GRATT REVEALED BY PISTOL SHOT

Suicide of Allegheny Bank Cashier Leads to Some STRANGE REVELATIONS

Bank Trafficked in State Funds and Loaned Money to Pennsylvania Politicians—Cashier Was Tool of Other Men in High Stations

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 18.—After an investigation of the books of the Enterprise National Bank of Allegheny, which disclosed that the bank was solvent, T. Lee Clark, cashier of the institution, went to his home, in Lincoln Avenue last night, and shot himself through the head.

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—Concerning the closing of the Enterprise National Bank of Allegheny and the suicide of its cashier T. Lee Clark, yesterday a despatch to the Herald from Pittsburgh says: "It was learned late Wednesday night that the cashier of the Enterprise National Bank was expected in certain quarters. He had been over the matter with several directors a few days ago.

According to this official, all this money is insured by bonds of the Mercantile Trust Company of Pittsburgh and the United States Fidelity and Trust Co. of Baltimore.

Clark was associated as treasurer with former State Senator W. H. Andrews and Francis J. Torrance, who, according to President Greyner, were known to the cashier as the Enterprise Bank trouble and the Enterprise National Bank.

Donaldson line steamship Almora, Captain Turner, sailed this afternoon for Baltimore to complete her cargo for Glasgow.

St. Andrew's Rink Crowded Last Night With Throngs of Delighted Purchasers—Total Supply of Refreshments Exhausted, but There Will Be More Tonight.

Any doubts which may have been entertained about the success of the Fair of Nations were entirely dispelled last evening when the St. Andrew's rink was crowded to its utmost capacity by a throng of curious sightseers who good naturedly jostled each other about and liberally patronized the various booths.

Mrs. White and all the ladies identified with the movement must indeed feel gratified with the way in which the general public have expressed their sympathy with their efforts.

At eight o'clock Mayor White, in a neat and witty speech, announced the opening of the Fair of Nations for the evening.

MEMOIRS OF SHERLOCK HOLMES, BY A. CONAN DOYLE.

