The Morning Post says that Great Britain cannot tolerate the seizure of the steamship Malacca "except by the abandonment of her self-respect as a great power." The paper declares that either the volunteer fleet steamer St. Petersbung is an armed pirate or Russia has violated the treaty of Paris. The action of Earl Percy, Under-Secretary of Foreign Affairs, who, in the House of Commons Monday, asked General Laurie (Conservative and Unionist), to postpone until Thursday a question which he proposed to ask regarding the do-Britain cannot tolerate the seizure of pone until Thursday a question which he proposed to ask regarding the doings of the Russian volunteer fleet steamer St. Petersburg in the Red sea, the paper regards as unnecessary and dilatory. "Palmerston," says the Post, significantly, "would not have required half an hour to make up his mind what to do in such a case." The Daily Telegraph admits that "dangerous issues to international taw have been raised to every circumstance of ostentatious provocation, and the nation must realize that a far-reaching question has arisen."

tion, and the nation must realize that a far-reaching question has arisen." All details in connection with the seizures of ships by the Russian volvolunteer fleet steamers are printed in the most prominent type. No such bitter feeling has been aroused in the English press since the German Emperor's telegram to the Boers. Intense apprehension prevails at Cardiff and other British coel ports, and the chartering of vessels for the far East is practically at a standstill. From all sides come ungent demands that the Government take swift action to prevent a recurrence of seiztion to prevent a recurrence of seizures by the volunteer fleet, "Russian Piracy," as one paper heads it, takes precedence of all other news. Admiral Sir Rdmund Robert Fre-mantle, in thr Daily Chronicle, says, "The crisis no doubt is grave, but I hold that our safest course would be to at once inform the Russian Gov-ernment that our cruisers have ord-ers to prevent our merchantmen be-ing interfered with by vessels which we cannot admit to be men-of-war, and to request that their proceedings

British Parliament Declines to Discuss Dundonald Case Until the Earl Returns.

London, July 19.—In the House of Commons to-day, David Lloyd-George (Welsh Nationalist) moved an adjournment of the House to call attention to "Lord Dundonald's participation in political agitation against the Government of Canada," while still an officer in the British army.

Mr. Lloyd-George wanted the Government to reprimand Lord Dundonald, and to prevent him continuing his agitation against the Canadian Government.

Winston Churchill seconded the motion, and maintained that Lord Dundonald ought to have been recalled.

War Secretary Arnold-Foster, on behalf of the Government, deprecated the rising of the question, especially as the Canadian Government had not mentioned the subject, and was well able to take care of itself. Nobody, the said, had suggested that Lord Dundonald was guilty of anything beyond want of judgment, and he declined to express an opinion on the matter until Lord Dundonald, who had been requested to return home, had been heard in his own defence.

Mr. Lloyd-George's motion was negatived without a division.

Declares Times is Loaded Up By Tories and a Few Scotchmen Are Causing Trouble

London, July 19.—Sir Henri Taschereau says he is Indigant that political capital is being made of the Dundonald affair. The Times is loaded up by Ottawa Tory sources, and a few Scotsmen are at the back of the whole agitation. He cannot see how the British Government, if alive to its own interests, can fail to recall Lord Dundonald before the end of the week.

BROUGHT UP IN THE COMMONS.
Ottawa, July 19.—Sir Henri E.
Taschereau's alleged utterances in England concerning the Dundonald incident was brought to the notice of the Government by Mr. E. F. Clark to-day. The Chief Justice is reported to have said that a few Scotchmen are back of the whole agitation, and that Lord Dundonald should be recalled by the British Government.

"I can hardly believe it possible," said Mr. Clarke, "that these cables reflect acurately the views given in public by this 'distinguished jurist, His Lordship enjoys an enviable reputation as a distinguished jurist, but if he desires to maintain that aplendid position he must refrain from the public discussion of purely political matters. It is hardly in accord with the fitness of things that His Lordship, who is at present in London in attendance upon the sessions of the Judicial committee of the Privy Council, the Supreme Court of the Empire, should make use of this language, should give utterance to these views regarding a gallant British officer, who was only defending himself against the attacks, the unfair and unjustifiable attacks which have been made and are being made upon him.

"Lord Dundonald," continued Mr. "Lord Dundonald," continued Mr. Clarke, "is no longer in the service of Canada. He no longer occupies the position of General Officer Commanding the Canadian militia, and if, as is taimed by some hon; gentlemen, notwithstanding the fact that he occupies no official position in Canada or in connection with the Canadian Government, although a distinguished officer of the British army, it is impolite on his part to make public polite on his part to make public speeches or to discuss a matter of this kind in which he is so vitally interested, what shall be said of the course which is being pursued by the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Canada in this connection? I would like to ask the Government if this statement has been brought to their attention; if this statement has been authorized: if the Government approve of it, and if they will make some definite announcement as to the position of the Government either now or at the sitting of the

Mr. Clarke said he would like to draw the attention of the Finance Minister to the fact that these cables have come by our own special Canadian cable service that is paid for by the people of Canada, and they were more likely to be official on that account. "That is the reason why I think we are entitled to having some definite statement from the ministry," said the member for West Toronto.

Highgate Girl Wins Highest Marks -Some Good Records

The County Board of Examiners, composed of Chairman Inspector Park, Mr. Miller, Dresden, and Inspector Colle, secretary, have been engaged yesterday and this morning in completing and revising the lists for the Public School Leaving examinations. There were 245 candidates writing at the various centres, of whom 189 have been successful, and have been awarded Public School Leaving certificates. In order to pass it was necessary to take 50 per cent, of the total and 38 per cent. on each of the five obligatory subjects. Where a candidate has obtained 75 per cent, of the total, 375 magks, he has been awarded honors.

