WEDDED AT LAST!

CHAPTER V.

And Shirley herself would have eaten dry bread with a sunny countenance and laughing, happy hazel eyes if that dry bread could have been eaten in the society of one person who loved her. She would have worn the shabbiest of garments if loving eyes had told her that the dingy setting did not matter, that the pictures was as pleasant in its tarnished frame as it could have been in one gorgeous with gliding and carving. She was a contented little mortal naturally; she was not conceited, or ambitious, or anxious to outdress or outvie her neighbors, and a very little sunshine would have sufficed her—but even that little seemed to be denied her.

They were not actively unkind to her at Fairholme Court; no one, except perhaps Alice Fairholme, disliked the beautiful girl who was so gentle, quiet and unobtrusive, and never in the way; but they did not care for her, and in that lay the sting. No one cared whether she was glad or sorry, well or ill, rested or tired, no one ever sympathized, no one heeded, she was so lonely in the great cheerful, bustling household; she was neither useful nor ornamental, as Alice had told her one day. It would make very little difference to any one's comfort and happiness if she were to fade away and die. No one would care much but Jack.

And even Jack would not miss her very much. Shirley thought pitifully, if she were to die. He had many friends and companions in London now; and, though, when he came to Scotland for the short annual visit which was all Sir Gilbert would allow, he was kind and tender as of old, and Shirley felt that she was no longer necessary to him, as she had been in the past. Jack was a man now, a tall handsome fellow with a smart little mustache, and particular as to the cut of his coat. What foolish nonsense people talked when they said women were older than men for their years! Jack was only a year or two Shirley's senior, but he had left her far behind, and while he was a man, she was a child.

Nobody at Fairholme Court wanted her—that was evident. Her uncle treated her with careless kindness.

her aunt gave her a smooth fair cheek to kiss night and morning, and occasionally reproved her for some trifling fault of deportment or manner. Alice snubbed her perpetually, and the children were fond of her in their fashion, or rather selfish, cruel fashion, for they tyrannized over her unmercifully. Her cousin Oswald was kind to her when he was at home, which was but rarely, for he did not care to ask for much leave. Even Miss Martin, the children's governess, was cold and distant while the servants neglected or patronized her—and the patronage was infinitely harder to bear than the neglect.

Altogether Shirley Ross felt herself a very lonely, sorrowful little wail upon the wide, wide world, and all ready, at the very outset of her voyage, she was tired and worn and longing for its end.

When Shirley came first into her new home, fresh from her mother's funeral, she was far too miserable to heed any of her surroundings. All her faculties seemed to be dulled by the terrible grief which had fallen upon her. She could think of nothing but the sorrowful journey and its end of the dear gentle mother who had always been so kind and gentle to her. But youth is very elastic, and soon recovers even from the bitterest grief; and, as the first numbness of despair wore off, she began to feel the want of some sympathy, some affection from those around her; but she found her timid advances ignored or repulsed, and she was thrown back upon herself, chilled and dispirited, and during the two long years she had lived at Fairholme Court she had lived as solitary a life as it was possible to lead.

Fairholme Court was a stately and commodious mansion built in the end of the last century, but fitted up with every modern convenience. It possessed no haunted passages, no secret chambers. All was bright, cheerful and modern within; the small windows had been removed and wide panes of plate-glass substituted; the rooms were spacious and well ventilated, the drawing rooms extremely handsome. To Shirley the house was neither so beautiful nor so interesting as an humbler but more antique and less pretentious abode would have been; but the grounds were lovely, and the view from the upper windows was so beautiful that it often made Shirley forget her troubles.

The schoolroom, the only sitting-room really free to the little dependant, and that only out of lesson hours, was a lofty square room, lighted by two long windows which opened on to a lawn; round this side of the house there was a veranda, and Mand and eJan Fairholme were fond of taking their lessons out there on the hot summer days. Within, the room gave most unmistakable signs of the use to which it was put. There were a long-enduring Broadwood piano, a most uncompromising-looking sofa in one corner, and a reclining-board in another; the carpet showed signs of hard service, and there was many an ink-splash on the red cloth table-cover. Two recesses were filled with book-shelves, and on the walls were hung some simply-framed water-color pictures. Oswald and Alice's productions, and some few of Shirley's own. It was neither a picturesque nor a pretty room, nor a fitting background for the little figure sitting alone in the fading firelight in an attitude of an unconscious grace, and so still, that it was quite possible for any one to enter the room without becoming aware of her presence.

Presently the door was pushed open noisily, and a young man entered, a slight dark man, with a black mustache and something of Shirley's own regularity of feature. He was handsome and graceful and rather foreign-looking, and Shirley's affection for her cousin Oswald had partly originated in the fact that there was much resemblance between him and her dead mother.

"Shirley," he exclaimed, "are you here? Why, it is a blind man's holiday here, and no mistake!"

"Is that you Oswald?" Shirley said turning around from the fire and speaking in such a pretty pathetic, thrilling voice. "Do you want me?"

"Want you? Of course, I want you!" he replied, as he advanced toward the fire. "What do you mean by moping here in the dark when there are two delightful eligible young men having afternoon tea with Alice and her ladyship in the oak parlor?"

Shirley laughed lightly, turning her face toward him as he threw himself into the low chair by the fire, which was Miss Martin's favorite seat, and sending forward, looked at her by the light of the fire.

"They don't want me, and I don't want them," she said carelessly. "Who are the delightful eligible young men, Oswald?"

"Not to know them argues yourself, unknown, little coz," he replied lightly. "I am sure their names have been household words here for the last twenty-four hours. At first it was, 'Will they come, or won't they come?' Then it was, 'Oh, here they are!'—'No, it isn't!—Yes, it is! I am sure I should think Alice has lost considerably in weight since the morning, she has undergone such an agony of expectation.'"

"I wish Alice could hear you," Shirley remarked, lightly.

"I am glad she can't. What an awful wiggling I should get! But, little woman, look here; there are two young men. I tell you, and you are welcome to one—not to 'the one, you now, but to the other; so I have come to fetch you.'"

"Hadn't you better tell me which is the one and which is the other?" said the girl merrily—"or I may be inclined to appropriate what was not intended for me."

"You would soon be enlightened," Oswald Fairholme said laughingly. "If you were in the oak parlor for five minutes, you would have no need to ask that question. To the one are all sweetness and smiles and em-broiderment, to the other we are mere-civil and gracious. Shirley, when are you going to fall down and worship the golden calf?"

"Whenever I get the chance," she replied, with sudden earnestness.

"Do you mean to say that you Shirley Ross, would marry for money?" said her cousin, lifting up his

Famous "Pint of Cough Syrup" Recipe
No Better Remedy at Any Price. Fully Guaranteed.

Make a plain syrup by mixing two cups of granulated sugar and one cup of warm water and stir for two minutes. Put 2½ ounces of pure Pinex (fifty cents' worth) in a 16-ounce bottle, and fill it up with the Sugar Syrup. This gives you a family supply of the best cough syrup at a saving of $2. It never spoils. Take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours.

The effectiveness of this simple remedy is surprising. It seems to take hold in a minute, and will usually stop the most obstinate cough in 24 hours. It tones up the jaded appetite and is just laxative enough to be helpful in a cough, and has a pleasing taste. Also excellent for bronchial trouble, throat tickle, sore lungs, asthma, and an unequalled remedy for whooping cough and croup.

This recipe for making cough remedy with Pinex and Sugar Syrup (or strain honey) is a prime favorite in thousands of homes in the United States and Canada. The plan has been imitated, though not successfully. If you try it, use only genuine Pinex, which is the most valuable concentrated compound of Norway pine extract, and is rich in quality of all the natural healing pine essence. Other preparations will not work in recipe.

