THE Montreal Star (Independent Conservative) remarks: "Talk about the influence of city members! Not one of the Cabinet Ministers of the Dominion is a city member-unless John Carling's own Judge Elliot is reckoned an urban constituency." It takes London all its time to be an urba constituency, for one-third of its population is kept voting in Middlesex. But then John Carling is not the member for London. He merely represents Judge Elliot.

In Canada, eggs sell at chief of the militia force is such an office. 11c, in the United States 15c. The price of a gallon of oil in Canada will buy about three on the other side. Cottons of all kinds are about half-price. Who says that high tariffs do not act as an incentive towards making law breakers? What a blessing to the farmer is protection, especially to those who are able to smuggle !

THE "manufacturing establishments" of Canada increased from 49,923 in 1881 to 75,768 in 1891, and the number of employes from 254,935 to 367,865. That is according to the census returns, but there is no guarantee that they can be relied on. Each workman, it is alleged, produced in 1891, $1,292 44; each workman produced in 1881 $1,214 72; each workman received in 1891, $271 20; each workman received in 1881, $233 11. THE NEXT STEP IN CHRISTIANITY. A writer in a current monthly treats of "The Next Step in Christianity." In the opinion of the wrater, facts all point in this direction: that Christianity has passed through the phases of dogmatism, ecclesiasticism and experimentalism, and is about to show itself in the region of Conpucr. If this is so, it is none too soon, for religion has long been sufficiently in evidence on its dogmatic and ecclesiastical sides, while it has seemed to have little or no effect on posures of corruption at the Dominion cies at the polls, can for a moment assert ever its fruitless eloquence in the domain

The London Free Press, anti-Canadian as sual, expresses its thorough detestation of the view that no office in Canada should be placed beyond the reach of a Canadian. our contemporary assumes a position so intenable that it is forced to resort to its d method of garbling an opponent's argument in order to sustain its view. No honest journalist emasculates an opponent's ontention to make a point. But that is what the Free Press has done in this instance. Let us give the argument as printed in the Advertiser and as gerryandered by our contemporary:

What the Adverses Whatthe Free Press says the Advertiser Why, then should said: it be impossible for any Canadian to rise and canadian to rise to the rank of come army officer, and pay mander of the militia? him good Canadian Why should Canada import an English money for his work?

import an English army officer, and pay him good Canadian money for his work, while she has plenty of trained officers to choose from?

We pass over this characteristic attempt to mislead its readers as to the nature of the principle contended for by the ADVERtiser, and come to the principle itself.

No one who reads the ADVERTISER needs to be reminded of the fact that in referring to Canadians it has never discriminated against any of the numerous nationalities of which the Dominion is made up either by immigration or by birth. If a man casts his lot with us, no matter what his antecedents, he is just as good a Canadian as any of us while he obeys the laws of the

What we contend for, and we know that we have the overwhelming mass of the community with us, is the principle that no flice for the maintenance of which Canadians have to pay should be closed to Canadians. The office of commander-in-We have asked why Canadians should not aspire to that office, seeing we have a number well qualified to hold it, instead of having it understood that whenever there is a vacancy an officer from the other side of the Atlantic has to be imported. The Free Press, which at one time advocated Canadian Independence, now ells us that so fair a question is a "rebel yell," and, having dishonestly garbled the language used by the ADVERTISER, proceeds to tell its readers that this journal snarls at Major-General Herbert "BECAUSE he is an Englishman (forsooth !)" Our completed, not emasculated, contention is proof positive to the contrary, and is sufficient to discredit every line of subsequent argument used by our contemporary in support of its anti-Canadian position. We have already shown that it is the principle, not the man, that we object to. Everyone who has taken any interest in militia affairs knows that the ADVERTISER has recognized in General Herbert an able and courageous officer. He has justified his selection by telling more truth regard. ing the mismanagement of the militia at headquarters than those who are so ready

