Tonsillitis, Sore Throat, Chest Colds, Can be Cured Over Night

They Vanish Quickly if Nerviline is Well Rubbed In.

When the throat tickles, when it hurts to draw a long breath, when you feel as if a knife were stuck in your side, it's time to draw out the congestion that will soon become pneumonia.

An ordinary cough syrup has no chance at all—you require a powerful penetrating liniment.

Nothing is known that possesses more merit in such cases than Nerviline.

Rub it liberally over the sides and chest—rub it in hard.

The warm, soothing effect of Nerviline will be apparent in five minutes. Nothing like it for quick relief—takes soreness out of the throat in one rubbing—breaks up the chest cold, draws out the inflammation, stops the cough quickly.

Rub it on for rheumatism—it destroys the pain—drives it right away. Try it for stiff muscles—it works miracles in just such cases.

Give Nerviline a chance on your neuralgia, prove it out for lumbago, see what it can do for sciatica.

No pain-relieving remedy compares in power to cure with Nerviline. Largest sale in Canada of any liniment for nearly forty years. The reason is plain. It satisfies every time.

The large 50 cent family size bottle is more economical than the 25 cent trial size. Sold by dealers everywhere.

Love in a Flour Mill,

OR,

The Romance of Two Loyal Hearts!

CHAPTER X.

Cara turned her eyes upon him as if she had not seen him before; but she made no response, did not even nod, and went into the mill. Reece scrambled into the phaeton, eyeing the horses with covert apprehension; and Evelyn drove on. The cobs were perfectly quiet now, and trotted down the incline with a subdued and demure air, as if they were ashamed of themselves, which they probably were; for your horse has a conscience.

"What an extremely beautiful girl!" said Evelyn.

"Yes; she was rather good-looking," he admitted. "But I don't admire that kind of beauty. An extraordinary looking creature."

"Oh, do you think so?" said Evelyn, glancing at him with surprise. "I thought she was most graceful, and in a way, charming. You mean her dress? Poor girl! I suppose she has nothing else to wear; the flour would spoil nice things. But you wouldn't think her extraordinary if you saw her properly dressed," she added confidently. "Didn't you notice how graceful she was, how straight she held herself, and how she moved and walked?"

"I'm afraid I was too much taken up with the horses to pay much attention to the girl," he said, with a laugh.

"Think what a life it must be for her, alone up here on the moor, with no other woman near her," said Evelyn, rather to herself than to Reece.

"Yes; it would get on most people's nerves—it certainly would on mine; but she is used to it, and use is second nature. Grand view here!"

Evelyn nodded assent; she was still thinking of the girl—could not get her out of her mind.

"I must come up here and see her again," she said.

She was preoccupied during the rest of the drive; and when they were at luncheon she told her father of the incident, and dwelt admiringly on Cara's display of courage.

Sir Reginald listened in his grim, uninterested way, and made no comment.

"Her father's name is Lemuel Raven," said Evelyn, as if she could not leave the subject. "He must be a forger; I think; for the daughter had a Spanish or Italian air about her, and was very dark. Do you know anything of him, father?"

"No," replied Sir Reginald. "The name Lemuel is not uncommon in Port Dale; he probably comes from there. I will ask Bentley to make inquiries, if you like."

Evelyn knew what this meant; that the steward would be sent up to the mill with a five-pound note.

"No no!" she said quickly. "I would rather you didn't do that, father. I mean—No; I would rather Mr. Bentley did not go up to see them."

Sir Reginald shrugged his shoulders and moved his hands in indifferent assent, and the subject was changed.

In the afternoon Mr. Dexter Reece was engaged in the work which had brought him down to Thorden; but he found it unusually difficult to concentrate his mind on it; for the mysterious meeting of Evelyn Desborough with her brother, and his disappearance, persistently intruded on the business in hand; and once he stopped short, in the midst of some calculations, and, taking from his pocket-book the cutting from the 'Western Morning News,' he pondered over it, but without seeing at present any way of benefiting himself by the knowledge he had gained in so despicable a manner.

The next morning Evelyn ordered the little jingle and Exmoor pony which belonged exclusively to her; she chose some books, selecting them with care, from the bookshelves in her own room, and with her own hands picked a big bunch of the choicest flowers in the conservatory, regardless of the head gardener, who was as highly cultivated as any of the flowers, and who certainly would not have permitted any other than Miss Evelyn to ravish his precious blooms.

With this cargo she started for the mill. The pony, Polly by name, had all the fleetness, the endurance, and the frolicsome humour of her wonderful race; and Evelyn had quite as hard work, if not harder, in managing her, as she had had in controlling the cobs; for the Exmoor pony, like the Arab from which he has sprung, likes to go when he is going, objects to stand for a single moment when one has entered the vehicle, shies at the most ordinary objects, and bolts on the slightest excuse.

However Polly and her mistress understood and were fond of each other; and Evelyn arrived at the mill without the accident which the uninitiated, witnessing their start, would have certainly prognosticated. The sails of the mill were motionless, and her hair, unspiced by white, and Evelyn, with her books under one arm and her big bunch of flowers in her hand, alighted and went to the door. It was closed, and no response came to her knocking; and, very much disappointed, she was going away, when she saw Cara coming across the moor.

She wore a dress different to the grotesque workaday one which had excited Dexter Reece's amusement and contempt; it was free from flour, and her hair, unspiced by white, though some of it had been blown free by the wind, and made an exquisite frame to the clear oval of her face. She had a bundle of wood under her arm, and her pace did not quicken, nor did she colour or smile when she saw Evelyn, who went to meet her, and said pleasantly:

"I am so glad you have come! I was afraid I should not see you. I have come to thank you again—and—and to bring you some books. And here are some flowers which I—I thought you might like, as you've no garden here."

Cara threw down the wood against the wall of the mill and looked at her, with no surprise, but gravely and thoughtfully.

"May I come in?" asked Evelyn rather timidly. "I've never seen the inside of a mill."

Without a word Cara took a great key from her pocket and unlocked the door; but suddenly she remembered that her father had told her that she was not to permit any one to enter the mill. She paused with her hand on the key; but, thinking that her father's prohibition did not extend to a lady, she opened the door and signed to Evelyn to enter. Evelyn went in and looked round her with interest.

"How sweet the flour smells," she said; "and how fine it is!" She took up a handful and purposely let some of it fall on her dress. "No wonder you get powdered with it. At one time it used to be quite fashionable to powder one's hair; and I thought yesterday you looked rather like a Marquise."

Cara glanced sideways at the smiling face.

"You'll spoil your dress," she said; "it is hard work to get it out. What is a Marquise?" she asked after a pause.

"A foreign noblewoman; it is a title," Evelyn informed her. "So that you see I intended a compliment. Here are the books; I hope you will like them; they are favourites of mine."

Cara took them and read the titles, the gravity of her face unrelaxed.

"You don't mind my bringing them?" ventured Evelyn gently. "You said you had none; and I thought you would like to have something to read. If they don't interest you, you must let me bring you some others; but I think you will like these. And here are the flowers."

Cara's hand closed on the bouquet, and her eyes lit up, her lips parted, as she drew a long breath. She did not exclaim on the beauty of the blooms, but, when she laid them on the chest, her eyes dwelt on them almost caressingly; and Evelyn was lost in startled admiration of the beauty of the girl's face and its expression.

"You love flowers; so do I," she said at last.

Cara nodded.

"Polly will be quite content to remain where she is, while she can nibble the grass; she only bolts when I'm in the jingle. You must come for a ride with me some day soon."