THE MYSTERY OF THE MUSGRAVE RITUAL

(Continued.) "Never have I felt such a cold chill of disappointment, Watson. For a moment it seemed to me that there must be some radical mistake in my calculations. The setting sun shone full upon the passage floor, and I could see that the old, foot-worn grey stone with which it was paved were firmly cemented together, and had certainly not been moved for many a long year. Brunton had not been at work here. I tapped upon the floor but it sounded the same all over, and there was no sign of any crack or crevice. But, fortunately, Musgrave, who had begun to appreciate the meaning of my proceedings and who was now as excited as myself, took out his manuscript to check my calculations. "And under," he said. "You have omitted the "and under." "I had thought that it meant that we were to dig, but now, of course, I saw at once that I was wrong. There is a cellar under this floor. "Yes, and as old as the house. Down here, through this door. "We went down a winding stone stair, and my companion, striking a match, lit a large lantern which stood on a barrel in the corner. In an instant it was obvious that we had at last come upon the true place, and that we had not been the only people to visit the spot recently. "It had been used for the storage of wood, but the billets, which had evidently been hithered over the floor, were now piled at the sides, so as to leave a clear space in the middle. In this space lay a large and heavy flagstone with a rusted iron ring in the centre to which a thick shepherd's check muffer was attached. "By Jove!" cried my client. "That's Brunton's muffer. I have seen it on him, and could swear to it. What has the villain been doing here? "At my suggestion a couple of the country police were summoned to be present, and I then endeavored to raise the stone by pulling on the centre. I could only move it slightly, and it was with the aid of one of the constables that I succeeded at last in carrying it to one side. A black hole yawned beneath into which we all peered, while Musgrave, kneeling at the side, pushed down the lantern. "A small chamber, about seven feet deep and four feet square, lay open to us. As one side of this was a squat, brass-bound wooden box, the lid of which was hinged upwards, with this curious old-fashioned key protruding from the lock. It was furred outside by a thick layer of dust and damp and worms had eaten through the wood, so that a crop of mould fungi was growing on the inside of it. Several discs of metal, old coins apparently, such as I hold here, were scattered over the bottom of the box, but it contained nothing else. "At the moment, however, we had no thought for the old chest, for our eyes were riveted upon that which crouched beside it. It was the figure of a man, clad in a suit of black, who squatted down upon his haunchs with his forehead sunk upon the edge of the box and his two arms thrown out on each side of it. The attitude had drawn all the stagnant blood to the face, and no man could have recognized that distorted liver-colored countenance; but his height, his dress and his hair were all sufficient to show my client, when we had drawn the body up, that it was indeed his missing butler. He had been dead some days, but there was no wound or bruise upon his person to show how he had met his dreadful end. When his body had been carried from the cellar we found ourselves still confronted with a problem which was almost as formidable as that with which we had started. "I confess that so far, Watson, I had been disappointed in my investigation. I had reckoned upon solving the matter when once I had found the place referred to in the ritual; but now I was there, and was apparently as far as ever from knowing what it was which the family had concealed with such elaborate precautions. It is true that I had thrown a light upon the fate of Brunton, but now I had to ascertain how that fate had come upon him, and what part had been played in the snuffery by the woman who had disappeared. I sat down upon a keg in the corner and thought the whole matter carefully over. "You know my methods in such cases, Watson. I put myself in the man's place and, having first gauged his intelligence, I try to imagine how I should myself have proceeded under the same circumstances. In this case the matter was simplified by Brunton's intelligence being quite first-rate, so that it was unnecessary to make any allowance for the personal equation, as the astronomers have dubbed it. He knew that something valuable was concealed. He had spotted the place. He found that the stone which covered it was just too heavy for a man to move unaided. What would he do next? He could not get help from outside even if he had someone whom he could trust, without the unhearing of doors and considerable risk of detection. It was better, if he could, to have his helpmate inside the house. But whom could he seek? This girl had been devoted to him. A man always finds it hard to realize that he may have finally lost a woman's love, however badly he may have treated her. He would try by a few attentions to make his peace with the girl, Howells, and then would engage her as his accomplice. Together they would come at night to the cellar, and their united force would suffice to raise the stone. So far I could follow their actions as if I had actually seen them. "But for two of them, and one a woman, it must have been heavy work the raising of that stone. A burly Sussex policeman and I had found it no light job. What would they do to assist them? Probably what I should have done myself. I rose and examined carefully the different billets of wood which were scattered round the floor. Almost at once I came upon what I expected. One piece, about three feet in length, had a very marked indentation at one end, while several were flattened at the side as if they had been compressed by some considerable weight. Evidently, as they had dragged the stone up they had thrust the chunks of wood into the chink, until at last, when the opening was large enough to crawl through, they would hold it open by a billet placed lengthwise, which might very well become indented at the lower end, since the whole weight of the stone would press it down on to the edge of this other slab. So far I was still on safe ground. (To be continued.)

"Pushed Down the Lantern"

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. A Bewildering Bank Statement—Stocks Are Uncertain—Nobdy Trusts Bank Reserve—Interesting Comment on the Puzzling Situation. (New York Evening Post.) Any one who believes that the New York bank statements of this season truthfully represent the money situation will be greatly surprised by Saturday's return. Other people will find it with respect to the statement in its every item at variance with the known course of events this week. Monday's report of specie and legal tenders has not been corrected since a week ago. The statement declares they have by $1,000,000 on the contrary, the gold reserve has a discounting of interior withdrawals have largely increased since the week ending Oct. 15. A wholesale transfer to institutions which had the right to draw on the bank, therefore, increases reported in the surplus, therefore, the statement is quite without value. It would be worth something, perhaps, if it had the reports of the trust companies, which are generally correct. Those reports would throw light on the fact that the banks are equally as tight as the statement. It is assumed that the banks have had equally as much effect. That much of the loan might have been actually called in. It is assumed that the German bankers did in February, 1905, the twenty-five millions out of New York's bank. Or, secondly, the loan might have been actually called in. It is assumed that the German bankers did in February, 1905, the twenty-five millions out of New York's bank. POST OFFICES SHOW SURPLUS Department Has Nearly $500,000 Above All Expenditures for the Year.

