STEWART'S Home Made Bread,
THE BREAD MY DADDY LIKES.

Daddy is evidently not one of those back number lords of creation who believes that woman's place is in the home—and only there. His taste in a wife is an up-to-date woman who will prove herself a real companion. He knows that if she is a slave to her kitchen she can't enjoy the poise or have the interest in world affairs that a little extra leisure would make possible; and so he is pleased to eat MRS. STEWART'S HOME MADE BREAD—the loaf with the home made flavor.

The smiling, well-nourished kiddie doesn't look as though suffering because mother is progressive enough to buy good bread made by a bread specialist, instead of wearing out her life in the kitchen.

CHAPTER XVII.
LOVE AND A TITLE.

"And pa" groaned Maud, wringing her hands; "and pa talking to him about pictures, and being his friend, in that horrid, awful way, only a few minutes ago! Oh, ma, I shall die with shame and vexation!"

"So shall I, I'm sure," muttered Georgina, "and to think we made so much of that temporary Mr. Fitzgibbon—though he is a viscount!"

"What's a viscount to a marquis—a real one!" said Mrs. Lambton.

"And—Maud, Georgina—how can you sit there, and let her lordship stand!" she cried.

The two girls jumped as if their chairs had suddenly bitten them, and each dragged a chair toward Jeanne, who stood with folded hands and downcast face, in all her bridal finery. "Here's a chair, Jeanne—my lady!" said both in a voice.

Jeanne started and looked around—the title was so strange and improbable.

"Oh, don't!" she cried, reproachfully. "Why do you all look at me so, and stand away from me? Have I done anything wrong? Don't look at me so, Aunt Jane."

And with the first tears she had shed on her marriage day, Jeanne threw herself at Aunt Jane's feet.

"There—there!" said the old lady, waiving from her trance, and crying, too. "Don't, Jeanne—don't! There's nothing to cry about, though you have frightened the hearts out of our bodies. Let me look at you, child."

And she took Jeanne's face in her hands.

"Yes, it is my Jeanne still, though she's a marchioness. But why did you keep it so secret?"

Jeanne looked up eagerly.

"I—I did not know it," she said, then faltered.

"Let any one could see it isn't her fault—her lordship's fault, I mean," says Mrs. Lambton; "she was so surprised as any of us, weren't you, Jeanne—my lady, I mean? And to think that there's a real marquis downstairs, waiting to carry her off! Oh, dear! my poor head! And Lambton will be so angry with us all! I'll never forgive myself for making so free and easy with a marquis!"

"And the Marquis of Ferndale, too!" murmured Maud, in an awed whisper—for she had heard some of the stories of his power and greatness; "the Marquis of Ferndale! Oh, Jeanne, what a lucky girl you are!"

Jeanne started and looked around with a sudden flush, and the old light of frank pride in her eyes.

"Lucky!" she said; "yes, I am lucky, because I am happy—because he loves me—not because he is the marquis. Why do you all look so, and talk so strangely?" she said, standing in the middle of the room with questioning eyes and parted lips. "Shall I be any the happier for being a marchioness? What difference will it make? Do you think I care? No! I wish—yes, I wish that he was only Vernon Vane!"

And the tears sprang to her eyes.

"My dear Jeanne," muttered Maud, reproachfully. "It—it sounds wicked! To wish yourself plain Mrs. Vane, instead of a marchioness! Oh, ma!"

"Jeanne is quite right," said Aunt Jane, drying her eyes. "I know what she means! Don't cry, Jeanne! It will all come right! It is plain that Vane loves you, or why should he have done this? But—but I'm all dazed, and all your boxes are labeled 'Mrs. Vernon Vane,' too."

"And things all marked 'J. V.!' said Mrs. Lambton, with a despairing sigh. "What shall we do?"

Before this momentous problem received solution there came a hammering at the door, and shouts of—

"Jeanne! 'Aunt,' 'Jeanne.'"

Jeanne flies to the door. At least there is no one who will not "my lady" her and stand aloof.

"Hal!" she cries, and the next moment hugs him in her lace and satin. "Oh, Hal!"

"All right, Jeanne!" he says, brightly. "Don't cry, Jeanne! It's all right. We're a bit knocked over at first, of course, and you're upset; but Vane's none the worse for being a marquis, you know. Vane's a brick—a regular brick!"

"Hal!" cries Jeanne, holding him from her and then kissing him vigorously; "I love you! Tell them that again!"

"All right," repeats Hal, patting her encouragingly on the back. "We'll talk it over when you come back—before then, for Vane has asked me to go down to Castle Ferndale; and, I say, that's where you're going to spend the honeymoon—not abroad. And, aunt, why don't you get those false-lashes off her, and some decent togs on! Vane will be wanting to start directly, and she can't go looking like a figure of a Twelfth Day cake, you know!"

The boy's breezy voice and sound common sense rouses them all from their stupor. Pushing him, with a kiss, out of the room, Jeanne slips off her veil, and her bewildered attendants proceed to attire her in her traveling costume.

CHAPTER XVIII.
"BETTER A PEASANT THAN A PEER."

When Jeanne came down, the carriage which was to bear her away from Newton Regis was at the door, and Vane was waiting for her, dressed in a loose traveling suit, and surrounded by Uncle John and Mr. Lambton and Bell, while Hal was rapidly and apparently superintending the placing of the luggage. To see the reverential airs with which Mr. Lambton watched Vane—the marquis—how he listened to every word he said from the most profound eagerness, was amusing. And when Jeanne appeared, the worthy gentleman came forward, bowing and smiling very much like his own butler.

But Jeanne had no eyes just then for any one but her own people, and it was not until Vane glanced at his watch, and Hal declared stoutly that they couldn't possibly catch the train, that she could tear herself from the embrace of the only mother she had known.

"Are you sure your lordship hasn't any commands for me?" reiterated Mr. Lambton for the hundredth time. "If there is anything I can do, any of us can do, please remember that we shall be only too humbly delighted to be of service, James—to the coachman—'be very careful, be extremely careful, sir, how you drive. My lord, he's a very steady man, and you can rely upon him.' Good-by, your ladyship."

"Good-by, Jeanne!" exclaimed Hal, poking his head through the window, at the risk of being run over. "Good-by, Jean! Good-by!" and the blue eyes suddenly dimmed with tears, as Jeanne reluctantly loosened his chubby hand.

"Good-by, Hal!" cried Vane, leaning forward. "It's not for long, remember. I'll take care of her. Good-by!"

"Good-by, Vernon!" shouted Hal, who not once had called him "my lord."

Jeanne kept her head out of the window until the excited group was lost sight of, then Vane put his arm around her and drew her toward him.

"Well, darling," he said, "and now have you quite forgiven me, or not?"

"Forgiven you?" said Jeanne, softly; "for what?" and she looked up shyly.

"For my deception," he said, with a questioning smile.

Jeanne dropped her face upon his breast.

"Why did you do it?" she asked, in a low voice.

"I'll have to tell you that?" he answered, and Jeanne, quick to note the slightest inflection of his voice, remarked the sudden, half-pained gravity.