Cara regarded her steadily.

"Perhaps," she said. "I must ask my father."

At this moment a shadow fell across the doorway, and Lemuel Raven appeared. He did not express any surprise at sight of Evelyn, but, after regarding her fixedly with his keen black eyes, he raised his soft hat with an air and a courtesy which struck Evelyn as strange in a man of his class, and said, in his soft voice:

"Good day!"

"Good morning!" said Evelyn. "You are Mr. Raven, Cara's father? I suppose she has told you how bravely she came to our rescue yesterday?"

Lemuel Raven shook his head and smiled, glancing interrogatively at Cara.

"It was nothing," said Cara, not apologetically or with any embarrassment.

"Oh, but it was!" said Evelyn eagerly. "She stopped a pair of rather fresh cobs—stopped them beautifully."

"Ah, yes," he said, with a nod and a smile. "Cara is strong."

His eyes wandered to the books and the flowers; and Cara, responding to the glance, said in explanation:

"The lady has brought me these. She has offered to take me for a drive some day. I may go with her?"

"Certainly, certainly!" he said suavely, and with a little bow to Evelyn. "It is very kind of her. It is a lady's way of paying a little debt. We thank you kindly."

"I am so glad you will let her come," said Evelyn, moving to the door. "Good-by, Cara! Remember, if you do not like the books, there are ever so many others."

She held out her hand, and Cara, after a moment's hesitation, took it, her fingers closing over Evelyn's with a faint pressure. Lemuel Raven, with his hat in his hand, opened the door of the jingle, closed it when Evelyn had entered, and stood, still bare-headed, looking after her as she drove away; then he turned and entered the mill. Cara was looking at one of the books; and he regarded her thoughtfully, doubtfully, his lips pursed.

"You didn't tell me of this," he said.

EVERYDAY ETIQUETTE.

"When a young man is very much interested in a girl and their mother have never met, who should take the first advances, his or her mother?" asked Joe.

It could be very properly brought about by the young lady's mother inviting the young man and his mother to tea some day," suggested his sister.

Record Collection for Christian Brothers.

The annual collection for the Christian Brothers was taken up at all the Masses at the Cathedral, St. Patrick's, St. Joseph's, Mount Cashel and Kilbride yesterday and resulted in the grand total of $4,521.20 being realized, an excess of $407.86 over last year's collection.
The collection was made up as follows:—
Cathedral $3,178.21
St. Patrick's 1,194.04
St. Joseph's 86.20
Mount Cashel 43.50
Kilbride 19.25
Total $4,521.20

It is expected that the total will be much greater than the above as other contributions are yet to come in. The amount was tendered to Rev. Bro. M. C. Ryan, at Mount St. Francis, by Hon. J. D. Ryan, Chairman of the Cathedral collecting committee, who in doing so paid a well deserved tribute to the work of the Christian Brothers in Newfoundland. Rev. Bro. Ryan thanked the people for the generous response which was a further evidence that the efforts of the Brothers were appreciated. He assured those present that in the future as in the past they would endeavour to forward the best interests of the children committed to their care. Speeches were also made by Rev. Bro. Kennedy, Ennis and Ryan, Rt. Hon. Sir E. P. Morris, Hon. P. T. McGrath, Mr. M. Bambrick and others.

Obituary.

MRS. SNELGROVE.
There passed away yesterday, at 12.30 p.m., at No. 6 Belvidere Street, Annie Snelgrove, wife of Mr. Samuel Snelgrove. For the past 12 months deceased had been a patient sufferer, and despite the constant attendance of those around her and the medical skill of her physician she passed away at the above-mentioned hour. Mrs. Snelgrove was of a quiet disposition and endeared herself to all who came in contact with her by her sympathy and good-heartedness. She leaves beside a husband, four daughters and two sons, one of whom, John, is now doing his duty to King and Country in the Dardanelles. The Telegram extends since sympathy to the relatives and friends of the deceased lady.

H. A. Cliff admitted to Bar, 1857.
Cardinal Wolsey died 1530.

The Retort Sarcastic.

Sir F. E. Smith's rise to fame was so wonderfully quick as to draw a very humorous, if somewhat sarcastic remark from the famous Judge Lord Mersey.
Some years ago, when "F. E." was rapidly making his reputation at the Bar, some magnificent new offices were erected by the Royal Insurance Company at Liverpool. One day, Lord Mersey happened to pass the fine building with a friend.
"What is that huge building?" asked his lordship.
"Those are the offices of the Royal Insurance Company," was the reply.
"Dear me," said the judge, with a wrinkle in his eye; "I thought they were F. E. Smith's new chambers."

Seriously Injured; Fell 30 Feet.

James Malone, aged 27 years, son of Mr. Phillip Malone, of Quill Yidd Road, met with painful and serious injuries on Saturday evening at the grocery store of J. J. St. John, on Duckworth Street. Malone was the truckman at the place. This time while engaged handling sacks of material on the top flat or loft he fell through an open hatchway, a distance of thirty feet. He was picked up in an unconscious condition with blood flowing copiously from his mouth and conveyed to his home on Gower Street where spiritual as well as medical aid was given him. The victim was hurt internally and the wonder is that he escaped being killed. It will be some time before he can resume work.

Wedding Bells.

PARSONS—CLARKE.
At Gower Street Church last night Miss Gerie Parsons, of Bauline, was united in matrimony to Private Stephen Clarke, of the Newfoundland Regiment. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. D. B. Hemmeon in the presence of a large number of friends of the contracting parties. The bride who was tastefully attired was attended by her sister, Miss S. Parsons, while Private Charles Martin, of the Newfoundland Regiment, supported the groom. Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of Mr. Burnstein, Water Street, where the bride lived.

W. C. T. U.

The annual meeting of the Women's Christian Temperance Union was held in the Grentell Hall on Thursday afternoon last and was presided over by Mrs. Penman. The devotional half hour was conducted by Mrs. Pippy and prayer was offered by Miss Scott, Secretary of the W.C.T.U. at Grand Falls. Reports from the branches recently established at Botwood, Elliston, Carbonear, Bay Roberts and Hant's Harbor showed that all are progressing favorably. The Treasurer's report was read and adopted, after which the election of officers for the ensuing year took place as follows: President, Mrs. Benedict; Rec. Secy., Mrs. W. Watson; Cor. Secy., Mrs. J. Vey; Treasurer, Mrs. S. Milley; Evan. Supt., Mrs. J. Pippy. Vice-Presidents and Assistant Secretaries will be appointed later. Letters from Mrs. Howland, read by Mrs. Benedict, stated that she is now lecturing in Boston.

Schooner's Crew Rescued at Sea.

Men on Board the Blanche M. Rose Near Death in Storm.
North Sydney, Nov. 25.—The Newfoundland barkentine Mary M. Duff, from Carbonear in ballast for this port for a cargo of coal, arrived here this morning with the crew and passengers of the schooner Blanche M. Rose. The latter vessel, which was on her way from the French Shore to St. John's with a cargo of dry fish, oil and herring, started on her voyage on Nov. 3, and encountered bad weather almost from the outset. She was obliged to put into one of the small harbors on the coast where she remained for nine days. On resuming her voyage more bad weather was encountered and in the gale of Nov. 15, she lost all her sails, anchors, etc., and was blown to sea. To make matters worse she sprang a leak and for four days only hard work at the pumps kept her afloat. Two days before the Mary Duff hove in sight those on board were without food, water or fuel and their sufferings were very severe. On Friday last, when the prospects of keeping the Rose afloat any longer were about gone, the Mary Duff hove in sight and in response to the distress signals took the crew and passengers of the doomed schooner. Every kindness was shown the unfortunate on board the Duff, and when they landed here they were taken to the Central House, where proprietor, Patrick Grant, did everything for their comfort. The cargo of the schooner was valued at $10,000 and represented the earnings of the crew who will be badly handicapped this winter. The schooner was insured, but nothing was carried on the cargo. Following are the names of those rescued:
William Clements.
Joseph Clements.
Michael Clements.
Thomas Clements.