Ottawa, Oct. 18.—(Special)—A clear surplus of $400,844 over and above all expenditures for the year is the great outstanding feature of the post-office statement for the twelve months ended June 30. In former years there has been a surplus, but opposition critics have claimed that it was reached by omitting the expenditures for the Yukon, from the disbursements. In the statement for the past year, however, there has been no such omission, but the expenditure for the Yukon, and mail services, which exceeded the revenue by $100,000, has been incorporated with the rest of the disbursements, and notwithstanding the fact that the total receipts exceeded the total disbursements by nearly $500,000. This is highly creditable to the late postmaster general, Sir William Mulock, and a striking tribute to his administrative genius. It should be pointed out that but for the assumption of the loss on the Yukon and the rest of the disbursements, the surplus would have been $600,780. In 1904, when Sir William Mulock took hold of the post office department, there was a deficit of $781,102. To have come within a few shillings of the post office surplus of close upon $500,000, is an achievement any man might be proud of. It has been a long and arduous task, and the reduction of the deficit to a surplus of $500,000 is a great credit to the late postmaster general. The past year's transactions show an increase of 419 in the number of post offices, and a striking increase in the number of postal employees, 180 in the number of money order offices, and 28 in the number of telegraph offices. There were 818 additional miles of railway utilized for mail purposes, and the total increase in mileage of mail carriage during the year was 3,728,317. The estimated number of letters posted was 295,541,000, an increase of 1,100,000 over the 294,441,000 in 1904. The estimated increase in the number of letters and postal cards for the year was 2,812,000, or an increase of 1.4 per cent. THE FAIR OF NATIONS.

The auspicious opening of the Fair of Nations last evening must have been intensely gratifying to the ladies, and to the citizens generally, who have awaited with eager interest the date of the event, despite the size of the rink, and universal admiration was expressed as the people passed from booth to booth or paused to survey the whole animated and brilliant scene. The opening speeches were bright and brief. Mayor White has the rare and happy faculty in a public speaker of taking his inspiration from his surroundings, and what he said last evening was both entertaining and appropriate; while Mr. Tilley's earnest plea for the Y.M.C.A. was no less timely and admirably made. It now remains for the citizens to extend a liberal patronage, and at the same time enjoy what is from an artistic standpoint as well as for other reasons a most attractive exhibition and entertainment.

THE INSURANCE SCANDALS.

The announcement that there may be some arrests in connection with the insurance scandals in the United States is not altogether unexpected, although the methods of high finance are usually such as to protect the financiers from legal entanglements. But there is another question which people are beginning to ask. A considerable time has elapsed since the first startling disclosures were made relative to the conduct of the affairs of the three great companies involved, and there has as yet been no apparent change. Are the present heads of these "beneficial" institutions to remain in office? They are in no hurry to resign, and so far as the public can see they are in no immediate danger of dismissal. What is to come of all this eager investigation, and when will the house-cleaning begin?

BRITAIN'S UNEMPLOYED.

A London letter in the Montreal Gazette deals in a very interesting way with the question of the unemployed in England, dealing not only with Gen. Booth's colonization scheme but with a plan to get people back to the soil in the United Kingdom itself. The writer says: "General Booth's emigration scheme is everywhere exciting the most serious consideration and enquiries from would-be settlers in Canada and Australia are pouring in upon the Salvation Army officials. The pathetic appeals from many of our better class workers for assistance to the new countries, are proving the urgent need of a big national scheme of redistribution of our workless or struggling surplus population. If General Booth's plans continue to have the public attention they deserve, we should see the whole business being undertaken by a responsible State department. It is too much to be left by any government to private enterprise. So far General Booth is greatly encouraged by the approval of the colonial premiers. "While General Booth's emigration scheme is likely to help a host of settlers to Australia and Canada, the question, why not colonize the idle lands of our own beautiful country? is again being brought to the front. The reform of our land system may be too slow to check the exodus from the rural districts, but if anything short of peasant proprietorship would keep the laborer on the soil, it should be the prospect that now offers of getting a comfortable cottage at a low rent. The Garden City Cottages exhibit, which closes next week, has settled the question of the possibility of building cheap cottages. A prize was given this week for the best £150 cottage. The competition proved that for that comparatively trifling sum a sound, comfortable cottage can be built, and the land lords through the country have now an opportunity of building new homes for their tenants in the decayed and dilapidated villages, and so removing one of the excuses of the laborer and his family for rushing away to the cities. It may be that this cottage exhibition will have the effect of revolutionizing the rural districts."

The lack of mutual understanding between the churches and organized labor in England is given as the reason why the churches do not influence as strongly as might be expected the lives of the working classes. Mr. Steadman, parliamentary secretary of the Trade Union Congress, says there is a mutual suspicion between organized Christianity and labor. He reminds the churches that in five years 100 of the largest unions have spent six and a half millions sterling in unemployed relief and old age allowances. The churches, he says, have not understood the great good done by the vast body of self-defending workmen to their fellows, and have been too apt to look upon a trade unionist as a striker and a fighter. The advances lately made by the churches give Mr. Steadman the hope that churches and trade unions will soon be found working together, and the social and moral status of the working classes vastly improved.

