The Simple Truth About Corns

A corn today is just as needless as a spot of dirt. It can be ended almost as easily, as simply and completely as a spot of dirt.

The way is scientific. It was invented by a famous chemist. It is prepared by makers of surgical dressings, whom physicians respect.

It is called Blue-jay. You apply it in a jiffy, and usually but once. There is no pain. The pain stops instantly and forever.

The action is gentle. It

How Blue-jay Acts

B is the B&B wax, which gently underlines the corn. Usually it takes only 48 hours to end the corn completely.

C is rubber adhesive which sticks without wetting. It wraps around the toe and makes the plaster snug and comfortable.

Blue-jay is applied in a jiffy. After that, one doesn't feel the corn. The action is gentle, and applied to the corn alone. So the corn disappears without excruciation.

A is a thin, soft pad which stops the pain by relieving the pressure.

Won After Great Perseverance!

CHAPTER XV.

"We don't want any nails," he says. "We won't knock the castle to pieces, Lady Falconer; the rocks in the hall is the very thing. Half a dozen curtains, and a screen, and a few other things—"

"Half a dozen curtains and a few other things" have, by the morning, grown into a wild confusion of "properties," which makes the grand old hall look like the warehouse of a second-hand dealer.

Sir Archie and the captain, both in their shirt-sleeves, mount ladders, and haul furniture about without the slightest regard to the general comfort. Everybody, at all times and seasons, sits poring over his or her part, and "mumbling" it in the approved fashion. Lady Falconer retires to her room overwhelmed and dismayed, and general chaos reigns triumphant.

Sir Archie has declared that the "whole thing" can be got ready in five or six days, and Maud has issued her invitations.

"Get a lot of people," says Sir Archie. "The larger the audience the better the thing goes; and keep a place at the back for the servants. Nothing like having the servants, because they know how to laugh; in the pit and gallery, you know." And he nods knowingly.

He himself is everywhere at one and the same moment—hanging up curtains, arranging lamps, and directing the rehearsals. It is he who "hears" the parts, and gives direc-has passed, and the lawyers still hold him in town.

Then there comes a last rehearsal, held the evening before that of the performance, and Sir Archie, wiping the perspiration from his forehead, declares himself satisfied.

"It will do admirably," he says, pacing up and down, and glancing with approving criticism at his company; Maud looks aristocratically pretty in the dress she has chosen, Edie bright and sprightly in her Parisian costume, Lucy Fairfax in black satin and point lace—and last, but not least, Dulcie, in her plain cotton frock and a servant's cap.

As his eyes rests on her, he makes a little impatient gesture; it is she who ought to wear the black satin and lace. For all her cotton frock and cap, she looks ridiculously unlike a servant, as she stands with her white, slender hands fitted in front of her, her lovely eyes lit up with excitement and spirit.

"It will go very well," he repeats—"don't you think so?"

And he looks at Dulcie. She laughs.

"I don't know. It is an absurd play; the sentiment is strained, the comic business is extravagant, the situation is forced—but I think it will go!"

"If you would but have played the Julia," he says, in a whisper, and with a sigh.

She turns away with the usual little pout of impatience.

"Take care," she says—"you will will offend Miss Fairfax. It isn't fair to her; she plays the part far—far better than I should."

He bows and shuts his eyes with mock meekness.

"Never mind," he says; "at any rate, you are going to play something, and that is a triumph for me," and there is a flash in his blue eyes which is significant.

"What a pity it is," says Edie, as they stand in the hall, with their candles in their hands, "that poor Hugh will not be here; he would enjoy it so much. Haven't you heard from him, Maud?"

Maud is standing holding up her costume daintily, and she pauses a moment to gather it still closer, and as she does so she glances at Lucy Fairfax with a half-frightened air, but a moment after says:

"Hugh's movements are very uncertain; we don't know when he will be home."

And Dulcie, smothering a sigh, goes to bed. With her heart of hearts she is hungering for a sight of him. Woman-like, she knows how well the plain cotton frock and linen cap suit her, and wishes wistfully that he could be here to-morrow to see them.

"Uncertain," she murmurs. "Perhaps he will stay away another week! Another week! How long, how hideously long it will seem!"

CHAPTER XVI.

Punctuality in the matter of meals has been for the last week conspicuous by its absence. On this, the great day, they get their breakfast, lunch and dinner, when and how they can. Most of them are too excited to eat at all, though Sir Archie is impressive in his insistence that they should all make at least one good meal.

"You'll all be worn out before the play is half over," he says, warningly, and late in the afternoon he inveigles Dulcie into the breakfast-room, where a cold collation has been laid out, and insists upon her eating something, if it is only a sandwich, and with his own hands he pours out a glass of wine for her.

"You have no idea how exhausting it is," he says, standing over her with the eager care of a nurse for an invalid. "Just one glass more!"

But Dulcie declines, laughingly.

"Haven't you better see that the others are all strengthened?" she says.

He makes a little impatient movement.

"They are all right," he says. "Gordon and Hartfield will look after them. It is you I am thinking of."

"Please don't, then," she says. "I shall not faint in the middle of the performance, I promise you, though I shall be terribly nervous."

At eight o'clock the first of the guests arrive, and Dulcie, attiring herself in her costume, hears the roll of the carriages and the sound of the footman's voice announcing the names of the arrivals.

If Hugh could only be amongst them, she thinks, with a sigh.

Presently there is a knock at the door, and the maid comes with a message.

"Sir Archibald's compliments, miss, and are you ready?"

She follows the girl down by a back stair-case into the small room leading into the hall, which has been turned into a green-room, and finds them all ready and waiting.

Archie greets her with an eager smile.

"Prepare for a triumph!" he says, as if she were the principal performer. "The hall is crowded. There has scarcely been a refusal. Your special friend, the duke, is here, and half the county with him. Would you like to have a peep at them?" and he leads her on to the stage and to a small crevice between the curtains.

Dulcie looks through, and starts back aghast.

"So many?" she says. "Why, it is like the audience at a theatre?"

He laughs.

"I wanted you to see them before you went on, you will not feel so nervous. Not that I am afraid," he adds, looking at her with ardent admiration.

Dulcie breaks away from him and goes back to the room, and Lucy Fairfax comes up to her.

"How well you are looking, Miss Dorrimore," she says, with her sweet smile. "Sir Archie is right, the servant will outshine the ladies."

Dulcie always feels awkward under the blandishments of the soft, green eyes.

"Do you think so?" she says, glancing at herself in the glass. "That is nonsense of course, but—but if I look too fine, why I must alter it," and before any one can suspect her intention she has taken up a black pencil used for blacking the eyebrows, and makes a couple of smudges on her cheeks. "That is better," she says, "I look now as if I had been cleaning the grate, and black-leading myself."

Doctor Said Operation.

When Chatham Lady Suffered From Extreme Nervous Exhaustion—Now Feeling Fine and Working Large Garden.

Chatham, Ont., October 19th.—This letter will interest every lady reader, because it describes a condition for which many doctors advise an operation. That the operation is often unnecessary and very often leaves the patient an invalid for life is well known.

You will read here of what Dr. Chase's Nerve Food has done for this lady and will then understand the great good it is accomplishing in many thousands of similar cases throughout the continent.

