ENCOURAGING BULLETINS. London, June 26.-11:38 a.m.-King

Edward's progress in convalescence occasions the greatest satisfaction in all vices His majesty already is displaying the greatest interest in all public questions, and is expressing his gratitude over the evidences of the world's solicitude by opening a number of telegrams with his own hands, as reported in these dispatches last night. This action excited him slightly, caused some restlessness during the night and aroused some trifling solicitude on the part of the attendant. All this really was unimportant, as his majesty soon quieted down, and, on the whole, rested satis-

MARKED IMPROVEMENT.

Improvement in the King's condition this morning was most marked. Everybody in Buckingham Palace is delighted and high hopes are entertained that his convalescence will be much ating ulcers are grave in themselves, more speedy even than as expected last particularly the tubercular.

At no time has there been any seriwas in the way of pure speculation—a suggestion that the Prince of Wales night act for his father, as King Edward-then Prin of Wales-frequently did for Queen Victoria, in former days, and particularly during her last illness, but without his having formally been appointed regent.

GOOD NEWS CONFIRMED. The good news given out by the Duke of Connaught at Buckingham Palace before the doctors' morning consultation, and which the subsequent official bulletin completely confirmed, occasioned the liveliest satisfaction to all persons collected at the palace, the Mansion House and elsewhere awaiting tidings from the sick chamber. The absence of ambiguity in the language of the medical bulletin, which. unlike previous statements, has no qualifying phrases, has done much to restore confidence in the public mind in regard to the outcome of the King's

New York, June 26 .- Dr. John B. Chicago, dean of the faculty of Rush Medical College, has telegraphed to the New York Medical Journal the following statement regarding King Edward: The official bulletins are very vague and indefinite, as the doctors do not state whether the perityphlitis abscess was due to appendicitis, carcuinna or appendicitis, but the that inference. If it be an appendical perityphlitis opened and drained, with no attempt at removal of the appendix, s chances for recovery, allowing this age and mode of living, should be 97 per cent. Even is he has a gangrene of a small area of the cecum from a periaphendical abscess his chances of recovery should be good unless the infection be very virulent. One would infer from the mild symptoms of the day previous to the operation that it was not violent. If the perityphlitis abscess be from a per-forating ulcer of cecum, the prog-

The assumption that the abscess is of appendical origin is the most logical from his symptoms of pain and syncope on the fifth or sixth day preceding the operation. There was every reason for his physicians withholding from the public as long as possible. If the diagnosis of appendicitis had been made early it is probable the opera-tion would have been performed immediately as the consensus of opinion of the American medical and surgical profession is that the immediate operation is, within the first 24 hours after the inset of symptoms gives the best results, and subjects the patient probable, until Sunday the underto least risk.

Myron Calice, 48 years old, of No. 233 West Thirty-fourth street, and Miss Annie Stanton Johnson, 22, of No. 107 West Sixty-ninth street, went to the west side court and asked Magistrate Brann to marry them, but the magistrate was busy. He told them to get a lawyer. Mr. Greenthal consented to officiate, and the couple, with Miss Carrie Gay as bridesmaid, adjourned to the lawyer's office.

Mr. Greenthal made the couple stand up before and asked two questions, one of each.

and She Long Suffered From Bad Dreams.

New York, June 26 .- A terrifying dream, one of many such that had unher, frightened Miss Mary Hendrickson to death on Saturday night. The luckless young woman lived at No. 411 Cumberland street, Brooklyn. The last terrifying dream was fatal to her because she suffered from heart disease. Her heart, unable him his signature to a contract conto recover from the shock dealt by her sleeping vision, soon ceased to Miss Hendrickson, who was still at school, never had robust health. About six months ago a nightmare intensely alarmed her. Again and again horrible dreams awakened her trembling. Yet as soon as she recovered her waking senses she forgot what had so greatly terrified her

"I have no idea what caused these nightmares," said the girl's father, Henry Hendrickson, a traveling salesman. "Often, after one of them, her mother and I soothed her and then asked her what she had dreamed. Always she was so frightened she could not tell us. Her dread seemed to deprive her of memory for the time being. Yet, often after one of these nightmares, Mary was very nervous and distracted for a day or two."

STARTLED BY A SHRIEK. On the advice of a physician Miss Hendrickson slept in a room opening from her parents' bedroom. The family retired about 9:30 o'clock on Saturday night. Two hours later a piercing shriek startled Mr. and Mrs. Hendrickson from their sleep. Springing from bed they lighted the gas. They saw their daughter, in her nightrobe, standing erect in her bed. Wide-staring the girl glared straight before her; an expression of terror disfigured her face. They tenderly spoke to her and sought to pacify her. She sank to the bed, pale and quivering, seemingly exhausted. For a min-shallow—like one breathes who con-fronts a deadly danger. "Oh, my foot!" she exclaimed, then fainted. Mr. Hendrickson thinks that, as usual, his daughter had forgotten her dream and that her exclamation in no way described the imaginary danger she had confronted. Dr. A. C. Howe, No. 307 Cumberland street, was hastily called. He found Miss Hendrickson in collapse, her heart fluttering, her forehead beaded with perspiration, her lips and finger tips blue, her feet cold. He administered heart stimulants, adopting every measure his skill could suggest. But the girl sank into deeper and deeper unconsciousness and soon

She was not brilliant at school and we did not try to hurry her studies.

