LONDON, WEDNESDAY, AUG. 24.

THE NEXT REDISTRIBUTION.

For some years past, the bureau of census and statistics at Ottawa has provided, in addition to the regular decennial census, a careful annual estimate of population, based on statistics received from various sources. As next year is census year, the estimate for the twelve months ended March 31
last is of more than ordinary interest, as it enables the public to judge with a reasonable degree of accuracy the probable results of the actual numbering of the people in June next.

Each decennial census has an important bearing on the representation of the various provinces in the House of Commons. As is generally known, the B. N. A. act gives the Province of Quebec a fixed representation of 65 members, and provides that after each decennial census there shall be assigned to each of the other provinces such number of members as will bear the same proportion to the number of its population (ascertained at such census) as the number 65 bears to the number of the population of Quebec
so ascertained. By this simple plan, each province is insured proportionate representation.

The census bureau's latest estimate
thus distributes the population:

Ontario.....	2,687,861
Quebec.....	2,124,834
Maritime Provinces.....	1,060,678
Manitoba.....	496,111
Saskatchewan.....	377,590
Alberta.....	321,862
British Columbia.....	321,733
Unorganized.....	50,000
Immigration (not placed).....	10,862

Total.....7,489,781

The unit of representation is 22,689—
the figure obtained by dividing Quebec's population of 2,124,834 by 65. In 1901 it was 25,363.

Taking the above estimate as a basis
the following will be found to be about the representation to which the provinces are entitled:

Quebec (fixed).....	65
Ontario.....	82
Maritime Provinces.....	32
Manitoba.....	15
Saskatchewan.....	12
Alberta.....	10
British Columbia.....	10

Total.....226

This would give the four western provinces 47 in a House of 226 members, or 13 more than at present, while Ontario, whose population increase has not been proportionate with that of Quebec, would lose four, and the Maritime Provinces four. If the present rapid increase in population is maintained until the taking of the census, it would not be surprising to find the western provinces entitled to a greater representation than is given them above. The Maritime Provinces will undoubtedly raise again the question of a change in the basis of representation, which would save them from a further actual decrease of their membership in the House of Commons.

BRITISH TRADE REVIVAL.

British Board of Trade returns for last month indicate that the trade revival in the United Kingdom continues to expand. Not only was there an increase of nearly £2,000,000 in July,
but the commerce of the seven months of the year that have passed is greater by £72,000,000 than in the corresponding period last year.

During the month of July imports of foreign and colonial produce fell by £332,000 to £49,384,000, but exports of British produce and manufactures
rose by £2,901,000 to £38,388,000, while re-exports of imported goods rose by £847,000 to £8,321,000. The export gains were made in spite of the fact that July this year contained one more Sunday than the same month in 1909. The fall in imports was chiefly due to shortage in grain
and flour shipments.

In the seven months of 1910 now completed, as compared with the corresponding period of last year, imports have risen by £31,830,000 to £282,774,000; exports of British goods by £30,552,000 to £242,974,000, and reimports of imported goods by £29-610,000 to £263,534,000.

Of the rise of £2,901,000 in July exports, no less than £2,588,000 was caused by an increase in shipments of manufactured articles. In the seven months, January to July, inclusive, the increase in the exports of manufactured articles alone amounted to £26-895,000.

Another sure indication of returning prosperity is the fact, furnished in the board of trade returns, that in July last only 37 trade unionists in each 1,000 men were out of work, as compared with 79 per thousand in 1908
and 1909.

Great Britain is not the only country which is enjoying a trade revival, but it is worthy of note that for the first five months of this year—the longest period for which comparative figures are obtainable—the United Kingdom shows the greatest increase, whether in imports or exports. Germany's figures show the second largest increase; the French gains are comparatively insignificant, while the United States exports show a comparative decline.

THE MEANING OF THE TOUR.

The Victoria Colonist, the leading Conservative paper on the coast, sets
its eastern contemporaries a good example. It finds an occasion of rejoicing in Sir Wilfrid Laurier's western tour. Its local pride is flattered by the magnitude of the Premier's welcome at Victoria. Its pride of country is stirred by the demonstrations of national sentiment which Sir Wilfrid's visit has evoked. The Colonist has caught the significance of a great event.

Not only must the distinguished visitor have felt it good to be a Canadian, but there can hardly have been a person in all the throngs who did not feel his patriotism strengthened by the demonstrations. The one thing that has been lacking in the Dominion in the past is a sense of unity;
the one thing which the transcontinental journey of Sir Wilfrid will promote more than anything else is this sense of unity. He may not be a certain amount of political strength from it, and he is entitled to all that is justly his on that account; but far greater than any effect, which his tour will have in that behalf, will be the promotion of this spirit of unity
without which Canada can never realize her high destiny. We make bold to say that, if we know our visitor at all, he will feel far greater pride and satisfaction at being able to contribute to such a result that he will derive from any political gain that may come to himself and party as the outcome of his tour.

These are gracious words and true.
The Colonist's eastern contemporaries
should inwardly digest them.

The Ottawa Citizen boasts that Ottawa has 32 millionaires. Judging by the list of names, there's money in lumber.

The Methodist general conference has sensibly expunged the clause in the book of discipline, which frowned
on the wearing of jewelry and fine clothes. Like other superstitious these are good in moderation. But moderation is not a strong point of current fashions.

The Toronto flag rowdies have been suspended by the yacht club to which they belong. Some punishment was called for. A breach of international etiquette on the part of visitors is no excuse for a breach of hospitality.
Bad manners should not be met and will not be cured by bad manners.