"Do not tell me," she says, quickly. "Oh, Hal!"

"Yes," he says, "I must. From this moment there must be no concealment, not the shadow of a shadow between us, my darling; and I must tell you. But weren't you surprised, Jeanne?"

This question made Jeanne's heart leap.

Now is the time for her confession; now is the time to tell him of the breakdown on the Newton road, and Lady Lucette's visit; now is the time to whisper meekly, confidingly of her doubts and fears, which led her to keep from him the discovery of his secret. Why doesn't she speak? Why doesn't she say: "I knew it, Vernon, last night; I knew it was the Marquis of Ferndale whom I married this morning!"

But Jeanne is silent. Jeanne, the proudly candid, and fearlessly frank, dreads the confession.

So precious is the touch of his hand, so sweet are his loving words and voice, that she dares not risk losing them. So Jeanne, silent, is silent.

He waits a moment, then laughs softly.

"Of course you were, how could you be otherwise? It was my fault; I ought to have taken Bell into my confidence when I gave him the license, but I clung to my secret as long as I could—I preferred being Vernon Vane till the last moment; and no wonder. Was it not Vernon Vane you loved, and not the Marquis of Ferndale?"

Jeanne opens her lips to rush upon her confession; but he goes on, and his next words decide her forever.

"Yes, Jeanne, it was cruel. It was unkind to keep you in the dark, and let them spring a mine upon you at the last moment, and before them all. But, Jeanne, listen, and confess that I have some excuse."

He pauses a moment, and gently caresses her hand, and, lover-like, lets his eyes wander over her graceful form longingly.

"Jeanne," he says, "it is too true, unfortunately—I am the Marquis of Ferndale."

"Unfortunately?" murmurs Jeanne. He nods, and musically divides the slim fingers and entwines them in his own.

"Unfortunately," he repeats. "Jeanne, it is better for a man who has an honest heart to be born peasant than peer—better to be a hewer of wood and drawer of water than to wear a coronet and a peer's robes. Your peasant gets the truth sometimes, and wins true friends and true love; but your lord, in his crimson and his ermine, seldom or never. Some live and thrive in an atmosphere of lying adulation and flattering falsehood; but, thank heaven, there was enough honesty and truth in me to make the life I led unbearable. Jeanne, but if you I should have been a misanthrope, a hater of my kind, a disbeliever in the honesty of men, and the purity of women—but for you, my sweet rescuing angel—my wife!"

His wife! For the first time the words fall on Jeanne's ears, and make her heart beat with a thrill, half of pleasure, half of pain. Like an innocent child—for no child could be more ignorant of the full significance of the word than Jeanne—Jeanne, who has been brought up like a nun in a convent, spotless and unconscious of all the deep mysteries of life, she nestled close as if for protection from her own love.

"Listen," he says, as he presses her closer to him. "I was younger than you were when I first saw you, when they came and told me that the grim old man, my father, was dead, and that I was the Marquis of Ferndale. Up to that hour I had only a vague idea of the meaning and significance of my rank and power. Suddenly I realized that I was the possessor of one of the oldest and highest titles in the land, that I was the lord of thousands of acres, which I had never seen or heard of, of castles and houses into which I had never set foot, of wealth which went beyond the dreams of avarice. Pleasure, they told me, was henceforth to be my handmaid; the world was at my feet. So I found it. I tried pleasure; I launched myself upon the charm of life, and went madly upon my voyage, and it led me—where? To Newton Regis, Jeanne, disgusted with pleasure which I had found bitter as Dead Sea fruit, weary of the world which had proved false, and distrustful of every soul that approached me. I loathed my title; 'my lord' sounded in my ears as a term of reproach—as the preliminary to some falsehood. Friendship I have tried to the balance and found wanting, save in one instance. It was not the man they cared for, but the marquis. But all this I could have borne with an easy contempt for myself and my kind—but—but, Jeanne, ah, Jeanne! how can I tell you, you who have had no lover but me, save poor Bell—poor Bell!"

NEW LAMP BURNS 94 PER CENT. AIR. Beats Electric or Gas.

A new oil lamp that gives an amazingly brilliant, soft, white light, even better than gas or electricity, has been tested by the U. S. Government and 35 leading universities and found to be superior to 10 ordinary oil lamps. It burns without odor, smoke or noise—no pumping up, is simple, clean, safe. Burns 94% air and 6% common kerosene (coal-oil).

The inventor, T. W. Johnson, 246 Craig St., West, Montreal, is offering to send a lamp on 10 days' FREE trial or even to give one FREE to the first user in each locality who will help him introduce it. Write him today for full particulars. Also ask him to explain how you can get the agency, and without experience or money make $250 to $500 per month.

Jeanne blushes and clings closer.

"How can I tell you," he goes on; "you who have brought me a heart so fresh and unstained, of this dark, mean passage in my history? Jeanne, I tried to love—"

Jeanne starts, and her face pales.

My lord marquis, if you were a wise man you would have stopped short ere that word was said. With all your knowledge of the human heart you have failed to learn that where the passion of love is, there also lurks, dormant and asleep, maybe, the dread demon jealousy.

Slices of lemon should be served with pork pie. The well ventilated house is the easiest to heat. Steaming vegetables is preferable to boiling them. Cereals are most important for the winter breakfast. Flavor cream minis with a little salt, vanilla and mnt. Reshape woolen vests and sweaters frequently while drying. A pinch of powdered sage leaves gives a relish to cold pork. Thick rice soup is excellent flavored with onions and tomatoes. Stoned and chopped dates give a nutty taste to oatmeal cookies. Let the gas oven stand open for a few minutes after being used. Cream of peanut butter soup is delicious served with hot toast. Game should be cooked longer in proportion to its weight than poultry. Meat or fish to be used in salads should be cut in small cubes or shredded. Green vegetables will keep their color if boiled with the lid of the pot off.

DISCUSSING GENERAL ELECTION IN BRITAIN.
LONDON, Jan. 26. Political gossip to-night makes play with evidence from official sources of a general election during the approaching session. The Government is said to have ordered further drastic revision of finance estimates with a view to presenting a popular election budget. Great organizing and propaganda activity is discernible at all party headquarters.

Million Dollar Co. Will Market Tanlac Throughout World

Business Has Grown From Small Beginning Six Years Ago Until Now It Is One of the Largest in the World With Big Foreign Demand.

By HARRISON VAUGHN.

ATLANTA, GA., January 26.—Announcement has been made here of the organization of the International Proprietaries, Inc. to take over the business heretofore conducted by G. F. Willis, International Distributor of Tanlac, and the Willis-McDuffie Company, Eastern Distributors, of this city.

The new company has a paid-in capital of One Million Dollars and is one of the largest proprietary medicine concerns in the world. The business of the corporation will be conducted by the present management, which owns the entire capital stock. It is understood that no part of the stock will be offered to the public.

The officers of the company are G. F. Willis, President; P. C. McDuffie, Vice-President; M. A. Cromley, Treasurer; J. C. Goodson, Secretary.