SALVATION ARMY

Captain Lacey, an Earnest Worker in Hamilton, Ont., Endured Awful Pain-His Patience Is Rewarded at Last.

The life of an officer in the Salvation Army is never a bed of roses. No man or woman has a place in this wonderful organization who is not prepared for hard work. There is no room in the Army for those who are afraid of hunger, posure or of hard work seven days in the week. It is quite natural then, that many of these devoted men and women find themselves very much run down, and the victims of many forms of disease. Captain Lacey, of Hamilton, than whom there is no more self-sacriing officer in the service of the Salvation Army in Canada, was tortured for eight long years with Dyspepsia. He exercised the greatest care pos his battles, to vanquish his foes and his power to correct the trouble, but to no purpose. He used many medicines and treatments, some of which gave him a little temporary relief, but none gave nim a permanent cure.

sible in his diet and did everything in

At last, by the advice of friends, he began a treatment of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets, and the results in his were simply marvelous. The first dose gave him positive and instant relief, and before the first box was completely used he was almost entirely cured. He can now eat anything he cares to without the slightest unpleasant consequences, and his general health is very much improved.

It is not often that such a small quantity even of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets will make a complete cure of a case of eight years' standing, but Captain Lacey's careful living no doubt very much assisted and facilitated the treatment.

Captain Lacey's experience is only puffing under eyes, frequent thirst, one of a great many, and it is conscanty, cloudy, highly-colored urine, and all urinary troubles lead to ceptional severity of the case, and the company had no right to demand of taining clauses which he thought did not protect the patron, but gave all protection to the company, and the left the patron liable to the company in many ways.

The plaintiff contended that the

J. Edward O'Connor, who handled the case for his partner, contended that the fourth clause in the contract, which reads that the subscriber can-not hold the company responsible for any damage caused by the wires which enter the building to be connected with the telephone, did not protect the subscriber, as the wire was likely to become impaired, and fire might result from the company's negligence. He used the same arguments for some of the other objectionable clauses, but the judge, in giving his decision, claimed that the company is wrong in asking patrons company is wrong in asking patrons to sign such an agreement as that containing the fourth clause, and he made the injunction against the company perpetual, to compel the giving of telephone service to the plaintiff so long as he pays for the same in adlong as he pays for the same in advance of other subscribers.

New York, June 26 .- When Judge Skinner, in the Essex county court of quarter sessions, called the name of R. G. Adolph Wolff for sentence, there was no response.

Wolff, an aged man, had been in court until the noon recess. Officers | Liberal member of parliament and a sent in search of him returned with partner in the firm of Donald, Currie the announcement that he was dead at his home, No. 57 Merchant street. Wolff was a widower and lived with his daughter. He had been superin-tendent of the Liedenbach leather works for fifteen years. By accident it was learned he had been systematically robbing his employers. He pleaded guilty.

The old man listened to severe sentences imposed by Judge Skinner for crimes less serious than his. he went home he said to his daugh-

I suffered everything and took everything both from physicians and proprietary medicines, but got no re-lief until I tried Peruna, and it will always be with the loudest praise that recommend this wonderful remedy Peruna." -- Miss Emily Lyon.

Catarrh of the stomach is usually called dyspepsia. Catarrhal dyspepsia cannot be cured by pepsin powders or any other temporary relief. The only cure for real dyspepsia is a removal of the catarrh from the mucous membrane of the stomach. This Peruna will do. This Peruna has done thousands and thousands of times. Congressman Botkin, of Kansas, was cured of catarrh of the stomach of many years' standing. Hundreds of other cases have been reported to us through unsolicited testimonials. Peruna is the only internal systemic remedy for catarrh yet devised. Every one afflicted with catarrh in the slightest degree ought to take a course of Mrs. Nancy Ogden, Armel, Frederick

LONDON, ONTARIO.

The Monarchy.

This was to have been coronation Bay. Many have been disposed to lightly regard the function, as having merely traditional interest; a relic of mediaeval pageantry intended to enhance the pomp of kings. They should reflect that the spirit of the coronation tite is religious. A portion of the ritual very beautifully symbolizes the gubjection of the King to a higher power, and the royal couple partake of the eucharist, the most solemn sacrament of the Christian church. The ceremony is expressive of the religious character of the British people and is entitled to a reverent regard. It is not a burlesque like the lord mayor's show, but a national act of homage to the Deity.

