He thoroughly approves of the arrangement made between Chief Birrell and the utilities commission, by which all lights in the city will be flashed three times if a crime is committed, but points out that this will be of little use unless followed by immediate, vigorous action.

To bring this about he suggests the creation of a force of "minute-men," who would spring to the defence of the city immediately upon the signal being given. If the signal was given these men would seize their arms and rush to their appointed stations. They would then stop every motor car and other vehicle or person leaving the city by that route, and get a satisfactory explanation from them before permitting them to proceed. Committee Charged by Supreme Council With Formulation of Plan to Solve Reparations Problem Returns Report -Discounts Will Be Allowed Germany to Induce Prompt Payments—Allies Would Seize Customs and Impose New and Heavier Taxes in Case of the Germans Defaulting in Paris, Jan. 29.—The Allied supreme council today approved Mr. Flock wanted to know how long the German reparations plan drafted by its special committee last

The plan provides for the payment by Germany of 226,000,-000,000 gold marks in forty-two annual installments, on a rising scale, beginning with payments of 2,000,000,000 marks the first two years, and in addition, the payment of a 12 per cent tax on German exports.

Paris, Jan. 29.—Germany would be DUST MUST REMAIN required to pay 226,000,000,000 gold DUST MUST REMAIN marks in 42 annual installments under the plan submitted to the supreme allied ON STREETS UNTIL council today by the committee charged on Thursday with the formulation of a HORSES LEARN TO eparations plan which would meet the ivergent views of the allied leaders. The first two installments would be 2,000,000,000 marks, the next three, 3,000,000,000, and the next three, 4,000,000,000; the next three, 5,000,000. 000, and the next 31 of 6,000,000.

In addition, Germany would be quired to pay a 12 per cent tax on her exports, this tax, calculated on the basis of German exports in 1913, would total a little more than 1,500,000,000 gold marks. The plan submitted would place marks. The plan submitted would place the task of collecting the tax on the allied reparations commission.

Would Allow Discounts.

It is understood that, for the purpose of inducing Germany to pay off her reparations debt as rapidly as possible, she would be allowed discounts on her annual payments, These discounts would be fixed at 8 per cent the first two years, 6 per cent the two following, and 5 per cent the remaining 38 years. As a guarantee against Germany defaulting in her payments, the committee recommended that in such an event German customs might be seized and new or increased taxes be imposed without prejudice to any measure the Allies might take if this plan proved inadequate. Finally, Germany would be forbidden to contract any foreign loan without permission from the reparations commission.

belief that the committee's report ald prove satisfactory, and that it ald be quickly accepted by the council.

Satisfies All Viewpoints.

While this solution of the knotty reparations problem did not appear to arouse enthusiasm here today, it at least satisfied French opinion. The text of the agreement was completed too late to permit of an extended analysis, but Paris newspapers were generally agreed that it satisfied all viewpoints without sacrificing the desires of any nation.

After finishing consideration of the reparations question, the council planned to consider the disarmament problem and then consider how assistance might be given the Austrian republic. The question of German coal deliveries will be confided to the reparations commission under present arrangements. Methods to be followed in the execution of the plan submitted to the council today will be decided upon by the commission of experts appointed at Brussels, which will resume its task shortly. It will also settle different questions raised by German delegates at a meeting between the Allies and Germans soon. It is understood this conference will not be held at Geneva, but at London, after the Allied-Turkish-Greek conference, which is scheduled to begin on February 21.

GREEKS ANXIOUS TO HAVE THEIR STATUS DECIDED BY ALLIES

Athens, Jan. 29.—The attitude of the supreme council in Paris regarding the Greek and Turkish question continues to occupy the attention of the government, the press and political circles to the exclusion of almost every other subject of news to the exclusion of almost every other subject of news.

That the country's status will hang in the balance for another month has created disappointment and apprehension, although some of the royalist newspapers assert that they see a hopeful sign in the attitude of the Allies.

hopeful sign in the attitude of the Allies.

M. Stratos, leader of the National Conservative party, points out that the communication of the allied representatives to the Greek Government does not refer to Greece as an ally, but merely invites Greece and Turkey to send delegates to London. The cabine has been holding meetings nightly, but no decision has yet been reached regarding the sending of delegates to the London conference. The opposition and independent newspapers declare that the only man capable of handling the delicate situation is former Premier Venizelos. The Patris calls upon the National Assembly, which is to meet on Monday, to name Venizelos as Greece's representative.

This newspaper takes a grave view of the situation. It says it is the duty of all Greeks to make every sacrifice in the interest of their country. It declares that, if it is necessary, King Constantine should relinquish the throne in favor of Crown Prince George, in order to save the situation, and that it is his duty to make that sacrifice.

"If the flushers and the watering carts are put into use to lay the dust on the pavements the water immediately forms into a thin coat of ice over the whole surface and makes it impossible for horses to get along," he explained. "As long as the temperature is below freezing point it is useless to put water on the pavements. What we need is a light fall of snow. That will effectually blanket the dust and yet not make traffic dangerous."

That will effectually blanket the dust and yet not make traffic dangerous."

The horses would not be the only ones inconvenienced by the slippery pavements. Automobiles would skid very easily as well. The city is not held responsible for accidents on slippery pavements when their condition is due to the weather, but it is very likely that it would be liable if it deliberately covered the streets with ice, in Mr. Mc-Nab's opinion.

He said an attempt would be made to reduce the dust nuisance to some extent by use of the sweepers.

Destruction of Birds.

The wholesale and wanton destruction of birds and property was frowned upon. There was no military training, but the boys were taught that there was only one person in charge, and that if they did not like his control they could go. The training helped the boy in self-reliance and gave him knowledge that was useful in after life. Two units had been formed amongst the boys at the "Y" and indoor ranges were being installed there. No ammunition was allowed to be taken from the range. The guns used were 22-calibre, and the cartridges 22-short.

CAMPBELL MAY BE GENERAL MANAGER

Windsor, Jan. 28.-A well-defined local rumor is to the effect that Wallace R. Campbell, secretary and assist-ant general manager of the Ford Motor Company of Camada, Limited, is to be appointed treasurer of the Ford Motor Company of Detroit, succeeding F. L. Klingensmith, who recently resigned. No confirmation of the rumor was ob-tainable. tainable.

Mr. Campbell, a lifelong resident of Windsor, has been connected with the local plant practically since its incep-tion.

It was rumored a few days ago that the post left vacant by the resigna-tion of Mr. Klingensmith would be filled by Gordon M. McGregor, vice-president and general manager of the Canadian company, but it is under-stood that this has been denied.

MERCHANTS COMPLAIN SEWER ON DUNDAS ST.

Smaliness of Main Generally Considered Cause of Trouble.

Numerous complaints are frequent by storekeepers on Dundas street, west of Richmond street, about difficulty with Richmond street, about difficulty with their sanitary equipment, stoppages of the outflow sewers, causing almost constant annoyance and expense. The fact that the main sanitary sewer is too small is generally considered as the cause of the trouble, but in some cases lowering and enlargement of basements which has placed the connecting sewers on too has placed the connecting sewers on too straight a level to permit of clearance by the force of its fall is blamed for the trouble.

and enlargement of basements which has placed the connecting sewers on too straight a level to permit of clearance by the force of its fall is blamed for the trouble.

Answering a question on the matter, Assistant General Manager A. O. Hunt of the public utilities commission, expressed the opinion that the real cause of the trouble which is felt practically the whole length of Dundas street in greater or lesser degree is the smallness of the main sewer. The backing up of the sewerage gives trouble even at the utilities building especially during storms when a sudden rush of water is added to the regular amount of sewerage carried by the main.

The difflucity at the Utilities Building is to a large extent, however, overcome by a force pump installed in connection with the sanitary equipment of the building. The pump is operated by a half-horsepower motor, which works automatically. The sewage of the building is conveyed to a septic tank, from which it is pumped to the sewer, a foat in the tank controlling the motor by which the pump is operated. The maintenance cost, said Mr. Hunt, is very low, somewhere around $20 or $20 a year. The installation is, however, somewhat expensive, and this has had its effect in preventing a general adoption of the system. There are only a few similar outfits in the city.

RADIAL INQUIRY NEARING AN END

Amos Is Probably Last Witness To Be Called.

witness, unless Mr. McKay, counsel for the hydro commission, wished to call someone else.

Mr. Fairlie gave evidence this aftermoon. He said he would not change the estimates of the hydro commission which were made in 1919, except that he would add 21 per cent. If the estimates had been made in 1920, instead of in 1913, this amount would have been added, he said. The cost of the radial rallways entering Toronto was estimated at over $10,000,000, the total distance of the east and west entrances in this city being 13.45 miles. Commissioner Mitchell pointed out that the eastern section extended out of the city, but as the city was growing rapidly, he thought it fair to include it all in the city, where the actual mileage at present is 11.3.

The cost to enter Toronto from the East was estimated at $4,132,212 and from the west at $5,582,242. The right-of-way in the east was to cost about $2,000,000 and in the west $643,000.

Jumping from a M. C. Reporting the escapade at West Lorne, the sectionmen were ordered to search the track and bring in the remains. Village Constable Ludy assisted in the search, but not a shred of the man was anywhere in sight. Later he turned up at Rodney and excused his sudden change of mind to a fit of homesickness.

TORONTO, Jan. 28.—Opposition to suggestion of the special committee of the Legislature appointed to report upon hydro-electric rates that an impost of $2 per horsepower per annum for hydro-Electric Power Commission was voiced this afternoon at a meeting of the Ontario Municipal Utilities Association.

