ATTITUDE OF TEMPERANCE

Not Given Chance to Organize Opposition to the Liquor Act Amendments—Premier Receives Delegation From City.

The temperance people of the province are strongly opposed to the amendments to the Liquor Act, and in all parts of the province opposition is to be found.

Of course the temperance people have had little chance to organize so as to present their objections to those amendments for they have proceeded so rapidly with this particular legislation. However, a large delegation of Regina people waited on the premier last Wednesday and presented their views.

Mr. Jas. Ballour introduced the deputation to the premier and called upon Mr. D. J. Thom to read a resolution adopted that day by a representative temperance gathering. This done Mr. C. C. Knight was requested to state the views of the deputation.

Mr. Knight said that some of the liquor amendments were a great surprise to the temperance workers.

The one extending the hours of sale was of most importance. That the restrictions had been beneficial was evident from the fact that since the hours had been shortened the number of arrests for drunkenness in Regina had decreased. As for the deputation, it longer time had been given, a very large number from all parts of the province would have been in attendance. Temperance workers considered the amendments of last session as a compromise; and had also hoped that they be allowed to stand. The banishment of liquor from clubs was a step in the right direction. Why repeal the measure? If new clauses became law a standard should be set up as to what constituted the requirements of club accommodation. At present the amendments in this respect looked like class legislation. The clubs should be made to pay a greater tax than retailers.

Premier Scott informed the delegation that though the bill had received its second reading, it was still in committee. At the same time it would require some strong arguments to convince him that the amendments were not good. Speaking upon the matter of clubs he said that at the time the Act was passed there was no real club in the province, or at least any such as, in the opinion of the government, came up to its conception of a club, hence it had been decided to withdraw liquor privileges until clubs, in the true sense of the word, should be established. At least one club, the Assiniboia in Regina, had informed the government of its intention to supply ample accommodation for members, which indicated that the new requirements would be complied with.

The only other serious matter was the extension of the hours of sale.
In this respect he said that the Act of last session had been passed hurriedly; hence there were some over-sights in it, which, had more time been permitted, the necessity of the present amendments. There could be little objection to the opening of bars after the close of polls on election day; for the great excitement attending a provincial or federal election would be absent, there being no crowds from the surrounding country.

The premier said that since the passage of last session's act, hotel property in the province had undergone serious depreciation in value. It was well known that in some centres hotel accommodation was inadequate, particularly at Moose Jaw. During the last five or six months he had occasion to visit that city several times, and had not been able at night to secure a room for himself, having been thrown upon the generosity of friends. It was impossible to think that hotel keepers would increase their accommodation under present conditions, and a concession an extension of half an hour had been granted. There was a difference between the conditions existing in cities and country, which must be recognized. Personally, if he had his way there would be no liquor in clubs, nor in the province, but the government could not go so far as to introduce prohibition. If the temperance people had shown as much interest during last session as they did now, it was quite probable that the present amendments might not have been introduced.

A member of the deputation inquired whether there would be any further backdown. To this the premier replied that it was dangerous to make promises, as the promise given

LANGLEY REFERS TO LACK OF DECORUM

In a Heated Speech the Member for Redberry Scores the Premier and Attorney-General - Farmers' Interests Sacrificed to Loan Companies - Clubs to Pay $250 Fee.

MONDAY, JAN. 11.

The House was occupied all afternoon and evening on the proposal of the government to appoint a committee of the House to investigate the Calder-Morgan school book contract.

reasonableness of his claims and the scope of the enquiry amended so that the commissioners will have power to inquire into and investigate any and all other matters or things pertaining to the contract which in the opinion of the commissioners should be investigated.

TUESDAY, JAN. 12.

At the opening of the House today the premier announced that the Chief Justice of Saskatchewan had consented to act as a commissioner on the inquiry and that one of the other supreme court judges would be associated with him.

The amendments to the Liquor License Act received their second reading today. The attorney general also gave notice of a bill fixing at $250 the license to be paid by clubs serving liquor on their premises.

Mr. Gillis followed Mr. Turgeon and moved an amendment which had for its purpose the substitution of a royal commission in the place of the committee of the House.

Mr. Bradshaw of Prince Albert said that the members of the government which had criticized the opposition for its modification of attitude had evidently tried the same tactics.

Mr. Haultain following concurred that if they were to have an investigation the proper way to have one was by a royal commission.

Speaking of the lengthening of the hours of sale in cities, Mr. Bradshaw said that if the extension were good for cities, it should be equally good for the country.

Mr. Bradshaw also spoke favoring a royal commission. After the discussion the government proposed to amend the resolution by substituting a royal commission instead of the special committee.

