"Furious fighting is reported from the northeast of Ypres, where the Germans are making tremendous efforts to advance south from Gravenstafel, toward which the British have held a wedge, and so to straighten their line from St. Julien to Zonnebeke.
"The British are clinging tenaciously to a group of villages and hamlets in this corner, although at several points they are subjected to a flanking fire from the enemy in the positions between Graven-stafel and southward toward Zonnebeke. "Troop movements in Belgium indicate the Germans are sending all available reinforcements to this small zone of fighting in a desperate attempts to push back the British from the line, which, if held, threatens to prevent the enemy from reaping the advantage from the ground captured in last week's advance.

THE SITUATION.

To recognize the present war situation is not pessimism, but just everyday common-sense. Asquith, during a characteristically fine speech which he made yesterday, declared himself to be "an optimist," but he was equally frank in stating that he did not "underrate the prowess of the enemy" nor "the gravity of the struggle." He feels, as everyone must do of ordinary judgment, that there can only be the one end to these world hostilities, but that end is not yet, by a very large majority, and it would be sheer folly to shut eyes to the undoubted fact that Germany to date has played and still holds a strong hand. She must, and will, be properly humiliated, but it is not an over-night job by any manner

There does not seem to be any reason to doubt that the troops of the Kaiser are pressing forward in Galicia, but as an offset there comes the news that Turkish forces have been everywhere repulsed on the Gallipoli peninsula.

The continued use by the Germans of poisonous gases is again officially confirmed. They paved the way for this diabolical violation of all the rules of civilized war by claiming that the foe had resorted to the practice, and then, under cover of this blind, have put into operation what were manifestly pre-conceived and thoroughly organized preparations for the use of these deadly fumes. The death of victims is said to be slow and of a most painful nature, while those who do recover are permanently blasted for life. It is now announced that the British War Office is considering the introduction of similar expedients. To enter upon that kind of a game would, of course, be exceedingly loathful to John Bull, but what is to be done in the case of a foe which adopts any kind of means, no matter how depraved? Give them what-for in return will be the quite general feeling.

GERMAN HATRED OF BRITAIN. national hate of Germany for Great fact especially in the well-known markable features of this war.

There can be no doubt whatever as feeling. The "Hymn of Hate" demonstrated that to a fervent extent, and on top of that there is the widespread wish which even school children of tender years are taught to lisp, "God

COMFORT FOR THE GERMANS. Fort Henry, from which some Gernan prisoners recently sought to es cape, is situated near Kingston, and the Standard of that place, as the result of investigations, says:

"Significantly enough, the cry graft was one of the very first things the prisoners seized upon-not only seized upon, but actually delighted in. Time and again they would read aloud, in the presence of their guards, and with great gusto and delight, the accounts of the alleged graft, while a little later on they began to make complaints of the quality of the food that was being given them, although that food was of the very best. Finally, several more bold than the others, coolly and deliberately told one of the officers that it was all a case of graft-that the reason their food was poor was because the Government was tainted with graft. To add to the seriousness of the matter, several prisoners actually passed the remark that they were surprised that Canadian sol-

Gabriele D'Annunzio, the poet who will deliver the principal address, was met by General Ricciotti Garibaldi and Mme. Garibadi, the sculptor Baroni, designer of the monument, the mayor and many deputies. The poet was wildly cheered by crowds in the streets through which he passed to reach his hotel

ion which says:
"Genca to-day fulfills her vow to nmortalize in bronze the brilliant exploits of the Garibaldians. Never before have we felt so strongly vibrating within us the souls of the fatherland which draws from the annals of its liberty the grimness of its will and its strength for sacrifice."

The proclamation expresses the hope that the momument will ever inspire the ideal of Italy's glory in the hearts and minds of her children.

Hood's Sarsaparilla, as a Spring Medicine, is the Best.

Spring sickness comes in some degree to every man, woman and child in our climate. It is that rundown condition of the system that results from impure, impoverished, devitalized blood. It is marked by loss of appetite and that tired feeling, and in many cases by some form of eruption.

The best way to treat spring sickness is to take Hood's Sarsaparilla. Ask your druggist for this old reliable family medicine. It purifies. enriches and revitalizes the blood. It is an all-the-year-round alterative and tonic, and is absolutely the best Spring medicine.

Get your blood in good condition at once-now. Delay may be dangerous. Be sure to get Hood's Sarsaparilla, nothing else can take its nouncements made by the Chancellor was that no fresh taxes were now better than the words of the dying contemplated. In this connection he called attention to what he characterized the wonderful buoyancy of the income tax and the supertax, the actual yield being £69,399,000, or an increase of nearly £8,000,000 over the estimates. He said that the income tax would be renewed in its present form, with a slight modification, but warned the House that if the war were prolonged it would be his duty to consider in what form the general community could provide funds to enable the country to carry on the war. As a result of the year's operations, the Chancellor said, the national debt was now £1,165,857,000.