Bernard Gardner.
James Penney (Catalina).

Ten Commandments for the Business Man.

By Finlay, of Cleveland.
1.—Thou shalt not in anyway boast, brag, bounce, or bluster, or the wise man will hold thee in low esteem.
2.—Thou shalt not permit thy wife to be living at the rate of $1,000 a year, when thy business is not yielding more than $999; nor shalt thou withhold from her the business information which, as a helpmate, she is entitled to receive.
3.—Thou shalt not mock the unsuccessful man, for he may be richer in his poverty than thou art in thy boasted abundance.
4.—Thou shalt not carry the counting house into the domestic circle, nor in any wise spoil the children's hour.
5.—Thou shalt not hobnob with idle persons nor smoke with them, nor encourage them, nor approve their evil life.
6.—Thou shalt not keep company with an unpunctual man, for he will certainly lead thee to carelessness and ruin.
7.—Thou shalt not forget that a servant who can tell lies for thee may one day tell lies to thee.
8.—As to hours of slumber and sleep, remember the good old rule: Nature requires five, custom gives seven; laziness takes nine, and wickedness eleven.
9.—Neither borrower nor a lender be, but give where well bestowed right cheerfully.
10.—Be honest in copper, and in gold thy honesty will be sure.

Constantine's Ticky Policy.

Another Greek crisis has been brought about, and brought about by King Constantine. It affords additional evidence which goes to show that the Entente Allies by the Greek King is intentional and systematic. His policy all the time has been to temporize with the Entente and that policy has prejudiced and hindered the Allies in their dealings with the Balkan States and promoted German designs. Dr. Dillon claims that this policy is in accordance with an actual pledge given by King Constantine to the Kaiser, and he claims further that King Constantine has a secret treaty with King Ferdinand which he is carrying out. It must be remembered that King Constantine received his military training in Germany, that he is married to the Kaiser's sister, and that the Court and military party are definitely pro-German. Last spring Constantine dismissed Venizelos for his pro-Entente tendencies. For months he kept a minority ministry in power. After the general election the minority ministry was kept in power for a considerable time after the Greek electorate had placed the Venizelos party in a majority again. Then Venizelos was recalled. Bulgaria declared war on Serbia, and Austria and Germany began a new campaign against Greece by treaty bound to go to the aid of Serbia. When attacked by Bulgaria Venizelos prepared to do so, and invited the Entente to land troops at Salonika to aid them. They did so. Constantine refused to declare war on Bulgaria and dismissed Venizelos, and hindered and embarrassed the campaign of the Entente by raising apprehension as to the safety of their line of communication, which extends fifty miles along the Vardar Valley. The Entente retaliated by placing an embargo on the export of certain supplies from their own territory to Greece. Kitchener and Cochin visited Athens, and news was given out from Greek sources that King Constantine had re-affirmed the policy of benevolent neutrality, and would do nothing to jeopardize the safety of the troops landed at Salonika and sent up country. An agreement was come to on General lines and only some minor details were left to be worked out. Having gained more time, we learn now that Constantine has created another crisis, and the position is as grave as ever. The whole policy of Constantine can be judged by this feature of it. It facilitates the work of the Kaiser, and hinders and embarrasses that of the Entente.

Schr. Still Missing.

In spite of the most searching enquiries, the Bay Roberts schooner Swallow, having 16 souls on board, is still unheard of. All shipping that passed Cape Race within the past few days reported that they had not sighted the missing craft. She is not reported anywhere since leaving Seldom Come By over a fortnight ago. The craft was bound home from the Labrador and her summer's voyage of fish on board. There were 19 persons aboard the Swallow leaving the Labrador but three men left her at Seldom where she harboured. Captain Bowering, a noted boat-builder of Conception Bay, was master of the Swallow and she was owned by Albert Fradham.

According to the Bay Roberts Guardian the following persons are aboard the Swallow:

Beatrice Batten, Chas. Batten and Henry Batten of Barened; Abram Smith and Rebecca Mentions of Bishop's Cove; John Jones of Upper Island Cove; Wm. Dawe, Frost (girl), and a boy named Snow of Clarke's Beach; a boy of South River; Ambrose Pagen, of Kelligrewa; John Bowering (master), Samuel Kinsella, Wm. Russell, Arthur Greenlan and Wm. Russell, Jr. of Coley Point, and Clara King of Country Road.

Missionary Services at George St. Church.

The services in George St. Church on Sunday were devoted to the interest of Christian Missions. Large congregations were present morning and evening. At the morning service the preacher was the Rev. J. W. Bartlett, of Jubilee Church, Sydney, N.S. Taking for his text, Acts, 11 ch., v. 26, Mr. Bartlett delivered an eloquent and impressive sermon in which he showed:

(I) The fundamental basis of the Christian Church is the Missionary idea.
(II) She is commissioned to communicate that idea.
(III) If she does that, it will have a reactionary influence for good upon her own life.

A solo, "Rock of Ages," rendered by Mrs. George Ayre, touched every heart, and was greatly enjoyed. In the evening a Platform meeting was held, when the question of Christian Missions was again discussed. The chair was taken by J. W. Taylor, Esq. Addresses were delivered by Arthur Mews, Esq., V. Bartlett and Dr. Fenwick, all of which were of an exceptionally high order, and gripped the closest attention of the large and representative audience. The beautiful anthem rendered by the choir, a solo, "Be thou faithful unto death," by Mr. Courtenay, and the hearty singing by the congregation contributed greatly to the success of the service. The friends at George Street were delighted to have their old pastor with them once again, and to receive his soul-stirring message on the great subject of Christian Missions.

LONDON, Nov. 27.

The Governor, Newfoundland.

General French reports having successfully bombarded the enemy's trenches during the last four days. An enemy bombing attack on the Bethune-LaBassee road was repulsed on the 22nd. A German tank encampment was successfully bombarded by twenty-three of our aeroplanes on the 25th.

Elsewhere in France and Russia, nothing special.

Italy.—Progress is continued north-west of Gorizia and Carso.

COL. MAITLAND'S EXPLOIT.

LONDON, Nov. 28.

Col. Maitland of the Royal Naval Air Service, jumped with a parachute to-day from an aeroplane which was 1,500 feet in the air. Col. Maitland had been experimenting with a project for the development of the aerial service, and had arrived at a point where it was necessary to determine whether airmen could land safely by parachute from such a height. "Some one has to do it," he said. "There is only one person I care to ask, and I will make the attempt myself." It took 15 minutes to make the descent but he solved his problem satisfactorily.

GORIZIA REPORTED FALLEN.

GENEVA, Nov. 28.

Reports received here from Chiasso on the Swiss-Italian border, says that Gorizia has fallen, the Italians having entered the town from the north. There is no official confirmation of the reports.

TURKS RETIRE FROM MESOPOTAMIA.

LONDON, Nov. 28.

An official statement received here to-day from Constantinople confirms the British report that after the recent battle in Mesopotamia the Turks retired. The statement follows—On the Trak front on November 22nd and 23rd, north of Kovo and on the Tigris, Gas and Hospitality.