The ceremonial side of royalty does not particularly appeal to a democratic country like Canada, and we want no mimic court here: but this feeling is perfectly compatible with loyalty to the monarchy. Perhaps it is the only constitutional form under which an empire such as the British could have been built up and welded together. In this respect the continuity of the throne, amid the rise and fall of cabinets and the commotion of parties, has been an immense advantage. It has given a greater stability to executive authority. While consistent with the most advanced democracy, the British system is far more adaptable than the republican to the government of inferior races, which are unfitted for political freedom. In this the monarchy is an integrating force, as in the mind of the native of India, or Africa, or even the aborigine on this continent, the prowess of the British empire is personified in the sovereign. We do not need to be told what a power the thought of the "great white queen" exercised over millions of Victoria's native subjects. Anglo-Saxons under the British flag smile at this imaginative conception of royalty, but appreciate its practical service to the empire. The selfgoverning colonies regard the crown as symbolizing the genius of British Institutions and the unity of the race. It is a common bond, uniting all races and creeds and countries within the empire. The monarchical principle was greatly strengthened by the character and wisdom of the late Queen. and King Edward has given promise of maintaining her high traditions.

The Opposition Palaver.

An official report of the Conservative convention at Toronto yesterday says that "after a strongly-worded speech by Mr. J. P. Whitney," a resolution was carried declaring that the Ross Government had been emphatically condemaed by the electorate, but "owing to the gerrymander of the constituencies, and by a disgraceful tampering with ballots," a temporary advantage had been gained by the Administration

P. Whitney" is, of course, to be expected under any and all circumstances. As a purveyor of strong words, Mr. Whitney stands alone and unrivaled. The statement that the Government is indebted to that good old Conservative device, the gerrymander, is not borne out by an examination of the election returns, as we have demonstrated in another article. To say that the Government has profited by "disgraceful tampering with ballots" is such an ob-Vious stretch of the truth that the charge recoils on those who make it. With the exception of North Grey, there is not even a suspicion of fraud. and county judges who have conducted the recounts have remarked on the exceptionally clean marking of the ballots and the care exercised by the deputy returning officers. The county judge of Halton even went so far as to say that the deputies in that riding leaned, if anything, against the interests of the Liberal candidate. In North Grey there were four dubious ballots, but over and above these, the Liberal candidate had a majority. The Government has ordered an investigation, and if fraud was committed it is to be hoped the perpetrators will be brought to justie. If any party has suffered through the conduct of election officials it has been the Liberals. In East Muulesex and Muskoka, Liberal seats were endangered by the inadvertence of deputies, and in Center Bruce a recount. which might have given the seat to a supporter of the Government, was precluded by an act of the returning officer. There is not the slightest proof that the Liberals profited in the least by control of the election machinery. The Opposition cannot raise a moral issue on that score.

The Coronation Honors.

Canadians will not cavil at the distribution of coronation honors. The conferring of knighthood on Mr. Mulock is a merited recognition of his services to the empire, in the inauguration of imperial penny postage. He vigorous and businesslike methods. Dr. Borden is honored in the same degree for his record as Minister of Militia and Defense. He was put to a severe test in the mobilization of the South African contingents, and showed a splendid organizing ability. He is an enthusiastic and trained militiaman himself and it is conceded by the service that no Minister of the department has taken so active and intelligent an interest in militia affairs as Dr. Borden, or has done more to put energy and efficiency into the system. Justice Taschereau, the likely successor of Sir Henry Strong, as Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, is made a Knight Bachelor, a distinction in which the bench and bar of Canada will heartily concur. A K. C. M. G. ship will sit very gracefully on the Lieutenant-Governor of Manitoba, Hon. D. H. McMillan. Hon. Robert Boak, the president of the Legislative Council of Nova Scotia, who gets a Knight Bachelorship, is unknown in Ontario, but he ranks high in his own Province, which has been a great school for statesmen. Canadians also note with pride the honor bestowed on Gilbert Parker, the novelist, who is the first Canadian man of letters to receive a

The Popular Vote.

Under any system of representation by constituencies, a popular majority will not infallibly register a parliamentary majority. The Brantford Expositor points out, for instance, that the Conservative party has been usually represented at Ottawa out of all proportion to its strength in Ontario. In the election of 1882, immediately after the gerrymander, the Liberals were in a minority of only 3,721 votes in this Province, but 54 Conservative members were elected and only 38 Liberals. In 1887 the Conservatives had a majority of only 4,855 of the popular vote in Ontario, but secured popular vote in Ontario, but secured Worked mottoes on the a majority of eighteen seats. In 1891 A hint of wicked eity life the Conservatives in Ontario polled 183,172 votes and the Liberals 184,036, the former getting 48 seats and the latter 44. In 1896 the Liberals again had a popular majority, this time, 3,-637 votes, and got a majority of two at Ottawa. In 1890 the Conservative majority was 8,293 votes and eighteen

In the recent provincial election the Liberals were in a minority or about 4,000 votes, largely accounted for by the Conservative preponderance in the city of Toronto, where the unit of representation is the largest in the Province. The Liberal majority of four seats, under the circumstances, is not an anomaly, and certainly shows no such disparity between the number of votes and the number of seats as four out of five Dominion elections reveal.

There is a peculiar appropriateness in Kipling's Recessional at this moment when the splendors and glories of the coronation have been suddenly dissolved. The Recessional is the sub-limest thing Kipling has yet given to world, and may justly claim a place in the anthologies. Judge of the Nations, spare us yet, Lest we forget-lest we forget!