A guaranty of absolute satisfaction—money promptly refunded, goes with recipe. Your druggist has Pinex, or get it for you. If not, send to The P. J. Co., Toronto, Ont.

hands with affected horror.

"I do, most certainly."

"You mercenary little wretch!" he said, laughing. "I thought you were above such a thing. But you're just like the rest of the sex. I shall never find a woman to marry me because I am the best-looking fellow in her Majesty's—the Hussars, but because I am heir to Fairholme Court and Sir Gilbert's only son. So says the world."

"Poor Oswald! What a misfortune it must be to an only son and heir!" Shirley said, laughing. "But you have not yet told me who these eligible are."

"One, my dear and curious cousin, true daughter of mother Eve, and 'the one,' is Sir Hugh Glynn, the new owner of Maxwell, who has come to Scotland to see about the alteration and restoration of his mansion; the other is his friend Major Stuart, of the Royal Buffs, at your service."

"And an awfully good looking man—as handsome for a man as you for a girl, Shirley—and you are unusually lovely, you know. Stuart is a sabreur of the Guy Livingstone style. Just the fellow to fetch a romantic lassie like yourself."

"Am I tidy?" Shirley asked, as she rose slowly and stood upright, turning to her cousin to be inspected; and Oswald Fairholme, as he looked up at her, thought in his heart that no livelier vision than his cousin Shirley had poet ever dreamed of or artist painted.

She was a slim, slight girl, whose every movement was rarely graceful, who walked as few Englishwomen ever walk, who carried herself with an unconscious grace which, even had she been less beautiful, would have made her remarkable anywhere. When her cousin spoke of her as unusually lovely, he did her no more than justice. She was pale, with the beautiful marble-like pallor which is so far removed from the sallowness of ill-health as light from darkness; her hair, curling over her brow and gathered into a soft way knot on the top of her neck, was of a fair chestnut brown, golden where the sun lashed it; her eyes were of the purest, darkest hazel, shaded by long eyelashes which, like her straight clear eyebrows were many shades darker than her hair, being almost black; and the sweet mouth with its pouting tender crimson lips was as perfect a mouth as lover ever kissed. She was dressed in a black, closely-fitting serge dress, with a plain linen collar round her throat and a bunch of mountain-ash berries at her breast.

OVERCOATS

JACKMAN THE TAILORS.

20 p.c. Reductions and Over for Spot Cash.

This season is a record one with us in our Overcoat Department. Why? Because we never had such fashionable styles or good values. They are pronounced by competent judges to be the finest lot of high grade Overcoats ever shown in this city.

But we want to clear them out before Stock-taking. We find that it pays us better to take off twenty per cent. at the end of the season than to carry them on for another year, because they depreciate in value and get out of style.

Just a few prices to illustrate the Bargains that we are offering in Boys' and Men's Overcoats.

Boys' Overcoats, D.B. Reg. $6.00, reduced to . . . $3.97
Boys' Overcoats, D.B. Reg. $3.50, reduced to . . . $2.62

"Sweet are the Uses."

By RUTH CAMERON.

On account of financial losses and a much reduced income one of the families in our neighbourhood decided last January to cut down its large purchase of magazines to two of the leading monthlies.

As they are very fond of reading I supposed they would find this a keen deprivation, but my neighbour tells me that this cloud has so big a silver lining that she is not sure that it is a cloud at all. "When we had a dozen magazines," she said, "we used to skim them over. Now we read our two magazines carefully. Instead of throwing them aside after we have read the stories we read the essays and serious articles, too. Then it has driven us to make more use of our new public library, and the other day we discovered we hadn't read half the books right off our own bookshelves. I'm absorbed in Les Miserables and Jack is reading one of Thackeray's that we hadn't happened to read—both books right off our own bookshelves. So you see, by driving us to make better use of our resources our forced economy has been rather a good thing after all."

How many times this happens! That is, how many times some unwelcome necessity "by driving us to make better use of our resources," teaches us how much larger these resources were than we realize!

Another friend of mine who suffered a sudden reduction of income had to give up buying the new clothes she had planned last spring. But when she came to look over the wardrobe which she had in stock she was surprised to find how many things she had and how much a little taste and money would do with them. "There were two or three thin dresses that just had some little thing the matter with them," she told me afterward. "If I had as much money as usual I would have thought I couldn't do anything with them. As it was I fixed them up and everybody liked them. Then instead of buying new grey suede shoes I dyed a soiled white pair. I did a lot of things like that and I felt that I had almost as much as usual. I certainly didn't realize the possibilities of what I already had until I was driven into really using them."

Again, it is not alone in material things that we must be driven into using our full resources. I remember a time in my life when I was peculiarly alone, when I had no one to whom I could turn, no one to whom I could shift my responsibilities if they became too heavy. And just because I had no one to lean on I leaned upon myself and developed more character and self-reliance than I ever would have under happier circumstances.

Half the time we do not even scratch the surface of our resources. It takes necessity to drive us in upon them and teach us the full possibilities in our lives.

Flour $200 a Barrel

Experience of Newfoundland Miner in Alaska.

Mr. A. Campbell, of Pilley's Island, forwards us an interesting letter he has just received from his brother, John, who was here last year from Alaska after spending some eight years there. The letter is from Sitka, Alaska, a new mining camp where gold is being sought. The letter is dated October 18th, and he writes:

"I am writing you to let you know that I am at the new mining camp, the one I wrote you about, when I was in Fairbanks. Of all the mining camps that have been made in Alaska, this is the hardest one to get to. We left Fairbanks on August 19th on a steamer with 100 passengers. We were 30 days on the steamer, and only went 450 miles, the river was so low. On Sept. 19th the captain put us all ashore. We all had poling-boats, two men in a boat. Then we had to pole and haul the boat up stream with a rope 100 miles farther. Ours was the only boat which got through to the mining camp. There were days we made only four miles, the water was so swift. Before we got through, the river was running ice. We had to leave about one ton of provisions, 20 miles from here. We intend to haul it this winter. There are people all along the river for 100 miles. They will have to haul it this winter. We were lucky. We never lost our boat or any of our provisions. I and my partner are building a log cabin to live in this winter. We intend to move in it to-morrow. There are five or six ways to get to this camp. Some are harder than others. I am closer to the outside coast than when I was in Tofty. We had to pay 15 cents a pound for freight on the steamer. Provisions are high in this mining camp now, although we are only about 100 miles from a railroad, but the road leads over mountains and glaciers. Flour is one dollar a pound now, and so is sugar and rice. Bacon is $1.25 a lb. A barrel of flour would cost $200, but when the winter comes and slides can be used, things will be cheaper. We have plenty of provisions. Now about the gold strike. It will take about a year to find out whether it will be a good camp. They found a spot this summer which was good. They do not know yet how large a camp it may grow. The mining may prove to be good or it may amount to nothing. I have a little boiler for prospecting, the only one in camp. This town is about 12 miles from the diggings. In it are about 500 log cabins. It is at an elevation of about 4,000 to 5,000 feet above the sea-level. I have good health and sleep well. Rabbits and partridges are plentiful here. We have a mail twice a month."

How One Burn Was Cured.

"Did you ever hear how that little girl of Mrs. Wells' got on—the one that had the nasty burn on her arm, you know?"

"Why, yes, she was perfectly cured, not even a scar remains."

"How was that managed?"

"Easily enough; Mrs. Wells got a box of a new ointment called Zylez, from her druggist—and in a very few days the burn was healed and the child's arm as well as ever."

Zylez is the latest soothing and healing ointment, and is up-to-date in every respect. It is for sale by all Druggists. Price 50c. a box. Zylez Soap, 25c. a cake. Zylez, London.—dec2, end.1f

Bell Island Jottings

The effect of the recent snow fall was severely felt here and for three days traffic from the public wharf to the mines was cut off.

