WIFE FORGIVES RUNYAN AND WILL HELP HIM GET BAIL

Where is Missing Money?

Trust Company Officials Say Mrs. Carter Can Explain Loss of $10,000; Woman Who Betrayed the Teller is Anxious About Reward.

New York, July 7--Today's Herald says: Spurred on by her overwrought love for her husband, Mrs. Chester B. Runyan, wife of the defaulting paying teller of the Windsor Trust Company, held in $15,000 bail on a charge of grand larceny, sent him a message of comfort and cheer in his Tombs cell yesterday and assured him of her forgiveness. That in spite of his desertion of her for another woman, and the fact that he is a self-confessed thief, his wife had determined to stand by him, was expressed in the manner in which her brother, John Carney, spoke to Runyan in the prison.

Mr. Carney said to him, 'your wife is very ill, but I have a message for you from her.' The man, who seemed to have grown ten years older in the ordeal through which he passed yesterday in the Tombs Police Court, threw himself on his knees before his brother-in-law. His lips moved, but he did not seem to be able to speak. It was quite apparent that his last hope was centered in what the other might say. 'She forgives you and wants to see you,' Carney began, but he got no further.

THIS OUGHT TO START THE AMERICANS GOING

Japanese Admiral Says the Rank and File Are Not Patriotic Enough to Fight, and the Officers Shine Best at Balls and Social Functions.

(Special to The Telegraph.) Toronto, July 8--Cobalt has a strike on her hands. Upwards of 2,500 men are idle in town and work is at a standstill in all the mines save Foster, Green-Meehan, McKinley-Darragh and Queen, which have agreed to the demand of the miners.

A banquet was tendered by members of city temperance organizations to Rev. Thomas Marshall in White's Monday evening, on the eve of his departure for Prince Edward Island.

The City of St. John was nestly proposed by D. G. Fisher, who praised the city and its people, and responded to by Ald. Baskin, who told of the city's losses and struggles and growth and progress.

J. Willard Smith, the new president of the N. B. Temperance Federation, responded. He referred to Rev. Mr. Marshall as one who, as citizen, pastor and councillor he had found true, and in whom he believed it would not have said them nay; and it would have been money well invested.

Tokio, July 8--The Hochi this morning prints an interview with Admiral Sakamoto, in which the admiral is quoted as follows: "Should hostilities break out between Japan and America, the result would be indecisive owing to a want of proper bases of operation. Such bases as exist are too far distant for practical purposes."

One another. If the Washington government should decide on war, it is doubtful whether the Americans serving in the navy are sufficiently patriotic to fight.

The men demand that instead of two shifts a day for underground men there should be three of eight hours each, claiming that in this way use is made of the company's machinery all the time, thus benefiting the company financially and the miners physically.

The strike news caused a heavy tone in the Toronto market for mining securities. The Western Federation of Miners were among the issues to show a decline. One consolation is that mining stocks have fallen so far in the past six months that they cannot go much farther.

At least that is the hope of many holders.

Mr. Marshall had done more than any other for the temperance federation, and they must strive to carry on the work.

Mr. Smith reviewed former Scott acts, fights in St. John, and said he would like to have to do with another now. The act only needed men behind it who meant

MORE WAR TALK: Tokio which by this time is discussing the proposal to shift the battle fleet of the United States to the Pacific will learn by cable that the leading newspaper of the United States, the New York Herald, has plainly declared the purpose of this policy to be the placing of the right arm of the American navy within striking distance of the Japanese coast.

The making of great fortunes does not necessarily involve any wrongdoing; but in the United States many conspicuous fortunes are notoriously the result of oppression, unjust and illegal discrimination, the buying of legislation through the lobby, and obstruction of the course of justice.

This is fighting talk, or a close approach to it, and it is the more remarkable at this time because it appears in a journal of greater international reputation than any other published on this continent.

