SAINT JOHN, SATURDAY MORNING, JUNE 11, 1910.

MR. FIELDING'S "COMEDY OF ERRORS."

We have a considerable story about commercial treaties with Belgium, The Netherlands, and Italy. Cleared of technical explanation the effect of the treaties is to extend to these three countries the intermediate tariff on the same commodities that are admitted on this schedule from France.

Once more let us recall the fact that the intermediate tariff was designed to procure reciprocity tariffs from other countries. We have given it to France in exchange for certain concessions that France gives to thirty or forty other countries.

POTATOES.

The Cuba market of last winter was a greater blessing to the farmers of the river counties than most of them expected. Even with this opportunity to dispose of the crop there is a large surplus and the price is low.

What may happen this year no one can tell. But one thing certain is that the farmers who grow potatoes will be a good deal better off if they can ship some hundreds of thousands of barrels to Cuba than if they have only the old market available.

The farmers will be advised from last year's experience to abstain from potatoes and sell grain. One doubtful authority commends the sale of hay and oats. A farmer who desires to get all he can out of his land, with the least trouble in the shortest time, leaving an impoverished property, may find this counsel good.

This journal does not profess to instruct farmers in their own business, but suggests that one advantage of farming in a province like this is the chance to grow more than one or two different crops.

Another suggestion which seems to be safe, is that the wise farmer does not allow himself to be diverted from one staple crop to another as the result of one year's experience. Those who invested everything in potatoes because a good market was offered one year in Ontario and Quebec, may have made a mistake.

THE DUKE OF CONNAUGHT.

At the time of this writing opinion in well-informed British circles favors the idea that the Duke of Connaught will be the next governor general of Canada. There is no guarantee that the reader will not find later despatches throwing doubt on the report.

It may be that a member of the royal family would be under more restraint in a vice-regal position than another nobleman. He would not only be expected to maintain the non-partisan character of a vice-roy, but always to remember the effect on his house of any indiscretions or even plain speakings.

The Duke of Connaught would be welcomed here for his own sake. He has been a good soldier and has had a useful career. He would also be welcomed for the sake of his mother and his brother, and his sister who occupied Rideau Hall five years, and is remembered kindly by many Canadians.

THE PRESBYTERIAN ASSEMBLY AND MR. AYLESWORTH.

The highest court of the Presbyterian Church of Canada is grave, responsible, and representative body of ministers and laymen, belonging to both political parties. From such a body the declaration concerning Hon. Mr. Aylesworth, Minister of Justice, has great weight.

"Whereas Messrs. Skill & King, Toronto booksellers, doing business under various firm names, having been committed for trial in the police court, were indicted before the court of general sessions for that they 'knowingly and without lawful justification or excuse did sell, distribute and circulate certain obscene books tending to corrupt morals.'

"And whereas on coming to trial, they, on advice of their counsel, pleaded 'guilty' and were sentenced to one year's imprisonment: "And whereas, at the end of two months, the prisoners were summarily released on the advice of the honorable the Minister of Justice, who, in defending his action in the House of Commons said, inter alia, 'So far as the papers show and so far as any report on the matter which I received shows, the business was the ordinary legitimate business of respectable bookselling,' and 'I gave the advice to his excellency that these men should be summarily released, because, in my humble judgment, speaking as a lawyer, they were not guilty of the offense with which they were charged';

"And whereas the general assembly has satisfied itself that, when the case was under consideration by the honorable the Minister of Justice, the following facts and considerations were before him over the signature of the crown prosecutor:—

1.—"That repeatedly during two years preceding the arrest and prosecution of the prisoners the customs and postal authorities had confiscated copies of the very books in question consigned to or mailed by them, on the ground that they were obscene and indecent according to the regulations of the customs and post office departments.

2.—"That the American post office authorities had intercepted their advertising circulars and sent them to the postmaster general at Ottawa, and he to the post office authorities in Toronto and that it was at the instance of the latter the prisoners were brought to trial.

3.—"That the chief coroner of Toronto in an official report on the books had condemned them as 'not scientific' and as 'undulterated filth.'

