OLD COLUMBIA'S SELECTION TO RACE THE NEW SHAMROCK.

Cup Committee of the New York Yacht Club Thought Constitution Too Much of an Unknown Quantity.

Newport, R. Mr. E. D. Morgan, the manager of the Columbia, said this afternoon that he would make every effort to place the old cup defender is as perfect shape as possible. It is too late for a new mainsail, but with a few slight alterations to the present one, it is hoped that it will carry the yacht through the cup races successfully. An attempt will be made to have two other old mainsails placed in condition, so that they may be used in an emergency.

An interesting feature of the Situation is the future of the Constitution. Mr. August Belmont endured the rejection of the boat of which he is the principal owner with philosophic fortitude. He will keep her in commission so that if any accident should befall the Columbia he will be ready to fill the gap. Mr. Belmont will do all in his power to help the Columbia to keep the cup on this side of the Atlantic. He will lend her sails, spars or anything else that may be needed. It is plain that he believes that the selection of the Columbia was a mistake, for he believes she is a slower boat, but none of the syndicate which has invested money in the Constitution will betray the

CIDER MAKING.

The lenefits of Filtering-How to Clder is greatly improved by filter-Ing as soon as it comes from the mill. The more perfectly the particles of apes are removed the Better will be the der and the vinegar to be made from t. Filters of cloth with small meshes are good and remove the larger parties, but if the very best results are anted a charcoal filter is necessary. This can be quite easily made from an ordinary cider or whisky barrel.

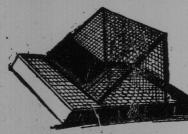

Remove one head and make of it a Talse bottom two inches above the other head. On the false bottom nan strips of hard wood. Between these strips bore holes. Have a faucet near the bottom of the barrel. Above the Talse bottom place three inches of charreal broken to the size of birdshot, first daying down a piece of coarse cloth. On top of this charcoal put another layer of cloth and four or five inches of an, well washed wheat or rye straw. Above the straw put a circular, hard swood grating with openings an inch or so square. Fasten this in place.

Turn water into the barrel and keep It running through until it issues entirely tasteless. When this is accomplished, the filter is ready for use. Of course the filter will become clogged, when it must be recharged. When properly filtered, the cider will be free from albuminous and mucilaginous material and will keep much better

In a small way a bag of heavy canton flannel may be hung over a tub and the liquid filtered through this. By lining this bag with paper pulp the openings in the cloth can be so comclosed that nothing but the pure liquid will get through, concludes American Agriculturist.

Marketing Water. know are those who are marketing the most water. In selling milk 87 per cent is water and butter 79 per cent. If it is garden vegetables we are producing, we sell in asparagus 49 per cent water, cabbage 90 per cent, lettuce 931/4 per cent and potatoes 89 per cent. Or if fruit is our surplus crop, apples carry 84 per cent water, peaches 90 age I should say that a tank shelter and strawberries 91. We do not know of any way in which water can be utilized better than in big watermelons, and when a man can realize $200 and to make money if he pushes his business. Grain eats up fertility very fast. When a crop is grown, even if the surplus products on the farm are fed and manure is saved, a grain farmer must carefully fertilize his land if he maintains its fertility. If any sort of change is contemplated in farm management, try and work in as much water in the products as possible.— Denver Field and Farm.

Harvesting Sugar Beets.

By the first part of October sugar beets are ready to harvest, the first planting generally a few weeks earlier. But as the beets increase in tonnage mostly in September and the first part of October the harvesting with full force should not be started before the middle of October, according to instructions of one of the beet sugar comtwo horse puller which loosens the beets but leaves them in the ground. After this the beets have to be pulled by hand and topped with a corn knife at the base of the bottom leaf and can then be shipped to the factory or siloed at the field and shipped later, after the beet growers have finished their other