Every woman should think long and earnestly before consenting to an operation of this kind. It is a simple matter to give Dr. Chase's Nerve Food a trial and the results are almost always entirely satisfactory. You not only avoid the risk and expense of an operation, but find yourself restored to health and vigor.

Mrs. E. M. Fox, 82 Delaware avenue, Chatham, Ont., writes: "For four years I suffered from my nerves. I was restless and could not sleep well. I had headaches, neuralgic pains through the body and backache which caused shortness of breath. I was easily tired and always drowsy after eating. When walking or on my feet very much my feet would seem to go dead in my shoes. I consulted two doctors and both told me that I would have to have an examination and probably an operation, but I would not have either. Shortly after this I commenced using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and after a treatment of this medicine I can say I am now feeling fine, I am able to do my household duties without difficulty, and besides this, attend to a half-acre of garden. I can go about without that dead feeling in my feet, and am grateful to Dr. Chase's Nerve Food for my cure. I think very highly of this medicine and recommend it to other sufferers whenever I have an opportunity."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, a full treatment of 6 boxes for $2.75, at all dealers or Edmanston, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto. Do not be talked into accepting a substitute. Imitations only disappoint.

Many skirts are ankle length. Pompons are used to end sashes. Suede bags are lined with moire. Line the velvet bag with Dresden silk.

Tricks of Fate.

(From the Westminster Gazette.)

Surely one of the cruelest tragedies of war is the death of Mr. C. J. Stevens in the air raid on Monday. Here was a man who as war correspondent in two campaigns had come through every kind of danger unscathed. He followed the Greeks in the good deal of the recent fighting on the borders of Greece. Yet it is while he is resting in London that he meets his death. I recall one parallel from the North of England. When there was a movement for calling back skilled men from the front an exceptionally competent fitter was brought home to work in a shipyard. He had been six months in the trenches and received no hurt. Within a week of his return a bomb was dropped which he was working and he was among the men killed. Fate certainly plays its tricks in war time.

WILD GESE.

Wild geese were flying south today; I heard them honking over my head; and to my aunt I passed the day, "The winter's coming, my tum's head, up to me to get in coal, to buy a stock of flour and spuds, and a strip my slim meagre roll of meagre roll of weather strips and winter dolls. The weather prophet, in his den, may tell us what next week may bring, but the prophecies of men are mere tomyrot, by jing. I would not cold days prepare, if warned by a human seer; man says to-morrow will be fair, and it is dark and bleak and drear. Man says to-morrow will be cold, and it's so hot we stew in sweat; no weather rightly was told by any human prophet yet. The wild geese have no maps or charts, no instruments of brass or steel; they do not try to break our hearts with "highs" or "lows" or kindred signs. They have no traps to measure wind to weigh the clouds or test the air, when, for southern climes they've sailed, for wintry days we should be pale. I saw the wild geese gallop over some southern island is their goal; lend me forty bones, dear aunt, I'll lay in a stock of coal!"

Everyday Etiquette

"My daughter has been invited to visit the home of her fiancé. Is it proper for me to allow her to be asked a puzzled mother.

"Yes, if the young man's mother or other female member of his family given the invitation," advised the neighbour. "It is understood, of course, that the person giving the invitation will chaperone your daughter during the visit."

What a Naval Action Costs.

Fortunes in Shot and Shell Literally Flung Away When a Fleet Goes to Battle.

(By "JACKSTAFF," the Well-known Naval Writer.)
 The guns of our super-Dreadnoughts are terribly expensive to "feed." Approximately (and only approximate figures can be given) about £200 disappears in smoke each time a 13.5-inch gun is fired, whilst other pieces of ordnance are, relatively, "money-swallowers." Fighting with her main armament only, a ship carrying ten 15-inch weapons can expend powder and shot at the rate of £2,000-worth per minute, which means that if the "scrap" lasts long enough for the vessel to empty her magazine, she will have blazed away something like £200,000 from her big guns alone. To this must be added the amount consumed by the smaller ones as well, some of which can "get off" over £100 worth of cordite and steel per minute. And these figures must be further supplemented by a liberal allowance for torpedoes—at £600, or more, each—and for gun erosion, an expensive item in itself.

Shooting Away Gold!

Each charge for the 3-pounder—the smallest naval gun in general use—works out at about ten shillings. A 6-pounder charge averages much the same. Once, however, get above these small "rifles," and the price per round increases rapidly. Thus, although a 4.7 can be fired for less than five pounds, the charge for a 6-inch costs nearly treble that sum. Only a few shillings more will "load" a 7.5 inch. Between that and the 9.2 (the next calibre above) comes a big jump in cost. To propel the 350 lbs. projectile which this weapon throws, 103 lbs. of cordite are required, and the total value of the charge runs to well over £200, the "shell," as in all cases, costing much more than the explosive which drives it. Now, the 4.7 fires rapidly, and this should not be overlooked when estimating its "money-eating" powers. Much the same may be said of the 6-inch, from which ten rounds per minute have often been discharged.

One should also remember that our battleships have a very full, as well as a very formidable, set of "teeth." Many of them carry over forty guns of varying sizes, each of which has to be "fed."

Let us take a peep into a barbette whilst the 13.5-inch guns are being laid upon a hostile man-o'-war. In the crescent-shaped working-space alongside the gun men are gazing intently at various pointers and turning-wheels, following closely the directions sent from the control-top as to elevation, range, etc. A pull at a lever, and the hydraulic-engine starts spinning the heavy, steel-clad barbette around as easily as if it were a top. A twist of a wheel, and the bulky afterpart of the huge gun sinks noiselessly. Open awnings the breech, just as a cage containing a 1,400 lb. projectile rises through the floor. Instantly the chain-rammer, lunging forward, pushes the projectile into the gun. Next, circular bags of cordite drop into the loading-tray, and the chain-rammer thrusts them, one after the other, into the gaping maw of the weapon. Lightly the breech closes and locks. Far away in the "top" an officer presses a key; there comes a deafening roar, and some £200 have been lifted cleanly out of John Bull's pocket.

Staggering Facts.
 When the projectile leaves the gun's muzzle it travels at the rate of 2,600 feet per second—that's getting along, isn't it? At this period it develops an energy which would enable it to pick up a dead weight of 58,590 tons, and raise this a foot from the ground. Ponder a few minutes over these statements about speed and lifting-power, and you will begin to see what effect these gigantic forces have when concentrated upon delivering a single smashing blow. At 5,000 yards distance a 13.5-inch gun can drive an armour-piercing shell clean through near 30 inches of hard steel. The 15-inch has more formidable hitting-power still, and its effective range goes beyond twenty-five miles.

GIRLS! MAKE A BEAUTY LOTION WITH LEMONS

At the cost of a small jar of ordinary cold cream one can prepare a full quarter pint of the most wonderful lemon skin softener and complexion beautifier by squeezing the juice of two fresh lemons into a bottle containing three ounces of orchard white. Care should be taken to strain the juice through a fine cloth so no lemon pulp gets in, then this lotion will keep fresh for months. Every woman knows that lemon juice is used to bleach and remove such blemishes as freckles, sallowness and tan, and is the ideal skin softener, smoothen and beautifier.
 Just try it! Get three ounces of orchard white at any pharmacy and two lemons from the grocer and make up a quarter pint of this sweetly fragrant lemon lotion and massage it daily into the face, neck, hands and feet. It should naturally help to whiten, soften, freshen and bring out the roses and beauty of any skin. It is truly marvellous in smoothing rough red hands.