R. T. Jeffrey of the Ontario Hydro-Electric system; J. E. Phelps, manager of the Sarnia hydro-electric system, and E. V. Buchanan, manager of the public utilities, London, Ontario, spoke in condemnation of the proposal. It was contended that if the suggestions made in the special committee report were acted upon it would mean that a comparatively small number of systems would be heavily penalized for the benefit of others. It was pointed out that it would mean a loss to the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission and to co-operating municipalities which have long-term contracts with consumers, as these contracts could not be broken, though the cost

M'KENNA CRITICISES LLOYD GEORGE POLICY

Says Proposed Deflation Scheme Would Lead To Disaster.

LONDON, Jan. 28.— Reginald McKenna, former financial secretary of the treasury, presiding at a general meeing of the London Joint City and Midland Bank, Limited, of which he is director and chairman, said the Government's proposed deflation policy, involving dear money and rigid restriction of credit was impracticable.

Permanent money deflation, said Mr.
McKenna, could be accomplished by a reduction of purchasing power which would necessitate a decrease in the amount of the great war loans outstanding; curtailment of war loans in turn would be contingent upon paying a part of the national debt. This payment, he added, could not be made by additional taxation but by economizing expenditures. expenditures.

Discussing the Government deflation plan, the former secretary said:
"Any attempt at deflation of this kind would only end in the strangulation of business and in widespread unamplement." king would only end in the stranguation of business and in widespread unemployment. Any premature attempt at monetary defiation by methods that do not touch the causes which produced inflation must lead to disaster."

The kind of deflation to be aimed at, continued the chairman, should be effected by increasing the amount of commodities available for purchasing power. No real commercial prosperity, however, could be seen until the European market was restored, and the economic restoration of Europe should be Britain's first concern.

Once the European Governments accept the peace conditions, declared Mr.
McKenna, "they will be able to bring their expenditures down to the limits prescribed by their revenues, issue of paper currency will cease, exchanges will become stable, confidence will revive and full employment will follow, after which will come Britain's national prosperity."

PREMIERS CONFER

Meighen, Drury and Norris To Discuss Lake of Woods.

[Special To The Advertiser.] OTTAWA, Jan. 28.—A conference will be held here on Monday between Premiers Meighen, Drury and Norris, with regard to the important question of the Lake of the Woods levels, a question which has once more been brought to the fore, owing to the recent concession on White Dog Rapids, agreed upon between Premier Drury and the Backus interests.

White Dog Rapids development existing power plants in Manitoba may be seriously endangered. The federal authorities are of like mind on the general question of the lake leveis, and insist that they must be controlled.

The controlling point is the dam at Kenora, which is now owned by the Backus interests. It has been stated that the latter are willing to dispose of it to the Ontario Government for a sum in excess of a million dollars, though they paid for it only a fraction of that amount. Should the ntario Government own this dam protection of other interests would be pretty well guaranteed. Otherwise, they would be in continual jeopardy.

The question is also an international one, and it is conceivable that the whole question of the Lake of the Woods levels from the international viewpoint may be reopened.

TO MAKE PEACE

Roger Sweetman Disagrees

Resigns.

DUBLIN, Jan. 25.—The announced resignation of Roger N. Sweetman from the "Irish Repullican Parliament," owing to what he termed a radical disagreement with the majority of his fellow members on vital matters of policy, is creating a hig svir in Dublin.

A prominent Sinn Fein leader today told the Associated Press that the resignation of Sweetman meant the final quashing of the peace movement, in which Mr. Sweetman and Father O'Flanagan, acting president of the Sinn Fein, participated conspicuously.

It was Mr. Sweetman who proposed early in December a conference between the British labor commission visiting Ireland and the Irish Labor party for the purpose of effecting a truce in Ireland.

Another reason for the resignation of Mr. Sweetman was given in a statement from another source today. This was to the effect that there was a meeting recently of the Dail Eireann—the first since Eamonn de Valera's return to Ireland—at which a vote was taken on the question of peace or a continuance of the struggle. It was stated that Mr. Sweetman was the only one present who demanded peace, the others voting to keep up the fight.

THE OTHER TWO VITAMINS AND A CORRECTION.

Last week I described briefly the vitamin that prevents scurvy, present particularly in cabbage, lemon juice, turnip (swede) and orange juice. (By the way, the table printed last week was correct in all but one particular. The printer—always blame the printer when anything goes wrong—made lemon juice rank as sixty-six (66), and orange juice as only three (3). The lemon juice figure is quite correct, but the orange juice figure should have been thirty-three (33) instead of only three (3). In other words, orange juice is, bulk for bulk, about one-half as efficient as lemon juice. But it is a good deal easier to take two teaspoonfuls of orange juice than one of lemon!)

one of lemon!)
IN FRESH VEGETABLES. IN FRESH VEGETABLES.

This anti-scurvy vitamin, you will remember, is called "water-soluble C." for lack of a better name. It is found chiefly in fresh, raw vegetables and fruits, generally. It is more or less destroyed or greatly lessened in amount by cooking, drying, preserving, canning, storage. One curious exception is furnished by the tomato. Even canning does not destroy this vitamin in tomato, although canning means both high heat and storage also.

The other two vitamins are not sensitive to heat or drying or storage. A great many people think they are, but this is due to mixing up the characteristics of that first vitamin with those of the other two. One of the latter is known as "fat-soluble A." the other as "water-soluble B."

One of the latter is known as "fatsoluble A." the other as "watersoluble B."

THE OTHER TWO VITAMINS.
That first one, "fat-soluble A." is so called because it is particularly to be found in connection with fats and is supposed to be dissolved in them. It is not by any means a necessary part of the fat, however;
and many fats, and vegetable oils have very little of it.

"FAT-SOLUBLE A" EVERYWHERE.

Get this point clearly. "Fat-soluble
A" occurs in almost all foods and it is not hurt by drying or heating or storage. But although it is so widely present, it is present in many foods to so small an extent that if the diet is confined to those foods alone, the body that is fed on them suffers. When this vitamin is really absent from the diet, growth and repair stop, a horrible disease of the eye follows, and death finally ends the scene. But in the human race things seldom go so far as that, for the reason given above—the human diet almost always has some of the fat-soluble A; enough to prevent very definite and clear-cut disease; but often not enough to prevent troubles less spectacular, but in the long run just as bad perhaps. Some of these are stunting of the growth of children, rickets, weakness of the eyes, poor teeth perhaps, and lack of reserve force. People short of "fat-soluble A" may get along of children, rickets, weakness of the eyes, poor teeth perhaps, and lack of reserve force. People short of "fat-soluble A" may get along well enough in a quiet routine, but any extra strain, which a thorough-ly sound person could meet ade-quately, may to them prove disas-trous.

quately, may to them prove disastrous.

FOODS THAT YIELD THE GROWTH VITAMIN.

This "fat-soluble A" has so much effect on the growth of young infants that it has been called the "growth determinant." There are other things that have to do with growth besides "fat-soluble A," but nevertheless it is a pretty good thing to feed to growing children if you want to be sure they will grow as fast and well as they are capable of. We can't make children or animals grow, but we can prevent them from growing. We must be sure then in feeding a child that we are not feeding it food that is plentiful enough, but yet lacking in this necessary growth substance.

THE OTHER TWO VITAMINS.

Chief amongst the foods containing this vitamin are butter, egg yolk, liver, leafy vegetables. Cod liver oil seems to owe its chief value in rickets to this vitamin—the liver of the cod, like livers in general.

liver oil seems to owe its chief value in rickets to this vitamin—the liver of the cod, like livers in general, having a good deal of it.

Milk contains this vitamin also—that is, whole milk, still containing the butter fat. But, of course, the butter fat in milk forms only 3 or 4 per cent of the milk, while the butter fat in butter forms about 80 per cent of the butter, so that in butter it is more concentrated. Cheese contains this vitamin, because it contains butter fat.

"FAT-SOLUBLE A" IN ORANGE JUICE AND TOMATOES.

Orange juice has this growth vitamin in it to the extent that 12 teaspoons of orange juice equal in vitamin in it to the extent that 12 teaspoons of orange juice equal in vitamin a pint of milk. Children deprived of butter fat for any reason grow well if orange juice to the extent of 12 teaspoonfuls a day is supplied to them. Tomatoes are also an excellent source of "fat-soluble and excellent source of "fat-soluble and excellent source of a well an excellent source of "fat-soluble A." and canned tomatoes do as well as fresh.

Body fat as distinguished from liver fat, butter fat, egg yolk fat, contains relatively little of this vitamin, so that oleomargarine composed entirely of body fats (lard, beef-fat, mutton-fat, etc.) and veg-etable oils is likely to be very short of it, and to this extent is really not a good substitute for butter.

Of course, if this vitamin is supplied in the diet from orange juice, tomatoes, eggs or the other things mentioned, the lack of it in one article of food, such as oleo would make little or no difference.

THE THIRD VITAMIN.

There is one more vitamin that

There is one more vitamin that we know about fairly definitely, "water-soluble B." This is the first one discovered and is still perhaps the best known. It is like "fat-soluble A" in being widely distributed in all kinds of natural foods and in the fact that it is not easily harmed by heat, drying, preserving, storage, etc. Moreover it goes "fatharmed by heat, drying, preserving, storage, etc. Moreover, it goes "fat-soluble A" one better, in that it is not only present in most natural foods, but present in plentiful amounts in them, as "fat-soluble A" is not always. Then how does the diet come to lack this widespread, heat-proof, abundant vitamin? Because although present in almost all near-proof, abundant vitamin? Be-cause although present in almost all natural foods, it is present in that part of the food which aestheticism and an overweening desire to have things look nice drives us to discard.

and an overweening desire to have things look nice drives us to discard. Thus, the peal of potatoes, the brown covering of rice grains, the part of the wheat grain that is rejected in the mills in making the very fine white bolled flour that people think makes such a nice-looking loaf are just the parts which are likely to contain this very important substance.

DIMINISHES VALUE.