The sound of motor wheels heralding the arrival of unexpected guests has no terrors for the housewife whose menage is run on up-to-date lines. While the visitors are removing the traces of travel with the hot water which a gas water-heater traces always "on tap," a match to the gas fire makes the drawing room a place of warmth and pleasantness for their reception; and the children love to "help mother" by toasting the crumpets before the clear and smokeless glow.

The gas cooker (or the modern gas trivet by the drawing room gas fire) boils a kettle of water in no time, and within a quarter of an hour after their arrival the guests are enjoying a cosy chat over the cup that cheers. Should they be persuaded to stay, the invaluable cooker makes it possible, even at such short notice, for the experienced housewife, after a rapid dinner emergency store cupboard, to set before them a dainty dinner of which no hostess need be ashamed. Gas means ever-ready hospitality.

ST. JOHN'S GAS LIGHT COMPANY.

lost for the time being, the Serbs with French reinforcements are still active in the district, and are ready at the first opportunity to dash forward and recover the ground they have been driven from by superior numbers and equipment of the Bulgarians. From the foregoing it seems that the Serbs and French have effected a junction between Prilep and Monastir.

THE GREEK SITUATION.

LONDON, Nov. 28.

The Greek situation is again disquieting. The Athens correspondent of Reuter's Telegram Co., says: With reference to the new joint note by the Entente Ministers, optimism has given place to skepticism. An Athens despatch to Lloyd's News says: The note demanded a reply at the earliest possible moment. The interview of Premier Skouloudis with the King lasted an hour, after which the cabinet council discussed the various questions at issue for several hours, and held that only several points formulated, are acceptable to Greece. The situation, this despatch adds, is grave.

WEATHER HINDERING OPERATIONS.

PARIS, Nov. 28.

The Salonika correspondent of the Havas Agency sends the following, under Saturday's date: Bad weather and snow are preventing all operations on the French and British fronts. The Serbians have completely evacuated Katchanik. They are retiring towards Albania by routes leading to Scutari, Durazzo, and Santi Quarta. The section of the railroad from Uskup to Mitrovitza has been completely occupied by Austro-German and Bulgarian troops.

TURKISH GAINS.

AMSTERDAM, Nov. 28.

A surprise attack by the Turks on the position of the Entente Allies near Avi Burau on the Gallipoli Peninsula resulted in the Turks carrying a material section of the Allied trenches there, according to an official announcement by the Turkish War Office, received here yesterday from Constantinople.

AT MONASTIR.

PARIS, Nov. 28.

Serbian troops who occupied Brod and Krushevo, north of Monastir on Friday, entered Movala on the following day, according to a Havas despatch from Monastir, filed on Saturday. Attacks by two divisions of Bulgarians, numbering 24,000 against 10,000 Serbs, in this district have become more vigorous. The action of the Bulgarians against Monastir is believed to have been delayed pending the arrival of reinforcements. The wounded Serbians have been transferred to Albania from military hospitals at Monastir.

RUSSIAN OFFICIAL.

PETROGRAD, Nov. 28.

Official on Russian western front: Excepting failure of the new German attempt to retake the trenches recently lost north of Lake Swenton, calm reigned yesterday along the whole line. The Caucasus front is without change.

ON THE MONTENEGRIN FRONT.

PARIS, Nov. 28.

The Montenegrin official statement of Nov. 25th, reports that nothing of note has transpired on the Montenegrin fronts. The enemy has confined himself to directing reconnaissances without, however, being permitted to determine the point against which he should aim his principal movement, which he has undoubtedly been preparing for, for several days.

CANADIAN WHEAT.

WINNIPEG, Nov. 28.

The Chairman of the Grain Commission has commandeered all Nos. 1, 2 and 3 of the northern wheat in the terminal elevators at the head of the lakes. It is understood that the order also applies all over the Dominion. The general effect is that the Canadian wheat can be consigned only to vessels consigned to the Dominion Government, and that it will stop the exportation of wheat in bond or otherwise to the United States, either by lake or rail.

WONT HURT GREEK FEELING.

COPENHAGEN, Nov. 28.

The Berlin Lokal Anzeiger says it learns from reliable sources that the Bulgarians have decided not to pursue the Serbs into Greek territory. This decision has been made, it is stated, in order to avoid hurting Greek feelings.

WILL ATTACK MONTENEGRO.

LONDON, Nov. 28.

The statement contained in the recent Montenegrin communication that the Austro-German military authorities have been preparing to inaugurate action against Montenegro, is confirmed, according to well-informed observers in Amsterdam.

BRITISH STEAMER ATTACKED.
LONDON, Nov. 28.
A Reuter despatch from Rotterdam says that the British steamer Balgownie, which arrived there from London, reports that she was attacked yesterday near Noord Hinder Lightship by three German aeroplanes. Machine gun and rifle fire as well as bombs, were directed against the steamer for twenty minutes. She was not damaged.

HEAVY LOSSES.
BERLIN, via wireless to Sayville Wireless Station.—Among the items given out to-day by the Overseas News Agency, was the following: The Entente Allies' situation in the Balkans is desperate. The French loss at the Krivovak line is estimated at twenty thousand dead, while their retreat is extremely difficult. If the occupation of Monastir by the Bulgarians becomes necessary, the Bulgarian Government will give definite promise to Greece that the occupation is only temporary, and that it is caused only by the most stringent military necessity.

To Make a World.

By RUTH CAMERON.

"I hate people so quiet and generally negative that they are never wearing—and also never interesting. There's people—who will do anything in the world for you, but who want to take their payment in managing your affairs. And there's people who would never think of trying to manage your affairs or of helping you either. The Last By Which The New Is Tried And— There are people who can never see the good in anything new, who never want to try any experiments. And at the other extreme are people who feel sure that any new scheme must be better than the existing order of things. The world is a big place and full of many kinds of people. Of course it would be fine if there were more people who were in the golden mean between extremes. But at least it's a comforting thought that people aren't all alike, especially when one has just been exasperated by one type of fault. Besides there is one person whom one can keep from going to extremes. And even one person helps a little.

With My Letter Friends
Question—If a young man publicly asks the company of a girl home from church at a social occasion where they chance to meet, should she refuse his request point blank?
Answer—Any woman of delicacy of feeling would try to soften a refusal of this sort by giving some excuse. If the man persisted in his attentions and they were unwelcome she might make her feelings more plain.

Take Stafford's Phorotone Cough and Cold Cure for the every day cough characterized by much phlegm or where a particularly palatable remedy is desired. Price 25c; postage 5 cts. extra.—Oct 16, 15

There's easy going people who take life in a pleasant happy-go-lucky way and let other people do the worrying—and quite often the work. And on the other side, there's people who make hard work of life, who carry yesterday's and to-day's and to-morrow's burdens on their shoulders and darken the day with their groanings that can be uttered. Would they could not!

There's people who are bright and amusing and intensely alive, but who become weary, because of this very intensity, after awhile.