Police Changes.

Since assuming his position I. G. Hutchings has had the men on parade within the grounds at the Central Fire Hall every morning, after which they get instructions for street duty in different parts of the city. This is a new departure and an improvement on the old system. So that they can turn out more promptly in times of emergency the I. G. is having the Central Station fitted up with sleeping quarters for unmarried men; he is also having his office in the old office in the Barracks yard which was occupied by the chief officials of the Force prior to the great fire of '92.

Standardized Packages for Fish.

It was decided at 3 meetings of the Charterers Ltd., yesterday, that coopers be instructed to use a standard cask for the shipment of codfish. This step was taken, owing to the fact that the same freight rates are charged on packages of different sizes and dimensions. Mr. G. C. Fearn, we learn, will make known what the dimensions of the standard package are to be.

Fallen Leaves.

As I stood by the roadside and gazed on a tree Whose leaves had deserted the bough To lie in the drain that went filtering by. Or be blown by the wind in the trough. I thought of the summers' this tree must have bloomed, But wither as autumn drew near, And its leaves to decay or be blown far away From the tree that had nursed them with care.

I said to a neighbour who stood by my side These leaves here hold lessons sublime. To instil in our minds of our brave soldier boys Who lie dying in some foreign clime. For some leaves we see which still cling to the tree In vitality and stature are small, While others so stout and with vigour puffed out Are the first ones we notice to fall. Just so with the lads who on European soil Are displaying such courage and grit; The strong ones are snatched in the heat of their prime While the frail ones still poorly exist. Thus we know that the power of God always rules Our destinies, whatever they be, Whether soldiers in battle or children in school, Or leaves on an old balsam tree.

So mothers and fathers and friends do not grieve For the lives of the dear ones that's gone. For if the All Holy had only decreed It is certain that they should live on. But He wished them to die as a lesson for us. That we may not be fighting for gain; All this and much more crossed my mind as I stood And gazed on the leaves in the drain.

Surgery Wonders.

REPAIR OF BROKEN SKULLS.
 Replacing destroyed portions of skull with layers of cartilage taken from the patient's own ribs is one of the latest methods of healing war injuries.
 In the last issue of the British Journal of Surgery, Mr. H. Warren Woodroffe, surgeon to the Ulster Volunteer Hospital in France, describes the method which has been successfully tried on a number of severely wounded soldiers.
 Cutting down to the ribs parallel to the breastbone, the surgeon slices off thin layers of the cartilage which attaches the bony ribs to the breastbone. These are laid in the gap caused by the destruction of the skull after the scalp has been turned back. The scalp is then stitched back in place. Within a few weeks, instead of having no protection to the underlying brain, a hard layer of cartilage, firm though slightly elastic, is formed.
 Among the results obtained, in addition to the protection of the brain from further injury, the patient suffers less from headaches, is less affected by noise, and can move his head about and bend forward without feeling any dizziness.

Your Boys and Girls.

Children exercise quite enough but not always in the right way. A mother should look after, and direct, part, at least, of her child's exercise, and see that it is systematic. If you train your child to go through a course of daily exercises it will gradually learn to become self-reliant and will not need your assistance when exercising.
 But until it reaches this stage of doing things for itself, you should never be too busy to devote a half hour a day to the betterment of your child's physical being. Always remember that the exercises should be practised in the open air or, if this is impossible, in a room with the windows open top and bottom.
 A girl should be taught muscular control of her hands. A splendid way to get strength into her fingers is to have her hold her hands, palms downward, upon a table and have her raise each finger four times. At first she will find it rather difficult to lift the fingers very high, but by constant practice, they will soon become very limber.

The Baltic Situation.

The predicament of the Russian fleet is more regrettable than surprising. It is what might have been expected. If it ventured to accept battle with the greater German ships, far outranking its guns and outweighing its projectiles, in addition to being bottled up in the narrow waters of Moon Sound, whence they cannot escape to the Gulf of Finland, the Russian ships have lost a valuable aid through the silencing of the shore batteries on the island and on the mainland. What proportion of the capital Russian fleet is thus cut off we are not informed. The chief protection of the Finland Gulf, which the Germans have not yet dared to tempt, is the field of mines and the Russian submarine fleet. An attempt to force an entrance would certainly involve the loss of a number of ships, and this is not a prospect probably not anxious to risk.

The dissatisfaction with the inaction of the British navy that is finding voice in England is natural enough. It is hard to have to look on and be unable to use the crushing superiority one possesses to help an ally. It is recalled that during the war the British submarines played havoc for a time with shipping between Sweden and Germany, and the Daily Mail asks why they cannot be used in the same fashion in this emergency. To which there are several obvious answers. The chief one is probably doubt as to the support Russia could give to such a fleet if it succeeded in making its way through the German mine fields. Efficient bases would be an absolute necessity. But apart from the difficulties in the way, it is not certain that there are not being faced at this moment: there has hardly been time for British submarines to make their way to the scene since the developments began, through waters where the Germans are certainly on the look-out for them. After all, though, while the British Admiralty has its faults, it is hardly fair to tax it with the offences of geography, and the episode is not yet finished.

PACKED HOUSE HEARS CAPT. NANGLE TELL OF THE NEW-FOUNDLAND REGIMENT.

A capacity audience filled the Casino Theatre, last night, to hear Capt. Nangle, C.E., describe the experience of the Newfoundland Regiment in France and Flanders during the twelve months that he was attached to it. Besides the Governor, who presided, there were present Bishop Power, St. George's; Canon White, Bishop Elect, Sir William Horwood, C.J., Dr. Lloyd, Acting Premier, the Minister of Militia and other prominent citizens. The lecturer spoke in an easy, colloquial style, well suited to his subject and much enjoyed by his audience. Captain Nangle joined the Regiment on September 24th last year. He told how he made his way to the trenches through Gommecourt, Hebuterne and Anchoyville, passing en route the graves of many Newfoundland heroes. With Captain Ledingham and Lieuts. Bartlett, Barrett, Edens and McNeill, he witnessed historic Beaumont Hamel, and was shown where Hanel, Barrett and his men made the successful ride on the night before the battle. He told here of the heroism of Private Frank Nell, now returned, in grasping and hurling back a German bomb, which exploded as it left his hand: he saved the lives of those around him but carried the wounds in his hand to-day. He told humorously of Major's Paterson's visit right up to the first line, and his luckily safe venture, under Capt. O'Brien's escort, past "Suicide Corner," while the battalion was stationed at Ypres. After a rest the Regiment was moved back again to the Somme, and

 AMSTERDAM, To-day.
 After the Socialist conference at Wurzburg had adopted a resolution rejecting a motion to bind the party to vote against the war credits in the Reichstag, Herr Hoch, member of the Reichstag, declared on behalf of the independent Socialists that they were in favor of the country's defense and would only refuse to vote for the credits as long as the Imperial Government failed to promise the adoption of the peace demands of the social democrats and to make changes in the constitution. Hoch added that the patience and strength of the people in all countries were coming to an end and that the Government ought to understand that unless peace came within a few weeks revolutionary convulsions would arise from the masses.