SHAME! SHAME!

The member from Hants, N. S., Dr. Russell, who, it is understood, is slated for a judgship, presumably would approach the Dundonald case in some what of a judicial spirit. Did he fear that such a treatment of the subject would not commend him to the powers that be? What motive inspired him we know not, but he is thus reported in a not unfirlendly press

Turning to Lord Dundonald be rlaimed his defence was farcical, and he had chosen the proper man to carry it out. It required a supreme act of faith to believe Lord Dundonald's words that his statement at Montreal was deliberate. If he had not said so he would have believed it was a spontaneous explosion, as Shakespeare makes Gower say-"What a beard of the general's cut, and a horrid suit of the camp will do among foaming bottles and ale-washed wits is wonderful to be thought on.'

It is gratifying to learn that this attack upon one of his Majesty's most trusted and highly honored soldiers least open to successful assault upon this line, made by a prospective judge, was greeted with cries of "shame."

A THEATER TO BURN.

A German architect has a scheme which meets with the distinguished approval of the Kaiser, for the crection of a theater in one of the large cities, where crowds will be drilled in escaping from a burning building without panic, points out the Toronto Star. The proposal is to put up a fire-proof theater, with asbestos curtain and all the latest improvements, to stage good plays and charge small rates of admission. A feature of each performance will be a real fire started somewhere on the stage or in the body of the building. Thereupon the exits will be thrown open, so that the crowd may escape, while the employes will turn in and quickly conquer the flames.

This is playing with fire, certainly. The admission fee will need to be small and the performances very attractive to induce mothers to go there with their children, and it is women and children especially that need drill in order to escape panic in case of fire in a crowded building. If private capital be called for to carry out this scheme it will probably never be tried. But should it be tried, it is unlikely that the drills will amount to much, for the place will not be crowded, and the fire will not be regarded as a real danger, It is fear that causes panic, and where there is no fear, and no cause for it, there is no need for the people to march out of the place at all. They would prefer to pay a higher price of admisgion if permitted to keep their seats and see the fire put out. But fire is nothing to play with by children anywhere, or by grown men where hundreds of human lives are at stake. Should something go wrong and the flames seem to be getting the better of those contending with them, the folly of the whole thing would enhance the fears of the crowd, and there might be an unnecessary disaster.

DUNDONALD AND PRESTON

Preston, the Machine Hugger, has received his punishment. It was not like Lord Dundonald's. Preston is not a "stranger." He bad an intimate ac quaintance with various things that neither the Dominion government nor the Ontario government would care to be made public. Dundonald. was guilty of "insubordination" in stating his opinion of certain civilians. He was promptly dismissed. The Government couldn't wait a minute. His dismissal was sent to him as fast as electricity could carry it. More-over, the government did for feel obliged to wait till somebolly men-tioned Lord Dundonald's great crime in parliament before taking the mat-ter un.

But in Preston's case all was quite different. There was no undue haste, The government did not hear of his interference with the perrogative of the ministers until attention was called to it in the house. But the government did not cable Preston's dismissal. This letter was written and sent to him:

"The attention of the Minister of the Interior was called in the House on Commons on July 6 by Mr. Clarke, member for West Toronto, to the fact that a letter appeared in the London Times newspaper of June 18, over your signature, dealing at length with questions now involved in a political controversy in progress in Canada. A careful perusal of the letter as printed in the London Times makes it clear that it is intended as a defence of the position of the government, and as an expression of opinion antagonistic to the position taken by the political opponents of the government. Minister of the Interior stated in the house when the matter was mention ed that it would receive the consideration of the government at an early day. The matter has since received the careful attention of the privy council. The minister instructs me to advise you that in the opinion of the government your action is a serious breach of official decorum. I an further directed to advise you that in the opinion of the government the contribution of letters or interviews to the press by a member of the civil service dealing with or discussing subjects which are matters of controversy between the political parties cannot be permitted, and the violation of this rule in the future will be accepted as an equivalent of resignation from the service.

From some Ontario points comes the report that ripe raspberries and strawberries are being picked in the same field. As a consequence it is prophe-sied that next winter will be a hard one. WHERE COMPARISON IS ODIOUS. Toronto Mail and Empire.

Lord Dundonald, great Scottish soldier, was deliberately insulted by Sir Wilfrid Laurier because he spoke against a public wrong. No official, said Sir Wilfrid, could be allowed to express an opinion on a Government question. "Hug the Machine" Preston has written a malicious political letter to the London Times. The case of this officer and pensioner has been brought before the notice of the Govel'nment. He ought to be dismissed at once. But Mr. Clifford Sifton says he will write to him on the subject! They can kick out a man wh for the Empire, but they dare not touch the hero of West Elgin.

> SCOTS WHA HAE. Vankleek Hill Review.

Whatever have the good Scotchmen of Canada done to merit the insults that are being hurled at them by some of the Liberal party leaders.
Sir Wilfrid Laurier calls them foreigners "and strangers" and the province of Quebec claps its hands and shouts, "Here, Here."

This is not enough, the Montreal Herald, kept alive by fat government printing contracts, and controlled by Hon. Mr. Fisher, sneers at the Scotchmen and says they are in this country to make room in Old Scotland for Dun donald's cattle.

We are not drawing upon our ima-gination. Both these insults have been handed out to the Scotchmen the past week.