4.—"That the chief librarian of Toronto having examined the books had reported that they were 'obscene and unfit for circulation.'

5.—"That the circular in which the prisoners advertised these books, sending out as many as 500 per month, a copy of which was in the hands of the honorable the Minister of Justice, described them in language manifestly intended to commend them to the prurient mind.

"And whereas after some twelve of these books had been in the possession of the minister and had been examined by him, he declared in parliament, 'so far as the papers show and so far as any report on the matter which I received shows, the business was the ordinary legitimate business of respectable bookkeeping.'

"And whereas two weeks later, and after he had been severely criticised in the public press, he said again in the House: 'If the same thing were to be considered over again, under the same circumstances, I should act in exactly the way in which I have acted throughout. I have taken the course which I thought was right, and which I still think was right;'

"And whereas the general assembly in the light of the facts above narrated and in the face of the opinion of the Minister of Justice, having carefully examined the contents of several of these books, feels bound to declare them obscene, indeed unacceptably immoral, licentious and corrupting;

"And whereas the general assembly, after most careful investigation, is persuaded that Skill & King in their manner of advertising and offering these books for sale, depended especially upon their immoral character to effect their sale to those of prurient taste;

"And whereas the general assembly cannot but feel that a situation of the utmost gravity has in consequence been created, inasmuch as, if the action and utterances of the Minister of Justice remain unchallenged and are to influence the administration of law in similar cases, our country lies exposed to the unrestricted continuance of the traffic in such debasing literature.

"Therefore, the general assembly, in view of the premises above recited, deems it to be its solemn duty respectfully to lay before the right honorable the Prime Minister this deliverance, and appeals to him to take such action as will avert this grave peril immediately threatening our national life."

TRAINING TEACHERS FOR THE WEST.

It is announced that the provincial Normal School has this year graduated the largest class in its history. This is gratifying and would be still more so if it were certain that teachers of the first class so trained would be available to fill the gaps in the ranks in this province. A company of young men are in this graduating class, and male teachers are too scarce in New Brunswick.

But unless the Standard is greatly mistaken a large part of this graduating class, and especially of the male portion, will not even begin to teach in New Brunswick. Some will be off to the west at once with their certificates showing competency. Some will teach a year, or half a year, and then pay their passage to the west with the proceeds of this service.

The provincial Normal School is maintained by the public for the purpose of training New Brunswick teachers. Students do not pay for tuition. On the contrary some public contribution is made toward their expenses. This is considered a proper public contribution toward the training of men and women for this important public service.

Do the western provinces realize what the poorer eastern provinces are doing for them? We are not only sparing men and women that we need at home, but are preparing them at provincial expense for educational work in the new provinces. Do the young men and women consider that they may be under some obligation to teach at least a short time in the province which pays the cost of their training for this work?

AFFINITY.

Once in a garden in the East A zephyr blew across the close, And as it swept the floral feast It lost its heart unto the rose. But duty held it on its way, And called it north, and south and west.

Returning on a winter's day It found its love at rest. The ages passed; and still the soft, Enamored breeze held on its path; Now near to earth, and now aloft It cut its fate-appointed swath; But never in its pilgrimage Forgets that beautiful garden-close, Nor in the later days of age Its heart-ache for the rose.

So I in that lost other state Wherein my heart first met the tide Of Life and Love—ah, blessed fate!— A rose of beauty once expired; And though the myriad years have passed, I feel that beautiful garden-close, Nor in the later days of age Its heart-ache for the rose.

So I in that lost other state Wherein my heart first met the tide Of Life and Love—ah, blessed fate!— A rose of beauty once expired; And though the myriad years have passed, I feel that beautiful garden-close, Nor in the later days of age Its heart-ache for the rose.

PARAPHRASES.

(Ingersoll.) When the day is done And the work, though slight, Is finished beneath the sun, When the gold of eve Meets the dusk of night, 'Neath the silent stars of the upper deep The tired laborer falls asleep.

ROOSEVELTISMS. "Good results cannot be secured by casting conscience votes which do not count."

"A man should be as ready to fight for the best interests of his country in time of peace as in time of war."

"No man who is not a good father, a good husband and upright in his business affairs can ever aspire to good, honest citizenship."