And then there are people who are

M. Venizelos Sure Germans Bound to Lose War.

New York, Nov. 22.—A cable to the New York Times from London this morning says: "The Daily News prints a mailed despatch from Athens dated November 9, which gives the following interview with former premier Venizelos: "I am not a strategist, but two things seem quite clear to me: first, that the Germans are bound to be conquered in the end, from the fact that reserves from which they are drawing their resources are much smaller than those at the disposal of the Allies. The Allies have already passed the zenith of their strength, though still powerful enough to prolong the struggle for a long time. "Secondly, it seems to me that this new battle ground in the Balkan offers favorable conditions to the Allies. Their position in the west must be strong enough for them to hold on to this and at the same time detach large bodies of troops for use here in the Balkans. It is my opinion that you should cut off Germany from the supplies of man and minerals waiting her in Turkey. The moral effect upon Greece and Roumania of the Allies' success in the Balkans would be considerable. A German reverse in the Balkans, too, would have most serious effects for them at home. "The German people have been promised so much and been so often disappointed, first in Paris, then in Calais then in the expected surrender of Russia, after the taking of Warsaw, and if this new enterprise, with its much trumpeted aim of opening a road to Egypt, turns out another failure things in the interior of Germany may well be disastrous."

"Still Getting Worse."

"No one can measure your 'Nerve Force' as it leaves you." "Prescription A" will increase your "Nerve Force" wonderful. "Nerve Force" is the very motive power of the body as petrol is of the engine. If you are using up too much Nerve Force through overwork, worry or other causes—you are like a motor car with a leaky petrol tank, however good the mechanism it must break sooner or later. "Nerve Force" not only restores lost Nerve Force but actually increases it to a remarkable degree. Try it. You will really be astonished at the result. Explosion at Canadian Plant.

Ferry Sound, Ont., Nov. 22.—An explosion, the cause of which is as yet undetermined, but which is generally attributed to the work of alien enemies, occurred at 7.30 to-night in the plant of the Canada Explosives Company, Limited, which occupies an area of nearly three square miles at Nobel, seven miles north of this town, on the Canadian Pacific Railway. Five one-storey buildings, used for the storage of cordite, which the company has been manufacturing in large quantities, were obliterated. Between seven and eight hundred men are employed in the plant, but so far as is known there was no loss of life, the employees having quit work some time before the explosion took place.

Ship vs. Battleplane.

Remarkable Adventure of a British Vessel in the North Sea.—The "Avocet's" Escape. The Liverpool Journal of Commerce publishes an account of the miraculous escape of the British steamer "Avocet" from three German aeroplanes—one a big "battle-plane" which dropped bombs and fired upon her in the North Sea, fortunately without being able to cripple her. The "Avocet," which arrived at Manchester from Rotterdam, belongs to the Cork Shipping Company, and the story says: From particulars obtained from those engaged on the steamer it is gathered that on the morning of October 30th, at 11.35, three aeroplanes were observed coming up from the Belgian coast, one being a large battle-plane. In a few minutes they were circling over the ship, and the battle-plane dropped the first bomb, which hit the water fifteen feet away, making a terrific report, flames and water rising over fifty feet, and afterwards leaving the surface of the sea black over a radius of thirty feet, so far as it was possible to

The Eastern Trust Company.

A few reasons why an estate can be better administered by the Eastern Trust Company than by a personal executor or administrator:—
1. The Company affords the estate absolute security; it has a paid-up capital of $31,000.00, and a reserve fund of $29,300.00.
2. It has a long experience in the work of administering estates; it is incorporated for this business of acting as a trustee, and, unlike many other trust companies, it does not other.
3. Its existence is perpetual. Your estate, in the event of the death of a personal executor or administrator, must look around for a substitute, and the work of administration is impeded during that time, and the new executor is unfamiliar with the policy of his predecessor, and confusion results. This company's existence is perpetual, and there is a continuity of policy in its administration that the death of its officers does not break.
4. It possesses the confidence of governments, universities and prominent charities and administers their funds.
5. A number of other advantages which will appear in due course.

LONDON BUDGET.

LONDON, To-day.
The greater portion of what remains of the Serb's northern army is believed to have crossed into the mountains of Albania, Montenegro, where the Serbs are continuing with the aid of King Nicholas's troops and supplies which are reaching them from the Adriatic to offer stern resistance to the Austro-Germans and Bulgarian invaders. Like the Belgians, however, the Serbians hold a fringe of their country, which widens as it reaches the north western corner of which Monastir is the centre; for some reason the Bulgarians stopped their march on that city. Having recaptured the part of Macedonia, largely inhabited by their fellow nationals, it is said, the Bulgarian people government is disinclined to push any further west and on this point are in disagreement with their Austro-German allies, who are determined to drive not only the Serbs and Montenegrins, but the French and British troops out of the Balkans. While at the present time, they have largely superior forces the task now before a difficult one, which is set in at an unusually early date. Natives predict that it will be severe. Snow fell at Saloniki on Saturday for the first time in eleven years, which is taken as a sign that on the mountains of the peninsula there will be a heavy fall. During the latter part of the week almost continued storms compelled suspension of operations giving the French and British time to bring up reinforcements which are being landed at Saloniki daily, and to concentrate their positions. The Austro-Germans have also had to divert part of their armies down the Danube to the Roumanian border. Roumanians refused the German request for the opening of the Danube throughout the entire length to enable Germany to send supplies to Bulgaria and Turkey. Roumanians insisted that armed ships must not pass Baba, which is on the Danube. As Roumania is becoming daily more pro-ally and the Austro-Germans having sided with Bulgaria in the campaign against Serbia which is now cleared, she is now called upon to protect against aggression from the east. Russian warships including a new dreadnought have again been seen off the Black Sea coast of Bulgaria, but there is no news of any landing or movement of troops. On both the eastern and western fronts artillery, as was the case last winter, is doing the heaviest part of the work, and it appears doubtful whether either side will attempt an offensive for the present. Italy, on the other hand, undeterred by winter, is pushing her offensive and rendering the Austrian hold of Gorizia and Roverto daily more uncertain. The Turks have again been showing some activity on Gallipoli and claim minor successes against the Allies. However, no big action has been fought. German anxiety over Roumania is matched by that of the allied powers with regard to Greece.

KITCHENER WATCHED SHELLING OF GORIZIA—PAID TRIBUTE TO ITALIANS ON EFFICIENCY OF ARTILLERY.

NEW YORK, To-day.
A cable to the Herald from London this morning says: Kitchener, who is now in Milan, watched the shelling of Gorizia by the Italians on Saturday in company of King Victor Emmanuel and General Cadorna, and before leaving the fighting front he paid a moving tribute to the valor of Italian troops and the efficiency of Italian artillery. This was read to the various divisions of the army in the order of the day was greeted with tremendous cheering for England and Kitchener. One result of Great Britain's War Secretary's sojourn in Italy is the agreement to send a big Italian force to the Balkans if the general war council, soon to be held in Paris, approves of this course of action. Moreover, I am informed the general war council, which is composed of high military experts of the four great Allied Powers, hereafter will decide all great movements by land and sea. General Cadorna feels, according to despatches from Rome, that this great push against the Austrians will tell effectively for the Allies in the end, but the King and General Cadorna told Kitchener that as co-ordination spelled success, they will abide by the decisions of what soon will be a supreme general staff. The King of Italy agreed with Kitchener that the Franco-British forces have the Germans practically beaten on the western front and that the new Russian offensive foreshadowed victory in the eastern theatre. He and General Cadorna, however, strongly impressed on Britain's War Secretary that operations against the Austrians in irredent provinces were of vital importance to Italy, and when the object there is attained the armies would be sent to the Russians and Franco-British forces in the tremendous struggle which all military experts agree will take place in Thrace before the winter is over. While this news is encouraging, dispatches from Athens indicate that the Serbian Army, which has been fighting against odds of five to one with short munitions, is nearing the end of its resistance; this is why the Entente Powers are insisting on all concessions demanded from Greece, and though dispatches from Athens still are pessimistic in tone, there is an under-current of feeling that despite the Kaiser's threats, King Constantine realizes the defiance of France and Britain will mean the end of his dynasty and making a virtue of necessity will concede everything.