Over one-fourth of the wheat grain is rejected in making the very fine white flour, and this loss of one-fourth not only makes the rest of it cost more, but also diminishes its real value very considerably indeed. Loss of this vitamin is part of the cost of over refinement of food, due to misplaced aesthetics on the housekeepers' part and to the competition amongst food-manufacturers who are constantly striving to refine their products more than some competitor does. Thus the refiner gets a "talking point" for his product, a higher price, and a greater "waste," which can be sold as a by-product. "All is not gold that glitters" applies to food as well as to stocks and bonds!

A CURIOUS DISCOVERY.

This vitamin was discovered in a very curious way. In the East Indies, China, Japan, a curious disease beri-beri, has been known for many years. It was found chiefly among the poor natives, although seldom amongst the white people living in the same places. Speculations were rife as to its cause—dirt, infection, constitution, etc., were suggested. Someone noticed finally that it was chiefly prevalent amongst those rice-caters who had little or no other food than rice. Also someone noticed that it had become much more prevalent since "advanced" methods of milling the rice had been introduced from Europe, Finally it was clear that the disease came from a lack in the dlet—and this lack was finally traced to the fact that the rice grains, which are naturally rather a dull color, were "polished" in the milling process to make them white and pearly and attractive to the huge rather a dull color, were "polished" in the milling process to make them white and pearly and attractive to the buyer.

REMOVED THE COATING.

But also this "polishing" removed a delicate layer or coating natural to the rice grain, and this fine layer, it was at last ferreted out, contained the vitamin. Persons with beri-beri who were fed not only the polished rice, but also the fine stuff which had been polished off in the mill. recovered as if by a miracle. Animals and pigeons experimentally fed with polished rice until they were nearly dead would likewise recover almost completely in 24 hours if given some of this same fine powdery stuff from the rice mill—the rejected "polishings" from the rice suffer from beri-beri like the natives? Simply because they did not live on the rice exclusively, as did the natives. The whites got no more vitamins from the polished rice than did the natives, but they did get them from other parts of the varied diets they used, while the native, having nothing but rice, had to get his from rice or not at all.

FOODS CONTAINING "WATER-SOLUBLE B."

In general, this vitamin is found in all foods, and vegetables that are not overrefined, hence in whole wheat flour, vellow corn meal, in butter, eggs, liver, leafy vegetables: in potatoes with their skins on (if you eat the skins), and so on.

Dr. Grenfell told his people in Labrador, where beri-beri has appeared with the use of boiled wheat flour, that they should peel their potatoes and eat the peels, throwing away the rest of the potato, if they must throw away something!

VITAMINS ARE VEGETABLE

VITAMINS ARE VEGETABLE PRODUCTS. PRODUCTS.

It seems that no animal can manufacture vitamins. This is really rather obvious if you remember that they must come to us in the food—we can't make them ourselves. that they must come to us in the food—we can't make them ourselves. Neither can any other animal make them—only plants. Then why say that they can be found in butter, cod liver oil, eggs. liver and such animal products? Because they can be found there—but only when the animal furnishing the butter or eggs or liver, etc. had them in its own diet. A cow fed exclusively on brewery mash, for instance, has no vitamins in its milk. Cows on pasture have a good deal—and so it goes.

What's In a Book? By Kathleen K. Bowker.

If "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse" is the only book by Blasco Ibanez that you have read, you will be eager to get his latest novel, "The Enemies of Women" (J. M. Dent % Sons.) But if the only one of his works that has come your way has been "The Shadow of the Cathedral," most probably you will be quite willing to let the "Enemies" remain unknown to you.

ably you will be quite willing to let the "Enemies" remain unknown to you.

Even if you think that you really want to read it, you may have changed your mind before you get through the first hundred and fifty pages. But if you pass that gateway you will go on to the end of the full 547.

Michael Fedor Lubimoff took what he wanted—and paid for it right royally, so far as money went. His experience had been that money went to the Ends of the Earth, and tied itself in bows of the Earth, and tied itself in bows there—large bows, with flowing ends! The story of his life reads like the Dreams that the Count of Monte Cristo had, after a particularly long and successful spell of Hasheesh Smoking.

Alicia, Duchess de Delille, was a strong believer in the Equal Moral Standard for Men and Women—especially Women—with rather superior rights for the latter. And she lived up—or down—to this creed, all through her eventful and varied life. Naturally these two (distant relatives, by the way), failed to get on. There was hardly enough room for both of them in their own particular world.

When War stripped the Prince of his Russian Possessions (the capital P. popped itself there naturally), he sold his Yacht and his Parisian Palace, bid good-bye to his Harem, and retired haughtily to Villa Sirena, his Palace beside the sea, at Monte Carlo, trying to keep the Wolf away from the Rosegarden, with a palitry sixty thousand a year or so. Not willing to accept the limitations that the World might set around him, he decided to impose his own. So he took four other War-fugitives to live with him; giving them the freedom of all that he still possessed in his ruined state, stipulating only that they should abjure "Woman."

"Woman," as we understand the word," he explains, "is the artificial product of civilzation which, somewhat like hothouse flowers, have reached their maturity with a complex perverse beauty. Only in the large cities that have come to be decadent because they have reached their limits, do you find "Woman."

After forty years of Experience, Love—for Love came to these two in the end—purges them of much of the dross, and they emerge, very real people, not easily to be forgotten; the woman more human than the man. And yet——Mary Lewis, who flashes through the pages here and there nothing more than a belted and uniformed Spirit of Universal Love and Service—leaves an impression as lasting and as vivid as either of the two that occupy the greater part of these unusual pages.

Unusual they are—less even for the matter of the story, than for the manner of it. Ibanez plunges through great roaring waves of words, and where an ordinary writer would be lost in the surf, you find him suddenly, clear of the breakers, upborne upon the bosom of the ocean—floating—floating—serene and secure on a noble surge of waters, with the sun on his face.

"The First Sir Percy" by Baroness Orczy (Hodder & Stoughton), is modeled after that prolific writer's usual Historic pattern. A lovely lad, two lurid Villains, a dignified but deceived Father,—all involved in Plots and Counterplots that revolve round a Mysterious Stranger, the "Laughing Cavaller." Commission Urges Salary Instead For Police Magis-

TORONTO, Ont., Jan. 27.—The public service commission, of which W. D. Gregory is chairman, has submitted its report to Attorney-General W. E. Raney. Fifteen recommendations are made in the report. It is urged that police magistrates' work be performed wholly by men specially qualified and devoting their whole time to it, engaging in no other business. The province should be divided into districts, the report suggests, and one or more police magistrates should be appointed to each district and have exclusive jurisdiction therein. The commission recommends that none of the present police magistrates shall have jurisdiction in any of the districts so created, unless appointed therefor or requested to act therein by the district magistrate or attorney-general.

To Abolish Fees.

The commissioners suggest that the system of payment of police magistrates by fees be abolished and that the taking of information, issuing of summonses and warrants, and other proceedings prior to trial, be conducted by a magistrate other than the one who tries the case.

It is recommended that fines imposed (other than those for breaches of municipal bylaws; for breaches of the O. T. A., where the municipality is the prosecutor; and fines payable to the Dominion Government), together with police magistrates should be fixed by the Government, the commissioners recommend, and the municipalities and the Government to the content of the content of the province. It is finally urged in the report that the title "police magistrate" be changed to "provincial magistrate" or "district nagistrate."

Brantford, Jan. 28.—The county fathers spent all day discussing educational matters. "There is not a teacher, a leader or a statesman, who does not know that if the world would walk in the way of Christ it would be the way of justice and good will that God intended it to be."—Rev. Wm. T. Manning, D.D., Trinity Episcopal Church, New York.

That joyous satirist and eminent literati, Gilbert K. Chesterton, who lately began a lecture tour in America, once diagnosed the world's moral state by saying: "Christianity has not failed, it has been found difficult and laid aside." Some people no doubt regard the Decalogue, amplified and applied by the Redeemer, as inconvenient, but no one has successfully impeached either the codes of Sinai or of the Mount of the Beautitudes. The Christian way may look difficult, but it will prove easier than the other before the end. In the Sermon on the Mount. Jesus laid down the principles which He lived as well as taught. A COURSE IN POLITICS.

Principal Currie's proposal of a university course in politics is what might be expected from the new head of McGill. He is a practical man of the world, and one whom the great war has caused to think deeply on its causes, remote and near.

In the universities, students are trained in history, general, constitutional, political, social and economic. But the courses, except in constitutional history, are commonly too general for much time to be spent on the purely political part. though someone has defined history as "past politics"; and as for the philosophy or science of politics, that gets no attention at all except in the few institutions where courses in Government are given.

There are three phases of Politics which should be covered in a course on the subject. First, political theory. almost a branch of Philosophy as Aristotle made it: the history of political theories should be taken up. The Best Cough Syrup

Here's an easy way to save $2, and yet have the best cough remedy you ever tried.

You've probably heard of this well-

You've probably heard of this well-known plan of making cough syrup at home. But have you ever used it? When you do, you will understand why thousands of families, the world over, feel that they could hardly keep house without it. It's simple and cheap, but the way it takes hold of a cough will quickly earn it a permanent place in your home.

Into a 16-oz, bottle, pour 2½ ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar syrup to fill up the bottle. Or, if desired, use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup instead of sugar sugar syrup to fill up the bottle. Or, if desired, use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup instead of sugar syrup. Either way, it tastes good, never spoils, and gives you 16 ounces of better cough remedy than you could buy ready-made for $2.50.

It is really wonderful how quickly this home-made remedy conquers a cough—usually in 24 hours or less. It seems to penetrate through every air passage, loosens a dry, hoarse or tight cough, lifts the phlegm, heals the membranes, and gives almost immediate relief. Splendid for throat tickle, hoarseness, croup, bronchitis and bronchial asthma.

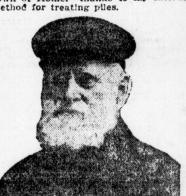

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and has been used for generations for throat and chest ailments. To avoid disampointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The people of that day and generation paid for their Diamond Flour in pounds, shillings and pence. Port Stanley was a harbor to which hundreds of sailing vessels came for cargoes of wheat, while miles of farmer's wagons stretched over the "old plank road" waiting to unload their grain.