If Scotchmen allow these insults to pass unheeded and unpunished they be-lie, their moble records of the past. They will be heard, from without doubt at the very earliest opportun-ity that offers.

ELECTRIC STORM

Comber, Ont., July 18 .- The most Comber, Ont., July 18.—The most severe thunder storm, of the season passed over this district this afternoon. About noon the heat was intense, the thermometers showing 80 degrees in the shade. This was followed by a heavy downpour of rain, which continued for more than three hours, and which was accompanied by hail, heavy peals of thunder and vivid strokes of lightning. Adam Fenne, a farmer living near the village limits, while in the act of putting up an eavetrough on his residence, was struck by the electrical ting up- an eavetrough on his residence, was struck by the electrical fluid and lies in an unconscious condition at this writing. The town hall was also struck and one corner shattered. The damage will not be very heavy.

GAVE THEIR SKIN Owosso, Mich., July 19.—Drs. Norris and Hume performed a very interesting operation to-day upon Louis Nickles, who was recently hadly burn-Nickles, who was recently badly burned about the limbs by the explosion of kerosene. Forty pieces of skin, each one being an eighth to one-quarter of an inch across, were grafted onto Nickles' leg. Roy, a brother, furnished twenty pieces, Laura, a sister, thirteen, and Paul, another brother, thirteen. The protective covering will be removed Thursday, and if the grafts are found to be growing more will be placed upon the patient's other limb, which is still uncovered.

OUTSIDE MARKETS

Henry Clews, of the New York Stock Exchange, in his weekly letter to The Planet, says:

The outlook now is for big corn and cotton crops. These are facts of the greatest importance. Our corn crop, if it reaches 2,500,000,000 bushels, should yield the growers about $1,000,000,000, to say nothing of its added value in the shape of pork and beef. Our cotton crop, if it reaches 11,000,000 bales, will yield about $400,000,000 to growers, to say nothing of the profits to railroads, exporters and manufacturers; so that from these two crops alone the country's wealth will be augmented by more than 1,500 million dollars. Other crops are doing fairly well, and there are no important reports of shortage in any direction. Of course, damage from drouth now and frost later is possible, even probable, for cotton nearly always deteriorates in August and September. Yet all the crops have made such good progress and attainsuch strength as to be able to withstand unfavorable conditions exceptionally well. The only exception is in wheat; Kansas, Missouri and Nebraska having suffered injury by excessive rains estimated at about 25,000,000 bushels. But a 600,000,000 erop is expected, which is only 37 millions below last year, and the price, it should be noted, is about 20 cents higher than a year ago.

It is perhaps as well to say there is no occasion for entertaining the fordinary anxiety concerning the Presidential election; and now that Bryanism is a dead issue, there is less difference between the two great political parties than usual. Both candidates are men of unimpeachable character and safe, sane and sound on vital public questions. The chances favor a close contest, with Mr. Roosevelt the winner; still for once the financial community can view the possibility of a Democratic President without a shudder. In short, the fimancial situation is likely to be slightly affected by polities, if at all.

A spacious hall of pure white marble, one hundred and eight by one hundred and forty feet, lighted at either end by tier upon tier of windows, reaching seventy feet aloft to the marble ceiling, checkered and elaborately carved beams and rafters of resplendent gold and supported at the sides by pilasters of more than Parisian purity, crowned by golden papitals! Inset in each snowy chequer of this dazzling roof glows a great gold flower—fifty-five in all—its half-opened petals sunburst full on the floor. Panels of precious onyx adorn the north and south walls, and studs of rosy marble, like a chaplet of coral beads, frame two enormous blackboards upon the gleaming surface of which from time to time appears a if hy magic strange challs. blackboards upon the gleaming surface of which from time to time appears, as if by magic, strange cabalistic numbers that vanish as mysteriously as they came. Below each of these great boards the broad expanse of shimmering wall is broken by a marble balcony. In the north balcony sits all day long—from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.—a distinguished-looking, elderly gentleman arraved in impress to 3 p. m.—a distinguished-looking, elderly gentleman arrayed in impressive black that contrasts not unkindly with his snow-white whiskers. By his right hand reposes a gold-mouned, ivory gavel, and just to the left and a little behind his throne of carved ebony stands a brazen gong fully four feet in diameter. The opposite balcony is occupied by a restless youth in a cadet-grey uniform, whose duty is to manipulate an electric key-coard connected with the blackboards. Below on the floor, strewn ankle-deep with ticker tape and paper, around sixteen bronze pillars with octagonial bases (that look like gigantic samovars set in rows) yell, struggle, gesticulate, dance, prance, jump, surge, ars set in rows) yell, struggie, gestic-ulate, dance, prance, jump, surge, rush, frolic, sparr, leap, cheer, bellow, cat-call and huzza one thousand men of almost eyery conceivable age, height, weight and girth-measure; while the old gentleman looks down and smiles benignly from his balcony, precisely as the chief warden of Bedlam may have done in days of yore. Such is the board-room of the New York Stock Exchange on a dull day, seen from the visitors' gallery above the Broad-street entrance! BUSINESS IN PANDEMONIUM.

Gircling among this wildly-excited throng come and go ceaselessly, all day long, a regiment of uniformed figures—the sages of the stock exchange; while here and there amid this surging ocean of humanity the gold-bunded caps of the stock reporters of the two ticker companies bob up and down, like champagne corks at an international yacht race. The fin-ancial tenderfoot from the far side of the Big Divide, fairly stunned by the uproar, views the scene from his coign of vantage in the gallery with coign of vantage in stupefaction.