The Free Press endeavors to make be Here that there is reciprocity in this matter between Great Britain and Canada It points out that Canadians who have re-ceived their education at the expense of the Canadian taxpayers have obtained situr-ions in the British army. That, in a few instances, is undoubtedly the case; but the Canadian taxpayers have obtained siturations in the British army. That, in a few instances, is undoubtedly the ease; but it is very questionable if the system of diverting Canadian talent away from the Dominion, where it is so much needed, into the British army, is a thing to be fostered. so little in accord with the injunction of a Dominion, where it is so much needed, into the British army, is a thing to be fostered. to be a limited monarchy, and asserts that Atheist, Deist, Unitarian, Sociaian, Spiritualist and Universalist are names that delivered. A biography of the Devil is not apt to awaken much interest in the present age, unless the biographer has pos of new facts to add to those supplied by the Bible and to the fictions of Milton, Burns and others. Certainly Mr. Johnston is not in possession of anything new. Indeed, his ideas are most ancient, for he leads his readers to infer that he has full faith in hell of literal fire and sulphurous flames.

OPINION: "ALL SORTS."

[Orangeville Advertiser.]
If Sir Oliver Mowat tries to crush out If Sir Oliver Mowat tries to crush out continental union sentiments by a tyrannical exercise of the power to dismiss public officials for expressing views favorable to it, he will, to use a Yankeeism, which he modoubt will object to, be biting off more than he can chew. They will be killed out, if at all, by the arbitrament of public opinion, after full, open and ample discussion of the subject, pro and con. We are surprised, Sir Oliver, that you, having been once a judge, and so good a Britisher, should not long ago have learned this valuable lesson. Waving the old flag to suppress free discussion, as was done at Woodstock and Windsor, and bringing the whole power of the Government to bull doze officials, will give a momentum to the question that nothing else can furnish.

A TREMENDOUS CHANGE.

Mr. T. M. White, until recently editor of the Windsor Review, a Conservative journal, has addressed an open letter to Mr. W. R. Meredith, which is deserving of the country the enormous sum of $2,608 a head, and when the matter was before Parliament many of the members expressed grave doubts as to the propriety of continuing an institution so expensive, so comparatively necess, and so many of whose graduates carry their acquirements off to the United States.

After all is said and done the British Government confere no favor on Canada by accepting at our hands highly educated young Canadians who are able, through Canadian brains and Canadian money, to take a situation there or in any other part of the world with the best of them.

When, in filling her positions of eminence, England takes the ground that no Englishman must apply—that such a position can only be filled by someone from Canada, from Australia, or some place outside the country—then shall we have a parallel for the position assumed by the Free Press, which is, that the best offices are too good for Canadians.

DEATH FROM SUNSTROKE,

Sudden Demise of a Ten-Year-Old Boy Under Peculiar Circumstances. Yesterday morning the 10-year-old son of Osman Shorlock, who lives at 30 Kensal avenue, South London, accompanied by his younger brother, started out to pick straw-Lerries at Baker's patch, about half way between London and Byron. The boys were busy until nearly 6 o'clock in the ovening, when they started on their way home. A flittle east of Woodland Cemetery they ran to catch a wagon, on which they rode for a short time. The older boy got off the vehicle, complained that he was sick, and lay down on the side of the road. His brother immediately hurried back to Woodland Cemetery for assistance. Before he returned one of James 8. Marshal's hacks came along. The driver, Matthew Waterman, says he noticed the lad lying on the road, and that he olighted from his hack to inquire into the eause. He lifted the boy up, and the latter died in his arms. The body was taken to the residence of Jam. Duncan Clark, caretaker of Woodland Cemetery. Dr. George H. Wilson was summoned and subsequently Dr. Ferguson, coroner. Death was attributed to an attack of sunstroke, over-exertion and to the fact that the boy had been eating a large quantity of strawberries and drinking water a good deal during the day. The body was conveyed to the home of the bereaved parents last evening.