The Galicians, or, as they should be correctly named, the Ruthenians, in western Canada have a newspaper in their own language. The Winnipeg Free Press says: "The paper has eight pages of matter, and there are as large as the Free Press. There is no other publication of the same kind in Canada, although there are between 75,000 and 100,000 people resident in the west, who speak that tongue. The illustrations are good and represent agricultural scenes in western Canada. The paper has now been published for two years, and originated among the people themselves. The fact that the Ruthenian people have come to support this paper to a degree enabling the publisher to produce such an issue as yesterday's indicates that they should be counted among the prosperous and intelligent people that are helping to build up the western part of the Dominion of Canada."

We learn with a shock of surprise and regret that the thrifty habits of the occidental nations have been adopted to some extent in Japan. The Japan Times publishes news of a number of cases of embezzlement by Japanese naval officers. Paymaster Commander Takekoshi, who was financing naval construction in England, has fled after embezzling $165,000. Paymaster Kagi and Lieut. Commander Sakuma of the Mikuma naval yard were implicated. It appears, however, that the orientals still have something to learn. The authorities are reactionary. They have sent Kagi to jail for seven years, and Sakuma for two years, and will give the other fellow eleven years if they catch him.

"The Church of the Ascension yesterday contributed $450 toward the proposed local consumption sanitarium. In connection with the movement, Relief Officer McMenamy has prepared a pamphlet setting forth the dangers of the white plague and the steps that are being taken to stamp it out. In 1903 10 per cent. of all the deaths in the Dominion of Canada were caused by consumption. It is estimated that between 30,000 and 40,000 persons in the Dominion are affected by the disease. There are 400 in Hamilton alone. The License Holders' Protective Association held a meeting, and decided to do something toward helping along the sanitarium fund."

Despite its rapid growth and the great amount of capital and enterprise centered there, the city of Winnipeg has not yet been able to cope successfully with typhoid fever. The Telegram says: "It was stated on good authority yesterday that during the month of September, 308 cases of typhoid fever were reported at the city health office." It is stated that sixty-five of these cases occurred outside the city limits, but the city records is sufficiently discouraging. The provincial health authorities are now investigating to learn if possible the cause of the prevalence of the disease.

It is stated that fifty thousand head of cattle will be shipped from the Alberta ranges this year, and the depressed condition of the market for these animals can be understood in the light of statements by implement men that five times as much more was collected last month on machinery notes as was collected for the same time last year. One firm has out in Alberta $300,000 of these notes, and the payment before maturity to save the three months' interest has been very large.

Another bank official who was a respected citizen and active church member, being the largest contributor to the church he attended, has killed himself after lending $700,000 or $800,000 of the bank's funds to politicians. The day of revivals in high finance apparently is not yet ended. It would appear that this bank cashier was the victim of a system of political graft for which he was not responsible.

The value of the work of the Salvation Army has just been recognized in a notable manner in Toronto. Last week Premier Whitney formally opened the new Maternity Hospital in that city, which cost $12,000. Among the subscriptions received were $2,000 from Mr. Timothy Eaton, $1,000 from Senator Cox, and $500 from Mr. E. B. Oiler, M.P.

The Ottawa Journal does not share the opinion expressed in some opposition quarters relative to Hon. Mr. Aylesworth. It says: "They will question the value of Sir Wilfrid Laurier's selection. Indeed the Prime Minister is to be congratulated on his having been able to persuade a man of Mr. Aylesworth's type to enter the cabinet."

There are now 211 associations, with more than 75,000 members, forming the railroad branch of the Young Men's Christian Association, says the Railway Age. The association has 130 buildings, valued at $2,237,000. In the last twelve months there have been expended $1,100,000 for new buildings and repairs, of which railways contributed $700,000.

Men of Saint John. MAGISTRATE RITCHIE.