Mr. H. J. Leir, of the Dominion Company, went to St. John's on Friday.

The R. C. Bazaar closed on Tuesday night and was a great success.

Dr. Giovanitti late of Bay Bulls, has opened practice on the front of the Island. As a doctor is badly required there, and as the doctor presents an unusual amount of energy we predict for him a good future there.

Rev. Fr. Goff paid a short visit to the Island during the week.

Both the C. L. B. and C. C. C., lately organized here are progressing rapidly, the latter appearing in public for the first time on Sunday afternoon and presented a smart appearance.

The Dominion Boat Club are adding a Reading Room to their Club on Main Street.

The L. O. A. Hall is pretty well completed and is a fine building. It is situated opposite the Dominion Club and near the Bank of Nova Scotia.

The Wabana Drug Co. are starting a Branch business on Davidson Ave., near the new Mines of the N.S. Co.

To make geraniums bloom well in winter they require to be kept in small pots all summer. When you take them into the house in the fall do not report them. Raise the windows every day for a little while if not too cold and do not keep them open too long.

Household Notes.

It is a good idea to wipe carpet all over with a cloth wrung out of water to which ammonia has been added. (Two teaspoonfuls to a gallon of water).

Every housewife should have one day in the week for which nothing is planned. That day can be devoted to odds and ends and things which have no name.

When making starch, try using scopy water, instead of the plain water. This will give a much better gloss to the clothes and the iron will not stick.

Wash laces which have become stained with perspiration in cold water and soap. After the stains have been removed, put them into warm water.

Spots on carpets and rugs in moist instances may be removed by sponging with oxgall or with ammonia and water, in the first place taking care to rinse thoroughly.

When a little speck of grit or dust gets into the eye, try shutting the eye for a few minutes, or violent blowing of the nose will sometimes bring the speck out.

The best material for protecting shrubs from winter winds is waterproof building paper. Make a framework of laths around the shrub and tack the paper to it.

An inexpensive kitchen convenience is a quart milk can covered, in which milk, soup, custard or any liquid may be put into the refrigerator, taking small space.

Chicken feet, if scraped and boiled down in water, will make a delicious jelly. If desired, boiled rice may be mixed with the broth before pouring into the bowl to set.

To wash a rug, tack it securely to a bare, clean floor; next scrub with ammonia water and pure castile soap; rinse thoroughly and leave tacked to the floor until perfectly dry.

When a large bottle of olives is opened and only a part of them used, the remainder, though left in the brine, become tasteless. To avoid this, pour half an inch of olive oil and one tablespoonful of vinegar on the top and cork well.

To protect the hair, nostrils and mouth from dirt while sweeping, tie the head up in a long veil (an old automobile veil is good for the purpose) arranging it after the fashion of the Turkish and Persian women, leaving only the eyes exposed.

To remove flyspecks from gilt frames apply with a soft camel's hair brush the beaten white of an egg mixed with two tablespoonfuls of cold water, and spread this over only a small part of the gilt at a time. Dry at once by wiping gently with a piece of soft silk or cotton batting.

An Operation For Appendicitis

Was Ordered by His Doctor, But Complete Cure Was Effected by Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

Almost anyone who has suffered from appendicitis will assure you that this trouble developed only after months or years of derangements of the liver and bowels.

Appendicitis can almost invariably be prevented, and very frequently cured, by the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. In the case described in this letter the doctors had ordered an operation, but a thorough cure was brought about by this great medicine.

Mrs. J. A. Ballantine, Surgeon Falls, Ont., writes: "My husband was treated for appendicitis and the doctors ordered an operation, but he would not consent to an operation and began the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. Since doing so he has had no need of an operation, or even of a doctor, as the trouble has completely left him. I cannot find words to speak our gratitude for his cure."

"LASTING" CHRISTMAS GIFTS!

It is three or four years since we first called attention to bonds and stocks as Christmas gifts. Each year has found a larger number of people giving such gifts. Already orders for this purpose have been booked.

A few moments thought will convince you that such a gift would prove a very acceptable one, and when the time comes around to cut off the interest coupons from the bonds or the dividend cheques are received, one that will be a pleasing reminder of your thoughtfulness.

You can buy such gifts for $5.00 and upwards. Drop us a line for particulars; better still, if convenient, drop in and let us talk it over.

Roofing As Attractive in Price —As in Color

You'll admit this roof looks attractive—in distinctive colors of red or green. But for most home builders its chief attraction lies in its remarkable economies. Let's begin with its first cost. NEPONSET Prostate Roofing costs less to buy than good shingles. Greatly reduces the cost of repairs. No shingles to split, crack or "cut up." Remember, the shingles of today aren't the shingles of 20 years ago. NEPONSET Prostate Roofing makes a water-tight blanket. And best of all, resists fire—is "spark-proof." Its protection from fire-hazard alone is worth all its cost. Its first cost is its only cost, too. Can you afford NOT to have NEPONSET Prostate Roofing on your roof?

NEPONSET

Waterproof Building Products

Roofings Building Papers Wall Board
NEPONSET roofings are a fire protection, leak-proof and long lived. Anyone can lay them. NEPONSET Paroid Roofing is for general use. NEPONSET Prostate Roofing is an economical roofing for dwellings. Attractive colors.
If NEPONSET Waterproof Building Papers are built into walls and floors, the building will be warmer, will cost less to heat and will last years longer. Recommended by architects, engineers and building owners everywhere.
NEPONSET Wall Board is a scientific product which takes the place of lath and plaster comes in sheets 32 inches wide. Remember, it is the only wall board with waterproof surface that requires no further decoration. Anyone can put it up.

Are you going to build? Write for reliable information about modern ways to waterproof and weatherproof. Send for samples, free booklet and name of nearest NEPONSET dealer.

Granulation of the Eyelids

Is Cured by Dr. Chase's Ointment—Scores of Uses for the Great Soothing, Healing Ointment.

Most people know Dr. Chase's Ointment best as a cure for eczema and itching piles. Nor is this to be wondered at when you think of the remarkable record made in this class of cures.

But there are scores of other uses for this ointment, which are only discovered when it is kept constantly at hand.

Mrs. Martin, 13 Carroll street, Toronto, formerly of Bowmanville, Ont., writes: "We have used Dr. Chase's Ointment for years, and found it invaluable in treating skin irritations and all sorts of burns and wounds. In fact, we would not be without it in the house. It is a most excellent treatment for granulated eyelids, from which I suffered without finding anything to help me."

Wherever there is itching of the skin or a sore that refuses to heal you can use Dr. Chase's Ointment with the assurance that it will prove entirely satisfactory. 50 cents a box, all dealers, or Edmondson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

A Stormy Night

The wind and rain storm of last night was the worst felt in the city for some time, and in places where the drains were not clear, many of the dwellings were flooded, and the employees of the Council had a busy time of it clearing the gutters and drains. The storm also made plenty of work for the street car staff who had to shovel the sand that came pouring down on the car rails from the neighboring hills. The staff of repairers at the sub-station had to respond to several calls owing to some fuses blowing out at the sub-station, and a wire at the junction of Water and Adelaide Streets caused some trouble by falling during the height of the storm.

Operto Market.

The Board of Trade has received the following letter from Lind and Couta of Operto: "Since last we wrote, very heavy supplies of codfish have come into the market; about 20,000 cwt. of British and 19,000 cwt. of Norwegian and German cure, and dealers impressed by such an accumulation of stock, are limiting their purchases to immediate requirements, anticipating lower values. Prices hitherto have been fairly well maintained for good qualities, but at the present high values, the consumption is not at its best. A large quantity of ling has been arriving and although receivers have done their best to keep it moving off at round about 22 shillings, there is some difficulty in doing so, owing to the competition of Norwegians."