Mr. Langley, of Redberry, said that the amendments should have been included in last year's bill. Discussing the extension of the hours of sale he made the amusing argument that city people retire later than those in the country, therefore their need for liquor was greater. However, he held that an hour should be taken off in the morning. The amendment relating to clubs was in fulfillment of a promise given by the government.

who needed every consideration. Speaking of the judges he said that he and everybody else knew that political considerations entered into the appointment of judges. Nevertheless, after a judge had been appointed, the conditions in which he found himself, permanency of appointment, his salary and pension took him out of the political world.

WEDNESDAY, JAN. 13.

In the House today Mr. Bole presented a petition of the city of Regina protesting against the incorporation of the Regina Inter-Urban Tramway Co.

The Premier - Bosh! Langley - You go and tell the farmer whose mortgage is due that under the present law he had 6, 9, or 12 months protection of the court, and that under the new one he will have 3 months, and yet when I plead for the farmer, the prime minister says "bosh."

Mr. Bell, Estevan, presented a petition from A. McAuley and others asking for an Act to be passed to establish a revenue to satisfy losses through hall stores.

Langley disagreed with the opinion of the attorney general that under the new bill the cost of foreclosure proceedings would be reduced. He insisted that the farmers' interests be protected.

Before the orders of the day were called, Mr. Elliott took occasion to complain that the return brought down the previous day in regard to seed grain did not give the information asked for.

Langley's remark to which Langley replied "I am much obliged to the prime minister for helping me along." He also argued for the farmers' proprietary interest in the land, adding humorously: "Everybody can see it; I can make that plain even to the minister of agriculture."

The premier announced that Mr. Justice Newlands would be associated with the chief justice on the royal commission to inquire into the school book contract.

Langley - Instead of quoting this against me the prime minister should assist me to keep out the practice of other provinces. The attorney general interrupted Langley who rejoined with: "I commend the manners of the attorney general; he is catching them from the prime minister."

The municipal bill was also discussed in committee, the clauses referring to taxation coming in for most discussion. By the amended clauses buildings and land to the extent of three acres belonging to the school districts and churches is exempt as is also the grounds and buildings of any agricultural society organized under the Agricultural Societies Act.

The premier made a remark about other provinces. Langley - Instead of quoting this against me the prime minister should assist me to keep out the practice of other provinces.

A good deal of time was spent in committee on the amendments to the Land Titles Act. The opposition to the amendments claimed that the proposed legislation made it possible for the loan companies to take away the farmers' land easier with the government claimed that loans could be secured cheaper.

Bradshaw of Prince Albert, considered the legislation retrograde. It might be that the legislation of last session had been passed to influence a certain element among the electorate. However, that might be, what was wise legislation was what was wise now.

WEDNESDAY, JAN. 13.

During the discussion in committee on the bill to amend the Land Titles Act Mr. Langley had a conflict with the premier and attorney general. This bill, which the attorney general contends is a measure of law reform, abolishes the present method of procedure in the sale of land under the foreclosure of mortgage, substituting for an order from court, that of direct procedure by mortgagee under ordinary notice of sale.

Johnston, of Kinistone, was opposed to the bill in its entirety. He had not spoken before because of the impression that the government had intended to put the matter through no matter what might be the opposition.

Mr. Langley, of Redberry, said that the amendments should have been included in last year's bill. Discussing the extension of the hours of sale

Smith, of Moosemount, expressed surprise at the speeches of the opposition which were they sincere, would have been heard before. What were these men in reality doing for temperance? It was a play for political purposes.

Mr. Haultain has contended it means that a mortgagor may be deprived of his land within three months, whereas under the present system sale might not be effected before eight and possibly twelve months had elapsed. Further instead of sale being made under the power in the hands of the registrar, Langley, and those who oppose the bill, contend that anything which shortens the time in the procedure for effecting sale is detrimental to the interests of the mortgagor, moreover, the registrar not being a judge, but a government official, is not unlikely to be affected by political influences; to say the least he is being clothed with powers which are strictly judicial, whereas, in reality he is not a judge.

Mr. Gillis, Whitewood, resented the remarks of the previous speaker, maintaining that at this point discussion was as much in order as at any time. He pointed out that the opposition had supported the legislation of last session. No good reason had been advanced for its amendment so early.

FRIDAY, JAN. 15.

The amendments to the Liquor License Act received strong criticism today from the members of the opposition, who took advantage of the third reading of the bill to express their opinions.

The speaker denied that the legislation was retrograde, saying it was rather a readjustment. The act of last session and these amendments should be read as one act.

HEDGEHOGS MILK COWS IN ENGLAND!