The Glasgow chamber of commerce protests against the proposal to make the installation of wireless telegraphy compulsory on passenger ships carrying 50 persons or more. In looking at the strictly financial side of the question, the Glasgow men have lost sight of the human side. Which is not a new thing, by any means.

A British blue book shows that in the past eight years the number of income tax payers in Great Britain has risen from 825,000 to 1,045,000;
the amount of taxable income from £763-000,000 to £944,000,000, and the average taxable income from £820 to £930.
Figures like these explain why John Bull has an apparently bottomless purse.

Some Englishmen having complained that Americans showed want of reverence by addressing postal cards in Stratford-on-Avon Church, an American critic retorts that if Englishmen did not sell the cards in the porch their travelling cousins would not have them to address in the edifice itself. There is much point in the retort. Shakespeare's native city trades somewhat vulgarly on his fame. In fact, there is a suggestion of money changers in the temple
about many of the historic churches and cathedrals of Europe. The side entrance of Westminster is given over to hawkers of picture postal cards and Abbey literature. In Paris a thriving postal card business is done on Sunday in some of the churches. At the Sorbonne, the vendor's stand is placed right alongside the tomb of Richelieu.

THE BRUTE.

[Kingston Standard.]
A Kansas newspaper man—a true friend
of Kansas young ladies—has discovered how his and other young ladies may keep their hands soft and white. Here is his recipe: "Soak your hands three times a day in dishwater while your mother rests." Now, isn't that just like a man?
The brute!

ANCIENT HISTORY.

[Winnipeg Free Press.]
Mr. Borden, judging from the newspaper reports of his Nova Scotia speeches, is treating his audience to violent denunciations of the Dominion Government for its refusal to take over

from the Tupper Government its Fast
Lane project, and for its abortive arrange-

NOT CLEAR.

[Life.]
Mittred—Charlie Huggins and I had a falling out last night.
Evaline—Indeed! Hammock or canoe?

THOSE POOR WOMEN.

[London.]
Dot (aged 6)—"Mamma, if I get married, will I have a husband like papa?"
Mamma—"Yes."
"And if I get married will I be an old maid like Aunt Martha?"
"Yes."
"Mamma, it's a tough world for us
women, isn't it?"

HE NEVER GROWLED AT ALL.

[Frank L. Stanton.]
You growlin' 'bout the weather from early spring to fall,
But look how Noah stood it, an' never growled at all!

He jest said: "Rain's a-comin'—
The sky's a-gittin' dark!"
Whistled for the animals,
An' hustled for the Ark.

If growlin' jest could change it—could drive the clouds away,
We'd praise the Lord for feller fer
growlin' night an' day.

OUR HELPFUL ENEMIES.

[S. E. Kiser, in Chicago Record-Herald.]
The man who never must deny what other people say.
Who never has to dodge a brick that someone sends his way.
Who has no enemies to scoff or stand around and sneer at.
At what he does or tries to do, who finds
his pathway clear.
May find the world a pleasant place, but
when his course is run, They'll sing no songs and write no books
about the things he's done.

The man who never has to fight to gain
the end he seeks.
Who's word is never challenged by another when he speaks.
Who travels on an easy way where foes
are never met.
Who never at the close of day is haunted
by regret,
May linger long within the world and hate
to go at last,
But few will mourn when he is gone or mark the way he passed.

It is not sweet to feel that there are people who would yell
With all their might for joy if you went wrong some day and fell;
It does not help to make your dreams all happy ones to night.
To know that you have enemies who'd
stab you if they might;
But even Christ, with all His grace, would never, I'm afraid, have triumphed if it had not been for enemies He made.

A SOUND TRUTH IN GOOD FORM.

[Toronto Globe.]
Hon. George G. Grant, at Calgary, put a sound truth in good form when he said: "The best way to strengthen the empire is to look diligently after the part committed to our care."

TIME TO GO HOME.

[Cleveland Leader.]
At 12:30 a.m. Miss Weirle—Didn't I hear you say that you disliked the odor
of ham and eggs?
Mr. Stople—Excessively. Why do you ask?
Miss Weirle (gawking)—Well, we're going to have ham and eggs for breakfast,
and I don't like to have you annoyed.

SEIZING THE OPPORTUNITY.

[Cleveland Plaindealer.]
"Yes, it's a lovely day, Mr. Quibble."
He (bitingly)—"Squibble, Miss Brown, Squibble. That's a fine inheritance, isn't it? Nobody ever gets it right. How would you feel with a freak name like that?"
She (coolly)—"Oh, Mr. Squibble, this is so sudden!"

TWELVE LONDONS.

[London Evening News.]
No man living has ever yet seen London as it really is.
There are, in fact, twelve Londons, one of which—the county—is controlled by 4,300 popularly elected men and women, who sit on 14 public bodies.
The biggest London of all is the police London, covering 692 square miles;
the smallest is the City of London, extending to one square mile.

When one speaks of London one must put an adjective in to describe what London is referred to. Here are the Londons, with their areas as known to the law:
City of London, one square mile.
County of London, 115 square miles.
Water London, 537 square miles.
Festral London, 230 square miles.
Telephone London, 639 square miles.
Parliamentary London, 174 square miles.
Ecclesiastical London, 130 square miles.
Greater London, 692 square miles.
Police London, 691 square miles.
Police Court London, 114 square miles.
Central Criminal Court London, 439
square miles.
County Court London, 305 square miles.
The smallest population of one London is 25,000—in the City—and the largest population, 6,590,000—in Greater London.

MARIE HALL'S TOUR.