Head-Work Wins

But mental activity is dependent for its success-making results, upon the way both body and brain cells are fed.

Right feeding isn't a matter of quantity—most persons actually eat too much. But the selection of the right kind of food helps wonderfully to make men and women active and successful.

The fact is, some every-day articles of food are so lacking in certain food values as to make their common use more or less a menace to physical and mental well-being. (Constipation and a run-down physical condition are readily traced to this lack.)

Particularly is this true of food made from white flour, which is robbed of most of the mineral phosphates of the grain when the bran-coat is thrown out in the milling process. Scientists have long recognized this menace to health, and many people are waking up to it.

Grape-Nuts

made from the whole wheat and malted barley, retains the mineral phosphates, as well as all other nutritive values of the grains. Grape-Nuts, as the cereal part of one's diet, perfectly supplies what white flour foods lack.

Grape-Nuts is long baked, most easily digested, and is ready-to-eat direct from the package—fresh, crisp and delicious.

The Black Diamond Liner Morwenna has finished discharging her cargo. She will lay up for a thorough overhauling before resuming her new mission of loading codfish for Brazilian ports. The steamer will leave here during Christmas week for south.

Grand Concert.

To-morrow night, at 8 o'clock, a Grand Concert will be given in the Presbyterian Hall, in connection with the annual sale of the W. M. S. of St. Andrew's Church. The following are the names of those taking part:—Mrs. King, Mrs. Sheriff, Misses Doyle, Hanlin, Herder, Johnson, Job, Trapnell, Strang and Mr. F. J. King. Remember that Partridge Suppers will be served immediately after the concert; so bring her along as it will be some time again, before you will be able to get such a big feast at so small a price.

Rehearsing for Xmas Night,

Active preparations are being made in theatrical circles for the Xmas entertainments. A local company whose reputation for entertaining is well known to theatre goers, is busy rehearsing for a production that will take place in the T. A. Hall on Xmas night.

MARINE NOTES.

MILTON, born 1608. England's chief epic poet, whose "Paradise Lost" is the greatest poem of the kind in the language. He was made Latin Secretary to the Commonwealth by Cromwell after the execution of Charles, and wrote numerous historical, political and devotional works in addition to his poems. In 1652 he became totally blind.
SIR ANTHONY VANDYCK died 1641, aged 42. The celebrated portrait painter was born at Antwerp, and was prevailed upon by Charles I. to come to England, where he was made a Knight and granted an annuity.
GEORGE WASHINGTON died 1799, aged 67. He became the first President of the United States in 1789, served a second term from 1793 and refused election for a third time. He was one of the noblest characters in history—good, simple, honest, brave and efficient.

Retreat at Litledale.

The Annual Retreat of the pupils of St. Bride's Academy, Litledale, was concluded yesterday, Feast of the Immaculate Conception. The Retreat was conducted by Rev. J. Pippy, of St. Patrick's. The beautiful ceremony of the reception of the Children of Mary was performed by His Grace Archbishop Howley assisted by Rev. J. Pippy. His Grace addressed the young candidates in very clear and explanatory terms, giving a lucid discourse on the Feast of the day. Eight young ladies were enrolled as Children of Mary, whilst a large number was admitted into the other Sodalties. The Chapel of Litledale, lovely as usual, and the singing rendered by the pupils was sweet and inspiring. Benediction of the Most Holy Sacrament brought the ceremonies to a solemn conclusion.

Mr. Morris Complains.

Editor Evening Telegram. Dear Sir,—I beg the use of your columns to ask why it is that the authorities allow, no one particular, and everybody in general, to make our suburban roads a dumping ground for all the garbage, old refuse, and cans, that accumulate around their premises from time to time? Do those people that bring this rubbish and cast it on the road side, think that we people who live in the country have no eyes or sense of cleanliness? Now, Sir, what I want to draw attention to is that piece of property commonly known as the Commons, and fronting on Freshwater Road; this piece of ground seems to be the general dump for all and sundry, from a bedstead to a perished horse. I think it is bad enough to have the Commons in general such a dumping ground; but when it comes to some of our factories sending out the cans, the contents of which their employes have used, and allowing their teamster to throw the same right off in the middle of the road, as was done yesterday on Freshwater Road, I think it is high time for some one to step-in and make the same parties that placed it there remove it at once. I do not write this letter with the intention of blaming any one personally, but I am sure that every citizen will agree with me, when I say that those who throw out all this refuse, a great deal of which should be burnt in their stoves, are doing more to promote the growth of consumption and disease than all the meat and milk inspection can counteract in stamping out.

Thanking you for space. I remain, respectfully yours, ROLAND C. MORRIS. Freshwater Valley.

THE AUSTRIAN ARCHDUKE IN LONDON.

It appears that Visana expected that the newspapers here would make more fuss about the visit of the Archduke Franz Ferdinand to the King at Windsor than has been done. That more details did not appear is not the fault of the newspapers, who would have sent down special correspondents had they been welcomed. The King, however, was set against any particulars being published, and in this respect he is showing a curious morbidity. He dislikes the very name of "pheasant" to be printed in connection with one of his shoots, and if the number of birds killed had appeared, I understand that it would have been a serious matter for the keepers. He showed marked annoyance that a description of one of the shoots was published in the papers, forgetting that one of his birds is uncommonly like another, and that probably the correspondent did not even trouble to walk into the park to look at him and his guest shooting the driven birds. I have seen many Royal shoots at Windsor and elsewhere, and must say that the King has tried always to make pleasant shooting more of a sport than anyone else. His beats are arranged with great skill so as to get the birds flying high. Only the best shots are allowed on the royal demesne. Even then many birds are merely wounded and are overlooked by the beaters, living often days in pain and misery. The pheasants are shot as a by-product fowls before they are secured by the beaters, and a batue is the only way of inducing them to "show sport." On another point there was much disappointment. The King gave no great dinner party in honor of his guest and his wife. This is not understood abroad and not over much liked in society at home.

SCOTLAND AND THE QUEEN OF SPAIN.

People are sometimes surprised that the Queen of Spain does not take more interest in Scotland than she does, it being the land of her birth. A correspondent who is in a position to know the facts writes that her Scottish experiences not only affected and improved her health, but they had some effect on her choice of a religion. At the time when it was known that the Princess was considering the change of her religion before her marriage to the King of Spain, a clergyman of the Church of England had some talk with her on the subject, it being thought more satisfactory by the family that it should be made quite clear that the Princess did not leave the Church of England without due advice, and that she knew very well what she was doing. The Princess said that she had long been very much dissatisfied with the Church of England but more particularly with the Church of Scotland. "You can't think," she said, "what Balmorall was like in grand-mama's time, and what the Sabbaths were like there, with little, old-fashioned good books to read, and the awful tedium of the day." She added that the two established religions of this island had both tended to make her long for something different and more inspiring.

BRITISH MILITARY POLICY CHANGING.

The announcement made to the effect that the Army Council had decided to abolish the two mounted infantry brigades belonging to the Expeditionary Force, is regarded here as one of serious importance. The decision, it may be explained, does not affect the numerical strength of the Army at all, as the two brigades in question do not exist in peace except on paper. Had mobilization taken place previously the brigades would have been formed from mounted infantry battalions made up of ordinary infantry soldiers who had gone through the four months' course at the Mounted Infantry School at Longmoor, and the place of these men in their own units would have been supplied by added reservists. A mounted infantry battalion at war strength consisted of 539 of all ranks, including 26 officers, with 579 horses. It would seem likely that this last-named figure has to some extent influenced the decision of the Army Council, to whom the contingent provision of between 2,000 and 3,000 mule horses for this purpose must have for some time past been a matter of growing concern. But it is also quite probable that the abolition of the two brigades as part of the Expeditionary Force is due to a reasoned conviction that in such work as the force would have ordinarily to undertake mounted infantry is not indispensable as it is in countries like South Africa, for instance, would not be of value commensurate with the cost and labor of forming the necessary units at short notice. Professional interest in the subject will now be concentrated on the question whether the two brigades of mounted infantry will be replaced to any extent by cavalry, and whether the Longmoor School of Instruction will continue much longer to exist.

