conscience are not love, joy, peaces. If a man fixes on some estandard outside himself, and by the whip and spur of conscience endeavore to compel himself to conform to it, his life will not be keyed to lowe He will not be kindly, tender, sympathetic, he will be pold, severe, critical. He will not have joy. He will be always comparing his life with his ideal, an talways more or less unhappy because the ideal and the life are so far spart. He will only be haftly, whenshe forgets that he is religious. He will not have peace. Has life will be a constant strife between his ideal and his actual, between what he would do and what he does do. He will live in the seventh Romans. His song will be, "Oh, wretched man that I am!" Locking at the chapters in the history of religion which conscience has written, and which includes the Inquisition the monastic systems and the great religious wars, one might almost say the fruits of conscience are hate, sorrow and battle.

To be a luminous Christian qua's life must be spiritual; the secret and source of its must be, not force of will compelling, Dr.Hopkins, if we are not mistaken, has own that conscience is not intended as a

To be a luminous Christian one's life must be spiritisal; the secret and source of it must be, not force or will compelling, but force of love impelling, let your light shine; but you cannot if you have no light. The first condition of Christian usefulness is an acquaintance with Christ, the living Christ; the second is, having found Christ and being in him, is to let him shine. How one you serve Christ? First be a Christian, not merely being a religionist; second, being "a Christian, just be yourself—that is, let the Christ in you shine. Do not repress, do not confine him to the closet and the class meetings. Christ has fold us the secret of his own serfulness and so intimated to as the secret of our own; "The Father that dwelleth, in useruiness and so inlimated to us the secret of our own; "The Father that dwelleth in me, he doeth the works." My coanry renders the very best service he can render by just being a songful cannary and singing all the day long, without once thinking whether it will do sond a render all the day long, without once thinking whether it will do good or whether there is anyone present to listen.—The Christian Union.

A varied and attractive bill of fare in presented to the readers of The Old Testament Student in the October number, just received. A new contributor, Rev. Dr. Edgins, of Peking, furnishes a paper on "Perimeval Chinese Legends," which will be read with interest. Two articles—one on "New Testament Judaiem and its Genesis," by Dr. Schodde, and the other on "The Kingdom of God in the Old Testament," by Prof. F. B. Denio—are sure to attract attention. The "Book Studies," which formed so valuable a feature of the last volume, are resumed in this number—Dr. Ballantific contributes a "study" of Tasiah X. to L. v. v., which will be of great help to students of the Bible. "study" of Issiah Xx., io 1.Xy1., which will be of great help to students of the Bible We understand that the publishers will send a sample copy of The Student free or application.