"The Life and Labors of the Devil" is the startling title of a pamphlet by the Rev. T. T. Johnston, of Maple Valley. A monster, with huge mouth and horns growing out of his forehead forms the frontispiece of this production, and indicates, we presume, the conception which the author has in his mind of "The Devil." Mr. Johnston is quite orthodox, if not very original, in treating of this lurid subject. He upholds the personality of Satan, and quotes largely from Milton, Robert Burns and several anonynous poets. The Devil's rule he declares cannot be applied to him. Probably the nthusiasm which was awakened in Mr. Johnston's congregation by the sermons comprising this pamphlet was due more to the manner of delivery than to the matter

EME, Pa., June 24.—The great international double scull race for the world's championship was contested on Presque lie by, and Hanlon and O'Connor won it together with the citizens' purse of $1,500.

The attenuance at the course was very large. When the hour for the race arrived the scullers refused to risk the choppy seas, but about 6 o'clock the wind began to go down, and at 6:45 the oarsmen were called by the referee, D. J. Galanagh, of Philadelphia. Hosmer and Gaudaur expressed themselves as being satisfied with the condition of the course, and as Hanlan and O'Connor were ready the scullers got presed themselves, and as Hanlan is condition of the course, and as Hanlan is condition of the course, and as Hanlan is condition of the word at 6:50. At the start Hosmor and Gaudaur showed slightly in front and sere pulling 38 strokes to the minute. In terming the st ke the four men were on eventerms, but after going less than 100 yards the Canadian team forged to the front and remained there to the end, winning one of the best races of the kind ere witnessed in these waters. The time of the winners was 19:55, that of Hosmor and Gaudaur, 19:57.

Baycourt, the ex-Queen's Plater from Baycourt, the ex-Queen's Flater into London, won the first race at Gloucester and Thersay. Fifteen horses were in, and Baycourt opened favorite with 4 to 1 against him. In the closing betting Argyle was favorite at 2 to 1 against. The distance

"SPORT" WITH A VENGEANCE.

Billy Frazier, who attempted to by ten rounds with Jack McAulife at the Manhattan Athletic Club's gymnasium on Wednesday, may die from the result of the punishment he received. He was knocked out in the third round. When Frazier failed to respond to the call of his second to get up and get out of the ring he was shaken gently and then raised in a sitting posture. His eyes were closed and his breathing was scarcely perceptible. Four physicians were summoned from the audience, and they sought by rubbing and chafing to restore the puglitist to consciousness. This failing, they jabbed sharp needles into the man's fet, but without much effect. Frazier was tiken to Boston in a half-conscious condition at midnight. The physicians thoughthe had very little chance of living. Sullivan was referee.

Mary McCullough and the Duckling.

[From the Philadelphia Times]

The extraordinary sight of a duckling that has just shed its shell following a young woman about the house with all the affection of a pet dog is a domestic wonder in the family of Mrs. Carr, of 2,122 Arch street. Ever since Easter morn the neighbors have been dropping in to winess the spectacle, and the fame of the singular attachment has attracted attention among people who are interested in naural phenomena.

The little duckling has been in the family since last Sunday, when it was brought as an Easter gift to Mrs. Carr's baby daughter, Serena, who was delighted with her new pet. The duck at once struck up a strong friendship for the domestic, Mary McCullough, and has been the young womans constant companion ever since. Whenever Mary speaks the duck responds with its piping salutation and waddles after the young woman wherever she goes. The most astonishing thing about this freek of nature is that if any other inmate of the household attempts to induce it to answer, the webfooted prodigy maintains asolemn silence, but Mary has only to titer a word when the quacking begins and is kept up until she has ceased speaking.

Gala Day at the Kennels. Glenmore.

The Hunt's Hospitality Unbounded Sporting Events and the Winners -Presentation to Mr. John Fulcher.