 ROME, To-day.
 An official from general headquarters to-day reads: Along the whole front there was moderate artillery action and local fighting was more noticeable. We promptly repulsed storming parties southwest of Selo on the Carso.

 PARIS, To-day.

 LONDON, To-day.
 An official issued this evening says: During the day hostile infantry shelled vigorously various localities in our forward battery positions east of Ypres. This afternoon our positions southeast of Poelcapelle were heavily bombarded. Our own artillery continues its successful counter-battery work. Concentrated fire has been directed with good effect upon a number of targets. Our patrols on the battle fronts have brought in a few prisoners but there have been no further infantry actions. On the remainder of the front there is nothing to report.

Successful Tag Day.

"Our Day," as yesterday was called throughout the Empire, proved another most successful Tag day for the fair brigade that took charge of the streets until well on in the afternoon. Out at an early hour, they allowed few to escape, even if they had been so minded, and an untaxed citizen was a rare sight. The workers were divided into four divisions, captained by Mrs. Norman Alderidge, Mrs. George Knowling, Jr., Mrs. F. W. Angel and Miss Mancheron. Between which there was close competition. The total money taken in reached the fine sum of about $3400.

Bad Food Confiscated.

Food Inspector O'Brien, one of our most competent civil servants, who is known always to discharge his duty fearlessly and impartially, yesterday seized in an uptown grocery store and ordered to be confiscated a quantity of spare ribs. The package contained a bad mixture of broken bones and a frightful odour came therefrom. The bad food was then put aboard a sanitary car and removed. People who witnessed the affair think that such should not be allowed to happen in the interest of public health and believe that any food pronounced as bad and ordered to be destroyed should be removed with as little exposure as possible.

IF You had a sore place, and had to choose between two remedies, one of which went to the sore spot direct, and the other by a round-about way, and might never get there at all, which would you prefer?

When you have a cold, asthma, a sore chest, catarrh, or any lung trouble, you can select between two remedies—Peps, which goes to the sore spot direct, and any of the ordinary cough mixtures, which go to the lungs and bronchial tubes, but do not reach the sore spot.

Don't ruin your stomach in an attempt to heal your throat and lungs. Peps goes direct to the throat and lungs. Peps are tiny tablets containing certain medicinal ingredients, which when placed upon the tongue immediately turn into vapour, and are breathed down the air passages to the lungs. On their journey, they soothe the inflamed and irritated membranes of the bronchial tubes, the delicate walls of the air passages, and finally enter and carry relief and healing to the capillaries and tiny air sacs in the lungs, thus ending asthma, catarrh, bronchitis, colds, etc.

In a word, while no liquid or solid can get to the lungs and air passages, these Peps fumes get there direct, and at once commence their work of healing. Once you try them you will never use any other remedy but Peps for colds, coughs, sore throat, catarrh, tightness across the chest, "that night cough," and all breathing and lung troubles.

Have you tried this famous remedy? If not out of this article, write across it the name and date of this paper, and mail it (with 1c stamp to pay return postage) to Peps Co., Toronto. The trial packet will then be sent you. All drug stores and stores sell Peps at 50c. box.

 COPENHAGEN, To-day.
 The key to the policy of the German Government in refusing to make any definite statement of peace terms is furnished by Herr Hoch, Socialist member of the Reichstag. German newspapers report that the Deputy Minister, Dr. Von Bohmstedt, was furnished before his retirement as Imperial Chancellor, declared to the Socialist members of the Reichstag that himself but must pull out in the peace negotiations whatever could be obtained for Germany. Herr Hoch explained this as proof of the ambiguous game the Government is playing with various indefinite peace declarations.

 LONDON, To-day.
 The Daily Mail condemns what it calls the failure of the British fleet to prevent the German fleet from becoming master of the Gulf of Riga and demands that the Admiralty make an explanation of this humiliating display in the Baltic. After recalling the success of British submarines against the Germans in the Baltic in the summer and autumn of 1915, the newspaper says, "The Germans have accomplished all they were prevented from achieving in 1915 and they have done so without a single ship being struck at them by any of the British Navy, a Navy far stronger than it was two years ago and recently reinforced by the addition of the American fleet."

Doesn't Know When Winning.

London Daily Chronicle: A very shrewd and able Englishman, writing recently from Mesopotamia to a military officer in England, said that, to judge by the British newspapers, the familiar saying that England does not know when she is beaten ought now to be revised so as to read, "England does not know when she is winning." This competent witness, able from his situation to take a broad view of the war, regards all the signs and omens as favorable to us and our Allies. His optimism is shared by General Smuts, who speaks with much greater authority, for he is not only himself a great soldier and a man of high intellectual distinction, but is also a member of the War Cabinet, with access to all the sources of information.

MAY BE PROPHECIC.
 AMSTERDAM, To-day.
 After the Socialist conference at Wurzburg had adopted a resolution rejecting a motion to bind the party to vote against the war credits in the Reichstag, Herr Hoch, member of the Reichstag, declared on behalf of the independent Socialists that they were in favor of the country's defense and would only refuse to vote for the credits as long as the Imperial Government failed to promise the adoption of the peace demands of the social democrats and to make changes in the constitution. Hoch added that the patience and strength of the people in all countries were coming to an end and that the Government ought to understand that unless peace came within a few weeks revolutionary convulsions would arise from the masses.

USUAL FIGHTING.
 LONDON, To-day.
 An official issued this evening says: During the day hostile infantry shelled vigorously various localities in our forward battery positions east of Ypres. This afternoon our positions southeast of Poelcapelle were heavily bombarded. Our own artillery continues its successful counter-battery work. Concentrated fire has been directed with good effect upon a number of targets. Our patrols on the battle fronts have brought in a few prisoners but there have been no further infantry actions. On the remainder of the front there is nothing to report.

Aviation.—On Wednesday the fine weather produced great aerial activity. The visibility was excellent and enabled our machines to do a great deal of successful artillery work and photography. Ninety-eight bombs were dropped by our airplanes during the day on enemy billets and targets. The strong west winds and clear atmosphere were ideal for the enemy's artillery reconnaissance and fighting machines, which were active and very aggressive. In the forenoon several flights were made at high altitudes over our lines with the result that of the enemy machines brought down by our airplanes three fell in our territory. In all eleven German machines were brought down by us, including one shot down by anti-aircraft gun fire. Four others were driven down out of control. Three of ours are missing.

