VEGETARIAN'S WRECK.
A strict vegetarian Tompkins is, and he views that course as, with the greatest anticipation. That brings a good cigar.

There is to be a new ship canal from the Baltic sea to Warsaw.

Two tablespoonfuls of washing soda dissolved in a gallon of boiling water make an excellent disinfectant for the kitchen sink. Pour in while hot.

Tinware can be cleaned readily by rubbing it with a damp cloth dipped in soda; rub briskly and wipe dry.

FIRE ADDED TO HORROR OF THE RAILWAY WRECK

An Awful Accident Occurred on the Pennsylvania Road at Trebeins, a Small Town in Ohio—The Limited From St. Louis to New York Dashed Into a Wild Flat Car and was Wrecked—Six Bodies Have Been Recovered.

Indianapolis, Ind., July 25.—A special to the Sentinel from Trebeins, O., says: One of the most appalling wrecks in the history of the Pennsylvania railroad occurred here last night at 10:30 when the limited from St. Louis to New York with a heavy train consisting of an engine, two mail cars, day coach and four Pullman sleepers, while running at 70 miles an hour, dashed into a wild flat car loaded with coal, coming down grade toward it at the rate of 25 miles an hour.

The result was a terrible loss of life and property. Three dead bodies have been taken from the wreck. The engineer's body was burned to ashes. Four others are missing. The train was totally consumed by fire, with the exception of the two rear Pullmans. Sixteen persons were injured. Two postal clerks are dead, two other men badly scalded, and a dozen or more people are more or less hurt.

The crash came in the darkness. The clouds hid the moon, and, to add to the horror, a gas tank under a coach exploded, and the entire wreck was a mass of flames in three minutes after the collision with the runaway coal.

The dead—Charles McGowan, Greenfield, Ind., railway postal clerk; M. M. Peters, Columbus, O., railway postal clerk; William Clark, Columbus, O., engineer; William Dwyer, Columbus, O., fireman; two unknown women, burned to death in forward Pullman; four persons missing, may be burned in the wreck.

The injured—George A. Clifford, Indianapolis, scalded; will recover; William G. Forsythe, Indianapolis, scalded and injured internally; James McFadden, Indianapolis, badly cut on head, will recover; Fred Carpenter, Indianapolis, stunned and cut about the head, will recover; twelve others, whose names could not be secured. This little town is three miles west of Xenia. There is a heavy grade from that city here. While switching coal cars there last night at 10:15 o'clock a loaded flat car got loose and shot down the heavy grade toward this place. The limited express on the Pennsylvania road was speeding on the same track in the opposite direction at the rate of 70 miles an hour. It was late and Engineer Clark was trying to make up lost time.

In the darkness he did not see the coal car coming, or at least saw it too late. His train crashed into the car, and an instant later the entire mass was a burning pile of wreckage. In it were nearly fifty human beings. Ten minutes later all had been taken out of the burning mass but seven. The passengers escaped without clothing, except the seven in the day coach. The survivors stood helpless and heard the screams of two women and one man pinned down in the wreckage, for whom aid was impossible. For three hours the wreck burned. The Xenia and Dayton fire departments went to the rescue. They could save no life. The body of the engineer was burned so completely that no vestige remains. A few charred fragments of other loss of life, William Dwyer, the fireman, was taken out alive, but lived only thirty minutes. Four postal clerks were in the mail cars. They were Clifford and Peters, of Indianapolis; McGowan, of Columbus, O.; and McGowan, of Greenfield, Ind. The bodies of Peters and McGowan were recovered, badly scalded and injured. For an hour the terror-stricken passengers stood about the burning wreck, horrified, before help arrived from Xenia. The survivors were taken there and the injured cured. Later a special took the uninjured to Columbus.

There is nothing left of the train but two Pullman coaches. Everything else was reduced to charred iron and steel, hissing with the heat under the streams of the fire apparatus.

Lee continues to tell tales to the injury of Kent.

Blue Ruin John Still Spreading Ugly Libels—Calls Constituency a Muddy Swamp.

Following on his interview with the Toronto World, which appeared in yesterday's Planet, John Lee, M. P. P., for East Kent, has given the following weird and pessimistic interview to the Galt Reporter, from whose columns The Planet makes the reproduction. Blue Ruin John has evidently been "seeing things," but where he is not as well known as he is in this district his damaging and exaggerated yarns may find some credence. Kent farmers are rightly and justly indignant at the silly stories Mr. Lee has been circulating to the detriment of this fine farming district, where even the heavy rain, there, does comparatively little damage.

Under the big black-typed heading "He never saw so much mud in his life," the Galt Reporter says: "We have been drowned out with rain this year," was the discouraging statement of Mr. John Lee, M. P. P., for East Kent. Mr. Lee is one of the prosperous farmers of the western peninsula of Ontario, and is, besides, valuator for the Huron and Erie Loan and Savings Company, in which capacity he has been travelling all around the Province.

The outlook in his home district is blue, he says. Essex, Kent, Lambton and large parts of Elgin and Middlesex have been greatly damaged by the wet weather. The section is all low-lying land, but it is rich, and with moderately dry seasons yields prolifically for it is well drained. "But drains are no use this year," said Mr. Lee, "with the rains we've been having. They haven't been mere showers and storms; they've been regular waterpots. The other day I had five acres of oats and an acre and a half of potatoes smothered out in a few hours, just as though I had spread it over with dry straw and burned it. The rain came down so fast that there was a foot of water all over the patch, which was surrounded by higher land. It was drained with 12-inch tile, but that didn't seem to help it. But when the water got drained off, every blade of green was burned off."

Mr. Lee says the whole district has been subject to similar accidents. Beans, which are a big crop ordinarily, are spoiled. Potatoes will not amount to much, and will likely rot after maturing. Corn at best will be late and light, while peas and oats and barley are in dubious shape. "What," added Mr. Lee, "is sprouting in the head—some places where it isn't even out. Hay is rotting."

Miss Lizzie Post, of Merline, made a call on her old schoolmate, Ethel McKenzie, yesterday.

NATIVES DYING

London, July 25.—In a despatch from Cairo, Egypt, the correspondent of the Daily Telegraph says that the utmost consternation prevails owing to the terrifying progress of cholera. All hope of localizing the disease, says the correspondent, has been abandoned, and there is no doubt that Egypt will have to meet a devastating epidemic.

The disease appeared Thursday in practically every quarter of Cairo, 42 new cases being recorded. Several natives fell dead at their work. Temporary hospitals are being erected. The British regiments in Cairo will leave to camp in the desert at the earliest possible moment.

WAS DRUGGED AND ROBBED

Mrs. Gertrude Hemme was Roughly Treated by a Sneak Thief.

Physicians Worked for Hours to Bring her from Under the Influence of Chloroform.

Detroit, July 25.—Overpowered by the sickening fumes of chloroform and roughly treated by a ruffianly thief, Mrs. Gertrude Hemme, 1017 Field avenue, yesterday afternoon, endured a most terrifying experience, and this morning is ill from fright.

Mrs. Hemme is the wife of Hugo T. Hemme, with the Ideal Pulley Co. on Fort street. She went to the butcher shop about 5 o'clock. She returned and was preparing supper in the kitchen when she heard a slight noise. Turning she saw a man close behind her. All she remembers of him is that he was dark, with a brown mustache and had on a dark coat and hat, grey trousers and a white shirt without any vest.

Before she could utter a cry he had plied her arms fast and was holding her to her face a handkerchief saturated with chloroform. He was a powerful man, for he kept the handkerchief in place in spite of all Mrs. Hemme could do until she succumbed to the overpowering drug.

An hour later her husband found her on the floor insensible, and the house ransacked and robbed. Dr. McManus, 1090 Canton avenue, was called, and was compelled to work for four hours over Mrs. Hemme before she entirely recovered. An examination showed that $15 was missing, together with a $10 watch.

Mrs. Hemme said this morning: "I saw the man about noon yesterday and he was looking toward the house. He must have slipped in the back door, gone up the back stairs and then returned to the first floor by the front stairs. He could not have come from the shed into the kitchen without my hearing the screen door creak."

The Hemmes on their wedding day, June 12, last year, were robbed of $30.00.

RAINFALL OASE

An interesting case, arising out of the recent heavy rains, will be tried before R. L. Gosnell, at Blenheim on Monday. The case charges Albert Smith, Geo. Smith, Thomas Smith and Geo. Neil with obstructing the township drain which crosses their Communication Road, north of Blenheim. He claims that they took out the tile and shut up the drain so that the water couldn't pass across the road. The defendants claim an agreement with the reeve of Harwich whereby they were authorized to act as they did, as part of a drainage scheme. Palmer objected to the work, hence the prosecution. The penalty for conviction is $25 and costs.

COREA PLEADS

And Britain and Japan Have Agreed to Guarantee the Independence of the Country.

St. Petersburg, July 25.—A special dispatch received here from Seoul, Corea, announces the conclusion of an important agreement between the British and Japanese ministers to Corea on one hand, and the Japanese minister to London, on the other, by which Great Britain and Japan mutually guarantee Corea's independence and pledge their support and assistance in all important questions affecting her internal and foreign policy. Corea in return agrees to raise her naval and military establishments to a footing sufficient for her own defense, and also in case of raising a foreign loan she agrees to restrict herself to the markets of Great Britain, Japan and the United States. She further agrees that no foreigners shall be appointed to positions in the Korean state service, that measures shall be immediately taken for the protection of Korean territory, and that a protest shall immediately be made against any state or persons attempting to erect works or buildings situated so as to prejudice Corea's scheme for national defense.