SALONIKI, To-day.
Because of bad weather here there has been no activity on the Franco-British front. The Serbians have left Kathank and are retiring toward Albania by roads leading to Scutari and Santi Quirita. The railway from Uscup to Mitrovitza is completely in the hands of Germans, Austrians and Bulgarians.

Herring Shipment.
Donald Creaser left Bonne Bay this morning with 1780 barrels of herring for Gloucester. The schr. E. Conlan left Wood's Island to-day for Halifax, taking 724 barrels of herring. Herring are reported very plentiful to-day at Bay of Islands.

MEIGLE ARRIVES.—The s.s. Meigle arrived in port at 1.15 p.m. to-day with a full cargo of freight to the Reid Nfld. Co.

Attempted Suicide.

William Powell, aged 26 years, a native of Bonavista, was before Court this morning, charged with attempting to commit suicide. A few days ago he was brought here from Halifax in company with a Harbor Grace man named Corbin, the latter being now at the Penitentiary on remand. Both were considered as undesirable by the authorities at Halifax and were deported. Ever since his arrival here a week ago, Powell has been wandering the streets alone. Yesterday he attempted to cut his throat with a knife and would have succeeded in carrying out his rash act but for the timely interference of Constables O'Neill and Mercer, who quickly seized the weapon and brought the unfortunate man to the police station handcuffed. He was examined by a doctor this morning, pronounced insane, and conveyed to the Lunatic Asylum.

Workman Meets Accident.

At 10 o'clock this morning, a workman named Geo. Goss, was the victim of a severe accident and as a result got his head badly battered. He was helping to get the gear ready to start discharging coal from the schr. Rosebush at A. Harvey & Co's wharf. The iron handle of a winch revolved suddenly and struck Goss in the forehead, inflicting a terrible cut and knocking him to the deck senseless. Dr. Fraser, who was summoned, had to insert several stitches in the forehead, inflicting a terrible cut and knocking him to the deck senseless. Dr. Fraser, who was summoned, had to insert several stitches in the forehead, inflicting a terrible cut and knocking him to the deck senseless. Dr. Fraser, who was summoned, had to insert several stitches in the forehead, inflicting a terrible cut and knocking him to the deck senseless.

Police Court.

(Before Mr. Hutchings, J.P.)
A 15 year old boy, charged with the larceny of a quantity of flour, was remanded.
Two drunks were each fined $1 or 3 days.
A 28 year old seaman of Bonavista, insane and attempting to commit suicide, was sent to the Lunatic Asylum.
A drunk and disorderly had to give bonds or go down for 30 days.
A butcher, summoned by Inspector O'Brien for not having his place clean, was fined $5 or 14 days.

Doing Splendid Work.

In a letter recently addressed by him to His Excellency the Governor, Lieut.-Colonel Burton states that the men of the 1st Nfld. Regiment are doing splendid work at the Dardanelles. This testimony from the Commanding Officer of the Regiment will be read with pleasure by the friends of our brave lads who are at present doing their bit at Gallipoli.

Will Stand by Vote.

Editor Evening Telegram.
I wish to express my appreciation for the splendid editorials which appeared in the Telegram issues of Friday and Saturday re the prohibition acts.

To have the learned Editor of our leading journal who is himself an M. H. A., make such a fair and just pronouncement as to the result of the recent prohibition election augurs well for this great reform movement. The Telegram has made a wise choice in lining up with this movement which is working for the best interests of our Island Home.

Mr. Furlong holding the position of Law Clerk in the Assembly while holding the Liquor dealers' rstrainer would not be tolerated in England and should not be permitted here.

With regard to the question of validity or any other questions that may be raised, I wish to emphasize the point so ably made by you in your editorial where you express the opinion "That the Legislature will wipe away such technicalities and pass a prohibition act to come into force January 1st, 1917."

That opinion is endorsed by the majority of those who read that statement and will be endorsed by the whole 25,000 voters who voted for prohibition. The Government dare not ignore the voice of the people, especially when that voice is represented by a vote which was stronger than that which elected the present Government.

I am voicing the sentiment which I have heard expressed on all sides that that vote will be used to defeat any government which dares to ignore it. Don't waste your money in lawyers' fees, but rather bow to the will of the people and invest your capital in some labor giving business, and you will find your best customers among the Temperance People; and let us all work together for the uplift and benefit of our Island home without the poverty producing curse of strong drink.

Yours, etc.,
VOTER.

YOUR BOYS AND GIRLS

Very delicate children, whose appetites are poor and who do not do justice to their regular meals, should be given an extra allowance of hot broth or milk or an occasional cup of chocolate, with bread and butter or a rusk, between meals. Children should never be hurried off to school in the morning with an insufficient and rapidly eaten breakfast.
During school days the food must be abundant and must contain sufficient proteids, starches, sugars and inorganic salts to meet the constant demand for these constituents of a perfect food. Suppers should be light, not stimulating and the food should be made savory and appetizing.

LONDON GOSSIP.

LONDON, Nov. 2nd, 1915.
A SMALLER CABINET.

Critics of the Government have of late frequently asserted that "things will never go right" until the Cabinet is reduced in size. Perhaps their anticipation of the beneficent result likely to flow from the adoption of their suggestion is optimistic. It is not inconceivable within a short time they would discover in the smaller Executive the same defects they now profess to see in the present Cabinet. But there is undoubtedly a body of opinion which believes that the smaller the Cabinet is the more efficient would be the prosecution of the war. When the Coalition Government was constructed many people urged the formation of a War Cabinet, small in number, consisting only of the holders of the principal offices in the State, and I believe that this was the plan that Mr. Asquith himself favored. It did not, however, fit in with the peculiar circumstances under which the Coalition Ministry came into existence, and received very little support. In place of a small Cabinet an inner ring, or "War Council" was formed from among the twenty-two Ministers. This system has, however, proved unsatisfactory in practice. Probably the majority of the Ministers left outside this narrow circle are content to know nothing—though remaining with a share of the responsibility for decisions arrived at without their knowledge—but there are others who conceive it to be their duty to demand that these decisions must be reviewed in full Cabinet. Hence difficulties and embarrassments, personal and administrative, have arisen, and inevitably brought the formation of a small Cabinet within the bounds of possibility. How far matters have progressed towards its accomplishment it is impossible at present to say, but I hear on authority that at least one proposal has been made. This is that the new Cabinet should consist of eight members—the Prime Minister, Lord Kitchener, (War Secretary), Mr. Balfour (Agriculture), Mr. Lloyd George (Finance), Mr. Bonar Law (Colonies), Mr. Sir Edward Grey (Foreign Affairs), Mr. McKenna (Chancellor of the Exchequer), and Austen Chamberlain (Secretary for India). Obviously a plan of this kind calls for self-sacrifice on the part of Ministers excluded, but personal considerations need not stand in the way of the suggested reform if the welfare of the country calls for it. The names I have mentioned, it will be noted, do not include a spokesman of the Cabinet in the House of Lords—Lord Kitchener can hardly be expected to act in that capacity—and a Peer, probably Lord Curzon, would have to be added to the list.

STABILISING THE EXCHANGE.