The first Hunt mill was built near Port Stanley in the early fifties. Its success quickly lead to the erection of the first London mill in 1854. Today's 1,200-barrel-a-day mill is the latest development in the steadily increasing demand for Diamond Flour.

Sixty-six years of flour milling service in On-tario have firmly established the high quality of Diamond Flour in the favor of flour users everywhere.

Diamond Flour is becoming known as a household word in Greece, Spain, the British Isles, but, of course, it will always be best known as the favorite flour of Ontario.

Skated the fast-going Ingersoll Crew into aimless wanderers.
Cline, Petrie and Waite were best for the visitors.
Roy McKay made a big difference on the local attack and back-checked leisurely, but efficiently. Campbell, a new man from the Manufacturers', looks good enough for a regular sub. Art Gilles, with strained chest muscles, hung around the defence last night, and that should be a regular hangout for him

GROUP STANDING.

London Alerts beat Ingersoll last night in the first cash of the two teams in the local group 2-1, in the fastest game yet seen here.

One little minute full of seconds meant everything to the locals last night, in the third period around about the 12th minute of play, with the visitors on the joyous end of a 1-0 score, Arthurs got a rebound

1—0 score, Arthurs got a rebound past Holland, tieing the score, and before the 13th minute clicked off Loughead had beaten the visiting goal keeper on a rush from centre with the winning counter.

Both teams played the full 60 minutes at top speed, with a fairly even toss all the way through. Ingersoll played more combination and produced better stick-handling as a team, but it didn't get them anywhere against the individual attack of the Londoners, and some of the first good back-checking they've displayed.

Pienty of Fists.

In the first period several fist fights and a steady procession to the penalty box slowed up the game, and had Referee McCreath in wrong with the crowd. Both teams displayed a real assortment of nasty checks, trips and butt-ends, with Mason, a visiting wing, on the lookout for trouble. It was an eminently successful search for Mister Mason. Both Hynds and Holland were busy men in this session, but cleared busy men in this session, but cleared everything.

The second was a replica of the first period, without the mixes. Richardson beat Hynds in eleven minutes with a lucky shove-in of a rebound. The third period went all to the locals, who rained shot after shot on Holland and around him. They made the boards behind the visiting goal sound like a band practice, with only the big drummer present and

It is doubtful if Haines, who was born in Clayton, Ohio, on July 22, 1893, ever worked in a championship game for the Tigers, though they owned him for a couple of seasons. In July of 1918 he appeared very 'Priefly in the league he now is in, pitching 4 2-3 innings of a game against Boston on the 22nd of the month. The Braves knocked Pete Schneider out, and Jesse Jacob finished the game for him, being located for five hits and one run. In his one time at bat he singled against Arthur Nehf.

Haines won his promotion to the National later by his work for Kansas City in 1919. Last season he figured in more contests than any of his contemporaries, 47. Of his 13 victories, 4 were shut-outs. Detroit and Cincinnati, one after the other, passed up a good prospect when he was canned.

DANGER FROM PARIS MORALISTS

Application Made To Police To Close Amusements At Midnight.

PROTEST IS AROUSED

Proprietors Organize To Combat Attack and Ask Police Supervision.

PARIS, Jan. 28.-Mantmartre's glorious traditions are threatened, thanks to the more or less earnest efforts of professing French moralists, whose of Montmartre amusement at midnight. As was naturally expected, there has been a long wail of protest, not only from the idle rich, who couldn't think of going to bed before 4 a.m., but also from the proprietors, who see inevitable loss of good American dollars—with the exchange fluctuating weekly between fifteen and seventeen francs restrictions prevented anything that resembled public amusement. There'll be the usual outcropping of clandestine "night clubs," but these do not keep up the spirit of gayety that made Paris famous, and besides none but a millionaire could stand the expense of frequenting surreptitious rendezvous more than one night a week.

Moreover, the closing of Montmartre's hospitality at such an inconsiderate hour has aroused the opposition of another class—the always amusing midinettes, who by their ability to entertain the customers of the Montmartre "boites" are able to demand a share in the profit and thereby piece out a more or less precarious existence.

Hard For Midinettes.

One investigator claims that fifty per cent of the mademoiselles who nightly fox-trot in between drinks (at not less than five francs per glass of "per cent" beer) manage to snatch a few hours' sleep before resuming duty as salesgirls in Paris shops or as seamstresses in some fifth floor workshop. Unless prices undergo a considerable slump, their weekly budget is going to show a deficit of at least 100 francs—for all of which the well-meaning moralists are to blame.

The chief objection to night life on "The Hill" seems to lie in the fact that Montmartre has attracted a dangerous element, constant raids by the police resulting in the arrest of numgerous element, constant raids by the police resulting in the arrest of numerous much wanted criminals. The proprietors have now formed a protective organization to combat the new morality campaign and the proper proprietors have not become a protective organization to combat the new morality campaign and the proper products the property of the pro new morality campaign and are un-derstood to have proposed that the new morality campaign and are understood to have proposed that the police install an agent in each "night palace," but, "for heaven's sake, don't make us give up the prospect of relieving the willing tourist of his surplus francs!" Their proposal is not without its commendable points, for a recent survey of subscriptions to the new National 6 per cent loan showed that Montmartre led many richer colonies in the total of its assistance of the

BRAZIL BRINGS HOME HER IMPERIAL DEAD

Bodies of Dom Pedro II. and Empress Leave Lisbon.

LISBON, Jan. 27.-While the flags on all the ships in the harbor flew at half staff and guns boomed out a royal salute, the bodies of Dom Pedro II., last Emperor of the Brazils, and his Empress were taken from the Pantheon of Portuguese kings and placed on the Brazilian battleship Sao Paulo, which will take the bodies back to the ountry over which they once ruled. Great throngs turned out to see the ceremonial as the coffins, covered with wreaths, were taken through the troop-lined streets. Among those who sent wreaths or were present at the service in the Church of St. Vincent Without-the-Walls here were the president of the Portuguese Republic, the one-time King Manuel, who is a great grand-nephew of Dom Pedro, and the one-time Queen Amelie. The Comte d'Eu, Dom Pedro's son-in-law, and his son, Prince Pedro of Braganza, will accompany the bodies to Brazil.

Dom Pedro, who was deposed in 1889, died in Paris in 1891. His body was brought here, where it has remained ever since. But recently Brazil abolished the law of banishment against the one-time imperial family, which made it possible for the bodies to be taken to their native land.

Lavigne sells a great many papers and what is more, some of his customers are persons of prominence, who stop to shake hands, to chat a while, and to call him, not "Father," but "Friend."

THE WINNIPEG KIDDIES COMING

TO THE GRAND TWO DAYS, FEB. The fastest and funniest juvenile randeville show in the world is booked for the Grand Opera House on Friday and Saturday, Feb. 4 and 5, with Saturday artinee at 2:15 p.m.

Canadians who doubt that their own country can produce the best stage talent on the globe are due for a big surprise when they see the new revue being presented by The Original Winnipeg Kiddles, who have smashed records both in Canada and the United States.

The performance given by these kiddles is a riot of color and comedy, of melody and mirth. You forget all about them being kids after the first five minutes, and you settle down to enjoy a show that is on a par with big New York successes.

These Kiddles began their stage career when about seven years old. Their aim was to raise funds for patriotic purposes. Crude as they were then in the histrionic art, their performance was none the less enjoyable—but only they like sat up and took notice. Speedily the troupe developed in ability and numbers. Governmental officials took cognizance of them. Even Washington utilized the Kiddles. And today they stand out preminently as the world's greatest juvenile organization. "They are better than the original Pollards," wrote a New York critic. As for their costume and stage effects—few productions equal them.

Mail orders now being filled. The seat sale for the London engagement opens.

BIG DOUBLE COMEDY BILL AT THE GFAND WEEK OF FEBRUARY 7. The first of the five-reel feature comedies in which Roscoe Arbuckle, the famous heavyweight star, is to appear, possibilities, there is a message that cannot help but find a responsive chord is "The Life of the Party" adapted "The Life of the Party." adapted from Irvin S. possibilities, there is a message that cannot help but find a responsive chord in the hearts of theatre-goers. The same qualities that made the novel read and enjoyed by millions will make the photo-play stand long as a drawing attraction. The scene of the play is laid in the Ozark Mountains where our so-called civilization has not yet spread its refining but enervating influences. A father resolves to blot out as much as possible the sin of his artist son, leaves his life of ease and elegance to come among these people. Among the hills and in the woods, he can drop the carping practicalities of life and can listen to the wind, nature's only voice, as it sings to him its song of ideals, of beauty and of strength. Its message he transmits to the people about him. He does not preach the gospel, of good, but acts its commandments. As a result he brings peace where there was unrest, The story reveals the adventures and love affairs of an affable young lawyer, Algernon Leary, in his efforts to break the Milk Trust. Leary's powerful adversaries attempt to ruin his reputation by sending a notorious "vamp" to blackmail him, but he not only succeeds in withstanding her charms, but beats out the corporation's candidate for mayor at the polls. The picture is declared to be rich in laughs, one of the funniest situations being when Leary attends a masquerade party attred as a child of three and, through a misunderstanding, is chased all over town by indignant citizens and policemen.

not preach the gospel of good, but acts its commandments. As a result he brings peace where there was unrest, forgiveness where there was a spirit of revenge, love where there was hate. Throughout this play there is no effort at sermonizing, yet as in a crystal it shows the things that are really big and worth while. It gives the lesson that fundamental principles of rights and ideals that sometimes seem to another Cecil M. Hepworth, whose film version of W. A. Darlington's clever novel, "Alf's Button," is causing so much comment just now, is certainly to be congratulated upon his work. It is without a shadow of a doubt the cleverest and most consistent piece of film comedy ever presented. Briefly, I comedy ever presented. without a shadow of a doubt the cleverest and most consistent piece of film comedy ever presented. Briefly, the story is that Alf 'Iggins has been issued with an army tunic having a button on it made from Aladdin's lamp. Every rub of that button, inadvertent or otherwise, causes the slave of the button to appear to do whatsoever his master may wish. His conception of the likings of a coster Tommy are amusing in the extreme, as he varies his scenes from a box at a West End presentation of "Hamlet" to the centre of a Turkish harem with its attendant bevy of beauties.