In order to settle a discussion that has recently taken place at Ash on the question whether hedgehogs take the milk of cows while the cows are lying down, a letter of inquiry was addressed to the secretary of the Board of Agriculture, and at a monthly meeting of the Ash Parish Council on Monday evening the following reply was read: "I am directed by the board of Agriculture and Fisheries to inform you that your letter of the 11th ult. has been referred to its zoological adviser and the board is informed that the statement that hedgehogs take the milk of cows that are lying down is unfounded in fact. It is an old fallacy, which was mentioned in the 'New Dialectic or Vulgar Errors,' published 120 years ago by Stephen Povaqua, M. A. The question of the hedgehog cracks it as insectivorous, feeding on insects and small mammals, including such harmful forms as mice. Their liking for insects is well known and they are frequently kept in houses for the purpose of clearing of roaches. They cannot, however, be described as harmless, as they have been proved to take the eggs of poultry and game birds, such as partridges and pheasants, while chickens and hens in coops are killed and worried. Hedgehogs were stated by Gilbert White to destroy plantains at Salisbury, but although this has been quoted by several publications, it has been contradicted by 'Buckingham,' which stated that the Harting, that the destruction of plantains was the work of a night-flying caterpillar, which ate of the root but left the leaves. Foxes and badgers are natural enemies to the numbers of the hedgehog - London Standard.

WHY MUSICIANS WEAR LONG HAIR

"Why do musicians wear long hair?" said the barber. "Pshaw! I thought everybody knew that. They wear long hair to protect their ears, of course - their sensitive ears. 'All depends with musicians on the ears, the same as all depends on the eyes with painters. And the ears of musicians are delicate, liable to take cold, liable to aches, inflammations and what not. So they protect them with long hair, and you have no more right to laugh at the mane of a pianist or violinist than at the protective shields and pads of your favorite halfback.'" - New York American.

PAPER TEETH ARE MADE IN GERMANY

One of the oddest uses to which paper has been put in that which has reached in the manufacture in Germany of artificial teeth. These paper teeth are manufactured from the same variety of pulp which enters so largely into the composition of many novelties in the paper line. Paper teeth are said to afford satisfaction, not only retaining their color well, but being less liable to chip than ordinary ivory teeth. Another odd use to which paper is put nowadays is in the manufacture of barrels. In several countries the experiment is being made with a view to the utilization of paper for paving the roads and streets - Harper's Weekly.

The Royal Commission.

The government could not very well go back on their bluff as to an enquiry into the Calder-Morang contract and we are glad to find out that after a whole day's fighting they gave in to the arguments of the opposition. A royal commission has been appointed and it is understood that this commission has power to deal with everything and person in any way connected with this much advertised contract.

The personnel of the commission, Chief Justice Wetmore and Judge Newlands, is a guarantee that the subject will be fairly dealt with.

The first sittings of the commission is to be held in March and it is to be hoped that at that time, the enquiry will not only commence, but will be pushed to a conclusion.

A Corporation Government.

The present session of the assembly reveals the fact that the Scott government has taken its stand in favor of the corporations against the people.

Take their stand on the amendment to the Land Titles Act, which amendments are to be put in force to the advantage of the loan companies and which are inimical to the interests of the land owner. Take also their stand on the Liquor Act. On this they have gone back on their stand of temperance of last session and have made concessions to the liquor interests, which again is a monied interest.

A Cruel Policy.

Canada and particularly Western Canada wants immigrants of the right kind only. However, the judgment of the immigration department in its selection has been faulty many times. The country has many undesirable settlers and it is to be hoped that more care in the selection will be taken in future.

The past week, or in fact, any time, in the winter is not a propitious season in which to introduce settlers from foreign countries to Western Canada. Yet that is what is being done. On this subject Friday's Winnipeg Tribune, says: "It is a positive cruelty to bring immigrants from the old country or from anywhere else to the Northwest at this season of the year. An installment of poor, ill-clad, shivering specimens of humanity was dumped in Winnipeg yesterday. The officials who would perpetrate such a hardship without giving warning are only a shade less blameworthy than the department that would authorize it to be done. In the name of common humanity, the practice of dumping settlers in this frigid atmosphere at this stage of the winter ought to be stopped."

While on this subject we would like to say that in our judgment the time has come in the history of settling the west, when quality and not quantity should be the criterion in selecting immigrants. We have quite sufficient immigrants of a certain class, much more perhaps, than is in the best interests of the west. It will take a long while to absorb and assimilate what we have, and if we proceed rapidly and glut the country with the least desirable element it cannot fail to exert a baneful influence in the decades to come. The west is settling up very rapidly at present; perhaps as rapidly as desirable, and we think that from this date forward the aim of the government should be to limit its efforts along the line of immigration work, to securing none but the very best and most desirable class of settlers.

Editorial Notes

Langley will have to be careful or he will not get any patronage for Redberry.

According to Premier Scott it is all both to attempt to protect the farmers from the loan companies. Walter has never lived on a farm and eaten hannocks and don't know the farmers' troubles.

An eastern Liberal organ of the Laurier government maintains that the Intercolonial can be run at a profit if graft is eliminated from it. As we lose a million a year in the operation of the road this means that that amount of money is misappropriated annually by the politicians.