"How in the world can anybody do
"How in the world can anybody do "When are they going to begin to sell the stocks, anyhow?"
"They're selling them now, you unsophisticated backwoodsman! That's what all this hullabaloo is about, replies his courteous mentor, who has led hin to a high place and is show-ing him the kingdoms of the world of finance. And because there are many intelligent men and women in broad America to-day as illy informed con-cerning the esoteric minutiae of stock exchange business as that western tenderfoot this "story" is written. At 9.45 a. m. Mr. Junior, of the well-known house of Opulans, Junior & Co., bankers and brokers, leaves his handsomely-appointed office and & Co., bankers and brokers, leaves his handsomely-appointed office and stroils over to the exchange. Once there, he ceases to be Mr. Junior and becomes for all business purposes merely a number. Call him "32." He removes his overcoat in the coatroom and checks it; as for his hat, he wears it or not, as his inclination dictates. If it be a spick and span cylinder and Mr. Junior has cut his wisdom-teeth, he leaves it in the coatroom for reasons that will be made plain later on. olain later on.

3-4," "Sell 200 Atclison—65."

3 HOW TRANSACTION IS MADE.

These are orders received by his firm by telegraph or from clients who have dropped in betimes on their way to their offices. On the floor of the exchange Mr. Junior finds some hundreds of fellow-members grouping themselves around the sixteen pillars—"posts," they call them—or chatting amicably in little knots. What does he do? Rush up to the nearest group and cry, "I say, boys, I want to buy 100 Steel?" By no means! If he did that, he would subject himself to a fine of $50, because it still lacks a few minutes of 10 c'clock, the official hour of opening. Besides, there are specialists who deal almost exclusively in certain stocks. So he picks his way through the throng, nodding and smilling, to Post No. 1; where the traders in "Steel" and six or seven other stocks are wont to gather. Meanwhile he constantly keeps one eye on the huge electric blackboards for, if his number, "32," appears thereon, it means that he is wanted at the telephone, and on the New-street end of the hoard-room there are no less than five hundred telephones arranged in rows of tiny booths.

The two massive clocks attached to the visitors' and members' galleries point the hour of 10. The man in black stands erebt in his little balcony, and strikes one blow with his gavel. The great brass gong gives forth a sonorous roar. The exchange is open.

"Steel preferred!" What am 1 bid for Steel preferred?" cries one of the crowd at Post No. 1, while all around him and at the other posts as well others are brying their financial ness at the old stand. As nothing, was said by either party as to when the stock was to be delivered and paid for, the sale was in the "regular way"—that is, the stock to be delivered and paid for on the business day next following the contract. Had Mr. Junior added the word "cash" to his bid, the stock would have to be delivered during husiness hours that The stock exchange is governed by committees very much on the style of a well-ordered club, and upon a transfer of membership the candidate Mr. Junior added the word "cash" to his bid, the stock would have to be delivered during business hours that very day. Practically all sales are made "regular way"; the volume of business done "at three days" or "cash" or "buyer's" of "sellers options" for from four to sixty days being insignificant. The high-water mark in business in the exchange was reached Thursday, May 9, 1901, the day of the great Northern Pacific corner, when 3,336,695 shares were dealt in. A very fair day would show 500,000 shares disposed of. The low record during historic times is not exactly known; but it is supposed to be about forty thousand shares, and the date of that occurrence is stated vaguely as "about thirty years ago."

Mr. Junior, who has figured thus far as the protegonist in this little drama of finance, is what is called on the floor of the exchange "a one-eighth man." This means merely that since he executes in person the orders of his clients, he is entitled to the whole of the fixed commission, which is one-eighth of 1 per cent., or $12,50 on each 100 shares of stock bought or sold by him. A "$2 man" is a member of the exchange who executes orders for other members, and for so doing he receives $2 out of the full commission paid by the customer. must be approved by a majority of two-thirds of the committee on ad-missions. The constitution is silent as to whether women are eligible to membership. Only a lady whose spinsterhood was indurated or posmembership. Only a lady whose spinsterhood was indurated or possibly a "Carrie Nation" would make the attempt to butt ingto that howling mob of well-dressed and good-looking men. The form of initiation, but the described would be sale yet to be described, would be cal-culated to deter the most venture-some female, even if she succeeded in running the gauntlet of the vigil ant committee on membership.

The requirements for membership are that the candidate shall be an adult and a citizen. In addition to the price of his seat, he must pay the price of his seat, he must pay an initiation fee of $2,000, annual dues of $100 and a tax of $10 whenever a brother member dies. The family of every dead member receives "as a gratuity" $10,000.

All the appointments of the exchange are as luxurious as those of a first class club. Cooled air is furnished throughout the building from a refrigerating plant in the cellar. In fact, there are 500 tons of miscellaneous machinery in that cellar as much as may be found in a fair-sized mamufactory.

It lacks but half an hour of closing time. When his Asmodeus at his orders for other members, and for so doing he receives $2 out of the full commission paid by the customer. This does not seem to be a very high rate of remuneration, but a year or two ago there were many $2 men who realized $25,000 to $30,000 a year exclusively from these $2 commissions and who did no other business. The It lacks but half an hour of closing time. When his Asmodens at his elbow the modern bachelor of Salamanca, agog for financial lions, resumes his seat in the visitors' gallery. "That's Bernard M. Baruch, one of the governors of the exchange," whispers the kindly friend, pointing to a broad-shouldered, yet slender man, six feet three inches in height. "He is a very companionable man and is universally liked. He is a magnificent boxer and can probably out-spar amy professional or amateur by to-day. Jim Corbett declares that he is the most terrific fighter that he ever stood up against. He is worth two or three millions, and he made every cent of it trading. and who ald no other business. BROTHER TO AN ENGLISH EARL.