[London Daily News.]
Miss Marie Hall, who left England yesterday for her world tour, is one of the few native violinists who have reached the front rank. What it means to achieve such greatness is best understood when we read that Miss Hall has been guaranteed for her tour a minimum of £10,000.
The most important item of her luggage,
I note, is the Stradivarius violin, which uses, the safety and proper care of which has been provided for in a very special manner. I wonder, by the way, how many Strads are ever passed upon new days. There must be still in existence but few short of a thousand instruments of the violin family made by the famous Cremona makers, most of which are preserved in museums and private collections. Of recent years several have come to light in South Africa—one of the most unlikely places to look for such treasures, one would imagine—where they would appear to have been taken by Huguenots
who founded a new home in the South-

won the 2½ mile race at the Galt special mile race at the Galt. The stallion pacer, within half a second of the world's was: 2:39½, 1:00, 1:30, 2:01. Minor Heir finished almost nose and nose with Hedgewood Boy, while Galt paced the mile in 2:02. A stiff wind was blow-

REPAYING A DEBT TO DICKENS

(From the Manchester Guardian.)
A very ingenious proposal for honoring the memory of Dickens and paying some part of the heavy debt which the world owes to him is made in the Strand Magazine this month. There are hundreds of thousands, perhaps we may safely say millions, of readers of Dickens today who in their hearts believe that he was the greatest English writer that ever lived, who certainly find him far the most absorbing, moving and elevating writer, and who wonder without hesitation that too high a price could hardly be put on the treasure he gave the world. In fact, Dickens in his lifetime worked hard for a poor reward. Now, forty years after his death, the public conscience is awakened on the question of the property rights of authors. It is too late to think of paying our debt—our money debt—to the creditor himself. But the authors of the Strand Magazine propose to point out that there are several children and many grandchildren of Dickens still living, and several of them are in very poor circumstances.
The proposal is that a stamp should be prepared and sold for a penny. Every copy of Dickens should have a stamp for each volume of Dickens he has or may buy, and paste it inside the cover,
a receipt, as it were, for a "deferred royalty," proving that he at least has so far honored his debt to Dickens.
The proceeds of the sale of such stamps would go to a fund for the benefit of Dickens' living descendants.
There are estimated to be 24,000,000 copies of Dickens extant, so that if every reader bought a stamp for every volume he owned, £2,400,000 might be looked for. What is expected is that every lover of Dickens will be ashamed to have a volume which does not bear the stamp that shows that he has paid his share of the debt. If anything like that is accomplished, a good enough sum will be raised. Libraries might sell stamps over the counter to willing readers. Bibliophiles need not spoil rare editions, if they think it spoiling to paste the stamp in, but that is an extension of very limited application. It need not be felt that this is an acknowledgment of the hereditary principle. A man thinks of the good of his children, and to a less degree, of his grandchildren, and of his
of his own; they are an extension of his personality, as the ancient philosopher puts it, and anyone who has an affection for a man in a great degree shares this feeling with him. If we want to do something for a dead friend which we have neglected or been unable to do while he was living, we should naturally turn to his children, and seek to pay the debt to them. The same spirit justifies this proposal to pay what we owe to Dickens to those of his children and grandchildren who are in need of it.

THE DOMESTIC WOES OF DR. H. H. CRIPPEN

New Light on Life of Famous Prisoner Now on the Way to Trial.

Father Point, Que., Aug. 23.—The Meganitic this morning passed through Belle Isle Straits with Dr. Crippen and Miss Leneve on board. It is expected that the returning fugitives will be arranged in Bow street court the latter part of this week.

Revealing light is shed upon life at Hilldrop Crescent, London, by a Frenchman named M. Richard, who once boarded with the Crippens, says
the News of the World. To M. Richard Mrs. Crippen declared that she loved the stage, and everything else,
and one afternoon, when she was showing him photographs of herself, in various costumes, she told him of the profound regret she had in enforced idleness. He adds that he afterwards knew that she had been forced to swear when he married her that she would give up the theatrical career for ever. Her home, which was well kept, seemed to her, nevertheless,
to be sad, without any attraction or pleasure.

When M. Richard saw Mrs. Crippen
he was lonely and worried. M. Richard thinks that Crippen was incapable of having committed a premeditated murder. He seemed to be always so attentive to his wife, and so devoted to her, that he could not have committed such a crime. He thinks that M. Richard could not believe him capable of a deliberate crime. Mrs.
Crippen frequently gave way to fits of ill-humor, which caused painful disputes. Her husband, on the contrary,

TWO BROTHERS SLAIN AT THE POOL TABLE

Were Shot Down by Three Men Who Burst Into a Saloon
in New York.

New York, Aug. 24.—Shot by three men who burst into the room where they were playing pool, two brothers, Antonio Di Leo, 19 years old, East One Hundred and Fifteenth street, were slain in the cafe of Raphael Caraffe, at No. 335 East One Hundred and Fifteenth street, between 9 and 10 o'clock at night. Antonio was killed outright, but his brother John died an hour later in Harlem Hospital.

In the fusillade two brothers of the dead men, Alexander and Joseph Di Leo, narrowly escaped death. One bullet passed through the coat and arm of Alexander, just grazing the skin, while a bullet perforated the hat and another the coat of Joseph. A few minutes after the shooting Michael Caraffe was arrested, and was identified as one of the men who fired the shots.

The sound of the shots attracted a large crowd, and when it was known that two men had been slain Caraffe was attacked by a mob and narrowly escaped a beating. Supported by Acting Captain Hammond and Police Sergeant O'Connor, Policeman Leroccker held the crowd at bay until the arrival of the reserve of twenty policemen, but they were unable to prevent the infuriated friends of the Di Leos from almost tearing the clothes from Caraffe's body.