The farms of Saskatchewan are to be pledged to furnish the guarantee of bonds on the new, C.N.R. and G.T.P. branch lines to the extent of $13,000 a mile. If the interest is not paid promptly, under the amendments to the Land Titles Act some of the farmers may waken up some morning and find that the government's mortgage has the title to their farms.

The government may deny it as hard as they like, but it is very strange how some of the hotel men seemed to know that these amendments to the Liquor License Act of last session were coming. The premier claims that he made a pledge last session with respect to clubs and it would appear that he made a promise to the liquor interests as well.

Press Comment

(Saskatoon Phoenix)

There may be good reasons for the attorney general adding an extra half hour to the bar-room business of the hotel keeper, but to the average man they are not very obvious. There has been no bitter complaint on the score of early closing by the consumer.

(Montreal Star)

It is rumored that the government will recognize the falling revenue in the preparation of its estimates. It could hardly do otherwise, with a great transcontinental railway in course of building, unless it proposed to live off the money lenders entirely. A nation, like a man must cut its coat to suit its cloth. We have been cutting pretty generously of late and we will now know nationally—what most of us have learned personally—what it is to live through a period of shrinking revenues.

At Ottawa we are shortly to have a monument erected to the memory of Sir Louis Lafontaine. There ought also to be one commemorating Robert Baldwin. These two statesmen, one English and the other French, were the real victors in the struggle for responsible government. They se-

Just a little does them so much good and saves you so much worry. You owe it to them and yourself to make them as strong and healthy as possible. THE RIDERS OF THE PLAIN.

(By Mrs. Keane.)

Riding out his lone patrol, there came a "Rider of the Plain," Sotly humming through the distance an old love song's light refrain; For bright skies and sunny weather bro't sweet tho'ts of love and home, Though the dear old land he sang of lay across the ocean's foam.

Chorus:

No carpet knight was he, this rider bold and free,
Though graceful form had ne'er by beauty been caressed;
Through fire and fiercest storm, through danger's every form,
He'd done his King's behest, he'd done his soldier's best,
Guarding well the Empire's honor in the great Canadian West.

But what sight or sound of danger breaks the current of his dream?
What alarms his dumb companion, friend by field and wood and stream?
Only gleam of tattered uniform, a comrade's friendly red,
Till a nearer view reveals that friend one of the ghastly dead.

There's no need to ask the story of that comrade's bitter fate.
'Twas no foe in equal warfare, nor cunning Indian's hate.
Dying there alone he traced it on the papers at his breast:
'I have lost my way, my horse is dead. Good-bye! I've done my best.'

And no comrade's voice had cheered him, entering there that last long trail
Where the storm-kings' icy fingers seized the nobly guarded mail;
Nor for him the fond endearments of a sweetheart's last caress,
Nor the solace of a sister's prayer, a mother's holy kiss.

Yet no woman could be gentler in assuaging others' grief,
Weak and desolate sought this prairie knight to bring them sure relief;
But no plaint to death, oft cheated, would this rider-hero bring;
From life's angel he had chosen the red wine of suffering.

A thousand years of glory and renown by land and sea
Has produced this truest hero, the R. N. W. M. P.
Every grace of mind and person, every manliest quality,
Let us cheer him as we see him, passing into history.

(Entered according to Act of Parliament of Canada, in the year 1908, by Amy H. Keane, at the Department of Agriculture.)

Laurier government. In other words the Laurier government was making the Canadian people compulsory contributors to the Liberal campaign fund. How long are the people of Canada prepared to submit to this outrageous abuse of the public mail service? It costs more to carry pamphlets addressed by politicians than it does to carry ordinary letters. But though the service is private and for the benefit of politicians, the people pay the cost. If the franking privilege has reached the stage that the people must lose hundreds of thousands of dollars a year from the abuse of it, it is high time that the franking privilege was abolished.

Years ago the United States congress withdrew the franking privilege for all private and party purposes and only letters on the government service, government records, congressional reports and records, now enjoy the freedom of the United States mails. Canadian public opinion is extraordinarily tolerant, when it is willing to suffer the loss of hundreds of thousands of dollars a year in service exacted by politicians in the carriage of campaign literature and private letters.

Kick Against Calder.

(To the Editor of The West.)

Dear Sir,—As this is my first letter to your paper for publication I trust that you will insert the same, and accept my thanks for so doing. I may tell you at the start that I am one of those foreigners which the Liberal papers hold us down for. I am proud to say that I am also an old timer and a good Conservative. I may also tell you that there are a goodly number of registered letters got at this post office.