"That finely-built young man is R. M. Stuart-Wortley, Admiral Schley's son-in-law and brother to an English earl; that tall, slender man is J. J. Manning, a heavy trader; that corpulent blonde is Eugene P. Bogert, or 'Possy,' as we call him, because he always wears a boutonniere; that thin, wiry, active, restless man, with dark hair turning grey and a Vandyke beard is Daniel Bacon, a very prominent and successful trader and, although he looks saturnine, he is really one of the best-natured men on the exchange."

But something is happening on the floor. Mr. Augustus Neurach, the flatest member, enters the hall and is spotted immediately. The brokers form a Tlyang wedge and bear down upon him. He seeks to retreat, but is outflanked. In vain he struggles. Borne aloft by 40 brawny arms, plunging, kicking, he is carried thrice around the great hall to the weird music of a paen from a thousand throats. His collar gives way; next his vest; finally his coat, which hangs in two long streamers from his shoulders. As for his hat, it vanished for ever in the first mad push. Finally, wreathed in ticker tape and looking not unlike an unfortunate who had fallen into the hopper of a sausage mill, he is allowed to grope his way to the little balcony, where he is solemnly congratulated by the chairman of the exchange, B. G. Talbert, the kindly old gentleman in black. Precisely, what Mr. Talbert says to the meophyte cannot be heard amid the din, but presumably he tells him that he is extremely fortunate to have escaped with his trousers and his life. The impressive ceremonies conclude with a general smashing of hats; the gong clangs and the jolly brokers rush to their offices, like boys newly released from school.

Minard's Liniment Cures Burns, etc. Eczema, chiefly on the scalp, face, ears and neck and on one limb. I was for several months under professional treatments, but the remedies prescribed were of no avail, and I was gradually becoming worse, my face was dreadfully disfigured and I lost nearly all my heir. At last, my wife prevailed upon me to try the Cuticura Remedies and I gave them a thorough trial with the most satisfactory results. The disease soon began to disappear and my hair commenced to grow again. A fresh growth of hair is covering my head, and my limb (although not yet quite cured) is gradually improving. My wife thinks so highly of your remedies that she has been purchasing them in order to make presents to other persons suffering from similar complaints, and, as President of the Bible Women's Society, has told the Bible women to report if any case should come under their notice when a poor person is so afflicted, so that your remedies may be resorted to." # MEN'S DISEASES

There is seldom a day that we are not consulted in regard to a condition that, if we were to have seen it in its early stages, the sufferer would have been relieved, cured and saved considerable expense. This we consider is due to lack of knowledge on the part of the doctor who has previously treated the case; therefore, we say to you, if you are suffering from any disease or condition peculiar to men, or if you have been a victim and been dissapointed in not getting a permanent cure elsewhere, we would ask that you come to our office for personal examination or write us for a Question Blank for Home come to our office for personal examination or write us for a Question Blank for Home Treatment. We will explain to you OUR SYSTEM OF TREATMENT, which we have originated and developed after our whole life's experience in the treatment of special diseases of men. We will give you, FRER OF CHARGE, an honest and scientific opinion of your case. If we find you are incurable we will honestly tell you so. If we find your case curable we will give you a written guarantee to cure you or refund you your money.

MADE HIS WIFE WORK

Victoria Livingstone, of Harwich, was in the city to-day and told her martial troubles to Chief of Police Holmes. In the absence of Judge Houston she told her trials and tribulations to the Orown Attorney.

He, being kindly disposed towards all women, heard her through. Mrs. Livingstone told a gery sad tale indeed. She said that her husband had compelled her to work so hard in the fields that she didn't have time to do the housework. The two daughters were also compelled to work in the fields so much that they didn't have time to assist their mother.

Chatham Township Farmer Meets With a Serious Accident in the South.

Crawfordsville, Ind., July 19 .- John Chinnick, a wealthy forseman, of Chatham, Ont., was struck by a Vandalia train last night and is thought to be dying as a result of his injur-ies. He has not yet regained consciousness.—Detroit Free Press.

James Chinnick, of Chatham township, is a brother of the unfortunate man. Mr. John Chinnick went to Indiana a couple of weeks ago with some horses. Last evening James Chinnick received a telegram to the effect that his brother John had met with a serious accident and advised him to come at once. He and the injured man's wife left this morning for Indiana. The worst is feared and it is thought that the injured man was seriously hurt.

One of the Maple City's most popu-One of the Maple City's most popular young men—a budding young doctor—was made the subject of a practical joke at the Grand Trunk depot last evening. The joke was enjoyed by everyone except Doc, including all of the travellers and railroad employes who happened to be in the visibity at the time.

Mas Thomas, King street, returned home last evening.

Every person enjoyed themselves last year. A better time this year, on the Bugle Band annual outling to Port Huron.

R. C. Burt, a well known former druggist of the Maple City, now, of Detroit, was in town to-day. He went out to Blenheim to visit his sister who he has not seen in some time.

Lost—Tuesday afternoon, between Chapman's butcher shop, Thames St, and Harrison Hall, a small purse containing some money. The finder will be rewarded on feaving it at the Waterworks Office.

A. M. Piper, architect, is preparing pluns for a real property of the travellers and railroad employees who happened to be in the vicinity at the time.