THRILLING SCENE DESCRIBED WHEN PRIVATE EVANS FELL

Trooper James Kendell, Chatham's Sturdy Representative in the Gallant Fight at Hart's River Describes the Last Charge—Kendell Looks Fine and Has Completely Recovered From his Wound.

The 1.05 a. m., C. P. R. train—one hour and thirty minutes late—brought into the city this morning a tall, well-built, green-uniformed individual with a ruddy, sun-burned face and soldier-like bearing, in James E. Kendell, the only Chatham man who participated in the gallant battle at Hart's River, where he was numbered among the wounded.

"Jim," as he is popularly called, was met at the station by a number of relatives only, as it had not been publicly announced upon what train he would arrive.

Trooper Kendell left Halifax on Jan. 14, 1902, and arrived in Dublin on Feb. 17, making the trip in 35 days.

"We rode thence," he said, telling his own story to The Planet this morning, "to Newcastle, where we rested up until March 3. Then we trekked to Volokost, passing the historical Majuba Hill, and arrived at Klerksdorp on the Tuesday night. Dying the same night Darnant's Horse, a pom-pom and a section of the horse artillery were attached to the Canadian Mounted Rifles, under command of Colonel Cookson, forming the second column. The first column was commanded by Col. Lowe and the third by Col. Keir.

"On Sunday afternoon we got our horses into shape and at 6.30 received orders to ship saddles and wear only our light uniforms, for the purpose of rounding up General Delarey.

"While we were so doing we received a message from Lord Kitchener in which he expressed the trust and hope that we would be successful and give a good account of ourselves.

TWO MAPLE CITY PLAYERS WIN HONORS AT LONDON

Tillson and Hutchison Capture the Doubles—Gosnell, of Blenheim, Wins a Prize.

L. E. Tillson and D. A. Hutchison, of Chatham, succeeded in winning the doubles in the big Western Ontario Bowling Tourney at London. They both played magnificently throughout the series and arrived home this morning with their trophies, two Bristol steel fishing rods. R. L. Gosnell, of Blenheim, also won third prize in the singles.

London, July 25.—The seventh annual tournament of the Western Ontario Bowling Association came to a close late yesterday afternoon, and when the last bowl had been sent across the lawn the most successful tournament that has ever been held in this city had been concluded. The feature of the tournament, aside from the large number of rinks entered, was the good work of the London bowlers, who for the first time since the inception of this annual gathering of the Western Ontario bowlers won by far the majority of the prizes. The honor roll of the tournament is as follows:—

Trophy Match—1st prize, the custody for one year of the Labatt Trophy, and four gold medals, Ed. Weld rink, London; 2nd prize, William El-liott rink, Mitchell.

Consolation Match—1st prize, D. Ross rink, Brussels; 2nd prize, J. D. Tylor rink, London.

Doubles—1st prize, Tillson and Hutchison, Chatham; 2nd prize, Agnew and Hoover, Clinton.

Singles—1st and 2nd prizes, C. M. B. Graham and J. D. Tylor, both of London, finals to be played; 3rd prize, R. L. Gosnell, Blenheim; 4th prize, W. J. Harvey, London.

In the second round of the Doubles Sowerby and Taylor, Chatham, won from Tylor and Alexander, London, by 11-9; Mulholland & Gosnell, Blenheim, defeated German and Finchamp, London, by 23-19; McMacdon and Bowden, Ridgeway, downed Hollis and Shield, Brampton, by 11-10.

In the third round Sowerby and Taylor went down to McDougall and Weld, London, by 15-14; Tillson and Hutchison won from Mulholland and Gosnell by 14-9; McMacdon and Bow-

NO SYMPATHY FOR CADETS

Curt Address Delivered by Lord Roberts at the Royal Military Academy.

He First Tried Leniency to the Offenders, he Said, But Found it Didn't Work.

London, July 25.—The long expected address of Lord Roberts, the commander-in-chief, to the cadets of the Royal Military Academy, Sandhurst, where the outbreak of a number of incendiary fires caused the "rusticating" July 3 of 39 cadets, because they failed to name those supposed to have been concerned in the incendiary, was delivered to-day and conveyed scant condolence to the young men who have been rather posing as martyrs to the arbitrary methods of the war office. Lord Roberts' visit was nominally an official inspection of the military academy, and it was carried out with considerable ceremony, for he was accompanied by the adjutant-general, Lieut.-Gen. Thomas Kelly-Kenny, and a number of staff officers. The commander-in-chief said he had been a cadet himself and he had stayed long at school than any of his hearers. He thought he ought to know how cadets felt and how they should act. He had tried leniency. When the fires first broke out at the academy he stopped the punishment of the cadets in order to allow them to attend the coronation. Instead of taking their discipline in a manly, soldierly fashion they behaved in a mutinous and most improper manner. He was glad to say, however, that as a result of his investigations he was able to reinstate all but two of the rusticated cadets, and he hoped that on the occasion of his next visit to Sandhurst in December he could congratulate the cadets on the proper tone prevailing at the academy.

SATURDAY, JULY 26.

HINT TO THE PASTORS.

This is—ought to be—the season of the short sermon. There's a sermon for the preachers in the following, related by the Detroit Tribune:—

Twice requested to make his sermon brief, Henry Gillingham, pastor of the Methodist Church of Atlantic, a village near Brighton, Mich., preached one of the shortest sermons, if not the shortest, on record, the other Sunday evening. No one in the copper church has heard a discourse so brief or so pithy as this was. When he arose to announce his text he remarked that he had twice been asked to make his sermon short and he would try to do so. If this should seem too long he would stop next time with the text. Then he delivered this sermon:

Text, Luke 16, 24.—"And he cried and said: Father Abraham, have mercy on me, and send Lazarus, for he may dip the tip of his finger in water and cool my tongue, for I am tormented in this flame."

"Three persons—Abraham, Dives, Lazarus. It was hot where Dives was. He did not like it. He wanted to get out. So do we. Let us pray!"

LACONIC KITCHEN.

The English papers are full of stories about Kitchener. One of them tells how Gen. Delarey described one of his interviews with Lord Kitchener, in which he made an earnest endeavor to obtain an armistice during the progress of the negotiations. "I told him," said Delarey, "that I considered it extremely unfair for his columns to gallop about the country after my commandos, while I was here to discuss the possibility of a peaceful understanding with your people. My men were deprived of their leader and placed at an unfair disadvantage. It was no good, though," continued the Boer general, "Kitchener turned to me and replied, 'Gen. Delarey, I am not aware that anyone asked you to come in. You can go out again to-morrow, if you like.'"

Christian De Wet seemed thoroughly to enjoy describing how he tackled the man of Khartoum over the continuance of our occupation of the country with a large military force, which he protested would be an undesirable charge on the resources of the country and a handicap to its speedy development. "I told him," said De Wet, "that I must stipulate for the withdrawal of the whole of your army at the earliest possible date after the signature of peace. It should be childish."

A New Zealand officer is authority for another story illustrating the same laconic, businesslike traits. He had been sent to Pretoria. While he was "gentleman in khaki" came along looking for the young officer, he asked, "Colonel?"

"Yes," was the reply.

"Which?"

"Third New Zealand."

"Ah, you are to join Plumer."

The stranger then began to talk of "inside orders" in a way that surprised the New Zealander, who remarked that he was awaiting just such orders from Lord Kitchener.

"Well, you've got them. I'm Kitchener," was the unexpected reply.

NEWFOUNDLAND WOULD BE WELCOME.

The announce made by Sir Robert Bond in England a short time ago, that the question of Newfoundland entering the Dominion was only a matter of terms, has created the impression in the island that action will be taken at the next session of the Legislature to advance the matter.

Catarrh

Is a constitutional disease. It originates in a scrofulous condition of the blood and depends on that condition. enter Confederation, but it has never been possible to arrive at a materially satisfactory basis of agreement. Ever since, through Canada's interference, the British Government refused to allow the Bond-Blaine treaty between the island and the United States to go into effect, the feeling in Newfoundland against Canada has been bitter enough to put the question of its entering Confederation out of the question.

If generous terms will induce the people of the island to cast their lot in with us, the willingness of the two political parties to favorably consider the question ought to aid in an arrangement being arrived at.

Captain Morrison, D. S. O., re editor of the Ottawa Citizen, is in Glasgow, where he is investigating municipal problems. Readers of this great home journal will be the beneficiaries of his researches.

The Hamilton Spectator, always distinctively original and up-to-date, advances the following theory:—
"That story of a sea-serpent in the little creek called the Thames, was probably a fond father's invention to keep little Willie from drowning himself in the old swimming hole."

There's trouble in store for this great home journal, according to the Dredon Times. The Times says:

"The Chatham Planet in an endeavor to boom the Maple City, has resurrected the sea serpent story. Charley Williams, ex-reeve of Raleigh is the innocent victim upon whom The Planet places the responsibility of having seen the leviathan monster of the Thames within four miles of Chatham. The Planet never overlooks the opportunity to boom Chatham, but if there isn't a rumour when Charley reads that story—well we don't know him."

Bricklayer's Backache.

It requires a good strong sturdy man to stand the strain of the hard work that falls to the lot of a mason. Exposure to the hot sun and the cutting winds, bending over, inhaling the fine dust of the lime, brick or stone, all these things are bound sooner or later to tell on the kidneys. The poor old back begins to ache and pain, the urine is scant and scalds when passing.

Any mason who finds his back aching and his kidneys bothering him can have these troubles removed and be put in fit shape for his work by a bottle or two of Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets.