The fifth annual sports and pionic given by the London Hunt to the farmers of the neighborhood was held yesterday at the Kennels. The annual event has always been enjoyable, but that of 1892 seemed to surpass its predecessors. The roadway for rods was lined with vehicles, which had conveyed thi ther the sturdy yearen and their families from miles around. City people, too, came down by scores. Glenmore never looked prettier. Art had been added to nature. Flags, big and little, depended from the trees on the lawn and the light costumes of the ladies, the scarlet jackets of the huntsmen and the gay uniforms of the bandsmen, set off by a backaudience, and they sought by rubbing and chafing to restore the puglilist to consciousness. This failing, they jabbed sharp needles into the man's fet, but without much effect. Frazier was taken to Boston in a half-conscious condition at midnight. The physicians thoughthe had very little chance of living. Sullivan was referee.

DRAUGHTS,

Wyllie and Jordan cannot agree on the terms for another match.

Mr. Wyllie was asked "if he never got tired of draughts," and replied, "Oh, ay, I hae seen me no playin' a game for aboot a hale day."

Shearer, the Dundee boy playe, is not the single to the huntsmen and the gay uniforms of the bandsmen, set off by a background of verdant green, combined to make the spectacle a charming one. Long tables laden with refreshments were there free for all; the hospitality of the Hunt members knew no bounds. Perfect weather was the finishing touch. The excellent band of the Twenty-ninth Battalion, Berlin, now under canvas on Carling's Heights, delighted all with a number of selections during the day."

Shearer, the Dundee boy playe, is not preciated. Around at their rear the hounds made music of a different quality. Col. Gartshore and several members of the London troop of Cavalry rode over from camp during the afternoon. At 3:30 p.m. the programme of sports started in the oval north of the club house. The big hill overlooking the hollow forms a natural grandstand and seated upon its grassy banks, shaded from the rays of the sun, the spectators viewed the events in the arena below with the greatest comfort and satisfaction. The starter was Captain Beattie, and the caller Harry Brunton, while George F. Burns and Harry Abbott were general hustlers and lung testers. Entries in the sports were pientiful and the competition good humored. Some of them were highly laughable, particularly the farmers' novelty race. The antics of the competitors who were required to dismount, take off their coats, mount again and gallop away, take off their vests at the next stopping place, then get off again, light a cigar and puff away, return for the coats, don them inside out and then make for the final goal are better imagined than described. Following were the events:

Farmers' steeplechase (horses to be owned and ridden by farmers), twice around the course—George Watson.

200-yard foot race—Tie between Messrs. Dicey and Ward. The former won on a second trial.

A Lady's Experience.

Seven long, weary years is bondage! Think of the days and night of agony; the anguish endured and hopes blasted so often by cruel disappointment!

This was the sad experience of an Ottawalady, who suffered from nervounces, sleeplessness, dyspepsia and neuralgia. Her family brought in the best maiical assistance; mineral springs were tried; and in summer she was sent to the sea-side. Nothing seemed to relieve the worry of mind and suffering which she endured, until Paine's Celery Compound whas recommended to her. After using the Compound with regularity for three months she was cured. We give a few extracts from this lady's letter to the proprieters of Paine's Celery Compound, she says:

"I very much regret that so many years of my life were spent in distress and suffering, and that my friends were put to so much trouble and inconvenience on my account. Had I known of year wonderful count. Had I known of y

Mr. Gibbons thereupon handed Mr. Fulcher a check for §140. The crowd cheered and the band played. Mr. Fulcher replied modestly. He was sorry to leave London and his kind friends, but he had secured a good position in Detroit. He hoped the same courtesy shown to him would be extended to his successor, Mr. George Bowman. Major A. M. Smith, master of the Hunt, cordially welcomed the farmers, and spoke of the friendly terms existing between the hint and the yeomen. Measrs. Gillson and Dwyer replied and reciprocated the sentiment. Then the crowd set to work on the long tables, and, filled with eatables and satisfaction, the guests left for their homes "as the sun was slowly sinking in the west."

