TRAIN DERAILED ON ELEVATED ROAD ACCIDENT CAUSED BY AN OPEN SWITCH One Car Fell From Line to Street - Several Persons Killed and Many Injured.

That it was the switchman and not he that was responsible. New York, Sept. 11.—Eight bodies of those killed in the wreck were taken to 47th street police station and laid out for identification. A head which was found detached from the body was that of Solomon Nagast. He had been sitting at the front end of the car which jumped into the street when a sharp piece of board or metal severed his head from his body as cleanly as though done with an axe. Both head and body were found on the tracks but separated by several yards. "I am satisfied that the whole accident was due to the criminal carelessness of the switchman," said the coroner this morning. "In the first place he made a mistake in turning the Ninth avenue train into 53rd street, and then added to his blunder by turning the switch back again in an attempt to divert the train into Ninth avenue again. The last mistake cost the terrible accident and loss of life."

VICTORIAN'S WINS AT BISLEY SHOOT

RICHARDSON TELLS OF EXPERIENCES AT MEET Local Expert Returns After Remarkable Series of Victories in England. After a remarkable series of victories at the Bisley and Dominion Rifle Association matches, Sergeant Richard-son, of the Fifth Regiment, returned on Friday, being welcomed on his arrival by friends who have followed his records with interest. There is no doubt that the Victoria crack marksman has made for himself a name that stands as high in the estimation of experts of Great Britain and the colonies who competed at Bisley as that of the King's prisoner. Although he did not win that trophy his shooting throughout the meet was so wonderfully consistent that his Canadian comrades and all who associated with him during the contest united in their congratulations after the last match. He took part in practically every shoot, and his name always figured among the leaders. His collection of cups and medals has been considerably augmented, and in response to a general request by members of the Militia Rifle Association he intends placing them on exhibition at an early date. When approached on Saturday by a Times representative Sergeant Richardson was very reluctant to give an interview on his experiences in Great Britain and Eastern Canada. When pressed for it he made a resume of the exploits of the Victoria Competitors at Bisley. He produced the official statistics of the different matches, and drew attention to the scores of Sergt. Brayshaw and his own records. The former, he pointed out, had accomplished a feat especially noteworthy, as he was remembered in the comparatively inexperienced. In the practice shoots at Bisley he had captured second place among the Canadians at the 300, 350 and 500 yard ranges, and in the aggregate he had won the right to a place upon the various squad-events. Owing to his lack of knowledge of conditions at Bisley, however, it was decided that it would not be wise to include him, his consent first being secured to such an arrangement. He then related to the reporter the details of his match when he put on 92 out of 100 points out of 100, and also on a few occasions, as a result of a miss early in the contest. "Sergt. Brayshaw," Sergt. Richardson continued, "is a future as a rifle shot. My firm conviction is that in two or three years he will figure among the best in the Dominion, if not in the Empire." Asked for an account of his own win, Sergt. Richardson displayed some reticence. He had gone to Bisley, he said, with the determination to leave no stone unturned in the effort to capture the most coveted honors available. His ambition, of course, was to win the King's Prize, but he had fallen short of that by a few points. Apart from that, however, he was perfectly satisfied, having won a silver cup among the best of the grand aggregate, besides capturing quite a number of valuable trophies and considerable money. Of all his honors that place among the Dominion competitors, the Lord's Day Alliance, offered to the Canadian standing highest in the aggregate and practically representing the championship of the Dominion of Canada. The first match in which the Victorian participated was the Daily Graphic seven shots at 200, 500 and 600 yard ranges. In this he missed the bull only four times in twenty-four shots, the sighting shots both lodging in the centre of the target. In all the sweepstakes he figured creditably. He also participated in the Bisley match, the target at 500 yards (eight shots in thirty seconds) and made eighteen points out of a possible twenty-four, a very good score, though the conditions, including the Wantage and Bart costumes, both quick bring competitors, he scored 15 and 14 respectively. The Stock Exchange match gave him 91 points out of a total of 100. The St. George's one of the most important matches of the tournament, he made a total of 131, thereby securing the St. George's badge, a valued honor. These are only a few instances of the performances of the Victoria marksman, which serve to show what he maintained throughout the meet—the most trying test of the confidence and nerve of riflemen. Throughout all the excitement, however, Sergt. Richardson was never shaken, keeping in view his ambition to capture the King's prize although through the preliminary engagements, the speaking of the most important match of the meet—the King's—the Victorian told the reporter that he had trained carefully for the event from the time of his arrival in Great Britain. He retired every night avoiding the social functions arranged in camp so that he might do himself and the corps to which he belonged credit in the crucial test of the tournament. In the first stage of this match he put on a score of 90-33 at 200, 33 at 500 and 33 at 600 yards. This brought him into the second round, and in this he scored 89 points, putting him in the final, twenty-eight places from the leading marksman. On the last day the local marksman took his place before the target confident of his ability to win and determined to do so if nothing unforeseen occurred. As the shoot proceeded Thursday, indications are favorable for a better show than has heretofore been seen in the district. Saanich has on two occasions captured first place as a second prize for his district exhibit, and it appears for nothing less than the greatest honor this year. Jim A. Fullerton, of Vancouver, is at the point of waiting the arrival of the Express, which is due to-morrow.