ACTED LIKE A CHARM.
Mr. Geo. Grass, South Street, Aylmer, Ont., a stone and bricklayer, well known in that town and vicinity, says:

"For some fifteen years I have had trouble with my back and kidneys. I arose from my attempting to lift a very heavy stone and straining myself. I have tried all sorts of remedies in the hope of being cured, but obtained very little relief. My back would be so bad at times that it was with great pain and difficulty I could straighten up when I arose from my bed in the morning, and I suffered so much that I had to give up my mason work altogether. I read a good deal about Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets and bought a supply from my druggist. They acted like a charm—took the soreness and stiffness out of my back so that I can now straighten up with ease." The pain is all gone and I feel strong and well.

A MODERN JONAH.
Aylmer Express.
The only reason we can give for so much wet weather this year is that we had a complete system of pipes laid a few weeks ago for lawn service and for watering our garden. With our usual luck we will have to pay for the water and have no use for it. If the citizens of Aylmer and vicinity will take up a subscription and make the price large enough we will move away from here altogether and give them a chance. In order to prove our claim to being the Jonah of this section, we intend sowing a quantity of lawn grass and clover seed. Now watch it dry out and burn up.

New Denver (B. C.) Ledger.
Joshua Sanford was buried for 100 hours, in a well near Paris, Ont. He was finally dug out, alive and fairly well. The papers have made all kinds of fun over the affair, seeming to treat it as a great joke. It would have been no joke if the rescuers had been lazy. Sanford is about the only man who ever saved his life by hitting the pipe. His experience was terrible, and seems to have affected his mind, for he talks about becoming a parson. Perhaps he thinks this is the best way to avoid the bottomless pit spoken of in ancient times. He did well to get out of the hole he was in and should let well enough alone in the future. He was raised out, but won't the pot. We will now pass the deal for fear that if Josh reads this he will think we are joking him and be inclined to dig up a subscription and San for his paper.

BEAMS OF SUNSHINE
Chatham Branch of the International Sunshine Society.
Motto—Good cheer.
Have you had a kindness shown? Pass it on.
'Twas not given for you alone—Pass it on.
Let it travel down the years, Let it wipe another's tears, Till in heaven the deed appears—Pass it on.

Our Junior Sunshiners are saving their pennies just now for the Ice Fund. This is a fund for the purpose of distributing ice to the sick and poor in the large cities during the heat of summer. Some few weeks ago, in a letter to the President of the Juniors, the Secretary of the International congratulated the little members what they had already accomplished, and suggested that during the holidays they should drop their spare pennies into a mite-box, and when they had filled it, to send it on to be given to some of the little sufferers among the poor. The general fund is handled at headquarters in New York, but distribution is made wherever the need may be.

Our Junior's mite-box was just about filled and they had decided to send it in, but a day or two ago, the very smallest Sunshiner of the group made a hurried call on the President to give her what she had earned for mowing a lawn and said "she had another letter promised her, and would the President mind waiting until she got that money?"

Probably in the meantime some of the others may have found a way of contributing to their happiness, so we were given the privilege of providing conveyances for the old people, to and from the boat. While on board they were cared for by the Army workers, and when one of our members met them as they landed at night, she said she never saw a happier group. Our thanks are due a Sunshiner who passed on a hat which was trimmed and sent down to one of the inmates so that she could go on the excursion. She was evidently more than pleased with it.

THE BEST FAITH.

I deem his faith the best.
Who daily puts it into loving deeds Done for the poor, the sorrowing and the oppressed;
For these are more than creeds; And though a blinded reason oft may err,
A heart that loves is faith's interpreter.

—Edward Payson Powell.

We hope that, while on their holidays, our members will still remember that they are expected to keep their dues paid up, in the shape of some kind of action now and again. Opportunities should be more plentiful than ever.

The Springbok.
A peculiarity of that most beautiful of South African antelopes the springbok is that it always leaps over human tracks. It is at once exceedingly shy and marvelously active, and the reason for this strange antic is its intense suspicion of any possible enemy, among whom it has come to recognize man as the most dangerous.

It is not only with human tracks that the springbok goes through this performance, for it does the same with the tracks of lions or even when it gets wind of a lion. The leap is exceedingly graceful, and the animal covers from twelve to fifteen feet at each bound. It drops on all four feet at once and immediately rises again, making a clear spring without any run.

Its usual gait when not pursued is a light springy trot. The springbok usually travels with its nose to the ground, as if constantly on the lookout for the scent of enemies.

NOW TO REST AWHILE

MESSAGE TO THE PHYSICALLY AND MENTALLY WORN OUT.

SEPARATE FROM THE THRONES

The Saviour knew the needs of tired and weary mankind and invited them to the country to rest and recuperate. Why a Rest is Needed—Satan Kills by Overwork.

Entered According to Act of Parliament of Canada in the Year 1902, by William Baily, of Toronto, at the Dept. of Agriculture, Ottawa.

Chicago, July 20.—There are a scent of the pines and an atmosphere of the country in this sermon by Rev. Frank De Witt Talmage from the text Mark vi, 31, "Come ye yourselves apart into a desert place and rest awhile."

A desert place? What does that mean? Is Christ bidding his disciples follow him over a great sea of sand? Does he want his companions to lose themselves among the endless dunes and live where neither beast nor bird nor fish nor insect can live? Does he desire them to be terror-stricken at the moanings of the si-moons or to be smothered in one of those awful desert windstorms and be there as completely lost as the mercies of the ocean can swallow down a shipwrecked crew and leave no trace where the watery jaws have opened and snuffed him? No, Christ is not here alluding to a Mesopotamian or a Persian or a Sahara desert of sand. Christ is practically saying to his disciples, who are physically and mentally worn out from too much work, "Come, let us go out into the country where we can be alone. Let us go among the hills where we shall be separated from these throngs of people who are continually following us to be physically healed and spiritually fed. Let us go off alone, where we shall hear only the rustling of the leaves and the singing of the birds and the rippling of the brook. Let us go away into nature's haunts, where we can see the deer playing in the valleys and where we can stum-b through the wild vine growing at our feet. In our going away to the place where the shepherd leads his flock among the fresh green pasture lands."

Every human body needs the recuperation of physical rest. When Daniel Webster made his last visit to John Adams, the aged ex-president said: "I am as well as any man of nearly ninety years of age. I am not as well as I was, but I find I am afflicted with an incurable disease called old age. My spirit is occupying a very shaky tenement, and as far as I can make out, sir, the landlord does not intend to make any more repairs." That statement of John Adams was figuratively right and yet literally wrong. The human body, which was once created out of dust and is being re-created up to the very brink of the grave. We eat and drink and rest in order to give nourishment and strength to the muscles and the flesh. And rest is just as essential for the physical recreation as are food and water and light.

The purpose of this sermon is to show that every hardworking Christian, at least once a year, should go out into the country and take a vacation, a prayerful rest, the same as Jesus' disciples, who left their work to take a rest. It is every Christian's duty at least once a year to leave the home, the store, the factory and have a complete change of scene and food. When Phoebe Cary came to die, looking up at her physician, she said: "Doctor, you can do nothing for me. The reason I am dying is because I have never taken a rest." Even when I went off into the country I always took my books and pen and worked. "Thousands and tens of thousands of the best brains and hearts of the pulpits, the bar, the medical office and of all the Christian departments of life have simply killed themselves in their young manhood and womanhood because they would not obey Christ's command and take a rest."

I beg of you, hardworking Christian men and women, to look behind the office, the factory, the home and the pulpit and go off this summer into the country and rest awhile, because those men and women whom Satan cannot destroy by sin he will try to kill by overwork. Satan is a great strategist. He rarely attacks his enemies in the places where he thinks they are invulnerable. He is always trying new schemes and plans. When Satan finds a true Christian who is consecrated to God's service, he immediately calls together his demonic henchmen and says: "That man must be stopped in his career of good works. Those lips of his must be closed. That pure heart must be strangled by some poisonous arrow. That foot of his must be led along the stony path of sin." No vision of a heaven can arouse Satan into such a frenzied passion as the sight of a good man consecrating his life to good works. So Satan, when he sees a good man consecrating his life to good deeds, immediately dispatches his angels of temptation. First Satan offers to that good man all the allurements of popular applause and worldly pleasures.

Then if Satan finds that worldly applause and the wine cup and the midnight carousal do not stop the career of the good man who has consecrated his life to good deeds he tries another mode. He says: "I willaken and unleash all the bloodhounds of persecution and misrepresentation and slander and turn them upon the good man's track. I will let this pack of demonic bloodhounds bury their white teeth into his flanks. I will let these bloodhounds leap upon him and try to tear out his heart. Ah, I have made many a good man on account of

There's many a farmer's wife sits on the porch in the growing shadows of a summer evening, knowing to the full what it is to feel tired out; as if there was not another ounce of effort left in her. But she knows how sound her slumber will be and how refreshed the morning will find her. That's the tiredness of a healthy woman. But it's another thing for the sick woman to feel tired out. Rest only seems to increase her suffering. Just as in profound silence a second jasp the ear more forcibly, so now that she has stopped moving about this tired woman feels more acutely the aching back and throbbing nerves.

Sick women, hundreds of thousands of them, have been made well by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It establishes regularity, dries weakening drains, heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness. "Words cannot tell what I suffered for thirteen years with uterine trouble and dragging down pains through my hips and back," writes Mrs. John Dickson of Greenfield, Ashtabula Dist., N. W. Ter. "I can't describe the misery it was to be so long a time. I could not eat, nor sleep. Often I wished to die. Then I saw Dr. Pierce's medicine advertised in the Golden Medical Discovery was like a new woman. I could eat and sleep and do all my own work."

was buying medicines all the time—medicines for my digestion, medicines for my "nerves," medicines for headache, tablets for this and that and the other thing. But the greatest of all advantages in going off into a desert place to rest awhile is that we can God there closer nearer to Christ than we had ever been before. In this age of work but few men have time to stop and think. Daily tasks become so absorbing that the second duty crowds itself upon you as soon as the first duty is done. The rushing electric cars whirl the husbands and fathers and brothers to the store. From morning until night the customers have to be seen. Then come the evening tasks. And, though "a man works from sun to sun," a woman's work is never done. But when the Christian goes off into the country to rest he can go off to pray in the same spirit with which Christ went. When he gets away from the store, the factory, the home, his restless mind will begin to clear. As he saunters out to lie down under the shadows of the trees with his Bible, he will begin to realize how the goodness of God has followed him and fall on the ground without any Father. Fear ye not, therefore; ye are of more value than many sparrows." As the Christian wife walks through the fields and picks the daisies and clover tops and the golden-rod and the bright yellow buttercups, she will remember the words Jesus spoke when he said that as he cared for the lilies of the fields so he would care for her.