The murders had been planned carefully and the aim of the assassins was deadly. The Di Leo brothers were for years prominent members of the Church of Our Lady of Mount Carmel. The police presume that this aroused the jealousy of certain persons, and this seems to be the only motive for the attack upon the four brothers.

Antonio and John Di Leo were playing pool with two cousins in Caraffe's saloon, while the other brothers were keeping score. A dozen men were watching the game, when someone knocked at the door leading to a narrow passageway. This door had been fastened with a chain and when Caraffe removed this guard, three men, each brandishing a revolver, sprang into the room. They at once opened fire upon the four Di Leo brothers. Antonio fell dead upon the pool table at the first shot with a bullet in his brain, and in the next instant, John Di Leo, fell to the floor with a bullet wound in the temple.

The assassins then opened fire upon Alexander and Joseph, both of whom hid themselves behind the pool table. Apparently satisfied with their work, the three men ran into the hallway, the lights in which they had previously extinguished, and still flourishing their weapons, darted into the street. The witnesses to the shooting followed and stumbled over two chairs in the passageway. This gave the murderers a good lead and when the pursuers reached the street the men were nearing First avenue.

A crowd instantly gave chase. Caraffe's two companions dashed into the door of a tenement near the corner and making their way to the roof, succeeded in eluding the police. The crowd chased Caraffe to First avenue and as he ran toward One Hundred and Thirtieth street, he encountered Policeman Leroccker, who drew his revolver and placed him under arrest. Caraffe offered no resistance.

Acting Captain Hammond and Sergeant O'Connor, who heard the firing, went to Leroccker's rescue, and after the arrival of the reserves took Caraffe to the station, where he was identified by the Di Leos as one of the men who shot their brothers. He was locked up on a charge of homicide, and nine witnesses to the shooting were placed under arrest as material witnesses.

TWO MEN HELD FAST TO A RABID DOG

The Animal Had Bitten Three Children—Angry Bulldog
Bites Ten.

New York, Aug. 23.—With naked hands Rev. Dr. Edward M. McGuffey, rector of St. James' Episcopal Church, and John E. Meyers, of 87 Broadway, caught and overpowered a rabid dog after it had bitten three children and a score or more of other dogs in the streets of Elmhurst, L. I. The animal was an unusually large fox-terrier.

The struggle took place in Broadway, Elmhurst, opposite the rectory of St. James' Church, and was witnessed by a screaming throng of women and children, among them the three children who had been bitten.

Rev. Dr. McGuffey is a Scotchman, full of vim and courage. He has been rector of St. James' for about twenty years. The dog, according to the police, was owned by a plumber, who is away on a vacation. Early in the morning Mr. McGuffey saw the fox-terrier attacking every dog that passed. Shortly before noon it started off on a run down the street. As he was returning to the rectory from an errand, Mr. McGuffey heard screams, and he then learned that the dog was running wild through the village and that the three children had been bitten. He started on a run toward the place where the dog had been seen in the morning. He arrived in the nick of time.

Mr. Meyers, who is an optician with a place of business in the city and who has four small children, had caught the animal. Mr. McGuffey also grabbed the dog, which fought viciously for its freedom. The men succeeded in pinning the dog to the ground. Policeman Melvin Harvey, of the Newtown precinct, was among those drawn to the scene. Catching sight of his uniform the crowd shouted to the policeman to shoot the dog, but he was afraid to do this for fear of hitting the men. Mr. McGuffey told him to go ahead and shoot while they held the dog, but Policeman Harvey refused to take the risk. A rope was procured and a slip noose passed over the dog's head and then it was drawn taut against a lamppost and at the same instant both Mr. Meyers and Mr. McGuffey released their hold on the dog. Then the policeman used his weapon.

Mr. McGuffey then turned his attention to the three children who had been bitten and took them to the office of a doctor, where their wounds were cauterized.

Dog Bites Ten Persons.
A bulldog named Sport, owned by Harry Demore, a negro, living on Seventh avenue, got provoked when some boys began teasing him at Seventh avenue the other night, and bit ten persons, including two women. The dog had five shots fired at him and was wounded, but streaked off up Seventh avenue and got away.

The bulldog raced around the block at Seventh avenue and One Hundred and Thirty-fifth street, and bit every one in his way. The cries of the few around when the dog first began to roam drew a crowd of nearly a thousand, and the reserves of two police stations could hardly handle.

Charles Bernhard, who was bitten on the face, arms and legs, tried to stop the dog. He finally pulled a revolver out and fired five shots. One of the bullets hit the dog. Two surgeons from Harlem Hospital treated the folks who had been bitten and advised them to go to the Pasteur Institute at once without fail.

SPAIN'S ATTITUDE SURPRISES VATICAN

No Ground For Government's Protest—
Clergy Behaving Admirably.

Rome, Aug. 23.—Surprise is expressed at the Vatican at the protest of the Spanish Government against what the government calls violent sermons, delivered by Roman Catholic priests in Spain against the Government. The protest was delivered by Marquis de Gonzalez, secretary of the Spanish embassy to the Vatican, in charge of the embassy since the recall of the Spanish ambassador, and terms the sermons "insulting to the Spanish ministers and inflaming the passions of the people."

At the Vatican it is declared that the Spanish clergy is behaving admirably during the crisis, and is simply calling the attention of the faithful to the attempts by the Spanish Government against the rights and liberties of the church.

THE FRUIT CROP OF NIAGARA

Will Be Less Than Last Year—Grapes
Fairly Abundant.