PILGRIMS TO AMERICA.

Several of our literary men are leaving this winter for America, where the "lecture" is still an institution. Alfred Noyes, the poet, is already in the United States, and is having a real success with his addresses on literary subjects. Mr. Noyes is a lively, interesting speaker, and in that way quite to the taste of American audiences. Shortly another literary man, Francis Grosvenor, the essayist, goes to America, also to lecture. He goes to a country which he knows well, for he has spent a good deal of his life in America. He has in fact been called in American, but that is a mistake, because he was born in the North of England of Scottish parentage.

FUTURISTS AND BOHEMIANS.

Signor Marinetti, the great Futurist poet and the soul behind the cubist painters, is in London on a visit, and in his various addresses is making his extraordinary creed seem at times quite reasonable. One of his addresses was delivered before the members of the Cabaret Club. This society assembles "At the Sign of the Golden Cat" in a roomy pretentious cellar in a side street off Regent St., London. It is decorated with all the latest notions of cubism and Post-Impressionism, the modelled pillars jointed like the walls in white and primary colors, one by Epstein. The stappings on the wall are by members of the Camden Town group of Impressionists and Post-Impressionists. The floor is covered with little tables at which the fashionable Bohemians, as a rule, people of Oriental opulent aspect, sit in paint and powder and evening clothes. It is an expensive business being Bohemian in London. Refreshments are six or seven times the usual price; if you bring a guest you must buy an expensive ticket for him at the door. You talk French or as much as you can and as the correct thing is to arrive about eleven and leave in the small hours, you have your car outside. All the Cabaret singers and dancers are imported and the casual interloper feels that the atmosphere is all false and artificial. It is not natural for English people to be Bohemian. The room is very low, and badly ventilated, smoky and stuffy, and lit by colored lamps. Among the members are one or two painters whose appearance gives the touch of the Latin quarter, but who must find it an expensive business if they are inclined to be thirsty. Two Spanish-looking women dance an exaggerated tango to the accompaniment of a trio of colored musicians playing a sort of cross between a mandoline and a piano and 'cello. Against the bright primary colors of the decorations the figures, one in black and the other in the conventional Spanish gipsy get up, stood out pleasantly.

NATAL'S INDIAN CRISIS.

As I write, the Indian trouble in Natal is reported here to be very acute indeed and the resulting feeling in India itself has not been so excited since the time of the Mutiny. The Home Government's difficulty is not realized by Indian opinion. Theoretically the High Commissioner of South Africa might be ordered to exercise his executive powers independently of the advice of his Ministers. In fact, of course, such a procedure is utterly out of the question. But although the Imperial Government are unable to dictate to South Africa, they have the right on a matter of such importance to the Empire to appeal to the Union Government for their good will and assistance. In well informed quarters here it is believed that the Pretoria Government will do their utmost to relieve the situation, though that Government, again, in their turn would be helpless in the fact of an immovable Natal.

SOCIETY IN LONDON.

The Autumn season in London becomes a bigger feature every year in metropolitan life. The International Motor Show at Olympia now serves as a fillip and all kinds of other functions, public and private, help to build up a necessity for being in town at a period when the weather is so fortunate folk (the best people) were away. The Sunday rinking club is open and crowded, and a new amusing club with tango teas and afternoon and evening dances is attracting many people. Tango teas are a new feature this year and are given in private houses on occasions or as regular things in the leading theatres and music halls as afternoon shows. The great feature of the autumn in London, however, is undoubtedly dinner-giving. The only change is that dinners are becoming more and more intimate in character, as dances are becoming more and more public. Certain groups of people dine once or twice a week, for instance, at each other's houses for a night at auction bridge. Subscription dances, once the fashion in Mayfair, are now the fashion in Mayfair, and enterprising chaperons, anxious to give their charges a little preliminary practice in the arts of the ball-room are delighted to do so at the small and early dances at the Grafton Gallery or elsewhere given in the name of charity. But the dances that are bringing so many people into public halls is also bringing many unexpected people into private houses. A grandee lady who managed her house affairs with a high hand was appalled on reaching home one afternoon, recently to be informed by a youthful daughter that the drawing-room carpet was up and that a few "boys and girls" were coming to dance, that a few cakes had been ordered, and the butler was seeing about the wine. About three hundred people arrived and next day the papers chronicled a "big ball."

Plenty Herring In Placentia Bay

Herrings, of an exceptionally good quality, are very plentiful in Placentia Bay, and it is a regrettable circumstance that there are so few purchasers.

Some few years ago Placentia Bay was the home of the herring, and several large shipments were taken annually by the Gloucester fleet, but of late very few are engaged in the industry, except those who have smoke houses for curing them.

It will be found a convenience in the storeroom to have piece boxes, upon the cover of which are plainly marked ribbon, fancy buttons and ornaments, bits of silk, embroidery, semesteric, braids and designs. Then when you desire anything for the seamstress, you can find it without any difficulty.

Healthy and Unhealthy Lighting.

Gas, it may be said, vitiates the atmosphere. True. But it also helps to purify it. Its purifying power is greater than its vitiating power. Electricity does not vitiate, nor does it purify. Hear what three eminent men have said:—

Much evidence has lately been adduced to show that gas is more useful than the electric light in promoting efficient ventilation of air. It is for this, amongst other reasons, that gas is being frequently substituted for the electric light. The latest example is, perhaps, the Society of Medical Officers of Health, which has recently installed gas on its premises, after experience with the electric light.—Dr. Jameson B. Hurry.

He would merely add that no member who had experience of their meeting room under the old conditions could deny the improvement that had taken place since gas had been substituted for the electric light and the new system of heating and ventilation had been installed.—Dr. Reginald Duffield, before the Society of Medical Officers of Health.

I have in my mind's eye, at the moment, a hall which, in the old days, was lighted by gas, and in which a large audience could, with comfort, sit through an hour's lecture, or with pleasure through a three hours' dinner, but which with the march of civilization had its illumination changed from gas to electricity, the latter been employed with all the latest refinements to effect the lighting under the best conditions, with the result that any large gathering within its walls leads to a state little short of asphyxiation.—Vivian B. Lewes, Professor of Chemistry at the Royal Naval College, Greenwich.—Nov 8, 11

Silk or eiderdown quilts that have become soiled can be cleaned by making a strong solution of a pure white soap shaved into boiling water. Add a teaspoonful of household ammonia to every gallon of water and let the quilt soak for half an hour or so. After this squeeze the dirt out. Then rinse in tepid water to which a handful of salt has been added.