Market Fluctuations

The following is Cunningham's New York special to J. W. HYMAN, broker, Market Lane, by private wire; Lane, by private wire:

NEW YORK, June 25.—London continues closed on Saturday until next month. Sixteen New York banks doing the chief business with the interior, also the movement between the sub-freesury and the banks and between New York and the foreign countries, show net loss this week of $3,65,000, reflecting the large gold exports. The stock brokers and traders, in discussing the market generally, agreed the closing was dull and without much feature or indication for to-day, only that N. E. was strong and Quincy heavy on bear shamming. Vermilly exports a decided improvement in statement fruids, but so fing an includion in stating. Quite an improvement prevails in the impression that the bull speculation will apring up lively next week, as it generally do a Sefore a boliday, and good houses believed in rise of three to ten points. The advance is coal prices is surely a good bull argument.

True Kindliness,

A visitor at Honolulu says that he was one day informally introduced to the late King Kamehameha on the sea shore. Then the gentleman who had introduced them stood talking to the king, and presently an incident occured which showed the monarch at his best, as a warm-hearted and unpretending man. The observer writes:

As the two fell into conversation I stood somewhat apart, and noticed casually on the opposite side of the street the bent form and wrinkled face of an old native woman. She seemed to be standing in a supplicating attitude on the outer edge of the walk, and to be devouring the king with hor eyes. He looked up, caught sight of her, and said:

"Excuse me for a moment, gentlemen. Do not leave."

Polite Photographer. The knack which French photographers, and especially those of Paris, possess in relieving their sitters of a constrained and distressed look while sitting for their portraits have long been the enry and perplexity of photograpers of other nations. An American photographer, on a recent visit to Paris, took pains to study the means by which this very desirable result was reached.

means by which this very desirable result was reached.

He reports that it all lies in a very simple device, which will illustrate the nature of the Frenchman.

When a lady, for instance is sitting to a photographer for a portrait, the operator does not, in a perfunctory manner, coldly request her to "Look pleasant now. ma'am!" He says to her in the most natural and graceful manner in the world; "It is quite unnecessary to ask madame to look pleasant; she could not look otherwise!"

The lady of the standard of the same and the look pleasant; she could not look otherwise!"

The lady, of course, acknowledges the compliment with her most gracious and high-bred smile. "Click!" goes the camera, and the picture is obtained, revealing the sitter at her high-water mark, as it were.

This region of wood is the paradise of the monkeys. They travel in troops around the woods, led by an older monkey. When the people receive the information that the "traveling monkey troops" are near the village they repair to the woods in crowds in chase of them. Their plan is very simple. They cut a hole in a coccanut large chough for a monkey's paw. The nut is placed in it. A piece of string is then fastened to it and it is placed in the road of the approaching monkeys. It is known that monkeys are evy inquisitive animals as concent in the grass and hurry to examine it thoroughly. It is a curious sight to see how for the concent.

It does not take them long to find out that the inner part contains a piece of away. The negroes now pull the string the meantime the other monkeys wonder what is the matter with their comrade. The meantime the other monkeys wonder with the concent.

"Ever since?"

"Yes. She has been 'on the prowl' ever since," says Kitty, borrowing once again from Paddy Burke's dictionary. "And it wouldn't have mattered much—she would never have found us here but for your Sally. CHAPTER XVI.

"As love without esteem is volatile and capricious, esteem without love is languid and cold,"

Nothing impure or injurious contamin

Putting it into a worldly sweat is not

A good way to learn how to tains is to begin on grains of sand.

God's way of warming up a church.

Love cannot be hidden.

The London Wesleyan Mission about six years since began its work. Attention was first directed to the east end, and afterward St. James' Hall in the west, and other parts of London were made the centers of important missionary efforts. In addition to the ministerial staff some 70 "Sisters of the People" and twenty lay agents are employed in the mission, and as the outcome of their work about 5,000 persons are "meeting in class," most of whom previously belonged to no church. Rev. Hugh Price Hughes, befores, large assemblage in the Free Trade Hall, Manchester, observed that nothing was more remarkable in the present age than the growing sensitiveness to the amount of pain and misery in the world. This tenderness of heart was already producing a vast social and political revolution. People were to-day political revolution. People were did before. They who represented the London Mission were the illustrations of that new awakening of tender sympathy. This movement in London was the directresuit of the Mission were the illustrations of that new awakening of tender sympathy. This movement in London was the direct result of the "Bitter Cry of Outcast London." When that remarkable pamphlet appeared a few years ago it tortured the souls of many. They felt it was a veritable shame that while they were sitting in cushioned corners of their pews there were hundreds and thousands standing under the shadow of their sanctuaries.

capricious, esteem without love is languid and cold.