St. Catharines, Aug. 22.—The fruit crops this year will not be 50 per cent of what they were last year. The plum crop will not be 20 per cent of the crop of last year, grapes will be fairly abundant, the peach crop will be medium, and apples will be by no means plentiful. The result will be that fruit will be higher in price on the local and especially on the outside market. Such was the gist of the information given out by Mr. C. E. Fisher, county registrar, and secretary of the Niagara Peninsula Fruit Growers' Association, who is one of the most successful fruit growers in the whole Niagara district, raising one of the largest peach orchards in this fruit region.

Mr. Fisher was able to give an estimate of the coming fruit crop from his own personal experience and from information he has received from the Government scale inspectors, who have made a tour of the orchards in Grimsby, Louth, Grantham and Niagara townships, where most of the fruit is raised.

The Government inspector attributed the smallness of the crop to the neglect of many farmers in spraying, to the continued cold rains about the time of blossoming, and to the curled leaf, a fungus disease which attacked the trees in the early part of the season. In some orchards, where the curled leaf was prevalent in the beginning of the year, there will be no peach crop at all. Mr. Fisher stated that his crop of yellow peaches, which has been marketed, was only two-thirds as heavy as last year, although his trees were thoroughly sprayed and tended. Elbertas and Crawford's, the principal varieties of fall peaches, will be much lighter than last year, when there was a full crop.

Plums in a great many orchards are reported as a total failure. The European and American varieties will yield about half a crop, and the Gneiss, the Quackenbush, the Lombards and the Niagaras, will be very light. There are prospects of a fair crop of apples, but, of course, the fruit growers of the district are not nearly so much interested in apple-raising as in peach and grape raising. Most of the varieties of grapes are showing up fairly well, and there are prospects for a fairly good-sized crop.

STREET PREACHER'S OBJECT LESSON

Emphasizes the Uncertainty of Life as
One of His Hearers Passes Away.

Chicago, Aug. 23.—"Ye know not the hour and ye know not the day that the end may come. Are ye prepared to meet your God?" As a street preacher raised his voice to a scanty audience along the curb at West Madison and South Desplaines streets, yesterday, a man wearing a bronze button of the G. A. R. in the lapel of his coat, grasped at his throat and fell with a choking sound.

His sermon interrupted, the preacher leaned over the prostrate body, thinking it was merely the usual case of a man overcome by liquor. A glance, a hand placed over the heart that had stopped beating, and the preacher rose, his face sterner than ever.

"Send for the police," he said. "The man is dead."

And then, as the crowd started back, the preacher took advantage of the momentary hush and began his sermon again.

"Ye know not the hour, ye know not the day," he shouted, so that his voice reached loungers farther away, who became immediately interested and hurried to the spot. Then, with the lifeless body at his feet, the preacher continued the interrupted sermon until the police arrived.

The man who had dropped dead at the preacher's warning reached his ears was Alfred Ahearn, a laborer.

A MOTO-DRIVEN BATTLESHIP

To Be Propelled by an Internal Combustion Gas Engine.

Portsmouth, Eng., Aug. 23.—A local newspaper asserts that it has excellent authority for the statement that the British admiralty has decided to build an experimental, motor-driven battleship, propelled by an internal combustion gas engine. Naval engineers have long had their eyes on this type of engine as the ultimate form of power for naval vessels and experiments have been carried on with the gunboat Rattler with satisfactory results. A battleship, equipped with such a motor, would have no boilers, stokers or smokestacks, except such vents as are necessary to carry off the products of combustion, and it is claimed that such a vessel if successful, would by the economies effected in weight, space and cost of working, and by the additional speed due to the absence of smokestacks, render all vessels of the present Dreadnought type obsolete.

AN ANIMATED HARDWARE STORE

Illinois Advertising Agent Had Stomach Full of Cutlery.

Cairo, Ill., Aug. 23.—Before Frank Wilson, an advertising solicitor of St. Louis, died here in a hospital he told the police he had swallowed several articles of a foreign nature, and that he had better put the X-ray at work. He was operated upon Sunday night on the theory that he was afflicted with appendicitis. Three incisions were made in the man's abdomen, and according to the physicians, the following articles were removed:

One shoe button hook, ladies' hat-pin, three keys, one lead pencil, one belt buckle, one tin toy pistol, three small nails, one needle, one thermometer.

Wilson according to his physicians, had been in a depressed mental state for some time, during which he swallowed anything that he could get down his throat.

Cunarders Will Call at the Irish Port
After This Month.

London, Aug. 23.—Ireland has won the fight for Queenstown as a port of call.

Sydney Buxton, the postmaster-general, has written John Redmond, the Irish Nationalist leader, according to announcement made today, that the Cunard Line ships, except the Mauretania and Lusitania, will call at Queenstown beginning with September, and the company will reconsider the arrangement for 1911.

A bitter fight has been waged by the Irish on the substitution of Fishguard, Wales, for Queenstown.

Only Scientific Specialists Cure

WHY SO MANY SUFFERERS FAIL TO GET CURED.—Nine physicians out of ten use unscientific methods and resort to guesswork in treating their patients, which results in the many there who are not only disappointed, but lose their money. Our methods are scientific, therefore they produce quick, everlasting cures. We employ only scientific methods and for this reason we make more cures than other physicians and specialists. We can afford to cure for less than others, and that is why we cure the sick, diseased and discouraged, come to our office, as others who failed to get cured elsewhere have done, and get the quickest, surest, cheapest cure obtainable, from one of the most skilled specialists in Detroit. THE HOLOCAUST IN THE WEST

Probability That 400 or 500 Forest Rangers Have Lost Their Lives.