There is a great kick amongst the farmers against Mr. Calder, Minister of Education. If ever he thinks that he was beaten by Mr. Whitmore because of what Mr. Haultain said about him and graft he is mistaken. We are old timers here and if at another election Mr. Calder wants to try Milestone district again we can tell him he will have no chance at all, because sweet talking is not what we old farmers want, and because many and many of our old timers do not take sweet talking for cash value. If ever the minister of education wants to be skinned again let him come to Milestone district. He will be snowed under worse than ever because we know how he treated us in the Johannes S.D. No. 46. He is made clear by the judge that a place on the bench was wanted for a politician and that the knighthood was offered to the chief justice as a bribe to induce him to retire so the vacant place. Is the governor-general aware that knighthoods—which are popularly supposed to be honors from the crown—are bartered off in this way?

(Winnipeg Telegram.)

During the past years there were carried by His Majesty's mails over thirteen million letters for which no postage was paid.

Estimated at two cents apiece this means a loss of revenue to the country of a quarter of a million dollars. But a large number of these letters were much above the ordinary weight carrying official reports, pamphlets, etc., so that it would be safe to say that the carriage of free letters last year deprived Canada of a revenue amounting to at least half a million dollars.

A number of these free letters were of course devoted to legitimate departmental business. But the great volume of it was devoted to campaign literature sent out under the franks of officials and members of the

SICILY'S HISTORY

Sicily, the scene of one of the greatest disasters of modern times, is far fallen from its once great position, and it needs an earthquake to bring it into prominence. There is no Italian province that does not take higher rank than Sicily, which produces 90 per cent. of the organ-grinders of the world, and a great percentage of the loafers of the Mediterranean. In the middle ages and down to comparatively recent times, Sicilian pirates were the terror of merchantmen, and, until its political incorporation with Italy, Sicily was a sort of scapegoat, whose traditions alone were distinguished.

Separated from the mainland by a very narrow stretch of water, Sicily's first inhabitants are supposed to have come from Italy. The Phoenicians early founded colonies on the island, one of them being Palermo. In the eighth century, B.C. the Greeks landed on the coasts, and swept the Phoenicians into the interior, which being extremely mountainous, afforded them secure fastnesses, while their conquerors remained in possession along the shores. The Greek invaders founded new colonies, one of them being the city of Messina, formerly called Zancle. They also established Syracuse, one of the most famous of the world's ancient cities. Indeed Syracuse grew to dominate all the island, for in the battle that began between Carthaginians and the Greeks in the fifth century, B.C., the issue was so much in doubt that Syracuse held the balance of power.

Then came the Romans, all-conquering, and obtained possession of the whole island, which they used as the granary of their empire. After its decline and fall Sicily was over-run by barbarians of different nationalities. At the close of the fifth century the Ostrogoths were the masters of Sicily, but their reign was short, for in 535 the island became a part of the Byzantine Empire, having fallen to the sword of Belisarius. About the middle of the ninth century the Saracens occupied the island, and made Palermo their capital. They held on until the eleventh century, when the Normans swept them out and established the feudal system. They also united Sicily to Naples, and since then the two have been known as the two Sicilys.

In 1053, Pope Leo IX., at the head of German and Italian troops, tried to drive out the Normans, but he was defeated and taken prisoner, and held until he had acknowledged the Norman's conquest. There followed two hundred years of fighting and rebellions, which ended in the expulsion of the French in 1833 from Naples. But they clung to the island of Sicily for another century and a half, and it was not until the reign of Alfonso V. that the kingdoms became reunited. At his death, however, the old division occurred. In the war of the Spanish succession Sicily played a part, and was finally traded for Sardinia. It now became part of Spain, and in the Napoleonic wars was almost the prey of Napoleon.

Thanks to the British navy the island was saved when Napoleon gave Naples to his favorite general, Murat. As an appanage of Spain, Sicily had a turbulent forty years after the downfall of Napoleon, but it broke with the Bourbons for all time in the reign of Francis II., Garibaldi, in 1860, crossed the strait from Italy and Sicily was his easy prey, the people having no heart to fight for their despotic king. As was inevitable, in view of the frequent conquests, the modern Sicilian is a blending of many races. In some districts the people are more like Arabs than Italians, though all are Roman Catholics. There are great extremes of wealth and poverty, and the unequal distribution of land is held to be responsible for much of the brigandage that has made the Sicily of modern times notorious. It is there that the Mafia flourishes, and though under Victor Emmanuel considerable progress has been made, great swine with due consideration for their comfort many progressive hog raisers have, during the past few years, practically wasted large sums of money in building elaborate warm houses for their herds. Having wintered their stock of all ages and conditions in these structures for one or two seasons the mistake they had made became more apparent by reason of the fact that the swine instead of showing greater vigor, exhibited signs of ill-health in the form of coughing, lameness, scurfiness of skin and other evidence of lack of thrift. The chief difficulty from these close houses is due to lack of exercise taken by the swine kept in them. After rising from their comfortable beds to take their food, which is usually provided regularly, near at hand and in palatable condition, the pigs fill themselves and again return to their resting places. This mode of living followed for weeks and months at a season of the year when outdoor life is uninviting, even should the pen door be left open, is attended with indigestion, constipation and other forms of sluggishness, causing weak litters, lack of a good milk flow in dams, stunted weanlings and slow gains in older hogs. Exercise is one essential for swine of all ages if hog raising is to be made a success, and it is in not providing

WINTER HOUSING OF SWINE.