Hon. Robert J. Ritchie, son of the late Marquand Ritchie, was born in the city of St. John in the year 1845. After receiving his education at the Grammar School of this city, and the seminary then in existence, he entered as a student-at-law in the office of the late John G. Campbell, and was admitted to the bar in 1867. During the succeeding ten years, Mr. Ritchie had an extensive legal practice, and was recognized as one of the leading legal lights of this city. In 1877 he married Miss Mary Short, daughter of the late John Short, a well-known shipbuilder of St. Stephen. In 1878 Mr. Ritchie entered politics as a Liberal candidate and was elected to the local house. In 1882 he was again elected, with Elder, McCallum and Quinlan. On the defeat of the Hanington government, Hon. Mr. Ritchie went into the Blair administration, and in 1883 was made solicitor-general for New Brunswick; Hon. Mr. Elder being provincial secretary at the same time. In 1888 Mr. Ritchie was re-elected with Hon. Mr. McCallum, who succeeded Hon. Dr. Elder as provincial secretary. The late B. Lester Peters, under an agreement with the common council and the provincial government had undertaken to perform for the period of ten years the duties of police magistrate and common clerk for the city of St. John. In 1889 the city of St. John and the town of Portland were united, and by the Union Act the constitution of the city court underwent certain changes. Up to the year 1889 two judges constituted the old city court, of which court the common clerk ex-officio was a justice. Under the Union Act the police magistrate ex-officio was made sole judge of the new city court. The government, in 1890, appointed him to the office of the police magistrate, and Mr. Peters continued to occupy the office of common clerk held by him for many years before the making of the agreement above referred to. The importance of the office Mr. Ritchie holds may be estimated when it is considered that he has to dispose of all criminal business arising within the area of the entire city. He now does the business that before the union was transacted in the Portland police and civil courts, together with the business before the police court and the trial of causes disposed of by the old city court. Under the old City Court Act, the presiding judge received a portion of the fee as a remuneration for service rendered. Under the present act the city court fees all go into the city funds, and the judge's salary is paid by the city. In 1892, Mr. Ritchie was appointed a queen's counsel under the government of Sir John A. Macdonnell. When Mr. Ritchie was solicitor general all the criminal cases were tried by the Attorney General. He was also by the solicitor general, and even when the house was in session Hon. Mr. Ritchie looked after the crown business in his district. As solicitor general he was interested in many important cases, some of which are well remembered by the older citizens. Some said that he was a blood-thirsty officer, but all will agree that he was a most industrious official. His great forte was cross-examining a witness, and it has been justly said of him that he should write a book on "Convictions." The legal fraternity all agree that Mr. Ritchie was one of the greatest cross-examiners at the bar in Canada. In the society world Hon. Mr. Ritchie has been very prominent for many years. Shortly after the organization of the Irish Friendly Society he was elected president, his predecessors being John G. Campbell, father of the Sketch, and the late Judge Kelly of Prince Edward Island. For the past twenty years, Judge Ritchie has taken a very active interest in the temperance movement, and was at one time president of the Father Matthew Total Abstinence Society. For several years he was also president of the Catholic Total Abstinence Association in New Brunswick. Those interested in the Father Matthew Society between 1870 and 1880 will remember Mr. Ritchie as one of the leading temperance workers of the day, and an enthusiastic orator. At present Police Magistrate Ritchie is president of Branch 134 of the C. M. B. A., a life member of the Home for Incapables, a member of the Board of Governors for the Boys' Industrial School at Silver Falls, a director of the Rockwood Park Association, and one of the managing committee of the Victorian Order of Nurses. Hon. Mr. Ritchie has one son, Edmund Short Ritchie, barrister, at present practicing his profession in this city. CAPT. PRATT MAKES A HAUL St. Andrews, N. B., Oct. 18—Cruiser Carlew, Capt. Pratt, arrived in the harbor this afternoon towing a small fleet that had been seized for violation of the fishery law. Included in the seine were several dorset, but the names of the owners are unknown and a two-masted vessel belonging to Will Tucker, Back Bay. Another boat belonging to William Hicks was seized and the fine paid. Mrs. J. O. Beattie and Mrs. G. S. Wilk were to Moncton yesterday.