The shed is erected against the stone basement of the barn. This has the advantage of giving warmth in winter and protection from the sun in hot weather, besides being built much cheaper, as no siding is required for the rear. The openings in front are 3 feet by 40 inches, separated by faced studding. The siding in front and below the openings extends up about two reaching the water. The openings in front are protected by trapdoors on the inside which may be dropped down over the openings during bad weather. In the illustration the doors are fastened up against the ceiling or roof so they do not show. One loses a great part of the value of these tank sheds if he does not put in doors of some kind so that the bouse can be shut up tight during stormy winter weather. The width will depend considerably on the width of the tank. On the avershould be built from 2 feet to 30 inches wider than the tank. This will leave a foot or more on either side, so there will be sufficient room for packing the Roots as a Stock Food. J. H. Bowerman, writing in The American Agriculturist, says: A writer, commenting upon the value of roots for feeding stock, remarked that "in this country, where corn is so cheap, it does not pay to raise roots for feeding." This may apply to fattening stock in the great west, but I doubt if it does among the smaller farmers of the middle and eastern states. Beets or carrots are not great fat producers in themselves, but when fed in connec tion with grain their value is inestimable. Stock fed an occasional ration of beets or carrots put on flesh more rapidly and the meat is more tender and juicy than when fattened on corn alone. Why farmers do not use more roots is a mystery, unless it is because of the supposed cost of growing them.

When we reflect that from 500 to 700 bushels of carrots and from 1,200 to 1.600 bushels of mangel wurzels can be grown per acre and, with improved implements, at a cost of but little more than growing an acre of potatoes, it is surprising that so few are raised. An excuse often advanced by farmers for not growing roots is them. Roots of all kinds can be stored in pits, and, if constructed with a board roof and covered with earth or coarse manure, they can be entered at almost any time during the winter. Farm stock relishes a change of diet, and a judicious feeding of either of these vegetables in connection with grain or dry fodder will show its effects in health and appearance and, I believe, at a saving of nearly onefourth the amount of grain.

Professor I. P. Roberts of the Cornell experiment station says: We have nothing more economical or that makes better silage than the tub silo. The staves should be about six inches wide. The edges need not be beveled, but they should be straight. Woven wire makes the best hoops. The silo should be water tight except at the door. In preparing the ground for corn it should be cultivated in a way that it will not bake down hard. It should be loose and light at the time of planting. I prefer to do the most of the cultivation after planting. I would harrow light soils soon after plowing.

Corn needs plenty of sunshine, so I would plant it thinly. The distance apart depends on the variety planted. As soon as you can see the rows start the cultivator. Frequent cultivation is an important factor in making the crop. Seal the silo with oat chaff, first putting on building paper. If the corn is so dry that it does not contain 75 per cent water, the silage will be improved by adding water when filling the silo.

Horse Notes.

'Allow a horse a reasonable time to rest after feeding. It is within the reach of every farmer to breed good horses.

Mares bred in the fall will endure good service without injury. A dumb, stupid colt can never be edacated to be a valuable horse. A good colt is a product not affected by weather, hot, wet or dry. Size, form, bone and constitution must be regarded first in breeding. Let the heels be cleaned every night. Dirt or filth if allowed to cake causes

I care not from where the wise men come, from the east or west, to tell me the silo is a fad; that silage is sauerkraut; that it is partly spoiled; that it is unwhole some and will decay the cow's teeth and eat out her internal economy; that not only the taste of it, but the smell of it, is death to horses; that there is nothing in it that the dried fodder does not contain but water, and that I am handling so many tons of that liquid that could be cheaply added in the winter. And when they have hurled enough figures and statistics and testimonials at me to overwhelm even a stronger man than I am I simply refer the whole matter to the cows, and they always

Then the progressive farmer will not sigh to own all the land joining him, but rather regret that he already has more than he can farm as it should be

Cheap, Easily Constructed and Keeps the Barn Clean.

A great many cow stables have no manure gutters, and the floors are often in bad condition. It does not cost much to put in a water tight gutter. We have one in an old stable 30 feet long that cost us less than $4 to complete, writes J. H. Brown in Hoard's

We used two inch white oak (season ed) pieces 8 inches wide and made the gutter 16 inches wide and 8 inches deep. The sketch of the end section shows how the pieces were fitted together. We secured 16 and 14 feet stuff and cut them so as to break joints. This made the whole gutter perfectly rigid. The bottom pieces (B) were cut and fointed to make a tight fit. For cleats (C) 4 by 4 pieces of hard wood were The side pieces were spiked on, com-

One end of the front edge of the gutter was set 4 feet 8 inches from the stanchion sill and the other about 5 feet 2 inches. This provision was for both long and short cows. The gutter has been in constant use over four years, and not a leak has sprung anywhere in it. We would not take it out and go back to the old filthy floor for the calf cholera, but the white scours have given us trouble at times, says a New York farmer in American Agriculturist. This common difficulty with young calves is both unpleasant and discouraging and, I believe, is preventable in almost every instance by careful feeding. Feeding a young calf three times a day for awhile is an excellent plan. Feed only a small mess. Have it always warm and always measured or weighed. It may pay to test the temperature with the thermometer. Better feed a little under than a little over the capacity of the calf. It is overfeeding that causes the trouble. Never put the grain in the milk, but feed it dry after the calf has drunk.