The photography is splendid, the settings are beautiful as well as elaborate and the acting of the stars is of the high standard common to English artistes. The management of the Grand Theatre, where this film is showing week of February 7 can, therefore, feel assured that they have booked a win-and Wednesday next weem.

According to advance reports, this drama is very different from the usual romantic comedy. It does not follow the conventional lines of the persecuted heroine, the villain and the hero. Nancy Flavelle (Constance Talmadge), madcap society girl, is always falling in and out of love, and we see her about to marry one man, when at the very altar, in order to escape a distasteful marriage, she declares she is already married to another. But that's "dangerous business," when the man who was supposed to be her husband turned up. Nancy found that he was going to carry the bluff through, and he did. Wait till you see it—you can never tell what delightful incident will happen next.

The big National Motor Show of Western Ontario, to be held in London from January 31 to February 5, is going to create more interest than the world's series. The "standing room only" sign will be out every night. The public is going to feast its eyes to the uttermost on the finest collection of automobiles in the world—and many of them at cut prices. This is the advice of Mr. T. C. Kirby, the manager of the big London Motor Show. "The fact that I predict a big automobile show attendance is based on study of present and future conditions," says the popular T. C. Kirby. "It won't be long now before a majority of the companies that are going to do any cutting at all will have announced their new prices. And those that are going cutting at all will have announced their new prices. And those that are going to stand pat will also have announced that fact. Based on present conditions, no automobile company should cut its prices; but since the public demands cuts, many have made cuts and the motor fans will have a complete line of models of every kind and price to choose from at the show."

"One G. & J. Truck, designed for light unsprung weight, and running at slower speed, will certainly do less camage than three smaller trucks, with heavier unsprung weight, running at a higher rate of speed.

"The most adaptable and economical truck to operate is one of the G. & J. capacity, a two-tonner. This has a small percentage of unsprung weight, and is well suited to all kinds of hauling. It saves time and trips by its capacity, and because of its design and construction is easy on the roads."

Supplementing the figures given by Mr. Ollier on the per capita ownership of automobiles in Canada, Great Britain and the United States, it is interesting to note the averages of other countries throughout the world. COLERIDGE'S "KUBLA KHAN." The poet, Samuel Taylor Coleridge claims to have received the inspira-tion for his poem "Kubla Khan" through a dream he had, and the circumstances attending the composition of the poem are thus related:
"In the summer of 1797, being in ill-health I retired to a lonely farmouse on the Exmoor confines of Somerset and Devonshire. In consequence of a slight indisposition, an anodyne had been prescribed from the effects of which I fell asleep in my chair at the moment that I was reading the following sentence or words of the same substance in, Purchas' Pilgrimage." Here the Khan Kubla commanded a palace to be built, and a stately garden thereunto; and thus ten miles of fertile ground were inclosed with a wall." "I continued for about three hours in a profound sleep, at least of the external senses, and it was during this period that all the lines of the poem were composed." On awakening, Coleridge, it appears, had a distinct recollection of the whole poem, and taking his pen, ink and paper, instantly and eagerly wrote down the lines of

"Kubla Khan."

When he had finished the poem, as far as we have it today, he was interrupted in a matter of business and was detained about an hour, and when he returned to his room, he found, to his no small surprise and mortification that, though he still retained some vague and dim recollection of the general purport of the vision, yet with the exception of some eight or ten scattered lines and images, all the rest had passed away like the images on the surface of a stream into which s stone had been cast.

Is this statement true? It is believed by very many good authorities that Coleridge had finished the poem as written and that there was no more of it, and that the inspiration, as he relates it, was most singular if at all true. Is it possible, if Coleridge had not been interrupted, "Kubla Khan" would have been more than a fragment of 54 lines?

Coleridge was, of all poets, a poet of temperament. It is said that with him the images rose involuntarily be-fore him like things without any sen-sation of consciousness or effort. Im-agination took so high a flight as to approach actual illusion. To the reader "Kubla Khan" is a splendid curiosity, which we know not what to make of. Other poets have followed this dream example of Coleridge, notably Shelley, Byron and Keats, seeking in all serisness to forecast the future, and even placing the truth of the di

The English are accustomed to speak of the opium eating to which Coleridge and others of his time fell victims, with moral condemnation, as if it had been a sin and not an iliness, just as in the middle ages the insane were looked upon as being "possessed." "Lubia Khan," Coleridge himself contessed, was written under the influence of an anodyne, and he must have early acquired the habit, for the poem was penned when he was 25 years old, though it was not publish until eighteen years later. He sol-emnly protested that the habit was due to the gread of the physical agony. not to any "craving after pleasurable sensations." In a note written December 23, 1804, he says: "My sole ensuality was not to be in pain."

DISARMAMENT HAS FOCUSED ATTENTION OF U.S. CONGRESS

Not long afterwards Senator Borah, the pugnacious Republican 'bitter-ender' from Idaho, who has been fighting the league at every turn intro luced a resolution directing the president to take up with the governments of Great Britain and Japan the ques-tion of disarmament with the purpose of securing an agreement to reduced their naval building program 50 per cent within a period of five years. Senator Borah said he was impelled to offer this resolution because Premier Uchida of Japan had publicly stated that "the Japanese Government could not even consent to consider a program of disarmament on account of the building program of the United States."

Representative Brooks of Illinois, Republican, also introduced in the House resolution authorizing the president to call an international convention to consider projects for the limitation and reduction of armaments. There also have been received by Congress a number of petitions from women's organizations, and peace elements begging Congress to forward this great object. It happened disarmament was thus forced upon the attention of Congress at the time the committees of the two Houses were engaged in drafting the great annual army and navy appropria-tion bills. It soon became evident that it was powerfully influencing the Congress in its treatment of these appropriations. Naturally it was argued that if there was any reasonable chance to secure limitation of armaments these expenditures might be greatly reduced. This possibility quickly engaged the interests of the ways and means committee of the House and of the finance committee of the Senate, which committees are now struggling with the problem of devising new means of taxation to meet the deficiencies resulting from the war. Naturally the military and naval committees of the Congress were drawn into consideration of the disarmament project, as it affected their own plans for army and naval re organization, which devolves upon the present Congress.

At this point it occurred to some of the congressional leaders to ascertain how the executive branch of the Government regarded the matter, for it was clear that nothing could be accomplished in the way of positive action before the change in administration un less President Wilson was agreeable.

The immediate result of the inquiries was to develop a most interesting situ-ation and to transfer the subject of disarmament from the field of interna-tional statesmanship to that of local politics. It is true that a number of Democrats were willing to support the project as one means of relief from the inancial distress of the treasury. But the majority seemed disposed to stand behind President Wilson, who in this case saw only a purpose to discredit and kill the league of nations by resorting to direct negotiations to settle

to the league.

This position of the administration soon became evident when Secretary Baker was challenged to tell Congress why he had exceeded the limits that body thought it had placed upon the numerical strength of the United States army. The war secretary endeavored to show that he had only exercised discretionary powers reposed in him, but he left it to be implied that the administration did not intend to be the administration did not intend to be left open to the charge that it had neg-lected to keep the country in a state of preparedness, such as had been made in the early days of the war by the Republican opponents of the adminis-tration. If there was to be trouble, and even war, in the near future as the states to go into the League of Nations then the army and navy should be kept in first-class condition. If the Republican Congress refused to make such provision, then the responsibility would be fairly upon it; certainly the Democrats would not help them to evade that duty.

Next came Secretary Daniels, who, in his hearings on the naval appropriation bill before the naval committee of the House, refused to countenance any reduction in the naval building program unless the United States became a party to the covenant. He said: "I profoundly believe that the United States cannot afford to take a five-year naval that the said afford to take a five-year naval holiday,' as it has been rumored Great Britain and Japan will suggest to this country." So he not only demanded the allotment of funds for the execution of the great building program of 1916, but added estimates for another threeyear naval building program totaling

That is where the matter now stands, The Congressional committees are considering and making ready to report upon the various resolutions touching the subject of disarmament and reduction of naval building programs and the diminution of the enlisted force of the army, but with little expectation that anything can be done under the present administration towards securing an international agreement, and dreading to take the risk of single-handed action in sweeping reductions of naval and military strength in the face of the Democratic purpose of holding them responsible for the future.

These committees have a mass of material before them upon which to base action so far as the army and navy are concerned at least. The army general staff has submitted figures of its needs that are staggering to the economists of Congress, while the chiefs of the great naval bureaux have been busy trying to show that Great Britain

WE have stated on several occasions that our new seven passenger "Lakewood 6-66" is a car without a legitimate competitor.

By that we mean that it very distinctly outclasses every car in its own price field.

By that we mean that it can be compared with only the finest and most expensive motor vehicles on the market.

This is a broad and sweeping statement-very important if true, and very improper if founded on anything less substantial than facts.

But we are sure of our facts and the time is at hand when you can confirm them.

Practically every reputable American motor car is now on exhibition at the automobile show.

We suggest that you visit that show and compare the "Lakewood" with any carat any price-and form your own conclusions.

So much for the facts that can be established indoors.

We next suggest that you forget entirely about standards of beauty and move to the real testing ground of mechanical fitness.

Take just one demonstration in the "Lakewood" and judge it from the standpoints of power, speed, acceleration, spring suspension and general motor efficiency.