Japanese millet stands up very well for a tall crop. Don't sow it too thick, for it stools more than any other crop. One small seed will stand up seven or eight plants to the same height. If sown too thickly, it will not have room to stool and it will lodge much easier. Ten to twelve quarts of seed per acre on fairly good soil will stand up all right.

MILITARY SCANDAL

London, July 24.—A military scandal at the Windsor Barracks is exciting the public in view of the revelations of the professional unfitness of the officers of fashionable regiments. Lieut. Gregson, of the Second Life Guards, recently joined the regiment. He spent much time in studying military literature, and, being interested in the warfare of the man under him, he went among them studying their needs. A number of his fellow-officers were angry because he did not join in their amusements, but he showed the disapproval they recked his rooms, threw his furniture out of the windows, tore his carpet into shreds, and dragged him at night through the mud and rain to a trough. The young officer's father, Major Gregson, who is a friend of Lord Kitchener, has demanded a full enquiry into the outrage. The King is honorary colonel of the regiment. Its officers include the Earl of Longford, the Earl of Wicklow, and Lord Montgomery.

PECULIAR ACCIDENT.

E. Paton, near Dundalk, met with a very peculiar and painful accident recently. He undertook to spray his apple trees with a patent zinc sprayer, which he carried strapped to his person. He had sprayed three trees when, without warning the apparatus blew up with a terrific explosion. Mr. Paton was knocked senseless and remained in that condition for three hours. He was badly cut on chin and forehead, and his clothing was taken off by the explosion. The remains of the tank were found between 20 and 30 feet from where Mr. Paton stood. Five stitches were required to be put in Mr. Paton's chin. The solution in use was the ordinary blue-stone emulsion.—Florence Quill.

As the Christian wife walks through the fields and picks the daisies and clover tops and the golden-rod and the bright yellow buttercups, she will remember the words Jesus spoke when he said that as he cared for the lilies of the fields so he would care for her.

Japanese millet stands up very well for a tall crop. Don't sow it too thick, for it stools more than any other crop. One small seed will stand up seven or eight plants to the same height. If sown too thickly, it will not have room to stool and it will lodge much easier. Ten to twelve quarts of seed per acre on fairly good soil will stand up all right.

MILITARY SCANDAL

London, July 24.—A military scandal at the Windsor Barracks is exciting the public in view of the revelations of the professional unfitness of the officers of fashionable regiments. Lieut. Gregson, of the Second Life Guards, recently joined the regiment. He spent much time in studying military literature, and, being interested in the warfare of the man under him, he went among them studying their needs. A number of his fellow-officers were angry because he did not join in their amusements, but he showed the disapproval they recked his rooms, threw his furniture out of the windows, tore his carpet into shreds, and dragged him at night through the mud and rain to a trough. The young officer's father, Major Gregson, who is a friend of Lord Kitchener, has demanded a full enquiry into the outrage. The King is honorary colonel of the regiment. Its officers include the Earl of Longford, the Earl of Wicklow, and Lord Montgomery.

PECULIAR ACCIDENT.

E. Paton, near Dundalk, met with a very peculiar and painful accident recently. He undertook to spray his apple trees with a patent zinc sprayer, which he carried strapped to his person. He had sprayed three trees when, without warning the apparatus blew up with a terrific explosion. Mr. Paton was knocked senseless and remained in that condition for three hours. He was badly cut on chin and forehead, and his clothing was taken off by the explosion. The remains of the tank were found between 20 and 30 feet from where Mr. Paton stood. Five stitches were required to be put in Mr. Paton's chin. The solution in use was the ordinary blue-stone emulsion.—Florence Quill.

ALL CANADA AT TORONTO

There will not be a province or a piece of territory in the Dominion that will not be represented at the exhibition to be held in Toronto this year from Monday, Sept. 1st, to Saturday, Sept. 13th. To mark the appreciation of this evidence of the country's confidence, the Executive have increased the prize list until now it is proudly boasted that, with special awards of $37,000 will be distributed in prizes among the exhibitors, six-sevenths of which will find its way to the agricultural community. While this large sum proves the magnitude of the exposition, the enterprise of its managers, and the comprehensiveness of the exhibits, the fact that $30,000 is to be spent in attractions and special features, the latest inventions as well as the latest novelties in the amusement world, and including $7,000 for music, shows that while the agricultural and industrial interests of the country are to be put in the foreground, the people's enjoyment will not be neglected. America and Europe have been secured for all that is best in every line of attraction. The greatest master of spectacle on earth has been secured to produce in all its brilliancy and gorgeousness his stupendous production "The Orient," which was the wonder of London, Eng., at Olympia for a year, and that is only one of the really costly features that have either been engaged or are being negotiated for. Then there are the new Dairy Building and the new Art Gallery, which will greatly increase the value of the ex-

EX-COUNTY COUNCILLOR MARRIED.

The Tilbury Times of last week tells of the marriage of Mr. J. A. McGregor the well-known Tilbury ex-county councillor, who, in company with Ridgetown's present bachelor mayor, so eloquently responded to the toast of "The Ladies" at a dinner or most "warden's supper."

His numerous friends here were surprised to learn of the marriage of J. A. McGregor on Saturday. The happy event took place in the English church at Petrolia, at 6 o'clock in the evening, and although Mr. McGregor returned to Tilbury the following day, and left the same evening on a four months' business trip to Calgary, news of the happy event did not reach Tilbury until Tuesday evening—too late to extend congratulations. The bride is well and favorably known in Tilbury, having had charge of J. S. Richardson's millinery room about six years ago and for the past three years has had charge of a millinery store in Petrolia. On the completion of her business there, the bride will reside at her home in Lindsay until her husband returns in November.—Ridgetown Dominion.

PROBABILITIES.

Special to The Planet.
Toronto, July 26.—40 a. m.—Light to moderate southerly and southwesterly winds, fine and very warm to-day; local thunderstorms to-day and on Sunday.

The following figures were registered to-day at seven a. m. at Turner's weather bureau:
Thermometer 72.
Highest yesterday 82.
Lowest yesterday 62.
Direction of wind, west.

THE LOCAL BUDGET

Charles Ayres spent yesterday at East.

J. Ferguson, of Thamesville, was in the city yesterday.

S. B. Brown, of Thamesville, was a Chatham visitor yesterday.

M. Campbell, of St. Thomas, was a visitor in the city yesterday.

Miss Olive Marsh, of Detroit, is the guest of Miss Mabel Walters.

The starboard Juno is in port with a cargo of coal for the Gas Co.

Miss Jessie Patterson, of Northway, is visiting friends in St. Thomas.

Dr. J. Knight, of Wallaceburg, spent yesterday with his chatham friends.

J. M. McLachlan, of Rutherford, is spending the day in the Maple City.

Leslie Heath will spend Sunday with friends in Wallaceburg and Port Huron.

Robert Porterfield, Hamilton, well known in the city, is spending a few days here.

The firemen wish to thank Wm. Somerville for a treat to ice cream and cake.

Edwin Leigh, of Wallaceburg, was in the city yesterday, calling on his many friends.

Walter Gouillard, of Windsor, who has been visiting in the city for the past week, returned home today.

Garnet Sparks, of Pontiac, Mich., who has been visiting in the city for the past week, returns to Pontiac today.

Geo. A. Wagner, of Detroit, who has been attending the funeral of the late Samuel Hicklin, returned home yesterday.

Frank Hicklin, of Detroit, who has been attending the funeral of his brother, returned home this afternoon.

Miss Ida McKerrill, who has been visiting in the city for the past few days, returns to Detroit this afternoon.

Miss Grace Storey, of Windsor, and Mrs. and Miss Powell, Mrs. Warner, Dr. Mitchell, Mrs. Linton, and Mrs. and Miss Riggs, of Detroit, were the guests of Count Von Eberts at the Garner House last evening.

Mr. Morgan, the manager of the Grays baseball team, is quite satisfied with the result of the recent game with the Regimental Band. He says now that the Grays did not "play to beat the band."

Fire Chief Pritchard wishes to announce that on the first of August, the day the colored people celebrate here, he would be pleased to give the visitors in the city an exhibition of the way the horses in the hall are hitched, and also to show any of them through the hall.

Thos. W. Smythe has received a splendid photograph of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Fenning. The picture was taken by a nephew of Mr. Smythe, a lad of 16, at his father's home, Leytonstone, near London, England, where Mr. and Mrs. Fenning were visitors. The photograph was taken with a camera which Mr. Smythe sent his nephew some years ago.

Lightning Injured a Farmer
Working on Ladder Near Wallaceburg in the Storm

Wallaceburg, July 25.—Fred Teeter, a farmer living about four miles east of this place, was struck by lightning during the storm of yesterday. He was working on a ladder when it was struck, tearing the ladder to pieces, also breaking Mr. Teeter's legs and arms. Drs. Hay and Mitchell were summoned, and state there is some hope of his recovery.