SEVEN HUNDRED MISSING

Fires in the Coeur d'Alene Indian Reservation Beyond Control—Idaho's Woods All Ablaze.

Spokane, Wash., Aug. 23.—Tonight nearly the whole of Idaho's timbered mountain country is on fire, and it is possible that 400 persons may have perished. Other losses of life are estimated at 100. The mining town of Gardner is absolutely surrounded by flames, and the miners are out fighting the fire.

The fires in the Coeur d'Alene Indian reservation are checked, as are those of the Palouse national forest. Along the St. Joe River, which runs through the largest body of white pine timber in the United States, there is a continuous fire from Plummer to a point in Montana.

The United States is the largest loser. Next in importance are the losses of the Chicago, Milwaukee and Puget Sound Railroad, which has suffered destruction of bridges, buildings and timber lands for 50 miles.

The fires along the Northern Pacific in Northern Montana have diminished. They were largely in timber that had been burned over in former years. The Idaho fires are burning virgin forest. The Pen d'Oreille Valley, heavily timbered, is on fire in several places, and loss of life is feared. It is difficult to get news from that region.

The weather service says no rain is in prospect. Dispatches state that four colored soldiers are missing, and that a number of families near Avery have been burning, and that the entire Coeur d'Alene national forests may be destroyed.

MADE RIVER FOR FIFTEEN MILES. Forest families of homesteaders, reported burned to death in Kootenai County, Idaho, escaped to St. Joe, wading 15 miles along the bed of the creek, with fire burning down to the water's edge, forcing the refugees frequently to submerge themselves. An old man in the party was borne on a stretcher all the way. Their clothes were nearly burned off.

While 700 forest rangers are missing in Idaho and Montana, it is thought some of them will escape death. The telephone lines through the national forests have been destroyed, and the rangers might be safe, but unable to report.

Six Hundred Missing. Butte, Montana, Aug. 23.—Six hundred fire fighters, who left Thompson Falls three days ago, are reported lost, and Forest Supervisor Bushnell, of the Cabinet reserve, who is at Thompson, fears all may have perished. The wind is blowing furiously toward Thompson today, and it is feared the little town, which is crowded with refugees, will be swept by fire before night.

"The 600 men," said the messenger who brought the news, "had gone four days, during which time nothing had been heard from them, and Forest Supervisor Bushnell, of Cabinet Reserve, who is at Thompson, feared all were dead when I left Thompson this morning."

A Wall of Fire. A wall of fire was sweeping from the west. The 700 inhabitants of Thompson were prepared to flee.

"Thompson is a shelter for many refugees, from Idaho, Montana, Burke, Idaho, and from many other points they have come tramping in, men, women and children, blistered, heartbroken, penniless."

"The flames jump five miles at a time and spread with incredible rapidity. Nothing can be done for the 600 men who are missing, or can news of their whereabouts be learned."

Wallace, Idaho, Aug. 23.—Fifty-six bodies are lying near Independence Creek, north of Murray, Idaho, according to a report received by United States Supervisor Wigle. A crew of men has been sent out to investigate.

CONFERENCE TAKES IMPORTANT STEP

Methodist Church of Canada to Have Two Superintendents Instead of One.

WILL BE ELECTED TODAY

Held That Work Is Too Heavy for One Man—A London Representative Makes Strong Speech.

Victoria, B.C., Aug. 23.—By a vote of 212 to 92, the General Conference this afternoon, decided to elect two general superintendents, instead of one, after a warm debate. The elections will be held tomorrow. The recommendation of the committee was that three superintendents be appointed to reside west of Ontario and another east of Ontario.

This was strongly supported by J. A. M. Atkins, Winnipeg, who urged the election of three, and said that in the past the general superintendent had not done as he had been expected to do, not because of lack of energy, but it was impossible for any human being to cover the ground of the whole Dominion. He wished specially to advocate the claims of Western Canada, where there was a nation in formation. One reason why the Presbyterian Church had been so successful in the west was because of the wonderful work of Dr. Robertson, missionary superintendent. The Methodist Church needs such a man for the western conferences. This part of the denomination should be well supervised and kept in touch with other sections of the church.

Rev. Dr. Manning's Views. Rev. Thomas Manning, of London, made an eloquent speech in opposition to the proposal of the committee. He asked what questions had arisen that called for more supervision, what can the general superintendent do that is not being done? At present there are more officers in the Methodist Church than are employed by the Dominion Government. What has the general superintendent done in inaugurating great movements? Has he awakened young men to enter the ministry? Has he stimulated educational interests. Has he inspired aggressive missionary activity? Has he initiated or led any great movements in the church? For the most part these questions must be answered in the negative, simply because he has had very little power. At present he has not the authority of a chairman of the district. If we expect the superintendent to be a leader of a great movement he must have more power. To multiply the officers without doing this would be useless. The strength of the church is in the individual pastor. It has not been shown that there is any need for three superintendents.

Two Needed. Rev. Dr. Antille moved, seconded by Rev. Mr. Smith, that there be two general superintendents. When the number was reduced from two to one it was chiefly on financial grounds, but there was no such reason now. The church is much stronger and wealthier. He believed that many circumstances would arise in which it would be of great value to have two superintendents for consultation.

Mr. Joseph Gibson said he had received an object lesson in his journey of five days across the continent. The men who had constructed the C. P. Railway had done much to the country together. The visit of Sir Wilfrid Laurier to the west, although he had not discussed party politics, had electrified and solidified his party. Similar work could be done by the right men in the church. It was impossible for any one man to be over-seer from Halifax to Victoria. There are three natural divisions to the country—east, west, and central. Each should have special attention.