The wholesale murder and kidnapping of numerous persons was part of the programme outlined, the witness testified. This part of the plot, Chatterji said, was revealed to him in Manila by George Paul Boehm, one of the Defendants. Boehm said that he had planned to kill Captain Cook and his crew who were to make an expedition in the vicinity of the Himalaya Mountains, said the witness. Boehm was to assume the name of Captain Cook and the other men. Our party were to assume the name of the other sailors who were to be killed. I protested. M. H. O. BREHM JOINS R.A.M.C.
A lively meeting of the Civic Board was held last night.
A letter was read from Hon. J. C. Crossbie refuting the idea that he built shed on wharf contrary to law. He would have applied for permit if he had thought it necessary.
The work of extending the Board of Works building without permission was next introduced. Council are taking action.
I. G. Hutchings has directed the police to caution shop-keepers against sweeping dust and paper into the street; he also suggested that the Council send around circular letters, as they did ten years ago.
The Secretary then read a letter from His Excellency the Governor to the Mayor stating that Dr. Brehm, Medical Health Officer, had offered himself for enlistment in the R.A.M.C. He was accepted and would be leaving here shortly. Dr. Brehm had asked that, including pay and allowances from the Army, his salary be augmented from the amounts now voted him from the Government and City, to equal his present salary; also he recommended that Drs. Fraser and Scully do his work during his absence, the former to do Health work and the latter laboratory duties.
Coun. Dr. Tait objected to granting the financial request and intimated his intention of discussing the matter fully at the next meeting. Others, he said, had given up good jobs to join the R.A.M.C. without such guarantees.
Coun. Morris disapproved of Dr. Brehm nominating other physicians to do his work, as the matter was one entirely for the Council to decide.
The Mayor explained that the letter was only to show that Dr. Brehm was leaving and that the matter would be referred back to the Council for consideration.
Coun. Tait then stated that the late Solicitor had worked several days in the month in which he retired and although having given a quarter of century of service, without increase in salary, he was only paid for the exact number of days he worked instead of for the full month.
Coun. Mullaly said it was contemptibly mean and asked the Mayor if he knew anything about it. The Mayor disclaimed any knowledge.
Following a clear explanation by the Secretary, clearing up the mystery, it was ordered that the ex-Solicitor be paid the full month's salary and that his successor be paid from the date of his appointment.
After discussion on some routine business the meeting adjourned.

The Executive of the Truckmen's Protective Union held their annual reunion last night at the residence of their Vice-Chairman, Mr. George Summers. Covers were laid for some twenty persons, including guests, and at 10 p.m. all sat down to an appetizing menu. After dinner an interesting toast list was taken up. Speeches of a humorous and patriotic character, honouring the King, the Union, the Press, etc., were made by Mr. N. J. Murphy, who presided, Mr. Summers, Councillor Vinnicoomb and others. Enjoyable songs were rendered during the evening by many of the gentlemen present as well as by the two Misses Summers, sisters of the host. The affair, which was voted to be the best yet of its kind, terminated under happy circumstances, at an early hour this morning with the rendition by the entire company of Auld Lang Syne and the National Anthem.

A Family Jubilee.

By RUTH CAMERON.

RUTH CAMERON.

I was in town shopping with a friend of mine the other day and when we had finished our shopping she said: "Now I must get some candy and then go up to the florists and get a few flowers." "Somebody's birthday?" I asked. "No," she said, "but Bess is coming home to-night."

Bess is her sister. She had been away for about three weeks and her return was evidently to be made the occasion of a little family festivity. I like that. Don't you?

To Be Sure We Miss The Old Homestead. I think if more families did that sort of thing we should have more of the family spirit, more of the love of home in which our younger generation seems to be somewhat lacking.

Of course, the atmosphere of one of a row of two family houses or of an apartment with all modern improvements differing, in no way from the eighteen other apartments in the building, is not so favorable to the development of family spirit as the atmosphere of an old-fashioned homestead, but it can be cultivated if you only care enough.

Little family institutions and customs will produce a family spirit even in a hotel, and more one cannot say.

Make More of the Birthdays. Birthdays always bring a family closer together. Why not make more of them? Not by giving bigger gifts but by having more of a celebration? Have a cake not only for the real children but for the child of thirty or sixty or eighty. He will appreciate the little attention even if he laughs at it. Try to get all the family together. Tell big brother and big sister in time so that they can set the day aside as sacred from their innumerable engagements. Make a family festivity of it.

Another pretty family custom is giving ones mother a gift upon ones own birthday. I cannot imagine anything more tender and fitting. I know some thoughtful sons and daughters who never fail in that pretty custom even if they are thousands of miles away.

One of The Little Memory Links. An egg hunt at Easter for the children is another quaint old custom that has fallen into disuse and is being revived. A middle aged man told me once of the egg hunts they used to have on Easter. Ordinarily he is a very unenthusiastic person. But in telling me about that he actually kindled. You see that little custom was one of the memory links that linked his heart to the home of forty years ago.

I have spoken before of the celebration of Christmas Eve, not as a wild orgy of bundle tying and errand doing, but as a family festival, a time when the heart grows tender to the living and the dead, and those housemates who are kept apart by the closeness of their daily association come really near for once.

Every little family custom, no matter how simple, even such a little thing as having some special dish on a special holiday, is a tie to bind the family a little closer together. The children who live in a home where there are many such customs will be sons and daughters who cannot be weaned away from home and the love of it by any change of position or circumstance.

treasurer has dumped the proceeds of the mite-box into the wheat pit, while the other brethren were learning the Golden Text, only to have the market slump downward with a hollow groan and leave him stripped of both religion and collateral. Every once in a while some rural merchant, imbibes the idea that he can invest a $10 bill in the Board of Trade and have it come back in the form of an eight-cylinder touring car, and after keeping this up for a reasonable length of time he decides that it is cheaper and more exciting to play draw poker with total strangers who carry a stripped deck. The number of people who make any real money by playing the Board of Trade with a shoe string is about as numerous as those who locate the little pea at the circus. The real wise men of any community are those who play the savings department of a solvent bank every Saturday night. Four per cent. interest may look small to the man who wants to double his money between supper and breakfast, but it is better than having to protect the original investment with a lien on the household furniture. The man who gets this solemn fact hammered into his system while young will never have to be cared for by the county when he is old.

On her way south the Diana called at Quirpon and took on board for their homes in Brigus, where they were later landed, the crew of the schr. Fearless, which was lost with her captain during a blizzard off the Groais Islands while on her return from the Labrador. The Diana brought along a large freight.

YESTERDAY AFTERNOON PROCEEDINGS.

Dr. J. S. Tait, who visited the scene of the tragedy in company with Inspector General and Det. Sgt. Byrne, gave evidence as to the death of Ethel and of Chafe, who, he said, met with being struck by a motor car at Goulds on the afternoon of Aug. 26th, 1917. Dr. Thos. Anderson, who was also at the scene and assisted the post-mortem, concurred in the statements made by Dr. Tait.

Sergt. Byrne was again called in giving evidence said: "For this piece of paper under the guard of the car and on the side of blood. The road from the scene of the accident to Doyle's house is apparently good condition. There is no change in the road surface of a small bridge which had been taken up. On going to Doyle's house I found a piece of road broken fresh from the rail on the north side of the bridge, coming down towards the time the car was notified at the time the wheels of the car came down to the rail of the bridge. From the measurements of the wheel I judged the wheel must have struck the rail. I measured 180 paces (about 160 yards) from the bridge to the scene of the accident. I called to the scene of the accident and Inspector General told me to go and find Parker and arrest him. About 10 minutes to 8 I left for the house. I arrived there about 8 o'clock. I called if there was a volunteer in the house. Someone said yes, and I called for Sergt. Major Gardner. He told me that Parker was in the house. I went to Mrs. Brennan, who showed me the stairs and pointed to the room in which the accused was residing. I lay across the bed face downward, legs drawn up. I called to him and caught him hold by the shoulder. He said: "Jack, Jack," the accused rubbed his eyes for a few seconds and threw himself back again on the bed. As he did so, Gardner said: "Jack, Detective Byrne wants you." At the same time I caught hold of him and he got up. I was under the impression that he was under the influence of drink. We cannot house and got into the motor car, and Parker took out a cigarette and asked me for a match. I said, "Put that in your pocket; do you know the woman is dead?" We stopped in front of Mr. Chafe's house while Mr. Sullivan was speaking to Mr. Chafe. I should say that Parker was sobered before I left him, which was about 15 minutes after. I did not put him under arrest in a formal way as I did not think he was in a fit state to understand me. I remained there till midnight and instructed Dodd to take charge of the car."