WEDDINGS Patterson-Thorne At the residence of Officer Seth H. Thorne of the police force, at 97 Victoria street, this morning, in the presence of relatives and a few friends, his eldest daughter, Helen E., was united in marriage with James T. Patterson, of the staff of W. H. Thorne & Co. The marriage ceremony was performed by Rev. David Long of the Victoria street Baptist church. The bride received many gifts, including cake basket from the firm of Thorne & Co., and a set of cutlery from the staff. Mr. and Mrs. Patterson will reside on Victoria street. Town-Crossman SACKVILLE, Oct. 18.—This home of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Crossman, Woodhurst, was the scene of a happy event this evening when their daughter, Lena Sheridan, was united in marriage to Arthur B. Town of Sackville. Rev. B. H. Thomas tied the nuptial knot in the presence of a large number of invited guests. The bride was prettily gowned in white organdy with trimmings of lace. She wore a bridal veil and carried a bouquet of white roses. After the ceremony and congratulations a wedding feast was served. The bride was the recipient of many useful and valuable presents. The happy couple will reside in Sackville. Anderson-Burchell A very pretty wedding took place yesterday afternoon at 2.30, at the home of Bradford Byles, 70 Waterloo street, when Robert Anderson of Armstrong's Corner, Queens county, and Mrs. Hannah Elizabeth Burchell of Portland, Me., were united in marriage by Rev. J. F. Floyd. Mr. Anderson is a prosperous merchant at Armstrong's Corner, and Mrs. Burchell, widow, is a well-known, highly respected lady, having relatives in this city. The happy couple left on the evening train for the home of the groom, where they will reside. Crawford-Caie An evening at 8.30 o'clock at the residence of the bride's mother, Princess E. Willard Carter Crawford, of the Street Railway Company, and Miss Mary Elizabeth Caie, daughter of the late James Pierce Caie, were married by Rev. A. A. Grabau, in the presence of relatives and intimate friends of the bride and groom. Her brother, Wm. S. Caie, gave away the bride, who was attended by a stylish creation in gray was the

THE McCALL DYNASTY IS OF VERY RECENT GROWTH In Short Period of Fifteen Years Risen to Amazing Magnificence and Wealth—Regal McCall Family Builds Costly Castle at Long Branch.

Table showing McCall Family Income from New York Life since 1892. Includes names like John A. McCall, Secretary, and various income figures.

WHAT THE McCALL FAMILY HAS CONFESED. 1—Taking $1,500,000 from the New York Life in salaries since John A. McCall became president in 1892. 2—Paid $148,000 to Republican national campaign funds. 3—Paid $300,127 for legislative purposes, of which $178,927 went to Andrew Hamilton of Albany. 4—Lending money to John R. Hegeman, president of the Metropolitan Life, at 14 per cent. interest and borrowing money from the Metropolitan at the same rate. 5—Made large payments without authorization of the finance committee. 6—Charged secret payments to a non-ledger asset account. 7—Made an overnight wash sale of $800,000 mercantile marine bonds back and forth to keep them out of the annual report. 8—Permitted Vice-president G. W. Perkins to remain in office while partner in J. P. Morgan & Co. 9—Permitted the company to indulge in stock transactions after announcement that it bought only bonds.

There was trouble in the New York Life Insurance Company in 1892. In the past it had grown too opulent and autocratic. Popular disapproval compelled its overthrow, and the trustees looked about for a successor who would be energetic and purely businesslike. They picked out John A. McCall, at that time controller of the Equitable, and thus introduced into power another family that has grown rich and strong. Born and raised in Albany, a boy without particular fortune or friends, McCall's life work was as a clerk in a State department. He became an examiner in the insurance departments and then chief. From that he was taken into the Equitable, and finally chosen head of the New York Life. The first part of his life was spent in advancement and success; the latter years have been given to establishing his family control and founding a dynasty to equal that of McCall.

When first chosen president, McCall's salary was $30,000. Within ten years it had been raised to $100,000. First known only in the expert insurance world as an aggressive worker, he soon rose to a position in the financial circles of Wall St. The entry into banks and trust companies not only brought him recognition but also wealth. As the newest and most recent of the kings of insurance he has been called the old rival. He built finer office structures in leading cities of the United States and then merged them into palaces in European capitals. He drafted into his service active young men, the best of them being George W. Perkins, now partner in the banking house of J. P. Morgan & Co., while vice-president of the New York Life. Other very hard there was work and activity, battles and victories, just as the builders of new monarchies like to establish their power and fame. Three years ago, John A. McCall found his throne secure. His son and namesake had been graduated from college and entered into the company of the company's bright young men. He was raised to a $20,000 vice-presidency. Other relatives were comfortable in well-paid insurance jobs. Now there was time to look about and reap some of the rewards of labor, and having made himself secure, to insure the future fortune of the family.