One day in May she gave 46 pounds of milk testing 5 2-10 per cent fat-2 86-100 nds butter-and in one week gave 19 34-100 pounds butter on grass alone. From present indication Dolly's Ada will make about 600 pounds of butter for the year. She would undoubted ly have considerably exceeded this amount had she been kept at home on the farm under natural conditions. But a campaign of nearly ten weeks at the state fairs considerably reduced her flow of milk.

This campaign was not without profit, however, as Dolly's Ada won two first and three second state fair prizes in the aged cow competition in 1900. Her bull calf won one first and two sec-

After Mowing Grass,

Proper treatment is very important after mowing grass. Some grass is cut too closely, and then the hayrake is so set as to dig into the turf, dislodging sets or stools that may not recover if a dry spell comes. If the horserake teeth do not scratch the ground, it will not injure the sod. As to cutting or feeding the aftermath, Colonel James Ward of New York state says: "Mowing is worse than grazing. However, it is possible to have too much of a good thing. There may be such a heavy aftergrowth that it is in the way. So growth will cause a field to be smothered by the ice in winter. The grass under the heavy matting or aftermath keeps alive all winter and requires some air. If there is a coating of ice over it, it seems to be killed to some extent by suffocation. Usually, however, in the spring grass starts much earlier when thus protected and is in better condition than that which is left unprotected."

Cornstalks should be cut into about inch lengths. The finer the cut the more compact the silage, says Breeder's Gazette. As the silo fills with the fresh cut corn, ears and all, the material should be spread evenly and carefully tramped next the walls. One may fill the silo in three or four days or be two or three weeks conducting the operation. The slower it is filled the more material can be got into it. A practical sile should not be less than 18 feet in diameter and should be from 24 to 30 feet deep. As silo filling nears ompletion let the material settle and add more so as to have it well filled. The covering may consist of the cut corn forage material itself, or of numerous other substances about the farm. Marsh grass, weeds or other waste green material can be run through the feed cutter and placed one or two feet deep on top of the silage' mass. Chaffed straw or oat chaff is also excellent. These materials should be thoroughly wet so as to render them heavy and cause them to pack

People are fast learning that good ensilage can only be secured in a first class silo and that a silo made of poor material or from lumber that warps or twists will always prove disappointing to its owner, says a writer in National Stockman. This is illustrated by the method of canning fruit. If the can is sealed airt.ght, the fruit can be preserved all through the winter. But if the rubber packing is poor or the top is not screwed on tight, admitting the air, the contents "work" and are spoiled. The same thing holds true with a silo. Unless the walls are impervious to both air and moisture one must not expect to keep his ensilage sweet. The cheap structures made of old fence boards should not be called silos. Vessels of this kind have also led many men to reject silage and probably accounts for the unjust and sweeping demnation of it by milk condensaries. There has never been a food upon which all kinds of stock thrive so well and which gives such large returns as Indian corn, cut and preserved in a silo in the form of ensilage. As Professor Henry says, "Cheap silos are a delusion and a snare, while good ones enable Indian corn to yield its greatest

One can begin to feed silage from the top of the silo as soon as cutting ceases, or the material may be left until needed in winter time, says Breeder's Gazette. The silo should be arranged to have such diameter that from an inch and a half to two inches of silage will be fed off the top each day. If less than this amount is fed off, trouble may arise from the exposed silage starting to heat and mold. If so much as an inch and a half or two inches is fed off daily, then the silage material at the surface is always

FATTENING CATTLE. Plenty of Good Water Should Be

Kept In Easy Reach. The successful feeder knows the value of having good water within easy reach of his cattle. When steers are doing their best, they acquire a disease which we may call laziness, and therefore it is very essential that water be near at hand at all times. If not, they will endure the pain of thirst for some time rather than move about much to

If water is handy, they will drink from three to five times daily, while on the other hand if it is necessary to slip down a steep creek bank and wade in the mud in order to get to the water's edge they will drink only once or twice daily and of course all they can hold each time. Probably no bad effects would be noticed, yet the best results are not to be expected when such conditions exist.