Cross-examined by Mr. Higgins: "The car was given over to Dodd and was to remain in his possession till an order from the Court asking for it would be given. I expected to find a drunken man on going to Brennock's. Parker's position in the bed was an unusual position, with his face resting on the back of his hands. The impression that I had that Parker was under the influence of liquor before I saw him, helped me to believe that when I saw him lying on the bed at Brennock's he was under the influence of liquor."

At 8.50 o'clock by arrangement of the counsel and by consent of the Bench, recess was taken till 8 p.m. in order to allow the Jurors to visit the scene of the tragedy and also inspect the damaged car, which is being kept at Dodd's Garage.

LAST NIGHT'S PROCEEDINGS.

After returning from the scene of the tragedy and visiting Dodd's garage, where Parker's car is kept, the Jury took their seats in court at 8.10 p.m.

Dr. J. Clarence McDonald, house surgeon at the General Hospital, was called on and being examined by Mr. McNelly testified as follows:—"I was passing Brennock's on my way home when someone told me of an accident. I then proceeded to the scene where I saw the body of a woman in an express wagon. I also saw the children in a house. I examined them but found there was nothing I could do for them immediately. I met Dr. Braham. We went to the house where the woman was, but when we arrived she was dead. I saw Parker. He walked up to me and said: "This is a terrible accident. Doctor." I said: "It cannot be helped now." I could not say if the man was drunk or not; he walked straight."

Joseph Cocker, motor engineer of 19 years' experience, who was called by the Crown to give expert evidence on motor cars in general and particularly the class of car owned and driven by the accused, testified as follows: "I have a repair shop and am acquainted with the Hudson Car. I know Parker's car. (Witness here leaves the witness box and standing in front of the jury with photos and diagrams of the Hudson Motor Car, describes the different parts of its engines and how it is operated.) A car being driven through the streets of the city would be going at the proper speed if making only 15 miles an hour. A car going at 10 miles an hour is certainly going at a slow rate. I know the capabilities of Parker's car. I haven't driven the car to say what it can do, but if properly driven it should do 40 miles an hour. I have had considerable experience as a driver. Going at 15 miles an hour I could stop the car within ten feet or within two-thirds of the length of the car, if properly handled. Going at 25 miles I would bring up the car on a level road within 15 feet, but that mainly depends on what pressure you put on the foot brake."

Cross-examined by Mr. Higgins: "In pulling up a car within ten or fifteen feet at the speed given it is necessary that you apply the hand brake as well as the foot brake. When applying the hand brake one hand would be free to use the wheel. In changing speed of Hudson car the left hand would be free."

Mr. Cocker's evidence concluded, Mr. McNelly, Crown Prosecutor, asked leave to call Mr. F. W. Bradshaw but was refused permission by the Bench on the ground that his evidence in connection with the condition of Serjt. Major Gardner had nothing whatever to do with the condition of the accused. This finished the case for the Crown and at 9.30 adjournment was taken till 10 o'clock this morning when the case for the defence was commenced.

THIS MORNING'S PROCEEDINGS.

The Court opened at 10.15 o'clock. Mr. Higgins, Counsel for the accused, addressed the Jury.

Frederick Dodd was called to give evidence, and on being examined by Mr. W. J. Higgins, said: "I am the proprietor of a garage and driver with about 14 years' experience. I was coming from Bay Bulls, and arrived at the scene of the accident about quarter of an hour after it happened. I just took a casual look around and did not notice much. The car was stopped. The side brake was on. I spoke to Mr. Cocker about the car and he spoke to Mr. Sullivan about having it removed. On driving the car to town I found the steering gear very stiff. I had trouble with the top gear. I drove about ten miles an hour owing to an odd wheel being on the car. I had that car in my hands for the past two years and had trouble with the gear box before. Last year the connecting rods had a habit of dropping down. I made an examination of the car on the 6th of September in company with Mr. McNelly and made a written report for the Inspector General. I found the steering gear very stiff. I found the clutch was slipping. The side brake locked the right hand wheel. The brakes should apply on both wheels equally. They were not working as originally fitted. They were out of order. I had the same trouble with the top speed, which was slipping out of engagement. Mr. McNelly, Detective Byrne, Mr. Silverlock, Mr. Parsons and myself were in the car on the examination. We went a distance of about four miles."

Cross examined by Mr. McNelly, he said, the clutch was slipping (here witness explained plans of Parker's car to Jurors). For the past two years I have repaired Parker's cars. Car was in good condition when I put it out in May last. It was capable of going 40 miles an hour on a good road. It would take a distance of 150 yards to bring the car up when going at 40 miles an hour. It would be dangerous to drive that car at 40 miles an hour. If car was driven at 25 miles an hour it would take 100 yards to bring it up. If going at 15 miles the car could be brought up in about 30 or 40 feet. The car weighs about 3,500 lbs. When travelling 25 miles an hour and within 100 yards of an object the car could not be stopped within that distance. The ordinary speed of a motor car on a country road is from 18 to 25 miles. If a car was going at a rate of 18 miles an hour on a properly level and straight road I would risk looking off the road for five seconds but would first take a glance at the road ahead. I do not know when Parker commenced driving. I went over the Portugal Cove Road with Parker last year. We were going at the rate of 15 miles, which Parker said was reckless driving. I have deduced from my own experience Parker was not a reckless driver. I put in four years learning my trade in motor factories."

Richard Silverlock, proprietor of a garage on New Gower Street, with about 18 years' experience as a motor engineer, said: "I had one run in Parker's car which was at the time of the examination on Sept. 6th, in company with others. The gear box was in apparently good condition. I drove the car but found it uncomfortable; it had a tendency to turn to the right. When going on high gear she slipped out of gear. The brakes were poor. I would not say they were absolutely as bad as Ludhofs."

There was nothing deranged as far as Ludhofs far as I could see. I also found the steering gear to be very stiff. Cross-examined by Mr. McNelly. I served my time as a motor engineer at Kingsley, Yorkshire. In testing Parker's car I got 25 miles out of her. In pulling her up she could be stopped within a distance of say, 40 yards. I did not stop the car but could have done so within a distance of 5 yards further. If going at 15 miles the car could be pulled up within a distance of 15 yards."

Geo. Parsons, proprietor of a garage on King's Road. (Examined by Mr. Higgins.) I have been connected with motor cars as a driver for 14 years. I remember the day of the tragedy. I reached the scene at about 6.45. I examined the car as a garage man naturally would. One of the headlights was lit. The accelerator was jammed down. The engine was not running. I did not examine the brakes. The throttle on the steering wheel indicated an ordinary rate of speed. I made an examination on Sept. 6th for the Inspector General and reported to him in writing. I found the steering gear very stiff and impossible to steer with one hand. The car would steer readily to the left but not to the right. The car had a tendency to jump from high to second speed. It was very hard to get a supply of air. I could not get the car over 25 miles an hour, as when she attained that speed she would drop back again."