For the Business Man no gift that you can think of will be more used and appreciated than a WATERMAN'S IDEAL Fountain Pen. DULEY'S are showing a lovely selection in plain and mounted styles fitted with nibs to suit any hand.—Dec 8, 13

Several Witnesses Saw the Bandit Kill the Bank Manager.
Winnipeg, Dec. 4.—The man-hunt for the murderer of H. M. Arnold, manager of the Plumcoulee branch of the Bank of Montreal, became keen tonight when provincial detectives traced the fugitive to within twelve miles of the city. Provincial and city police now believe their quarry to be in hiding here, and the nooks and crannies of the city are being pierced to bring him to justice.
In the provincial jail is held William Dyck, the driver of the car which carried the bandit away. Dyck has many things to explain to the police, and many contradictions to straighten out. First, he told the officers at Plumcoulee that he had driven the man within two miles of Morris. Detectives tracked the car to a point eighteen miles northwest of Morris, and saw the wheel marks where it turned round.
Secondly, the liveryman must explain about $240 in silver, which was found beneath the back of the car. To be placed in the position it was found, the car seat and wooden framework would have to be lifted. He told some officials the men got out of the car, pointed a gun at him and told him to "beat it," which he immediately did. To others he told of the robbers tampering with the carburetor, and of spending half an hour fixing it. He made numerous other divergent statements when cross-examined by the Chief of the Provincial Police to-night.
At Plumcoulee, this afternoon, the inquest was conducted. Witnesses of the actual shooting were present. Jacob Bergman, the caretaker of the bank, an old man, saw the robber, followed by Arnold, bolt around behind the bank, and had seen him turn and shoot the bank manager when the latter was not twelve feet away. William Ackman, a laborer, had seen the same thing, but had heard Arnold call out, "Robber, robber," and "Drop that money."
A doctor, the junior clerk and the teller told of the finding of the body. The medical man stated death was caused by a wound over the heart, and produced a 30.30 steel-cased bullet.
The clerk, Lloyd Wagner, told of having spoken to John Krafchenko last summer, when the latter had remarked that it would be an easy matter to rob the bank, but that it would have to be done in the day time, because of the time lock on the safe. As Wagner slept in the bank, the last statement relieved him.
William Esau, the teller, told the jury he did not consider the bank a very safe place to work in. The late manager had written the head office with regard to the bank's protection on various occasions, but he did not think any reply had been received. The actual amount taken, he said, was $4,200.
The inquest was adjourned until Monday next, when Dyck, the liveryman, will be taken down to give his evidence.

We have a few bottles of our own Lavender Water, prepared from the best Mitcham Lavender Oil, and matured for a considerable time in this country. It is, we think, superior to any imported Lavender Water; certainly it is a universal favourite among those who favor this pleasant old-fashioned perfume. We believe we can recommend this Lavender Water of ours to the full. Price $2.00 a bottle; small bottles for 60c. and $1.50.
That Ever Ready Safety Razor Combination No. 2 is very neat. In addition to the Twelve Bladed Razor it contains an "Acuo" Automatic Strip. It will make an excellent present. Price $2.50.

Pension Scheme.

Ottawa, December 4.—A definite recommendation as to the advisability of establishing in Canada a system of old age pensioners, will be made next session by the special committee of the House of Commons, investigating the matter.
During the recess the secretary of the Committee has collected a lot of information respecting the operation of pension systems in Australia, New Zealand and Belgium, and is also communicating with homes for aged inmates as to what proportion of the inmates come from urban and rural parts as well as the chief causes of their poverty.

It was current yesterday to the effect that members of the President's household had gone to Guadalajara, Capital States of Jalisco, from where it was said they would go to Port Manzanillo, State of Colima. Captain Fuentes, President Huerta's son-in-law, Mrs. Huerta, Miss Huerta and another daughter were among the party which left for Guadalajara. It was reported that the President's wife had also left the Capital, but this was not confirmed.

Items of Interest

It was said a short time ago that King George, in view of his relatively small success on the Turf, had decided to give up horse-racing. The story, however, was quite without foundation, for His Majesty has some very promising yearlings in the stud farm at Sandringham, and intends to persevere in the hope that one of these days another Persimmon or Diamond Jubilee will be forthcoming, as in his father's time. When the next flat racing season opens His Majesty will have about twenty horses in training under the care of Mr. Richard Marsh.

London is Tango mad. Tango teas, Tango dinners, Tango suppers, Tango hats, and Tango dresses are all the rage. Indeed, the general greeting is not "How do you do?" but "Do you Tango?" or "Are you Tansing to-night?" Even the "little archers" round the barrel organs have been bitten with the craze, and little Pelly Jenkins and Maria Biggs may be seen assiduously practising the steps "down our alley."

The younger sons of the aristocracy are among the keenest recruits for the flying service of the Army and Navy. Among the latest members of noble houses who have taken out pilots' certificates are Lord George Wellesley, youngest son of the Duke of Wellington, and Lord Edward Arthur Grosvenor, the youngest son of the first Duke of Westminster by his second marriage. Both young fellows are in the Army, and both took out their certificates within a month of their first flights.

Colonial life apparently appeals strongly to Mr. Will Crooks, M.P., judging by some of the remarks he has been making in Australia. "If I had to start life again," he said, "I would come to Australia. There is something indefinitely attractive about Australia. During his first year, perhaps, the new-comer thinks he must return at all costs; the second year he changes his mind, and in the third year he knows he does not want to leave. It is a great place for young men."

Business Courtship

An amusing case was once decided in a Frankfort police court. It appears that a cook no longer quite young, was courted by a tailor somewhat younger than she. On Sundays and occasionally during the week, the gallant lover was in the habit of taking his lady for extended promenades and visits to restaurants, where the latter always paid the expenses. She also provided him regularly with his supper.

Presently, however, the awful truth was brought home to the cook that she was not the only friend on whom the man of the scissors and the needle lavished his affections. Nothing loth, she went to the nearest police court, suing the faithless one for all the expenses of the clandestine meals provided by her, and all the money spent when "walking out" with him.

The sailor, however, was once again too much for her. Instead of appearing before the tribunal as a repentant sinner, he came into court with a long bill in his hand, on which an account was given of the time lost from his work while going out with his cook. When the two bills were compared, the difference of 18 was in favor of the tailor, and the lady was ungallantly compelled to pay every penny of it.

A New Idea.

THE SILVER STANDARD FOR WOMEN AND THE GOLD STANDARD FOR MEN.

"Sixteen to one!" Will anybody ever forget that cry which rent the nation when William Jennings Bryan announced his Silver Standard some years ago. "Sixteen to one!" And every woman thought her husband was going to give her sixteen dollars instead of one from then on!

But, alas, when her husband continued his penurious standard, her interest in Mr. Bryan's standard ceased to exist. And, so I tell for the first time the inside history of how the Silver Standard passed away.

The women killed it. But now a new Silver Standard has arisen. This time it is a woman's standard and apt to last.

This new Silver Standard is not "Sixteen to one," it is "a Hundred to one."

For it is not the standard of silver dollars, but of silver plate.

I can remember, and so can you, when anything that was white, was silver. I can remember when the most of our table ware had about the same moral standing as a penitentiary.

Even then, real silver standards were being established, but most of the people knew little about them in that day.

To-day, whole communities are making silverware which is as standard as a government coin. Not only that, but they are giving their work sufficient publicity to let the world know what they are doing and why they are doing it.

When you think of your silver gifts this year, I want you to think of those right standards of silverware which have been created for you. Because this silver standard for you means a real gold standard for your husband. He can buy to-day a Silverware which has as staple a value as any government bond.

And then again, just as these great communities and old communities and old companies have established the standard of silverware, so also they have elevated the art.

We want you to watch for their advertising during the next few days now. Read what they have to say. And when you start out after your gifts of Silverware, remember their names please and what they have done for you.

Wedding in Salvage

On Monday, 1st inst., the church bell clanged joyously in honour of the matrimonial union of Mr. Lewis House, Postal Telegraph Operator, of Greenspond, and Miss Annie Burden, daughter of Henry Burden, Salvage. The bride attended in a costume of cream material, was given away by her brother, Mr. Jas. Burden, Jr., and the bride was ably supported by Nurse Macdonald, Fever Hospital. After the ceremony was ended the party returned to the residence of the bride where refreshments were partaken of.

On Tuesday the happy couple left for their future home at Greenspond. We wish them bon voyage over the matrimonial sea.

If Headachy, Dizzy, Bilious, 'Cascarets'

Your Liver is full of Bile; Bowels Clogged, Stomach Sour, Tongue Coated, Breath Bad.