SERVICES IN ST. PAULS

A Great and Distinguished Gathering of People.

The Bishop of London and Other Prominent Clergymen Take Part.

London, June 26 .- At the hour when the King should have been crowned great and distinguished gathering almost identical with that which would have sat in Westminster Abbey. gathered in St. Paul's Cathedral. The approaches to the cathedral were lined by silent throngs, through which drove peers and peeresses, colonial premiers, foreign envoys, ambassadors and members of the House of Commons, all in sombre clothes. In the chancel were Joseph H. Choate, the United States ambassador; Whitelaw Reid, the special ambassador of the United States to the coronation; J. Pierpont Morgan, jun.; and the leading members of the nobility. In the knave about a thousand of the Westminster Abbey ticket holders, mainly women, were seated. Shortly before noon the big western doors were swung open, sunlight streamed in, and the Duke of Cam-bridge, leaning heavily on the arm of an equerry, walked to the chancel.

As 12 o'clock struck there arose from the far end of the nave the clear notes of the opening sentences of the litany, chanted by four of the cath-edral clergy. Their tones were in such unison that they seemed to emanate from one powerful voice. The choir took up the responses. At each supplication the procession, headed the cross, advanced a few steps and then stood still until the response was completed. Through the kneeling congregation the choir advanced to the chancel steps. A score of the clergy followed and behind them were 10 bishops in gorgeous robes.
Then came the Archbishop of York, Most Rev. William Dalrymple MacLagan, the Archbishop of Canterbury, the Most Rev. Frederick Temple and the lord mayor, Sir Joseph C. Dimsdale, the corporation, in full state, bringing up the rear. With evident feeling the choir sang the three psalms of the anthem and the singing of the hymn: "Thine Arm, O Lord in Days of Old was Strong to Heal and Save," and Psalm 51 concluded the short service, whereupon the Bishop of London, surrounded by the archbishops and bishops, from the altar steps impressively pronounced the benediction. For a few moments complete silence reigned and all heads were bowed in prayer, after which the almost blind Archbishop of Canterbury was carefully led down the steps, the procession reformed and the congregation went out into the sunlight, gladly discussing the wording of the latest bulletin from Buckingham Palace. Simultaneously a similar service was conducted at St. Margaret's Church, Westminster. It was largely attended by cabinet ministers, peers, and members of the House of Commons, and was concluded with singing "God Save the King." From India, Australia and Africa. everywhere where Britons congregated, telegrams announced the holding of impressive, supplicatory ser-

Chicago, June 25.—"Trailers" in wheat were punished today. After early strong prices, support was withdrawn from wheat and weakness ensued. Just the opposite occurred in corn. Under these mixed conditions July wheat closed 3c lower, July corn 5c up, September corn a shade down, and July oats 5c higher; provisions were hard pressed and closed 10c to 20c lower. Local receipts of wheat were 30 cars, 5 of contract grade; Minneapolis and Duluth reported 273 cars, making a total for the three points of 303 cars, against 311 last week and 182 a year ago. Primary receipts were 349,000 bu, compared to 411,000 bu last year. Seaboard clearances in wheat and flour equaled 311,000 bu. The seaboard reported 7 loads taken for export. Estimated receipts for tomorrow: Wheat, 25 cars; corn, 175 cars; oats, 125 cars; hogs 35,000 head. The leading futures closed: Wheat-

LAST NIGHT'S BULLETINS. DOING WELL

London, June 25-11 p.m.-The folingham Palace at 10:52 p.m.:

"The King continues to make satisfactory progress. (Signed) Treves, Laking, Barlow."

11:30 p.m.-The following amended bulletin was issued after 11 o'clock to-

"The King continues to make satisfactory progress. He slept some For several hours they kept hours during the day. He complains patient vigil, wandering aimlessly, but very little of discomfort and is more cheerful. The wound is doing well. (Signed) Treves, Laking, Barlew."

IMPROVING. London, June 25 .- (Midnight.)-King Edward's condition tonight is even more satisfactory than has been indicated by the last bulletins. He has made a decided improvement and the feeling at Buckingham palace is very hopeful. His majesty is able to take nourishment. He had scrambled eggs ing, and with his own hands he opened several telegrams. The bulletin, issued at 11 o'clock tonight, is regarded as what I should expect after my recent intensely satisfactory.

This bulletin is generally taken as being the first occasion upon which the King's doctors have allowed themselves to express even to a small degree the hopeful feelings they undoubtedly, even though privately, entertain. Thirty-six hours have now elapsed since the operation was performed and the absence of complications creates hopefulness in all quarters, although several days must pass before the possibility of danger can be eliminated.