Mr. Willis is a prominent Atlanta business man and is a well-known figure in the drug and advertising field in both the United States and Canada. Under the direction of Mr. Willis, the founder of the business, it has attained its present position in the very front rank of the country's proprietary medicine industries.

Mr. McDuffie, who has been a big factor with Mr. Willis in building up the business in the past five years, is a leading Atlanta citizen and business man and is widely known to the drug trade throughout the country.

The new company, which is the logical outcome of the rapid growth and expansion of the business, will market a number of internationally advertised and internationally sold proprietary and pharmaceutical products, including Tonics, Aspirin Tablets, Cold Specifics, Laxative Tablets, etc.

SALE UNPRECEDENTED.
Tanlac, their principal product, is probably the most extensively advertised and the most largely sold proprietary medicine of its kind in the world, approximately 20,000,000 bottles having been sold since its introduction six years ago.

An instance of the rapid growth and development of the business with Atlanta as principal headquarters is the statement that its products are now advertised in more than seven thousand newspapers in the United States and Canada, and that the advertising appropriation for this year will be in excess of One Million Dollars.

The success and permanency of the business is assured from the fact that it has shown a rapid and substantial increase each year since its organization, and the further fact that the business for the year just past shows an increase of approximately 80 per cent over the preceding year.

To supply the demand for Tanlac it has been necessary to erect two great modern Laboratories—one at Dayton, Ohio, and the other at Walkerville, Canada. These Laboratories represent the latest word in modern construction and laboratory equipment. The two plants have a combined floor space of approximately 70,000 square feet, with a combined daily capacity of 60,000 bottles.

Tanlac, which is a medicine of recognized therapeutic value and unquestioned merit, is now sold in practically every city, town and hamlet throughout the United States and Canada. In fact, it is a household word throughout America.

The new company will not only undertake the further expansion of the business in foreign countries, where there is a steadily increasing demand, but contemplates acquiring at an early date additional manufacturing facilities in this country and Canada. The company is doing an annual business of from $5,000,000 to $8,000,000 and has a pay-roll of approximately $250,000. The executives and sales offices occupy more than an entire floor of the National Bank Building in this city.

The Irish Question.

Editor Evening Telegram

Dear Sir,—Only a few years ago the world used to read in the newspapers of Judge after Judge in Ireland being presented with a pair of white gloves on the occasion of his holding assize in Irish Counties.—Again and again this happened in Ireland. The time honoured little ceremony meant that there were no criminal cases to be heard. Elsewhere we rarely read of such an occurrence. But it was common in Ireland in the past. Now what a contrast the above facts are to garulous and libellous statements of Lloyd George's speech at the London Mansion House, wherein he said "He had murdered by the throat. (The murder gangs were on the run). These statements meant to imply, according to the papers which give the public the words of Lloyd George, that the Irish Republican Army is a huge murder society. These statements of the Prime Minister do not square with the record of the Irish Republican Army during the months of May, June, July and August last. We learn that during these four months there were captured in fight 293 British troops and police. We will give in detail the results of the captures for August as a sample of all four months, showing that the appellation of a murder gang should not be applied to the Irish Republican Army.

One policeman captured in Clogher, County Tyrone, disarmed and released. Occurred August 3rd, reported in press August 5th.

Five policemen captured at Kildorrery, County Cork, disarmed and released. Occurred August 6th, reported in press August 9th.

Three policemen captured at Gortarr, County Donegal, disarmed and released. Occurred August 6th, reported in press August 9th.

Five constables, (sentries) captured at Maryborough, Queen's County, disarmed and released. Occurred August 15th, reported in press August 17th.

Ten soldiers captured at Ballyrouney, County Cork, disarmed and released. Occurred August 18th, reported in press August 20th.

Just Folks

Back then we set the day apart For special service of the heart; The most important job we had Was making other people glad. An' showin' 'em by word an' deed That spite o' difference of creed, Or rank or place or wealth or fame, They had our friendship 'just the same;

An' just to make our meaning clear We wished 'em all a glad New Year.

No distance was too far to go Along the drifted lanes o' snow To greet an' old friend, tried an' true An' all the old time joys renew; We'd sip their dandelion wine An' smack our lips an' call it fine, An' eat at every spot we made An' then we'd wish 'em everything Of joy a glad New Year could bring.

I liked the old style New Year's day An' wish it hadn't passed away, whole! No printed cards can take the place Of friendly hand an' smilin' face Or kindly glasses raised to clink. A pledge o' friendship as men drink Each other's health an' softly tell 'em They hope the Year will treat 'em well.

Nothing has equalled, after all, That good old fashioned New Year's call.

disarmed and released. Occurred August 18th, reported in press August 21st.

Ballymahon, County Longford, barracks taken, eleven policemen captured, disarmed and released. Occurred August 19th, reported in press August 21st.

One policeman captured at Trale, County Kerry, disarmed and released. Occurred August 21st, reported in press August 24th.

Officer and soldier captured at Garrybrittas, County Waterford, disarmed and released. Occurred August 22nd, reported in press August 24th.

Six soldiers captured at Ballyrory, County Mayo, disarmed and released. Occurred August 22nd, reported in press August 24th.

Nine soldiers captured at Cove, County Cork, disarmed and released. Occurred August 25th, reported in press August 26th.

Nine policemen captured at Ballycastle, County Antrim, disarmed and released. Occurred August 29th, reported in press August 31st.

Three soldiers captured at Limerick City, disarmed and released. Occurred August 30th, reported in press Sept. 1st.

It will be seen after reading the above that most of those captured in spite of the utmost provocation given for many years by them, were not injured. They were well treated with the full courtesy due to prisoners of war, and were released as speedily as possible, the vast majority of them not being held for more than a few hours. Surely no one will say after reading the above that the conduct of the Irish Republican Army was that of a murder gang. But here is a specimen of a murder gang's methods, for it is not the men but their masters who are chiefly to blame. "Countless indiscriminate raids and arrests in the darkness of night, prolonged imprisonment without trial; savage sentences from tribunals that command and deserve no confidence; the burning of houses, town halls, factories, creameries and crops; the destruction of industries, to pave the way for want and famine, by men maddened with plundered drink and bent on loot; the flogging and massacre of civilians, all perpetrated by the forces of the Crown who have established a reign of frightfulness, which for murdering the innocent and destroying their property has a parallel only in the horrors of Turkish atrocities, or in the outrages attributed to the Red Army of Bolshevik Russia."

This is the work of the real murder gang, the immediate withdrawal of which, without doubt, would restore Ireland to her former state, when she was known as crimeless Ireland.

Thanking you in anticipation for the use of your space.

Yours very truly,

Fish Price

Guantees.