AHOY, FISH YARNS

D. A. Hutchison and L. E. Tillson won fancy fishing poles at London by reason of their defeating all opponents in the doubles.

SWORN IN

Herbert D. Smith, Ridgeway, is now Crown Attorney and Clerk of the Peace for Kent. He took his oath of allegiance to the King and of office this morning before His Honor Judge Bell. Mr. Smith received his commission on Wednesday and entered on his duties to-day. Mr. Smith has installed Miss Douglas in his office as stenographer.

LAID TO REST

The funeral of the late Samuel T. Hicklin took place yesterday afternoon to the Maple Leaf cemetery. It was very largely attended. The A. O. F., of which deceased was an old member, attended in a body. Among the many flowers were a wreath and a triangle from the A. O. F. The pall-bearers were six of his Brother Foresters, Messrs. Benson, Webber, Cambers, Snell, Mount and Cape.

UGLY RUNAWAY

A somewhat exciting runaway occurred this morning on William street. Joseph Parsons was driving over the C. P. R. track when his horse became frightened and ran down the street towards King street. In crossing the pavement one of the horses slipped and slid the whole way across the pavement. He regained his feet again and ran with the other horse past the Mount House, where they were stopped. Mr. Parsons remained in the rig all the time, doing all in his power to stop his team, but all he could do was guide them in their mad course. No serious damage was done. Mr. Parsons was not injured in the least, but the rig was badly broken up.

OUR MASTER.

Immortal love, forever full,
Forever loving free,
Forever shared, forever whole,
A never-ebbing sea!
No fable old, nor mythic lore,
Nor dead fact stranded on the shore
Of the oblivious years.
But warm, sweet, tender, even yet
A present help is He;
And faith has still its Olivet,
And love its Galilee.

The healing of His seamless dress
Is by our beds of pain;
We touch him in life's throng and press,
And we are whole again.

Our Friend, our Brother, and our Lord,
What may Thy service be?
Nor name, nor form, nor ritual word,
But simply following Thee.

Thy lifelines, sweet offices
Of love and gratitude;
Thy sacramental liturgies,
The joy of doing good.

—John G. Whittier.

THRILLING SCENE

fell in the second troop of "E" squadrons, but no one was hurt.

"We all knew that there would be some shooting, and I guess there was. There was a mix-up at this time in the Boer camp. Delaney wanted to make an early morning attack while the Boers were still in camp, started firing right away.

THE GALLANT STAND.

"We were about a mile away waiting orders to come into camp, when we realized we were surrounded and they started firing at us about 500 yards away. Under Lieutenant Corruthers, we dismounted and commenced firing. They made a desperate rush at us, but we drove them back with great loss. Now, we were at a great disadvantage. We had no cover whatever, while they, under cover of the trees, poured a heavy rifle fire on us, picking us off right down the line. Evans, who was right beside me, was, I should judge, the last man hit.

"I was hit before him, and he asked, 'Are you badly hurt, Jim?' 'No,' I replied, 'only a grazed arm. That's all.'

"'Yes, Jim, can you spare me some ammunition?' he asked. 'I had just replied that I could, when he was wounded and fell, rolling over on his side at the same time, crying, 'Oh, Jim, I am badly hurt.' 'At the same time the Boers came rushing on us and demanded the few of us who were left to surrender, and not until they were within five yards of us did we throw up our hands. I missed Evans for a few minutes then, but heard afterward about his shooting all he had after being wounded, and then breaking his rifle. I saw the relief afterward. Poor Evans died early the next morning.

"The commandant we surrendered to sent us immediately to the rear, where we were stripped of our clothes, watches and, in fact, everything. We were then allowed to go back to the wounded and dead, who were also stripped. A light rain was falling and the air was very cold. The battle was over at 5.30 o'clock, and the wagons came out at 7.30 for the wounded.

"We stood at arms all night, but the Boers never showed up again, as they had had enough of it for a while.

"We lost 41 killed and 142 wounded, including the Mounted Infantry, Imperial Yeomanry and Demant's Horse.

"Next day at noon General Walter Kitchener came up with a relief force, having heard, he said, that we were surrounded. When we first saw the party coming over the hill we thought it was the Boers and got ready for them.

"The way back to Dikneil the wagons got stuck in the mud, the horses and mules we had left (we had had 140 horses and 80 mules killed in action there) being unable to pull the heavy loads.

"The food was plentiful all through the campaign, and plenty of clothes and necessities were supplied. About the only hardship we had was the heat of the 'drives,' which lasted from four to seven days. Our horses on the last 'drive' to Drieburg went 38 miles without water and were almost fagged.

"From March 23 to May 11 the columns accounted for 864 Boers killed or taken prisoners, including Delaney's brother and Commandant Porters killed, being shot through the head. After this we were employed for some time destroying crops and such like, until we received orders that peace terms were almost settled. On June 14 the Boer commandos passed over our lines into Klerksdorp to surrender, and got supplies, returning to their homes rejoicing.

"We left Klerksdorp on June 17 to come home, trekking to Elanfontein, passing through the Rand gold mines. We turned our horses in on June 23 and left Elanfontein in a coach for Durban, where we sailed on the 27th, a rough, ragged looking lot. The sail home was a most pleasant one and all that could be wished for. We were welcomed heartily at all the cities along the line, and I arrived in town this morning at 8 o'clock.

"When asked how he liked the country, Trooper Kendell replied that it was a good country and all that, but no good for a laboring man, as the negroes do all the work there and get about a shilling a day for it. It is almost slavery, because they must obey the Dutchmen they are working for or receive the lash.

"I suppose, however, he added, 'it will be different now that Britain has control of the country.'

TELL HIM SO.

If you have a word of cheer
That may light the pathway dread
Of a brother pilgrim here,
Let him know.

Show him you appreciate
What he does; and do not wait
Till the heavy hand of Fate
Lays him low.

If your heart contains a thought
That will brighter make his lot,
Then, in mercy, hide it not;
Tell him so.

Wait not till your friend is dead
Ere your compliments are said;
For the spirit that has fled,
If it know,

Does not need to heed it on
Our poor praise; where it has gone
Love's eternal, golden dawn
Is aglow.

But unto our brother here
That poor praise is very dear;
If you've any word of cheer
Tell him so.

Young Member for West Elgin has no Doubt of Mr. Whitney's Ultimate Success.

There is not a more energetic young politician in the Ontario Legislature than Finlay McDiarmid, Conservative member for West Elgin. This hero of the famous election frauds is continually out in his constituency, meeting new residents and is as he is stated to The Planet, ready for an election at any time.

He was met yesterday by a Planet reporter, on the Lake Erie, on his way from Rodney to Dutton, where he was going to revise some voters' lists. In a brief conversation he said, concerning the recent election and the present situation of affairs in Toronto: "I don't think the government has one leg to stand on and I can't see how they can hold their power. If everything goes their way, they may be all right for a year or so, but if one constituency goes against them they will simply have to submit to the will of the people and allow Mr. Whitney to manage the affairs of the province."

"The people are behind Mr. Whitney and it is their wish that he should push this thing through to a finish. Public opinion will be disappointed if Mr. Whitney relaxes his efforts at the present time."

"It was surprising to note the large majorities obtained by some of the Conservative candidates. This shows that in these constituencies the machine was absent; being busy in some other parts of the province. There is no doubt that the people generally wish a change, and I think they will have it before long."

In speaking of the damage done to the farmers by the recent rains, Mr. McDiarmid said:—"The rains have done damage to the farms in the vicinity of Rodney. Much hay has been destroyed. The bean crop is also injured and the corn is bad. It looks bad for wheat. The point of it is ripe, but the ground is so soft that the farmers can't cut it. However, I trust the result may not be as serious as is feared."

A GIRL OF THE PEOPLE

By Mrs. C. N. Williamson.

"No might have been—neither one nor the other," I answered, firmly, though my heart had begun to beat very fast. "Perhaps he was only—poor."

"You are a cynic, my child," Roger said, calmly. But his beautifully arched brows drew together in a frown.

"What has your story to do with me?" I asked.

"Everything, with both you and me," I looked up quickly; our eyes met and dwelt. A slight shiver ran through my body. What was coming now? I felt as if I was standing on the edge of a precipice, knowing that Roger would push me over and I should not be able to resist.

"You are serious?"

"Most serious. This is what was in my mind when I asked if Aunt Ermytrude had spoken at the last of the circumstances of your birth. This was in her mind, perhaps, when she told you it would make her happy if you could learn to care for me."

"Please don't try to break it gently, Roger," I said, my lips very dry. "Tell me everything you know—straight out."

"I will, if you can bear it. You have been brought up to believe that you were born abroad. That is not the case."

"Oh, well, it is not important," I said. "My cousin, Sir Vincent Cope, was not your father."

"What was my mother twice married, then?"

"My Aunt Ermytrude was not your mother."

I sprang up with a faint, choking cry. "It is not true!" I panted.

"It is true, and it can easily be proved. I am not the only one who knows it. There are other witnesses in whose mouths the truth shall be established. There is not a drop of Cope blood in your veins, poor little desolate Sheila."

"Desolate, indeed!" I bitterly echoed. "If it be true—oh, I will grant it true, if you choose—why was I never told before? Why was I left to hear it from you?"

"Why should I not be the one to tell you, as tenderly as such a hard thing can be told? Had Aunt Ermytrude lived you would have been kept in ignorance at least until your marriage. Then it would have been as your husband thought best. Ah, Sheila, how I would have protected and shielded you if you would have let me! Even yet it is not too late. Look at me, I'm holding out my arms to you. Don't go away into the world homeless, penniless. Stay in this shelter and you will not miss anything that was ever yours."

"Homeless—penniless!" I echoed, dazedly. "I don't understand."