PHYSICIANS SATISFIED. London, June 25-6 p.m.-The reports which are again being circulated in New York of King Edward's desperate condition are untrue. Sir Thomas Lipton spent an hour at Buckingham palace this afternoon, and the Associated Press has his authority for making the announcement: "The chances yesterday," said Sir Thomas, nation and naval review. but you can say that at 2 o'clock he was doing well. His majesty's physicians were satisfied with his progress. The chances were then in his favor." The King's mind is entirely clear, and while Sir Thomas was at utterly unprecedented character. While the palace he received word that it they strive to maintain an air of hopewas his majesty's wish that the arrangements for the dinner to about which will hang over the King's life to some days to come. They expert 5 should be proceeded with. Before tomorrow morning over half a million invitations will have been sent out. No and fortitude of the nation. definite prognostication, however, regarding his chances of recovery is morning it was hoped that Friday's empire with procession might take place on Saturday, the Prince of Wales taking the King's place. This was suggested specially for the benefit of the colonial contingents and would have been almost purely a military display. The idea was abandoned today because the doctors said the King was likely to still be in a critical condition on Saturday, and they could not answerable for what any hour might bring forth, though so far no specially alarming symptom had exhibited itself. It was practically decided this afternoon that the Prince of Wales will review the colonial troops, probably next week. They will then return to their respective countries.

A favorable factor mentioned by several of those at the palace today was the King's adaptability to the severe regimen involved. "He is an excellent patient," said a peer who had just seen one of the members of the royal family. "He does everything he is told and does not worry, unlike many royal personages. This considerably helps the doctors in their efforts to pull him through. With a younger and thinner patient the King's progress up to this afternoon would probably permit the doctors to be more optimistic; but they are carefully avoiding any possibility of inspiring premature rejoicing."

The immediate surroundings of the King's sick bed are in striking contrast with the sombre, silent setting which marked the late Queen Victoria's last illness at Osborne, Isle of Wight. There all was quiet and desolate. Winter reigned and those who walked up the hill to the castle gates for the purpose of scanning the bulletins were sombrely clad and overcome with grief. This afternoon the front of Buckingham palace and St. James' park might have been an idle class garden party, through which personages in brilliant uniforms and equippages of the aristocracy frequently The royal grandchildren were taken for their usual outing in the park and the royal gardens, and were

New York, June 25 .- Senator Depew, who is in London, compared the effect of the news of the King's illness spects with the incidents at Buffalo, wanting," said he. "I was in Buffalo at the time, and the city was in just such a state of exultation and exaltation as was London. Looking out of my window just when the news was being given out I witnessed a dramatic sight. There was a tremendous congestion of persons and vehicles in Pall Mall, which lasted fully fifteen crowd had dissolved and soon the most forcibly at this time is the immense personal popularity of the King. Not a single discordant note, and have talked with many distinguished men, have I heard in the general chorus of sorrow for the King's illness, and I am sure this is shared by every right thinking person, no mat ter of what nationality."

CASES DISSIMILAR.

Buffalo, June 25 .- In response to a request as to the resemblance, if any, family saw the King shortly before of the cases of King Edward and President McKinley, Dr. Matthew D. Mann, who performed the operation on President McKinley, said the King's case bore no resemblance whatever to the president's case and that there was no similarity at all between them. A Coronation Guest the Victim-His Name a Secret.

London, June 25 .- An extraordinary case was heard in camera at the Southwark police court today, involving the charge against several men of attempting to blackmail a foreign prince, one of the royal guests, who came here to attend the coronation. It has been learned that the young prince left the residence allotted to him Tuesday night and dined at a fashionable hotel. After dinner he met several strangers, covery are far better than were those in whose company he went to a saloon of the president, as an ordinary case in the Southwark district in the southdanger now is whether the adipose get well than a bullet wound in the known thing is that the whole party were handed over to the police. the case was called today the magistrate ordered the court cleared. The reporters refused to go, whereupon the magistrate adjourned the hearing, which took place privately later in the day in another room. The strictest precautions were taken to prevent any leakage. The magistrate declared that ne was acting on the ground of public policy, as the case affected foreign relations, one of the royal guests being concerned. The case was further adjourned to an unnamed date.

TINSLEY-REAR.

A very pretty wedding was celebrated at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. John T. Read, 124 Bruce street, South Lonwas united in marriage with Mr. Chas. H. Tinsley, Richmond street. Miss Emma A. Reid, sister of the ride, was bridesmaid, the groom being attended by his brother, Mr. Frank Tinsley.Rev. Canon Dann officiated. The bride was nade the recipient of a large number of beautiful presents. Among the invited guests were Mr. John S. Read, Chicago, Ill.; Mr. and Mrs. Alf. Plummer, Peterboro, Ont., and Mrs. Joint and daughter, Detroit. Mich.

DENGATE-HEDGES.

Last evening in London township, just east of the city limits, a very pretty wedding took place at the home of Mr. A. G. Hedges, when his daughter, Miss Lizzie, became the bride of John Roy Dengate. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Thomas Wilson, of King Street Presbyterian Church, London, in the presence of a large num-ber of friends. The bride was taste-fully dressed in white oragandie, and was supported by her sister, Miss Annie, while the groom was assisted by James Cabban. After the ceremony the wedding party sat down to a bountiful wedding breakfast. The large number of costly and useful presents testify to the popularity of the happy couple. Mr. and Mrs. Dengate will reside in the eastern part of the city, and their many friends in London and in the township wish them a happy and prosperous voyage down the stream of

WILLIAMS-TEARE.