It is at this season of the year that the housing of swine becomes a more or less difficult problem. This is more or less particularly true in regard to the housing of sows due to farrow in the spring. It is chiefly on the housing that the vigor of spring litter depends. The revised edition of Bulletin No. 10 of the Live Stock Branch, Ottawa, treats this question in a very practical manner. It says: "Much of the success of hog raising depends upon suitable housing. Suitable housing does not, however, demand expensive, built houses and pens designed so as to provide summer temperature during the winter season. In an ambitious desire to create swine with due consideration for their comfort many progressive hog raisers have, during the past few years, practically wasted large sums of money in building elaborate warm houses for their herds. Having wintered their stock of all ages and conditions in these structures for one or two seasons the mistake they had made became more apparent by reason of the fact that the swine instead of showing greater vigor, exhibited signs of ill-health in the form of coughing, lameness, scurfiness of skin and other evidence of lack of thrift. The chief difficulty from these close houses is due to lack of exercise taken by the swine kept in them. After rising from their comfortable beds to take their food, which is usually provided regularly, near at hand and in palatable condition, the pigs fill themselves and again return to their resting places. This mode of living followed for weeks and months at a season of the year when outdoor life is uninviting, even should the pen door be left open, is attended with indigestion, constipation and other forms of sluggishness, causing weak litters, lack of a good milk flow in dams, stunted weanlings and slow gains in older hogs. Exercise is one essential for swine of all ages if hog raising is to be made a success, and it is in not providing this that the warm pen used for both sleeping and feeding fails. For young litters coming in cold weather a warm pen is necessary, and rather close quarters are also conducive to the most profitable gains during a hog's final fattening period, but no other time in a hog's life is close housing advantageous. This is the late winter or early spring there is no better shelter than the movable cabin. A number of these can be arranged side by side in or near the barn yard. If kept comfortably bedded four or five large sows will lie very comfortably in a cabin constructed according to directions given further on. The old style of rail creep beneath a straw stack, so long as it is closed on three sides, affords a good breeding sows or even growing pigs. On some of the most extensive hog breeding establishments the only shelter given the sows in winter is an old barn or shed, lined up to keep the draughts out, and having a constantly open door which affords free and unlimited access to the open air. The feeding is done in the open, which compels the herd to take a good amount of daily exercise, upon which good health so much depends. Sows thus housed and fed on food composed of pulped roots and chopped grain, bran, etc., given in a rather dry consistency, will maintain a fine condition for successful motherhood." The bulletin then goes on to describe in detail the plan, construction and management of various styles of houses that are in successful operation in different parts of Canada. Copies of this excellent bulletin, which should be in the hands of every swine raiser in Canada may be secured free by making application to J. G. Rutherford, Live Stock Commissioner, Ottawa.

NO NECESSITY FOR CLOSURE RULES

If Ministers Give Information That Should be Given --Attitude of the Opposition at Last Session Fully Justified--Elections Cause Heavy Deficits--Some Government Contracts.

Ottawa, Jan. 16.—Government of Canada announces that closure rules will be enacted in the coming session. Ministers say that sessions are prolonged by opposition obstruction, and that some steps must be taken to choke it off.

THE REAL OBSTRUCTORS The truth is that more "obstruction" has come from the government side than from the opposition. If last session was mainly responsible. Ministers had their friends obstruct inquiries that were absolutely necessary in the public interest. They refused official information which they were constitutionally bound to give.

GREAT CONSERVATIVE GAINS. According to the official returns of the election of 1904 the Liberal majority was 52,853, or nearly three times the majority of last election. The following are the changes in the majorities by provinces: Provinces 1904 1908 Ontario 8,441, Con. 12,098, O. Quebec 36,250, Lib. 29,029, L. Nova Scotia 8,526, Lib. 813, L. New Brunswick 1,891, Lib. 5,773, L. Prince Ed. Is. 545, Con. 210, L. Manitoba 713, Lib. 6,684, C. B. Columbia 2076, Lib. 4,000, C. Alta. and Sask. 7,797, Lib. 6,613, L.

OPPOSITION OBSTRUCTION. There were three occasions last session when the opposition might be charged with obstruction. The party resisted the attempt of the government to select two Conservative provinces and part of another for federal control of electoral franchises and registration. This was such a scandalous discrimination, and such an impudent attempt to steal an unconstitutional advantage, that opposition members were bound to fight it by every possible means.