A joung lady who has been visiting and the city for the past week, was returning to her home in a neighboring city—not St. Thomas, for this young lady was pretty, accomplished, bright and attractive—and a number of her Chatham friends were at the depot to bid her farewell. During her stay in the city she has made many friends, but none more devout or attentive than the young habit the city she has made many friends, but none more devout or attentive than the young physician in question and a clever young book-keeper, between whom it was a close race for supremacy in the young lady shad made.

A. M. Piper, architect, is preparing pluns for a year.

When the train pulled in and the young lady had made her farewells to her many girl friends, each of whom were prepared before-hand for what was to follow, the Doc, eager to strive to the last to prove his supremacy over the other young man, strode up the steps of the coach with the young lady's grip, followed immediately by the young lady herself.

This was the que for the rest of the party and the young couple were showered with rice, old shees and wishes for future happiness. They were followed into the coach still being showered with rise. The travellers looked at each other with knowing smiles, looking forward with amusement to a ride with the bride and groom.

amusement to a ride with the bride and groom.

They were surprised, however, to see the supposed groom retire awkwardly from the coach, his face covered with blushes of embarrassment, while the supposed bride continued her journey all alone.

Doc says it was a good joke, but he blames his rival for it, and there are faint rumors of a duel in the near future.

The King laid the foundation stone of the new cathedral at Liverpool.

It is probable a court of inquiry will investigate the circumstances connected with Lieut.-Col. Gregory's petirement.

Uncle Terry

CHARLES CLARK MUNN

Copyright, 1900, by LEE @ SHEPARD

"He's worse'n burdock burs ter git away from," answered Uncle Terry, "an' ye can't be perlite ter him unless ye want t' spend the rest o' yer life listenin'. His tongue allus seemed ter be hung in the middle an' wag both ways. It wasn't lonesome," he contin-ued, rising and adding a few sticks to the fire as the two women laid aside their wraps and drew chairs up. "I've read the paper purty well through an' had a spell o' livin' over bygones," and then, turning to Telly and smiling, he added: "I got thinkin' o' the day ye came ashere an' mother she got that came ashore, an' mother she got that excited she sot the box ye was in on the stove an' then put more wood in.

It's a wonder she didn't put ye in the stove instead o' the wood!"

As this joke was not new to the lisers no notice was taken of it, and the three lapsed into silence.

Outside the steady boom of the surf beating on the rocks came with monotonous regularity, and inside the clock ticked. For a long time Uncle Terry sat and smoked on in silence, resumsaid: "By the way, Telly, what's become o' them trinkets o' yourn ye had on that day? It's been so long now, most twenty years, I 'bout forgot 'em. s'pose ye hain't lost 'em, hev ye?"
"Why, no, father," she answered, little surprised. "I hope not. are all in a box in my bureau, and no one ever disturbs them.

"Ye wouldn't mind fetchin' 'em now, would ye, Telly?" he continued after

She watched him take out the contents. drawing a long whiff of smoke and slowly emitting it in rings. "It's been so many years, an' since I got thinkin', bout it I'd like to take a look at 'em, jest to remind me o' that fortunate day ye came to us."

The girl arose and, going upstairs, returned with a small tin box shaped like a trunk and, drawing the table up in front of Uncle Terry, set the box down upon it. As he opened it she perched herself on the arm of his chair and, leaning against his shoulder, passed one arm caressingly around his neck and watched him take out the contents.

First came a soft, fleecy blanket, then two little garments, once whitest muslin, but now yellow with age, and then another smaller one of flannel. Pinned to this were two tiny shoes of knitted wool. In the bottom of the box was a small wooden shoe, and though clumsy comparison, yet evidently fashioned to fit a lady's foot. Tucked in this was a little box tied with faded ribbon, and in this were a locket and chain, two rings and a scrap of paper. The writing on the paper, once hastily scrawled by a despairing mothers' hand, had al-most faded, and inside the locket were two faces, one a man's with strongly marked features, the other girlish with big eyes and hair in curls.

These were all the heritage of this waif of the sea who now, a fair girl with eyes and face like the woman's picture, was leaning on the shoulder of her foster father, and they told a pathetic tale of life and death; of romance and mystery not yet unwoven.

How many times that orphan girl had imagined what that tale might be; how often before she had examined every one of those mute tokens; how many times gazed with mute eyes at the faces in the locket; and hew, as the years bearing her onward toward maturity passed, had she hoped and waited, hoping ever that some some whisper from that faroff land of her birth might reach her!

And as she looked at those mute relics which told so little and yet so much of her history, while the old man who had been all that a kind father could had been all that a sing rather could be to her took them out one by one, she realized more than ever what a debt of gratitude she owed to him. When he had looked them over and put them back in the exact order in which they had been packed, he closed the box and, taking the little hand that had been caressing his face in his own wrinkled and bony one, held it for a moment. When he released it the girl stooped and, pressing her lips to his weather browned cheek, arose and resumed her seat.

"Waal, ye better put the box away now," said Uncle Terry at last. "I'll jest ge out an' take a look off'n the p'int, and then it'll be time to turn in."

CHAPTER XIV.

VE got ter go ter Boston,' said Uncle Terry to his wife a few days later. "Thar's some money due us that we ain't sartin we'll git. You an' Telly can tend the lights for a couple o' nights, can't ye? I won't be gone more'n that. Bascom's to take me up to the head, an' if the boat's runnin' I'll be all right."