Tanks are used by most stockmen, nd in this way water is brought within easy reach of the cattle. Yet during the winter months it is no little chore to keep the ice broken so they may lrink when they are thirsty. Besides, it is clear to all that an animal cannot make the best gains when it must push away the pieces of ice in order to get a sip of the freezing water and after having just partially quenched its thirst stand shivering in the wind.

Here again the fattening steer will not drink the required amount of water o produce the best results, because the water is too cold, it is not palatable it makes the teeth ache, chills the animal and retards digesteen for a time. There is no better investment for a nan who intends to feed cattle during the winter than to buy a tank heater. These beaters have been used success fully and with good results at the Kansas State Agricultural college. One will be all that is needed in a tank large enough to water from 40 to 60 Lead of the ewes during the winter. It is much lamb that is of good size and vigorous when dropped than one that has been stunted before birth and that has to overcome the weakness if not disease that it may inherit from a parent that is weakened either by scanty feeding or by overfeeding and getting too fat. Give the ewe enough to eat, but let it be of such a character as to build up her frame and that of the young she is carrying and not to fatten her, says an experienced sheep raiser. For this purpose we always wanted clover hav or the best early cut fine hay we had and a supply of roots, for which purpose we found none that we could proluce easier or cheaper than the flat turnip, and we knew of none that served our purpose better. We also gave the ewes a chance to take a run in the field every day when it was not raining or snowing too hard. Thus they were firm of flesh, muscular and neither fat nor lean, and they would supply milk for the lambs even when they had The lambs were dropped strong, and they gained rapidly. The ewes had a little grain every day in winter, either bran or oats, and if we chose to give a little corn fodder, cut up instead of the hay, or if we thought our hay was not quite as good as usual, a little corn went with the oats or cornneal with the bran, say about one-third part. We used to like to make such a change when there was very cold weather, as they not only would eat the coarse fodder better then, but would bear the more heating grain.

RAISING THRIFTY LAMBS.

Much Depends on Care Given Ewes During the Winter. No small part of the success in rais-

GIVE THE HOG ROOM.

Animals Crowded In Small Pens Make Poor Pork.

It is a mistake to suppose that at any period of a hog's life, from birth to the day of slaughter, he is better off without exercise. Many, if not most, of our farmers make rail pens not more than seven feet square inside measure and besides, the feed trough put in from four to six hogs. Thus crowded they cannot lie down even with comfort, and the continued "scrouging" is all the exercise they get. Hogs that are kept in such pens, necessarily filthy and nearly always muddy, whether it rains or not, may take on fat rapidly, but not flesh. The increase in weight is from a diseased condition of the digestive organs and the organs of elimination which results in deposits of fat, mingled with scrofulous tubercles and degenerated glands. We don't want any such meat. The hog, even up to killing time, should have plenty of fresh air, exercise and room to keep himself clean, which he will do if afforded an opportunity and which he cannot do when confined in a narrow cage like a criminal. The average pigpen is a place of torture and should be abolished and is abolished by all intelligent and humane hog raisers.

Give two ounces of turpentine in onehalf pint of raw linseed oil at a dose three times a day before feeding for two days, then give one quart of raw 4 quarts of oats at a feed three times a day and 15 pounds of good hay in 24 hours. Put on a muzzle to keep him

'east twice a day.

Pigs pastured on rape are remarkably healthy. They relish the food, and it seems to keep them in fine condition. Hogs need exercise, especially the breeding sows, which should have the run of a large dry yard or lot. During cold weather hogs should have all the clear water they want at YORKSHIRE WHITES.

Refutation of the Claim That They Blister In the Sun. When a certain breed of stock in greater part of half a century is unfairly criticised by those who are interested in animals of another breed, one is apt to reply somewhat warmly, writes an Englishman in Live Stock Journal. Perhaps I have been guilty of this natural weakness in contraverting the assertions of those who have without any sufficient knowledge of posed to the sun.