A correspondent in yesterday's Telegram very pertinently directs attention to a proposal emanating apparently from the Fish Exporters' Association, that if the members of that body would consent to the enforcement of the Export Fish Regulations, with regard to shipments to Portugal, they would first of all have to ask or request a quid pro quo that a guarantee be given that prices in Portugal be maintained at the present rate as per regulations. Now it is perfectly obvious that there is no way in which to apply pressure to Portuguese—or any other—buyers in order that a specific price may be paid by them, if they are not so inclined to pay. The Fish Export Regulations themselves proved fallacious on that point, and to attempt to again enforce them in toto can but have the same disastrous ending as the initial effort. It is idle to argue that Portugal can be compelled to buy our fish at a price which the consumers of that country cannot afford to pay. By insisting upon such terms of sale, exporters are but antagonising and driving away from the fish trade a people, who, to quote a well known authority "has done more for the trade of Newfoundland in the past ten years than Great Britain has done in the past one hundred." Surely then we will not be so silly as to kill the goose which lays the golden egg, in forcing upon such good friends and customers as the above-quoted phrase implies a trade ultimatum.

But there is another phase to this guarantee request, and since it is perfectly clear that it will not be obtained from the Portuguese fish buyers, nor yet from any individual representative of the Newfoundland Government in his own personal undertaking, the sole remaining inference is that the Revenue of Newfoundland will, in the eventuality of a loss on sales being made, through the absolute enforcement of the Regulations, be drawn upon to make good such losses as are incurred. "It is an endeavor," comments our correspondent, Finance, "by exporters to throw their losses on exported fish on the Government of this Colony—a guarantee that the Colony will pay the losses." Such losses can only be paid out of the Treasury and through the extra taxing of the whole population. To again take the liberty of quoting from the letter referred to, and we would ask readers to carefully note the words, as they apply to the proposed guarantee, the writer makes this incontrovertible statement: "It is now quite clear that our already high rate of taxation upon imports will have to be increased; and if to this is to be added the losses of exporters, the rate of taxation the consumers will have to pay will be enormous." Bright prospects for the future indeed with the present burden of taxation so heavily bestowed, with production away behind, and employment in general diminished. How can additional revenue be raised under existing circumstances, and how can more taxation be sweated out of a people paying at the moment tariff rates that bear them down grievously. Should the suggested guarantee mean a pledge on the financial resources of Newfoundland, then it is up to one and all to protest and to combat such an outrageous proceeding, and to refuse to allow such a proposal to be entertained for a moment.

An Explanation.

The management of the Evening Herald requests us to publish the following:—
"On December 17th last the Herald reported a meeting of the Codfish Exporters' Association, held the previous day by the Board of Trade rooms, at which the Prime Minister spoke. The report in question credited the Prime Minister with saying that 'Mr. Hawes was apparently the chief stumbling block, the Consorzio being unwilling to do business with that gentleman.' At the time of making this publication the Herald pointed out that they could not guarantee the correctness of the report of the meeting, but that they gave it as they heard it. Subsequently, in a letter to the city papers, the Prime Minister denied using the expressions attributed to him, and explained that he had made no such statement, but that on the contrary, from his observation, the relations between the Consorzio and Mr. Hawes were of a very friendly nature. Mr. Hawes takes the position that the statement appearing in the Herald, and attributed to the Prime Minister, is detrimental to his interests and to those of the business of Hawes & Co., and he asks us to retract the statement. This retraction the Herald cheerfully hereby makes, and at the same time begs to express its extreme regret that any publication made by it should be deemed to injuriously affect Mr. Hawes or his business."

BISHOPS have reduced all their Men's Shirts. Two Dollar and Forty Shirts are now One Dollar and Ninety-two. Three Dollar Shirts now Two Dollars. Five Dollar and Eighty Shirts are Four Dollars. Thirteen Dollar and Eighty Shirts have been reduced to Nine Thirty. This news has spread so quickly that many lines have already been sold, some men buying enough to supply them for the whole year.

Unique Trophy for Museum.

By the last Sachem Mr. H. F. Shortis of the Museum received the following letter from (Rev.) Lt.-Col. Nangle:—
Nfld. Contingent,
88 Victoria St.,
London, S.W. 1,
6th Jan., 1921.
Dear Mr. Shortis—Fam sending you by the first available opportunity, most likely by the "Sachem," a German Anti-Tank Rifle for the Museum. I think it will put you in mind of the "Long Tom," as used by the old-time sealers. With half a dozen fingers, and a good big slug, I think it will prove very formidable weapons. With regards and Season's Greetings.
Yours faithfully,
T. NANGLE, Lt.-Col., D.G.R. & E., Newfoundland Contingent.

A Telegram representative had the pleasure of viewing the trophy, and it is indeed a formidable weapon—massive and strongly manufactured. Father Nangle has had a beautiful copper plate placed on the stock with the following inscription:—
German Anti-Tank Rifle.
Presented to Museum
by
Lt.-Col. T. Nangle, C.F.

The Rifle is six feet long, and far exceeds the old sealing guns in weight. We are informed that when in use it is rested on a tripod. Certainly it is too heavy for a man to carry any distance. We don't think it is as long as the famous sealing gun carried by Jack Shagruge, who was noted in the old days as being the best shot on the ice-fields. It is his early days went to the ice with Capt. Glendon in the brigantine "Sonora," and for thirty years or more with Captains William and Arthur Jackson. He was highly thought of by those famous masters, in fact, they would not sail without him. He was looked upon as one of the hardest and most agile men in the country, as well as a crack shot. After spending a day "swatching" seals with his seven-foot gun his shoulder would be black and blue with the "ticks" of the weapon, but Jack would never give up, but get his comrades to rub his shoulder with seal fat, and go to it again.
The trophy forwarded by Father Nangle is a very interesting addition to those war relics already on exhibition at the Museum, and will doubtless attract considerable attention from visitors.

Personal.

Brick's Tasteless makes you see. For sale at STAFFORD'S. Price $1.20; postage 20c. extra. Jan. 27.

The Fish Situation.

The Fish Exporters interested in the shipment of fish to Portugal, met this morning to further discuss condition of sales of fish to that market. A lengthy cable to the Government from Mr. Coaker was debated, and it was decided to send a further communication to him asking for more particulars about the sales he proposes to make. A Royal Gazette Extraordinary was issued yesterday evening, making an amendment of regulations in respect of the Exportation of Codfish to Portugal. The maximum quantity of salt codfish which may be sold for, or exported to Portugal between the 25th day of January and the 7th day of February, 1921 inclusive, shall be one hundred qtls."

It May Be Case.

It is reported that work on a large scale will be started shortly at the Island. As present the Dominion I. & S. Co. have about 400 men employed. There is also 150 men working with the Nova Scotia work. Expected to have the mines operating in full swing about the middle of February. It is said that the managers of the companies have been invited to the city for a conference with the Prime Minister, Messrs. Proudfoot and McLean arrived from the Island yesterday and are staying at the Crosbie. From the reported negotiations it is thought that they could not guarantee the correctness of the report of the meeting, but that they gave it as they heard it. Subsequently, in a letter to the city papers, the Prime Minister denied using the expressions attributed to him, and explained that he had made no such statement, but that on the contrary, from his observation, the relations between the Consorzio and Mr. Hawes were of a very friendly nature. Mr. Hawes takes the position that the statement appearing in the Herald, and attributed to the Prime Minister, is detrimental to his interests and to those of the business of Hawes & Co., and he asks us to retract the statement. This retraction the Herald cheerfully hereby makes, and at the same time begs to express its extreme regret that any publication made by it should be deemed to injuriously affect Mr. Hawes or his business."