"If Aunt Ermytrude had left a will, she would, doubtless, have provided for a daughter," Roger went on, slowly. "Had she done so I must have known it, for I was her lawyer, and managed all business matters for her, as you are probably aware. Once or twice, thinking of some such difficulty as this, I ventured to advise her to make a will. But she always evaded me and put it off. This place was her property. She was a rich woman, with an income of ten or twelve thousand pounds a year; and had you been her daughter by ties of blood as well as affection, everything must have gone to you in the absence of a will, as you would have been the natural heir. No one else could have claimed an acre of property. But as it is you are not a relation at all, and you will get nothing. Everything goes by law to the next-of-kin, Aunt Ermytrude's one living relative."

"Exactly. Don't blame me, Sheila. I did not make the law."

"No, but—"

"But what?"

"Nothing," I said, dutily.

I had been on the point of crying out: "You might refuse to accept what the law gives. But I stopped just in time. I would have died sooner than ask or receive favors from Roger Cope. I never trusted or liked him. Now, almost numb as I was by the blow with which he had struck me, I saw him as he was—a hypocrite, a poseur, vain, utterly selfish, utterly unscrupulous in gaining his own ends. I had lost everything—mother, home, and means of support, but I would have nothing from him. I could not yet fully realize what the revelation of this morning must mean for me. So far I only felt the pain of knowing that the beautiful woman I had worshipped and feared had never belonged to me at all. And in my misery, like some wretched little animal caught in a trap, my impulse was to bite the hand nearest. I turned on Roger."

CHAPTER VII.
I Arrive at a Momentous Decision.

"I can understand well enough," I exclaimed, bitterly, "why you should have wished to marry me if I had been the heiress that people have thought me. But why do you want me now?"

Roger waved his hand towards a great mirror that went from floor to ceiling, on the wall of the "Indian boudoir."

"Look at yourself," he said.

Mechanically, hardly knowing what I did, I looked. Never before had I been critical of myself. But now I gazed searchingly at my own face—the one fortune that was left me.

I was beautiful. Even I could see that. As I grew older, my hair might change its young gold for autumn brown; but it was yellow as ripe wheat now, brown only in the shadows, where the waves curved inward. And my eyes were big, and dark, and soft. Suddenly, I felt very sorry for myself, because I was so pretty, and only eighteen, because I seemed to have left youth and happiness forever behind me, and there was no one whom I loved or had a claim upon to put kind arms around me, and let me cry my heart out on a sympathetic breast.

Tears sprang to my eyes, but I crushed them back. Roger Cope should not see me cry.

"I want you because you are the prettiest girl, and some day will be the most beautiful woman on earth," cried Roger, speaking more warmly and im-puisively than I had ever heard him speak. "I want you, too, because you are hard to win; and I have always liked overcoming difficulties. Sooner or later, I want you, Sheila. I will overcome this one, and you with it. I will! You might as well yield to the inevitable now."

"It isn't inevitable. And I won't yield," I stoutly maintained. "You haven't proved any of your statements yet."

"I will, soon enough; or, rather, I can. But if you will promise to marry me, sweet, no one need ever know. You will marry as Miss Sheila Cope of Arish Mill Court; and I will come here to live, as your husband."

"You will come here to live; it may be, but not as my husband," I cut him short. "I shall have gone away before that."

"Where would you go?" Roger asked, curiously, almost incredulously.

"The world's a big place," I retorted, my voice quivering with the sobs that would not quite be kept back. One tore its way up from my heart; and, with two great tears running down my cheeks, I exclaimed: "Oh, if there were only somebody whom I belonged to!"

Roger took a step forward, and put out his hand, but I pushed it from me; and his blue eyes flashed their resentment. "I believe," he said, quietly, in the draw which had so often stung me to impatience, "that there are several persons with whom you are entitled to claim kinship, if you choose."

I dashed my tears away, and gazed at him eagerly. "Tell me—tell me!" I cried. "How was it that my mother—that Lady Cope took me as her own child?"

"She was very unhappy at the time. Five years before she had lost her little son, whom she and her husband both adored. He died in most tragic circumstances, and she changed his mother's whole nature. Sir Vincent and Aunt Ermytrude went abroad. There Sir Vincent died also, and poor Aunt Ermytrude came back—not to her old home, but to London. She undertook various charitable works, and it was while she was giving up her life to the interests of others that she met your mother."

"My mother?" I echoed in a whisper. For a moment I was powerless to ask more; but Roger went on, without waiting for my questions.

"Your mother was also a widow, and very poor. You were her only child, but she had been ill, among other misfortunes, and was hardly able to provide for you. Aunt Ermytrude saw you—a pretty little thing a few months of age; and, taking a great fancy to you, in her loneliness, offered to adopt you as her own. Your mother finally consented, and as Aunt Ermytrude had been living abroad for several years with her husband, and her presence in London had been known, it was while she was giving up her life to the interests of others that she met your mother."

none, however, when she came home at last with a baby not quite a year old.

"I knew the truth from the first, because I had visited Cousin Vincent and Aunt Ermytrude abroad, and knew that they had no child, so I had to be told. And the vicar, old Mr. Westerley, was told also, but we were both asked to keep the secret, and we always have."

"You said that some of my people were still alive," I said, in a strained voice.

"Your mother is living," Roger quietly answered. "I have been at some pains to keep track of her—for Aunt Ermytrude's sake, of course."

Somehow I did not believe that it had been for anyone's sake but his own, and for some purpose which I seemed to be on the point of discovering.

"Have your mother's present address, if you wish to write her, Sheila," Roger said. "I will give it to you."

"Yes," I said. "I want the address. But before writing, I should like to see Mr. Westerley. You told me that—he knew the secret, also."

"He does," Roger answered, gravely. "And you shall see him. I would have written in your mind. You believe that I am deceiving you. Well, it is natural, perhaps—though it's hard to be misled by the woman one loves. In the months I was sure I would grant myself some privileges, with the benefit of the doubt."

Roger rang the bell, and then came back to me. From his pocket he took a sealed envelope. "The address you wanted," he explained. "I will go and leave you alone now. I can see that you would prefer that. After Mr. Westerley has been with you, and gone away again, you shall have a little time to think. Then I will come back, and you shall tell me what decision you have reached. It may be that you will look upon matters with a different eye. At all events, remember that while you have me you are not friendless."

He bent his head, and, though I felt the impulse to refuse it, I would not, lest he should think it was because I grudged him the things that had seemed mine. When the bell was answered a servant came in, and told me that Mr. Westerley was waiting for me.

The vicar was a kind old man with a nervous manner, and the air of being slightly startled when anyone addressed him. His greatest pleasure was collecting butterflies, a passion which he infinitely preferred to the companionship of human beings. But, because he was good, I knew that he would come to me without delay, and I was not disappointed.

I could hardly wait to answer his questions as to my health and spirits when he arrived, but burst at once into the subject weighing on my heart. "Mr. Westerley," I asked, abruptly, "is it true that—that Lady Cope adopted me when I was a baby—that I was not her own child?"

The wrinkled old face, with its long, narrow oval, and its high forehead thatched with white hair, flushed deeply, and looked more startled than ever. "Who—who told you that?" the vicar questioned, with an exaggeration of his usual slight stammer.

"Sir Roger Cope," I answered. "He said that you, Sir, knew the story—only you and he in the world now since my—since Lady Cope is dead. I would not believe it until I had seen you. But now I know—just from your face, even before you speak—that it's true."

"My poor child! It is indeed true. But I had hoped—I knew that Lady Cope had not wished you ever to be told that you were not her daughter by birth, as you were in heart."

We had both been standing up. In my impatience I had not given him the chance of sitting down; but now I sank upon a sofa and covered my face with my hands. The vicar sat beside me and told his hand on my knee.

Rev. Marguerite St. Omer Briggs, 35 Mount Calm Street, Detroit, Michigan, Lecturer for the W. C. T. U., recommends Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—My professional work has for the past twenty years brought me into hundreds of homes of sickness, and I have had plenty of opportunity to witness the sufferings of wives and mothers who from want, ignorance or carelessness, are slowly but surely being dragged to death, principally with female weakness and irregularities of the sex. I believe you will be pleased to know that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has cured more women than any other agency that has come under my notice. Hundreds of women owe their life and health to you to-day, and, therefore, I can conscientiously advise sick women to try it."—MARGUERITE ST. OMER BRIGGS.

When women are troubled with irregular or painful menstruation, weakness, leucorrhoea, displacement or ulceration of the womb, that bearing-down feeling, inflammation of the ovaries, backache, flatulence, general debility, indigestion, and nervous prostration, they should remember there is one tried and true remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once removes such troubles.

No other medicine in the world has received such widespread and unqualified endorsement. No other medicine has such a record of cures of female troubles. Refuse to buy any other medicine.

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health. Address, Lynn, Mass.

Midsummer Sufferings.

Paine's Celery Compound
Quickly Dissipates Tired Feeling and Gives New Life to the Weak, Nervous and Debilitated.

Tired, languid and despondent feelings prevail to an alarming extent during the hot term of summer. Such feelings indicate depleted blood and a feeble condition of the nervous system.

This is just the time when Paine's Celery Compound is needed to build up flesh and muscle, brace the nerves and strengthen the brain.

Sick headaches, nervous prostration, sleeplessness and general feeling of mental and physical depression by which life is made almost intolerable in the hot weather, can all be speedily banished by the use of a bottle or two of Paine's Celery Compound, nature's summer renovator and strength-giver.

Paine's Celery Compound never fails to repair the wasted and worn-out tissues; it calms and perfectly regulates nervous action, and brings that sweet and restful sleep that makes life happy.