YORKSHIRE WHITE BOAR. experienced breeder of black pigs in South Australia was writing to me asking me to ship to him and his sons a number of large white pigs, since he had proved the Yorkshires to be better in form, in quality of meat and in prolificacy than the Berkshires and Poland-Chinas which he had bred and successfully exhibited for many years and the large blacks which were imported last year. He then proceeds:

"The great outcry against white pigs here is that they will blister with our hot sun, but these Yorkshires we have been keeping for some years have stood the sun as well as the Berkshires and the Poland-Chinas. We have also been mating a large number of Berkshire sows with the Yorkshire boars and in all cases have had perfectly white pigs, which, as you will see by some correspondence we are mailing, ing lambs depends upon the care given caused quite a sensation at our last | Farm Journal. show."

From a newspa which appeared in The Australasian I gathered that great surprise was expressed at the whole of the cross York shire and Berkshire pigs being perfectly white and their evident superiority in thrift and growth over the pure bred Berkshires and Poland-Chinas.

From the above it would appear as pigs not standing the sun as well as the black pigs was to be found in Aus tralia and has been also proved as conclusively to be without foundation as

SILAGE FOR HORSES.

Not So Good For Them as For the Other Farm Animals. Ensilage has long since passed the experimental stage, says C. D. Smead in The National Stockman. As a horse food it is not as good as for other animals, neither are green corn and cornstalks a food that all horses can eat largely without being made sick. But fed in small quantities to 49 out of 50 horses once or twice daily they do well upon it with other food of a dry

Good silage is corn cut in a glazed state and well kept in a silo. The fermentation that it undergoes in the silo 's practically the same that dry food undergoes after entering the stomach of an animal. The silage that some call sauerkraut is simply food so far digested. This is good silage I am speak-

Poor silage is poor food when it is moldy or vinegary in its nature. Then it is just like other moldy or sour food and will if largely fed produce similar results. There are a few cases on record where silage was fermented to the extent of making almost corn whisky of it. Horses when largely fed upon it become poisoned the same as they would had they been poisoned upon alcohol, producing a disease something like cerebro spinal meningitis. There are only two conditions under which silage could cause death of horses. The first is the condition of the silage spoken of, and the second they would have had to have been fed a large ! quantity of it.

In my judgment no calf should be castrated under 6 months of age, and where they are not more than usually vigorous and growthy I would allow them to run the first winter and castrate them about the time they start on grass in the spring, writes a Kansas grower to The Breeder's Gazette. However, this extreme age of castration would not be advisable if dehorning is not to be practiced. I do not advocate this method on the theory that it would be less painful or dangerous to the calf, for the reverse is true, but on the theory that the calf acquires a more vigorous and robust constitution, grows a shorter leg, a shorter neck, a stronger jaw, is capable of crushing corn better and is in every way nearer the form of

I would not cut the end from the scrotum, but split the end of each pocket separately; also split the striffen and take each testis out clean with cord. While this operation is in nowise dangerous, it should be done with care and cleanliness.

Many experienced and successful

sheep owners declare that the wool alone will pay for the keep of the sheep and that money derived from the sale of lambs and mutton should be clear gain. Upon such a basis there would seem to be little doubt that the profit from them must be greater than from any other class of stock.

WHEN THE BEES SWARM

How to Hive Them With a Basket. The Queen Trap a Neat Affair. If the cluster is low, it is easy to which one has been interested for the hive a swarm of bees. Slip a basket right up under the cluster and jar the limb. If the bees have clustered high up in a tree, get a pole long enough to reach them and fasten the basket to the end of it. A common peach basket will do very well. When you have the basket right up under the cluster, give the pole a sharp jerk upward, which the subject declared that the skins of | motion will jar the limb, and the bees Yorkshire white pigs blister when ex- | will drop into the basket. Have the hive under the tree and dump the bees It is somewhat curious that at the very time my letters refuting this allike an army. The hives should be legation made by the apologists for the | raised an inch or two in front to give them air. The bees will commence to give a contented hum, and if there are any remaining on the tree they will hear it and join the rest. In the evening the hive can be carried to the location where it is to remain. Sometimes a swarm will cluster on the trunk of a tree or wall; then it will be necessary to use a brush to get them into the basket. The ringing of bells and beating of pans and all such notions are of no avail. A first swarm will most always settle. I have never yet seen it to miss, provided the queen was with them, and if the queen is not with them they will most surely return to their hive. Sometimes a swarm will hang on a tree all day, and then again they may depart in a little while. It is better to hive them within a half hour after they have issued if possible. Still a better way is to have queen traps on the hive to catch the queen. With the queen traps it is a delight to hive swarms. When the swarm issues, the queen cages herself and cannot leave with the bees. The swarm will cluster on some tree, when the apiarist can replace the old hive with an empty one and place the trap with the queen in front of the new hive on the old stand. The bees will remain from 10 to 20 minutes, when they will return and enter the new hive. The apiarist can then release the queen, and she will run in with the swarm, and the hiving is done, says F. G. Herman