THURSDAY, Jan. 27.
Viva don's Talcum are esteemed as one of the very finest Talcum manufactured, and Miss Talcum has enjoyed ever since its first importation into this country, a considerable measure of popularity, and Violet, is scarcely less well known or well liked. We have more lately added to the list another of Messrs. Vivandou's products—Neglige Talcum. This latter named Talcum is specially perfumed with an oriental odor—resembling the famous French Plovanse perfume—and is likely we think to become as great a favorite as its predecessors. Price (May and July) 50 cents (Neglige) 60 cents a tin.

MINOR CASES DEALT WITH.
A well known Sabagan was charged with a breach of the street lighting Regulations. Mr. Fox appeared for the defendant, who pleaded not guilty. Defendant admitted driving down right hand side of Water Street but it was 3 o'clock in the morning and a snow storm was raging at the time. The left hand side of the street was blocked up by snow thrown there by the sweeper. The Judge said the breach was technical one and that there were extenuating circumstances. Defendant was ordered to pay costs.
Three boys were charged with coasting over Cookstown Road and Carter's Hill. Constable Pitcher stated that a complaint was made to him by a lady concerning sliding in this locality and he arrested these boys whom he found there. They were fined 5 cents each.
A man in for safe keeping was sent home to Bonavista Bay by this morning's train.

The Story of Lord Morris.

Lord Morris has, it is said, given up his native Colony, Newfoundland, for good. He is frequently encountered in the West End, a portly figure in a frock coat and a top hat with a heavy white moustache. He sometimes goes to a debate in the House of Lords, but is frequently seen at Mayfair drawing-rooms or city meetings.

A correspondent who recalls Lord Morris's first visit to London some thing less than a quarter of a century ago, says: For half an hour we stood opposite Morley's Hotel in the Strand watching the crowds, he repeatedly murmuring, with that curious Irish-Newfoundland brogue which has never quite left him, "Wonderful! 'Tis he we want to the first prize!" He replied: "Why, I've stood here half an hour and seen more people pass than there are in the whole of Newfoundland, and yet it's only a drop in the bucket of your population."

Harbor Grace Notes.

Our town has again been called to mourn the loss of one of the finest of its manhood, in the person of Mr. Samuel L. Parmenter, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Parmenter of the West-end, who, as has already been announced, succumbed to the severe injuries received as a result of the accident which occurred, while working for the Terra Nova Sulphite Co., at Govtortown, on Wednesday last, 19th inst. Mr. Parmenter spent a number of years in the U.S.A., and when the Newfoundland Shipbuilding Co. was in full home and took a position with the capacity of Civil Engineer out of business. Some little time after he started work again with the Terra Nova Sulphite Co. at the above named place, where, sorry to say, his time on earth was cut short right in the bloom of manhood, just when life appeared to offer of its best, at the early age of 32 years. He was of a very quiet and unassuming demeanor, and a splendid type of physical strength, and was held in high esteem by his fellow townsmen. He leaves behind to mourn his early demise, a wife (nee Miss Jane Couder, formerly Teacher of the Junior departments of the High School here), three young children, the oldest being only four years of age, a mother and father and five brothers, two of whom reside here, William, Harry, and who at the present time is very ill at home, and three in the U.S.A. and Canada, John, James and Albert. It will be remembered that another brother, George, who while on his way to join the R.A.M.C., for service during the world war, was one of the victims of the S.S. Florizel disaster, not quite three years ago. The funeral, which was very representative, took place yesterday (Monday) afternoon, the Rev. W. E. R. Cracknell performing the last rites, and a cortege was one of the largest witnessed here for some time, the Mascolo and Sons of England Societies (of which deceased was a member) being in attendance. Inerment took place at the Church of St. Andrew Cemetery. To the sorrow stricken family the heartfelt sympathy of the community is extended.

Sugar Regulations.

Clamped Down.
PRICE REMAINS THE SAME.
Yesterday afternoon a meeting of the Food Control Board and Sugar Importers was held in the office of the Prime Minister, who presided. The object of the meeting was to discuss the sugar situation, and in particular to put the Government's position before the importers. Briefly it is this: The Food Control Board through an error of judgment, has lost about $120,000 through the handling of sugar and this can only be made up in placing an extra tax or importing 2500 barrels or more at the present market price of 4 1/2 cents. In discussing the situation the Prime Minister admitted that general imports this year would be short of last year which means a big shortage in the revenue from this source. At the present time the Food Control Board have 2000 barrels of sugar in the city and 4000 barrels not yet arrived, but all purchases of sugar in prior to a discussion of the matter it was unanimously decided that the best course was for the Food Control Board to continue its work. This means that control will not be lifted till some time in June next. It is heard only to be added that there were no control, sugar would be selling here to-day at ten cents a pound instead of 27 cents. Another serious aspect of the situation is the unfair competition which local manufacturers are put to in turning out goods in order to compete with foreign manufacturers, who have the advantage of purchasing sugar at 10 cents. The Government should arrange a rebate and help thereby to keep local industries going and at the same time reduce the price in order to help in consuming quickly the large quantity yet to be disposed of.

Approves Organization.

Dear Sir— I have read with much interest your editorial of the 20th inst. on "The value of organization," and I have wondered since doing so, what a general expression of public opinion would be, and support your suggestion of it would be, that many of our readers, who do not follow your views, points that you so forcibly expressed, made light of your article, and there are others who have been speaking along those lines, who take the opposite view, and think it was one of the best that has appeared in our local papers, and which is in accord with the modern line of thinking. Personally I would very much like to see more of such matter in our local press, and I hope you will refer to it as a feature in the major issues, as either in the major issues, or in the power to stifle the expression of those, who if they were free from their shackles, would express them.

Women's Patriotic Association.