It is understood that among the proposals which have been made among those most immediately concerned for solving the exchange problem as between London and New York is that of the temporary substitution of the American dollar for the British pound sterling as a basis for credit loans between Great Britain and the United States. American bankers calculate that by the end of the year the balance of trade against the former and in favor of the latter will amount to about $1,000,000,000, and that it will probably remain undiminished during the life of the recent Anglo-American loan. In that time it is expected that the Bank of England will remit more gold, and that about $150,000,000 worth of American securities will be sold; but there will still remain a heavy balance to be settled in some other way. That suggested by the American bankers is the establishment of a form of banking credit whereby it would be possible for sellers of goods in New York to draw on the purchasers in London in dollars, and have their bills accepted in New York on behalf of London banks. The bills could then be discounted by local banking institutions and held by the latter until maturity, or rediscounted, if necessary, at the Federal Reserve banks. This scheme is understood to be strongly opposed on behalf of Great Britain on the ground that, though it would tend to stabilize the exchange, it would transfer the risk of a decline in sterling from the American seller to the British purchaser.

GERMAN RACING YACHTS CONDEMNED.

In connection with the condemnation by the Prize Court, on October 28th of four German yachts, it may be recalled that the Kaiser's new schooner, Meteor V, narrowly escaped a similar fate. The yacht started for the Solent to prepare for the Cowes Regatta of 1914, but a few days before the declaration of war she was ordered back to Germany. As a result the Germania and Paula III., two of the yachts condemned by Sir Samuel Evans on the afternoon of October 28th, were the only German competitors that arrived for the Cowes events and their owners must wish that the German Emperor had given them the hint of which he acted in regard to his own schooner. Though the Germania is the better known of the two, the Paula III., which was built at Gosport, was establishing a reputation, and won the Royal London Commodore Challenge Cup in 1913 and 1914, in the latter year at Kiel.

CINEMATOGRAPHY IN LONDON STREETS.

A new interest—or a new terror, as one chooses to regard it—has been added to the London streets by the rapidly-growing practice, which has seriously developed during the past few weeks, of the enactment in the open air of melodramatic scenes for the purpose of being cinematographed. A day or two ago an assault with intent to rob was apparently made on a lovely maiden in one of our best-known shopping thoroughfares and a stalwart passer-by leaped to the rescue, with consequent tumultuous excitement among the populace, until it was discovered that a cinema photographer was busily engaged opposite in grinding his machine for the production of a film. On the morning of October 20th in a highly-respectable but not specially rich suburb, a strikingly-dressed girl entered a house, the door of which, to the surprise of onlookers, was opened by a liveried man-servant, and she was followed by a man clad in evening attire, despite the inappropriateness of the hour, who with dramatic gestures, demanded instant admission. The passing public speedily discovered that no crime was in contemplation because, owing to some faulty movements at the first attempt, the scene had to be repeated; but, meantime a crowd was beginning to collect, and for unnecessary crowds in any circumstances the London police have no love. Up to now these proceedings have seemed merely farcical, but they contain potentialities of danger, and the authorities may be considered likely to intervene.

SOCIETY IN WAR-TIME.

The war taxes are hitting what used to be called fashionable society rather heavily, but there is little grumbling, for society has deeply altered its chief characteristics, which before the war was an abnormal self-centredness. Its principal problem now ought to be—and largely is—what to give up without injuring someone (depending on it). Young men-servants are a thing of the past, and the number of women now seen driving their own cars is sufficient testimony of the elimination of the chauffeur. Many fashionable women have even started garages where other women of their own class can be taught the complete control of the cars, which are mostly used now for the benefit of the wounded and convalescent. Thackeray would be astounded at the domestic differences. The servants' hall and the kitchen are now one, and the proudest butler sits down with the housemaids—a social revolution far greater than any that affects their employers. The many large hospitals financed by private enterprise are another call on the rich. Not many women have given up their maids, their explanation being that ladies' maids as a class are not able to turn their hands to much else besides their own calling. But many women send their maids to do war work three or four afternoons in the week, or employ them in making comforts for the troops instead of attending to their wardrobes, which are now said to be reduced to a minimum.

THE FASHION TO BE OUT OF IT.

The fashion at the moment in London is to be out of the fashion, and the distinctive note about the woman of fashion to-day is that she does not follow it. The modish woman, as opposed to the merely rich, is distinguished by her quietness of attire and demour; a very subdued elegance is the outside line she permits herself, and anything in the least eccentric or showy in street wear proves the wearer to be beyond the pale. There are a certain number of social fixtures of a sort at the moment, but they entail no elaborate dressing; there is an English opera season, but even in the boxes dress is discreet, and scarcely recalls at all the old ornate appearance of "the Opera," while a tiara now would look like something from a museum. Almost since the war began family jewels have been reposing in the strong-rooms of the banks, both on account of the new simplicity of life and of the Zeppelins, and if by any chance a jewel-box is required now from the bank it is quite a business having it found and produced. A well-known woman calling the other day at a bank for her jewels, some of which she wished to sell for the hospitals, was requested to return in two or three hours, as it would take that time to locate her possessions.

GinPills FOR THE KIDNEYS

What They Cured

Here's the remarkable experience of a Nova Scotian:—
"I was once a terrible sufferer with kidney and bladder troubles, and at times I would lose the use of my legs, and could not go away from home without some one with me. I was treated by different doctors for 3 years, and only got temporary relief. My son advised me to take Gin Pills, and after taking the first 2 or 3 doses I got relief. I continued to take them until I got completely cured. I owe my life to Gin Pills."

of Miss Pressley Smith, one of the organizers of the National Union of Women's Suffrage Societies, as secretary to the British Legation at Christiania is therefore hailed by the officials as a notable triumph. Since the war strong representations have been made to Mr. Asquith, as to the desirability of opening the higher branches of the Civil Service to women qualified by university attainments and diplomacy has been specially mentioned in this connection. Miss Pressley Smith is well known in Edinburgh, where she has been engaged in organising relief work for some time.

Boston War Horse Port

French Agents Plan to Send 200,000 on a Fleet of 60 Steamers.
Boston, Nov. 21.—The expenditure of millions of dollars, the shipment of between 175,000 and 200,000 American and Canadian horses on a fleet of 60 steamers in the next six months, the employment of more than a 1,000 men in this city and Water-town and the sailing from this port of one ship a day loaded with horses, grain and other supplies, are involved in plans now being made for the transporting of horses for the use of the French Army.
The plans call for the use of about 600,000 feet of lumber in building new sheds, pens, stalls, grain and storage buildings, at the Union Market Stockyard. There will be a shipment of 25,000 horses a month for seven months, at least, and probably longer, from Boston, and ships will be sent away just as fast as they can be loaded.

War's Effect on Scotch Herring Fishery.

Few industries in Scotland have suffered more from the war than the fishing industry, upon which such a large portion of the population depends for its livelihood, writes Consul E. Haldeman Dennison, Dundee, Scotland. In normal times nearly 90,000 persons are engaged in Scotland in occupations directly connected with the fisheries, of which the herring fishery is much the most important branch. Upon the success or failure of the herring catch the prosperity of the fishing population almost wholly depends, and it is this branch of the industry which has been most favorably affected by the war.

In normal times over 5,000,000 hundredweight (one hundredweight equals 112 pounds) of herrings are landed at the various Scottish ports, valued at from $7,500,000 to $10,000,000. A large proportion of this is exported in a cured state to eastern Europe, mainly Germany and Russia. Since the outbreak of the war the great Continental markets have been closed to this trade, and the loss of these markets has been severely felt by the Scottish fishing industry.