The second place, the vessels should be despatched to that base by the shortest, not the longest route—that is, via the Suez Canal, not through the Straits of Magellan. As, believed, the transfer has been decided upon, it should be carried out with the utmost rapidity and in a spirit of thoroughness.

They were protected by an American battleship force Japan could not even contemplate warlike operations on the Pacific coast of the United States so long as an American fleet remained in being at Manila within six days steaming distance of Yokohama and consequently in position to strike promptly and effectively at Japan's heart.

To talk of striking promptly and effectively at the heart of Japan with a fleet which confessedly cannot be made ready and concentrated in Manila Bay in less than a year apparently evidences a desire to accustom the American people to the thought of by far the most serious conflict which they ever faced, or a determination to bluff Japan into a more conciliatory attitude by presenting to that nation the threat of war with the power of endless resources.

for transports on the Pacific. The attitude of England in such an eventuality would be a delicate and difficult point. Up to a certain point, she would inevitably be the friendly go-between of both powers.

Great Britain's interests would best be served by keeping the peace, and we may be sure that she would exhaust every reasonable resource in seeking to do so.

ROCKEFELLER IN COURT: Guarded by detectives and scrutinized as a living curiosity by a mob which had come to see but not to admire, John D. Rockefeller sat in a Chicago court room on Saturday and denied his secrets by retreating behind the well worn phrase "I do not remember," just like less wealthy if not less worthy witnesses.

FIFTY-THREE PER CENT.: Some revelations concerning the profits of the packers, or some of them, made in a lawsuit over the division of the stock of the William Davies Company, an Ontario packing house, are likely to attract much attention throughout Canada.

The Toronto Star warns the public against jumping at too many conclusions after reading these figures, but it adds significantly that the average profit for the whole-period in question is fifty-three per cent—while that is!

It is fair to beat two things in mind: that the profits are due largely to the excellent organization of the business, and largely to the growth of the trade with Great Britain. It is only in recent years that the preparation of meat products has been systematized in Canada; and here, as in the United States, the economies thus effected have produced immense pecuniary returns.

THE WORLD'S RAILROADS: Canada is now building railroads at a more rapid rate than ever before in her history and the mileage under construction or planned gives her a commanding position in this respect among the progressive peoples of the world.

THE TRAGEDY OF THE CANOE: The sacrifice of another valued life through a canoe accident is a shocking feature of the news this morning. No doubt the accident will elicit fresh protests against Sunday excursions. Some well-meaning persons regard Sunday as a day of peculiar rest on the water, but a fact they frequently overlook is that the real reason why more drowning accidents occur on Sunday and holidays is that on these days the number of people enjoying an outing is much greater than on the ordinary week day.

To protect passengers: There is much sense in an order passed by the Railway Commission Monday providing that in future a fire extinguisher must be carried at either end of every passenger car, that it must be approved by the board and must be recharged every three months.

made in the United States that in addition to wrecking apparatus every train should carry such surgical and medical appliances as would constitute a complete outfit for administering first aid to the injured.

It is noteworthy that in India during 1905 the new mileage was 1,022. China, note the awakening—built 1,004. The aggregate investment in all the railroads of the world was estimated at $407,440,000, or about $27 per inhabitant, and the railroad capital per inhabitant was then $2 in Europe and $135 in the United States.

NATURE'S MEDICINES: "Throw away the pill boxes and go out into the fresh air and the sunshine" is a rough summary of the medical advice proclaimed in a recent address by Sir Frederick Treves, King Edward's physician.

A CURIOUS SUGGESTION: The growth of the class known as habitual criminals, and long observation of British prison life and its effect upon prisoners, leads Sir Evelyn Ruggles-Brisce, K. C. B., chairman of the Prison Commission, to advocate the revival of the penal colony.

THE NEW GLASGOW: The New Glasgow Eastern Chronicle has some good words to say of The Telegraph which is now on sale in that thriving centre. Our contemporary is disposed to value this newspaper, very highly, though it suggests we are British rather than Canadian.