Lady Harris Resigns Presidency. The adjourned 5th annual meeting of the Women's Patriotic Association was held in Grenfell Hall yesterday afternoon, Jan. 26th, at 2.30 o'clock. Owing to the inability of Lady Harris, the President, to attend, the late Vice President, Lady Horwood, presided. Lady Horwood opened the meeting by reading an address from Lady Harris, in which she expressed regret at being obliged to resign the Presidency of the W.P.A. on account of her health, and announced the intention of the W.P.A. to dissolve, and the formation, in the near future of a new organization to carry on the work of Child Welfare. Lady Harris wrote as follows: "LADY HARRIS'S ADDRESS. "I very much regret to have to resign the Presidency of the Women's Patriotic Association. Unfortunately I cannot give it the energy and impetus that I feel I ought as President and it is a real sorrow to me to have to stand by and do so little for an Association that I am so deeply interested in, and therefore I feel that my right action is to give it up. Before doing this I should like to say that we, many of us, feel the time has come when in order to carry on efficiently the work of Child Welfare to which we are committed, we require a fresh organization with a more appropriate name. I believe there are many members who think with me in this matter and I hope that those who perhaps have not given the matter much thought will, on consideration, agree with our proposal. The Women's Patriotic Association with all its many appendages was created for war time and when fighting was over it would perhaps have been wiser to leave it resting on those laurels which it had so worthily earned—however, it was willed otherwise. Many of us feel that the effort to continue its existence has not been altogether a success and that we may with advantage define our new activities in a manner which better expresses their purpose and appeals to the people of St. John's. "Child Welfare Association" seems a better and more suitable title for the work now being done. "C.W.A." instead of "W.P.A."—the W.P.A. now conveys nothing except that we are patriotic, and I hope that we are all that without advertisement. I have received the resignations of the greater part of the executive, and I am sorry to see the appropriateness of making a fresh start. I have satisfied myself that there will be no difficulty in winding up the obligations of the Women's Patriotic Association through the trustees under the Act passed last session, which, in any case, requires amendment. It is proposed that a new Association be incorporated under the "Companies Act" to be called "Child Welfare Association"; this proposal will be put to the meeting and if it meets with general approval it will be for a new meeting to decide upon the officials of the new Association. "To such an Association you can properly hand over by resolution the moneys collected and now in hand for Child Welfare as shown by the Treasurer's report." Lady Horwood then called upon the Hon. Secretary, Miss Mary MacKenzie, to read the report, which was followed by the Hon. Treasurer and Assistant Treasurer's statements. On motion made these reports were duly received and adopted. Miss Benedict then read a report of the Midwives' Club. The resolution with regard to the dissolution of the Women's Patriotic Association was then moved by Mrs. John Mitchell, and seconded by Mrs. MacKeen as follows: RESOLVED.— "First.—That this meeting is of opinion that as a result of the experience of the past two years it is wiser that the work of the Women's Patriotic Association as such be closed and the Association disbanded. "Secondly.—That it is desirable to hand over the work of Child Welfare and the funds in hand for prosecuting that work to a special Association, incorporated under the Companies Act, to be formed within the next two months. "Thirdly.—That this meeting approves the continuance in office of the executive committee of the Women's Patriotic Association until such time as (a) The existing Trust Act is duly amended. (b) The new Association is formed. (c) The money collected for special Child Welfare work has been disbursed or handed over to a new organization for said purposes. The meeting then adjourned. Cadets to Re-Organize.

ENTHUSIASTIC MEETING OF THE CORPS. A meeting of all branches of the Catholic Cadet Corps, held last night in the C.C.C. Hall, was attended by a large number of members and supporters. The Chairman of the General Committee, Mr. Jas. Parker, opened the meeting with a splendid address in which he asked the co-operation of all Catholic citizens, in bringing the Corps back to its former standing in the community. He particularly appealed on behalf of the Catholic boys of the city, and hoped that their parents would see fit to have them enrolled in the Brigade, where they would receive a training that would fit them for their battles in after life. Lt.-Col. C. O'N. Conroy also spoke, and made reference to the Corps of the future being made as it were a part of the home of the boy, who, by joining the Brigade, would receive a good physical and moral training which would be of such great benefit to him in after years. He strongly appealed for co-operation which would give the Corps a new lease of life. Rev. Fr. Pippy, Chaplain of the Brigade, gave a lengthy address in which he appealed to Catholic fathers and mothers to encourage their boys to join the Brigade where a good physical training would be obtained. He hoped that during the coming year the Brigade would renew its former vigor. Mr. E. J. Brophy, an old Cadet boy, who has been most energetic in Brigade work, assured the management that he was prepared to give the same support in the future as he did in the past, and he was confident that the Old Boys would be behind them in furthering the work of the Brigade. The Chairman made reference to the Annual 'At Home' which takes place next month, and hoped that the old-time spirit would be shown, and that the affair would be a big success both socially and financially. The meeting adjourned until Sunday night next at 8.30 o'clock, when it is hoped the members will be present in large numbers.

Brantford Lady Shouting Her Praises

SHE USED DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS FOR SCIATICA. Mrs. R. McIntyre who suffered from Sciatic Pains tells why she is enthusiastic over Dodd's Kidney Pills. Brantford, Jan. 16th.—(Special)—"I wish I could shout the goodness in the people's ears of dear old Dodd's Kidney Pills." These are the words of Mrs. Mary R. McIntyre, who lives at 92 Walnut St., W., this city. Mrs. McIntyre has every reason to be enthusiastic over Dodd's Kidney Pills. "In June last," she states, "I had a very bad attack of Sciatica. I could not move my leg without great pain. The doctor told me to rub it with a liniment he left. The pain got worse and I sent for another doctor. "He put needles in my leg and gave me a sleeping draught which had no effect. I kept this up for several days with great pain. Then he wanted to operate. We wanted to cut from my knee down to my ankle. "That day a friend told me to try Dodd's Kidney Pills. She had great faith in them. I took her at her word. I kept right on taking the pills. Now, I can't praise them enough. I am a well woman to-day without one ache or pain." Sciatica is caused by disordered Kidneys failing to strain the uric acid out of the blood. Dodd's Kidney Pills are the standard remedy for disordered Kidneys. $2,000 for Charity. Financial Success of "Follies." Miss Louise Orr, Miss Joan Rendell, and their associates are to be congratulated on the splendid financial success of their "Follies." That it was an artistic success we all know, but to raise $2000 by two performances is no mean accomplishment in these days, when everyone is supposed to be "hard-up." At their Cabaret production of "The Follies" a sum of about $1200 was made for the Exon Orphanage, and the realized $355 for the poor, the sick and the needy of the city. With regard to the latter a Committee has been formed, under the Chairmanship of Miss Benedict, to disburse the fund. The Committee consists of Mesdames R. A. Squires, A. MacKeen, T. J. Duley, H. Osterbridge, Scully, Miss Maggie Furlong and Miss F. Rogerson, together with Mrs. W. Martin (Salvation Army) and Mrs. Hunter (W.C.T.U.). This Committee is in touch with the doctors, clergy, druggists, and community nurses of the city, who will submit names of deserving cases which will be investigated and approved by the Committee before any relief is given. Any person may suggest a deserving case to Miss Benedict, Queen's Road.

Naval Prize Money.

Dear Sir—Will you please publish the following letter recently received by me from the Department of Naval Service, Ottawa. "Sir—With further reference to your letter of 19th October, last, I have to inform you that this department has no authority to pay prize money to members of the Newfoundland Royal Naval Reserve. If you have received War Service Gratuity from the Newfoundland Government, you should apply direct to the Registrar General of Reserve at St. John's, Newfoundland. (Signed) L. J. BEAUDEL, Chief Accountant." Last year we were given to understand that the same would be done by Newfoundland returned men as was being done by the Canadian. The Canadian Government is paying out prize money in addition to War Service Gratitudes. What does the G.W.V.A. intend to do in this matter? Thanking you for space, Mr. Editor, I am, Yours truly, JOHN ROGERS. Jan. 25, 1921.

Steamer Damages Schooner.

Yesterday afternoon after S.S. Coban had finished discharging her coal cargo, and was preparing to get away for Sydney, she came into collision with the schooner Nello T. Walters and Scarpe, doing considerable damage to the upper works and rigging of both vessels. Slight damage was also done to the coal pier of Mr. T. Bowa, where the steamer discharged.

Charity Dance Committee.