Get the facts—actual lapsed time of the tests-and make a record on the demonstration card furnished by our Dealer.

Then take a second demonstration in any other car, at any price, and compare the results.

That is all we ask-and we make no prophecies whatever in regard to your ultimate conclusions.

In any fair, legitimate stock car competition the "Lakewood" will tell its own story -and you must be the judge.

Come, sportsmen. Let us show you the mettle of a real thoroughbred.

CLUTCH ACTION IS

"Motorists are continually remarking now smoothly their motors are running, and what a wonderful pick-up their cars have, that they never jerk in starting, and they attribute all ease of operation entirely to the motors alone. As a matter of fact it is the clutch that keeps the car from jumping when the gears are shifted and you go from a standing start to twenty or thirty miles an hour in a block or two, having shifted gears twice to reach high and an actual driving range," says T. C. Kirby, the manager of the big London Motor Show.

"There are several types of clutches—multiple disc, cone and single dry-plate.
One of the latest clutches is a single dry late locked to rotate with the flywheel by gradual pressure between two asbestos rings, thus driving the clutch shaft that carries the power of transmission. Its action is similar to that of a door check that positively closes an open door, but softly—not permitting it to slam."

Speculation Concerning Possible British or Belgian Prince Is Heard.

Paris, Jan. 28.-Hungary is to have king. He is to be a member of the Hapsburg line, but whether the deposed King Charles is to be restored or the choice should be Archduke Joseph popularly known to the Magyars as "Father" Joseph, it will require the consent of the Allies, which eventually will be accorded rather than see the Hungarians turn elsewhere for sup-port and friendship.

That seems to be the opinion of who have visited Hungary in the ew months, and although Charles con few months, and although Charles con-tends that his abdication was not legal, as he did not have the parliamentary signatures necessary, the general im-pression is that the people themselves prefer Joseph, whose long residence in French colonies and frequent visits to British cities make it more likely that he will be able to unite Allied assistance for the benefit of the growing mon-archy.

The Tharaud brothers, who have been The Tharaud brothers, who have been regaling French readers with astute prophecies regarding Hungary's political and financial prospects, declare that Charles has not the support of 10 per cent of the public, not only because he arouses Allied opposition, as well as Hapsburg opposition, but because they see in him the possibility of a movement for the eventual rebinding of see in him the possibility of a move ment for the eventual rebinding Austria and Hungary, especially Vienna decides on union with Germa and thereby gains much of her los Archduke Joseph himself was born i Hungary and served with Hungarian regiments, where his bounty to the troops won for him their unbounded troops won for him their unbounded affection, which was equalled only by their pride in his valor on the battle-field. The legitimists, however, consider Joseph as a traitor to the royal cause, alleging that he not only took the oath of fidelity to the Karolyi Republic, but his conduct during the Bela Kundictature was suspected. FIRST EUROPEAN TO HAVE AUDIENCE WITH DALAI LAMA RETURNS

Since Manning Entered in 1811, No One Has Reached Forbidden City.

CALCUTTA, Jan. 28.—The first European who has had an audience with the Dalai Lama of Tibet at Lhassa since Manning in 1811, has just returned here after two months residence in the "for-bidden land."

He is J. Fairley, a telegraph engineer in the service of the Government of India, who reports that the Tibetan Government is apparently anxious for the country to be linked up by telegraph with India, and there are also faint signs, he thinks, of a desire for industrial advance on European lines.

"A visit to Lhassa," he says, "transports one straight back to the Middle Ages. There is no sanitation or drain-age in Lhassa today, and if it were not for its low temperature, owing to the fact that it is built on a plateau 11,000 feet high, its 20,000 inhabitants would quickly die of typhoid fever.

"The audience of the Dalai Lama took place in the Norbulinga Palace, three miles outside the city. The re-ception hall was gorgeously decorated in red and gold, with a magnificent silk canopy over the throne, on which the Lama was seated in European fashion. His holiness were an Oriental yeilowbrown robe, and his hair was done in the familiar plaited fashion of the Lamas. Mr. Fairley also visited the Jo-Kang, the Buddhist cathedral, where he found a bell left behind by the Capuchin fathers in 1745, when they abandone i

When we decided to add a motor truck to our line of automobiles we spent a great deal of time and effort in deciding what truck we would handle. To begin with, we had only one thought in mind -that the truck which we would handle must be one that would stand up and give such continuous good service that every truck sold would make friends for itself and for us.

Only after a very thorough and careful investigation did we decide. We compared truck after truck. We visited factories and studied their policies. Then, with all the results of our investigation before us we found that on every point one truck stood out pre-eminent above all the others, and we lost no further time in connecting up

British Soldier-Explorer Will Try Himalayan Peak in Summer.

NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—Mt. Everest, the Himalwan peak called "the roof of the world" which Sir Francis Youngsusband, the British soldier-explorer, will attempt to climb next summer, has never yet been scaled by man. Towering above the frontiers of the hitherto forbidden land of Tibet and the remote Province of Nepal, India, another land of mystery, the difficulties in even approaching Mt. Everest have been sufficient to baffle explorers. north of the British Indian border, yet, so far as known, no European has ever approached nearer than 60 miles from its base, and few travelers have ever seen its upper slopes. The attempts which have been made to ascend some of Mt. Everest's sister peaks of the Himalayas have usually been made through Nepal because access to them through Tibet was not The approach to Mt. Everest through Tibet is said to be more accessible and present greater prospects of niccess than from the Nepal side. Sir Franc's Younghusband announced that the Tibetan Government had granted him permission to attempt the ascent of the mountain by the Tibetan route. It was Sir Francie, who as colonel commanding a British mission to the For-bidden City of Lhasa in 1902-03, opened to civilization. Mt. Everest, named for Sir George Everest, famous British surveyor-general of India, is the highest known rical altitude is 29,002 feet; its probable height is 29,141 feet. The next known highest of the Himalayan peaks are Kinchinjunga, 28,265 feet, and 7.-2, or Bride peak, whose altitude is 28,191 feet.

The intrepid Duke of the Abruzzi, who reached the top of Mt. St. Elias in Alaska (18,024 feet), and who at one time held the record of "farthest north" in Arctic exploration, tried to climb K-2 or Bride peak, in 1909, but failed because from whatever point of the compass he advanced he could find no way up to attain the summit. At 24,600 feet he and his companions were in good physical condition, although progress was slow and laborious; a thick mist warned them that to go on "would have been madness." This achievement of the Italian explorer, however, is the world's record for mountain climbing. Bride Peak is in the Karakoram Himalayas. Besides it and its two higher sister peaks, there are in the Himalayas no less than 75 peaks above 24,000 feet, 48 above 25,000 feet, 16 above 26,000 feet and five about 27,000 feet.

Mountain climbing is one of the most ancient as well as fascinating forms of adventure. Its chief dangers are avalinches, landslides, falling rocks, blizards, falling ice, falls from precipices or into crevasses, falls from ice slopes or down snow slopes.

Sir Francis' announc tention to attempt this mountain climb-ing feat recalls the exploits of two American women, Mrs. Fannie B. Workman and Miss Annie S. Peck, and their conquest of some of the highest peaks in Asia and South America.

Mrs. Workman in 1899, 1903, 1906 and 1908 made ascents in the Himalayas, including one of the Nun Kun peaks whose ummit is 23,300 feet high, or more than half a mile above the apex of that forbidding sentinel of the Alaskan silences, Mt. McKinley. Miss Peck in 1908 nego-tiated the top of Mt. Husscaran in the Peruvian Andes, a height of 21,812 feet and three years later she climbed the two peaks of the volcano Coropuna. Some of the notable mountain climbing peaks of history and the year in which the peaks of the various moun-ains were attained follow: 1744, the Titlis, the first true snow-mountain; 1786, Mt. Blanc's summit reached for first time; 1811, the Jung-frau; 1812, the Finsteraarhorn; 1813, the Zermatt Breithorn; 1820, Pike's Peak; 1884, the Wetterhorn; 1855, the Mounte Rosa; 1865, the Matterhorn; 1879, Chimborazo; 1883, the Cordillera; 1888, the Selkirks; 1897, Aconcagua; 1898, the Bo-livian Andes; 1899, Sikkim in the Himalayas; 1909, Mt. LINIMENT FIUME-CELEBRATES PIAVE ANNIVERSARY

Patriotic Demonstration of D'Annunzio's Followers.

FIUME, Jan. 28.-The anniversary o the Italian victory on the Piave was celebrated here by a great demonstration, in which the whole population of Fiume, both military and civilian, participated. It began at the "Monument of the Anchor," a marble base, like an altar, supporting the anchor which belonged to the first Italian warship to put into the port of Fiume after the war. All Fiume's manifestations centre there, as in ancient Rome they centred at the Capitol, and in modern Rome

Every man, woman and child in Fiume seemed to be gathered around the monument, which was soon comthis city. The shipment included a plettely covered with flowers, while ofcoupe and a sedan, both equipped with wire wheels, and both possessing lines climbed up all over it, waving their

When the liver becomes torpid and inflamed, it cannot furnish sufficient bile to the bowels, thus causing them to become constipated.

The stomach is also affected. In the case of heartburn there is a gnawing and burning pain in the stomach, tended by disturbed appetite, caused by great acidity. Whenever too much food is taken, it is liable to ferment, and be come extremely sour, vomiting often occurs; and what is thrown up, is sour and sometimes bitter.

Other liver trouble symptoms are not under the right shoulder, yellowness of the skin and eyes, floating specks before the eyes, coated tongue, bad taste in the orning foul breath, water dice, constipation, etc.

Keep your liver active by using Mil burn's Laxa-Liver Pills and you will have no heartburn or other liver troubles. Being purely vegetable they do not gripe, weaken or sicken like the old-fashioned purgatives generally do. Mrs. Mary Strome Glasnevin Sock writes: "I have used Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills, and they have cleared me of heartburn and liver trouble. I don't think they can be beaten by any other medicine, and I can highly recommen them."