DEVICE FOR DRAWING HAY. It Is Easily Made and Comes In Han-

The cut shows an easily made device for drawing hay when stacking in the field, and for those who sun cure their hay, without pulling shocks apart, it will be found useful, says a writer in an exchange. To make it select a 10 or 12 foot straight pole three to four inches in diameter at one end and tapering at the other end, which is sharpened. Smooth the pole and make an inch hole through it near the large end. Through this hole put a trace chain, drawing it up till the T on chain is close to the underside of the pole. Hitch to it with a horse, drive to a shock of hay, unhitch the singletree from pole and push the small end of the pole under the shock on the ground in the center until the large end comes to the edge of the shock. Put the chain over the top of the shock as near the center as possible and after wrapping it round the pole a few times tie as shown in the illustration. Hitch on and start the horse straight with the pole. As large shocks as the horse can draw may be handled this way and with a great sav-

THE KING AND THE FARMER.

King Edward is at one with the majority of his fellow-subjects in this particular—the love of sport is inbred in his nature. He was encouraged by the Prince Consort (himself a daring and brilliant rider to hounds) to shine as a huntsman; and it is on record in the sporting annals of his undergraduate days that he could hold his own with most of his fel-low-university men when a fast thing was enjoyed with the South Oxfordshire Hounds, at that time under the late Earl of Macclesfield.

An excellent story is told of the Prince's hunting experiences. Out with his royal highness on one of his earliest runs with the South Oxford Hounds were Colonel Keppell, Mr. Herbert Fisher, Earl Brown-low, Sir Frederick Johnston, Mr. H. Le Marchant, Mr. Henry Chaplin, Mr. H. Taylor, and other less known hunting men. Meeting with but indifferent sport, the party, not to be entirely baulked of the pleasures of the day, determined to take a beeline back to Oxford, riding hard across the country. For Brown-Weldon.

that it is only a hill, only an insignificant hill, but I persist in calling it the mount of God's divine mercy and love far grander than any other place on earth, grander than the Alps or the Himalayas, and there it, and I have noticed in every sect where the cross of Christ is set forth it is planted with clive branches. And all we have to do is to get rid of this war between God and ourselves, of which we are all tired. We want to back out of the

Oh, it does not make much difference what the world thinks of you, but come into the warm, intimate, glowing and everlasting relation-ship with the God of the whole universe! That is the joy that makes a halleluiah seem stupid. Why do we want to have peace through our Lord Jesus Christ? Why, if we had gone on in 10,000 years of war the wheels of the chariot of his omnipotence. But the moment we bring this olive branch God and all heaven come on our side. Peace through our Lord Jesus Christ, and no other kind of peace is worth any-apology? Had not you better submit to a little humiliation? "Oh," you say, "until that man takes the first step I will never be at peace with him. Nothing will be done until he is ready to take the first step!" You are a pretty Christian. When would this world be saved if Christ had not taken the first step? We were in the wrong. Christ was in the right, all right and forever right. And yet he took the first step. And instead of going and getting a knotty scourge with which to whip your antagonist, your enemy, you had better get up on the radiant mount where Christ suffered for his enemies and just take an olive branch, not stripping off the soft, and the color of the soft, and the color of the soft, and we will take the first step?

To show them off the track to let the Lord's chariots come along.

Usefulness is typified by the palm tree. Ah, we do not want in the church any more people that are merely weeping willows, sighing into the water, standing and admiring their long lashes in the glassy spring. No wild cherry, dropping bitter fruit. We want palm trees, holding something for angels, something for this world, and it is destruction for eternity. Give me 500 men and women fully consected to Christ, and we will take the first step? his enemies and just take an olive branch, not stripping off the soft, cool, fragrant leaves, leaving them all on, and then try on them that gospel switch. It will not hurt them, and it will save you. Peace with God, peace with man. If you cannot take those two doctrines, you are no Christian.

But my text goes further. It says, "Go up into the mountain and fetch olive branches, and pine branches."