"If in peace the soldier and the sailor abandon themselves to ease and sloth, when war comes they will go down before rivals who have been less self-indulgent."

GOOD STORIES.

Discussing the proposed laws against scorching motorists, Raymond Hitchcock, the actor, said: "It is time to check these men. They are getting quite too reckless. There was more truth than humor in a burlesque dialogue I read in a manuscript play the other night."

"If there's one thing more than another I hate to run over," said a burlesque chauffeur, "it's a baby."

"Quite right," his companion agreed. "Those feeding bottles do play hob with a tire, don't they?"

JOSH WISE SAYS: "When a new neighbor moves in, this is always the first remark she passes to you over the fence: 'I declare, I never saw a place left as dirty as this.'"

"I thought you'd got a job?" "I have; putting on the dots in a domino factory."

"Then why aren't you working?" "They're making double blanks today."

"Well, doctor, boy or girl?" "My dear sir, you are the father of triplets."

"Are you sure you haven't mislaid any in your hurried count?" "My beau," said Elsie, "is going to be an admiral."

"Indeed," replied the visitor. "A cadet at present, I suppose?" "Oh, he hasn't got that far yet, but he's had an anchor tattooed on his arm."

SPLIT LOG DRAG DOES GOOD WORK.

Simple Device for Roadmaking Adopted as a State Work and Its Use Results in Great Improvement.

The split-log drag is a device which during the past few years has grown rapidly in popular favor as an immediate maker of good roads and at a relatively low expense.

Over 10,000 farmers in Missouri are keeping in excellent repair with the split-log drag the ordinary country dirt roads leading from their front gates to their neighbors' front gates. Fifteen thousand are working on the roads of Illinois.

The Department of Highways of the State of Illinois has officially adopted this system of maintaining its roads throughout the entire state. The state of Ohio has taken up this method of road making, and foremost among automobile clubs of the nation to become enthusiastic advocates of this method of getting good roads now, today, cheap, stand several clubs in Pennsylvania. Among them are the Lancaster, Harrisburg, Pittsburg and Williamsport Good Roads Association.

The split-log drag is made from an ordinary log, eight or ten inches in diameter and from seven to nine feet long. The log is split in half and the halves are spiked thirty inches apart, the split sides to the front. A team of horses is hitched to the drag by means of a chain, and the latter is dragged along the road at an angle of 45 degrees, mowing the dirt to the middle of the road.

This dragging process is done after each rain. The farmer stands on the drag, and the moist earth, as it is moved to the centre of the road, fills the ruts, smooths out the uneven places and causes all inequalities to disappear. About one hour is required for the farmer to drag a mile of road after each rain.

LAJOIE KEEPS THE NAPS UP IN RACE

LARRY LAJOIE,
Leading Slugger of American League Ready to Meet the Ball.

There may have been, and doubtless was, gloom in Mudville when mighty Casey fooled his approach and missed three healthy clouts at the ball, and this time last spring there was just as much gloom in Cleveland, for the mighty Lajoie was not "hitting them where they ain't."

hard and timely this year. When the Naps left for their first swing around the eastern end of the circuit Lajoie's batting average was .488, and he was leading the American league sluggers. Larry has played in every game and he has averaged better than a hit a game, and the beauty of his hits has been their timeliness. Last year the big fellow was managing the team and he was worried. His batting slumped accordingly. This year all he has to do is to play the game and he is playing it right up to the hilt, both in the field and at the bat.

JEALOUSY IS CHARGED

Pittsburg Leader Prints Yarn That Pirates' Slump is Due to Ill-Feeling Among Players — Strong Denials.

Pittsburg, Pa., June 10.—The Pittsburg "Leader" tonight charges that the slump by the world's champions is due to jealousy among the players. President Barney Dreyfuss strenuously denies all the assertions.

The Leader charges that Hans Wagner and Jack Miller have declared war against Jack Flynn, the first baseman and that these two players have made strenuous efforts to oust him. It is asserted in the publication that the slump is directly due to this factional fight because Captain Fred Clarke selected Flynn in place of Bud Shrappe for first base.