Cross-examined by Mr. McNelly, (Witness here gives further technical explanations.) If the car was being steered with one hand it would have a tendency to leave the roadway. At 1 p.m. adjournment was taken till 2.30 o'clock, when Private John Parker will give evidence.

WOMAN HAD NERVOUS TROUBLE

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Helped Her.

West Danby, N. Y.—"I have had nervous trouble all my life until I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for nerves and for female troubles and it straightened me out in good shape. I work nearly all the time, as we live on a farm and I have four girls. I do all my sewing and other work with their help, so it shows that I stand it real well. I took the Compound when my ten year old daughter came and it helped me a lot. I have also had my oldest girl take it and it did her lots of good. I keep it in the house all the time and recommend it."—Mrs. DEWITT SINCEBAUGH, West Danby, N. Y.

Sleeplessness, nervousness, irritability, backache, headaches, dragging sensations, all point to female derangements which may be overcome by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

This famous remedy, the medicinal ingredients of which are derived from native roots and herbs, has for forty years proved to be a most valuable tonic and invigorator of the female organism. Women everywhere bear willing testimony to the wonderful virtue of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

RUSSIAN FLEET BOTTLED UP IN MOON SOUND.

Apparently contingents of the Russian fleet, in all about twenty warships of various classes, are bottled up in Moon Sound with a cordon of German war craft barring their egress northward back into the Gulf of Finland or to the south into the Gulf of Riga. Brave but outclassed by reason of superior gun range and heavier tonnage the Russians gave battle to the Germans, and attempted to force back the enemy armada off Oesel Island. Standing far outside the shell zone of the Russians, however, German dreadnaughts sank the battleship Slava, a week of days before the Russo-Japanese war, and so badly damaged other units that the Russian flotilla was forced to seek refuge in Moon Sound, lying between Moon Island and the Estonia coast. Immediately seeing their advantage, the Germans, according to the latest German official statement, began intensive operations against Moon Island, hammering its eastern shores with batteries till they were silenced and also attacking Russian guns on the main land, putting them out of action. Moon Island was captured and the Russians took refuge inside Moon Sound. Thereupon the Germans threw their warships to the eastern part of Kassar Bay, lying to the north of Moon Island, barring the exit from the northern entrance to Moon Sound, and also rushed contingents to the south of Moon Island apparently closing the passage to the south into the Gulf of Riga. Already the Germans have attempted to attack from the north into Moon Sound, but the Russian guns have held them back successfully. Among the German warships, attacking the old line vessels of the Russian fleet were at least two dreadnaughts of the Grosser Kurier type of vessel, displacing 15,000 tons, as against 13,513 tons for the Slava. A majority of the crew of the Slava was saved by Russian torpedo boats when the vessel took its final plunge. With the advantage of the German naval forces over the Russians, however, comes news of fresh disaffection in the German fleet, also of mutiny in the Austrian fleet in the Adriatic, also of bitter feeling between German and Austrian seamen in the Adriatic. German sailors at Ostend are reported to have declined to go aboard submarines for duty, and have thrown overboard one of their officers. In the Adriatic the Austrian seamen have mutinied owing to ill-treatment by their officers and bad food served to them. Bitterness of feeling between German and Austrians at the naval base in the Adriatic resulted in a fight in which men on both sides were killed. The trouble was due to the overbearing conduct of German seamen who were attached to the submarine flotilla, and it was necessary as a result of bad blood to change the German base in the Adriatic to a point further south. On the land there have been no battles of noteworthy importance. In Belgium the British and French guns are still hammering the German lines in front of them, but there has been no indication, either officially or unofficially, of when renewed infantry attacks may be expected. French troops on the southern portion of the line have repulsed strong German attacks in the Verdun sector, near Besonvaux, along the Aisne front, on Vauciers plateau. At other fronts only reconnaissance engagements, and bombardments, are reported. Intensive air fighting took place Wednesday between French and Germans. Eleven German airplanes were driven down by French aviators making a total of 36 destroyed up to that time this week.

OTTAWA, Oct. 18. It is officially announced that Premier Murray, of Nova Scotia, has formally decided to accept a portfolio in the Union Government.

ON ITALIAN FRONT—AUSTRIANS REINFORCING.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18. The Italian General Staff has learned that no less than 40 divisions of German and Austrian troops have been despatched from the Russian front to reinforce the Austrian army now facing the Italians. The present large number of German, Turkish and Bulgarian troops on the Italian front is reported as an indication of the realization by the governments of the Central Powers of the imminent danger of a general rout if the Italians continue their successes on the Battinizza Plateau. Austrian officers who have been captured by the Italians freely admit the existence of this feeling of apprehension on the part of their general staff.

sending any reply to Pope Benedict's peace note. His response was a request that notice be given of the question. It had not been officially announced, he said. Britain had adopted as its own reply the reply sent by the United States. The clear and powerful reply of President Wilson, he explained, was not the result of any communication of the Allies, and I don't propose to comment on it in reply to a question.

GERMAN WARSHIP LOST.

COPENHAGEN, Oct. 18. Rumors of the loss of a German warship in the Narrows between Denmark and Sweden are being reported. They are indefinite and unconfirmed, but the bodies of two German marines and one sailor have been found ashore in the vicinity of Esbjerg, Denmark.

RUSSIAN WARSHIP LOST.

PETROGRAD, Oct. 18. A naval battle has occurred in the Gulf of Riga—between Russian and German battleships. The war office announces that the Russian battleship Slava has been sunk.

HEAVY ARTILLERY FIGHTING.

PARIS, Oct. 18. A German attack near Besonvaux, on the Verdun front, was broken up last night by the French, it is officially announced. Heavy artillery fighting is in progress here and also on the Aisne front.

BRITISH OFFICIAL.

LONDON, Oct. 18 (Official). London troops made a successful raid last night in the neighborhood of Gavrelle and several of the enemy were killed or made prisoners. Our casualties were light, otherwise there is nothing to report from the rest of the front.

BOMBING RAIDS.

PARIS, Oct. 18 (Official). At about 6 o'clock yesterday evening 30 enemy airplanes made a raid over Nancy. There were some victims among the population. On Oct. 17th six German airplanes were destroyed and five fell disabled in the German lines. Our aviators carried out several bombing sorties. Many projectiles were dropped on railway stations at different points, on factories and on numerous munition depots and bivouacs.

VON BUELOW.

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 18. Prince Von Buelow, former Imperial Chancellor, has returned to Berlin, according to the Lokal Anzeiger. It is generally believed that he will be offered his old post in succession to Dr. Michaelis.

REPORT FORWARDED.

COPENHAGEN, Oct. 18. The report that Dr. Michaelis has offered Friedrich Voß Payer the post of Vice-Chancellor held by Dr. Karl Helfferich is confirmed by the clerical newspaper Germania and the Radical newspaper Tageblatt. The offer would imply the Chancellor's readiness to throw overboard Helfferich as well as Admiral von Capelle, Minister of Marine in order to save the situation.

GERMAN SUB. CREW ESCAPES.