TRY MR. BORDEN'S POLICY. Contrasted with the vague statement of the Minister of Railways that some change must be made in the control of the Intercolonial, we have this week the emphatic declaration of Mr. Borden that government ownership of the government railway ought to be given a fair chance. The opposition leader asks that the Intercolonial be set free from the debasing and ruinous patronage system, and operated by an independent commission in the public interest and not for the benefit of the political party. This is one of the planks in the Halifax platform, laid down by Mr. Borden in 1907. The leader points out that government ownership works well in Australia, and is eminently successful in Ontario. Government ownership with control by party heeler is a manifest failure with the Intercolonial, and Mr. Graham is face to face with a prodigious deficit.

ELECTION YEAR DEFICITS. The loss in the year 1908-9 will be the greatest in the history of the railway, except that made by Mr. Emmerson in 1904-5. It is worth noting that Mr. Emmerson's deficit of $1,079,000 and Mr. Graham's deficit of $1,479,000 belong to election years. This fact alone shows how the people's railway is plundered for election purposes. Ministers have been under bonds to give the patronage to the persons who produce the campaign funds. Though Mr. Graham professes that he buys railway supplies on business principles, one has only to look at the auditor-general's report to find out from whom he buys and at what prices, in order to know that the railway department is worse off, if possible, than the department of marine.

BETTER THAN THE GAG. This obstruction was evidently justified so far as the opposition was concerned. The ministers were wholly to blame for it. They will be wholly to blame if there is obstruction next session, for no Conservative member desires to keep parliament sitting longer than is necessary. Inquiry into public expenditure must take place, and if ministers set up their friends in the committees, as they did last year, to head off enquiry, they will make the session long. It is the right of the opposition to have records and papers brought down for examination. Should ministers refuse them the session will be long. No closure legislation can take from the opposition these rights or relieve them of these duties, and ministers will find that they will get through the session more quickly by performing their own duties, and allowing Conservative members to perform theirs, than they will by introducing a gag rule.

GOVERNMENT MAJORITY LESS. The clerk of the crown in chancery seems to have made a mistake in his additions in making up election returns. The Liberal vote which his addition makes 574,356, is 664,356, and the majority is 21,496 instead of 31,496.

SILK TRAIN WRECKED. Two Train Men Killed in Wreck at Tompkins—Two Others Injured—Wreck Near Lanigan—Lines Blocked. Maple Creek, Jan. 13.—A rear end collision of two east-bound trains at Tompkins, 35 miles east of here at two o'clock today, resulted in the death of two men, serious injury to two others and the derailing of nine cars. The dead men are brakeman B. S. Porter, of Medicine Hat, and fireman J. D. King who also resides here. The injured are Engineer Degan and brakeman Tan Mount. One of the trains was laden with silk, which formed part of the cargo of the C.P.R. liner Empress of India, which arrived the other day from the Orient.

WORSE THAN MARINE. Dealers on the patronage list who sold supplies to the Marine Department at all kinds of excessive prices, under the name who sell to the railway department at the same exorbitant rates, only they get some ten dollars from the Intercolonial patronage, and hoodlums would reveal a proportionate amount of plunder and rake-off. The Moncton land deal (160 per cent. rake-off), the Halifax land deal (156 per cent. rake-off), are samples of what a full enquiry would reveal.

BEFORE AND AFTER ELECTION. Mr. Graham is cutting down the hours of labor on the railway, with a corresponding reduction of pay. He says there is not work enough to keep the train hands and machinists engaged. But the Moncton Times, printed at the Intercolonial headquarters, shows that the force was increased last year before the Dominion election, and earlier during the provincial elections in New Brunswick. The railway was then loaded with superfluous men, and the working expenses enormously increased to purchase votes for government supporters. Now the whole staff must suffer and the people must pay the deficit. Mr. Graham has shown himself to be an expert minister. But the campaign sacrifice of the public interest has doubtless assisted in Quebec and the Maritime provinces to elect government supporters, to keep Mr. Graham and his comrades in office.

THIS YEAR'S DEFICIT. For the nine months ending with December, public works and railways earned $492,000 less than last year. This means a decline of $460,000 in Intercolonial earnings, or at the rate of working expenses, an increase of $70,000 in the first month, and it is certain that the expenditure has gone on at about the same rate. Today all kinds of rumors about the sale of the railway are in circulation, and the government press is preparing the public mind for some deal. "Get rid of the railway," is the keynote in the Montreal Herald, organ of the minister of agriculture.

BLAMING THE DEAD. The program of Mr. Brodeur and his colleagues in respect to the maturing of government organs, it is all the fault of Mr. Prouty, says the Toronto Globe, which bluntly says that if this minister had not died, Sir Wilfrid would have dismissed him. This plea is not only cowardly. It is false. Mr. Brodeur has had the marine department three years. He has not made it better, on the contrary he has increased the patronage evils, and has been personally responsible for the Palmer scandal and his own outrageous European expense bills.