THEY OPEN TONIGHT W. S. Harkins Co. Arrived in the City Yesterday Afternoon. The W. S. Harkins company arrived in the city yesterday evening and everything is in readiness for their opening tonight at the Opera House in the great melodramatic drama, "The Coward and the Lady." In selecting the most brilliant of the opening bill Mr. Harkins has shown good judgment, as it is one of the strongest dramas on the stage today full of dramatic climaxes and bright comedy. It is acknowledged by all dramatists that the situation at the ending of the third act is without exception the strongest ever presented in any play. It is so good to be seen to be appreciated. The seats for tonight's performance are selling rapidly and a large house will be present to welcome the company. There will be the usual matinee Saturday afternoon at 2.30. In yesterday afternoon's police court, the charge against Jacob W. Campbell, of being the keeper of a gaming house, and George and Martin Wilcox, Duncan Pollock, James McConnell and Leonard Lord, with gaming there, was dismissed. Judge Ritchie, however, made it clear that they were dismissed because there was a doubt whether or not under the section. Ross should have had a warrant or not for making the raid. Mrs. James Gowan arrived home Tuesday after a visit to Boston.

THE GAMBLING CASE
Police Magistrate Ritchie Dismisses Charge Against Jacob Campbell.

Judge Ritchie, after dwelling on the different kinds of disorderly houses, said that the evidence showed that in consequence of information received, Sergeant Ross had at once, with praiseworthy promptness, set about discovering whether or not a gaming house did exist in Carleton. The officer was allowed to enter, but there was sufficient time between the time he first asked for admission and the time he actually entered for all in the house to retreat themselves. There were a number of young men in the house, and they all got out of the way of the officer. If they were engaged in a lawful occupation, why did they run? People who are innocent do not run when there is a knock at the door. He could not act because there was some doubt whether or not the officer ought to have had a warrant, but he hoped that the defendants would never be before him again. He commented on the sufferings of the young men's families, and hoped they had been taught a sufficient lesson to keep away from places where they played cards on Sunday.

TRURO NEWS
TRURO, N. S. Oct. 18th.—(Special)—J. A. Howe of Stanley, N. B. has been engaged as secretary for the Truro Y. M. C. A. vacated by the resignation of H. B. Thompson, about six months ago. On account of the very dry season and the low water in the Truro conservator the town has hired a steamer for use in case of fire. The reservoir is practically exhausted and the town's water supply for some months has been largely supplemented from the Salmon River. John Hennevey, who is wanted in Windsor (N.S.) on a charge of incendiarism, was arrested at Halifax last night as he was about to board a steamer for Boston.

ST. JOHN BOWLERS WERE DEFEATED

EASTPORT, Oct. 17.—The Dana street bowling club has a large number of the residents Monday evening as several of the St. John, N. B. bowlers had arrived in the city during the day and during the evening played a match game with the best bowlers of the island city but in both of the contests the visiting boys were defeated.

NO GARDNER NELSON BOUT

(By W. W. Naughton.)
SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 16.—Let there be no more talk of a match between Nelson and Jimmy Gardner. The latter made the frank avowal to the writer the other day that he cannot make the weight. This simply means that if the pair meet the Dana will have to make concessions and as both Nelson and Nolan have declared time and time again that they will not budge an ounce, it must be admitted that the prospects of a clash between the latter and the Lowell lad are remarkably slim.

LAST NIGHT'S WRESTLING MATCH

Though the crowd that attended the wrestling bout in the York Theatre last night was not a large one, the sport enjoyed the sport if the applause can be taken for an indication of their feeling, and it is altogether likely that when Apollo, the big Irish giant, appears here on October 31st, the building will be crowded.

NO GARDNER NELSON BOUT

(By W. W. Naughton.)
SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 16.—Let there be no more talk of a match between Nelson and Jimmy Gardner. The latter made the frank avowal to the writer the other day that he cannot make the weight. This simply means that if the pair meet the Dana will have to make concessions and as both Nelson and Nolan have declared time and time again that they will not budge an ounce, it must be admitted that the prospects of a clash between the latter and the Lowell lad are remarkably slim.

McGOVERN WON

Philadelphia, Oct. 18.—Terry McGovern defeated Tommy Murphy in one round tonight at the National Athletic Club. McGovern scored Murphy six times in the two minutes and two seconds that the round lasted. Murphy was so dazed and helpless that the referee stopped the bout.