Now. what is suggested by the pine

Now, what is suggested by the pine branch? The pine tree is healthy, it is aromatic; it is evergreen. How often the physician says to his invalid patients: "Go and have a breath of the pines, That will invig-orate you." Why do such thousands of people go south every year? It is not merely to get to a warmer cli-mate, but to get the influence of the pine. There is health in it, and this pine. There is health in it, and this pine branch of the text suggests the helpfulness of our holy religion. It is full of health—health for all, health for the mind, health for the soul. I knew an aged man who had no capital of physical health. He had had all the diseases you could imagine. He did not eat enough to keep a child afive. He lived high, for he dined every day with the King. He was kept alive simply by the force dined every day with the King. He was kept alive simply by the force of our hely religion. It is a healthy religion, healthy for the eye, healthy for the hand, healthy for the feet, healthy for the heart, healthy for the spleen, healthy for the whole man. It gives healthy for the whole man. It gives a man such peace, such quietness, such independence of circumstances, such holy equipoise. Oh, that we all possessed it, that we possessed it now! I mean it is healthy if a man gets enough of it. Now, there are some people who get just enough religion to bother them, just enough religion to make them sick, but if a man take a full, deep, round inhalation of these pine branches of the gospel arbor he will find it buoyant, exuberant, undying, immortal health. But the evergreen of my text also suggests the simple fact that religion is evergreen. What does the pine ion is evergreen. What does the pine branch care for the snow on its brow? It is only a crown of glory.
The winter cannot freeze it out. This evergreen tree branch is as beautiful in the winter as it is in the summer. And that is the sharacteristic of our holy religion. In the sharpest, cold-est winter of misfortune and disaster it is as good a religion as it is in the bright summer sunshine. Well, now, that is a practical truth. For suppose I should go up and down these aisles I would not find in this these aisles I would not find in this house 50 people who had had no trouble. But there are some of you who have especial trouble. God only knows what you go through with. Oh, how many bereavements, how many poverties, how many persecutions, how many misrepresentations! And now, my brother, you have tried everything else, why do you not try everything else, why do you not try this evergreen religion? It is just as good for you now as it was in the day of prosperity. It is better for you. Perhaps some of you feel almost like Muckle Backie, the fisherman, who was chided one day because he kept on working, although that very day he buried his child. They came to him and said, "It is indecent for you to be mending that boat when this afternoon you buried your child." And the fisherman looked up and said: "Sir, it is very easy for you gentlefolks to stay in the house with your handkerchief to your eyes in grief; but, sir, ought I to let the other five children starve because one of them is drowned? No sir. We maun work, we maun work though our hearts beat like this You may have had accumulation of sorrow and misfortune. They come in flocks, they come in herds, upon your soul, and yet I have to tell you that this religion can console you, that it can help you, that it can deliver you if nothing else will. Do you tell me that the riches and the gain of this world can con-sole you? How was it with the ec-clesiastic, who had such a fondness for money that when he was sick he ordered a basin of gold pieces to be brought to him, and he put his gouty hands down among the gold pieces, cooling his hands off in them, and the rattling and rolling of these gold the rattling and rolling the rattling and rolling the rolling the rolling the rattling and rolling the pieces were his amusement and enter-tainment. Ah, the gold and silver, the honors, the emoluments of this world, are a poor solace for a per-turbed spirit. You want something better than this world can give. better than this world can give. young prince, when the children came around to play with him, refused to play. He said, "I will play only with kings." And it would be supposed that you would throw away all other solace before this regal satisfaction, this imperial joy. But my text takes a step further, and it says, Go into the mountain and fetch olive branches and pine branches and palm branches. Now, the palm tree was very much honor ed by the ancients. It had 360 different uses. The fruit was conserved, the sap was a beverage, the stems were ground up for food for camels. were ground up for food for camels. The base of the leaves was turned into hats and mats and baskets, and from the root to the top of the highest leaf there was usefulness. The tree grew 85 feet in height sometimes, and it spread leaves four and five feet long. It meant usefulness, and it meant victory—usefulness. and it meant victory - usefulness for what it produced and victory be-cause it was brought into celebrations of triumph. And oh, how much crated to Christ, and we will take this city for God in three years. Give me 10,000 men and women fully up to the Christian standard. In ten years 10,000 of them would take the whole earth for God. But when are we going to begin? We all want to be useful. There is not a man in the pews that does not want to useful. When are we going to When are we going to be Ledyard, the great traveler, was brought before the Geographical So-ciety of Great Britain, and they wanted him to make some explora-tions in Africa, and they showed him all the perils, and all the hard work, and all the exposure, and after they and all the exposure, and after they had told him what they wanted him to do in Africa they said to him, "Now, Ledyard, when are you ready to start?" He said, "To-morrow morning." The learned men were astonished. They thought he would take weeks or months to get ready. Well, now, you tell me you want to be useful in Christian service. When are you going to begin? Oh, that are you going to begin? Oh, that you had the decision to say, "Now, now!" Oh, go into the mount and gather the palm branches!