Her voice is piercing, and pregnant with fear. It comes first, and after it—now—a rushing as of many feet.

"Molly!" comes the voice again, and now here they all are, scampering round the corner, Sally, my little terrier, at their heels.

Ah, that dog! At once I grasp the situation, even before Kitty has time to fing herself bodily upon me (no joke this!) and explain matters in burning accents.

"She's coming! She's on our track! We caught sight of her near the laurels. The dog betrayed us! Run Molly. She'll be here in a second!"

"Aunt Jane?" gasp I.

"Who clas?" asks Geraldine, impatiently; she has come up last of all, with Mr. D.ckenson, who looks the picture of fright. Paddy Burke surveys him with a curious joy.

"You're not well, Dickey," says he: Among the Brahmans. Preserved at Poona, Dr. Pentecost Brahmans. Preserved in a large theater. The committee of management so arranged it that none but educated Brahmans should be admitted, and every night of a whole week the building was crowded to the door to hear the Gospel preached simply and directly to their minds and hearts. At the close of this series of services a request was sent to Dr. Pentscost that those who heard him should be permitted to pay all the expenses incurred that week; and at the last meeting a gentleman stood up, and in the name of joy.

You're not well, Dickey," says he; "you are not your wonted self. You look weak!
Kemember, if you give way in our race for life, Aunt Jane will catch you and claw Remember, it you give way in our race for life, Aunt Jane will catch you and claw you!"

"She is just as likely to catch and claw you," says Mr. Dickenson, angrity. "I'mnot airaid,"

"Aren't you? You look rather yellow," says Paddy, pleasantly. He stares quickly behind him, as if at some awful thing approaching. "Whoop! !says he with a yell that might raise the dead. It certainly raises Mr. Dickenson.

"Heavens and earth!" shricks that hero, springing up a yard from the earth. When he comes down again it is to see Paddy hanging on to himself and shaking with joy. "By Jove, Burke," says he, wrathfully, "you may call that a capital trick if you like, and—and with ladies present too, but for my part I call it a deuced ungentlemanly thing to do, and——"asys Paddy, utterly unabashed. Don't fash yoursolf over a trifle."

"How did she find us out?" ask I hurriedly, staring at the turn in the far distance that may at any moment show us Aunt Jane, in person, terrible, and full of awful purpose.

"Oh, that dog of yours! You remember gentleman stood up, and in the name of Il assembled thanked the doctor for what e had been teaching them and trying to do for them.

Foo-Chow. Writing from Foo-Chow,
China, March 1, the Rev. Mr.
Peet, American missionary, says: "The City Boys' Boarding School begins this new year with brighter prospects than ever before." The school is receiving the kindly recognition of the people who live close about us—men of influence and of literary attainments." He adds that it is fully understood by every parent that in fully understood by every parent that in that school his son will be held to the that school his son will be held to the faithful performance of every religious duty and to the strict observance of the Sabbath. Plainly, in this part of the "Flowery Kingdom" Christian missions are in no imminent danger of suppression.