Get a 10-cent box now. You're bilious! You have a throbbing sensation in your head, a bad taste in your mouth, your eyes burn, your skin is yellow, with dark rings under your eyes; your lips are parched. No wonder you feel ugly, mean and ill-tempered. Your system is full of bile not properly passed off, and what you need is a cleaning up inside. Don't continue being a bilious nuisance to yourself and those who love you, and don't resort to harsh physics that irritate and injure. Remember that most disorders of the stomach, liver and bowels are cured by morning with gentle, thorough Cascarets—they work while you sleep. A 10-cent box from your druggist will keep your liver and bowels clean; stomach sweet, and your head clear for months. Children love to take Cascarets, because they taste good and never gripe or sicken.

STOP Coughing.

How often do you awake during the night and have an attack of "Coughing"? Don't you find that the cough is caused from a tickling sensation in the throat? What is the cause of this tickling sensation? It is because you contracted a Cold in some simple way and did not trouble about it. The cold has developed into "cough" and now you must try and obtain some remedy to stop this "cough." If you do not do this you are making a great mistake. A mistake which is often the cause of regret for the rest of your life.

If you have a "Cough or cold" try a bottle of Stafford's Phosgene Cough Cure; also mix equal parts of Stafford's Liniment and Camphorated Oil in a saucer, warm slightly saturate a piece of thick paper with some and apply to chest and throat. You will find relief at once.

The large quantity of these two preparations having been sold this year prove them to be genuine.

Presentation at Bell Island

Mr. H. J. Lehr Honoured.

Mr. Henry J. Lehr, of St. John's, who has been in the employ of the Dominion Iron and Steel Co., as chemist, for some time, lately severed his connection with that Corporation in order to go to the U. S. A. Before leaving he was waited upon by a number of friends of the Bell Island Dramatic Club who presented him with a shaving outfit as a token of appreciation. The presentation was made by Mr. L. C. Murphy on behalf of that organization who eulogistically referred to Mr. Lehr's ability before the foot lights on Bell Island. Another pleasing presentation was also made him before his departure when several of his co-workers of the Dominion Company presented him with a handsome smoking outfit. Mr. J. M. Greene, of the Costing Department, made the presentation and in so doing referred to the loss they would sustain by his departure. Mr. Lehr made a suitable response, and left Bell Island taking with him the best wishes for a successful future from his many friends.

The Frailty of Man.

We are all liable to error and will be so to the end of time—the most careful will make mistakes, sometimes, for are we not merely human? With the fact of our own frailty staring us in the face, would it be reasonable on our part to neglect the means placed within our reach for the elimination of error? Errors in the counting house are costly but they can be avoided by the use of present day inventions constructed as well as human ingenuity can suggest. It is to busy men that we speak—the other have no time to listen. To busy office-men the "Globe-Wernicke" devices come as a boon and a blessing, guarding as they do the essential records, which are the main vitality of business. These appliances are on view at Mr. Percie Johnson's office, and need only be

Rose of Sharon Annual Meeting

The annual meeting of Rose of Sharon, Royal Black Preceptory, was held in Victoria Hall last night, and despite the terrible storm that prevailed a large number of Sir Knights attended.

The submitted reports of the year's work showed that the Preceptory had made record progress financially and numerically, the increase in membership being thirty-four.

Heavy draughts were made on the treasury of the preceptory during the year, but as the revenue was greatly in excess of that of the preceding year, a substantial sum was able to be added to the reserve fund.

The election of officers for the ensuing year resulted as follows:—
W. Preceptor, Sir Knight R. A. Squires, re-elected.
Deputy Preceptor, Sir Knight J. C. Puddister, re-elected.
Chaplain, Sir Knight John Norman, re-elected.
Registrar, Sir Knight R. J. Ivany, re-elected.
Treasurer, Sir Knight John Badcock, re-elected.
1st Lecturer, Sir Knight W. K. Mercer, elected.
2nd Lecturer, Sir Knight E. V. Wylie, elected.
1st Censor, Sir Knight J. Wheeler, elected.
2nd Censor, Sir Knight T. Noseworthy, elected.
Standard Bearer, Sir Knight L. Penney, elected.
Pursuivant, Sir Knight Jas. Cook, elected.

Tyler, Sir Knight Thos. Adams, re-elected.
Committee, Sir Knights W. R. Stirling, W. H. Cave, G. Langmead, T. Noseworthy, Clark and Sheppard.

New Mayor Honoured.

From a recent Ludlow exchange to hand we notice that Samuel Herbert Valentine, Esq., brother of Mr. John Valentine, the well known and respected employee of Hon. Geo. Knowling, this city, is the newly elected Mayor for the County of Ludlow, London, England. In honour of his appointment Mayor Valentine gave a banquet in the Town Hall last month. The chair was occupied by the Mayor and amongst the prominent guests present were:—Deputy Mayor (Councillor E. T. Evans), the Rev. G. A. Hale, Mr. Rowland Hunt, M.P., Mr. Robert Marston, J. P., Alderman E. Sheldon, Alderman W. H. Marston, J. P., Mr. E. Shran, Councillor E. W. Bedenham, the Rev. Father Fisher, Mr. J. W. Montford, the Rev. H. P. Brown, Mr. A. W. Weyman, Mr. E. S. Lloyd, Mr. R. B. Threlfall, Councillors Campbell, Parsonage, Small, Davies, Tristram, Palmer, Downes, Hatchings, the Town Clerk, Mr. J. H. Williams, the Borough Surveyor (Mr. W. G. Lane), the Borough Treasurer (Mr. J. H. Lockhart), the Borough Auditors (Messrs. J. Nickson and W. M. Woodhouse), Medical Officer of Health (Dr. White), Mr. H. Lloyd, J. P., Mr. E. Leake, J. P., Mr. T. J. Sawley, J. P., etc. The toast of the evening followed the sumptuous spread was an elaborate one. Able speeches were made by able speakers. The Royal toasts were proposed by the Mayor and the health of the latter was proposed by Mr. H. T. Weyman, brother of the well known author.

Limeville Notes, Port au Port.

After what is thought to have been a fairly successful season, the limestone quarrying and crushing plant has closed down for the winter.

Here, as elsewhere, the labour problem is becoming every year more acute and many are of the opinion that unless conditions are modified and improved and the rate of pay increased, the importation of foreign labour will be necessary to carry on the work here.

The D. I. & S. Co. have been very fortunate since beginning work here as their operations have been free of any serious accidents, which is remarkable considering the nature of the labour in which the men are engaged.

Some of the staff and regular employees, among whom are T. Hughes, J. P. Burke, W. Rees and others, have left for the winter season. These were among the first contingent who came here three years ago for the construction of the plant and have made good both as efficient employees of the company as well as courteous, civil and very popular members of the community.

Mr. J. B. Bates, the company's accountant, was the recipient of a pleasing mark of the esteem and good will of his fellow-employees and the young men of the town, when he was entertained by them at a sumptuous dinner at Mrs. DuBourdieu's hotel, where a very pleasant evening was spent.

We All Love Pantomime.

All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy, but when the Jacks, Toms, Dicks and Harry, with the Ethels, Maids, James and Carols see Rossley's Christmas production they will not be dull. They will forget their troubles for the time being. However the public can rest assured of a good, clean, wholesome night's entertainment. The first production, Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs will please even the greatest critic, because it is beautiful in every detail. Both story and costumes will please and the St. John's children will astonish a good many, for some of the little ones have talent beyond their years, and while at the show, it will be impossible not to take into consideration the marvel of patience Mrs. Rossley must be to accomplish so much in so short a time with our youngsters.

Those who are prone to neuralgia and rheumatism will find relief by adding a little oil of turpentine to a warm or hot bath.