A happy wedding ceremony was solemnized last evening at the residence of Jas. Teare, Proof Line road, London township, when his niece, Miss Laura May Teare, was united in marriage to Andrew Williams, a prominent farmer of that neighborhood. Rev. Jas. Little, of Birr, was the officiating clergyman. The bride was assisted by her cousin, Miss Ethel Mac-Robert, of this city, while Percy Teare, a nephew of the bride, performed a similar office for the groom. The bride looked extremely pretty in a daintly made silk gown of white and heliotrope. The groom's present to the bride was a beautiful gold bracelet. The young couple were the re-cipients of many handsome presents, testifying to the friends' good wishes which follow them to their new home. Among the guests present, in addition to the immediate relatives of the bride and groom, were Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Children to Beg.

The board of management of the Children's Aid Society held their 'adfourned monthly meeting in the city hall, Tuesday afternoon. The president occupied the chair, and there was a good attendance of members. Accounts for the shelter maintenance, etc., to the amount of $75 74 were passed and ordered to be paid. A very large number of communications were read and disposed of, among them one from a husband asking that his child be removed from his wife's control, because she had left his home and was letters from wards of the society now in foster homes, expressing content-Government has any objections to ment in their present surroundings. The inspector's report dealt with quite a number of cases. One was that of three foreign children, three boys and a girl, the boys were playing string instruments and the who was a very pretty child, was sent around begging. The inspector warned the mother that if she persisted in sending her children out in that manner they would be removed from her care. If persons from whom children beg would kindly report the circumstance to Inspector Sanders, at the city hall, they would greatly oblige the society. There are at present eleven children in the shelter; ten were placed on trial in foster homes since last meeting. The board has been successful in obtaining an order for the admission of a child from the Home for Incurabe

Children, Toronto. After some discussion with regard to the disposal of juvenile offenders. the matter was laid over to be brought up at the society's next meeting in September, it being decided not to hold meetings in July and August.

I must begin my story again, taking nat seamen call a fresh departure from point subsequent to the events already de alled. Such of my characters as have appeared on the stage must be marshaled rew, fitted with proper dresses and accorations from the wardrobe, and so whered up to the footlights, exulting in their respective parts. For those who may come on hereafter I must crave inmay come on hereafter I must crave indulgence, if not applause. Let the pit suck their oranges with forbearance, if not satisfaction, the boxes smother their yawns, the gallery abstain from hisses. Tragedy or comedy, touching melodrama or broad farce, the curtain must fall at last on all alike; so in real life—clouds of sunshine, storm or calm, folling on patent springs, or trudging footsore through the mire—have but patience, horber:

Be the day weary, or never so long,

Alderman Jones is in an omnibus bound foot the bank; John Gordon is in a counting-house in the city, "counting out his money"; Beila is eating bread and butter, if not "bread and honey," at the villa in Regent's Park; Lady Olivia in Belgrave Square is adding up her butcher's book with a goid-enameled pencil; Lady Gertrude is reading her French novel upstairs; Ada Latimer is preventing two little girls at Bayswater from mangling a duet; and Glibert Orme, in his bachelor's lodgings in Green street, has aiready finished breakfast, though it is but twelve o'clock.

It is the day after the morning concert to which he escorted his mother and

His motives and principles are of the world worldly, but he will readily do battle even with that world on occasion. He has served with distinction, of which he is naturally proud, and has fought his way through one or two scrapes by sheer coolness and pluck, better than he deserved. He likes Gilbert more than most people, and hustles him about, and "wakes him up," as he calls it, and otherwise domineers over him, as is his lordship's wont with his friends. Like all men of action, he finds a charm in an easy-going, good-natured, dreamy temperament, especially antagonistic to his own; so there are few days of which he does not spend a portion in Orme's does not spend a portion in Orme's

"I'm very fond of my Thetis," says Gilbert, with a stretch and a yawn.

"No reason you should keep her in the dark, my boy. Then I don't like the bracket you have put her upon; all that florid carving is wretchedly bad taste, and not over-well done. I'll send you one I saw yesterday in Wardour streets, on condition that you'll turn this hideous landscape to the wall. The water runs uphill, and a thing like that has no business over a chimney-piece. Then Rosi Bonheur's print ought to hang as a pendant to the Landseer. By-the-way, a pendant to the Landseer. By-the-way, talking of that, when are your horses coming up at Tattersall's?"
"Today," answered Gilbert, settling himself into a more comfortable attitude

"And you never told me a word about it. How like you! You certainly are the most indolent fellow in London. I wanted particularly to know, and I could have helped you to sell them. Why, Craner would give anything to have the little bay horse. Is he to be sold?"

"What, Matador?" replied the fortunate proprietor of that desirable animal. "Yes—I suppose so—he'll go up with the rest."

"I mean the horse you rode over six feet of timber last season under the Coplow," urged Holyhead, warming with the congenial subject, as hunting men will.