TO SHOOT TINY MOTOR BOATS THROUGH NIAGARA WHIRLPOOL

Son of "Golden Rule" Jones, ex-Mayor of Cleveland, Willing to Enter Race With Nomad II.

PERCY C. JONES.

ROLLIN D. POTTER,
THE NOMAD II.

Can a motorboat live through the Niagara whirlpool? The question will be answered next September, when about a dozen of these stanch little crafts will start in the comparatively calm water just below Niagara Falls where the Maid of the Mist docks, and race down stream through the upper rapids, the Giant Wave and into the fatal whirlpool basin and the gorge. The boats which pass through safely will finish the race through the lower rapids and cross the finishing line in the smooth waters below.

With Jones and Potter in the launch will be Frank Gheen, commodore of the New York powerboat club and another member who has not been decided on. Jones has received hundreds of applications from people desiring to accompany him.

Appearings of the Week

With the lively, flowery mouth of June when Hymen reigns supreme, one very naturally looks for fair skies and bright sunshine, but Phylus, the evicted elf, seems to delight in playing his pranks and truly reigns supreme. The season seems to have changed, since the days when the poet wrote, "What is so rare as a day in June," but after all weather does not affect happy hearts, weddings being now the chief topic, and while clouds and sunning make up the sum of human life, we will wish for the fair young couples a goodly share of the latter. With the exception of a few farewell teas, lunches and showers for the coming brides, one hears of little gaiety, as the major of our society people have left town for their country residences. Golf and tennis will therefore be the principal attractions for the lovers of these sports, it is to be hoped we shall soon have more favorable weather.

Transparent Tunics Are Now in Vogue

Six months since, all the elegancies of style glittered and sparkled, but now the light of fashion is no longer reflected from hard and shining surfaces. Rather, it gleams through thin textures, and transparency is become the feature of every successful mode. From the bows of her hat to the tips of her Greek sandals, the woman of fashion moves in diaphanous array, in layer over layer of filmy chiffon, perforated embroidery, meshed net, and translucent mousseline.

Her parson of figured orandy, or silk mud, shirred and flounced and knickered. Her hat is of chintilly lace, lined with straw or net; her turban is made of folds and braids of maline, her plumed hat is the thinnest of neapolls.

Her white gown is a gossamer creation of lace and eyelet embroidery; and over it, if she wear the latest novelty of the season, is a knee-length tunic of dark chiffon, bound with satin and braided artistically.

Her boots have latticed fronts, and her hosiery is of lacework or delicate silk tulle. Her veil is chintilly, and it droops in French fashion, straight down from her hat brim. And should she require some extra wrapping she will use a three-creased shawl of Spanish lace, or the long-headed net scarf of the harem.

And yet all this gauze, and mist, and fliminess, though ruffled and gathered, are far from producing the cloudy effect usually to be expected from batistes and lawns and silk tissues.

Can Such Things Be? "What was in the barrel?" was the question which agitated a small group of citizens at the Union depot last evening and this was how it happened: An innocent looking barrel, very like an apple barrel, both in size and markings was being placed aboard the train bound for Bebec Junction. During the process the barrel fell from the truck and instantly there arose an unmistakable odor of gas. That odor once discovered, it is said by experts, can always be identified, but in spite of the odor the barrel was placed on the train and went its way. The developments may prove interesting.

Fire at Millidgeville. A fire which was discovered about two o'clock yesterday afternoon in the summer house of Hally McL. Lingley, at Millidgeville did considerable damage to the building before it was extinguished, and much of the furnishings of the house were destroyed by smoke and water. Mr. Lingley said last night that the loss would be covered by insurance. The origin of the fire, which started in the pantry, is a mystery, no one as far as is known, having been in the house since Thursday afternoon. It is said by those who were first upon the scene that the front door of the house was open when they reached the place. Fire was first noticed on the roof, and an alarm was rung in from box 125. No 5 engine, the chemical and hook and ladder responded, but by the time they arrived the blaze had been extinguished by a bucket brigade of men and women who had procured water from the river.