Rev. W. J. Smith thought that the general superintendent had been so loaded with official duties in presiding over committees that he had little time to travel. Two men could give much more efficient oversight.

In Favor of Three. Rev. Oliver Darquin favored three, and he very earnestly advocated the claims of the west. In the central conferences there were comparatively few probationers, but in the Saskatchewan Conference there were 101 ordained ministers and 129 probationers. The latter needed the help and inspiration of the superintendent, who should reside in the west.

Rev. G. J. Bond pleaded for the recognition of the western conferences, which needed more supervision and co-ordination.

Rev. R. N. Burns thought that unless there was an enlargement of the powers of the general superintendent, it would be unwise to increase the number. In regard to the west, he was of the opinion that there was superintendency enough. There were four men looking after the missionary work of the church west of Lake Superior.

Rev. Dr. Eyckman argued for but one superintendent.

Too Much for One. Dr. Stewart, Winnipeg, thought the duties were too great for any one man. He believed that the prerogatives of the superintendent should be enlarged and three men elected.

Judge Chesley said the division of the superintendency into three sections would lessen the dignity, prestige and influence of the officers.

Justice MacLaren stated that the machinery of the church had grown very rapidly during recent years, and much of the chief officer's time was taken up in attending department boards and committees. During the past quadrennium Dr. Carman had presided over 147 committee meetings of the missionary department alone, besides those of other departments. The work really requires more than one man, and he would vote for two.

Rev. Dr. Williamson would vote for three superintendents if they would have power to really inaugurate anything, but in the present circumstances he favored but one.

The proposal for three superintendents was lost by a large majority. It was then decided to elect two, who will be chosen on Wednesday forenoon, when the other officers will be elected.

The speaking on this question was of a high order, and the interest manifested by the delegates and visitors most intense.

Rev. Dr. Sprague made an earnest appeal to the conference for financial aid to help the Methodists in Campbellton, N.B., to rebuild.

Ways to Save

Be systematic if you are determined to develop the saving habit. Here are several plans which may help you to save money and get ahead financially:

Make an allowance for each class of expenses, and then plan to save something on each allowance. Make it a rule to set aside a certain per cent of your income on pay day. Consider that this per cent is insurance against the future. Look upon it as a debt which must be paid. As your income increases your savings will increase.

We pay 3% interest, compounded every six months.

HEAD ENGINEER WAS NOT NAMED FOR CITY

No Quorum of Board of Works and Meeting Had To Be Postponed.

A head engineer was not named by the board of works and the water commissioners last night. As a matter of fact, the question was not discussed at all. There was a quorum of the board of works, Ald. Tancock, Ald. Saunders, Ald. Pocock and Ald. Morgan being present. However, Commissioner Philip Pocock, who was in Toronto on business, could not be present, and the board of works members thought it better to wait until Friday night, when practically all the members of the water commission would be present. Mayor Beattie, who is a member of both committees, and Commissioner Wyatt were on hand.

"We had to wait until Mr. Pocock returned," said Ald. Tancock. "He expected to be home in time for the meeting, but could not finish his business. It was the understanding that we should have a quorum of both bodies, but with Commissioners Pocock and Darch away, and Chairman McMahon ill, it was impossible to do so."

BOY SPLASHED WATER ON NEIGHBOR'S "SPUDS"

Result Was a Police Court Case Before Magistrate Love.

Wm. Ridler, of 392 Regent street, appeared before Magistrate Love this morning, charged by his neighbor, Mrs. Bolander, with being abusive.

It was apparently a case of who would lay the information first, only Mr. Ridler went to his lawyer before going to the magistrate, and in the meantime Mrs. Bolander got the first, and Mr. Ridler was surprised to find himself a defendant instead of a plaintiff.

There has been trouble between the parties for some time. Mrs. Bolander alleged that Mr. Ridler a few days ago, after not speaking to her for months, called her vile names.

Mr. Ridler, in defence, alleged that a boy of Mrs. Bolander's was throwing water from a tub over the fence onto his potatoes, and that when he objected Mrs. Bolander came out and deliberately upset the whole tub of water so that it ran under the fence and inundated his tubers.

"You people should live as neighbors and not be fighting," said the court.

"Mr. Ridler is big enough to put any of his neighbors under his arm and run away with them, and I should not think he would be fighting with a little bit of a woman like Mrs. Bolander. I am going to mark this case settled, on the parties agreeing not to molest or harass each other in any way whatsoever."

Both parties agreed to this and left court.

NO QUORUM

No. 2 Committee of Board of Education Failed To Meet.

It is somewhat difficult to obtain a quorum for any meeting at the city hall these days. No. 2 committee of the board of education could not locate enough members to do business yesterday afternoon.

Another effort will be made later in the week to get them together.

It was the intention of the committee to approve of the plans for the Colborne Street School and call for tenders.

Dr. Wyckoff, Mr. W. T. Strong and Secretary McEltheran alone were present.

BEAT THE PEACEMAKER WITH A TOWEL ROLLER

Richard Powers Is Certainly a Bad Actor When Drunk.

A heavy oaken towel-roller, about fifteen inches long and two inches and a half in diameter, was added to the museum at the police station this morning.

When court opened the roller reposed on Magistrate Love's desk, and as he examined it he remarked that it was a dangerous-looking weapon. He was quite surprised when he learned that Richard Powers had used it on a man who jumped in and stopped him from using it on the head of another man with whom Powers had been fighting in the street.