FOOTBALL "TOO BRUTAL"

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 16.—Batting Nelson, champion tightrope walker of the world, says a football game Saturday for the first time. He enjoyed the game, but declared that it was too brutal a thing for him to mix up in.

JACK TWIN WINS

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Oct. 17.—Jack Sullivan was awarded the decision over Tommy Burns tonight after 90 minutes of fast fighting before the Pacific A. C. Sullivan appeared much the better and it was felt all the way through. Burns fought like a bull-dog but was unable to land on his opponent. Burns was severely punished. His right eye was closed and his face was otherwise much disfigured.

GARDNER AND LITTLEJOHN

Billy Gardner, who fought box Don Littlejohn in the Queen's rink on the 30th inst., arrived from Boston last night accompanied by his trainer Billy Lynch.

POLICE COURT

In the police court this morning, Magistrate Ritchie fined Harry Hansen, James La Caze and Noble Clark $4 each for drunkenness. These Davis was fined $5 for the same offence and was informed that should he be arrested again he would get six months in jail without the option of a fine.

William Carr, arrested for drunkenness, was also charged with being a common vagrant without any visible means of support. The prisoner pleaded guilty to both charges and was fined $5 for the first and remained on the second. Carr has been in the Alms House and left about a month ago. In all probability he will be sent to a farm.

GOES BACK TO HALIFAX

Officer Frank Honahan arrived from Halifax last night to take George Innes back to Halifax on charge of having stolen $85, the property of Michel Petit. It seems that Petit was working on a schooner at Halifax and the night before Innes was arrested by Detective Killen, he went on board the schooner as a seaman and broke into Petit's trunk, stealing, it is alleged, $85. Innes then left on the morning train and in the afternoon walked into the arms of Detective Killen in St. John.

STAR COURSE OPENS NOV. 6

On Monday evening, Nov. 6th, the Spencer Star Course will be opened in the Opera House by the great Schubert Male Quartette of Boston, conducted by Max Huntington, baritone, reader and monologist. It will be advantageous for all to become subscribers, as it is expected that the subscription tickets will take up all the seating capacity for the season. All subscribers will receive a circular letter from the management several days before the plan opening. Those who have not as yet been contacted and purpose becoming subscribers should communicate at once by mail or phone with F. G. Spencer. When the seating capacity of the theatre is disposed of no more tickets will be sold at any price.

"A BATTLE OF MONARCHS"

Joseph Evans, a farmer at Black River, while returning to his home from the city a few nights ago, saw a moose fight, in the rear of the Black River road, near West Beach. While driving along, Mr. Evans heard some noise in the woods and alighted from his wagon to investigate. Just a few yards in the woods were two bull moose in deadly combat. Their antlers were locked together, but a few moments after Mr. Evans appeared the fight ceased and the moose disappeared.

THE LUMBER SITUATION

Heavy Rains Needed to Bring Logs Down River—Condition of New York and English Markets.

Unless there is a heavy fall of rain in the near future, it is by no means likely that very many logs will come down river to the mills.

Following is a circular letter from a leading New York wholesale lumber firm: "We have to repeat our lumber market to good condition, the demand for most kinds being excellent, and prices good."

From what has been gathered, it seems that the local market will be somewhat higher, owing presumably to the scarcity of logs.

Following is a circular letter from a leading New York wholesale lumber firm: "We have to repeat our lumber market to good condition, the demand for most kinds being excellent, and prices good."

"Conservative quotations for hemlock scolding 2 x 4, 2 x 4 and 2 x 4 are, $16.00 to $18.00. We have not been deluged to sell any as low as $16.00, but have heard of recent sales at that price."

As a result of the recent northwest gale the water in the river fell nearly a foot, but it is reported as rising today.

The Portland press says: "There has been another advance in the price of lumber owing to the rapidly increasing demand and the practical impossibility to supply that demand. No. 1 North Carolina pine has advanced $3 per thousand and is now selling from $44 to $45. This is the second advance that has been made on this particular grade of lumber within a few months. Spruce lumber which advanced $5 not long ago has now advanced $2 and is now selling from $44 to $45 where till this change it has been quoted from $38 to $39."

Shingles have also taken a slight advance and are now quoted 10 cents higher on the thousand. Spruce laths have advanced 30 cents per thousand and are now quoted at $2.00, whereas till fall they have been selling at $1.75.