Striking Facts. The Chronicle for June Mriking facts. The Chronicle for June mentions the decennial report of the London Missionary Seciety, which, however, does not accompany it. It remarks: "Among the many striking facts may be noted—the openings in China for a greatextension of country work; that in India whole villages have gone back to heathenism 'because, having waited long for teachers, no teachers were forthcomfor teachers, no teachers were forthcom ing'; the work of the native missionary society in the Imerina Province of Madasociety in the Imerina Province of Mada-gascar, which has raised more than 23,000 during the past ten years, and sent out 23 agents; the baptism of our first convert in Central Africa at the close of the decade; while the New Guinea decade ends with the arrival of the Rev. W. G. Lawes in England with the manuscript of the New Testament in the most widely used lan-guage along the southeastern coast of New Guinea.

sure to catch us up presently. Oh, hurry, hurry, do!"
Here Paddy Burke breaks in. He catches hold of Kitty's hand and makes for the upland path. As he runs he quotes:

"Oh, hasten! oh. let us not linger!"
Oh, fly let us ily-for we must!"
His voice dies away in the distance.
"Come, come, you too, dear Miss O'Connor, I entreat you," says Mr. Dickenson, turning to Geraldine a face pale with terror. "Any moment your estimable aunt may be upon us, and then—consider what might happen then!"

"True." Geraldine pauses, and as she does so a small terrible figure at the end of the walk comes into view. It is our snark!
It is Aunt Jane!

(To be Continued.) A New In a circular from Staunton, Proposal. Va., "it is proposed to find 2.000,000 Christians in the United States willing to give $1, in advance per month for ten years, praying that God will raise up preachers and teachers and physicians to carry his Gospel to the heathen, and so to bless their labors and our gifts that the native converts shall be able thereafter to carry on the work. able thereafter to carry on the work through their home missions without additional help from foreign lands."

Damaged Goods.

The London Bargain Store has just purchased a big stock of drygoods damaged by water from a Toronto house, and will offer them for sale on Saturday morning. The goods are all first-class, and will be sold at about 50 cents on the dollar. This purchase consists of French Saterns, Prints, Ginghams, Flannelettes, Table Linen, Toweis, Napkins, Toweling, Cottons, Sheetings, Tickings, Pillow Linen and Linen Sheeting, Shirtings, Hellands, Batteher Linens and General Drygoods. As this stock must be sold in a few days, everybody attending our great sale can expect bargains not to be found elsewhere. Come with your cash; we can and williend the bargains given next the boy our goods from a house that buys and sells for cash, and avoid high-priced credit stores.

The Late Drowning Case.

To the Editor of the Advertiser:

No answer having been given to the query in a former isaue of your paper reterring to the Cove bridge drowning accident, I will give you our etatement of the case and leave the public to judge who most descree censure—the "unknown workmen," or the men who condemn them without giving them the privilege of pleading not guilty, to the charge laid against them. I deny the evidence given by the boy Phair when he stated we did not respond to his call for assistance. On hearing him shout "A boy is drowning," I ran up the bank and across the bridge, but before reaching the center the boy had sunk for the last time. Another man with a fishing rod was standing on the west end of the bridge when the alarm was given. He was across the bridge by the time we reached it, but he could do nothing to save the already drowned boy, neither could the best swimmer in London at the time the alarm was given.

DOCTORS USE IT IN THEIR HOMES.

They Strongly Recommend It.

Our best physicians use Lactated Food in their families, and recommend it daily in their practice. No other prepared food before the mothers of Canada has had such high encomiume in its favor from the medical profession. The doctors thoroughly understand the composition of Lactated Food, and all agree that it possesses, in a pre-eminent degree, every constituent of breast milk, which fact should commend it to all mothers who, from circumstances, are unable to properly mother their babes. Babies who are fed with Lactated Food always enjoy a perfect immunity from prevailing summer trouble; there is no impairment of the digestive organism; they sleep well, and are always bright, happy and vivacious.

Mothers run a tremendous risk, who use the common foods of the day, as they tend They Strongly Recommend It.

Mothers run a tremendous risk, who use the common foods of the day, as they tend to promote constipation; these foods also cause irritation of the stomach, making baby cross and freiful.

We think there can be no better recognition of the value of Lactated Food than the fact of our best doctors using it for their little ones. The mother only requires to make one trial, to be convinced of its great superiority over all other foods in existence.