"Only five," answered Gilbert, quietly, but his eye kindled, and he moved into a sitting posture, with something like rea sitting posture, with something like re-viving energy. Bellerophon was not a viving energy. Bellerophon was not a better horseman, and he was over-fond of that fascinating pursuit termed "riding to hounds." Hitherto it had been his one excitement, his passion, his predilection, the poetry of his life.

On his mental vision came back, as in picture, the dash and skurry of the scene; the stretching pastures smiling in the sun; the time-honored Coplow crested with trees, above him; the flashing scarlets scattering like a broken string of beads; Matador's sweeping gallop, and the meaning shake of his resolute little head; the oak-rails, high, stiff and ragged. head; the oak-rails, high, stiff and rag-ged, with a gurgling watercourse beyond; and the deer-like bound that landed him alongside those white hounds fleeting so noiselessly up the hedgerow. "Five or six," resumed his friend, "you pounded them all, and quite right, too! Well, I shall be at Tattersall's after luncheon, and I'll write a note to Craner to meet me there. I suppose you won't take any trouble, and don't care a brass farthing whether the horses are sold, or boiled, or cut up into sandwiches?"

"It won't make much difference to me," answered Gilbert, who had never felt so little interest in these, the most valued of his possessions, as today; "we can't hunt again until November, you know, and now it only May. If they're not sold they'll go down to West Acres, and, if they are, I can always buy some more."

"West Acres." said Lord Holyhead, thoughtfully. "West Acres! why don't you marry your cousin and go and live at West Acres?"

"She never asked me," remarked Gilbert, with considerable naivete; but the color rose a little to his brow, nevertheless, and he threw the end of his cigar into the grate and unconsciously began to whistle the air that had lately taken

Patrons of the National League have seldom been treated to such hair-raising contests as that provided for them at Chicago on Sunday, when the Colts won from the Pirates by 3 to 2 in a 19inning game. > Just at this particular stage of the American League pennant race, a bit of statistical dope is interesting. Napoleon Lajoie, the great Canadian, as every one expected, is now the batting leader of the American League. Averages complete up to a week ago today show that the mighty Gaul had swatted them out for .442 per cent, a record closely approximating the gait at which he went all of last season. The second man on the list is that massive slugger, Ed Delehanty, and Harry Bay is third, Bob Wood fourth, and Lave Cross fifth. Twenty-five men are batting .300 or better. Griffith heads the pitchers in fielding, Mercer second, Bill Clarke leads the catchers, Joe Sugden second. Carey tops the first basemen, and the great Napoleon comes in ahead of the other second sackers. Collins leads at third, Lave Cross second | GUS RUHLIN DEFEATS THE and George Davis has a big bulge at short. Jones, of Chicago, on the season's work, is the real outfield leader. Washington leads in team batting and in long hits. Chicago excels in field-Buck Freeman looms up as the chief individual slugger of the league and the terrible Lajoie bobs up again as the star base runner on a percent-age basis. Cy Young has far the best record among the pitchers. Up to Thursday last, Ed. Siever, the ex-Cockney, games and the same number of losing

Otto Wonderly, the clever young Londoner who landed the Suburban handicap purse on Gold Heels, is one of the most talked-of persons on the American turf. The New York Sunday Telegraph publishes two excellent pictures of the handsome young man, one of which was made while he was sitting in the coveted floral horse shoe imediately after the conclusion of the race. The Sunday Cincinnatti Enquirer also publishes a good portrait of him, together with the following comment: "The lad who piloted Gold Heels to victory in the Suburban, is a Canadian, and is 18 years of age. In two years he has risen from the position of an obscure stable boy to that of a jockey earning $25,000 a year Wonderly was discovered by Carr, the horseman who won $50,000 on his filly Bessie McCarthy at the Gravesend meeting last fall. He discovered the lad at a winter meeting at New Orleans, where he was riding with only fair success, and saw in him the making of a great rider, and today Wonderly is one of the best riders in

Some peddler of baseball lore once remarked that a good player is both born and made; and this adaptation of an old proverb just about hits the nail on the head. If it is admitted Sox on the American League grounds that to a certain extent a baseball lost to Baltimore in a double-header player is born, and not made, it would be interesting to determine whether the ability to play ball "runs in the family." There have been many notable instances which indicate that nings of major league baseball, in it does. Of these there is one in which but thirteen runs were scored—which London fans are more especian incident probably unique in the hisally interested-the case of the Hemphill brothers. Every follower of baseball 16 this city will remember Hemphill, who browsed for flys in the Cockney's right garden when Pete Lohman was the manager of the outfit. > It would seem, beyond a doubt, that baseball "runs in the family" in the case of the Hemphills. The ex-Cockney's brother the other day made his debut with the St. Louis Browns and not only made a hit, in the theatrical sense of the term, but also three hits in the literal sense. Despite the fact that he was painfully injured early in the game, he made three hits in four times up, scored once and drove in five more runs. In addition to this creditable performance with the bat, he provided the feature play of the day with a long throw to the plate in the sixth inning. From that moment the new star cwned St. Louis.