A GOOD NAME-THE MASTER SALESMAN

Sound principles prove themselves in times of stress, and test and trial.

The reason Dodge Brothers Motor Car stands well today is that, six years ago, Dodge Brothers were thinking of to-day.

They built their car, in the beginning, so that it would be sure to stand well to-day.

The reason Dodge Brothers Motor Car is now strong in sales is that, six years ago, Dodge Brothers were thinking less of building and selling motor cars and more of building and deserving good will.

Six years ago they thought of sales only as something sure to follow if they built a car that deserved well at the hands of the people.

They were not thinking, then, of the huge immediate market for motor cars, but of the surer, sounder, more permanent market for a good motor car.

They wanted their name to stand not for the quantity of motor cars they built, but for the kind of motor car they built.

They looked forward to the day when that name alone would be sufficient to sell all of the Dodge Brothers Motor Cars their great works could build.

It was a sane, simple philosophy which thought of every man or woman who bought one of their motor cars as one who must be made a friend for the future.

It is one thing to conceive a car which will give each buyer a minimum of trouble and a maximum of satisfaction, and quite another thing to build such a car.

Six years ago, Dodge Brothers devoted themselves to the actual construction of such a car. and kept on steadily making more and more sure that they had produced it.

Because they thought chiefly of their good name six years ago, and every day since, Dodge Brothers Motor Car stands well and sells well, the world over. to-day.

"Some of my friends told me about Tanlac and thinking what had helped others might help me, so I got a bottle and, almost from the start, I began to feel better. I have taken six bottles now and I certainly feel like a new woman. My stomach is in fine condition and I enjoy every meal and my nerves are again calm and steady. That tired, worn out, sleepy feeling has left me entirely and I have gained so much weight and strength I can do my housework with ease and even take long walks without feeling the least bit tired. My restoration to health has been simply wonderful and I'll praise Tanlac the longest day I live."

WARS RUMBLE IN 'PEACE YEAR'

All Europe and Asia Torn — Sternest Fight Between Poles and Russians.

PARIS, Jan. 26. - The world hailed 1920 as "peace year." but the familiar sound of battle rolled unceasingly through many parts of Europe and Asia. All the big powers, with the exception of the United States and Russia, had signed treaties or joined the League of Nations, but the whole year was mark-ed by wars, revolutions and attempted military coups.

Fighting was continuous in Russia and Turkey. Civil war broke out in China. Germany had a narrow escape from civil war when a small clique of German militarists under Von Kapp attempted to seize the Berlin govern-ment on March 13. Violent strife has raged and continues to rage in Ireland. The year ends with a virtual collapse, for the present, of the movement for universal disarmament. The United States is maintaining nearly a quarter of a million men under arms, and is executing a naval program that will make her the first sea power in the world unless Great Britain enlarges her program. And Japan has served notice on the League of Nations that she will not disarm so long as the United States continues to increase her land and sea

Biggest War In Russia. The biggest war of 1920 was fought between Soviet Russia and Poland. Enraged at the territorial encroachments of Poland, and possibly seeing an ortunity to push Bolshevism westward, the soviet massed a great army against the Poles. Fighting broke out in March, and soon a terrific struggle was raging over a battle front approximately 500 miles lon.

The Poles were successful in the initial fighting, but the Russians rallied, mashed the Polish front, and were on he point of taking Warsaw when, with rench and British help, the Poles beat off the invaders. About six months of folent fighting peace negotiations were pened at Minsk, but were later transerred to Riga, where they are still in Excepting for the Polish war, 1920 vas a successful military year for Red Russia. Three extensive campaigns were conducted against the soviet with allied assistance, but all collapsed. They were led by Almiral Kolchak, who was executed in Siberia, following his overthrow by Gen. Denekin, who fled to England after his army was defeated and scattered in South Russia, and by Gen. Baron Wrangel, who fled to Turey after his army was crushed in Reds and Turks Allies.

During 1920 Red Russia entered into an alliance with the Turkish National-ists under Mustapha Kemal Pasha. Together they smothered Armenia into submission. The present state of Armenia, about as big as an American county, lies in the Caucasus Mountains outside the borders of the old Ottoman

The military ambitions of the soviet vere reaching into Persia even while Red armies were contending against the Poles and Gen. Wrangel, but the British put an army into Persia and compelled the Russians to withdraw. Red troops were landed at Enzell, Persia, from thirteen transports in May, and threat-ened to march on Teheran and convert Persia into a soviet republic. The British army which drove out the Rus-sians is still maintained in Persia as a ulwark for the protection of India.

The thunder of battle has roared almost without pause throughout the old Turkish Empire, with four allied armies arrayed against the Arabs and Turkish Nationalists. Although little news has reached the outer world from Mesopo-tamia, that obscure quarter of the world has for months been the theatre of a violent struggle between a British army of nearly 100,000 men and strong forces

French Quell Arabs.

In the interior of Anatolia the brunt of the fighting on the allied side fell on the Greek army, which was sent to crush the Nationalists. On the Marcrush the Nationalists. On the Mar-mora littoral the British and Turks were at grips, but the fire from British warships compelled the Turks to retire to the hinterland. In Syria the French to war against the Arabs because the Arabs refused to accept the French mandate. Only a brief campaign was necessary to quell Arab resistance. But little fighting fell to the lot of the Italian forces of occupation in Turkey. Only the lack of transport and the mbroilments in Western and Southern Russia prevented Siberia from becoming great battlefield during 1920. The Japanese occupied vast stretches of Siberian territory in defiance to the soviet, meanwhile giving assistance to the anti-Bolshevik army of Gen. Semenoff's army, but were not strong enough to go to war against the

Are What Gives Dodd's Kidney Pills Popularity.

W. A. Shannon voices the sentiment that has given Dodd's Kidney Pills their standing in all parts of Canada. I want other sufferers to know what they did for me."
This is the statement of W. A. Shannon, a well-known and highly-respected resident here. And in these few words W. A. Shannon gives the reason why Dodd's Kidney Pills are so popular in all parts of Canada. They do what is claimed for them.

Dodd's Kidney Pills are purely a Kidney remedy. They tone up and ney remedy. They tone up and strengthen weak Kidneys and put them in condition to do their full work of straining the impurities out of the blood. Strong, healthy Kidneys are absolutely necessary if the blood is to be kept pure and the body healthy. another tobacco dryer will be erected by the tobacco growers in Western Ontario some time during the year, and he believed it would be erected in Kent County.

He also referred to the huge stocks of tobacco at present in the hands of growers, and of the attempts made by the hugers and manufacturers of to-growers, and of the attempts made by the buyers and manufacturers of to-bacco products to obtain the tobacco at the lowest possible prices. "But they will not be able to do that," he emphatically stated. "They may have the money, but we still hold the tobacco, and we can; and what is more, we will find a market for that tobacco, although the statement has been made that there is no market. We have the although the statement has been m that there is no market. We have Canada;

And whereas, it is known that certain of the tobacco imported from the United States is diseased, and its importation has resulted in infecting large areas of tobacco land in Canada;
Therefore your petitioners respectfully ask:

1. That the duty on unstemmed tobacco of all grades be raised to a minimum of not less than $1 a pound, and on stemmed tobacco to not less than $1 a pound, and on stemmed tobacco to not less than $1 a pound, and on stemmed tobacco to not less than $1 a pound, and on stemmed tobacco to not less than $1 a pound, and on stemmed tobacco to not less than $1 a pound, and on stemmed tobacco to not less than $1 a pound, and on stemmed tobacco to get out and make a market. And in that market we can dispose of every pound grown in Ontario."

Other speakers at the meeting spoke in glowing terms of the manner in which samples of Canadian tobacco to get out and make a market.

Had Their Own Way.

The opinion prevalent among the growers was that the buyers have had the closing hour last night.

During a journey from Peking Kalgan, in China, some American engineers were favored with a most extraordinary sight.

Near a beautiful temple they came upon a great company of men, car rying what seemed to the Ameri cans the most unheard-of cargoeach man two eagles. All, men and eagles alike, were seated upon the ground when the strangers first caught sight of them, and the men said they were taking the birds into Mongolia to recover their plumage, and that they were kept in Peking for the purpose of making eagle feather fans; but other people told the Americans afterward that the birds were being taken to catch hares and other game for their masters, and possible also to catch more eagles. Probably both stories were correct. Presently the men got up and went off carrying their burdens, about forty very large eagles and forty smaller ones. The smaller birds sat each upon a basket dangling from the shoulder pole. Each basket was apparently full of something or other. the Americans could not see what: but the larger eagles sat on the poles at the other end, and it was amusing to see them turning around and balancing themselves and generally settling themselves comfort-

The men seemed not to have the least anxiety lest these fierce creatures, with their powerful beaks, should take a nip out of the cheek nearest them as they went along.

Appearance counts—good finish and good upholstering certainly do carry weight with the intending purchaser. But all who have driven cars know that motoring satisfaction comes from engineering features which the outward appearance of a car can only hint at.

The Briscoe has the appearance—surpassing in this respect many of the expensive cars alongside which it is driven and parked.

But the real pride of the Briscoe makers is centred in the unique design of motor and chassis, whereby great speed is attained, great stamina insured, real service rendered and big economy effected on tires and on gas.

NEW BRISCOE

Distinctive Appearance

The Marvelous Motor

The Briscoe motor is world-famous for its marvelous flexibility, stamina, power and low gasoline consumption. The transmission is a unit with the motor—selective type, with the usual three speeds, forward and reverse—wide gears that shift with ease—shafts of heat-treated chrome alloy steel. The motor is the L-head type—four cylinders; bore 3% inches; stroke 5 inches. There is an adjustable clutch brake which slows down the revolving clutch part to conform with the revolving speed of the gears. Sweeping body lines, accentuated by the Tilted Radiator, give to the Briscoe that smart individuality that marks it instantly as a quality car. Tipping the radiator at this slight angle also makes possible the placing of the fan so as to increase its cooling efficiency to the maximum. The new color, Briscoe True Blue, with its superfine finish, adds much to the car's appearance. Liberty no-glare headlights are part of the equipment.