WORSE AND WORSE. Financial returns issued this week by government come down to the end of December. They show for 9 months: Decrease in revenue, $11,475,000. Increase in current expenditure, $5,000,000. Increase in capital expenditure, $7,000,000. Total increase in expenditure $12,000,000. Change for the worse, $23,475,000. Increase in net debt in twelve months, $37,500,000. December expenditure in excess of December '07, $2,475,000.

THE WALLBERG CONTRACTS. Take, for instance, the Intercolonial contracts with Wallberg. When the railway wanted hoisting cranes, tenders were called for, and the tenders were given to Wallberg, who was not the lowest tenderer, and bought the articles in the United States, simply turning them over to the government at a profit of $1,000 for each crane. The contract for hoisting cranes at Moncton station was submitted to Wallberg and he was the lowest tenderer. The railway wanted water tanks and Wallberg tendered at a price higher than the Fairbanks Co. with an alternative tender a fraction lower than Fairbanks if given time to saw and dry the lumber. The Wallberg tender was accepted at the highest price on the ground that the work was urgent, and he was given a longer time than the Fairbanks asked for, and was allowed to saw and dry his lumber. The railway needed a gigder and paid Wallberg $1 cent a pound for them, without tender, the contractor turned the work over to a Montreal company at less than $1 into a pound, making a net profit of 55 per cent. The Picton engine house was put up at a tender, and went to Wallberg, the government working out his offer at $62,500. He was paid over $100,000. For certain

The oven does the baking, the fire-box controls the oven heat, and the grates hold the coal or wood that produces the heat, so THE GRATES are important.

Sask-alta Range

"Sask-alta" Double Duplex Grates are made in four pieces, each grate shaken separately. Ashes over one grate can be shaken without wasting good fuel over other grate. No poking necessary, thereby saving fuel. Dampers at both ends of fire-box secure perfect drafts. When grates are inverted for wood a patent clamp retains them in position. The easiest-working way is the surest-serving way—and that's "Sask-alta" way.

Regina hockey team was defeated at Moose Jaw on Monday by one goal. The score was Moose Jaw 4, Regina 3. This was the first game in the Central Saskatchewan Hockey League series.

C. D. McCready appeared before Judge Lamont again on Monday. A. Casey, who represented the State of Minnesota, asked for an adjournment until the end of February, but this was opposed by N. Mackenzie, K.C., solicitor for McCready. Mr. Mackenzie asked that the accused be discharged. The judge granted an adjournment for two weeks at the end of which time if the prosecution was not ready to go on, he would discharge the accused. Bail was again accepted.

MAKE IT YOURSELF

Says Many Persons Here Can Be Made Happy Again By Using It.

There is so much rheumatism here in our neighborhood now that the following advice will be highly appreciated by those who suffer:

Get from any good pharmacy one-half ounce Fluid Extract Dandelion, one ounce Compound Kargon, three ounces of Compound Syrup Sarasaparilla. Shake these well in a bottle and take in teaspoonful doses after each meal and at bedtime; also drink plenty of good water.

It is claimed that there are few victims of this dread and torturous disease who will fail to find ready relief in this simple home-made mixture, and in most cases a permanent cure is the result.

This simple recipe is said to strengthen and cleanse the eliminative tissues of the kidneys so that they can filter and strain from the blood and system the poisonous acids and waste matter, which cause, not only Rheumatism, but numerous other diseases. Every man or woman here who feels that their kidneys are not healthy and active, or who suffers from any urinary troubles whatever, should not hesitate to make up this mixture, as it is certain to do much good, and may save you from much misery and suffering after while.

Our home druggists say they will either supply the ingredients or mix the prescription ready to take if our readers ask them.

had been passed in opposition to the liquor party which invariably had defeated government bills which enacted advanced liquor legislation. Talk was cheap. He was content to have his attitude on the question of temperance judged by legislation. It was cheap for hon. gentlemen opposite to criticize without offering amendment. Wylie, Maple Creek, said that judging from the defeat of the commissioner of agriculture, it was evident that he had not received much consideration at the time when the redistribution measure was enacted. His attitude during the discussion was due to the fact that his opinions had undergone a change, for during the recent campaign his platform in the town of Humboldt had stood upon beer kegs. Talk evidently was cheap or the premier would not be in his place. No one could deny that this legislation was retrograde. He had his own opinion on temperance, and would add that the temperance people could not but expect that temperance legislation would be a political football as long as they allowed a red herring to be drawn across the trail before election. He had protested against the bill at its second reading. If talk was cheap, then if the temperance people listened to less of it and paid more attention to deeds their cause would be further advanced.