Mr. Lloyd George did not consider that the time had arrived to frame the final policy for the whole year, as the character of the budget must depend upon the view of the Government whether the war probably would last six months or throughout

Mr. Lloyd George dealt at length The Chancellor declined to predict the length of the war. He introduced no measure calling for new taxes, although he hinted that such a step likely would have to be taken. There was little discussion of the budget itself, and the usual income tax resolutions were passed before the House adjourned.

Mr. Lloyd George dealt at length with the financial difficulties involved in such huge operations and the commercial complications resulting from the war. Great Britain, he pointed out, had to finance the difference between her imports and exports, as well as Government purchases abroad and purchases by her allies in this country. He thought the time had Mr. Lloyd George said he was able country. Mr. Johnson expressed the opinion that the national pastime as professionalized "would be bettered by the trials which it is undergoing." architects, Montcontract for the main building was let to P. Lyall and Sons Construction Company, Limited, Montreal, while the restoration of the wings was done by the Engineer of Buildings.

The hotel stands on a site covering 28,000 ft. and is constructed almost entirely of reinforced concrete, terra cotta partitions being utilized in the interior. In order to give an artistic appearance to the front of the main building, a quantity of lumber, embedded in concrete, is employed. The roof is of red slate.

The building, consisting of 4 storeys and two basements, has accommodation for 202 guests' rooms accommodates 350 guests. These basements contain servants' quarters, officers' quarters, helps' dining room, bakery, laundry, men's lounge, female helps' common room, servery, etc. An open terrace is built over the front portion of the basement, and as higher ground is reached, a verandah is constructed along the front and one side of the building.

The first floor, entered from the verandah, is arranged so that the lobby is placed between the dining room (41½ ft. x 112 ft.)—the largest room in the hotel—and the lounge (21½ ft. x 89½ ft.). These can also be entered from the terrace and verandah respectively. The drawing room (27 ft. x 38½ ft.) leads off the lounge. Behind these rooms and facing the rear portion of the hotel, are children's dining room, private dining room, sitting room, office, news stand, tourist agents' office, telephone booth, telegraph office, manager's office, smoking room, etc.

office, news stand, tourist agents' office, telephone booth, telegraph office, manager's office, smoking room, etc. The entire second and third floors, including the wings, are given up to bedrooms; 97 of these have private baths and 22 have private lavatories. In the attic, bedroom accommodation is also provided, while here is also situated the male helps' quarters, dormitory, and common room. A boiler house is constructed about 300 feet from the main building, and is connected therewith by means of a tunnel. This contains three boilers and two generators for the purpose of providing electric light, power, heat, and hot water, the refrigerating plant and laundry, as well as quarters for the engineers and laundry help.

The keynote of the furnishing is to be simplicity, as becomes a purely summer hotel. Most of the bedrooms and public rooms will have hardwood floors. With the object of minimizing the risk of fire, fire walls and automatic fire doors have been provided, dividing each floor into five sections, which can be isolated in case of an outbreak. Thus on the first floor there are seven such doors, besides two rolling fire shutters, which operate automatically in case of

Attached to the hotel is one of the finest golf courses in the world with delightful natural bunkers. The length of the course is the regulation eighteen holes, most of which are longer than the ordinary run of holes. This gives it additional popularity, as it affords the golfer an opportunity for the frequent use of his brassy in long rumors as to truce or peace. The most interesting report is that the conferences are due to a hint by Judge Landis that the warring fact-like one of the finds of the season, like one of the finds of the season, and suspensions for one or both of us. A FRENCH SENTRY AND HIS WAR DOG ON DUTY.

The French sentries are making good use of dogs to help them in the course of their duties. After being first used as Red Cross dogs they are taken by the sentries and outposts to help both in the trenches and to keep a sharp watch against surprise attacks. This employment of dogs is, of course, a great help to the French outposts, as a man may and often does fail to hear movements some distance away, whereas a dog would rarely miss becoming aware of such movements. Some hundreds of these trained dogs are already at the front. The above picture, which shows one of these faithful animals on duty with a French sentry, is from a drawing made especially for this newspaper, the New York Herald and the London Sphere.

He took Chilcote's hand for an instant, then, crossing the footpath, he passed into the roadway toward the Strand.

It was done in a moment, but with his going a sense of loss fell upon Chilcote. He stood for a space, newly conscious of unfamiliar faces and unfamiliar voices in the stream of passers by. Then, suddenly mastered by an impulse, he wheeled rapidly and darted after the tall, lean figure so ridiculously like his own.

Halfway across Trafalgar square he overtook the stranger. He had paused on one of the small stone islands that break the current of traffic and was waiting for an opportunity to cross the street. In the glare of light from the lamp above his head Chilcote saw for the first time that, under a remarkable neatness of appearance, his clothes were well worn-almost shabby. The discovery struck him with something stronger than surprise. The idea of poverty seemed incongruous in connection with the reliance, the reserve, the personality of the man. With a certain embarrassed haste he stepped forward and touched his arm.

"Look here," he said as the other turned quietly. "I have followed you to exchange cards. It can't injure either of us, and I-I wish to know my other self." He laughed nervously as he drew out his cardcase.