King's match were included, would place him higher than any other Bisley competitor. This is not an idle boast on the part of Sergeant Richardson, but a fact for which he should be given credit as proven by the official figures issued at Bisley. Discussing the team matches the Victorian states that the MacKinnon cup was lost by the Canadians on account of poor coaching on the 800 yard range, where they were badly beaten by the representatives of the Mother Country. Subsequently the Dominion team picked up and reduced the lead of their opponents by 15 points, but it was then too late to overcome the fatal error that had been made previously. When the Knapare cup shoot was due the Canadians on the team waited upon Sergeant Richardson and requested him to act as coach. He consented, and the result was all that could be desired. Capt. Elliott, Sergt. Crowe, Capt. Duff Stuart, Capt. Forrest, Sergt. Kerr, Sergt. Moore, Sergt. Russell and Pte. Wilson were those who represented the Dominion on that occasion. This was a most exciting competition, the Englishmen and Canadians running very close until the last shot at the 1,000 yard range. This was made by Capt. Elliott and was a bull's-eye giving Canada the cup by 10 points. The margin would have been reduced to 1 point had not one of the opposing marksmen put a bull on the wrong target. After the match the Canadians thanked the local expert for his services, expressing the opinion unanimously that their success was largely due to his good judgment. As has been stated in the last column both Sergt. Brayshaw and Sergt. Richardson took part in the Dominion Rifle Association matches at Ottawa. In this connection the latter refers in eulogistic terms to the sportsmanlike conduct of Co. Sergt. Major Caven in these competitions. Whilst the British Columbians were awarded first from the 800 yards range, Walker match the conditions were execrable. Rain was falling heavily, the wind was strong and somewhat uncertain, and as a result it was almost dark. Co. Sergt. Major Caven shot off despite this, and made the remarkable score of 33, losing two points. One of the Vancouverians scored 29, and the latter was utterly to shoot under the circumstances, while others protested emphatically. As a result it was suggested that the scores of this range should have been in the aggregate. Hearty of the Co. Sergt. Major Caven, in spite of the fact that he had done well, signed a declaration agreeing to cancel the score mentioned in order to oblige other British Columbia marksmen. If this had been done Sergt. Richardson would have been the victor in the British Columbia team included on next year's Bisley team, and no less than nine would have places within the first 25 in the aggregate. COWICHAN NOTES. (Special Correspondence of the Times.) The new boats at Cowichan wharf were opened for the reception of guests last Tuesday. Among the first to patronize it were a party of sportsmen consisting of Major Blaine, R. E. Capt. Basse, R. A. Capt. Langley, Wm. Bennett, and Mr. Hall, James Island, who arrived by steamer and enjoyed a few days' hunting and fishing in the vicinity. E. C. Betson, also guest in the boat, has been having the sport trolling for salmon in the bay. Grouse are not very plentiful here this season, and no large bags have been taken in this vicinity. Blue grouse were seen in large numbers about two weeks ago, but it is supposed they have gone back in the mountains. The farmers here are going to be very severe upon hunters who trespass upon their lands without permission this year, so much damage having been done in previous seasons by fowling. When taken down, gates left open and fire started. In most cases permission will be given for the asking to any respectable person, but if the time is past when any Tom, Dick or Harry can buy a gun and a few cartridges can come and invade reserved land and often give notice of impertinence when checked for doing so. The following notice is posted on a farmer's land in this vicinity: "All persons are hereby warned against hunting or trespassing on these lands. Favorable will be granted in any and all respects, but will be severely dealt with at law." R. Colvin, the fisheries inspector, has a fine new gasoline launch, which he says he is using. Ground is being prepared near Cowichan station for the erection of a church. Heretofore religious services have been conducted in the hall.