This plan had cost Uncle Terry good deal of diplomacy. Not only did he have to invent a reasonable excuse for going by exciting the fears of both Bascom and Oaks regarding money really due them, but he had to allay the curiosity of his wife and Telly as well. In a small village like the Cape every one's movements were well known to one's movements were well known to all and commented on, and no one was better aware of it than Uncle Terry. But go to Boston he must, and to do so right in the dead of winter and not excite a small tempest of curious gossip taxed his Yankee wit.

At Bath he had a few hours' wait and went to the bank and drew a sum of money from his small savings.

"Lawyers are sech sharps, consarn 'em!" he said to himself. "Td better go loaded. Most likely I'll come back skinned. I never did tackle a lawyer 'thout losin' my shirt."

When, after an all night ride, during which he sat in the smoking car with his pipe and thoughts for company, he arrived in Boston, he felt, as he would phrase it, like a cat in a strange gar-ret. He had tried to fortify himself against the expected Frye, who, he felt sure, would make him pay dearly for any service. When he entered the rather untidy office of that legal light Uncle Terry looked suspiciously at its occupant.

"Well, sir, what can I do for you?"
asked Frye after his visitor had introduced himself.

"Waal," answered Uncle Terry, taking a seat and laying his hat on the floor beside him, "I've come on rather a curis errand." And, taking out the a cuts errand." And, taking out the slip he had a few days before placed in his wallet, he handed it to Frye with the remark, "That's my errand." Frye's face brightened.

"I am very glad to see you, Mr. Terry," he said, beginning to rub his hands together. "If you have any facts in your possession that will aid us in the search for an heir to this estate we shall be glad to pay you for them, proteined they are facts. Now six what is thied they are facts. Now, sir, what is r story?"

Uncle Terry looked at the lawyer a test tent before answering.

didn't come here to tell all I knew fust go off," he said. "I know all fust go off," he said. "I know all bout this shipwreck an' a good deal more that'll consarn ye, but fust I want to know who is lookin' for the information an' what's likely to cum on't."

It was Frye's turn to stare now. "This man won't be any easy witness," he thought, and then he said, "That I am not at liberty to disclose until I know what facts you can establish, but rest assured that any intablish, but rest assured that any information you may have, if it be proved of real value, will entitle you to an ample reward."

"I reckon ye don't quite ketch on to my drift," replied Uncle Terry. "I didn't cum here lookin' fire pay, but to see that justice was sarved an' them as had rights got that dues."

"Well, sir,", said Frye in a suave voice, "we, too, are looking to see the ends of justice served, but you must understand that in a matter of this importance we must make no mistakes. An estate awaits a claimant, but that claimant must establish his or her identity beyond the shadow of a doubt in order, as you must see, that justice may be done.

"Waal," replied Uncle Terry, stroking his chin with his thumb and finger while he deliberated, "I s'pose I may as well tell ye fust as last. I cum as well tell ye fust as last. I cum here for that purpose, an' all I want to fix is, if thar's nothin' in it ye'd keep it a secret an' not raise any false hopes in the minds o' them as is near and dear to me."

"It's a lawyer's professional duty never to disclose any business confidence that a client may confide to him," answered Frye, with dignity, "and in this matter I fafer you wish to become my client. Am I right, Mr. Terry?"
"I didn't cum here exactly purposin" to hire ye," answered Uncle Terry. "I cum to find what's in the wind, an' if 'twas likely to 'mount to anything to tell all I knew an' see that them as had rights got justice. As I told ye in the fust on't, I'm keeper o' the light at the end o' Southport island, an' have been for thirty year.

"One night in March, just nineteen year ago comin' this spring, thar was small bark got a-foul o' White Hoss ledge right off'n the p'int and stayed thar hard an' fast. I seen her soon as 'twas light, but thar was nothin' that could be done but build a fire an' stand an' watch the poor critters go down. Long toward noon I spied a bundle workin' in, an' when it bundle workin in, an when it struck I made fast to it with a boat hook an' found a baby inside an' alive. My wife an' I took care on't and have been doing so ever since. It was a gal baby, and she growed up into a young lady. 'Bout ten years ago we took out papers legally adoptin' her, an' so she's ourn. From a paper we found pinned to her clothes we learned her name was Etelka Peterson, an' that her mother, an' we supposed her father, went down that day right in sight o' us. Thar was a locket round sight o' us. Thar was a locket round the child's neck an' a couple o' rings in the box, an' we have kept 'em an' the papers an' all her baby clothes ever since. That's the hull story."

"How did this child live to get ashore?" asked Frye, keenly interest-

"That's the curis part," replied Uncle Terry. "She was put in a box an' tied 'tween two feather beds an' cum ashore dry as a duck." Frye stroked his nose reflectively, stooping over as he did and watching his visitor with hawk-like eyes.

"A very well told tale, Mr. Terry," he said at last. "A very well told tale indeed! Of course you have retained all the articles you say were found on the child?"

"Yes, we've kept 'em all, you may be sure," replied Uncle Terry. "And why did you never make any official report of this wreck and of the facts you state?" asked Frye.

"I did at the time," answered Uncle Terry, "but nothin' cum on't. I guess my report is thar in Washington now, if it ain't lost."