The medicine that in the past has done such marvellous things for others is the kind you should use at this time.

FOUND DEAD IN DITCH.

London, Ont., July 24.—John Wilson, a farmer residing a few miles west of Thorndale, was found dead in a ditch on the roadway near Wyton yesterday afternoon about 6 o'clock. REVIVAL OF BRIGANDAGE.

London, July 24.—The Times' correspondent in Athens says the revival of brigandage is a serious matter. It is an unpleasant symptom which is being much discussed by the Greek press. Most brigands are ordinary fugitives from justice, persons who have escaped from the law. Outlaws are sometimes in collusion with men of respectable positions in towns, while peasants furnish provisions. The system of robbing the mail is still practised with considerable success.

Prof. George F. Parker, of the University of Pennsylvania, has been experimenting with uranium, whose invisible radiance was discovered by Becquerel and with the new radiated metals, polonium and radium, found in pitch-blende by Madame Currie.

He recently exhibited a series of photographic plates on which the radiations had been produced by these substances. This procedure has been as follows, says Scientific American: A photographic plate was enclosed in black paper and then covered with a solution of energy or loss of a day's exposure to the sunlight no effect was produced. This precaution proved the thoroughness of the protection. Then the various metals and salts were placed outside the covering of the plate and they produced dark stains.

In order to take photographs of objects such as a hand or foot, the objects would be placed between the metal and the plate and the result would be similar to those obtained by the "x" rays. Such substances as bone show clearly through the flesh and surrounding tissue. A photograph can be taken by means of radium in half a minute.

The property of a new metal is apparently of great practical value. The results of the "x" rays, now so useful in surgical diagnosis, can be duplicated by a method much cheaper. Radium seems to suffer no diminution of energy or loss of weight during the process. In addition to producing an impression on the photographic plate, radium produces phosphorescence and discharges electrified bodies. This it will be seen that it possesses all the qualities of the Röntgen rays.

Radium apparently violates one of the fundamental laws of physics, namely, that of the conservation of energy. It does not appear to derive its photographic power from the sunlight nor lose it by expenditure.

Danger in Celluloid.

In 1898 The Lancet, of London, appointed a commission to investigate the subject of the accidental catching fire of celluloid ornaments, which occurred by placing a celluloid comb in a wig at various distances from a glowing fire, the probability of accidents to wearers of such an article. It was further found that a curling iron heated to the temperature necessary for curling readily started the evolution of dense and highly-inflammable fumes. The danger of exposing celluloid toys in shop windows near electric lamps was shown. The following illustrate the accidents from celluloid: A man while smoking a cigar was playing an American organ with a celluloid key. Some resinous ash dropped on the keys, and they burst into flames, which were extinguished with difficulty. A boy was wearing a celluloid collar tied with a string. To move the collar he pulled the string. The collar ignited and lighted drops of the composition fell on his clothing. His throat and face were badly burned. A woman seated before a fire which was not unusually strong found her hair enveloped in smoke and flames from ignition of her comb. Before the flames could be extinguished an area of scalp 4 x 1 1/2 inches was destroyed. The burn was to the skull and the hair of the injured area was permanently destroyed.

The Color Cure.

The part played by color in the treatment of disease, is just now attracting fresh attention. The success of the Italian doctors in their employment of color in the sick room has set some people talking about this subject as though it were a modern discovery. In fact, the discovery that color affected the nerves, and through the nerves the general health of the body was made many years ago; we know that Edward II., for instance, when he was Prince Edward, was cured of smallpox—if we are to believe the court physicians—solely by the brilliant scarlets employed in the decoration of his bed and the room in which he bedded. But to say that color, per se, can cure a person of smallpox, or any other malady, is to state what science must absolutely deny. Nevertheless, it cannot be too widely known that success in sick nursing may depend in a greater or less degree on the scheme of coloring that obtains in the patient's room. Whether scarlet or the other various shades of red, as the universal panacea we know not, but it is quite safe to say that anything in the shade of mournful and dyspeptic yellows and greens should not be utilized in ministering to a mind diseased. Color, in this sense, after all, is only another word for environment; and it is quite certain that brightness and cheerfulness, whatever their tints, are useful factors in the treatment of sickness.—London Globe.

Presence of Mind.

Some years ago a battery of British artillery was at big gun practice at Bermuda. One of the guns was found to have a serious flaw. The officer in charge, not caring to risk his men's lives, ordered the gun to be fired. "Sergeant, have we any time-expired men here?" "Yes, sir," answered the sergeant, "Paddy Jackson has just completed his term." "Well, then," replied the thoughtful officer, "Paddy Jackson will fire the first gun." The Duke of Wellington once met, by accident, an officer in a state of inebriety. "Look here, sir," said the Iron Duke, "what would you do if you met one of your men in the condition in which I find you?" "I would shoot him," answered the officer, "and I would save him his commission."

MOTHER AND BABY

When it is found impossible for the mother to nurse her baby in hot summer weather, it is well to know that Lactated Food is a perfect substitute for the mother's milk. This life saving food is relished by the babies who cannot be tolerated by the weak stomach. Lactated Food should be used by every mother who would have her baby strong and happy.

HOI WEATHER AILMENTS.

Careful Mothers Should Keep on Hand the Means to Check Ailments That Otherwise May Prove fatal.

When the weather is hot the sands of the little life are apt to glide away before you know it. You can't watch the little one too carefully at this period. Dysentery, diarrhoea, cholera infantum and disorders of the stomach are alarmingly frequent during the hot, moist weather of the summer months. At the first sign of any of these, or any of the other ailments that afflict little ones, give Baby's Own Tablets. These Tablets will speedily relieve and promptly cure all hot weather ailments. Keep them in the house—their prompt use may save a precious little life. Mrs. Herbert Burnham, Smith's Falls, Ont., says:—"When my eldest child was six weeks old he had an attack of cholera infantum and was at death's door. My doctor advised me to use Baby's Own Tablets, and in twenty-four hours baby was better; the vomiting and purging ceased and he regained strength rapidly. I have used the Tablets for other ailments of children since and always with the happiest results. I can sincerely recommend them to mothers as a medicine that should always be kept in the house."

Little ones thrive, are good-natured and grow plump and rosy in homes where Baby's Own Tablets are used. Children take them as readily as candy, and crushed to a powder they can be given to the youngest infant with the best of results. Sold at drug stores or you can get them post paid at 25 cents a box by writing direct to the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont., or Schenectady, N. Y.

HAYTI'S REVOLUTION.

Cape Haytien, Hayti, July 24.—The army from the department of Artibonite, and from the district in sympathy with Firmin, who has been declared president by the Artibonites, is marching on Cape Haytien from three sides. General Albert Salnave has arrived at Plaisance. General Emile Gaspard has reached Port-au-Prince. The Minister of War of the provincial government, is still here, but it is said he contemplates leaving Cape Haytien shortly in order to take charge of the troops relied upon to defend the capital, Port-au-Prince. The population here is in a state of uneasiness, believing that the town will shortly be attacked by the Firminists. No news has been received here regarding the movements of the warship Crete A. Piereot, but it is feared that she may appear off this port and land troops to support Mr. Firmin's forces. There are no foreign warships here.

GRAVEL CURED

Remarkable Case of this Painful Disease.

Reuben Draper, of Bristol, Que., who was a Victim, Finds Relief and a Permanent Cure—He Tells of His Sufferings and How He Left His Troubles Behind.

Bristol, Que., July 25.—(Special).—No disease caused more severe and dreadful pain than Gravel. Reuben Draper, of this place, was taken ill with this awful trouble about five years ago. He was cured and so many have asked him how it was done that he has decided to give the whole story for publication.

"About five years ago I was taken ill with the Gravel. I suffered great pain, so I sent for a doctor. He gave me some medicine and came to see me twice afterwards, but my disease was not gone, and in a short time I had another very bad attack.

"This time I sent for another doctor with about the same results, only I was getting weaker all the time. When a man is taken ill with Gravel, he should try Dodd's Kidney Pills, for he said they had cured his mother. I thought I would try them and bought a box.

"Just one week after I had the treatment I passed a stone as large as a small bean, and four days later another about the size of a grain of barley—this gave me great relief, and I commenced to feel better and to gain strength right away.

"That was five years ago and I have not had any trouble in that way since. I have the stones in a small bottle and anyone can see them who wishes. Dodd's Kidney Pills certainly saved my life."

The story of Mr. Draper will be good news to many sufferers who may not have known that Dodd's Kidney Pills always cure Gravel and Stone in the Bladder.

What has cured this gentleman and hundreds of others very bad cases should cure any one, and those who may be afflicted as Mr. Draper was should try Dodd's Kidney Pills.

The great thing which counts in this world is not talent, but faithfulness.

International Bible Lesson for Tomorrow—Worshipping the Golden Calf—Ex. xxiii, 1-6 and 30-35.

Golden Text—"Thou shalt have no other gods before me."

What a scene in this season. We have about three millions of freed slaves, accompanied by numbers of Egyptian refugees, a turbulent, ignorant multitude, encamped before Sinai, their leader absent forty days. Satan leads them into the sin of idolatry, although they promised obedience to God a few days before. With little to do and without godly leaders they fall. Faith can trust and worship and wait on an invisible God, but men want to see and feel with their bodily senses, while God is a spirit and must be worshipped in spirit. How easily this multitude turns from an Almighty, Intelligent, Holy God, who has delivered them from slavery, devastating Egypt and her gods and destroying her army—while He fed them from Heaven daily—they turn to a thing without life or power, "as a dog to its vomit, as a sow washed to her wallowing," just as men do to-day. This crisis brings out in strong contrast the characters of Moses and Aaron—the latter a poor, wavering man, fearing policeman, the other brother trained, fitted, led by God to lead. Moses is the mediator, type of Christ, whose grace he exhibits in this remarkable way, offering himself a sacrifice on Israel's behalf. Notice his intercession, his pleas for his deluded people. Man is created to glorify God and enjoy Him forever, and unless God is first with us in all things, some idol is.