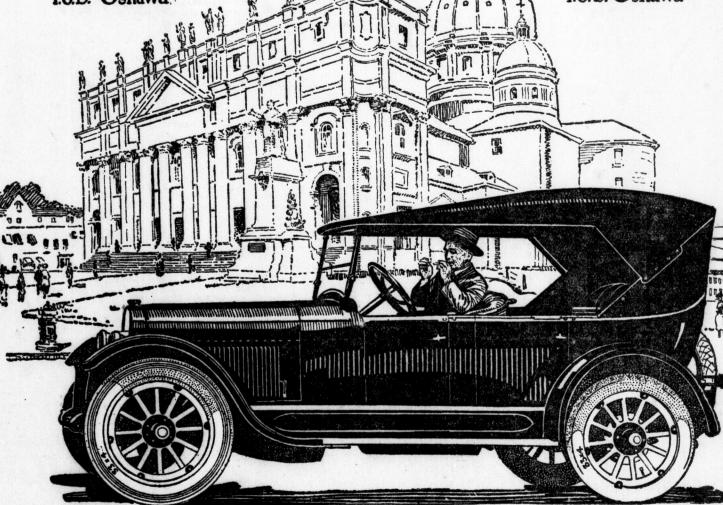

The Briscoe Exhibit Will Bring You Back for a Longer Look

After your first inspection of the Briscoe models you will naturally take a trip through the show-but you'll surely be back for a more extended examination of the cars that show such marked superiority over others of their class-the Briscoe Touring, Sedan and Roadster.

PIANO QUEENS FADE FROM MOVIE HOUSES

DETROIT, Jan. 27. - Not the war tione with its tax on amusements has at the popular two-bits in our leading notion picture palaces, catering to their thousands daily. Check up as another cause a growing fondness of the public for music—the music of a classical type, no less—and you wincome nearer the reason why seats in the photoplay theatres cost more now-adays.

Can you remember the plano queens who presided at a usually out-of-tune instrument and punctuated the air, heavy laden at best, with varios dour and discordant notes, all in the name of music? Right from the entre of the silent days are recognized the of music? Right from the entre of the silent drama managers recognized the fact that an audience does not like to sit through the stretches of a filmed story, in an all too silent, darkened house. So the plano queen took her place in the orchestra pit and doled out sentimental, melodious chords when the heroine appeared. The villain was ushered in with ominous therms in a true melodramatic. themes, in a true melo-dramatic fashion, while an engaging theme, played in rapidly accelerated time, announced the arrival of the hero to save the heroine from all harm.

The lighter works by the noted composers are of course, selected, but where before numbers of a promenade concert variety were selected, more and more the real classics are finding their place on the bills at these theatres.

There must have been increasing public support and a demand for this type of entertainment or managers could not have continued in their broadening pians. The giri who tickled the plano keys a few years back drew something like $15 to $25 weekly, depending on the size of the motion picture house. Today members of these orchestras ranging from 12 to 25 musicians, receive a minimum rate of $60 weekly, while the leaders frequently are highly paid men, as, for the most part they are musicians who have gained repute before entering this field of endeavor.

A Suggestion for Saving

ASH in the pocket encourages careless spending. You will find it much easier to save if you keep your "Spending" money in a Savings Account with The Bank of Toronto. There it is safe and can be drawn upon when really needed.

A reluctance to draw from that account will grow upon you, and protect you from many needless expenditures.

Once the saving habit is acquired, the account, with its earnings of interest, will steadily grow to a substantial amount.

Many young men and women are working on this plan to advantage. We invite you to try Cor. Dundas and it by opening a Savings Account to-day. Cor. Dundas and Wellington Sts. Cor. Dundas and Adelaide Sts.

Cost of Work Is Estimated at $25,000 Per

WABASH, Jan. 28.—A business meeting in connection with the cementing of the Base Line, which connects Wallaceburg, Dresden and Thamesville, was held on Monday evening in the Wabash Foresters' Hall. Quite a number were present, including Reeve Russell Holmes, and subscriptions were taken to be used and subscriptions were taken to be used in the furtherance of the work.

The ratepayers along the highway from Wallaceburg completed three miles of cement roadway last spring, and intend to lay as many more during the coming season.

The cost of the work is estimated at

The cost of the work is estimated at $25,000 per mile, and the aim is to collect 20 per cent of cost from the municipalities, 20 per cent from the county, and to press the Government for the remaining 60 per cent.

A successful clearance sale of stock, implements, grain and poultry was held yesterday afternoon on the farm of Russell Ross, just east of Thamesville. W. J. Cryderman was auctioneer, and nearly everything was sold at a good price. One team of work horses went at $500; milch cows at from $75 to $30; young shoats at $17.50-each, and sows at $71 each. Chickens were sold at $1.39 each. Shocks of corn went at $1.44. Total proceeds of sale amounted to almost $5,000. Mr. Ross sold his farm to John McDowell of Zone, who takes possession by May 1.

Charles Mason was recently married to Miss Lenora Martini of Ridgetown, and the happy couple are now honey-mooning in Toronto.

HENSALL CHURCH HAD PROSPEROUS YEAR

plendid Reports Presented at Meeting of Carmel Presbyterians.

HENSALL, Jan28 .- At the annual con-HENSALL,Jan28.—At the annual congregational meeting of Carmel Presbyterian Church a most satisfactory report of the year's work was presented by the treasurer, A. W. Hemphill. Reports of the session, managing board, Sabbath school, Young People's Improvement Society, Ladies' Aid, and other societies connected with the church were given, and were of a very encouraging nature. The missionary offerings spoke well for the zeal of the congregation, and the Women's Missionary Society and the Mission Band also gave liberally.

Officers of the past year were re-Mission Band also gave liberally.

Officers of the past year were reelected. The board of managers, however, was enlarged, and includes John Craig, Alex. Munn and Lorne Luker.
William McKay was again appointed clerk and envelope secretary; James W.
Bonthron, congregational secretary, and
A. W. R. Hemphill, church treasurer.
The meeting was very largely attended, and a very pleasant one throughout, the pastor, Rev. Mr. McConnell, was chairman, and emphasized the good work done by the congregation during the year, as evidenced by the reports.
A vote of thanks was moved and seconded and carried by the entire congregation, acknowledging the splendid services given by the church choir and the splendid cantata recently given.
The Oddfellows of Hensall Lodge, No.

THROWN FROM BUGGY

uart Man Hurled Headfirst to Road When Horse Is Frightened.

When Horse is Frightened.

DUART, Jan. 28.—Willis Lewis, assistant to Dr. J. R. Macpherson, was thrown from a buggy at Muirkirk, and had his face badly bruised and cut. The horse became unmanageable at the approach of a train, and upset the rig, pitching Lewis out on his head. Though partially stunned, he managed to hang on to the lines and succeeded in controlling the animal.

Duart has lost its oldest citizen, in the death of Mrs. Thomas Peets, who passed away on Wednesday in her 89th year. She was a lifelong resident of the district. Up to a year ago she had remarkable health for a person of such advanced years, but owing to a fall and sustaining a fractured hip, she was confined to her bed for many months.

Reports rendered at the annual meeting of the Duart Presbyterian Church show the congregation to be in a flourishing condition. The membership roll shows a substantial gain, and the financial report shows the church to have met every obligation during the year, with a balance to the good.

The community evening given in the hall by the Duart Women's Institute was very successful in every way. The feature of the entertainment was a debate on the immigration question, which was well taken up, and provided a source of knowledge to those present. The hall was crowded, $60 being taken in at the door. A dance followed the literary part. Guests were present from Thamesville and Wardsville.

STROKE IS FATAL TO ISAAC BELL

RIDGETOWN. Jan. 28.—The death took place at the family residence, Talbot street, of one of Howard Township's best known and most prominent farmers, in the person of Isaac S. Bell. aged 83. Mr. Bell spent his whole life on two farms near here. He was trained to the practical duties of agriculture, and was a most successful farmer. He helped to clear the section in which he lived, and saw all the hardships of the pioneers. He was a Conservative in politics, but was a man of broad views. In January, 1861, he married Miss Cynthia E. Smith of London, a daughter of Edward and Ann Smith, the former of whom was a prominent London of the state of the section of the s daughter of Edward and Ann Smith, the former of whom was a prominent London stock dealer. A family of six children was born to them, two of whom, Clarence E. and Jsaac P., died.

Mr. Bell suffered a paralytic stroke about two weeks ago. His wife survives, also one son, Wheeler, who lives on the homestead. It is expected the funeral will take place on Saturday afternoon to Greenwood Cemetery.

BOND DEALERS ASK THAT GOVT. LOAN BE RAISED

TORONTO, Jan. 28.—Bond dealers to-day waited upon Hon. Peter Smith, asking that the recent $10,000,000 loan, which has been over-subscribed, be increased. The bond dealers reported that there was considerable money available. The provincial treasurer favors increasing the loan, and an an-nouncement to this effect may be ex-pected very shortly.

EXCEED OBJECTIVE IN CARADOC DRIVE

DELAWARE, Jan. 28 .- At the annual DELAWARE, Jan. 28.—At the annual congregational meeting of South Caradoc Presbyterians, held in the church on Muncey road, a report of the recent canvass of the congregation was made and showed that in the delayed canvass for the forward movement with an objective of $500, $580 has been promised. It is expected that the total will reach $600. The duplex envelope system is being introduced and $700 has been promised for general revenue and $130 for missions for 1921.

The financial statement showed receipts for general revenue of $1,421, leaving a balance for the year of $561.