Powers, who was at Wolsley Barracks for some time, was only released yesterday after doing 21 days for being drunk. Before that he was not out ten hours from a previous sentence.

"You are a tough customer apparently," said the court to Powers, "and I would advise you to be careful, or you will be arrested for murder one of these days. I fine you $5 for twenty days."

Powers took the days.

The man whom he struck showed a very badly bruised arm. He was held for being drunk, but was allowed to go on exhibiting that he took no part in the fight, but was trying to stop Powers from striking another man.

PRIVATE MOIR

ate in any conversations he has had with the detectives that he was badly treated at the asylum, and treated more like a wild animal than a man. He harps on the story that his hands were handcuffed behind his back, and he was not able to twist them to prevent the maniac from again escaping.

Around Niagara Falls it is known that there was plenty of people who thought that he had been badly used, and who would have been willing to help him had they had a chance. The news that Moir's hands were handcuffed behind his back, and if he had not been able to twist them to prevent the maniac from again escaping, had excited a great deal of adverse comment on the methods the asylum authorities were now taking to prevent the maniac from again escaping.

Gave Moir a Chance.

Evidently Dr. Deitch was aware of this feeling when he came here, for not only did he stop the process of bricking up Moir's window, but he ordered that he must not have his hands manacled behind his back in the future during the night, but must be allowed a fair chance to sleep.

The general feeling here seems to be that if that sort of treatment continued for long Moir, who is admittedly sane enough now, would soon be a raving lunatic.

Information has come to hand which effectively disposes of the story about Moir getting assistance outside the asylum from the automobile which was seen to leave the asylum grounds at about 2 o'clock. An automobile did leave the asylum grounds about this time, but it had nothing whatever to do with Moir. It belonged to Mr. Allan, who is connected with the Toronto Electric Light Company, who was travelling back to Toronto after spending the Sunday with friends in Brantford. Mr. Allan says that he had no lights on his car, because it was a brilliant moonlight night and he did not need them.

Will Investigate.
 Toronto, Aug. 24.—A conference over the escape from Hamilton Asylum yesterday between Hon. Col. Matheson, acting provincial secretary, Mr. S. A. Armstrong, deputy provincial secretary, and Inspector John Miller, who has been working on the case, and shrewdly picked out the two guards on the very first day as implicated in the release of Moir.

Col. Matheson afterwards made the following statement:

"The investigation is still going on, and a thorough investigation will be made. The whole circumstances will be probed to the bottom."

"In regard to the statement that a warning letter in regard to Moir was sent the department a month ago, and was not acted upon, this is incorrect. The letter was dated February of last year."

"As to Taggart, I don't think there is any doubt that he will be caught in a short time. He is believed to be not very far away, and is harmless, not like Moir."

It is understood that at least one other person connected with the asylum is under surveillance.

In reference to the penalty for abetting the escape, Col. Matheson stated that this case would form a precedent, as it was the first instance since Confederation.

Was Moir Betrayed?
 Hamilton, Aug. 24.—Wm. A. Moir, the escaped murderer of the Hamilton Asylum for the Insane, was betrayed and the efforts of Detective Miller were responsible for his recapture, or at least that is the opinion held in some quarters. The story of an automobile taking the man away was regarded by the officials from the first to have been the correct theory, and then the report that a man in an auto had told the police of his whereabouts, caused considerable talk, and it seems to be believed by not a few that the man who aided Moir to escape lost his nerve, and being cross-examined by the officials.

It seems quite probable that those who helped Moir away would be expected to deliver him to the American side of the river, and the fact that marks of an automobile leading up a side-road near Beamsville, bears out the theory that those in charge of the automobile either found that they could not reach the border before day-break, or that the machine became disabled, and in order to relieve themselves of the fugitive, the side-road was selected as a convenient place to discharge their passenger.

J. H. CHAPMAN & CO 126, 128, 128 1/2 Dundas Street

Dropping the Fugitive.
 An autoist would scarcely have steered off the main road in the middle of the night, and it has been proven that this automobile left the main road and then came back again. They certainly did not go into the side-road for the purpose of finding their way. Their purpose is thought to have been to drop the fugitive in a secluded spot. Chief Mains, moreover, has refused to discontinue the name of the man who gave him the information as to the whereabouts of Moir for reasons which are not yet apparent, and the name will probably never be known.

All those facts point to the theory that Moir was betrayed, and that it was the activity of the police which produced the result. The man who took him away must have been in communication with him in order to have picked him up with the intention of taking him across the border, and when the situation became so unpleasant and suspicion pointed his way he weakened and told the story to the police. If the facts of the capture are ever made public it will probably be seen that the auto story and the theory as to Moir being betrayed and regarding the work of the provincial police in locating the autoist and making him tell all true.

McCullough Gave Tip.
 Chief Smith said that McCullough was the man who gave the local police the tip as to Trappell's connection with the murderer's escape. He also said that duplicate keys had been made, but refused to disclose the name of the person who gave the police the information. The chief denied that McCullough had told of a woman in the case and said that the first information he had of such a thing was when he read the Spectator last evening.

Dr. English, in speaking of the case, said that he thought that the local police acted too quickly in regard to the arrest of McCullough and Trappell, and if they had waited a short time made. He did not criticize the actions of the local officers, who were within their rights in making the arrest, but thought that if they had co-operated with the provincial authorities, better results would have been attained.

There is a feeling among some of the police officers that other too, have been helped to do so. The authorities, however, deny the report, and say that inmates have wandered away at times, but all have been located.

Who Is Responsible?
 Dr. English was told by the attendants that when Mo