THE NICKEL THEATRE! TO-DAY'S FEATURE:

2 Reels—"A TRAGEDY OF THE DESERT"—2 Reels.

This production was made at Luxor, Egypt, on the Upper Nile, and in the Sahara Desert, by the celebrated Kalem Players. The Arabs and Redouins shown in the picture are all natives of the Desert, and the villages and encampments are their regular places of abode.

"HERE'S YOUR HAT"—"THE MUMMY AND THE COW PUNCHER"
—Two highly entertaining comedies. Very laughable.

"THE COMPACT"—A story illustrating in a telling and striking manner the abuse of drugs.

MUSICAL—Arthur Priestman Cameron in "Peculiar" Songs, with Professor McCarthy at the Piano.

Dragons.

By GEORGE FITCH.

Author of "At Good-Old Sivash."

Dragons are very scarce now, and command a higher market price than sea serpents. But a thousand years ago they were a great pest, and no valley was complete without a large and fully equipped dragon, with an uncontrollable appetite for beautiful maidens.

The dragon was a hideous monster as long as a torch light procession, with 1,000 candle power eyes and a breath like a blast-furnace. He had four legs and 24 claws and a 100 horsepower tail with a red hot end. His scales were as tough as battleship steel and with his large sharp teeth he could chew up a knight, armor and all, using his spear later for a tooth-pick. He was carnivorous in the extreme and after he had camped in a valley for a few years the census enumerators considered it a waste of time to work the territory.

Considering all this it is a wonder that the population of the Dark Ages worried through at all. When we reflect upon the character and disposition of the 1,000 A.D. model dragon we are inclined to doubt that we really had any ancestors at that time. Yet cold, sober history records the fact that despite their dreadnought equipment every dragon the world has known or suspected came to a violent end.

Moreover this was not accomplished with the aid of dynamite and gatling guns. Every dragon was exterminated by some righteous knight armed with a brave heart and a spear. No matter how many wicked knights the dragon had previously masticated, he always met a good knight in the course of time. Then it was all off. The good knight picked out a likely spot back of the dragon's collar bones and charged. The dragon blew two prairie fires and a volcano out of his nostrils, opened his mouth until it looked like a union station, tore up acres of earth with his claws, and mowed down forests with his tail. But it didn't help him any. When the good knight's spear touched him he curled up like a punctured spider and died like a cellope; and the good knight rode home called the press agents and showed his spear as proof of the whole thing.

No one ever saw a dragon but the good knights who killed them. The bad knights saw them of course, but mostly from the inside. The good knights always went off alone to fight dragons because of their bravery. And as the dragons were too big to skin they never brought them home to have them stuffed and presented to the museums.

This natural history lost its greatest treasure and there are now no dragon pelts on exhibition. We can't help thinking that with all their bravery the good knights were very careless about preserving the great natural resources of the unit ages.

The Ill Wind

"Don't growl and scowl—'twill dry the muddy-roads!" If fire my dwelling should destroy, or waters wash it hence, my uncle would exclaim, with joy: "You still have got your fence!" When I was lying sick to death, expecting every day that I must draw my final breath, I heard my uncle say, "Our undertaker is a jo, and if away you fade, it ought to cheer you up to know that you will help his trade." And we study uncle's graft, we find it good and fair; how often, when we might have laughed, we wept and tore our hair! Such logic from this blooming land should drive away all woe; the thing that's hard for you to stand, is good for Richard Roe.

Rev. J. K. Curtis.

People Protest Against His Removal From Sackville to Montreal.
At Liverpool Special District meeting, a resolution was passed unanimously, strongly protesting against the removal of Bro. Curtis from Sackville to Montreal.—Wesleyan, Dec. 3.

Eastern S. S. Secretary.

At the usual weekly meeting of the St. John Methodist Ministerial Association the matter of the suggested removal by the Sunday School Board of the Rev. J. K. Curtis, (Sunday School Field Secretary for the Maritime Provinces) from Sackville to Montreal, was discussed and unanimously disapproved. Such action of the Board was considered a retrograde movement and working direct against the helpfulness of the office which Bro. Curtis fills and the service he renders to our Maritime Young People's Work. The following resolution was forwarded to the Sunday School Department.

"This Ministerial Association desires to express its regret that the Sunday School and Young People's Board has seen fit to remove the Rev. J. K. Curtis, the recognized Field Secretary of Sunday Schools and Epworth Leagues for the Maritime Provinces to the city of Montreal. We believe it to be impossible for Bro. Curtis to serve the work effectively in these provinces whilst living at such a distance."—Wesleyan, Nov. 26.

Bro. Curtis Should Remain East.

The Halifax Preachers' Meeting has adopted the following resolution:—
Whereas, this District made arrangements, a few weeks ago, for the Rev. J. K. Curtis, B. A., Associate Secretary of Sunday Schools and Epworth Leagues to visit our circuits and missions.
And whereas, Bro. Curtis having come among us has rendered splendid service to our churches, by his inspiring sermons and addresses.
Therefore Resolved, that we express our appreciation of his work in our pulpits and among our young people. And further resolved, that while we congratulate Bro. Curtis on the prospect of having his headquarters in the city of Montreal, we wish to express our regret that he is likely to be removed from the East, and to record our deep conviction that his removal will be the cause of very great loss, and injury to our work in the Maritime Conferences.—Wesleyan, Dec. 3.

"I refuse to be associated with any successful petitioner in divorce proceedings," was Larkin's reply. The Socialist promoters of the meeting then cancelled it, refusing dictation from Larkin.

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.
A wireless despatch from Virginia Beach Station from Capt. Dodge, of the steamer Suwanee, says that in answer to appeals for help from the steamer Rio Grande, he arrived alongside the vessel at 4 a.m. to-day. The vessel was afloat, and at the time was 205 miles northwest of Diamond Shoals. The 197 passengers of the Rio Grande were taken aboard the Suwanee until the fire had been put out. Later they returned to their own vessel. The captain of the Rio Grande was severely burnt about the hands while fighting the flames. Both the captain and the wireless operator aboard the Rio Grande displayed great courage, remaining with their posts fighting the flames. When the fire had been subdued, the steamer proceeded under her own steam, all well.

LONDON, Dec. 8.

Premier Asquith made a speech on Saturday at Oldham, in the defence of free trade on the ground that taxation of foreign manufactures must necessarily be followed by the taxation of food. "But," said Mr. Asquith, "if we, like other nations, continue our expenditures at the same pace during the next decade, I see cause for the greatest disquietude. This is one of the most serious questions facing Democracy." Asquith forecasted heavy demands for National Education, for relief from taxation, in connection with which he hinted that future legislation would widen the scope of the income tax. The Premier concluded by saying that the best hope of real progress toward reducing armaments lay in the concerned pressure by all the peoples of the civilized world on those responsible.

A Tragedy of The Desert

STORY OF EGYPT.

The feature at the Nickel Theatre last evening was the celebrated Kalem drama entitled, "A Tragedy of the Desert" which is in two reels. In spite of the very disagreeable weather there was a large attendance. The play was written by Gene Gauntier, the star actress of the Kalem Co. and she appears in one of the principal roles. The scenes are laid at Luxor, Egypt, on the Upper Nile and the famous Sahara desert. The Arabs and Bedouins which appear are in their native environments, and are very real. The story is of a young doctor whose wife is caught receiving attentions from a native prince. Her husband throws her off and decides to go into the heart of the trackless desert. He advises his London solicitors to pay her £5,000 and when his death is proven to give his estate to the medical research, and starts off. He becomes crazy with thirst and is unconsciously brought to an oasis. There he is found by a native beauty who nurses him back to health, and falls in love with him. She prays to Allah to make the stranger love her and he's granted her wish. They live happily but later the first wife appears on the scene and begs him to return with her. The native wife sees them, and the tragedy occurs—she stabs herself. It is an interesting and spectacular picture and no one should miss it tonight.