"RALPH CONNOR" TALKS OF CONDITIONS IN THE WEST

Rev. C. W. Gordon Arrived in the City Yesterday--Need of Young Men for Church a Great Problem--Rise in Real Estate Values in Winnipeg--No New Book This Year.

Rev. Dr. C. W. Gordon (Ralph Connor) known to the reading public through the medium of his books, arrived in the city yesterday from Halifax where he attended the sessions of the general assembly. To a Standard man last evening, he talked interestingly of the great west land and the problems which must be met in the development of the young nation. The problems of the west, he pointed out, were largely the problems of the church as the demand for ministers who "can build the country right" was never so great. The most reasonable solution of the problem and the one that he thought must be adopted, was the taking of young men from other professions, giving them a short course in English, rhetoric and the English Bible, with attention to economics and the science of preaching and putting them in the ministry. "In all our eastern cities," said Dr. Gordon, "there are many young men well educated and qualified with a little training to go into the west land and do great work for the country, for with the constant influx of new people it is a problem to hold the country true."

Dr. Gordon here remarked upon the great immigration from the United States into the west, and said that while the Americans made excellent settlers they did not average up to the standard of Canadians in moral life. The Sabbath meant less to them, and although there were very many fine Christian men among them, there was still a need there.

Real Estate in Winnipeg. Referring to the material progress of the west and particularly of Winnipeg where his church and home are located, Dr. Gordon mentioned the wonderful growth in the value of real estate. The lot on which his church stands, he said, was purchased six years ago for $20 per foot, and is now worth $850 per foot. "When it reaches $1,000," he added naively, "we may sell."

Other property shows a similar growth. Winnipeg, he considers, is progressing in a substantial, solid manner. The wildcatting in real estate is not so pronounced now as formerly and in every direction there is evidence of rapid progress. "And the population?" "Well, the present population of Winnipeg is 175,000, or rather, it was when I left," he added cautiously. "I don't know what it is now. That was ten days ago."

Money and Its Uses. "Yes, the Telegram did that," was Dr. Gordon's reply, when it was called to his attention that he had been rated by one of the Winnipeg papers as one of the wealthiest residents of that city. "Ever since that appeared," he continued, "I have been inundated with all sorts of offers of investment and with applications from people in need of assistance. "That after all is the only use of money, to invest it for a good purpose. If one has it he cannot eat any more and can only wear one suit of clothes. It does not make us happier and $2,000 a year is all a man wants for his own use."

In reply to a question the author of the "Sly Pilot" said he was not publishing any new books. He would give the world a rest for a year. Speaking of the assembly Dr. Gordon said the supply of men for the church was one of the most important of the subjects discussed. "This need of men and money, particularly in the West, is one of the things which he thinks will operate in favor of church union. "A man can do more useful work in laboring for the good of the country as a whole than by fighting the Methodists," was his comment.

Dr. Gordon refused to talk politics beyond asking innocently if Dr. Pagnoley was still under the ban. Of Vancouver he expressed the opinion that it was a city worth "keeping your eye on," although at present, he considers it overrun with real estate speculation, much wild catting being carried on there. Dr. Gordon is the guest of Capt. and Mrs. E. A. Smith and will remain in the city until Monday. On Sunday morning he will occupy the pulpit in St. Andrew's church.

A meeting of the Building Trades' Council was held in the Painters' and Decorators' Hall on Charlotte street last evening, at which the report of the sub-committee appointed to draw up a constitution and by-laws was received and adopted. All the delegates were present and the proceedings were characterized by an air of enthusiasm and determination rather unusual in labor circles in St. John. One of the clauses of the constitution which will be submitted to the various local unions for their approval, provided that on a date to be specified later all building contractors and other employers should be given ninety days notice that the members of the unions presented on the building trades' council would refuse to work on any jobs where non-union men were employed.

After the adoption of the constitution, plans for the future were discussed. It was determined to make an effort to organize as many trades as possible, and to call mass meetings for this purpose, at which the advantages of organization will be discussed. The question of getting in line with the workers of other cities, talking an active interest in municipal affairs, agitating for the adoption of a board of control and securing a labor representative on the board as in Montreal and other cities was brought up, but it was decided to defer action on these propositions till a later meeting.