QUAKER REFLECTIONS: If a woman treats her husband like a dog she must expect him some ground and putting in his claws at some time the dog will be an effectual remedy. Efforts should be made by the farmer not to let any plants go to seed, which may later the spread of the weed until such time as he can make a finish of it.

DOUGHNUT DAY: If I could dip into the jar Where mother's old, round doughnuts are Or leavies where they used to be, I'd eat 'em all up and be glad to see.

THE CANADA WIND: Where bloweth the Canada wind? Not out of the west, though the west wind be near.

OAK HALL'S ADVERTISING AUTOMOBILE: A Ford runabout secured from J. A. Pugsley, agent by Oak Hall, made its first appearance on the streets yesterday and attracted considerable attention.

A sudden cold shook him from head to foot. Suppose—suppose Hetty in a moment of passion—of madness—had hurt her father? Suppose the Earl had heard and had used his knowledge to separate her and Lord Fanshawe? Suppose that was the reason why Hetty had disappeared?

whispering and talking—why there were even some as said that whatever it was you had done he had probably led you into it, and he was running about all over the town with Hetty Lancaster and—well—he got a bit of a bad name after you had gone, I can tell you. And on the top of it all came that black business of the Lancasters.

CHAPTER VIII.

They Call Her Guilty.

Geoffrey stood for a moment taken aback as Ted Sealey started incredulously into his face. "It can't be Geoffrey Clavering, surely?" he repeated.

"What of them?" he asked hoarsely. "What of the Lancasters?" and Ted started in surprise. "Do you mean to say that you never heard of that?" he cried. "Why, you must have been asleep, you must have been buried in the wilds all this time not to have heard of that."

Geoffrey made a movement as though he would have shrunk back into the shadows, and then hesitated. After all, Ted had been one of the few friends he had had when he had worked at the mill, and he was honest and faithful—the could trust him. He put out his hand.

"Yes, I've been in the wilds," said Geoffrey huskily, "but tell me, why do you say that?"

"I don't know," he said, "but I don't like to see you looking like that. You seem to be in a bad way. What's the matter?"

"I don't know," he said, "but I don't like to see you looking like that. You seem to be in a bad way. What's the matter?"

"I don't know," he said, "but I don't like to see you looking like that. You seem to be in a bad way. What's the matter?"

"I don't know," he said, "but I don't like to see you looking like that. You seem to be in a bad way. What's the matter?"

"I don't know," he said, "but I don't like to see you looking like that. You seem to be in a bad way. What's the matter?"

"I don't know," he said, "but I don't like to see you looking like that. You seem to be in a bad way. What's the matter?"

turned for himself? Was there nobody in Oldcastle who believed in her, just as there was nobody who believed in him? But he had forgotten. Ted had been loyal. Ted's faith in himself had never faltered or wavered.

"I don't want to be brought up on a charge of murder," he said, "but I don't want to be brought up on a charge of murder."

"Why do you come to me?" he asked, sharply. "Because," Geoffrey replied, "I have been told that you stuck up for her when Oldcastle was against her, because you fought for her and helped her and believed in her. I have come because I thought it possible that you might help me to find her, and prove her innocent of the thing of which she was thought guilty. I've come because all these years I haven't forgotten, because I—love her, and want her."

"I don't know," he said, "but I don't like to see you looking like that. You seem to be in a bad way. What's the matter?"

"I don't know," he said, "but I don't like to see you looking like that. You seem to be in a bad way. What's the matter?"

"I don't know," he said, "but I don't like to see you looking like that. You seem to be in a bad way. What's the matter?"

"I don't know," he said, "but I don't like to see you looking like that. You seem to be in a bad way. What's the matter?"

"Geoffrey—good gracious, it can't be Geoffrey Clavering," he cried.

"Why do you come to me?" he asked, sharply.

The ugly cunning deepened as he bent over the table.