EXPRESS THANKS FOR GENEROUS PATRONAGE. The big Charity Dance organized for the purpose of raising funds to purchase coal for the city poor through the Dorcas Society and the Society of St. Vincent de Paul, was held in the C.C.C. Hall on the 18th inst. and proved to be in every way a very great success. It was attended by about 1000 people, who enjoyed the dance very much. The Committee in charge are deeply grateful to the general public for the support which was given by them. The success of the evening depended in a large measure on the efforts of the Ladies' Committee. This Committee undertook to attend to the catering and to the looking after of the tables and Bridge Party. The Ladies of this Committee have the very deepest thanks, not only of those who organized the Dance, but of all who attended it. It is difficult to express how greatly their efforts have been appreciated, and in what great measure the success of the Dance was due to them. Some members of the Committee called on a number of citizens for subscriptions and donations to the Dance, and they met with a very liberal response. To all those who by their subscriptions and donations helped to make the Dance a success the Committee begs to express its thanks. The music during the evening was given by the C.C.C. Band. As was to be expected, the program rendered by them was of a very high order, and the Committee desires to express its sincere thanks. The Committee feels that as the public responded so generously to the request of the Committee to support the Dance, they should be informed as to the financial results. Consequently, an audited statement of the receipts and disbursements is herewith appended. Statement. greater than they be." "Denny then enquired if he should send for "any learned man to confer withal and to open his mind unto." Henry answered that, if he had any one, it should be Cranmer, but first he would "take a little sleep and then, as I feel myself, I will advise upon the matter." When he awoke, he was aware that his weakness had increased and told Denny to send for Cranmer, who came about midnight and found the king speechless and almost unconscious. With the last of his ebbing strength the king wrung Cranmer's hand, and thus passed away, without speech, about two in the morning of Friday. His reign had lasted thirty-seven years and three quarters, and much of its record is written in red. A Reliable Flashlight is an essential part of every motorist's equipments. Leaves from a Diary and Some Recollections!

(H. F. SHORTIS.)

The sealfishery for 1861 was fairly successful, and several of our vessels had full loads, but, it was comparatively a small catch to that of 1831 and several other years. In the year 1831 there were landed at St. John's 216,377; Carbonara 117,559; Harbor Grace 71,200; Brigs 79,886; Greenspond 12,702; Trinity 18,071; Twillingate and Fogo 13,000; Bay Roberts 17,000; Port de Grave 4,000; Bonavista and King's Cove 2,050; Placentia 1,650; other ports 133,341. The skins and oil for the year 1830 were valued for £196,000 stg. and for 1831 £234,500 stg. These sums are equal to $946,650 and $1,269,600, respectively.

From 1867 to 1859 the amount of seals landed and cut up in Newfoundland was as follows:—

	1857	1858	1859
St. John's	379,553	331,686	277,303
Conception Bay	105,000	36,000	39,000
Trinity Bay	26,200	12,000	5,000
Bonavista Bay	7,000	9,900	6,000
Fogo, Twillingate and Green Bay	4,900	3,000	3,000
Other ports	530,733	398,166	396,303

The Spring of 1839 the fishery was also very good. Fortunately we have the result from a most authentic source placed on record, giving the amounts of seals landed at the principal ports in the island. It is needless to say that there were always more or less seals captured by landmen which would not appear in the official report. The following is the list for 1839:—

St. John's—76 vessels	150,576
St. John's—58 Outport Vessels	91,749
Harbor Grace	46,857
Carbonara	41,019
Trinity	33,000
Greenspond	11,500
Brigs	9,200
Spainard's Bay	6,200
King's Cove	5,550
Catalina	5,560
Bay Roberts	5,200
Port de Grave	4,200
Fogo	2,900
Total	412,641

Which produced 5158 tons of Oil Imperial at the usual calculation of 80 seals to a tun valued at £30 per tun amounted to £154,740.

SUCCESSFUL IN ALL CALLINGS.

The last name on the above list was one which held a foremost place in this country. Captain Daniel Green took command of his father's vessel the "Swordfish" when very young and was most successful; and success at the sealfishery followed him throughout his career. There was only one year that he had a small catch, and that was owing to the report being circulated that his brother had lost his vessel in White Bay. Capt. Dan left the seals where he could have loaded his vessel and hurried to the assistance of his brother, and when he arrived at White Bay, he found that the report was incorrect, and that his brother needed no assistance. Capt. Dan had only about 1,800 old and young that year. After the "Swordfish" he purchased the splendid brig, "Laurel," and year after year he brought her in full to the hatches. He was also a most enterprising and successful merchant, and he was always known as the friend of the poor man. He always sold his provisions, coal, etc., cheaper than any other merchant, and the other business men tried their very best to drive him out of business. I distinctly remember one year the coal dealers were selling the very best New York coal at $4 per ton. Capt. Dan sent off his vessel to Sydney and when she returned he sold the cargo at $3.50 per ton from the vessels side—sent home. Everything he touched in the way of business prospered with him. He had some of the best vessels in the country during his career, notably, "Swordfish," "Laurel," "Susan," "Annie Laurie" and some others. It is needless to say that not alone was he second to none in business, but as a sealingmaster he was probably the most successful, as well as the best educated man amongst them. Like Barron, Whelan, Mundema, Wilcox, Silvey, Spracklin, Lynch, Stanton, Halleran, Jackmans, Keans, Thomey, Bartlett, Feehan, etc., he was in a class all by themselves, and well did Capt. Dan maintain his position at the head of them.

THE COMING OF THE STEAM SEALERS.

The next year saw the advance guard of the steamers on our coast, viz., the Polynia and Camperdown, fitted out from Dundee, and after that the old masters foresaw what was coming. Gradually our great fleet disappeared—some were lost—others were sold, and never replaced. They had to retire before the onward march of steam and that's another story.

CAPT. PIERCE MULLOWNEY.

I cannot allow this opportunity to pass without paying tribute to another of our great seal-killers, one who shines brilliantly forth amongst the great galaxy of stars that I have named above. I refer to Capt. Pierce Mullowney, father of Lady Cashin. Capt. Mullowney, like Capt. Richard

CUTICURA HEALS SISTER'S ECZEMA

In Rash All Over Body. Burned And Itched. Could Not Rest.

"My little sister had eczema all over her body. It came like a rash, and was burning and itching. She could get no rest, and we would have to wet her clothing to take it off. She was cross and irritable, and the breaking out caused disfigurement. She had the eczema about five months when we tried Cuticura Soap and Ointment. We could see she was getting better, and we just used one cake of Cuticura Soap and one box of Cuticura Ointment—she was healed." Pike of Arctic fame, was always very popular with his crew, and was very ready to render assistance to all whom he was a man of splendid physique, and once he put his hands to the sheets, braces, clew-lines or down-hauls he had the power of three ordinary men. He commanded many vessels during his long and eventful career, viz., the brig Alpha (D. Steele), brig St. Fillan (P. Tasker), brig Maggie McNeil and Nalad (Cliff Wood & Co.), brigantine Nightingale (McLea & Sons), brigantine Gertrude (J. & W. Stewart). The first Spring he was in the Nightingale he arrived with over 7,000, being first in. The third Spring he was again to go in the Nightingale, but the vessel being on voyage from England and making a long passage, McLea & Sons procured another vessel for him, called the Rebecca. She was about 110 tons. I remember her distinctly. She was afterwards purchased by P. Devereaux of Harbor Grace, and prosecuted the sealfishery for some years. I recollect one year when a certain well known Captain was master of the Rebecca, and arrived with only a few dozen seals to Devereaux. At that time there was agitation in Ireland over the passing of a Militia Bill, and the old skipper, being a fiery little Irishman from Cork, was deeply interested in the event. As he stepped on the wharf the first words he uttered to his merchant were: "Arrah! is the Militia Bill passed yet?" "D—you and the Militia Bill," replied Devereaux, as he turned away in disgust.