A Pere Marquette special was in at Erieau yesterday with the officials of the Pere Marquette and the Cincinnati, Hamilton and Dayton Railroads on board. Pere Marquette. Conductor McGarvey lays claim to being somewhat of a yachtsman and the only reason that Commodore somewhat of Jarvis is supreme in rachting cir-cles at Toronto, and not himself, is owing to the fact that the genial conductor man doesn't live in onto. Yesterday, Conductor McGarvey invited Mike Mannion to go for a sail. Mike was ready with his refussail. Mike was ready with his refusal. His "I guess not" spoke a whole lot more than the sense the bare words conveys. In that little speech the emphatic tone was everything. Mac took his brakeman, Dan. Fisher, and went sailing in McKenzie's "Bull Frog," a big double cat triangle fish boat. Now, Dan felt that he just had to go and he was a willing sacrifice on the "altar of the Conductor's feelings. The start was very auspicious, but the boat started to back up as soon as the captain opened the throttle. Sailor Mac thought that perhaps Dan was holding on the lines too tight, so he ordered him to quit pulling, but the "Bull Prog" backed just the same. The rallroad yachtsman didn't believe in running caboose first, but he couldn't prevent it. He signalled to go ahead, but his signals didn't work. He then ordered Dan Fisher to put on the brakes. Dan thought he ought He then ordered Dan Fisher to put on the brakes. Dan thought he ought to do something and, as pulling up the centre-board was the only thing fie could find to do, he did that. By this time the breakers were in sight. "Open switch ahead!" yelled the Cap-tain of the craft; "jump for it." Dan had heard that cry just once before, when the freight was wrecked last fall. He jumped and landed in about two feet of water. Mac laughed so hard that he rolled off the seat just as the boat lurched over on shore, hard that he rolled off the seat just as the boat Turched over on shore, near Outlaws' Inn. Will Bennett constituted the wrecking tug and with a row-boat and line he saved the "Bull Frog," and got the railroad sailors safely out of their predicament. Conductor McGarvey says that the next time he goes sailing he's going to get a brakesman who will put on the brakes when he's told. He says the only "breaks" he's seen are the ones that the eye witnesses have given him.

In a short interview with The Planet Mr. Martin this morning chatted meet antertainerly of the tried Planet Mr. Martin this morning chatted most entertainingly of the trip.

On leaving Chatham a three days' visit was first paid to St. Louis. The fair, Mr. Martin says, was good for those who had not visited the Chicago exposition a decade or ao ago. St. Louis was very similar and in seeing the one you had seen the other.
"I was particularly proud of the Canadian exhibit," said Mr. Martin enthusiastically. "It was, in my opinion, the best there. It was prepared most elaborately and arranged with exquisite taste and skill. Among the most attractive feartures were the maple sugar exhibit, the agricultural exhibit of magnificent grains, etc., and a series of excellent pictures representing the progress in Canadian farming life."

From St. Louis Mr. and Mrs. Maringeded the Kansas where the

From St. Louis Mr. and Mrs. Martin proceeded to Kansas, where they viewed the terrible havoc wrought by the recent floods. Thence they went through to Denver and there took the Colorado Southern railroad took the Colorado Southern railroad entering the mountains by a narrow guage and winding their remarkable way through the mountains for 120 miles. This ride is a most thrilling one, around sharp curves and under great overhanging rocks.

Dillon is a little town of about 150 inhabitants. It has three saloons and one large temperance hotel.

These saloons each pay $500 license and one large temperance hotel. These saloons each pay $500 license per annum and the $1,500 thus realized is sufficient to run the municipality, consequently a very happy condition of affairs exists. There is no ity, consequently a very happy condition of affairs exists. There is no assessment and no taxes. There are five councilmen and the $1,500 runs all the civic business. Dillon is located at an altifude of 8,860 feet and the village nestles down in a valley in the mountains about 60 miles long and one mile wide, where the Blue River runs. It is consequently known as the Blue River Valley. On every side the mountains stretch their gigantic stature skyward with the heavy white snow resting continuously on their peaks. From the melting snow the water descends in ravines and there is such a fall that it bubbles and seethes in foam finally reaching the river where the water, is as clear as crystal. Rich perfumed flowers—wild roses particularly—flourish in an artistic abandon and abundance. The thermometer is eversely known to we along 80 while abundance. The thermometer is scarcely known to go above 80, while there is always a delightful breeze. The nights are cool but the days are quite warm. Two large dredges work on the river continuously dredging gold while above is the large mill where much of the refining is done.

Dr. Herbert Martin located in Dillon on account of his health and has lon on account of his health and has since April last gained 15 pounds in weight. He intends to remain there for a few years until his health is completely restored. Meantime he has built up a splendid practice as a physician and has opened a modernly equipped and finished drug store. He is enthusiastic over the country and doing exceedingly well.

Blenheim Hotelmen Appeal to Judge Anglin and May Go to Higher

Toronto, July 18 .- The fight for the issuiance of licenses in Blenheim, where the commissioners refused to penew any licenses in view of a popular vote favoring crosing all saloons, although the Council failed to act although the Council failed to act to not the vote, has now assumed a new phase. Yesterday the Ontario license department was served with a notice intimating that application would be made to Judge Anglin on Wednesday to compel the commissioners for the County of Kent to issue licenses to W. J. O'Brien, of the Shendon House; A. B. Vester, of the Vester House, and E. J. Buzzard, of the Erie House, the 'three licenses which have been the three licenses which have been the three licenses which have been refused.

The case will raise several new points of law, especially the one whether license commissioners have power, irrespective of any by-law, to close all saloons in a municipality. It is probable that if the hotelmen fail in their application for a mandamus they may go to a higher court, an dit is certain if the mandamus issues that the department will appeal.

It is poor economy to try to save a few cents on a can of baking powder. Cheap baking powder means cheap food; and cheap food means poor food every time.

One can of Cleveland's Baking Powder, owing to its superior strength and purity, will last as long as two cans of "cheap" baking powder and will make better, richer and more nourishing food.

There is true economy in buying Cleveland's.