FERROLLE, Spain, Oct. 18. The commander and 15 sailors of the German submarine U-23, who were interned with German refugees from Kameroun, near Alvala-de-Henares, northeast of Madrid, have escaped. The second officer in command of the submarine and the six remaining sailors have been placed under close guard. The German sub. U-23 put into Corunna, Spain, in a damaged condition on July 30th, and later, was dismantled and interned in conformity with King Alfonso's decree of June 3, under which submarines of all belligerent powers were forbidden to navigate within Spanish territorial waters or to enter Spanish ports. On October 8th it was announced from Madrid that a German submarine, which had been interned at Cadix, had escaped. The Spanish Government, it was stated later, had instituted a court martial to deal with the affair, and taken measures to punish Spanish naval officers inme-

ITALY'S ECONOMIC SITUATION.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18. Further details of Italy's serious economic situation while her soldiers are pressing the Austrians at the front, reached here to-day in official despatches. Producing no coal within her own territory, Italy depends for many of her other supplies upon the outside world, which now virtually means the United States. Britain requires all her ships for her own purposes. The situation is so grave that there is almost no coal for private consumption and few furnaces will be lighted this winter in either Italian hotels or private houses. Even military operations are hindered. Italy already has accomplished a great deal by limiting the consumption of all kinds of supplies, reorganizing the imports of foodstuffs, distribution, fixing minimum lines of prices and introducing a system of rationing for the population in many cities.

SUGAR SHORTAGE.

NEW YORK, Oct. 18. A statement urging the people to reduce by one-half their consumption of sugar, was issued to-day by James H. Post, Chairman of the American Refiners' Committee of the Federal Food Administration. "It is not a question of price," he said, "the necessary sugar is simply not available. We must all join in cutting down one-half of our daily portion of sugar in order that the supply on hand may be parcelled around."

M. P. DEAD.

LONDON, Oct. 18. Sir William Pollard Byles, Liberal Member of Parliament for the North Division of Salford, died to-day.

GERMANS CAPTURE MOON ISLAND.

BERLIN, Oct. 18. German forces have captured Moon Island, according to an official statement to-night.

TO ADVISE MEDICAL CORPS.

AN ATLANTIC PORT, Oct. 18. One of the most distinguished medical authorities active in war work, Sir Berkeley Moynihan, Senior Consulting Surgeon to the British Army Medical Corps, and Inspector of Army Corps in France, arrived here to-day. He has been assigned by the British Government to advise the U.S. Army Medical Corps in war preparations.

WHY IS NAVY INACTIVE?

LONDON, Oct. 18. Some newspapers comment on the inactivity of the overwhelming forces of the Allies' navies in respect to the Baltic. The Pall Mall Gazette says: "It becomes rather strikingly paradoxical that when the Germans undertake an important naval offensive, our superior fleet whether above or below water should have nothing to say." The paper suggests that the public might be profitably told the reason, even if it is because of the disorganization of Russian depots and their infection with German spies.

WHOLESALE MURDERS PLANNED.

CHICAGO, Oct. 18. The wholesale murder of British officials seeking to stamp out revolution against British rule in India, has been planned, according to letters to-day of Sukant Chatterji, a Government witness, in the trial of Gustav H. Dobson, and three alleged conspirators charged with attempting to foment revolution. The men are being tried by a Federal jury.

PARLIAMENTARY MISSIONS.

ROME, Oct. 18. Rome despatches received here to-day announce that Parliamentary missions of England, France and Italy have met at Monte Citero, Italy, preparatory to a general inter-parliamentary conference in London in November. As a result of the meeting three sub-committees have been named to report at the Conference upon the problems of supplying and distributing coal and corn for the Allies, and also to discuss the best means of coping with the submarine campaign in the Northern Seas, and the Mediterranean.

RIOTING BY SCHOOL CHILDREN.

NEW YORK, Oct. 18. Rioting by school children in protest against the Gary system of instruction in some of the city schools became so serious this afternoon that reserves were summoned from police stations and fifty branch detective bureaus. Ten boys and one man were arrested in the forenoon, during which children armed with stones and clubs and bottles battled with the police and smashed windows at a number of schools in Harlem and Bronx. The man arrested, the police announced, denounced the Gary system and urged the boys on to further disturbances. This is the third day of the demonstrations against the Gary system, which is approved by Mayor Mitchell and is opposed in the local political campaign by John F. Hyland, candidate for Mayor.

DUFFETT-DOWNTON.
St. Thomas's Church was the scene of a quiet wedding at 5 p.m. Wednesday when Miss Annie Duffett, recently of the nursing staff at the Sanatorium, Topsall Road, and Mr. Wm. Downton, of Mr. A. G. Carnell's employ were united in the sacred bonds of matrimony. The ceremony was performed by the Rector, Rev. Dr. Jones, in the presence of a large number of friends. The bride wore a traveling costume of navy blue and white picture hat. The bridesmaids were Miss Nellie Atwell, nurse at the sanatorium, and Miss Clara Downton, both of whom looked most attractive in dresses of lawn. Capt. Ford Winsor, of the Central Fire Department, performed the duties of father-giver, while the groom was ably supported by his brother Sandy. After the ceremony the bridal party drove to the groom's future residence Fleming Street, where a reception was held, and the happy couple received the congratulations of their friends. After supper, which was a pleasing one, an enjoyable evening of music and dancing was spent. Mrs. Downton received a large number of valuable presents.
The Telegram extends congratulations and wishes the bride and groom many years of happiness.

What Happened in Topsail?

About September last year a city Commission Merchant had a chat with our President in Topsail, and it terminated with a small "try-out" investment of $115. That little amount grew to the present value of $300, and pays him $3.00 every month.

A young railroad man—a friend of ours—invested $555.00 three years ago. He has since sold $900 worth, and what he holds is worth $1,000, while the monthly earnings are $20.

That's peculiar arithmetic, we know, but ask us to SHOW YOU and PROVE IT TO YOU.

FACTS silence the world, and we have the FACTS.

Prisoners of War in Germany.

The following regulations, governing the regulating and despatch of parcels and money to Prisoners of War in Germany, are published for the information of the public. The Newfoundland War Contingent Association is appointed by the Central Prisoners of War Committee to handle all matters pertaining to the forwarding of parcels and money to Newfoundland P. of W. in Germany.

The N. W. C. A. forward a regular supply from London to Germany as follows:—

- (a) Food. Three parcels per man per fortnight containing such things as tinned beef, tinned salmon, biscuits, milk, sugar, margarine, dripping, baked beans, carbolic soap, chocolate, cigarettes, tobacco, and a few toilet necessities.
- (b) Clothing. The following outfit is sent periodically to N. C. O's and men in Germany by the Pay and Record Office: 1 great coat, 1 jacket, 1 pair trousers, 1 cap (the foregoing is a special uniform for P. of W.), 1 pair of drawers (woollen), 1 undervest (woollen), 2 towels, 3 handkerchiefs, 1 pr. boots.

(c) Money. It is inadvisable to send money, unless P. of W. ask for it. The amount which may be sent is Two Shillings per week for any one man. The Army Council have instructed the Central P. of W. Committee to the effect that they may not accept gifts of foodstuffs or clothing from members of the public, whether for despatch to a particular P. of W. or as a contribution to the general stock of the Association. This instruction has arisen through an arrangement with the German Authorities that all parcels forwarded should be packed and forwarded by the association.

Relatives may rest assured that everything possible is being done in London for the comfort and welfare of Prisoners of War in Germany.