An official report just issued shows that in the 12 months, 1913-1914, the aggregate quantity of herrings landed in the United Kingdom was 12,830,000 hundredweight, valued at $20,911,350; in the year of the war—that is from July 1, 1914, to Aug. 1, 1915—it was 2,650,000 hundredweight, valued at $5,216,888, a decrease of 10,180,000 hundredweight, or 79 per cent, and $15,694,462, or 75 per cent. In Scotland the decrease amounted to 4,179,000 hundredweight and $7,833,200, or 87 per cent, and 82 per cent respectively.

In the 12 months of war the total quantity of fish landed on the coasts of the United Kingdom amounted to 17,288,000 hundredweight, valued at $44,912,928, as compared with 24,925,600 hundredweight, valued at $67,347,493, in the previous 12 months. Of the total decrease in the value of the fish landed in the year of the war the herrings represent 70 per cent, and all other fishes only 30 per cent.

The Alleged Emigration of Young Men.

The campaign of the new Department of Recruiting in Ireland has been inaugurated by full-page advertisements in all the Irish newspapers, and by a personal letter from the Lord Lieutenant, who is Director-General of the Department, to all men of military age in the country. This letter states that 50,000 new Irish recruits are required.

Mr. John Redmond, replying to a correspondent who drew his attention to a newspaper statement that large numbers of young Irishmen were emigrating from Ireland in order to avoid compulsory military service, writes:—

I think my best course is to send you the most recent official figures with regard to emigration from Ireland. In the year 1913, 30,967 persons emigrated from Ireland; and in 1914, 20,314 persons emigrated from Ireland; and in 1915, up to the end of September, 11,446 persons emigrated from Ireland. In the months of July, August and September, 1914, the total emigration from Ireland was $3,219; in the same months for this year the total emigration from Ireland was 4,429. From this it appears that Irish emigration is dropping in a most remarkable degree—at least 50 per cent.—and that the decrease is going on up to the present moment. I see that a similar statement is made in some papers with regard to the alleged emigration of young men of military age from Great Britain. Though there may be some cases of this kind, I think it will be found on investigation that it is as little true of Great Britain as it is of Ireland.

"LOOKED THE PART."
Men must look right and be right to command success. Clear eyes, clear skin and clear brain mean money to the man who possesses them. Dull eyes, sluggish brain and a pimply, blotchy skin are a serious handicap. O'Mara's Hypophosphites will remove pimples and blotches, brighten the eye and increase vital power by giving you pure blood and good circulation. Price $1.00.
We recommend it because we know what it contains.

SUCH IS LIFE.

I had a stately pony, the smoothest nag alive, no feature of him phony, and safe for girls to drive. His skill at fancy pacing was known both wide and well, and folks were always chasing, and asking me to sell.

They offered fancy prices, and dogged me every place, and often brandish slices of money in my face. "I'll keep my nifty charger," I said. "He's not for sale, though larger still and larger you make your rolls of kale. I'll put no price upon him, nor value him in bones; I treasure him, doggone him, far more than precious stones." At last I was persuaded to buy a motor car, in which I have paraded around the busy mart. I said, "I'll sell my pony, for steeds are out of date, and what he brings in money will help to pay the freight." I thought that many a buyer would hustle to my door, and bid the price up higher than ever it was before. But not an eager duffer came round to put up ice, and no one seemed to suffer for nags at any price. No person wished to cop him at bargain counter rates, and so I had to swap him for rusty roller skates. And in my mind has jaunted this thought, until it's stale: A thing is seldom wanted, unless it's not for sale.

Cure Your Bad Cough By Breathing "Catarrhazone."

You may dislike taking medicine—but coughs are best cured without medicine. The modern treatment is "Catarrhazone"—it isn't a drug—it's a healing vapor full of pine essences and healing balsams. It spreads over the surfaces that are weak and sore from coughing. Every spot that is congested is healed—irritation is soothed away, phlegm and secretions are cleaned out, and all symptoms of cold and Catarrh are cured. Nothing so quick, so sure, so pleasant as Catarrhazone. Beware of dangerous substitutes meant to deceive you for genuine Catarrhazone. All dealers sell Catarrhazone, large size which lasts two months price $1.00; small size 50c.; sample size, 25c.

Amusements.

TO-DAY AT THE CRESCENT PICTURE PALACE.

To-day the Crescent Picture Palace presents a noted three reel feature: "The Girl of the Music Hall," Alice Joyce and Guy Coombs supported by all the Kalem stars appear in this great masterpiece. "Alice of the Lake" is a one act Selig drama and is a very interesting story. "Slippery Slim's Wedding Day" is one of those rollicking western comedies that the Essanay Company are famous for. Mr. Dan Delmar sings a very pretty southern ballad: "In the Gloaming of Wyoming." Don't miss seeing this great week opening bill.

"OUR BOYS."

"To-day's the day" when the greatest picture ever shown in this country will at 2.30 be projected upon the screen at the Casino Theatre. This wonderful production is already the talk of the town, and we honestly and fearlessly predict that it will cause a furore in the city and crowded houses will enthusiastically show their great appreciation of Mr. Kiely's continued and up-to-date efforts to please the theatre-going public of St. John's. Special permission was granted by the British War Office in order that this "masterwork" might be secured and the cost of production represents the outlay of an enormous sum. Taken by an operator of the highest standing and directed by a "master mind" this finished product will prove itself to be a revelation to the many admirers of our brave lads who will be seen under every possible condition whilst going through their daily routine. Every man in the Regiment is distinctly recognizable. In short this is a picture the like of which has never before been placed upon any screen anywhere. Doors open daily at 2 and 7. Performances commencing at 2.30 and 7.30. The final evening performance will commence at 9.45.

BRITISH THEATRE.

The show to-night promises to attract large numbers at the British. The four-reel drama Richelieu, dealing with the historical events of France in the 16th century will be as an unspoken play the best of its kind. Mrs. Ayre's song to-night will be "Land of Hope and Glory," and those who have heard this song will realize the musical treat in store for them to-night. The "Animated Weekly" is a very attractive one dealing with some of the most recent events of world-wide interest, among them the funeral of Lieut. Warford the British aviator, who destroyed a Zeppelin single handed a few months ago and was afterwards killed on his way to France to be decorated by the French President. A very pleasing comedy "Peggy's Sweethart" completes a show second to none in the city.

"THE GODDESS" BEGINS AT NICKEL TO-DAY.

All lovers of the 'movies' will go to the Nickel Theatre to-day to see the opening chapter of the greatest serial ever photographed for the motion pictures. "The Goddess" has met with tremendous success in New York and in the other large cities of America, and has been highly praised. Anita Stewart and Earle Williams are in the principal roles and their playing is said to be exquisite. The story of "The Goddess" is a beautiful one, being entirely different to sensational detective stories. The management has arranged to show it at 8.15 and 10.15 each night. The balance of the bill is made up of high-class pictures and will afford pleasure to all. "The Profligate" is an Essanay drama in which Bryant Washburn and Ruth Stonehouse appear. "Out of the Past" is a powerful two-part Vitagraph drama, and "His Luckless Love" is a Keystone comedy.

COMING BALLARD BROWN AND THE ONE AND ONLY MADGE LOCKE.

There is a splendid all-round programme at Rossley's Theatre to-night. Carroll and Ellor, the popular Irish singing and dancing couple, also the finest female impersonator will appear in laughable sketch, entitled "Kelly's Hotel," one solid laugh. Also another high class singing act with elegant costumes. The pictures are changed three times weekly, Vitagraphs, Keystone, Comedys, Pathe Weekly, Reliance and the Mutual Players. There is a treat in store for patrons. Ballard Brown and Miss Madge Locke will appear next Monday in a new act. These favorite artists have been booked especially for the Pantomime. Look out for other big surprises.