"Little children, keep yourselves from idols."

FITZ LAST GAME BATTLE

Ringside, San Francisco, July 25.—After fighting a battle of eight rounds that was fraught with brilliant and courageous work Robt. Fitzsimmons to-night forfeited his last claim upon the heavyweight championship.

He was knocked to the floor by Jas. Jeffries and counted out after he had so badly punished the champion that it was a foregone conclusion among the spectators that the Cornishman must win.

Bleeding from a number of gashes in the face, apparently weakening and clearly unable to cope with Fitzsimmons' superior skill, Jeffries delivered two lucky punches as Fitzsimmons paused in his fighting to speak to him, and turned the tide. The battle was brief but noteworthy, and will live in pugilistic history.

Fitzsimmons tried to rise from the mat, but sank down again helpless and heard himself counted out, where but a moment before he had apparently all the better of it.

"I will never fight again," said the battle-scarred veteran of the ring when he had sufficiently recovered to talk.

The fight was won fairly, and to the best man belongs the laurels.

"You are the most dangerous man alive," said Jeffries in return, "and I consider myself lucky to have won when I did."

A FURIOUS PACE.

Fitzsimmons had been fighting at a furious pace, cool and deliberate and chopping the champion too pieces with the terrific rights and lefts that he made him feel.

A FURIOUS PACE.

Fitzsimmons had been fighting at a furious pace, cool and deliberate and chopping the champion too pieces with the terrific rights and lefts that he made him feel.

that in my first battle with Jeffries I was doped. His showing to-night proved to me conclusively that my defeat at his hands in our previous battle was unwarranted.

Asked why he did all the leading, Fitzsimmons indignantly denied the allegation and said that Jeffries did a great deal of the work, especially in the clinches and at close range.

"He is as strong as an ox and his blows hurt me considerably, especially his terrible lefts to the body," said Fitzsimmons.

Asked in regard to his plans for the future Bob facetiously remarked: "I am going back to Bensonhurst and attending to the duties of a housewife in America and try to make them like me—a vigorous old man—past his fortieth year and as hale and as hearty as a man well within his thirties."

At this juncture Dr. L. C. Cox, who had been summoned to attend the fighter, commenced an examination of the defeated pugilist. After a careful examination of the bruising, in breaking, Clarke Hall, Fitzsimmons' manager, expressed his opinion that Fitz was too confident.

At 8:30 p. m. Fitzsimmons arrived in the carriage at the entrance to Valencia street. He was cheered by the crowd that stood at the entrance. Fitzsimmons went immediately to his dressing tent at the right of the main entrance to the arena.

He was accompanied by his manager, Clark Ball.

At 8:46 p. m. Jeffries arrived on the ground and went to his dressing room. Jeffries was accompanied by Billy Delaney, Jack Jeffords and Joe Kennedy.

FITZ APPEARED FIRST.

The preliminary was ended by 9:35 p. m. by Foley knocking Barry out in the eleventh round. Immediately the crowd became impatient, and there was a good deal of stirring about and visiting among the well-known characters at the ringside.

0:05—Bob Fitzsimmons stepped into the ring, carrying his gloves and dressed in a long, light blue bath robe. Following him were Clark Ball, Hank Griffin, George Dawson and a bottle holder.

0:06—Jeffries stepped into the ring, dressed in a long overcoat, pants, a sweater and a Panama hat. About him were Billy Delaney, Joe Kennedy and George Miller. Jeffries walked up and inspected Fitzsimmons' bandages, passing them without comment, as men were given a warm reception.

Fitzsimmons first took the southwest corner, but a moment later moved to the northeast, and finally to the southeast corner. The champion took the northwest.

Jim Corbett sent a challenge to fight the winner. This was received with applause, but later the announcement was made that Sharkey sent a challenge, and there was jeering.

Fitzsimmons wore bandages on both hands. Jeffries wore no bandages. Fitzsimmons took his stool and sat quietly, chewing gum. He looked well, slightly older than when he last fought in San Francisco, but much the same otherwise.

Ben Solomon was timekeeper for the club; Edward Wheeler for Fitzsimmons and Billy Gallagher for Jeffries.

When Jeffries stripped over his sweater he showed up to perfection. He looked as if he had taken off his clothes with his left hand. His flesh was as brown as a berry, showing the effect of hard work.

Fitzsimmons was introduced first and took his stool. He greeted the champion as that which greeted the champion a moment later. Bob doffed his dressing gown, showing up in splendid shape. He wore short sleeves and a belt of the American flag.

Eddie Graney, the referee, was stationed in the conventional evening dress and white shirt.

The men were photographed with hands clasped in the center of the ring.

10:10 p. m.—Graney delivered his instructions to the men.

10:25 p. m.—The men took their corners.

While Jeffries fixed his belt Bob tested the ring by jumping around the floor.

FIGHT STARTED.

Round 1.—They came quickly to the center, Jeffries in a half crouching attitude and both feinting rapidly. Jeffries followed Bob around, feinting with left and looking for an opening. Fitz was the first to lead. He sent a short right jab to the jaw and another a moment later. Jeffries crouched and rushed, but Fitz neatly side-stepped out of the way. Jeffries rushed again and Fitz smothered his left for the body. Both of them tried a lot of feints. Jeffries finally tried a left for the face, but it fell short. He forced his man into the corner, but missed a hard left swing. Then Fitz tried for the face again.

Jeffries sent in hard left on the body and Bob countered on the head with a forceful right. When the gong sounded boxing he was on the aggressive. When the champion took his corner his nose was bleeding slightly from Fitzsimmons' last jab. He looked confident, however, and sat watching Fitz during the minute's respite.

Round two to five were all Fitzsimmons. The lanky Cornishman simply made the big champion look like a novice. Jeffries was completely out-

Summer Clothing And Hats

Big Reductions

We are clearing out summer wear now at large and uniform reductions. It's a happy chance for men of all ages and for parents with families of boys to clothe.

Men's and boys' straw hats of every kind and quality are now selling here at half price. Months of wear ahead, but you can't pay us more than half for any straw in the house.

All distinctively summer clothing—men's unlined coats and suits, boys' washable sailor suits, men's wash vests—everything that belongs to warm weather has a straight fourth lopped from the price.

Splendid choosing; remember it is a wholesummer stock that's reduced. And the sooner you come the wider the choice. Clothing doesn't stand still when reduced like this at the height of the season.

CHEERED FOR CHATHAM.

Chatham defeated Blenheim last Thursday at lacrosse at Chatham by a score of 5 goals to 4 in a closely contested game. The news of Blenheim's defeat was received with cheers by the lacrosse club and its supporters here.—Wallaceburg Herald-Record.

BLENHEIM AND "RINGERS."

The Blenheim News says in its account of the Chatham-Blenheim game: "The game was one ever to be remembered in the lacrosse history of this district. The Blenheim boys knew that their defeat on home grounds some weeks ago was the result of overconfidence, and that they should have won. They went to Chatham, therefore, determined to win. There is no use evading the fact that to make the game doubly secure, the Kents had a 'ringer,' O'Brien, of London. On Wednesday afternoon he had called the officers of the Kents over the telephone, and his offer to come here for the rest of the season was accepted. He was the certain cause of the defeat of the team whose colors he wore, and his actions on the lacrosse field were such as to disgust all the Blenheim spectators. Blenheim was bought by Chatham, but of this there is no certainty. But whether he was bought or not, everybody who saw the game knew positively that he did not try to play. He was worse than no man at all, a Kent player saying afterwards, 'We were playing eleven to thirteen.' Often when the ball came within a few feet of him he would not move to get it, and when it was delivered into his stick his passing was wretched, although everybody knew he could do better."

The Blenheim boys are not feeling sore, mentally, about the game. They consider it no mean tribute to their playing qualities to be beaten only in extra time by what they believe to be the fastest team that ever played in the western town, themselves excepted. For they do not consider the Chatham team better than themselves, even though that team has landed the championships, but are that if they had the weight that the Chatham boys possess there would be little question as to supremacy. The Chatham team, the boys believe, is the most gentlemanly group of young men that ever represented the Maple City on the lacrosse field, and Blenheim extends to them her congratulations for winning the championship of the Kent County League for 1912.

In the league games played this year Chatham has made 31 goals to their opponents' nine, a percentage of 77.1-2. Blenheim has scored 36 to 15, a percentage of 75.1-2. Pretty close, isn't it?—Blenheim News.

BOWLING

The Thamesville bowlers went down before two local rinks yesterday afternoon by six shots. The game was interesting throughout, being anybody's game all the way through. Cornwall's Thamesville rink was up 6 and Duncan's was down 12. The ground was not in very good condition being very lumpy and at times was not true.

The shot of the day was made by Skip J. Duncan, of Thamesville. The two bowlers of Will Robinson were lying next to the "Jack" and Mr. Duncan on his last shot knocked Robinson's bowls away and lay shot himself.

The score—

PRETTY SOUVENIR

O. L. Lewis has received a beautiful Coronation Souvenir Post Card, from E. E. Gossnell, formerly Editor of the Planet. Mr. Gossnell's home is in British Columbia now, but he is visiting in England. The card is a work of art. In the center is a picture of the King and Queen, intertwined in Union Jacks. Arranged around the picture is the coats of arms of all the colonies, including New Zealand, India, Cape Colony, Australia and Canada. In the corner is the inscription "He that wears the crown immortally, long guard He yours."