Among the Stick Handlers.

Toronto Globe: On account of the postponement of the coronation cere-monies and the cancellation of the holitill Saturday. While the postponement is to be regretted in some ways is in others rather fortunate for the Indians. The team has as yet hardly recovered from all the effects of the Orangeville game. By Saturday though Graydon's knee should be persound again, while Soules' ankle, which troubled him in the St. Kitts match, will be all right more. Then again Folly showed Saturday that the bumping he got a week before did not add to his usefulness. By Saturday he should be able to do all the work that is always expected of him. And for yet another reason the extra time is valuable. Barney Quinn, the once famous player, has taken the team in hand, and under his coaching many mistakes, both of defense and attack, will be rectified. Taking it all round the Indians should by Saturday be in shape to give even such formidable players as Brantford either a dead hard game or a sound

The $20,000 Great Trial Stakes, to be run at Sheepshead Bay on Saturday next, is the feature of the week's racing at the Coney Island track, and will be the subject of much discussion to horsemen personally interested, as well as the general public. It is not alone the rich prize that commands attention, but the fact that Mizzen, Martie Lewis, Whitechapel, Artvis and the other stars of the 2-year-old division, are expected to meet at six furlongs. With the American Derby past, the Great Trial also serves to tracks will have from now on a monopoly of the really rich stakes of the turf. All the Western events of a value in any way approximating such stakes as the Great Trial have been run, and to the end of the racing season horse-men will look to the East for big money. True, the Washington Park club has the Wheeler handicap, at $7,-500, and the Young handicap and Hyde Park stakes, of $5,000 each. When the Washington Park meeting closes, the majority of the really high class horses in the West, will be sent East.

The Hendries, who have not been seen in the East since 1898, when Wm. Hendrie's Martimas won the Flatbush stakes, and was disqualified, will again race on Jockey Club tracks this sea son, says a New York paper. George Hendrie's 3-year-old colt Red Robe winner of three important events, and nbeaten this year, will be the first to race in the East again. Red Robe will start at Saratoga where he is well engaged in many of the rich stakes to be decided in August. The return of the Hendrie stable promises to matter of considerable interest to the turf world, owing to the rather notable performances of the colt Red Robe at Nashville, Toronto and Fort Erie. Red Robe won the Cumberland Derby Nashville, defeating Circus, the win ner of the Montgomery handicap. He was not raced again until the Toronto meeting, where he captured the Stanley Produce stakes at a mile and a quarter, carrying 129 pounds, and the Woodstock plate at a mile and a furlong, with 127 pounds up. Then he was taken to Fort Erie, where ne won the Canadian Derby. Red Robe is by Patrician, out of Noblesse, and traces to the Narice family, from which came Volante and Norfolk. He has already arned a place in the list of $5,000 win ners and over in 1902. Red Robe will go from Fort Erie to Saratoga, and be rested up until that meeting opens, when he will try issues with the Eastern stars, and the stable, as well as others who have seen him race, are confident he will continue his triumphant career. IS LIKE PLAYING CROQUET. The science in the game outside of pedestrianism is in driving the ball in the direction required -- at least that is the trouble will a beginner. He will mark out a position with his eye just where he wanted it, but when he unties himself after a few "foozles" and a final "drive," he finds he has "topped" the ball at least in a 45 degree angle from where his mind had so subtly placed it. It is extremely wearing on the feelings to have this occur as often as it will.

Clothes do not make the golfer. The swell who appears on the links clad in immaculate apparel, wearing patent leather shoes and chaperoning a caddie incased in plaid knickerbockers and struggling with a club bag of hued that would knock the late Joseph's coat silly, isn't the man you will look to to make the rounds of the links with a score of 40-no, let him off at 100. It's the other fellow who doesn't give a continental how he looks, who steps into the arena with baggy trousers and stockings that are not mates and a sweater who seems to drop the ball into the holes by intuition, who seems to be able to land that bunch of white-washed gutta percha any old place he wants to and it stays there. He's the fellow that calls the turn at 40 smites and makes the scenic dude player look like a kindergarten. Golf is a healthy game-it brings you out where you can get fresh air without ascending to the roof. THE KNACK OF SLIDING

Very frequently the umpire is compelled to render a most difficult decision because the player fails to act intelligently-because he essays to make a play in a highly improper mannerthe country in which the links are and as a direct result of the player's secreted, as either will do away with a failure to appreciate the situation, lot of unnecessary worry and thus allow your "gray matter" an oppor-due criticism, writes H. > This failure to slide on such plays is also a striking feature of amateur games, as well as those of some of the minor league circles, and managers and captains who give attention field management and practice should take these plays into consideration to a greater extent. Once they do they will find it a profitable move. The manager whose team is able to promptly recall and execute plays of this sort will find that his collection is more resourceful than his opponents, and straightway will realize that baseball is surely a science. One of these very plays which I have outlined-the sliding in at the plate on an infield hit-may be the element that will decide a game, as it was in one of the 'wouldn't that jar you" feeling with Reading contests.