But the palm branch also meant victory. You all know that. In all ages, in all lands, the palm branch means victory. Well, now, we are by nature the servants of satan. He stole us, he has his eye on us, he wants to keep us. But word comes from our Father that if we will try to break loose from this doing of to break loose from this doing of wrong our Father will help us, and some day we rouse up, and we look the black tyrant in the face, and we

I, who have so many ailments and heartaches, going to be more than conqueror? Yes, unless you are so self-conceited that you want to manage all the affairs of your life yourself instead that you want to manage all the affairs of your life yourself instead of letting God manage them. Do you want to drive and have God take a back seat? "Oh, no," you say, "I want God to be my leader." Well, then, you will be more than conqueror. Your last sickness will come, and the physicians in the next troom will be talking about what they will do for you. What difference will it make what they do for you? You are going to be well, everlastingly well. And when the spirit has fled the body, your friends will be talking as to where they shall bury you. What difference does it make to you where they bright has fled the body, your friends will be talking as to where they and light company, and all the cemeteries of the earth are in God's care. My text brings us one step further. It says, "Go forth into the mount and fetch olive branches and pine branches and myrtle branches and pine branches and myrtle branches and palm branches and branches of thick trees." Now, you know very well—I make this remark under the head of branches of thick trees—that a booth or arbor made of slight branches would not stand. The first blast of the tempest would prostrate it. So then the booth or hold up the arbor or booth, and hence for the building of the arbor for this world we must have stout branches of thick trees. And so it is in the gospel arbor. Blessed be God that we have a brawny Christianty not care with the state of the control of of tianity, not one easily upset. The storms of life will come upon us, and we want strong doctrine; not only love, but justice; not only invita-tion, but warning. It is a mighty

This Condition Causes More Genuine Suffering Than One Can Imagine-How a Well Known Exeter Lady Obtained a Cure After She Had Begun to Regard Her Condition

From the Advocate, Exeter, Ont. From the Advocate, Exeter, Ont.

"A run down system!" What a world of misery those few words imply, and yet there are thousands throughout this country who are suffering from this condition. Their blood is poor and watery; they suffer almost continuously from headaches; are unable to obtain restful sleep and the least exertion greatly fatigues them. What is needed to put the system right is a tonic, and experience has proved Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to be the only never-failing tonic and health restorer.

Mrs. Henry Parsons, a respected resident of Exeter, Ont., is one of the many who have tested and proved the value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. For many months, she was a great sufferer from what is commonly termed "a run down system." To a reporter of the Advocate she gave the following story in the hope that other sufferers might benefit from her experience:—"For many months my health was in a bad state, my constitution being greatly run down. I was troubled with continual headaches, my appetite was poor and the least exer-I was troubled with continual headaches, my appetite was poor and the least exertion greatly fatigued me. cough that accompanies the chest cold is racking. When the cold is a hard one and the cough correspondingly severe, every coughing spell strains the whole system. We, feel sure that if we could only stop coughing for a day or so we could get over the cold, but we try everything we know of or can hear of in the shape of medicine. We take big doses of quinine until the head buzzes and roars; we try to sweat it out; we take big draughts of whiskey, but the thing that has its grip on the chest hangs on, and won't be shaken loose.

If the irritation that makes us cough cull be stopped, we would get better promptly, and it is because Adamson's Botanic Cough Balsam is so soothing and healing to the inflamed throat that it is so efficient a remedj for coughs and colds. This really great medicine is a very simple preparation, made of extracts of barks and gums of trees, and it never deceives. It heals the throat and the desire to cough is gone. When the cough goes the work of cure is almost complete. All druggists sell Adamson's Balsam, 25 cents. Try this famous Balsam for your sore chest and you will find prompt relief.