Capt. Mullowney received his training in a good school, as for several years he was master with the famous Capt. As Munden of Brigs. In the year 1870 Capt. Mullowney took charge of the S.S. "Walrus" (J. & W. Stewart) and was first in with a full load, and a good second trip. In 1871 he was also first in with another load. In 1872 he had 17,000 in the S.S. Ranger, and his success followed right through. After landing his seals he was ordered out to search for the brig James Stewart, of the firm of J. & W. Stewart, which was a full load, and was first in with another load. In 1872 he had 17,000 in the S.S. Ranger, and his success followed right through. WHY THEY DO IT

A salesman was taking an elderly lady out for a drive in a car he was anxious to sell her. He made a number of turns, and at the proper time extended his arm as a turning signal. The old lady watched the proceedings for some time. Then she craned her neck and looked at the sky.

"Mister," she said sternly, tapping him on the shoulder, "you just attend to your driving! It doesn't look like rain, but if it should I'll let you know."

A DISAPPOINTMENT.

It was Boxing-Day, and the hard-working letter carrier ploughed his way through snow and bitter wind, an unusually large sack of letters on his arm.

He descended the spacious steps of a fashionable residence, and in answer to his ring, a man-servant in rich livery appeared.

"Wait a moment, please," said the servant, as he took the letters, "the mistress wishes to speak to you."

"The letter carrier's eye brightened. It was the holiday season. He had done his duty with fidelity. Now, no doubt, in recognition of his regular and faithful—

"I shall be glad," he said politely, "to wait your mistress's pleasure."

"In a few minutes a richly-attired lady appeared.

"Are you?" she asked, "our regular postman?"

"Yes, madam," he answered, bowing.

"Do you come in the morning?"

"Yes, madam."

"And in the afternoon and evening?"

Again he assented eagerly. Then the lady said with a frown:

"Well, then, it was you who broke our bell!"

Side Talks by Ruth Cameron

IN REGARD TO GOODWILL.

When the value of a shop or a manufacturing establishment is estimated, one of the factors included in the estimate is "goodwill." Sometimes this good will is estimated as more than the plant itself.

In view of these facts, one often wonders at the price paid for such a precious possession.

For instance, would anything more destroy the customer's good will than the habit of ready promise and then as readily breaking the promise?

"Have Them Friday Sure."

When I went to a certain shop to buy films developed. The first I handed them to the man he said, "When would you like these?"

"Have them for you Wednesday if like" (it was then Monday). I collected. I had not expected such prompt service. Nor did I get it. I called Wednesday but the films were not ready—"Have them for you Friday, sure," I called Friday and he promised to mail them to me "Monday, sure." I received them in the following Saturday.

The work was fairly good and the price reasonable, so I gave the man two more chances. I had two similar experiences, and took my work elsewhere.

He Threw My Good Will Out the Window.

That was good will simply thrown out the window. And absolutely without excuse, too, for I did not in either case ask him to hurry. He made the promise of his own accord and then failed to live up to it.

Of course what more often happens, is that the customer wants the pictures in a hurry, and tries to extort a promise. But even in that case it would be better for the tradesman to stand firm and refuse to make a promise unless he is sure of being able to fulfill it.

Dressmakers and tailors are notable offenders in this particular. A few of them are conscientious and promise only what they have reason to think they can perform. Others promise anything you want and perform anything they want.

Early the Customer's Fault.

Of course I know that the commonest reason these promises are made, is that the customer brings so much pressure of persuasion and eagerness to bear upon the worker that the latter makes promises he doesn't want to make, lest the customer go elsewhere. I think customers ought to have more conscience and decency in such matters and not use the economic club to force unreasonable concessions.

But even when the customer does breach this club, I think for merchant will get further in the end, build up more of that precious good will, by refusing to be intimidated by it into promising any more than he has a reasonable chance of performing.

My Column.
(BY THE CUB-EDITOR.)

THE HOCKEY SEASON.

A few days ago I happened to be at work. (Don't you believe it. He never did—Horris) when I heard an awful uproar coming from the corridor outside my office. Voices raised in heated argument first came to my ears; then followed a thud, a yell and a banging on the door. I could not stand the row any longer so I rushed to the door and as I opened it, I walked Horace! But, what a Horace! That part of his face usually covered with dirt was now red with blood which flowed from his nasal organ, one eye was rapidly assuming a splendid representation of a painter's color box, his collar was decorated one of his ears and there was other proof of his having been engaged in mortal combat.

"Why, Horace," I exclaimed in amazement, "what have you been doing?" He eyed me, as well as one can eye anybody when one has only one eye to do it with (horrible grammar), with a glance of contempt. I felt like "a woman scorned," or something equally terrible. It seemed to bore right through me.

"Oh, nothing, gov'nor," he said. "I was just gettin' ready to go to me sister's party." I felt worried.

"Come now, Horace," I said, "you've been fighting."

"Honest injun, I wasn't, gov. I just came in from teaching me little brudder how to walk."

I tried not to laugh. In spite of Horace's cheek, it is impossible for anyone with the slightest semblance of a sense of humor not to laugh at him. (That's a skurrilus libel—Horris). "Who was responsible for making such a mess of you and why did he do it?" I asked sternly.

Horace was staggered. "Well!" he cried. "Made a mess of me? Why did he do it? Gov, the fellow who did this is now on his way home in an ambulance."

"Oh, is that so, and what was the cause of all this, Dempsey, junior?"

"I don't know," replied my one and only Horace. "It were like this: You see, he sez the Terror Novers are going to win to-night and I sez the Feeldyuns are going to win, and when he sez the Feeldyuns was no good, I biffed him one on the boko and then he got sossy, so I made a mess of him," and here my gentle Horace love Cascarets too. 10, 25, 50 cents.

Only "Bayer" is Genuine

Warning! Take no chances with substitutes for genuine "Bayer Tablets of Aspirin." Unless you see the name "Bayer" on package or on tablets you are not getting Aspirin at all. In every Bayer package are directions for Colds, Headache, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Earache, Toothache, Lumbago and for Pain. Handy tin boxes of twelve tablets cost few cents. Druggists also sell larger packages. Made in Canada. Aspirin is the trade mark (registered in Canada) of Bayer Manufacture of Monoaceticacidester of Salicylicacid.
